RICHARDSON SKATES are the BEST in the WORLD.
They have held ALL WORLD'S RECORDS for twenty-four years, and every event of importance during the past few years, either fast or fancy has been won on RICHARDSON SKATES, including Harley Davidson's victory at Olympia Rink, London, February 26th, 1909.
STATEMENTS WHICH CANNOT BE DISPUTED:
The Richardson Ball Bearing Skate Co. positively equipped 80 per cent. of the Rinks operating in America. Sixty per cent. of the Rinks in this country operated by independent rink proprietors are equipped with Richardson Ball Bearing Skates.
Richardson Skates are the universal choice of, and used by, practically all the leading instructors, unless employed in rinks operated by other skate manufacturers. The Richardson is the most perfectly constructed Skate on the market. The front truck is under the ball of the foot, and the rear truck practically under the heel, which allows the skater to be over his work. This principle is acknowledged to be the best by the leading skaters of the world. Rear trucks extending back of heel only act as a leverage when skaters lose their balance.
The Richardson Ball Bearing Skate Factory have equipped more independent Rinks than all other manufacturers combined.
The repairs of Richardson Skates are 50 per cent. less than those of any other make, and the simplicity of construction makes it an easy matter to effect repairs.

Frank Bostock at the Glasgow Zoo.

Bostock's Jungle.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank C. Bostock; Manager, Mr. Harry E. Tudor.—On Friday last a private view was given of this new amusement resort, and visitors were astonished at the transformation that has been made in the Zoo Rink during the five days it was closed. Round the walls are the cages of trained animals, with a passage behind to admit of them being taken in their turn to the huge steel arena, 60ft. in diameter, where they are put through their paces by numerous trainers, male and female, representative of America, Britain, France, Germany, Spain, Italy, Hungary, Belgium, and Cuba. These various performances evoked the liveliest interest, and were interspersed with humorous interludes by Raffles and Martino. Lots of side-shows are provided for the amusement of visitors, including the new sport, Turtling, and trick chairs, bagatelle boards, summer-house cage, home of mystery, and other devices for fun and hilarity, abound in every corner. On Saturday the Jungle and Arena were open to the public, and huge crowds thronged the Zoo buildings from the opening hour. Mr. Frank C. Bostock purposes remaining in Glasgow for eight or nine weeks, the programme being varied every week.

New Brighton Tower.—This popular resort on the banks of the Mersey will reopen on Good Friday. A number of new shows are in course of erection, and which are expected to be completed by the opening day. Mr. R. H. Davy, under whose management this concern is making great headway, has just concluded arrangements whereby most of the biggest shows and specialities on the road will show in the amusement park during the summer. Last year's financial result was the best on record, and with the leading railway companies continuing their policy to run special "Tower trips," this season promises to be a great one for all concerned.

The Power of Combination.

We congratulate the youngest of the Trade Defence Societies, the Cinematograph Defence League, on the success of its work. Before the League started that great body of cinematograph exhibitors, the showmen of the permanent picture palace, were without organisation and without a mode of collective expression.

It is well within the memory of our readers that when the regulations of the Home Secretary, under the Cinematograph Act, were published, a tremendous outcry was raised not only at the severity of the regulations but at their impracticable nature. As soon as the Defence League began its splendid work the officials approached the Home Office, and although the immensely important question of the Sunday opening of cinematograph shows is for the present left to the goodwill (or otherwise) of the local authorities, extremely important concessions have been secured by the deputation that waited upon the Home Secretary. The Showmen's Guild, before the Bill was through Parliament, made its wishes and difficulties known to the Government. There can be no doubt that the work of the Showmen's Guild paved the way for the further consideration of the question which, backed up by later experience, the Cinematograph Defence League has obtained. We are quoting from the report of the members' meeting of the League given in our columns last week because we want showmen to understand the value of combination. We also wish all exhibitors of cinematograph films to realise that it is only by the most persevering insistence that justice can be done to the great industry they represent.

"The alterations which the Home Secretary had agreed to make provided that the operating-box would not now be required to be placed outside the building or auditorium. Again, no ventilating shaft would now be required. The removal of that restriction was a triumph, as its imposition would have debarred many showmen from earning a livelihood. So serious had been the effect already that one hiring firm had told him that his business had been affected by it to the extent of many hundreds of pounds per week. That would show them the seriousness of the question, and would also show them the work the League had performed in regard to the Home Office Regulations. When the new regulations were received they would find that they could put their box in the hall in the same place practically as they had it before, except that they must have it properly constructed of fire-resisting material and with a gangway round it to keep the public away. Those were restrictions which no one who had the interest of the business at heart could possibly object to.

Then as to Spool Boxes,

"The Home Secretary, on the recommendation of the League, had agreed to a maximum of 14in. instead of 12in., but when a 12-in. box was used it was provided in the regulations that they should not overcrowd the spool by winding the film over the flanges.

The Question of Voltage.

"As to the electric voltage, the Home Secretary had agreed to alter the regulations on that matter to read in this way—that the 110 shall only apply as across the terminals of the arc when in use. That would not necessarily mean they should not take more than 110 volts from the cable coming into the box, but should not take, when in use, more than 110 volts across the terminals of the arc. Thus, as regarded the lighting of the box, they could have 200 or 250 volts."

The Ground Prepared by the Guild.

Both the questions of the outside position for the operator's box and the size of the spool-box were raised and discussed when the showmen's deputation, consisting of Messrs. Horne, Collins, and Green, discussed the regulations that are now being revised. The showmen expressed a strong opinion that the operator's box should be within the auditorium (under proper safeguard) and that the spool-box should take a 14-in. reel. It was a disappointment to the showmen that when the regulations were issued both these points were not made clearer. In fact, the deputation came away with the impression that certainly portable structures would be exempt from the outside box. A number of County Councils read this intention into the Act, and have already granted licences to showmen with inside boxes. It is gratifying to have this matter cleared up, and the revised regulations simplify the matter for all sorts and conditions of showmen. The spool-box is also a great concession. With regard to voltage, the Rev. T. Horne took care to consult with one of the largest cinematograph film-making firms in London, and he received assurances that a 110 voltage had been considered by the trade, and that it was sufficient for all practical purposes. Our congratulations, therefore, are justly due to the energetic committee and officers of the Cinematograph Defence League.

The Brussels Exhibition.

The forthcoming International Exhibition of Brussels will be the great event of the present year. As showing the tremendous growth of amusement parks and the importance of the side-show arrangements at international exhibitions, the Plaine des Attractions will be a notable example. A reference to our advertisement columns will show that the Brussels Exhibition Amusements Co., Ltd., have still a few sites to let for small shows, bars, tea-rooms, &c. There can be very little doubt that Brussels will be the Mecca of pleasure-seekers during the coming summer and autumn. The Plaine des Attractions will afford that open-air amusement the show-loving crowds of the world desire. We confidently anticipate a signal success for the undertaking so well managed by the Brussels Exhibition Amusements Co.

Notes from Yorkshire.

Harry Ashington's Cinema and Marionette Pavilion continues its successful season at Adwalton. Despite the inclement weather, good houses nightly have been the rule. Messrs. Bassett, Redfern, and Daly, with popular games and other amusements, are associated with the Ashington enterprise. On Wakefield Market Ground there are a considerable number of popular amusements on exhibition for a short winter season. J. W. Waddington's motor-cars set and Messrs. Blake, Holdsworth, Stewart, Wood, Pedder, and Kershaw, with games, stall, &c. On the Market Ground at Leeds the show and other attractions include Harry Hughes' school of boxers, with grand assault-at-arms; Jameson, Hyde, Vanner, and Guthrie, with throwing games; and other amusements. Bailey's novelty circus was prevented opening on Friday last owing to the stormy weather.

Lichfield Amusements.

At the St. James's Hall, Poole's Myriorama and variety company has had a good week's business. Wombwell's National Menagerie visited the ancient city, and were located on the Swan Grounds for Thursday. Excellent business rewarded the enterprise.

White City, Old Trafford.

Mr. J. Calvin Brown has been busy making several alterations and improvements in the grounds, and it is intended to open for the summer season on May 7. During the winter the skating rink and the ballroom have been well patronised. A Model Aero Show, under the auspices of the Manchester Aero Club, has been arranged to be held on March 4 and 5.

Sailor's Brave Rescues.

An exciting scene was witnessed late on Thursday evening on the Fairground at Clapham Junction, close to the scene of the recent big fire at the drapery establishment of Messrs. Arding and Hobbs. A caravan caught fire and quickly became enveloped, the flames threatening to spread to other vans, but, by the help of a number of willing hands, these were quickly moved from the danger zone. Then a woman's cries denoted the fact that her two children were in the burning van, and although by this time it was thoroughly alight from end to end, R. Meymouth, an A.B. of H.M.S. Defence, showing great pluck, climbed to the top of the van and succeeded in rescuing the two children, apparently little the worse for their exciting experience. The ground was crowded at the time, and the sailor was loudly applauded for his brave action.

The bill at the Electric Theatre, Leamington, this week embodies pictures of more than usual interest. The chief film is The Poacher's Revenge, a remarkable dramatic production in twelve tableaux, whilst The Christian proves to be a wonderful adaptation of this remarkable story. The Invasion provides some stirring scenes, and The Brighton Express Disaster gives a realistic description of this awful catastrophe. The new artist, Mr. Harry Lewis, displays a delightful baritone voice, which he uses with wonderful effect. He is a great success. The elocutionist, Mr. Bert Williams, still as popular as ever, gives a masterly interpretation of G. R. Sims' poem "The Lifeboat."

THE GREAT SHOW OF THE YEAR.

THE INTERNATIONAL CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION.
BUENOS AIRES, ARGENTINE,
"OLYMPIC GARDENS," THE CENTRE OF ATTRACTION.

Apart from the well laid out gardens, lake, and extensive grounds, considerably more than ONE MILLION DOLLARS is being expended solely on the beautiful buildings of this AMUSEMENT SECTION of the Argentine Republic's Great Centennial Exhibiton.

This Section is to remain open almost the whole year, and to be continued permanently on somewhat similar lines to the "White City" or "Earl's Court" of London.

Buenos Aires is the Paris of the New World, with a population of over 1,300,000 amusement-loving people, and a mild summer climate that lasts practically the whole year round.

The display of luxurious wealth and lavish expenditure in this Great City of the South astonishes and deeply impresses all visitors. These features, due to the amazing development of the country and the stupendous wealth of its marvellously rich and illimitable resources, make it to-day the chief commercial goal of the world.

"OLYMPIA" (originally the Japanese Gardens) is a large natural park located in the heart of the city, and on this unique site there is now being erected a careful selection of all the leading and most successful features of the most famous Amusement Parks of the world.

PROMINENT SPACE IS NOW AVAILABLE for good concessionaires and FIRST-CLASS attractions. It offers a golden opportunity for manufacturers of novelties. Apply by letter only to THE LONDON AGENT, INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITIONS, LTD., OF BUENOS AIRES, 50, GRESHAM ST., LONDON, E.C.

DINNER TO SHOWMEN AT LYNN.

A special feature of recent years at Lynn Mart is the Festival Dinner given to the leading showmen of the world by Messrs. Savage Bros., Ltd., the well-known makers of roundabouts and show plant. St. Nicholas Works, King's Lynn, is world famous as the home of the mechanically driven roundabout. From these celebrated workshops all the varieties of machine novelties for the amusement of the people go forth year by year. Hardly a year goes by without some novelty, some great improvement, being put upon the market by this enterprising firm—the acknowledged experts in this line of business. The goodly custom of meeting their principal customers at dinner brings the firm and the showmen together once a year in social and friendly intercourse. It is no wonder that the opportunity of furthering the best interests of showland is eagerly embraced, and that the Showmen's Dinner at Lynn Fair is often the occasion for expressing and advancing the cause of trade protection as well as trade advancement.

Mr. Wm. Affleck, managing director of the showman side of Messrs. Savage Bros.' enterprises, occupied the chair. Mr. S. W. Redfearn (director) and Mr. Wilkinson (director) were the other members of the firm present. The guests at the high table included his Worship the Mayor of King's Lynn (Holcombe Ingilby, Esq.), Alderman Dunn (ex-Mayor and Chairman of the Markets and Fairs Committee), the Town Clark, the Chief Constable, the Rev. T. Horne (Hon. Chaplain of the Showmen's Guild), T. Watson Wright, Esq. (Guild Parliamentary Solicitor), P. Collins, Esq. (President of the Showmen's Guild), T. Hurst, Esq. (Hon Sec., the Guild, and Secretary of the British Roundabout Proprietors' and Showmen's Union), J. W. Bostock, Esq., M. Denier (Paris), Councillor Skinner (Lynn), Mr. Cox, and other gentlemen. Amongst the prominent showmen present were Messrs. Studt Bros., H. Wallis and Sons, E. Farrar, Mitchell and Sons, Carles Thurston, B. Howden, J. Monte, W. Holmes, J. W. Waddington, Wm. Russell, Murphy Bros., W. Hoadley, J. Brewer, Jacob Studt, jun., H. Studt, jun., H. Wallis, jun., Wm. Pedley, J. Holdsworth, R. Holdsworth, G. C. Campbell, J. W. Rowley, Fred Gray, W. Wilson, S. Bolesworth, J. Barker, Wilmot Bros., A. Henderson, John Crighton, A. C. Tyler, and many others.

Toasts and Speeches.

After full justice had been done to the excellent dinner served (as it was in the beautiful dining room of the Lynn Town Hall), Mr. Affleck gave the toasts in succession of the King, the Queen, the Prince and Princess of Wales and the members of the Royal Family. These loyal toasts were received with the utmost enthusiasm.

In proposing the health of the Mayor and Corporation of Lynn Mr. P. Collins said that it was with pleasure that he proposed the health of the Mayor and Corporation of King's Lynn. They all knew (he said) that the Corporation of all towns had to spend a lot of time in public affairs, and that they had to do the very best they could for the ratepayers they represented. The Corporation of Lynn, they knew, did their best for the ratepayers of the town, and in view of the office they held they were, of course, bound to do that. The showmen had met in many places with the greatest courtesy from the Mayors and Corporations in which their business called them, still, there was no Corporation which extended the goodwill and friendly feeling towards the showmen more than that of King's Lynn, and he assured the Mayor that it was very much appreciated by those who were privileged to attend Lynn Fair. He then asked the company to drink the toast in the heartiest manner, with musical honours for the Mayor. The toast was enthusiastically received.

The Mayor, in an excellent speech, referred to the disappointment he suffered by being prevented the day previous in taking the chair at the annual meeting of the Guild in the Town Hall. He rejoiced in the speedy recovery from his cold that permitted him to be with the showmen on the present occasion. He was glad to meet the showmen, and to welcome them once more to Lynn Mart. It was a goodly custom, he thought, for the Mayor and Corporation to closely associate their good old town with the old-time People's Fair, and the annual visit of the shows and showmen to their ancient Fair. Everything that tended to brighten human life had his most cordial approval and support. The Fair was one means of bringing some little brightness and light and joy of life into the life of the people. He referred to the great kindness of the showmen year by year in helping by a benefit night at the Fair the medical charities of Lynn. He, as Mayor, would be asking them again to repeat their charity of former years. He had every confidence of success.

Alderman Dunn was also called upon to respond. In so doing the worthy alderman made one of his characteristic speeches. His keen interest in all good works in a proverb in Lynn, and his sympathy for show life, is well known to every showman visiting the Mart. In responding he said how delighted and honoured he felt in being again with his showman friends. When he presided at the Guild meeting for the Mayor the day before he felt like the Prophet of old as being between the Law and Gospel, for Mr. Watson Wright was on one side of him and Mr. Horne on the other. He could only wish his showmen friends that if ever they fell into the hands of the law that its rigour might be tempered by the mercy of the Gospel. He was honoured in being associated with the Mayor in the toast so kindly accepted. They might take his assurance that King's Lynn ever welcomed the showmen and year by year enjoyed the many amusements they brought to the Mart. Alderman Dunn proposed "Success to the Societies, the Showmen's Guild and the British Roundabout Proprietors and Showmen's Union," coupled with the names of the President, Mr. Patrick Collins, the Rev. T. Horne, Mr. Watson Wright, and Mr. T. Hurst. It was the highest mark of his fellowship with showlife that the proposition of this toast had been committed to him. With such a president as Mr. Collins—one of the most famous showmen of his day and generation—with such a Chaplain and adviser as the Rev. Thomas Horne, there were no limits to the future possibilities of the industry their societies were formed to foster and to protect. Mr. Watson Wright had told them at the Society's annual meeting how zealous the trade protection societies were in looking after the interests of all showpeople. It was by mutual assistance and by co-operation they would help the interests of the industry they represented. Mr. Hurst, the secretary of both societies, united in his own person all the activities and all the energies necessary for their protection and progress. He submitted the toast with the greatest possible pleasure. The toast was received with musical honours.

Trade Societies in Showland.

Mr. P. Collins, in responding, expressed the increasing delight he experienced year by year in noting the wonderful growth of a right feeling towards the show people on the part of the general public. The showman was no longer regarded with prejudice or suspicion. His work in life as the amusement provider at the people's fairs was better appreciated and better valued. This was largely due to the better understanding that their trade societies had brought about. He strongly urged his brother showmen to be loyal to their societies, and to the interests of the great industry in which they were engaged.

Mr. T. Watson Wright in his response thanked the company for the warmth of their regard towards himself and his colleagues on the executive of the Guild. He referred briefly to the coming struggle in Parliament with the Urban District Council of Handsworth, and pointed out how such proposals must ever be met with the most determined opposition. It was to protect their business and mode of life that the societies were established. He was honoured in being associated with his friends on the executive committee, and most sincerely he thanked them for their hearty reception of the toast with which his name had been associated.

Mr. Hurst, in a brief, bright, and brotherly speech, also thanked his friends for their warm reception of his name in connection with the toast of the Societies. He confessed that he was disappointed that the end of their Parliamentary labours was not yet in sight. Handsworth was trying to get things that Parliament had refused to many powerful corporations. He was glad to be able, in the offices he held—as Honorary Secretary of the Guild and as the Secretary of the Roundabout Proprietors and Showmen's Union—to bring all the influence and the power possible to bear upon public bodies to secure the just rights and liberties of showmen.

The Guild Chaplain, in an earnest appeal for unity and fellowship in the cause of show life, its defence and its advancement, provoked great enthusiasm. He referred in stirring terms to the rise and progress of the Guild and all that the societies of Showland stood for, and expressed the pride and honour he felt in having had some part and lot in the movement that the societies represented.

The Chairman proposed: "Our Visitors, coupled with the names of M. Denier and James W. Bostock." The toast was received and honoured with great warmth.

Mr. J. W. Bostock, in responding, referred to his varied experiences as a British showman in many lands and on various continents. In both Europe and America he had vindicated the showman's claim for right and justice as well as in the homeland, in the early days of their organised life. His friend and colleague, M. Denier, of Paris, for whom he was responding as well as for himself, purchased this first machine—one of the earliest types of the roundabout ever seen on the Continent—from him (the speaker). M. Denier had splendid up-to-date machines in Paris and in four other great towns in France—such had been the rapid development of show business abroad. He thanked his brother showmen for honouring him and the other visitors at the dinner, and he was deeply moved by the kind reception of his own name.

Mr. Cox, in eulogistic terms, proposed the health of the firm of Savage Bros., Ltd. He made especial reference to the work of the chairman, Mr. Wm. Affleck, and to Messrs. Redfearn and Wilkinson, associated with Mr. Affleck in the management of the firm. The toast was drank with musical honours.

Mr. Affleck, in thanking the company for honouring him, in the way they had done, asked them to remember that the interests of the showmen and the firm were identical. If the showmen prospered the firm would enjoy a share in that prosperity. He was quite sure that all his colleagues would do all in their power to forward their mutual interests.

Mr. S. W. Redfearn and Mr. Wilkinson, director of Savage Brothers, Ltd., also suitably responded, and the extremely pleasant and successful function ended by singing the National Anthem and Auld Lang Syne.

Songs were sung during the evening by Messrs. Withers, Wilkinson, A. H. Smith, R. Melton, G. Stannard, and G. A. Dines. Mr. J. J Wright's orchestra played during dinner the following excellent programme of music:—March, "Through Night to Light"; Two-step, "Silver Heels"; Overture, "Caliph of Bagdad"; Valse, "Dollar Princess"; Selection, "The Arcadians"; Descriptive Galop, "A Motor Ride."

ILFORD HIPPODROME.

The programme submitted here last week was excellent in every detail, and was cordially appreciated by the rapidly increasing clientèle of the house. The premier turn was that mirth-provoking sketch The Yap Yaps, by Fred Karno's renowned company of comedians. In addition to a powerful cast, two clever and famous exponents of the art of self-defence are seen in Young Josephs and Harry Chamberlain, who give a very fine exhibition of the fistic art. As usual, there is an abundance of humorous incidents, which cause uproarious laughter throughout.

The reception accorded the Two McKays, two clever juvenile Scotch artists, was very pronounced, the song "There goes the Two McKays" being a very popular number; the smart dancing of the juveniles also came in for hearty applause. Maidie Burker, a dainty young comedienne, sang "If you haven't got the money to spend" in taking style, the audience joining in the refrain quite heartily. Roze and Calvert were well to the fore as fun-makers as Captain Kettle and his charming mate, the shafts of humour being quite original, and keeping the audience in a merry mood. Alfred Graham's Premier Juveniles, in their vocal and musical scena A Concert on the Lawn, presented much novelty in singing, their rendering of "Has anybody here seen Kelly?" to the melody of "The Lost Chord" being a very amusing feature.

Drollery is exhibited by Phil Bransby, whose songs, "Hotel de Pentonville" and "But of course it ain't my place to interfere," being extremely funny. Fred Evans, in his protean burlesque Dreaming, gave a very novel entertainment, introducing some excellent impressions of Dickens's characters from "Oliver Twist," including Fagin, Bill Sikes, and Nancy. The Three Arza Boys, in their vocal and dancing act, came in for a hearty reception, the song "We are three members of the Won't Work Brigade" and their novel dancing being well received and applauded. Miss Rose Cambry, Australian comedienne, sang two excellent songs with "catchy" choruses, "Come out and sit on the balcony" and "Don't forget your old sweetheart," the latter being most popular with the audience.

The performance concluded with some fine pictures on Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope. Mr. G. Wells, the amiable manager of the Hippodrome, looks after the comfort of the audience in courteous fashion, and mention must also be made of Mr. Adolphe Wolff, the musical director, under whose able leadership the orchestra is making a pronounced improvement.

Some capital films are shown at the Warrington Royal Theatre of Varieties this week, and those depicting A Daughter of Shylock, Noël, and The Five-Storey House are all excellent. Phil Herman's songs and child stories are much enjoyed; Merrin and Cardiff are smart comedians; and Lille le Main a dainty Lilliputian artist and dancer. Percy Maye's imitations are very good.

Mr. T. J. Weste's Animated Picture Co. continues to provide excellent entertainments at the Town Hall, Folkestone, and there is an entire change of programme this week. The attendances have been very gratifying, and this week's bill consists of the latest and best animated pictures.

Splendid picture programmes are submitted at the Empire, Leicester. The list this week includes A Reckless Life, Foolshead, The King of the Robbers, In Love with a Bearded Woman, Adventures of an Eel, Traitor to His King and Country, A Youthful Hero, Beautiful but Destitute, Monkey's Excursion, Prince and Pauper, A Narrow Escape, and The Missionary and the Maid. Anni Blanchard, vocalist, is also an additional attraction.

HANDSWORTH URBAN DISTRICT COUNCIL (H.L.).

PETITION AGAINST THE BILL PRAYING TO BE HEARD BY COUNSEL.

To the Right Honourable the Lords Spiritual and Temporal of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland in Parliament assembled.

The Humble Petition of the United Kingdom Showmen and Vandwellers' Protection Association sheweth:

1. A Bill (hereinafter referred to as "the Bill") has been deposited in the Private Bill Office of the House of Commons intituled "An Act for conferring further powers upon the Urban District Council of Handsworth with reference to their Tramway Undertaking; to authorise the construction of new streets and widenings, and to make further provision with regard to the Health, Local Government, and Improvement of the district; and for other purposes."

2. The promoters of the Bill are the Urban District Council of Handsworth (in the Bill and hereinafter called "the Council").

3. Your Petitioners are an Association founded in the year 1890 for the protection of the interests of roundabout proprietors, showmen, and stallholders. The Association includes a number of persons who, for the purposes of their calling, have habitually resorted, and still do resort, to the Urban District of Handsworth. The property, rights, and interests of such persons are injuriously affected by the Bill, and your Petitioners object thereto for the reasons hereinafter appearing.

4. Clause 125 of the Bill is as follows:—

"The Council may make bye-laws for all or any of the following purposes (that is to say):—

"For prescribing the hours within which during any fair or at any other time any show, booth, caravan, circus, or menagerie may be kept open and for preserving order therein:—

"For preventing the use of whirligigs, roundabouts, steam organs, or other similar contrivances so as to be a source of danger or annoyance to residents or the public."

5. By Clause 126 of the Bill it is proposed to enact that the Council may prohibit any vans, tents, sheds, or similar structures being erected or placed on any lands in the district where their use for human habitation is in the opinion of the Council likely to cause the pollution or fouling of any streams or ditches, and any person contravening such resolution, and the owner or occupier of any lands on which any such van, tent, or other similar structure shall be so erected or placed in contravention of the resolution, and who may have knowingly permitted the same, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five pounds, and to a daily penalty not exceeding twenty shillings.

6. Your Petitioners humbly submit that Clause 125 of the Bill, in so far as it gives power to the Council to prescribe the hours within which shows may be kept open, would, if passed into law, be a most unwarrantable infringement of the personal liberty not only of showmen, but of those persons, chiefly of the working classes, for whom they provide a cheap and wholesome form of amusement. The power to prescribe the hours during which the business of showmen could be carried on might be so used as to entirely extinguish their businesses within the Urban District of Handsworth. Your Petitioners further submit that the portion of Clause 125 relating to the use of whirligigs, &c., so as to be a source of danger or annoyance, is wholly unnecessary, as there is full power under the general law to make bye-laws for preventing any such nuisance.

7. Your Petitioners are apprehensive, in view of the prejudiced and unreasonable attitude of many local authorities towards the business of showmen, that the provisions of Clause 126 of the Bill are sought for other than the merely sanitary reasons which are apparent on the face of the Clause, seeing that the likelihood of the pollution of streams is not a fact to be demonstrated in a Court of Justice, but need only exist in the opinion of the Council. If the object of the Council is to enforce the powers contained in the Clause for sanitary reasons only, the Clause is wholly unnecessary, as the general sanitary law is equally applicable to vandwellers as to other persons.

8. It has been for some years past the settled policy of Parliament not to allow Clauses similar to Clauses 125 and 126 of the Bill to be included in Private Bills, and such Clauses have been rejected on several occasions.

9. The Preamble of the Bill in so far as it relates to the matters aforesaid is unfounded and incapable of proof.

Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray your Right Honourable House that the Bill may not pass into law as it now stands, and that they may be heard by their Counsel, Agents, and Witnesses against the Preamble and Clauses thereof, and, in the event of the Preamble being proved, then in support of such Clauses and Provisions as may be necessary for their protection and benefit, and that your Right Honourable House may grant to your Petitioners such further and other relief in the premises as to your Right Honourable House may seem meet.

And your Petitioners will ever pray.

For and on behalf of the United Kingdow Showmen and Vandwellers Protection Association.

Patrick Collins, President.
Thomas Hurst, Secretary.
T. Horne, Organiser.

Although the Parliamentary Solicitor is somewhat sanguine that the Handsworth District Council will withdraw the clauses that the Guild objects to, it is necessary to prepare and to lodge a petition setting forth the objections of the organised showmen to the proposed clauses. In any case, so long as local authorities persist in trying to obtain these extraordinary powers, so long will it be necessary for the Guild, in the general interests of showmen, to oppose all such proposals.

It is extraordinary, to say the least that might be said about it, that local bodies never seem to learn by the failures and mistakes of others. The same powers were sought by Mansfield, Eccles, Hyde, Acton, and a dozen other towns, but in each case the clauses were thrown out by the Parliamentary Committees dealing with them. In two cases, Acton and Oldham, the Committee decided to award the showmen their costs. This was done (and it is a most unusual thing for the Private Bills Committee to do) in order to mark the disapproval of Parliament of the efforts of local authorities to obtain powers in excess of the general law of the land in order to penalise a particular class of people or to injure a particular industry.

The Guild Will Ask for Costs.

After the expression of opinion made by the Chairman of the Private Bills Committee last year, the Guild executive will certainly ask for costs. That will, we hope, bring home to the Handsworth Corporation and other Corporations the fact that they cannot persevere in their wrong action without having to pay the cost.

At the Picture Palace, St. Margaret's Hall, Canterbury, the management have announced a beauty competition on sound lines, the audience being allowed to judge and to vote by means of coupons handed to them as they enter the hall. The great fight between Johnson and Burns has been attracting large houses, and this week's bill of fare embraces something to amuse and interest everyone.

SIDE-SHOWS IN SOUTH AMERICA.

A "WHITE CITY" IN BUENOS AIRES.

One of the most notable exhibitions of the many being held this year is the International Centennial Exhibition of Buenos Aires, to run for six months, and opening on or about May 25. Practically every important country in the world is taking part, as the extraordinary wealth, the abundant prosperity, and the rich promise of the rapidly-developing Argentine have attracted the eager attention of manufacturers and exporters throughout the world.

Possibly the most notable feature of this great exhibition will be its amusement section, which is now being organised with great energy and promise. Owing to a curious oversight, the Centennial Exhibition was planned and laid out without any provision for a general scheme of amusements, a vital feature to the financial success these days of any exhibition. This omission was soon rectified by a group of influential citizens of Buenos Aires, who obtained from the municipality a fifteen years' concession of the Japanese Gardens, an admirably situated park of about twelve acres in the centre of the city, who undertook to expend upwards of one million dollars in ornate edifices and picturesque constructional improvements in order that this new feature in the attractions of "Beautiful Buenos Aires" should be worthy of the high reputation that this city enjoys for its great wealth and astonishing progress. As these buildings must be completed within six months from the date of the concession, which was only granted in December, the work is now being actively pushed ahead. A sumptuous Garden Club is well under way, as also are the beautiful entrance gates with side towers, a Roman theatre, a mountain scenic railway, water chute, underground rivers, ornamental lake and canal, and many other attractive features, selected from similar exhibition amusement grounds in this country, the Continent, and the United States. Concessionaires are already in negotiation for sites for side-shows, &c., and many further applications are expected in the course of the next few weeks.

This year the Japanese Gardens will be the amusement section of the Centennial Exhibition, but next year it is hoped to hold a Japanese Industrial Exhibition in the grounds, and the following year a British-Argentine Exhibition. In 1912 some other country will be invited to take part, and each year it is expected that some great manufacturing country will utilise the opportunity by holding an exhibition in the grounds, the permanent buildings and popular amusements assisting in attracting large attendances.

The promoters of the Exposiciones Internacionales, Ltd. (the concessionaires of this "White City" of Buenos Aires), were influenced by the following considerations in carrying out this spirited enterprise:—

Though not tropical, the climate of Buenos Aires may be considered one of perpetual summer, and, consequently, it is proposed to keep these gardens open for at least nine months every year.

There are a great many fiesta days or close holidays, in which all offices, banks, &c., are closed, but theatres and all similar places of amusement are open. Sundays are similarly observed, and, like Paris, are the days on which the great race-meetings are held. Excepting the Zoo, to which admission is charged to an attendance of nearly 40,000 every Sunday, Buenos Aires is notably lacking in anything approaching a "White City" or Earl's Court place of entertainment.

The city has a population of about 1,300,000 people, and no unemployed. Everyone is well paid, and the wealth of the country is fully reflected in the lavish affluence of its capital city. The Argentinians are a pleasure-loving people, and are especially fond of out-door entertainment. The attendance at the Sunday race-meetings, the crowded parks on fiesta days, the flower festivals which run for several days, the very climate and character of the people, all testify to their love of open-air recreation.

It is quite evident that this permanent amusement park in Buenos Aires will supply a great want, especially during the warm nights of the long summer months. Sideshow proprietors and amusement caterers wishing for further information are directed to the advertisement in another column, in which they are requested to apply to the London agent, Exposiciones Internacionales, Ltd., of Buenos Aires, 50, Gresham-street, London, E.C.

KILBURN EMPIRE.

There is a most attractive bill for the current week at this handsome theatre, and Mr. C. Foster-Marner, the popular manager, is able to survey a packed house at each performance. The particular star turn is the version of Trilby, which has been prepared for the music-hall stage in sketch form, and a capital piece of work it proves to be. It is introduced by Messrs. C. Garry and J. B. Gordon, who have a most capable company. Mr. Charles Garry himself submits a fine portrayal of Svengali, thoroughly appreciating all the subtleties of the character, and Trilby is delightfully played by Miss Grace Illingworth. J. B. Gordon and Stephen Ewart are seen to advantage in those two fine characters the Laird and Taffy, and Mr. G. Saville makes a decidedly good Little Billie. The mounting is most artistic and the play is cordially received.

The Sisters Draycott are a pair of most charming duettists, whose rendering of "Dear heart" called forth tremendous applause; George D'Albert sings the old favourite "Up and down"; a novel ventriloquial entertainment is provided by George Gulliver, whose boy scout figure keeps the audience in a state of hilarity; The Would-be Actors, as presented by Carter Livesey and Lilian Rosebery, has lost none of its attractiveness, and the shouts of laughter it evokes testifies to its great success; Pete and Minnie Lee provide a most enjoyable turn with song and patter, and score heavily with their business; Annie Girard is a most accomplished flautist, while her piccolo solo playing is likewise commendable and meets with much appreciation.

Verno and Voyce appear in the scena Sporting Luck, which is very racy and full of sporting allusions which are quickly seized on by the audience; Dolly Warsaw, a dainty comedienne, sings a pretty song and gives a very neat dance, which makes her a great favourite; MacWalton and his partner are a most entertaining duo, who appear in their speciality Fun in a Studio, which is very diverting, and they paint pictures with marvellous rapidity, and indulge in all kinds of tricks, which are both novel and funny.

Lew Lake and company are great favourites here, and their doings as Jerry and Nobbler are keenly followed by the Kilburn playgoers in their latest sequel to My Pal Jerry, which is entitled Five Years Later. We have a further instalment of the life history of this comical couple, and their present excursion into society is most laughable, and Lew Lake and his helpmate score a bigger success than ever in their impersonations. The sketch is most lavishly staged, and the finale very exciting and well worked. The Bioscope concludes. Mr. Sheldon and his orchestra, as usual, are to be commended for their good share in the evening's entertainment.

The chief films at the Temperance Hall, Northampton, this week are The Boy Detective, Circus Life, Maud Muller, and The Pet of the Big Horn Ranch. Miss Margaret Payne is warmly applauded for her illustrated songs "Dear Heart" and "The Wireless Man."

"DRIVING A GIRL TO DESTRUCTION"
The Ulster Echo, Feb. 8, says:—
. . . . For a considerable time before the hour of opening the theatre was surrounded by large crowds, and those who were fortunate enough to get a seat witnessed
A SPLENDID PLAY
IN THE HANDS OF A SPLENDID COMPANY.
Mrs. Powell has, by this new piece, proved herself an authoress of good rank. Her drama should have a long and prosperous run before its final ring-down comes on.
The Belfast Evening Telegraph says:—
. . . . It is written by Mrs. Morton Powell in her MOST FORCEFUL AND VIGOROUS STYLE, and is full of exciting and thrilling episodes.

Northern Whig says:—
"Driving a Girl to Destruction" is sure to prove A GREAT POPULAR SUCCESS, as it possesses all the requirements to that end. The plot is ingenious without being over-complicated. The dialogue is crisp and telling, and there is a succession of strong and thrilling situations, while the scenery and accessories are a feature of the production. . . . The unmistakably favourable verdict passed on the play by Belfast is certain to be endorsed in other centres. . . .
The Irish News says:—
There was a big house. . . . and the four acts were followed with a good deal of interest. . .. The plot never lags. . . . The play moves with tremendous rapidity. . . . The company is a strong one. . . . The staging and mounting was on an elaborate scale.
The Belfast News Letter says:—
. . . Her latest work is likely to bring her fresh popularity. . . . The play has plenty of exciting incidents to arrest the attention, and the humorous interludes which characterise it caused much amusement

"DRIVING A GIRL TO DESTRUCTION."

The Stage, Feb. 17, says:—
This new piece by Mrs. Morton Powell deserves its success. The author has a decided penchant for depicting the woes of the pretty and innocent woman, and each heroine of hers of this class shows decided signs of being better understood, more near to nature, and more convincing than the predecessor. One begins really to believe in Mrs. Powell's suffering feminine, to have a genuine sympathy for her, and to be held in a closer grip by her fighting for her honour and her freedom. Ruby Wright stands in the literary and dramatic sense head and shoulders above other similar creations of Mrs. Powell, and we congratulate her upon giving us a woman whose simulated sufferings move us with considerable emotion. . . . There is, as may be gathered from this, much vitality in the piece, and time after time the audience on Monday were SWEPT AWAY IN A VORTEX OF EXCITEMENT.
The Liverpool Courier says:—
"Driving a Girl to Destruction" is the title of a new play that is being presented this week at the Star Theatre. It is from the pen of Mrs. Morton Powell, a lady who has already provided the stage with several popular works of similar character, and when at Belfast last week it was produced for the first time public appreciation was great. A large audience present at the Star last evening also testified to the merits of the play, and followed the unfolding of the plot with deep interest. A very able company has been sent to interpret it. . . . There are several exciting situations in the play, while the scenery and dresses are in Mr. Morton Powell's well-known finished style. A matinée is to be given on Thursday.

The Post and Mercury says:—
And a good all-round combination of artists has been commissioned to present the play. The opening performance was last evening enthusiastically received by an appreciative audience.

Liverpool Echo says:—
. . . . and throughout the scenery and acting are of SUCH A HIGH-CLASS CHARACTER that the play is sure of a successful run.

Liverpool Express says:—
. . . . Talented authoress. . . . There are several very exciting incidents in the play, including a great fight to the death between two women in the last act, and the unfolding of the plot was followed with the keenest interest.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1910.
Besides the dramatic and musical calendar, and the list of pieces, places, and performers enumerated in it, this annual gives also particulars of new plays and important revivals produced at the London and suburban theatres and in the provinces, with their casts, and also lists of plays produced in New York, new pieces produced at the principal Paris theatres, new plays and important revivals presented at the principal Berlin theatres, and an alphabetical list of the principal sketches produced at the London and provincial variety houses. Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree contributes an interesting article entitled "Where was the Old Globe Playhouse?" and there are close on thirty stories told by well-known people and illustrated by photographs and autographs, as well as a miscellaneous lot of information connected with the stage, and an illustrated obituary of the year.—Cork Examiner, Feb. 12, 1910.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1910.
"The Era" Annual will, as usual, be found full of useful dramatic information, besides miscellaneous reading of distinctly personal interest. Mr. Dan Rolyat, for instance, tells how he once attempted "a straight part."—Liverpool Daily Post and Mercury, Jan. 29, 1910.

NOTICE.—OPTION CLAUSE.

COUNSEL WAS REQUESTED TO ADVISE

Whether, having regard to the terms of Clause 16 in the model contract attached to the Arbitrator's Award, the Management are entitled to insist upon the exercise of their option.

(a) In the event of the Artiste having filled by engagements made either wholly or partly after the date of the contract, all vacant dates within 18 months after the date of the notice of intention to exercise the option, and

(b) In the event of the Artiste having, in similar manner, partly filled his time so that the number of vacant dates within that period is insufficient to comply with the option.

COUNSEL'S OPINION.

In my opinion the clause requires the Artiste so to arrange his or her engagements, made after the date of the contract with the Management as to render it possible for the artiste to fulfil a re-engagement with the Management, should the latter exercise the option conferred upon them by the contract; and that it is no answer for the Artiste to say that he or she cannot fulfil such re-engagement because of engagements made by him or by her after the date of the contract.

(a) In my opinion the Management are entitled to insist upon the exercise of their option, although the Artiste may have filled up all vacant dates within 18 months after the date of the notice of intentionto exercise the option, provided such engagements were made wholly after the date of the contract. So far as these engagements were made before the date of the contract, the Artiste is entitled to fulfil them, and the Management cannot insist upon such engagements being a breach of the artist's contract with them.

(b) In my opinion the Artiste is bound to reserve sufficient dates to enable him to fulfil a re-engagement by the Management. If, therefore, he accepts engagements after the date of the contract which prevent him fulfilling his re-engagement in its entirety, he commits a breach of his re-engagement.

IMPORTANT NOTICES.

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS.—All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office. Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns. Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier. Artists employing agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents. New Acts seeking Engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our District Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follow:—

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, and DISTRICT.—MR. S. GETHING, Empire Theatre, Glasgow.

LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, and DISTRICT.—MR. T. GERALD MORTON, Empire Palace, Leeds.

BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, and DISTRICT.—MR. HATTON WHARTON, Empire Theatre, Nottingham.

LIVERPOOL, MANCHESTER, and DISTRICT.—MR. HORACE COLE, The Empire, Liverpool.

SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.—MR. ALBERT MITCHELL, Empire Theatre, Cardiff.

LONDON DISTRICT.—MR. J. CHRISTIE, Empire Theatre, Shepherd's Bush, W.

EMPIRE THEATRE, SOUTH SHIELDS.—Artists working in the North of England who have odd weeks vacant are invited to communicate with the Local Manager at above Theatre, with a view to arranging a trial week.

N.B.—MR. OSWALD STOLL or MR. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously. Artists and Agents are requested to note that the Standard Theatre, Shoreditch, and the Terriss Theatre, Rotherhithe, come within the areas absolutely barred by us. Artists and Agents are also requested to note that the Hippodrome, Aston, Birmingham, comes within the area absolutely barred by the Grand Theatre and Empire Palace, Birmingham.

INSTRUCTIONS TO ARTISTS.—Artists must have at least Fourteen Band Parts for English Orchestrations, and Seventeen Band Parts for Foreign Orchestrations. Matter of Bill, Blocks, and Specimens of Pictorials FOR THE ABOVE THEATRES must be sent to Co-operative Offices, at above address, THREE WEEKS before Opening, failing which Artists will run the risk of having their Engagements cancelled. It is important that separate bill-matter, blocks, pictorials, &c., for Dublin, Belfast, and South Shields, be sent direct to Mr. Frank Allen at the Co-operative Offices. IMPORTANT.—Artists must forward Copies of Songs to the STAGE DEPARTMENT, ABOVE ADDRESS, TWO WEEKS previous to opening, with Assignments for same, which will be returned. Artists are requested to note carefully that the clause in their contracts relating to rehearsals will in future be strictly enforced. Artists' Scenery, Properties, &c., MUST be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Licensing Authorities. ARTISTS WILL CLEARLY UNDERSTAND THAT THEIR BUSINESS MUST BE FREE FROM ALL VULGARITY.

No order or contract for goods or services must be accepted for any of the foregoing theatres except upon receipt of an Official Form, issued from the Co-operative Offices, London, and signed by either Mr. Oswald Stoll, Mr. Frank Allen, or the Chief Accountant, otherwise the Company concerned will not be responsible for same, and will refuse payment. In special cases, where goods are required at once, suppliers must look to the individual placing the order, who will be personally liable, unless an official confirmatory order, signed as above, is received within forty-eight hours. Invoices must be sent to the Theatre, but monthly statements should be sent to the Co-operative Offices. The individual Company on whose behalf orders are signed is solely responsible for payment. The Management will not hold themselves responsible in the event of loss of or damage to any MSS., Songs, &c., submitted for consideration.

"Theatrical Accounts." By Cuthbert E. Smedley (The Era, Ltd., 3s. 6d.). Shows how the affairs of a theatre can be most efficiently controlled by the adoption of systems of internal check. Specimen pages of the books to be kept are given. Receipts, tours, book-keeping, and accounts, audit—each is allotted a separate chapter. In the appendix is given "a form of agreement with artists for touring engagements."—Morning Post, Jan. 27, 1909.

"Theatrical Accounts for Business Managers." By Cuthbert E. Smedley, A.C.A. 3s. 6d. The Era, Ltd., 5, Tavistock-street, W.C. The work of accountants has now been brought to a fine art, and in almost every branch of business a different system has been elaborated. The present work deals in a small compass fully and clearly with all the special features of theatrical management on the business side.—Financial Times, Feb. 1, 1909.

PRUDENTIAL ASSURANCE CO., LTD.

Chief Office: HOLBORN BARS, LONDON.

Summary of the Report presented at the Sixty-first Annual Meeting, held on 3rd March, 1910.

ORDINARY BRANCH.—The number of Policies issued during the year was 76,087, assuring the sum of £7,044,603, and producing a New Annual Premium Income of £415,015. The Premiums received during the year were £4,710,107, being an increase of £93,770 over the year 1908. The claims of the year amounted to £3,018,981. The number of Deaths was 8,375, and 17,629 endowment Assurances matured. The number of Policies in force at the end of the year was 882,804.

INDUSTRIAL BRANCH.—The Premiums received during the year were £7,171,770, being an increase of £246,015. The Claims of the year amounted to £2,877,978, including £176,401 bonus additions. The number of claims and surrenders, including 4,545 Endowment Assurances matured, was 382,233. The number of Free Policies granted during the year to those policyholders of five years' standing and upwards, who desired to discontinue their payments, was 151,865, the number in force being 1,506,408. The number of Free Policies which became Claims during the year was 41,386.

The total number of Policies in force at the end of the year was 18,375,229; their average duration exceeds eleven and a half years.

The Assets of the Company, in both branches, as shown in the Balance-sheet, after deducting the amount written off securities, are £74,201,701, being an increase of £2,242,842 over those of 1908.

The Directors are pleased to announce an increase in the rate of bonus of both Branches of the Company as follows:—

In the Ordinary Branch a reversionary bonus at the rate of £1 14s. per cent. on the original sums assured has been added to all classes of participating policies issued since the year 1876. This is an increase of two shillings per cent. over the rate declared for the past three years.

In the Industrial Branch all policies of over five years' duration which become claims either by death or maturity of endowment from the 4th of March, 1910, to the 2nd of March, 1911, both dates inclusive, will participate. This bonus will be paid by way of addition to the sums assured of:—

£5 per cent. on all policies becoming claims upon which at least five but less than ten years' premiums have been paid;

£10 per cent. on all policies becoming claims upon which at least ten but less than fifteen years' premiums have been paid; and

£15 per cent. on all policies becoming claims upon which at least fifteen years' premiums have been paid.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.—HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Robert Arthur Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Adair Nelson.—The famous Moody-Manners Opera Company occupies the boards of His Majesty's this week. At every performance crowded and enthusiastic "houses" have greeted the efforts of Mr. Manners' brilliant company, and by Saturday night, when the engagement closes with Faust, a record is likely to be set up that will take some beating. The operas for the week are—Samson and Delilah, Aida, Tannhäuser, Carmen, La Tosca, Maitre Seiler, and Faust.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Percy H. Gallagher.—The marvellous Tan-Kwai Troupe of Chinese acrobats, jugglers, &c., are making all beholders sit up this week with their astounding feats; Jack Lorimer, the popular comedian, makes a welcome return; Miss Ada Oxley's company does well in Peggy; and Fritz von Liston, silheuse and mimic, Sylvene, equilibrist, Miss Marie Kay and Miss Stella Stahl, comediennes, and Andie Burns, comedian, are also among the attractions.

ACCRINGTON.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—Mr. Charles Gibbon and his company are here with Alone in London. Mr. J. Vernon Shaw makes a dignified and convincing representative of the banker. Mr. Burnaby, and Walter, his son, is admirably enacted by Mr. Charles Gibbon; Mr. Gerald Jordan as the scoundrel, Dick Redcliffe, acts with marked ability; Mr. J. W. Wilkinson presents a most excellent character-study of old Jenkinson; and Mr. Cecil Renton is seen to advantage as Spriggins. Charlie Johnson is played with irrepressible humour and verve by Mr. Frank Caffrey, and is ably assisted in creating much hilarity by Miss Carrie Young as Liz Jenkinson. Miss Nellie Clyde invests the part of Nan with pathetic interest; Miss Laurie O'Neill as Tom Chickweed gives a very touching portrayal, and Miss Molly Monaghan is deserving of praise as Mrs. Maloney. Miss Lenna Vernon makes the most of her opportunities as Ruth Clifton, and Miss Hettie Hornsby scores a great success as Little Paul.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, The Accrington Hippodrome Co.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Mould.—Bella and Bijou, the famous society entertainers, are receiving vociferous applause, their latest skit, The Suffragette, being a tremendous success; the Four Burnells, in the comedy sketch On the Links, are extremely popular, and the illustrated songs of Helen Guest are very much enjoyed. Monty Walker is received with the heartiest applause in three new songs; the Calcotts are instrumentalists of merit, and Guest and Newlyn are capital exponents of Hebraic humour. Wat Moor extemporises successfully, and the new pictures depicted by the Bioscope are very entertaining.

ALDERSHOT.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Jack Gladwin.—Mr. J. D. Hunter's company is appearing here with success in Jack and the Beanstalk. The leading juvenile rôles of Jack and Jill are excellently portrayed by Misses Lallah Melrose and Vea Dudley; and the Sisters Lucia and Clara Edwards give charming impersonations of Boy Blue and Bo-Peep, winning favour for their singing and dancing. Mr. J. D. Hunter is a capital dame, and provides much fun; and Mr. Hall Melrose is excellent as the Squire, and is heartily received. Others who do well in prominent parts are Misses Rene Ashley and Dolly Clyde; and Messrs. Fred Beck, Phil Inglis, J. E. Cowell, and George Tichborne.

WIDE WORLD PICTURES.—Proprietors, Messrs. J. Golder and B. Sloman.—During the week a capital selection of films was shown at the Masonic Hall. Besides the picture of the Church Parades in Wellington and Queen's Avenues, were: A Gentleman's Son, dramatic; A Rustic Visitor, dramatic; Farmer Jones Goes To Market, comic; Sunshine After Storm, dramatic; A Brave Child, sensational; High Furnaces, instructive; Horse Stealers, sensational; An American Does London in Ten Minutes, comic.

ALEXANDRA PICTURE PALACE.—Proprietors, Carpenter's Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. H. Crocker.—A good programme is being presented this week. The Legend of Apollo and Daphne, Dramatic Episode of Pine Ridge, Singapore Plantation, The Stove With Life, and A Dramatic Conversion are the principal items. W. H. Downs makes a big hit with two well-rendered songs.

ASHINGTON.—MINERS' THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Fred Gould.—Mr. William Pardoe's pantomime, Dick Whittington, is paying a welcome visit here. Miss Lottie Holland as Dick is a great favourite; Miss Nellie Rose is a dainty Alice Fitzwarren, and her dancing is excellent; Miss Cissie Loveday as Fairy Bowbelle sings pleasingly; Mr. George Hyam as Idle Jack keeps everybody in good humour, being ably assisted by Mr. Alf. Grady as his "Assistant" and Miss Daisy Volbecque as Sarah Cook; Mr. Tom Griffit as King Rat is good, his fine singing being a special feature; Mr. Tom Hulme as Alderman Fitzwarren and Mr. Joe Venora as the Emperor of Morocco are excellent; Mons. Pauli as the Cat is very natural; the Edengale Trio of dancers give an attractive performance; and Pauletti is a smart acrobatic turn.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill, jun.—Musical comedy is the fare here for the week. It is the first visit to Ashton of Miss Hook of Holland since she started on tour of the provinces. Miss Gertrude Melville is sweet and neat and quaintly vivacious as the Belle of the Zuyder Zee; Miss Cissie Sephton as Mina is full of sparkle and humorous sallies; Mr. Hook was embodied with rare skill by Mr. Edmond Russell whose grotesque dancing is irresistible; Mr. Geo. Mudie, jun., is a diverting Schnapps; Captain Adrian Paap uses his bass voice to advantage; Mr. C. F. Hewitt as Lieutenant de Coop is also successful.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Jesse Burslem.—Heading the bill here for the week is Fred Karno's celebrated company of comedians, in The Football Match—the Cup-tie final. The contestants are The Midnight Wanderers and Middleton Piecans. Gilbert Childs is Stiffy, the goalkeeper. Laughter was uproarious all through the game. Miss Ruby Roya, a piquant comedienne, sings sweetly; Purvis and Partner appear in an amusing musical sketch, The Postman's Knock; Fred Hutchings fetches the audience as a dame comedian with unlimited "gab"; Salida and Vone (Amy and Jim) are a good turn as rag-time dancers; a clever acrobatic table expert is seen in the Great Vincent; and Les Rallis, the artist, and his monkey also entertain.

THE NEW PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—In vaudeville artists, Staffo, the comedy juggler, is remarkably expert in sleight-of-hand tricks; Alf Mendies is clever as the musical burglar; the Hargreaves Trio are capital singing and dancing experts; and the lecturer and baritone vocalist, Mr. Alan Wright, appears in a dramatic monologue, The Game of Life. The pictures shown by the bioscope are, as usual at the Pavilion, capital of their kind. The Heroine of Mafeking is a very interesting reminiscence of the Boer War. A Child's Forgiveness is a pathetic incident which wins the tender-hearted; A Day with Our Soldier Boys is a very fine military review; 'Twixt Red Man and White takes us to the American prairies.

THE PICTUREDROME.—Lessees, Messrs. Weisker Bros.; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. Leckie.—The pictures for the week are To Save Her Soul, a dramatic incident in which a young girl is concerned. Burglary by Airships is a familiar film, but if that is the way we are to be burgled in the future it is a very unpleasant outlook for our descendants. No Excitement is also a very funny picture; and laughter is evoked by the strange doings of the Nerveless Man. Taylor and Scott are swell vocalists and twin dancers, neat and clever artists; Little Rose Pink sings "Molly O'Morgan"; she was encored, and did some smart dancing.

ODDFELLOWS' HALL.—Lessees, The Ashton Entertainments Syndicate; Acting-Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Marks.—The management has arranged another attractive programme here for the week. The leading dramatic film, A Terrible Ordeal, is a very striking circumstance, which the spectator watches with deep concern and strong feelings stirred. Juggins Family at the Photographer's should be seen. For fun it is one of the best exhibited for some time.

AYR.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry W. Day.—The 10.30 Down Express has been running here every night this week. The company is Mr. Horace Stanley's, and that gentleman makes an admirable Sam Wagstaffe, and is accountable for the mirth of the piece. Mr. T. Arthur Plummer gives a creditable exposition of Jack O'Malley; as also does Miss Cora Linda as Bessie Leigh. Mr. George Gaisford as James Inderwick has a difficult part, but performs it with success; Mr. Walter Carr and Mr. T. B. Brabazon do well; Miss Kate Kilpack, Miss Ida Fane, and Miss Lelia Drummond give every satisfaction.

AYR PICTURE PALACE.—The management is to be congratulated on the success of this entertainment. Everything up-to-date in the way of films is procured, and the public is showing its appreciation by crowding to the Palace nightly.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Mr. A. Clifton Alderson's company in The Coal King is here. Mr. Henry Deane is quite a distinguished Tom Roberts, and in the title-rôle Mr. A. W. Norman is wholly successful; Mr. Robert Faulkner makes a sufficiently scheming Walter Hartford and Mr. Frank Dalton a capital Dick Shirley; Mr. Sam Roberts is a comic Jim Williams and Miss Winifred Love a graceful and attractive Grace Shirley; Miss Dennis Duncan does well as Mad Ann, and Miss Effie D. Crawford is a winsome Araminta Green.

HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—Mr. Cecil Woodhouse's company in Oh, Susannah! is here. Mr. Woodhouse does exceptionally well as Dr. Shepherd, and Miss Eve Mansell is good as Mrs. Susannah Shepherd; Lieut. Merry and Waverley Vane are lightly acted by Messrs. Edgar J. Hocking and Eric Williams respectively; Mr. Alfred Ibberson is a capable W. Plant, and Miss Frances Carlisle as Flora is good; Miss Ada Boyne as Aurora is excruciatingly funny, causing much laughter.

TIVOLI.—Lessee, Signor Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Wood.—The Two Lettys are the premier turn here, in an equilibristic and gymnastic act; the Original Cestria gives a most amusing comedy acrobatic act; a pleasing vocal item is given by the Two Northcotes; Reid and Power are capital in a sketch, The Chambermaid; Winona and King are marvellous shots with rifle and pistol; Tom Reid is exceedingly amusing with his songs; and Palette gives a capital display of lightning picture drawing.

BATH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—One of Mr. Wentworth Croke's companies is paying a return visit in The Prodigal Son. Mr. Chas. Sewell is sound and sincere as Stephen Magnussun, and his two sons Oscar and Magnus are enacted with due regard as to difference of temperament and style by Mr. Marcus D. Draper, and Mr. Ernest Owtrim. Mr. Arthur E. Holland makes a satisfactory Oscar Neilson, his two daughters—again so different in character—being impersonated with conviction by Miss Lily Crammonde (Helga) and Miss Sara Dudley (Thora). The elder ladies, Anna Magnussun and Margaret Neilson, find careful, and in the latter case amusing, representatives in Miss Una Gilbert and Miss Maud Locker. The rest of the long cast all have adequate exponents. Mr. Harry W. Lumley is the business-manager for the touring company.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth.—The vocalism of the Columbia Comedy Trio, from either an artistic or a humorous standpoint, is highly clever and enjoyable; laughter reigns while Geoffreys and Benson, sketch entertainers, occupy the stage, a like remark applying to Amy Anderson and her associates in their well-known comedy act The Banana Queen. Bert Madison causes endless hilarity with his songs and burlesque recitations; sweet singing is given by Florence Conolly; also by Webb and Branston, duettists, who are on a return visit, as is J. H. Greener, the popular singing pit lad. The pictures are always worth witnessing.

BATLEY.—THEATRE.—Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Whitty; Manager, Mr. Alfred A. Taylor.—The attraction is provided by Mr. Millar Anderson's company, in his own four-act drama, For Her Husband's Sake. Mr. Walter Domoney as Lieut. Jack Seymour, R.N., has a good part, which he makes the most of; Mr. F. B. Woulfe as Herbert Grey acts to perfection; and Mr. Charles Williams as Joseph Dene could scarcely be improved upon. Mr. Cyril Jarvis, Mr. Raymond, Mr. Jack Mercer, Mr. Walter Long, and Mr. Grace Dene, in their respective parts, are all worthy of mention. Others who complete the powerful company are Miss Josephine Richards, Miss Woulfe, and Miss Alice Defoe, the latter winning loud applause for her strong acting. The piece is well staged.

BEDFORD.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—Mr. Robert Macdonald's company is presenting The Dairymaids this week, this being the third visit of this musical comedy. Miss Dorothy Grasdorff is a captivating Peggy and Miss Kathleen Sinico a charming Winifred, both ladies possessing pleasing vocal talents; Mr. Wm. Spray is a lively Lieut. Sam Brudenell; and Mr. Bernard Vaughan a jovial Dr. O'Byrne. Mr. Edwin Dodds is decidedly clever and amusing as Joe Mivens, and is loyally supported by Miss Edie Martin as Eliza.

BELFAST.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—Messrs. Platt and Tower's company opened here on Monday with You Never Can Tell, which met with a great reception. The cast is an excellent one, success being achieved by Mr. Claude Haviland as the Waiter; Mr. J. Edward Pearce was capital as Fergus Crampton; and Miss Edith Hunter must be congratulated on her clever assumption of the rôle of Mrs. Clandon. As Gloria Clandon Miss Winifred Beech had a rôle that fitted her like the proverbial glove; and the parts of Dolly and Philip Clandon were done full justice to by Miss Ida Southern and Mr. Geoffrey Wilkinson. Mr. Bellenden Clarke was all that could be desired as Bohun; and Mr. Allan Jeayes was in every sense capable as Finch McAnnas. The cast is completed by Miss Sylvia Dawson as a Parlourmaid.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Saimond.—The attraction here is the Anglo-Indian play, Passion of Life, presented by Mr. Herbert Fuller's company. Miss Agnes Collier appears with much success as Nita O'Neal (Princess Nita); and Mr. Herbert Fuller presents a fine character-study as Dan Sprouts, a cockney, and must be congratulated thereon. Miss Madeline Courtney was charming as Alice Kenny; and Mr. R. Nelme Grasewell would be difficult to excel as Captain Horace O'Neal. Capital character impersonations of the Scotchman (Fergus McKenna), the Englishman (Jack Kenny), and the Frenchman (Ralph Flint) were presented by Messrs. Percy St. Clair, Hubert Helliwell, and S. Leigh Courtney; and the difficult rôle of Abdullah, the Indian, was skilfully sustained by Mr. Louis Weston. Miss Florence Delmar was good as Belle O'Neal; and Miss Emily Lewis was a vivacious Tilly Tripp.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred Willmott; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The leading position here is occupied by Pip Powell and Katie Vesey, who appear with much success in their comedy duologue; Horace Wheatley, the clever comedian and raconteur, returns, and his reception has been terrific; the Casey Army appear in their well-known entertainment, consisting of songs, patter, and dancing; and Mr. Cyrus Dare's mimicry of children is certainly first-class. The Society Idols speedily make themselves favourites with their delightful vocal items; and Mr. Jock Walker is a droll Scotch comedian with good songs. The Three Rochesters gain much approval for their clever Continental speciality act. Also here are Miss Nan Farren, comedienne, and the Hipposcope.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. C. Laidler.—The top of the bill here is Sidney James' Strolling Players, who, under the direction of and including Mr. Gilbert Fernie, furnish a capital entertainment, consisting of delightful vocalism and dancing; the banjo performance of Stanley and Greenop gains a gratifying reception, thoroughly deserved; and the male soprano, Mr. Charles Santon, has certainly a wonderful voice. The high-kicking of the Caselli Sisters is quite extraordinary, and their dancing is very clever; Miss Mabel Mignon, comedienne and dancer, gains many admirers; and the Vanderbilts, comedians and dancers, are a decided acquisition to the programme. Mr. Joe Dale, light comedian, and the Bioscope complete the programme.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Will White. Some beautiful films have been exhibited here, including The Reformation, A Clerk's Downfall, Dick Donovan, &c. The variety element is sustained by Hughes and Carney, capital boxing comedians and dancers; and Hether Belle, Scotch vocalist.

ST. GEORGE'S HALL.—General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Rogers.—The Last Muster, The Miniature, The Lamplighter, A Sticky Proposition, The Wedding of Trouville, are the principal pictures here. Mr. Alf Warren, humorist and instrumentalist, appears at each performance, and makes a hit. Mr. H. Rogers, the manager, arranged a grand Veterans' Night in aid of the necessitous Belfast veterans a day or two ago, and it was attended with gratifying success, the hall being filled to overflowing. The special programme provided included capital selections by the fine band of the King's Own Scottish Borderers.

BILSTON.—ROYAL AND HIPPODROME.—Licensee, Mr. A. L. Owen; Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. Tunstall.—Mr. E. H. Knight's company opened here on Monday for three nights with The Lighthouse Robbery. The drama is nicely staged, and the different parts are creditably sustained.

BIRKENHEAD.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Herbert M. King.—Mr. Arthur Hart's company with The Arcadians have drawn crowded houses. Mr. Charles A. Stevenson sustains the rôles of James Smith and Simplicitas with much humour and ability; Mr. Alfred Beers is a great success as Peter Doody; and Jack Meadows is finely played by Mr. Arthur S. Macdonald. Miss Gertrude Aylward is an admirable Mrs. Smith; Eilean Cavanagh is cleverly represented by Miss Molly McIntyre, and the important rôle of Sombra is artistically filled by Miss Sybil Tancredi. The remaining parts are adequately rendered, and the staging is on an elaborate scale.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke; acting-Manager, Mr. J. Keating.—Mr. Mark Sheridan, the popular comedian, is fulfilling one of many return engagements here, and is received with all accustomed cordiality. Mr. Albert Whelan, the clever Australian entertainer, is also on a welcome return visit, and Mr. Max Waldon, an accomplished female impersonator, is a favourite turn. A strong combination likewise includes the Three Sisters Sprightly, vaudeville artists; Mr. Walter King, the doleful comedian; Mr. Arthur Harris, a good actor-vocalist; Gilbert's circus of educated cats and dogs; Robins and Collier in The Lady and the Porter; Dale and O'Malley, amusing comedians and patterers; and Brown's Royal Bioscope.

HIPPODROME.—Director of Entertainments, Mr. Will Sley; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Weston.—Minola Hurst and her Miniature Marvels are a leading attraction, as also is Everhart in his manipulation of hoops; Torti, the Italian tenor vocalist, is popular; and other items of the bill are those of Al and Lal, vaudeville artists; the Havannas troupe of acrobats; the Sisters Maynard, dancers; Michael Madden, comedian; Barney Murphy, mimic; Devie and Dixon, comedians; and the Hippodrome Pictures.

BIRMINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; General-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—The successful pantomime Jack and the Beanstalk enters upon its last week on Monday. Mr. Rodway takes his benefit on Monday, and Mr. Robey later in the week.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Business-Manager, Mr. Fred Barnardo; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. T. Guest.—Aladdin pantomime continues to attract crowded audiences.

BORDESLEY PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. Goodwin Woodward.—The romantic Venetian drama The Tyrant meets with the appreciations of crowded houses, the production being capably presented by Miss Marie Dagmar's company. Miss Marie Robson as Tisbe is seen to advantage in a character which appeals to the sympathies of everyone, and Mr. Roy Fortescue provides a fine interpretation of Angelo, the Tyrant; Miss Jean Scott is admirable as Lady Angelo, and Mr. Edward E. Louis is a manly figure as Rudolph; Mr. Percy Follis is responsible for good work as Homodei, the avenger; and the light comedy parts are capably represented by Mr. Wilson Summers, Mr. Fred. Luard, and Miss Katie Lever.

Metropole.—Proprietor, Mr. Andrew Melville; Manager, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor.—Mr. Herbert Vere's company is presenting Napoleon the Great, in which Mr. Vere depicts the central figure with more than usual skill. The cast is a strong one, Miss Kate Walfred being responsible for a clever study of Marie Walewska, and Miss Katie Norris makes a charming Mlle. Leonie Marboeuf. Mr. Vivian Charles displays ability as Colonel Jules Monron, and Mr. Charles H. Lincoln portrays the heavy character of Colonel Lavarennes with true melodramatic style. Humorous interludes are cleverly sustained by Miss Nancy Roberts (Marcella Choupin), and Mr. George Millard (Pierre Pomponnet).

Aston Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Manager, Mr. Martin Morris.—The drama The Way Women Love is proving a draw here in the hands of a powerful company. Mrs. Frank Bateman, the authoress, portrays the character of Verone Alabra with much skill, and Mr. Fred W. Goddard takes a leading part as Captain Howard Tremaine. Miss Camille Treherne earns applause for a careful rendition of the part of Violet Tremaine, and Miss Amy Manfree is well chosen as Lottie Gray. Miss Sadie Underhill is clever in the character of a boy. On Friday evening there was a large audience to witness a performance of Sapho, Mrs. Bateman assuming the title-rôle and Mr. F. W. Goddard playing as Jean.

Carlton Theatre.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—The musical comedy drama, At the World's Mercy, presented by Mr. Carr Loates' company is scoring a well-deserved triumph. The outstanding feature of the production is the clever performance of Miss Cissie Milford as the Stowaway and a music-hall star. Mr. Bert Leighton is clever as the hero, Captain Frank Manley, and Mr. Carr Loates portrays the principal heavy character with realism, being well partnered by Mr. G. D. Knight and Mr. F. Overton. Miss Margaret Butler proves herself a capable heroine, and other good artists are Mr. W. H. Irving, Miss Vera Raynor, and Miss Alice Hunter.

Empire. — Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. Williams.—Vivacious Victoria Monks is as popular as ever in her catchy chorus songs; the Channings have a delightful series of vocal and instrumental items; and La Freya provides a pleasing spectacle in a brilliant posing scena; the Carmos are up to date and popular jugglers; W. F. Frame, Scotch comedian, is an immediate success in quaint patter and songs; Ike and Will Scott are an amusing pair of comedians; Frederick King and Marie Queenie are versatile comedy artists; and Billy Hobbs is a coon impersonator.

Grand.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. E. Foster; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Lucas.—La Tortajada is paying a welcome return visit; Daisy Dormer is proving a wonderful favourite after her big success in pantomime, and sings and dances with charming effect; L'Incognita, the masked soprano singer, pleases audiences with her remarkable vocal accomplishments; Barton and Ashley cause roars of laughter in an American comedy sketch, Canal Boat Sal; Emma Don and company present a clever scena, laid on the Thames embankment; Lawley and Gallifant appear in a pretty musical comedietta; the Delevines are amusing in their comedy act, "Flipp, Flopp"; Rhoda Paul is a great favourite; and Naughton and Gold present some good Scotch humour.

Gaiety.—General-Manager, Mr. Albert Bushell.—A scenic pantomime novelty, entitled A Piece of Dresden China, presented by Howard and Collinson company, is an effective feature of this week's programme, and is accorded hearty appreciation; Seener and Fridkin's troupe of Russian singers and dancers are also popular contributors, and they are a talented combination; Maud Lordys introduces a troupe of trained dogs, who display great cleverness in a little canine drama; the Four Netherlands are singers and dancers of unusual merit; Harry Conlin, a local pantomime favourite, has a big reception; Sterling and Lowe give a pleasing vocal act; Blair and Allen are capable vocalists and dancers; Frank E. Ford is a smart dancer; Neville Delmar is an up to date comedian; and Jenny Wood, comedienne, is also well received.

Hippodrome. — Proprietors, Barrasford's, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. P. D. Elborne; Assistant-Manager, Mr. C. Baldry.—A romantic sketch entitled The Last of the Desmonds arouses the interest of audiences to a high pitch, Miss E. Thornton and Mr Phil Herman being responsible for some very clever acting; the El Tampico quartette of Mexican Troubadours are a great attraction, and appear in a charming and tuneful entertainment, in which singing and dancing play a prominent part; Paul Couchas is a muscular equilibrist who performs astonishing feats with consummate ease; Francini, Olloms, and Page are an exceedingly clever pair in knockabout musical business; the Three Orleans are talented singers and step dancers; the Six White Boys are a popular and gifted combination; and the Waltons, Chinese acrobats; and Evelyn Taylor, comedian, also earn well-deserved applause.

Aston Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Aston Hippodrome, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. T. H. Middleton.—The chief feature of a good bill is a dramatic sketch, The Bellringer, which is effectively produced by Albert Sember and company. Mr. Sember's acting of the leading part evokes enthusiasm. The Whittington Trio keep audiences in continual merriment with their acrobatic absurdity; the Carina Sisters have a big reception in a refined musical act; the Sivronis are popular burlesques; Lieutenant Travis is a ventriloquist of unusual merit; May Raymond is a captivating vocalist; L. J. Seymour is an entertaining comedian; Milner and Storey are a talented couple; and Dolly Goldin is a pleasing dancer.

King's Hall.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. J. P. Moore and B. Kennedy.—Patrons are thoroughly enjoying a splendid programme, arranged with the usual completeness of the management. The chief dramatic pictures are entitled A Tale of the West and A Chase for Wealth, both of which arouse intense interest. The humorous subjects are well chosen, and provoke hearty laughter. Lomas, the man-monkey, gives a clever turn on the rope and swinging pole; Maud Ethelda is a popular vocalist and dancer; and the Mays are clever burlesque duettists.

Queen's Hall.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. B. Kennedy and J. P. Moore.—A striking picture of Roman history, entitled Nero, is attracting great attention. Popular vaudeville contributors are Hermann and Evelyn, acrobats on the slack wire, and Clowe Harley, ventriloquist.

BISHOP AUCKLAND. — Hippodrome. — Proprietors, The Hippodrome, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Signor Pepi.—Two packed houses marked the opening on Monday night. Perci Honri and his talented company are prominent, in their wonderful production, Concordia. Mr. Honri was in fine voice, and his songs and concertina solos were admirably rendered. Mlle. Quetta Papucci's charming dances are very effective. Messrs. W. Ellis and company give a very amusing sketch, The Sleepwalker; and Mr. W. G. Walber is a refined bass vocalist. The Reays have a smart weight-lifting act; and an exciting scena is provided by the Ashley Brothers in their boxing turn. The Three Sisters Dixon are very convincing in their bâton-swinging, banjo, and dancing act; and an interesting film showing Perci Honri's dressing-room was supplied by the Hopposcope.

Eden Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. R. Addison, Ltd.; Business-Manager, Mr. J. Huntley.—Mr. C. Watson Mill's company is on a return visit, in A Wrecker of Men. Mr. Arthur S. Pitt gives a masterly portrayal of Jim Morley; and Mr. Tom Bowron is in his right place as Guise Strange. Mr. W. Pallister Acock depicts the Hon. Reggie Verincourt in excellent style; and the Ishma of Mr. Henry M. Mecrees has the desired effect. Miss Ruth Zillwood is a fascinating Risca Mallinson; and a charming Doris Melville is that of Miss Gwendoline Talbot. Miss Gertrude Camp is a clever Marion Isaacs; and Vavasole Slopper is pleasingly carried out by Miss Lydia Hart. The scenery is good.

Makes the Skin as Soft as Velvet.—Beetham's "LAROLA" Preserves the Skin from the effects of Frost, Winds, and Hard Water. Entirely removes and prevents all Roughness, Redness, Irritations, Chaps, &c., and Keeps the Skin Soft, Smooth, and White at All Seasons. Invaluable for the Complexion, Delightfully Cooling and Refreshing, after Golfing, Cycling, Motoring, Dancing, Tennis, &c. Gentlemen will find it wonderfully Soothing if applied after Shaving. Bottles, 1s. 1s. 9d., and 2s. 6d. each, of all Chemists and Stores. M. Beetham and Son, Cheltenham. —[Advt.]

BLACKBURN.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Proprietors, Royal and Hippodrome Co.; Governing-Director, Mr. Harry Yorke; Manager, Mr. Reginald Yorke.—Miss Florence Baines and company, in Miss Lancashire, Limited, are here. Miss Baines, who is a local lady, as Mary Ellen is a huge success; and Captain Gerald Gambier as John Higgins, Mr. Sinclair Holden as Harry, and Miss Mary as Bertha all share in the success.

Palace Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Will Murray.—Miss Clarice Mayne's impersonations of well-known singers and her own numbers are delightful; Gillin is a clever ventriloquist; and the Zampas are talented bâton-jugglers. The Maximilian Trio of comedy equilibrists make a favourable impression; and Fyne and Hurley, "the coster and the dude," take as well as formerly. Will Rhodes has some clever parody songs. Chas. Gardner, comedian, also adds to the attractions.

BLACKPOOL.—Her Majesty's Opera House.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—Are You a Mason? once again forms the attraction here, and Mr. Charles Frohman's company is to be congratulated on a very successful performance of this amusing comedy. Mr. William Lockhart gives a good account of Amos Bloodgood; whilst George Fisher and Frank Perry are handled with credit and distinction by Mr. Archie Selwyn and Mr. Howard L. Tracy respectively; Miss Agnes Maude gives a capital portrayal of Mrs. Bloodgood; and the daughters are very charmingly impersonated by Misses Grace Denbeigh-Russell, Edna Godfrey-Turner, and Lilian Gabriel. My Lady Help serves as a curtain-raiser, and this is followed by the Vampire Dance, cleverly executed by Miss Alice Lyal and Mr. Eric Bert.

Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—The excellent and well-varied programme provided here this week is attracting big audiences. Pasquali Bros. are marvellous tumblers; Harry Weldon is a favourite comedian; Mona Vivian sings and dances well; Lennie and Hast provide a capital sketch; Ernest Tilbury is a good tenor vocalist; Tom Gott is a Yorkshire comedian; and the Two Errols provide a comedy and leaping act.

BOOTLE. — Muncaster Theatre. — Proprietors, Messrs. Penningtons; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot; Manager, Mr. H. Young.—Mr. Stanley S. Gordon and Miss Nina Vaughton, with their company, pay a welcome return visit to the Muncaster with The Boom of Big Ben. Miss Nina Vaughton makes a charming Marjorie Galloway; whilst Mr. Stanley S. Gordon fulfils his part of Tom Battleby in his own inimitable style. Mr. Gordon is ably assisted by his company, and the principal characters are played by Mr. H. Hesslegrave as Capt. Jo Galloway, Mr. J. Campbell as Gilbert Galloway, Mr. M. Nugent as Tony Preble, Mr. C. Hunter as Danby Wisk, Miss Louie Heathfield as Olive Lorette, Miss Kate Fisher as Lottie Leverette, and Miss Sassie Evelyn as Judith Galloway.

BOSCOMBE.—Hippodrome, Ltd.—Joint-Managing-Directors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. H. Burdett.—The great ventriloquist Coram, with his inseparable friend Jerry, is exceedingly good, and receives great applause; the Borghetti Troupe, in a series of marvellously sensational acrobatic feats, are keenly watched, and receive hearty applause; Palles and Cussick are extremely funny in their comedy act The Funny Side of Life, introducing their great burlesque boxing act; Flora Cromer, the celebrated contralto comedienne, also receives a good round of applause; the Stavordale Quintette are much appreciated for their banjo and harp speciality, introducing their marvellous imitations of the human voice. Dolby and Madge McCalla also are very interesting in song, story, and dance; Zellini, comedy juggler is funny and causes much laughter; and the Up-to-date pictures conclude.

BOURNEMOUTH. — Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. David Allen and Sons; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Herbert Dunbar.—With an excellent company and fine scenery The Proud Prince opened here on Monday night, and played with great success to an appreciative house. Mr. E. Vassell-Vaughan has the difficult part of the King of Sicily, which he handles with great ability; Miss Eileen Kerin presents a fine performance of Perpetua; Count Hildebrand is in the very capable hands of Mr. Fredk. Sergent; Miss Vashti-Wynne is to be congratulated on her clever representation of Lysabetta. Other parts which contribute to the success are those of Mr. Chas. Boult as the Archbishop, Mr. Frank Ward as Diogenes, Mr. Terence O'Brien as Thereon, and the Misses Georgina Milne and Miss Doris Reynolds as Court Ladies.

BRADFORD.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—The usual hearty demonstrations marked the final performance of Mr. Hart's highly-successful pantomime Jack and the Beanstalk on Saturday evening last, the crowded and enthusiastic audience joined in the songs, lovely bouquets in profusion were handed over the footlights to the principal ladies of the company, boxes of chocolates and money were showered upon the children, and to the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" the curtain fell. On Monday night the D'Oyly Carte principal répertoire company commenced the regular dramatic season with The Mikado. There was a large audience, and a very cordial reception greeted the performance of the opera. Once again Mr. Fred Billington afforded great pleasure as Pooh-Bah, and in the title-rôle Mr. Leicester Tunks scored a genuine success. Mr. Henry A. Lytton was a delightful Ko-Ko; very charmingly Mr. Arthur Rousby sang and filled the part of Yum-Yum; Miss Beatrice Boarer played Pitti-Sing delightfully; and Miss Bertha Lewis was really excellent as Katisha. Iolanthe was the opera on Tuesday night, and Patience, The Gondoliers, and The Yeomen of the Guard are billed for representation during the week.

Prince's Theatre.—Lessee, Councillor F. Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. M. Hamilton.—The nine weeks' uninterrupted successful run of Mr. Laidler's excellent pantomime The Forty Thieves terminated on Saturday night last, amidst great enthusiasm. The hilarity was remarkable, and the applause which greeted the principals was very great, the gifts were numerous and charming, and Mr. Chis. Le Brun, who trained the clever children in the pantomime, was the recipient of a special mark of favour at the hands of the juveniles. Monday night saw the beginning of the dramatic season, with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Draycott's company in the stirring drama Her Path of Sorrow, which was well received. Mr. Draycott gives a capital performance of the part of the young farmer Richard Burfield, and Mr. Frank Eaglesfield plays the villain Guy Lowther with effect. Mrs. Draycott as Pauline Ferrars acts with intense feeling; the betrayed Nellie Rayne affords Miss Fay Garnet Vayne fine opportunities, of which she takes excellent advantage; as Lucille, a French maid, Miss Nellie Freeland is bright; adequate support is also given by Miss Polly Green, Mr. F. Etheridge, Mr. T. Balfour, Mr. C. Reyne, and Mr. Will Hook; and the play is finely staged.

The Empire. — Moss Empires, Ltd.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig. — The Wonderful Lukashimas, Japanese equilibrists and acrobats, contribute a performance of remarkable skill and excellence; the Three Van Dammes, in a grotesque acrobatic display, are clever, humorous, and agile; Gower Belling, with his singing donkey and other animals, presents a droll performance which keeps the audience in roars of hearty laughter; Miss Ada Colley, the Australian Nightingale, possesses a voice of remarkable range and power, and her vocalism is much applauded; Fred Elton at the piano is very entertaining; Harry Bedford's character comedy is excellent; there is much humour in Tom Lloyd's well-rendered songs; and some interesting pictures are shown by the Bioscope.

The Palace.—Lessee, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. E. Harrison.—Mlle. Leoni de Lausanne, a very remarkable rifle shot, is astonishing the audiences here with her skill and daring feats; Lennard and Vereker's pictorial songs are received with favour; Beattie Foster is a bright comedienne; capital comic songs are rendered by Wallace Whitney and by C. D. Reekie; the comedy tumbling by the Unites is clever and amusing; Mabel Thorne, comedienne, contributes with much success; an amusing burlesque of drama and opera by Blake and Amber (Winfield and Maude) elicits laughter; and the Palace Perfection pictures are a source of interest.

BRIGHOUSE. — Albert Theatre. — Proprietors, the Albert Hall Co., Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Martin Manley.—This week at this popular playhouse we are having a welcome return visit of Miss Mary Austin, E. V. Edmonds, and company in The Cotton Spinner. Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds gives an excellent character study of John Prescott, the cotton spinner; Mr. William Manning makes an aristocratic and dignified Lord Northbury; Arthur Northbury is ably sustained by Mr. George Porteous; Mr. W. H. Dewhirst is excellent as Major Stratton; Mr. Frank Stanley gives an artistic performance as Foster Cunningham; Miss Mary Austin holds the chief place of honour in her excellent study of Mary Prescott, her acting throughout being particularly fine; Miss Ethel Vinroy is an excellent Constance Harrington; and Miss Belle Tower an amusing Lady Charlotte Needy.

BRIGHTON. — Grand Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Gates; General-Manager, Mr. Ben Court.—A company under the direction of Mr. George Kirk opened here on Monday with From Shop Girl to Duchess. Miss Mary Neil gave a very artistic representation of the shop girl, Sylvia Grey; Mr. Hugh Carmichael submitted an excellent impersonation of Arnold Vivian, Duke of Baynum; Mr. T. Lionel Ellis was well suited as Sir Morris Maitland; and admirable enactments were submitted by Miss Georgie Haddrick (Dowager Duchess of Baynum), Miss Ella Vane (Lady Delamere), Miss Daisy Carr (Countess of Normantowers), and Miss Louie Hale-Davise (Lady Portcullis); and much amusement was afforded by Miss Lizzie Chambers as Tilly Dobson and Mr. Will Smith as Tommy Tinkler.

Alhambra. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Alfred Smith; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Smith.—Miss Alice Hoodless appears in a series of tableaux representative of masterpieces by English painters, and wins very hearty applause; Parks and Price give a much-appreciated musical performance; the Three Trees are charming singers and dancers; Thomas Brooklyn and company are highly diverting in the farcical sketch, Algy's Advertisement; Felix and Fisher, smart gymnasts and dancers, provide an abundance of fun; J. C. Laurie is a pleasing comedian; Lilian French is a capital comedienne and dancer; Mabel and Rosa dance themselves into favour; Fred Lester is a good comedian; and Alec Lawson, comedy acrobat, is well received.

Barrasford's Hippodrome.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Bertram J. Brown.—The Five X Rays, "the mad athletes," are very novel and smart tumblers; Alexandre and Hughes are capital patterers and performers on the concertina; Mr. C is very entertaining with song and talk; Edie Veno, comedienne, evokes hearty applause with her eccentricities; Amy Clevere is a charming comedienne and dancer; Chris Richards is a quaint comedian; Maud Courtney is a smart American comedienne; Iris Fox is well received in her latest successes; Ben Albert is a very droll comedian; Mooney and Holbein, the "advanced vaudevillians," are humorous and clever; Bert Coote, J. C. Aubrey, and Ada Russell are highly successful in the Stock Exchange sketch, A Lamb on Wall Street; the Paolias display feats of strength; and Professor Welsen is a smart gymnast and equilibrist on the Swedish bar.

West Pier.—Secretary, Mr. A. W. Scholey.—Messrs. H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's company is here with Leah Kleschna. Mr. William Clayton gives a masterly impersonation of Kleschna; Mr. Charles Barrett's Paul Sylvaine merits high praise; Miss Bessie Rignold submits a very artistic enactment of Leah Kleschna; Mr. Algernon J. Hicks displays finished acting as Raoul Berton; Mr. Graham Pockett is an admirable Schram; and Mr. Edgar J. Coyne is successful in the two rôles of General Berton and Valentine Favre; while satisfactory support is rendered by Miss Ethel Russell (Madame Berton) and Miss Emmie Wallace (Clare Berton).

BRISTOL.—Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—Mother Hubbard is still packing the house at each performance. Mr. Horace Mills, the popular Mother Hubbard, was to have a benefit on Friday evening, for which special attractions were announced. Mr. G. H. Elliott has a benefit on Tuesday, the 8th inst.

Theatre Royal.—Lessees, Carpenter's Theatres, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. C. Alty. — Miss Kitty Upton and Miss Blanche Marian, the popular Robinson Crusoe and Polly Hopkins of this pantomime, had a joint benefit on Tuesday evening last, when the house was packed with a very enthusiastic audience. There were many extra attractions, including Mr. G. H. Elliott, who sang "I used to sigh for the silvery moon"; Mr. K. Scott-Barry, from the London Lyceum, who gave "Berlin" and "Call round any odd time"; Miss Elsie La Barte, who sang "Mr. Schneider" and "Dutch Dame"; Mr. Frank Dunlop, with a humorous recitation; and Miss Violet Maude, from the Prince's, sang the popular "Thora." Miss Upton and Miss Marian both sang additional songs, and were presented with numerous floral offerings.

Palace.—Local Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Assistant-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—Harry P. Selwyn's company is here with the military episode The Flood Tide. Real horses are introduced, and the sketch is well staged in three scenes. S. W. Wyndham and Horace Wyatt amuse with "The Professor and His Pupil"; Wisbart, illusionist, scores with his sensational escape from the "Giant Bottle" and his "Double Box"; the Five Vernons, xylophone artists, present a fine turn; Barnes and West score with their American dancing novelty; Hardy Palm, comedian, is successful; Marie Williams and Teddy Miles do well as comedy duettists; and animated pictures conclude. Thursday's matinée performance was for the benefit of the Marine Ambulance, extra atractions being announced.

Empire. — Managing-Director, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sid Macaire.—Tschin Maa and his band of Chunchuse mountebanks, magicians, and jugglers present a very fine performance; Les Xentrix, in their scena, "The Garden of Terpsichore," do some very clever and attractive speciality dancing; Vigoranto Trio are skilful gymnasts; Goodall and Knox amuse as burlesque comedians; Dome, clay modeller, is appreciated; Nora Guy is a pleasing comedienne; and Nellie Coleman scores with her comedy act. Interesting animated pictures conclude.

BROUGHTON.—Victoria Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. James Cramer; Manager, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—Another Man's Wife is presented here by Fred Granville's Productions, Ltd., and the excellent performance was closely followed with interest by a large audience on Monday. Mr. Stanley Radcliffe is excellent as Carlos; Miss Ruby Loucraine is well suited as the sorely-tried wife, Lucie De Vergas; the villain, Paul Bernstoff, is vigorously played by Mr. Alfred D. Adams; Miss Lillian Radbourne makes the most of her opportunities as Inez de Castro; and much fun is caused by Mr. Willie Reid as Sam Smiles, Mr. Leonard Marshall as Andy, and Miss Marion Mayne as Tibby. Mr. Geoffrey Sutherland successfully presents the doctor, Gilbert Eardsley. Colonel Matterson and Maisie Matterson are excellent Yankee studies by Mr. Edwin Davies and Miss Hilda Brewster; little Miss Phyllis Spalding is a clever Lucy; and Mr. Fred Forde (Count Pallikoff) and Mr. Wm. Diary (Wilson) also do their short work well.

BURNLEY.—Victoria Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner. — Mr. T. N. Walters's company makes its appearance here in a musical comedy, The Flower Girl. The excellent vocal efforts of Miss Lena Brickwell bring forth much applause, and the Joe Wheeler of Mr. John T. MacCallum is brimful of sparkling fun. Mr. Henry Adnes as Alphonse is very droll. Good songs are contributed by Mr. J. Burlington Rigg as the Hon. Billy, and Mr. Cyril Delevanti is excellent as Reginald. Miss Eva Brickwell is also pleasing as the Saffragette, and other rôles are well played.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—Big crowds are attracted here, the head of the bill being occupied by Tom Costello, who alternates grave and gay in song with effect. Plenty of fun is obtained from the turn of Emil Solbrig and company in a collection of pantomimical novelties. The Lewin Martel Duo are loudly applauded for excellent xylophone duets, and Lister Reekil evokes much laughter with the zodiac. Florence Kennedy, soprano, sings very sweetly, and Alice Winsome, comedienne, is good. Stuart and Evans are highly diverting, and the Empire Theatrescope concludes with "Diver-sions."

Palace Theatre and Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. R. Badcoe.—A series of clever illusions are presented here by Yanger, who is received with popular approval; Lew Lake's Six Buster Browns, in an American vaudeville entertainment, are a pleasing turn; and Wet Paint is the subject of much fun at the hands of Margit and Lener. Les Montaldos are smart equilibrists and introduce some highly-trained parrots and cockatoos. Johnny Dwyer, comedian, proves successful in a couple of original songs, and Bonnetti and Corri afford considerable amusement in comic jugglery. Dorma Morgan, comedienne, and Baker and De Sales, pavement patterers, are excellent turns. The Palace pictures conclude.

BURTON-ON-TRENT. — Opera House. — Proprietors, Messrs. Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edc Hague Body.—Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Levy and Mr. J. E. Cardwell's company is here with The House that Jack Built. Miss Daisy Wood is an ideal Jack, singing in good style and working hard throughout; Jill finds a clever little representative in Miss Dolly Dodds, whose sweet voice soon wins favour; Miss Isa Wilson (Fairy Twinklestar) also does well. A good set of comedians are to be found in Messrs. Doyle and Gibson, Mr. J. H. Hamm, Paddy Sloan, Messrs. Walker and Lake, and Mr. J. Harrison, who keep the house in a continuous roar. Other parts are nicely played by Little Chip (Wee McGregor), Mr. H. Hilderby (Squire Bounce), Miss Hetty Jones (Colin), and Miss Jenny Marsden (Gretchen). The dressing and mounting are first rate, and a good chorus under the bâton of Mr. J. W. Johnson adds considerably to the success attained.

BURY (Lancs).—Royal.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Assistant Acting-Manager, Mr. H. H. Potter.—Our Miss Gibbs is proving a big success, presented by Mr. George Dance's principal company. Miss Kathleen Courtney has a natural charm which enables her to make of Mary Gibbs a captivating and delightful character. The Hon. Hughie is cleverly impersonated by Mr. Tom Shelford; Mr. Ernest Darrell is a dignified Earl of St. Ives; Mr. J. E. Stevenson makes a clever study of Slithers; and Mr. Crawford Kent is prominent as Lord Eynsford, his fine baritone voice being heard to distinct advantage. As Timothy Gibbs Mr. Theodore Leonard is particularly well placed, and proves a comedian full of resource, merriment being continuous during the time he is on the stage. Miss Nancy Hervyn gives an artistic representation of Madame Jeanne, her French accent being decidedly good. Miss Gladys Ivery is a sparkling Lady Elizabeth Thanet, and some good work is done by Miss Winifred Knightly. Others who appear to advantage are Mr. R. M. Strachan as Mr. Toplady; Mr. Murray Stephen as Mr. Amalfy; and Miss Jennie Richards as the impecunious Lady Farquhar. Mr. Cecil Klein is the manager for Mr. Dance, and the orchestra is under the direction of Mr. Otto Manns.

Circus of Varieties.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Assistant Acting-Manager, Mr. H. H. Potter.—Pictures still hold sway with every success. Bert Woodward is a clever coon trick cyclist; and Gertrude Blanche, an able vocalist and dancer.

Hippodrome. — Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident-Manager, Mr. Thomas Baker.—Tom E. Finglass, the "Cowboy Coon," meets with a flattering reception, his songs being artistically rendered; Spry and Bentley appear in a dramatic episode; Sidney Bandon, in a representation of "Matthias," is clever; Bonnie Goodwin's Apollo Piccaninnies create considerable amusement with their dancing; and Wash. W. Evans presents a miniature musical comedy, into which some good singing and dancing is introduced, entitled Paradise Alley. Pictures on the Bioscope complete a good bill.

CAMBRIDGE. — New Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.—Mr. Chas. Windermere, in the farcical comedy Where Is William? opened here on Monday. Mr. Windermere, the author of the piece, also enacts the principal character, which is certainly amusing; Mr. Leslie Norman is a satisfactory General Rubbub; Mr. Rule Pyott as the Butler William Jolley is good; Mr. F. Westlake is an excellent Joe Budge; Mr. Wylie A. Thompson and Miss Clare Mansfield gave capital impersonations of the lovers, Harry and Phyllis; Miss Belle Donaldson is a natural Lady Gregory; Miss Zoe Davis, an amusing Eliza; and Miss Evelyn Shelley a cheery Emily.

CARDIFF.—New Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—A Country Girl, on a return visit, is well presented by Messrs. Dudley Bennett and T. C. Wray's company. A charming and tuneful rendition of Marjorie Joy is given by Miss Dorothy Arliss; Miss Anna Hickish as Nan is a host in herself, her Devonshire dialect being cleverly assumed; Mr. Coningsby Brierley acts and sings with characteristic energy and resource, and takes full advantage of the many opportunities for humour in the part of Barry; Mr. Nelson Hancock is a smart and dashing officer as Geoffrey Challoner; Mr. Percy Everard as Sir Joseph Verity gives a capital delineation of the jovial country Squire; and Mr. Joseph Bruce enacts the Rajah of Bhong to perfection. Sophie has a vivacious exponent in Miss Addie Leonnard, and Miss Myfanwy Newell sings with much expression, and acts ably as Princess Melaneh. The chorus is well balanced, and the ladies display their beautiful gowns to much advantage.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Taylor.—Whit Cunliffe is one of Cardiff's greatest favourites, and on Monday night his songs further enhanced his popularity; Mlle. Irma Lorraine, in her classical living statuary, has created a sensation; as clever acrobats the Barowskys are deserving of high commendation; a pleasing musical comedy mélange is presented by the Courtiers (under the direction of Paul Mill); Reichen's Dogs are among the most interesting and highly-trained of canine performers, and show marvellous sagacity. The dual dancing of the Sisters Storm well merits the approbation accorded them. Barrington, musical genius at the piano, Adey Spencer, comedienne and dancer, Kisbey, clever patter comedian, and the Bioscope conclude a varied programme.

Theatre Royal.—General-Manager, Mr. Graham Morrison; Assistant Manager, Mr. S. E. Clay.—Mr. Harry Foxwell's company appear with great success in Mother, a pretty domestic play staged with considerable care. Mr. J. O. Stewart is seen in the important rôle of Duncan Fairweather, and the part could not be in better hands; as the sailor hero Frank English, Mr. A. J. Haviland is distinctly good; while the villainies of Stephen Carrington receive careful treatment at the hands of Mr. Reginald Brown. Miss Grace Jones, in the sympathetic character of Nellie Fairweather, submits a clever delineation, and Miss Phillis Vaughan as Vesta L'Estrange is another who also deserves praise.

Palace and Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Will A. Jackson.—The pièce de résistance here is a short representation of East Lynne, by Mr. Frederic Baugh's company, of which Mr. Brien McCullough, Mr. Sanderson Moffat, Mr. W. S. Hartford, and Miss Edith Lewis are prominent members. Leo and Roland, novelty equilibrists, introduce their sensational ladder feat with conspicuous success; a capital musical speciality act is given by Virto; Rooke, Rorke, and company prove a great attraction in a farcical burletta entitled The Prince's Love Affair; while others who add to the success of the bill are Ben Richards, baritone vocalist; Reg Ewen, light comedian; and Minnie Wheaton, comedienne.

CARLISLE.—Her Majesty's Theatre.—Lessees, Mr. Thos. Courtice and Mrs. R. Stewart M'Kim; Manager, Mr. Thos. Courtice.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hinton and Travis Green are presenting Her Fatal Wedding. The company is a strong one, and the staging remarkably effective. In the heavy rôle Mr. Jerrold Heather is a marked success; Mr. Colin Heather gave a quite impressive sketch of a rural parson; Mr. Gerald Byrne's impersonation of the half-witted Paul was well conceived and convincingly played; Mr. Walter A. Ohetham's detective was smart—in fact, much above the typical stage type; as the heroine Miss Hilda Shirley gave an interesting and sympathetic portrayal of a by no means easy character; Mr. Wilton Dury and Miss Ivy Ross were responsible for most of the comedy scenes, and caused no end of laughter; Miss Laura Wright, Mr. G. Mortimer Hancock, and Mr. Sam Edwards also contributed creditable performances.

CASTLEFORD.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr. Chas. Gadsby; Business-Manager, Councillor Hy. Masterman, J.P.—A capital company brought by Mr. C. Watson Mill are entertaining audiences here with For Love and the King. Mr. C. Watson excels as Gerald Meredith, effectively overcoming all the obstacles of an exacting rôle. Miss Rosalind Tate gives a convincing and well-drawn study of Edith Meredith. Mr. Alfred Maurice deservedly merits praise for the clever manner in which he plays Michael Obrenovic. Mr. Fred. J. Webb makes a gentlemanly villain as Valdimir Obrenovic. Mr. Stanley Weston is most satisfactory as King Kara. Mr. Geoffrey Chate infuses much humour into the part of Duke Fernand. Mr. F. K. Wicksteed renders excellent service in his impersonation of Prince Uros Dragomir; and Mr. Oscar Power as Carl Oppenheim keeps the house in roars of laughter. Miss Joan Ellis makes a pathetic and convincing figure of Natila, while as Grazia Miss Marie Danvers Smith is distinctly attractive. Kosto Marko has a successful exponent in Mr. Mat Stone; Mr. Jack Litchfield makes a capital Vitimor Ladis; and Mr. Geo. Jones does well as Captain Krello.

CHATHAM.—Barnard's Palace of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. L. B. Barnard.—The Poluskis top the bill, and cause continual merriment; Geo. Rapley patters to everyone's delight; Gladys Revell contributes a well-liked chorus song; Grant and Stewart mystify and amuse with their comedy of illusions, entitled Phantoms of the Wood; Charles Geoffrey and company arouse enthusiasm with their sketch, The Boy Scout; and also appearing are Carney Brothers, duettists; and the Hulls, in their musical act. Lacey's Erascope interests with a series of films, including Leather Stocking.

CHESTER. — Royalty Theatre — Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—Cultured and serious playgoers are indebted to the management for the opportunity to witness Jerome's thought-compelling play, The Passing of the Third Floor Back. In the principal rôle Mr. Ian Robertson proved himself a consummate master of histrionic art; Miss Helena Parsons as the Slavey deserves the highest praise for sympathetic characterisation; and Miss Barbara Everest as Vivian is an actress of great emotional powers and mental adaptability. The remaining characters were all admirably sustained by Miss Jeannie Thomas, Miss Drusilla Wills, Miss Lena Delphine, Miss Blanche Ripley, Mr. Gedge Twyman, Mr. W. O. Billington, Mr. J. Woodhall-Birde, Mr. Stanley Brown, and Mr. Herbert Garthorne. Mr. Ian Robertson's pretty curtain-raiser Come Here is acted with artistic finish.

CHORLEY.—Grand Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. G. T. Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edgar Dereve. —Mr. and Mrs. John Walters' pantomime Robinson Crusoe was enthusiastically received on Monday, fine scenery and beautiful dresses greatly enhancing the production. As Robinson Crusoe Miss Violet Thorne at once won popularity, and Polly Perkins in the hands of Miss Kittie Liske was charmingly rendered, Miss Florence Parkinson capitally undertaking Mid comedienne; Gladys Nelson, child mimic; and Ruby Norton, comedienne.

DARLINGTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Bell.—Mr. Seymour Hicks's company, in The Gay Gordons is playing here to full houses. Mr. William Greene as Angus Græme gives an excellent performance; Clarice Lockstone is a dainty and sweet Peggy Quainton; Edward Carlton is good as Nervy Nat; Mr. W. H. Desmond as Edmund Siddons is capital; Miss Tessa D'Alberti shows well as Mary McLeod; Miss Violet Morene as Lady Milicent plays with zeal.

HIPPODROME THEATRES, LTD.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert E. Nicholls.—A good bill is topped by Mr. Harry P. Selwyn's company, in a dramatic episode, entitled 33 to 1 Chance, which is full of go, and pleases everybody; the Three Pirmans in their gymnastic act, score; and other good turns are the Cheers, with performing cats; Harry Morris, comedian; Drum and Major, comedy artists; Maisie Dene, dancing expert; and Blanche and Powill, society entertainers, together with the Hipposcope, with new pictures.

DARWEN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, The Animated Pictorial Enterprises, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. G. E. Burnett.—Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Levy and Mr. J. E. Cardwell's pantomime The Babes in the Wood is here. Little Peggy McDonnell and Cissy Wyse establish themselves favourites as the Babes; Miss Marie Lumberg is a fine dashing Robin Hood; and Miss Winifred Norman a winsome Maid Marion. Miss May Curtis sings well as Fairy Dewdrop; Phyllis, Dolly Warden, Little John, and Allen-a-Dale are parts well filled by Misses M. Rafferty, Annie Brumby, Flo Taylor, and Eva Hopps respectively. Mr. Neil Hardy is a capital Baron; Mr. Jimmie Watson a comical Nurse; and much fun is produced by Messrs. Graham and Barron as Willing and Weary, assisted by Mr. Harry Tullett as the Miller and Mr. A. Hutchison as Friar Tuck.

DERBY.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Bert Dent.—Mr. Charles Constant's company is presenting Florodora. As Professor Tweedlepunch Mr. Arthur Lenville, a comedian of great capabilities, scores all through, and his impersonation is highly appreciated; Miss Daisy Lake as Dolores is to be heartily commended, and the various numbers allotted to her are sung in a very pleasing manner; Miss Kate Lester's Lady Holyrood is a clever assumption throughout; and Miss Josephine Ellis as Angela Gilfain sings and dances very prettily. As Frank Abercoed Mr. Robert Hine does well, and his fine voice gains him hearty approval; Mr. Jos. R. Tate gives a good portrayal of Cyrus Gilfain, and the same may be said of Mr. Johnnie Junior as Captain Donegal, whose Apache Dance with Miss Josephine Ellis is one of the features of the performance. Mr. Jack Parker is capital as Leandro.

PALACE.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Moyes. —A Society Woman is submitted by Allan Holt and an excellent company, whose efforts meet with well-merited success. Walter Stanley, with clever song parodies, fully maintains his reputation; Stidder and Dunbar are a musical comedy duo of great ability; Pat Lynch is a remarkably neat dancer; the Nicholsons, comedy artists, are both amusing and up to date; Clivetto gains deserved applause for smart juggling feats; and Radie Stuart is a bright comedienne with a budget of catchy and tuneful songs. The Bioscope pictures are, as usual, of good variety.

DEVONPORT.—METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. G. S. King.—Mr. Walter Melville's company, in A Girl's Cross Roads, is drawing splendid houses to the Met. during the week. Miss Ethel Griffies gives a wonderful, and at the same time touching, representation of the young bride who takes to drink, the delirium tremens scene being splendidly done; Mr. Norman Cannon works hard as Jack Livingstone; Mr. Harry Cane is a great success as Farmer John Meadows; Mr. Fred Hodson is a born comedian as Toby Turvey; and Miss Muriel Dean is an attractive Constance Correll.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. Herbert Taylor.—Mr. Powis Pender's company, in The Revellers, gives an excellent musical comedy number, the principal contributors being Mr. Pinder, who is the possessor of a cultured baritone voice; Miss Ruth Thorp, a pleasing soprano; and Miss Dorothy Frostick, a dancer of undeniable ability. Some wonderful feats of strength are performed by the Three Torontos, who are fine specimens of manhood, two of the trio lifting fourteen men with their legs; Judge's performing cockatoos, parrots, and macaws provide a very entertaining number, the birds performing a number of tricks, bearing striking testimony to the patience of their trainers; Doughty and Laney are responsible for a clever little sketch, entitled A Woman's Way, which receives much flattering appreciation; Archie Glen has a down-to-date song dealing with the boy scout movement, whilst his patter is first-class; Russell Brandon, described as the "Brownie in Brown," displays wonderful dancing ability; and Vera Rochdale is also a skilful performer in the same department.

DEWSBURY.—EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. G. W. and G. E. Smith; Manager, Mr. Claude Shayler.—The bill is headed by Mr. Charles Prelles' Bijou Circus, which is a unique example of skill in animal training; Mendel, the blind pianist, delights everybody with his wonderful playing; G. W. Blythe's musical scena The Toilers evokes rounds of applause; the singing of Miss Nellie Brierley, the possessor of a wonderful soprano voice, is greatly appreciated; Selby and Myers, patterers and simultaneous dancers, are highly successful; Jennie Hartley contributes lively songs and dances; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Meymott, in a sketch Semi-detached, are very successful; Master Geo. Doonan, comedian and dancer, is very smart; Geo. Hall is a good light comedian and whistles cleverly; Annie Lang, comedienne and dancer, and a display of animated pictures complete.

HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. Weldon.—At the head of the bill here are the Newmans, who perform remarkably clever feats on cycles and unicycles; Bennett and Stirling are much applauded for their singing, dancing, and xylophone playing; Tom E. Dean, described as "the evening shadow," evokes much laughter; Carlotta Wood, chorus singer, goes very well; Leigh and Lawrie keep the audience mirthful in their absurdity Bohemian Knights; Evelyn Geldard, versatile artist and entertainer, pleases everybody; Fred Horsfall, comedian, is a very acceptable turn; and Marjorie Lawrence sings and dances very well. The Bioscope is as popular as ever.

DONCASTER.—NEW GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LTD.—Manager, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—The Girl Who Took the Wrong Turning is well received here. The fine manly bearing of Mr. F. Ronald Adair is well suited to the rôle of Willie Mason; Bill Slater is effectively played by Mr. John Brooks; a particularly good embodiment of Jack Fenton is submitted by Mr. Charles Ashwell; James Harcourt receives artistic treatment from Mr. William T. Riley; Miss Florence Halton enacts Lucy Coventry with womanly charm; and the titular rôle, as assumed by Miss Jessie Belmore, is full of human interest.

DOVER.—ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Atlas and Vulcana, with the Sisters Atlas and Little Gus, the society athletes, are the principal attraction; the performance is extremely interesting, and is enthusiastically received. Miss Gertrude Bibby, the clever quick-change artist, appears in a sketch, Bonnie Prince Charlie, all the characters being impersonated by herself; Vera Wootton is an irresistible comedienne; the Four Zodiacs are warmly received for their fine dancing speciality; and Tom Jones is a popular favourite in Welsh songs and humour. Billy Rex and Harry Knox are also very amusing. A fine series of pictures conclude.

DUBLIN.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frederick Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Hyland.—This week we have here Under Two Flags, put forward by Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow. The vivandière is exceedingly well portrayed by Miss Agnes Verity; Mr. Douglas Murray has ample scope to display his abilities as Bertie Cecil Royellieu; Mr. Francis Curtis plays the part of Berklie Cecil Royellieu capitally and as Lord Royellieu Mr. Charles Brooke is interesting; Lord Rockingham is ably played by Mr. Charles Bedells; and as Rake Mr. Harry Benson does extremely well.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred'k. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Terry.—Here we have the Hippodrome season on, the centre of attraction being that famous and well-known boxer, J. L. Sullivan, who gives a capital display with an old friend, Jake Kilrain. The Cataneo company present a skilful acrobatic performance; the Amio Trio receive applause for their equilibristic act; Frank Le Dent presents an excellent juggling performance; and Grant Gardner and Marie Stoddard have a clever and entertaining item. "Vaudeville Frivolities"; the dexterity displayed by Johnson and Hart in their hoop performance is capital; Hampton and Bauman win rounds of applause for their excellent coon songs, and the Bioscope shows interesting pictures.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Marriott-Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. O. F. Wright.—The vaudeville company here this week is extra good. The Dunvilles, in their pot-pourri act, prove themselves capable artists; the duets and dances by the Sisters Lloyd meet with a good reception; Miss Connie Isca is a good vocalist; Bu Val, "the Happy Dutchman," in his "Concertinacalities," brings down the house.

EMPIRE PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. G. H. Marsh.—A capital programme is provided here this week. Miss Rachel Lowe, with her clever songs, has a style of her own which catches on; Dion Wade's songs are heartily enjoyed; Miss Mona Garrick, who remains over from last week, does some good scenes from The Bondman and The Bells; a capital juggling turn by Francis and Alfred is well received, and the dancing act by the Brannans is attractive; Miss Mabel Mavis gives a very pleasing and effective musical performance, and John Macaulay is most successful as a vocalist; Dot Hardy and John Free are also in the bill.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles A. Jones; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—The Andos Troupe of Japanese performers top the bill here, and do a really smart and clever performance. A sketch, Wait for the Finish, by Guyer and Walle, is particularly good; Miss Ida Kessauly's troupe of fox terriers is an item of special merit; the Bros. Lawrence are amusing in songs, dances, and patter; Lillie Hale is an excellent vocalist; Harry Vardon is a very good ventriloquist; and the Boston Twins, Edwards and Ward, and Dolly Ross, comedienne, also appear with success.

WORLD'S FAIR.—Proprietor, Mr. Charles A. James. —The following artists are appearing here this week:—Alliston and Arthur, comedy duettists; Will Bowman, comedian; Eva Alliston, ballad vocalist; Arthur Allan, eccentric comedian; and the Falconers, sketch artists.

DUNDEE.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Manager, Mr. Louis Karpe.—Pinkie and the Fairies, admirably presented by Sir H. Beerbohm Tree's company, was received with every appreciation by a large audience on Monday. The woodland scene is one of the most effective and pretty sets ever seen on this stage. In the rôle of Pinkie Miss Iris Hawkins created quite a furore, speaking her lines with delightful clearness and point, and dancing nicely; Master Philip Tonge's Tommy was quite an excellent study for such a young artist; Miss Hilda Antony was a fascinating Molly, her acting being marked by great charm of manner, and she also scored vocally; Master Burford Hampden acted with much quaint pomposity as the Herald; the Queen of the Fairies was ingeniously enacted by Miss Florrie Lewis, a dancer of remarkable ability; Miss Patty Jacobs (Elf Pickle), Miss Mimi Crawford (Elf Whisper), and Miss Olga Hope (Elf Twinkle) sutained their rôles artistically; Mr. Ambrose Manning's finished and amusing study of Uncle Gregory kept his audience merry; as Aunt Imogen Miss Kate Forster's fine voice was heard to advantage; Miss Augusta Haviland as the sedate Aunt Caroline was thoroughly amusing; and Mr. Walter R. Creighton was responsible for a deal of merriment as the Gardener Mr. Irons. Cinderella had a charming exponent in Miss Gwennie Brogden; Miss Doreen Wayliss was a dashing Dick Whittington; Sleeping Beauty and Beauty were agreeably realised by Miss Dora Rignold and Miss Margaret Latilla respectively. The augmented orchestra and chorus, under the bâton of Mr. Arthur Spittle, contributed largely to the success of the production.

KING'S THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Moul; Manager, Mr S. McIntosh.—The leading feature of a sparkling programme is Signor Arvi's artistic mystery "The Metablescope," a clever and novel act; Jock Mills, Scotch comedian, scores a hit; Teddy Edmond's company in The Lady Jockey provides a pleasurable item, Jimmy Rouse as the Tipster being a veritable tour de force; much diversion is caused by the Francoli troupe in a comedy acrobatic pantomime entitled The Billposter and His Troupe of Comical Living Pictures; Maisie Hibbs' pedestal dancing is a combination of skill and grace; the Credons in their comedy sporting act are a decided success; George James, a comedian with some original ideas, gets a hearty welcome; the Zanfrellas are decidedly clever equilibrists; and a series of films by the Kingscope completes the bill of fare.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Moul; Manager, Mr. S. McIntosh.—Mr. Ernest R. Abbott's company, which was conspicuously successful here a few weeks ago in Sapho, makes a welcome return with A Wife's Triumph. Mr. Edward Ouston renders the rôle of Frank Wilton in a telling manner; Miss Ada Abbott uses her excellent talents with dramatic effect as Bessie Dewhurst; Miss Florence North imparts a great deal of charm to the character of Alice Wilton; Miss Gladys Armice shows to advantage as Little Frank; a capitaly study ably depicted is the Squire Dewhurst of Mr. Ernest R. Abbott; Mr. Stephen Crossley realises the character of Ellis Jordan completely; and Julius Hartman is cleverly hit off by Mr. Weedon Ross. Mr. Edwin Keene, who invests the part of Ben Bradford with much droll humour, is ably assisted in the fun-making by Miss Marjory Tennant as Margery Crib.

DURHAM.—THE PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. T. C. Rawes.—At the head of a good bill here is Stylo, whose hoop manipulations are wonderful; the Four Janowskys evoke the heartiest applause in their pot-pourri act; and the singing of Williams's Royal Welsh Minstrels is well appreciated. T. W. Barratt is a popular comedian; Vasey and Ramsey amuse greatly in Jerks the Butler; Beatrice Bonner, comedienne, receives a welcome; and the Forsyths are successful comedy artists. The Floods of Paris on the Cathedoscope is an excellent picture.

ASSEMBLY ROOMS THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Rushworth.—Mr. John A. Thomson presents the pantomime Sleeping Beauty, which is staged and dressed in lavish style. Miss Adele Roze as the Prince sings with charm; Miss Alice Wyllyams (the Princess) is an excellent singer and dancer; Miss Nellie Scorey makes a graceful Bo-Peep and Miss Emmie King an admirable Boy Blue. As the King Mr. Rich Teasdale is capital; Mr. Henry Warren makes the Queen a most laughable part; Mr. Joe Monkhouse (Bamboozleum) and Mr. Sydney Godfrey (Selina) are the cause of much merriment; and the parts of Johnny Green and Simple Simon are in the capable hands of Mr. Tom Hanlon and Mr. Alf Hailin respectively. The specialities include Mlle. Florence on the rolling globe, the Casino Girls, Abex, the pocket Hercules, the Musical Scoreys, and the Canadian Quartette. The music is directed by Mr. Arthur Sheldrake.

EASTBOURNE.—DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Murray King and Clark.—Mr Norman V. Norman and company are here in Caste and David Garrick. In the former Miss Beatrice Wilson was as charming and natural as ever as Polly; and Miss Madge Trenchard did sympathetic work as Esther; Mr. H. Alexander gave a good account of the part of George D'Alroy; Mr. Norman repeated a successful performance of Captain Hawtree; Mr. Norman Leslie was a satisfactory Eccles; Mr. F. Lock an amusing Sam; and Miss Betty Stannard as the Marquis, with Mr. W. F. Dillon as Dixon, lent capital aid.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. W. Holford.—At the top of the bill here is Mr. Marriott Edgar, the man in red, who is smart, refined, and stylish in his excellent songs; the Five Singing Gypsies are deservedly popular in their cultured singing; the Four Flying Orenius have a daring aerial and contortion act; Miss Marie Blythe is making a welcome re-appearance in chorus songs; Messrs. Ellis and Campbell are able dancers; Miss Florence Raymond introduces a novel ventriloquial act; Miss Bessie Williams is a bright comedienne and dancer; and new pictures are shown.

ECCLES.—CROWN THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager Mr Albert Rogers.—This week Mr. John Tiller's company is presenting the pantomime Jack and Jill. The production from start to finish is carried through with a rare swing, the grand Scotch ballet calling forth well-merited applause. Miss Harriett Fawn as Prince Fearnought sings and acts delightfully, her song "I do like to be beside the seaside" fairly bringing down the house; the part of Princess Bountiful has a capable representative in Miss Nellie Rodney, who scores with her dainty songs and dances; Miss Ada Davidson as Trim the Prime Minister sings "Somewhere" with plenty of spirit; Miss Alice Maude and Miss Nellie Grimshaw as Jack and Jill are fascinating in their singing and acting. The comedians, a jovial band, are headed by Mr. Bruce Green, a droll Dame Durden; Mr. Harry Cotton is a most amusing Baron; and Mr. Horace Jones does well as Ginger. Mr. F. Le Cren and Mr. H. Le Cren as General Biff and Private Biff are responsible for many aching sides.

EDINBURGH. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Directors, Mr. F. W. Wyndham and Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Whitehead.—The second week of the visit of Mr. Charles Frohman's company with Peter Pan has been even more successful from a box office point of view than the first week. Crowded houses of adults and children have testified their appreciation of the delightful acting of Miss Pauline Chase, Miss Sybil Carlisle, Miss Gertrude Lang, Mr. Fred Annesley, Mr. Geo. Shelton, and the other members of the cast. It is worthy of note that on Thursday evening Miss Pauline Chase played the name-part for the 700th time.

ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE. — Managing-Directors, Mr. F. W. Wyndham and Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. M. Downie. —Mr. Martin Harvey and his company opened their engagement here with The World and His Wife, not hitherto seen in Edinburgh. The piece gave Mr. Martin Harvey an opportunity of staging a production differing from the character of work with which his admirers are familiar, and the experience was in every way successful and interesting. Mr. Harvey's rendering of Don Ernesto and the Teodora of Miss N. de Silva were admirable studies; Don Julian and the sinister Don Severo found excellent characterisation at the hands of Mr. Owen Roughwood and Mr. George Cooke; Captain Beaulieu was very happily represented by Mr. Philip Hewland; Mr. Percy Foster made a good Pepito; the stern Mercedes was safe in the hands of Miss Mary Rorke; and auxiliary parts were all ably filled. The Conspiracy preceded, Mr. Harvey and the principal gentlemen of the company all appearing in a finished interpretation of this telling episode. During the week The Breed of the Treshams and The Only Way have had a place in the bill, produced, as usual, with all the completeness and effect which makes Mr. Harvey's visits so attractive and enjoyable.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Aynsley Cook.—Messrs. James and Herbert Jewell's compressed melodrama, The Haunted Castle, is the headline in this week's bill, and the authors assisted by an efficient company, give due effect to the weird situations and transformations which the piece affords. The Will o' the Wisps, under the direction of S. Sherrington China, provide a pleasant vaudeville entertainment; the St. Johns display considerable skill as bell-ringers and dancers; and the Craggs contribute their latest acrobatic conception under the name of "The Territorials." Of the single-handed turns Marie Kendall takes the lead among the vocalists with some of her recent successes; Gwennie Llewellyn proves herself the possessor of a wonderful voice; Mabel Sinclair comes in an easy first among lady ventriloquists; and La Sylphe shows marvellous flexibility in her several dance creations, "The Folly," "Diavolo," and "The Harem." The comedian element is supplied by Steve McCarthy and Geo. S. Melvin, the latter a bright Scottish singer and dancer; and Bioscope pictures complete a long programme.

KING'S THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Amand Mascard.—This house is occupied by the Carl Rosa Opera company, which has presented an attractive series of performances, including Wagner's Ring of the Nibelung, a venture deserving of an extended notice, which is given in another column.

EXETER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Chairman and Managing Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—The Sorrows of Satan is presented here by Mr. A. Austin-Leigh's company. Mr. A. Austin-Leigh submits a powerful study of Prince Lucio; Mr. Ernest Bodkin gives an excellent interpretation of Geoffrey Tempest; Mr. Wallis Clark as the Earl of Elton and Mr. Gerard Wynne as Nonus Neil are also exceedingly good. Miss Kathryn Collier as Lady Sybil displays dramatic power which is very convincing; Miss Belle Travers is a pleasing Mavis Clare; Miss Vere Hodson is well placed as Anna Chesney; while Miss Emmie O'Reilly attains a high degree of excellence during her short appearance as the Countess of Elton.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Karno; Resident and Acting-Manager, Mr. Frederick Sandy.—Crowded houses at the two nightly performances this week testify to the popularity of the bill of fare. A great attraction is that of Fred Karno's own conception, The Yap Yaps, the artists including Gus le Clerq as the Hon. Charlie Chinn, who is extremely smart, and who, with H. V. Surrey, keeps the house merry from start to finish. The Donatos, one-legged acrobatic clowns, give a marvellous performance; Hilda Marcott has a hearty reception; Jennie Alexander, the child comedienne and mimic, is pleasing; Henri Bekker, comedy conjurer, assisted by Miss Maie, astonishes the house with his smart tricks; and Fred Kendall, described as the Hebrew comedian, is deservedly popular.

FALKIRK.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE. —Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. W. Ebbutt.—The patrons of this place of entertainment had a musical treat on Monday and Tuesday, when the famous Carl Rosa Opera Company produced Carmen and Faust. On both occasions there was a crowded and distinguished audience, who fully appreciated the efforts of the talented company. The cast included such well-known vocalists as Miss Doris Woodall, Miss Ina Hill, Miss Beatrice Miranda, Mr. Edward Davies, Mr. Alan Turner, Mr. Walter Wheatley, and Mr. Arthur Winckworth. The entertainment for the remainder of the week was provided by the World-in-Motion Picture and Variety Co.

FLEETWOOD. — EMPIRE THEATRE. — Manager, Mr. H. J. Snelson.—Miss Loie Esmond's company is paying a welcome return visit in a répertoire of popular plays. On Monday, Tuesday, and Friday In the Gloaming was staged, Sapho on Wednesday, The Sorrows of Satan on Thursday, and the ever-popular Ticket-of-Leave Man is announced for to-day (Saturday). The company is a powerful one, and the pieces are all well staged.

FOLKESTONE.—TOWN HALL.—T. J. West's pictures, under the direction of Mr. T. W. Kingston, are drawing good houses. Between the pictures Miss Gertrude Hember, the well-known West of England contralto, sings a couple of songs. She is the possessor of a beautiful, highly-trained voice. She is a type of artist far above the ordinary class heard at picture shows.

GAINSBOROUGH.—KING'S THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Leivers and Bennett; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Norman.—The company here consists of Labelle Lumiere, an artistic kaleidoscope dancer; Zanora and Berg, who give a clever turn on bicycles; the Vanderbilt Comedy Duo; Will Emerson (humorous singer); Layne and Valroy, and the Gregson Trio.

GATESHEAD. — KING'S THEATRE. — Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Local-Manager and Licensee, Councillor Harold Arnold.—Frank Danby and J. C. Piddock have a delightful little playlet, entitled Cupid's Arms, in which there is some excellent comedy and appreciable singing; the Three Krakes are immensely funny in the knockabout act, The Electric Car Conductor; Herbert La Martine is a wonderfully clever dancer; Stewart and Morris also present some tasteful dancing; Lunn and Darius are seen to advantage in a high-class vocal and musical scena; the Four Mayos are accomplished roller skaters; the Gilberts score with a tight wire act; Geo. Lawrence sings two songs in taking style; and the Kingscope completes the list.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. F. W. Bolam; General-Manager, Mr. R. G. Elder; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Dixon.—Mr. Chas. Elderton's pantomime Robinson Crusoe occupies the stage here. A dashing Crusoe is presented by Miss Esme Gordon; and an admirable Polly Perkins is found in Miss Isa Gibson. The company is rich in comedy talent; Mr. Teddy Worth, as Billy, causing much laughter; Mr. Will Boulton making the most of the opportunities afforded in the part of Will Atkins; and a genuinely funny dame being Mr. J. H. Booth: Friday gives Mr. Carson Hicks an accepted chance to score; and the Eltons as Dick and Peter are responsible for much of the mirth. Specialities by the Three Eltons, Carson Hicks, Miss Bartenelli, Marblesque Trio, and the Lottie Stone Troupe of dancers are strong features of the production.

GLASGOW. — THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. W. Wyndham and Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy O. Humphreys.—The pantomime being now at an end, the theatre is this week in possession of amateurs, that clever local combination, the Orpheus Club, appearing in The Rose of Persia, on behalf of Glasgow charities.

KING'S, LTD.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. W. Wyndham and Geo. T. Minshull; Business-Manager, Mr. Hugh Macfarlane.—Brilliant crowds are gathering here nightly to greet Mr. Edward Compton and his comedy company in old English plays. On Monday Davy Garrick was presented, in which Mr. Compton gave his usual graceful rendering of the famous actor; Miss Kathleen Leigh was an excellent Violet Gresham; Mr. Henry Crocker was a dignified Alderman; and Mr. Philip Gordon as Rumbelow, Mr. J. W. Austin as Sowerberry, and Mr. C. Marquand as Simkins, were amusing. Miss Marie Hassell as Mrs. Rumbelow and Miss Lorraine Stevens as Selina Sowerberry did well; and the Hon. Tom Tallyhaut had an effective rendering at the hands of Mr. Frank Royde. The comedy was preceded by Tom Noddy's Secret, in which Miss Nell Compton gave a charming impersonation of Gabrielle. She Stoops to Conquer was given on Tuesday, The Road to Ruin on Wednesday, and The School for Scandal, The Blasé Baronet, and The Rivals are also in the bill.

ROYALTY, LTD.—Sub-Lessees, The Scottish Playgoers, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Wareing.—The repertory company gave their first performance of Candida on Monday, and, as has been the case with other Shaw productions here, success was assured from the start. Miss Irene Rooke seemed to realise the author's conception of the title-part; as the poet Marchbanks an ideal representative is found in Mr. Milton Rosmer; Mr. Laurence Hanray's portrayal of the Rev. Mr. Morell was most convincing; in the way of a character study the Burgess of Mr. M. R. Morand was excellent; Mr. Percival Clark was well suited as the Curate; and the Typist had a clever exponent in Miss Norah Delaney. The comedy was preceded by an exceptionally good one-act play entitled 'Tilda's New Hat.

GRAND.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. B. G. Maclachlan; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. Christie Grant.—Mother Goose on Monday entered on its last week here, and tonight the theatre will be given over to the enthusiasm which marks the close of a record run.

PRINCESS'S.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hugh Murdock.—The pantomime season having finished, Miss Maude Western and company are presenting the new musical comedy-drama entitled Folly's Fortunes. Miss Western gives a faithful representation of Folly Vaughan; Mr. Joe Ellis as Billy Boyd, comedian, dancer, and acrobat, finds plenty of scope. Other notable parts are well filled.

METROPOLE, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Gordon Jefferson.—Mr. Charles Harrington and company are on a return visit here with Uncle Tom's Cabin. St. Clair is admirably suited to Mr. Charles Harrington, and Mr. J. H. Boehm acts with earnestness the part of Uncle Tom; Mr. David Blair as George Harris and Miss Hero Hathaway as Eliza sustain their respective parts with good effect; Mr. A. Hayes is a powerful Phineas Fletcher; Mr. Victor Gardom skilfully depicts the character of Legree; and Mr. E. Leonard is a successful Dan Haley; Mr. Reginald Kloof as Marks and Miss Annie Watson as Topsy contribute agreeably in the comedy line.

LYCEUM.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich Waldon; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. H. Oakden.—Edward Thane's drama, entitled The Mockery of Marriage, is presented here by Mr. W. Graham Arthurs' company, with that gentleman in the part of Dick Kenyon, afterwards Sir Montague Jephson; Mr. Fred Bentley as Seth Pearse is a very busy rascal indeed; Mr. Harold Heath acts well as the gallant young Jack Stanley; Mr. Frank Masters both as Old Pete in the prologue and as Joseph Verham in the drama is well suited; Miss Mabel Liston in the rôle of Alva Kenyon does good work; Miss C. Middleton is a sympathetic Rose Verham; and there are capital comedy interludes between Mr. D. Phillips as Toby Wright and Miss Kate Hughes.

EMPIRE.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Reynolds.—Signor Rosi's ballet in one scene, entitled Uncle Isadore, occupies the position of honour this week. Included in the piece are Signorina C. Mossetti, principal travesty dancer, and Signorina Luisa Patti, who each impersonate four unique characters; Harry Nuttall's company is responsible for an amusing playlet, entitled The Ghost of Jerry Bundler; Wood, Wells, and Wilkins, on a return visit, present their vocal comedy sketch, The Piano Tuner, to the enjoyment of all present; Tom Davies' cycling trio are well received in their mid-air motoring; and quite a nice little turn is provided by D'Arc's Marionettes, which are quite lifelike. Ray Wallace is also included in the company; that charming light comedy queen, Gipsy Woolf, with her Six Sunbeams, comes in for a royal welcome in the vocal and dance scena, The Mermaid of Margate; Edie Reynolds is a violinist very much above the average; and Chass Lewis in a ventriloquial entertainment is clever. Williams and Parker, comedy entertainers, are well received, and the latest Bioscope films are of an interesting nature.

PAVILION, LTD. — General-Manager, Mr. Evan Good; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ernest Foster.—Bessie Butt, fresh from her pantomime successes at the Royal, tops the bill here, and enhances her popularity by her tuneful songs and neat dancing; Harry Levaine, the principal comedian from the Princess pantomime, is also a decided hit here, his songs and patter being smart; Walton and Lester, "The world's worst wizards," are very amusing in their burlesque conjuring and their house-boat scena; the Dayton Family of Risley acrobats give a wonderful performance; Nelson's Newsboys contribute some excellent harmonised songs; Thomas and Taylor take well in their quick-change business, entitled Fun on the Midland; radiant Radie Furman is a smart dancer, and is well received; Paulton and Doley give an extremely smart comedy bicycle act, introducing several very clever feats; Harry Letter, eccentric comedian, completes a varied and attractive bill.

PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich Waldon; General-Manager, Mr. Harry McKelvie.—This huge hall has been taxed to its utmost last week and this by the audiences clamorous to see the Dick Whittington pantomime presented by Mrs. Lillie Williams and her talented company, which has proved a sensational hit. The leading artists from the Willie Winkie pantomime at the Princess's have been added to the bill here, and Edith Haley, the Two Crystals, Oswald and Locke, &c., have added their quota to a lengthy and enjoyable programme.

GAIETY, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Benneh.—This week patrons of this show have been treated to an exceptionally good entertainment. All tastes have been considered, and as a further proof of enterprise the management have introduced two excellent variety turns in Nannie Shaw, comedienne and dancer, and the Musical Millers, in their speciality The Skipper and His Son. The films include Her Terrible Ordeal, graphically depicting the horrible suffering of a young lady locked in a strong room. The laughs were provided by Revenge of the Thief, A Pair of Slippers, A Good Winning, Calino Goes Travelling, Poor Pa Pays, and The Unlucky Horseshoe. Also on the programme were some rare seascapes entitled The Waves at Fontarbic.

COLISEUM.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—America's famous entertainer, the Great Lafayette, is here on a two weeks' engagement, and is giving a bewildering variety of business, comprising conjuring, quick-change, impersonations of musicians and famous people, and concluding with a series of musical items by his band, the most notable being his burlesque overture, "1912," after the style of Tschaikowsky. The result of this engagement is that the Coliseum is taxed to its utmost twice nightly. In addition, enjoyable turns are given by Little Zola, in eccentric songs and dances; Florence Esdaile, descriptive vocalist; Mlle. Marjutti, a clever and agile contortionist; Herbert Shelley, in his protean play, Dan, the Outlaw, which is well played and heartily appreciated; Alice Maydue in comedy turns; and the Korries, in their musical items.

PANOPTICON.—Proprietor, Mr. A. E. Pickard.—The Sisters May are vocalists and dancers of considerable merit; the club juggling of Jack Bolano is much enjoyed; Kail Stern, coon comedian, is most amusing; and Myra Craig, in illustrated songs; Fred Denvers, light comedian; and the Bioscope, with a series of pictures, all go to make up a good performance.

JUNGLE AND ARENA.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank C. Bostock; General-Manager, Mr. Harry E. Tudor.—The New City-road resort, which presently houses houses the Bostock Jungle and Arena, continues to prove a tremendous draw. The collection of animals is indeed wonderful, and it is safe to say that never before has such a large and valuable zoological collection been in Glasgow at the one time and under the same roof. Much amusement is caused by "Blondin," the educated elephant, and to Scholz, its trainer, is due great praise for the result of his tuition. A great favourite is Captain Peter Taylor, with his little bears. His entertainment is most amusing. Mlle. Louise, with her panthers, is a lady of courage; a grand performance is put forward by Tallon, America's youngest lion trainer. Enough cannot be said in praise of Mr. Bostock's enterprises, and his management of the stupendous concern is indeed remarkable.

GLOSSOP.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sydney Spenser.—Sinbad the Sailor, presented by Miss Lena Stanton and Mr. Harry Josephs, is the attraction here. Miss Lily Simmons makes a smart and dashing Sinbad; Miss Dolly Andrews a charming and vivacious Princess; Miss Ruby Collis a sweet and attractive Fairy; Miss Gladys May as Captain Selim wins hearty applause; Messrs. J. Rand and Henry O'Ryan are two clever comedians; Mr. Dan Lyalls is a droll Sinbad; Mr. Sid Dean a mirth-provoking Mrs. Spankfirst Sinbad; Mr. W. Melville a fine Caliph; the Alhambra Girls are a clever troupe of dancers; and the Leola Troupe also add to the success.

GLOUCESTER.—PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. Will Smithson; Resident-Manager, Mr. R. T. Rea.—Messrs. Cullen and Carthy's pantomime, The Babes in the Wood, opened here on Monday. Messrs. Cullen and Carthy and Little Cluley provide a lot of the fun as the two Robbers and the last-named as Bantam; Miss Bessie Cohen makes a dashing principal boy; Miss Maudie Forde is an effective Maid Marion; and Baron Toodle, in the hands of Mr. Arthur Stratton, is an extremely laughable personage. Mr. Tom Drew as Dame Peggy contributes in no small measure to the general fun; the Babes are neatly enacted by Miss Dollie Cullen and Elsie Jordison; Miss Marie Fern sings well as the Fairy Queen; and the Granada Quartette introduce an Apache Dance.

GOOLE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. Hainsworthy.—Excellent business is being done. The Vaudevilles head the bill with a capital comedy sketch, Taming a Suffragette; the Smalleys cause roars of laughter; Nellie Duval sings and dances daintily; Adelina, facial impersonator, gives a very clever exhibition; and the Monarchscope pictures romantic comedy sketch, My Lady Betty, which is of considerable interest, and is well played; Bob Hamilton, a favourite Scottish comedian, is repeating his former successes here; the Villions have a comedy act that presents novel features; Miss Lena Verdi is a pleasing comedienne and clever mimic; Ciesie Lupino displays ability as a speciality and character dancer; and Dower and Denville give a smart comedy dancing act.

The Picturedrome.—Lessee, Mr. Matt. Raymond; Resident-Manager, Mr. Maxwell Edwardes.—A fine historic and romantic picture is Cleopatra, the scenes realising admirably the fascinating story. Mr. Maxwell Edwardes contributes illustrated songs.

HALIFAX.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—F. W. Bolam's company is here with The Marriages of Mayfair. Mr. George Tempest is admirably suited to the part of Lord Adolphus Villiers; Mr. Paul Beckett's Jim Callender is a creditable performance; Mr. D. Cleugh (Nigel Villiers), Mr. D. Yarrow (Dudley Gore), Mr. P. Marmont (Duke of Exmoor), Mr. R. C. Harcourt (Percy Hosfield), Miss C. Radcliffe (Dorothy Gore), Miss M. Cottell (Lady Margaret Villiers), Miss D. Monkhouse (Mrs. Bissett), and Mr. F. F. Lloyd (Captain Carlyon) are all good; Miss A. G. Clyndes is seen to advantage os Lily de Mario; and Miss Naomi Neilson's Bess Bissett is a praiseworthy portrayal.

Palace and Hippodrome, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Julius Simpson.—John Tiller's pantomime, Red Riding Hood, is at the Palace this week. Miss May Merry is a sweet and dainty Red Riding Hood; Mr. Benson Kleves as King Lupus delivers his lines with telling effect; Miss Lulu Russel is a vivacious Prince Valiant; Fred Danvers (Pretty Pet), Newco and Sullo ('Erbert and 'Arry), Sam Mitchello (Joseph), George Malfent (Fritz), Fred Lawrence (Dr. Dignum), and Charles Verno (Trotters), are comedians who never let the fun lag. The Lotus Troupe dance with wonderful precision, and Newco and Sullo also contribute a clever dance.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—Tarro Miyake, ju-jitsu wrestler, is proving a big draw. He is ably assisted by Mr. Taka. Corrix Bros. give a wonderful exhibition of strength; David Fuller is an artistic baritone; Shawlene, a master whistler; and Will Capner and Victoria Steele, character duettists, give every satisfaction. Davis and Deane, shadow dancers and comedians, and Flo Banks, comedienne, complete a good bill.

HAMILTON, N.B. — Hippodrome. — Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; General-Manager, Mr. René Clayton.—Ethel Arden and George Abel's company, in the funny, farcical sketch, Three of a Kind, the cast including Miss Adrian Hill and Mr. Robert Ayrton, is topping the bill; Cissie Curlette is an exceptionally clever and dainty mimetic vocalist; the Daunton Shaw Troupe of trick cyclists are smart and clever; Gus Garrick, in his funny business, "Music Hall Tit-bits," is a great favourite; W. B. Raby is a comedian who possesses an excellent singing voice; the Lyric Mummers furnish a refined vocal comedy scena; Bert Welda and Dorothy Wynne are an interesting comedy juggling and dancing turn; and Charles Pastor, comedian, and the Bioscope conclude.

HANLEY. — Royal. — Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus Co.,Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone.—The Woman in the Case is presented by Mr. Herbert Sleath's company. As Claire Foster Miss Winifred Pearson is superb, her stage presence being perfect, and her elocution excellent; Miss Kathleen Russell as Margaret gives a telling portrayal of a very difficult rôle; Mr. James Lindsay as the lawyer, Thompson, is very effective; Mr. William Kershaw as Julian Rolfe is responsible for a well-played part; Mr. W. F. Fletcher as Walters is worthy of great praise for a well studied character sketch; Miss Mary Griffiths is a clever Mrs. Hughes; Miss Pamela Hope is a beautiful Elsie; Miss Joan Temple a delightful Dora; and Miss R. Barcham as Louise is good. Messrs. Paul Wynter, Sydney Palfrey, Mervyn A. Rentoul, Charles Saley, and James Mitchell all do well. Her Ladyship's Guest is well played by Miss Pamela Hope and Messrs. W. F. Fletcher and M. A. Rentoul. Business is good.

Grand.—Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Arthur Rand.—Excellent business is the result of a capital programme, which is headed by Dan Crawley, a great favourite here; Emerson and Baldwin, juggling comedians, are rapturously received; the Brothers Roland, equilibrists, are clever and artistic; Les Auberts, dancers, are delightful; Vory's novelty painting with rags, is very interesting; the Scottish Meisters, in "Ancestral Spirits," are enthusiastically received; Ross and Grayson, in a mélange are smart; the Grand Pictures depict novel scenes.

King's.—Lessee, Mr. J. P. Moore; Manager, Capt. F. Shaw.—Magnificent business is being done here again this week. The great attraction is Baby Sophie, a marvellous child, in song and dance. The pictures, too, are a great treat: That Devil-Woman is most thrilling, The Open Gate, The Lady Detective, a fine story of Monte Carlo, A Sticky Proposition (very comical), Annette Kellerman (very interesting), and The Infernal Machine (very funny). On Wednesday the Mayor of Hanley and most of the leading gentlemen of the district visited the King's, and were delighted with the entertainment.

HARROGATE.—Grand Opera House.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Eric Fielding Smith.—For the week Mr. W. V. Garrod and company appear for the first three nights in A Country Girl in London. Mr. W. V. Garrod is well suited as Frank Gordon, and the same may be said of Mr. Bradford as the heavy lead—Godfrey Clinton. Mr. Owen Redmonde as Smithers, a ne'er-do-well, is sympathetic, and Mr. Frank Dallas is a satisfactory Oppenheim. Miss Ethel Crawford is an excellent Gwen Gordon and Miss Bertha Kingston a good Marjorie. For the last three nights of the week the same company appeared in Are You the Man?

St. James's Hall.—The New Century Animated Picture Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Boden.—The head-liner here in the way of pictures is a powerful dramatic one—In Little Italy. The Lady-Detective is an exciting picture, as is also Entombed Alive. Valvo, a ventriloquial turn, goes well. Mr. Boden has lately been appointed as manager here from Liverpool.

HARTLEPOOL.—Empress Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Albert Maxsted.—The principal film here is The Heroine of the Wild West. It is a fine dramatic story, splendidly illustrated. Other capital dramatic films are Only a Stepdaughter, The Coastguard, and Through the Breakers. A trick comic, Beneath the Gas, causes endless merriment. The usual do-as-you-please competition is being run very successfully.

HASTINGS.—Gaiety Theatre.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. E. Scutt.—Mr. John E. Watson's company is here in A Country Mouse. Angela Muir is charmingly represented by Miss Evelyn Ormonde; Mr. F. G. Thurstans is exceptionally good in the part of the Duke of St. Kitts; Miss Phyllis Manners acts well as Mrs. Cropper; as Lord Robert Wyckham Mr. Leo Lilly is natural; Mr. Weldon Atherstone takes the character of John Bowlby, M.P., very effectively; as the Hon. Archibald Vyse Mr. Alfred Field Fisher's impersonation is of high merit; Miss Vera Wallace cleverly depicts a womanly character in the part of Violet Aynsley; and a graceful exposition of the part of Lady Sylvia Bowlby is given by Miss Madeline Du Val. Preceding the play, Mr. Alfred Field Fisher, assisted by Miss Vera Wallace, introduces a selection from his entertainment répertoire, including the sketch An Afternoon Call.

Hippodrome.—Lessee, Mr. H. B. Boyd; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Ewing.—A well-varied programme is opened by Harry Burden, who sings with excellent scenic effects; Miss Edna Payne is a clever male impersonator; W. P. Dempsey receives great applause; a laughable sketch Mistakes Will Happen, is well played by Messrs. Phillip Martin, Harry Roy, and Miss Pauline Emeric; Leigh Green is successful as a comedian; some graceful dancing and vivacious singing are given by the two lady Zongaras; Alf. Holt is clever with his bird imitations; and Hester's Mystery is well acted by Messrs. Horace Pollock, P. Long, Percy, and Mrs. Lincoln, and Nita Ramanges.

Disappointment is bound to be the lot of users of Pendup'icate books who do not insist upon Zanetic ink paper being supplied with them. It makes all the difference between toil and ease, between faulty copies and perfect ones, between illegible copies and clear, permanent ones. Zanetic paper ensures perfect satisfaction. Samples free from Zanetic, Leicester. [Advt.]

Pier Pavilion.—General-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—Mr. Ernest Mansell's animated pictures are the attraction here. The various scenes are cleverly represented. Between the films the ventriloquist, Mr. Harry Hardy, introduces his living marionette entertainment.

HOUGHTON-LE-SPRING. — Gaiety. — Proprietors, Messrs. Ainsley and Hall.—This week Miss Lena Stanton's company is here in Dick Whittington. The principals are Miss Lena Stanton, Mlle. Le Mair, Sisters Holman, Miss Ray Darrell, Miss Edie Hylton, Mr. T. Owen Hunter, Mr. G. Grogie, Mr. E. F. Gywnne, and the Bros. Hinson. Specialities include the Zota Troupe of acrobats, Little Kneeno, Sisters Holman, the Pagoda Troupe of dancers, Le Mair, T. Harrington, Bros. Hinson, and the Carrie Bros.

HOYLAND.—Hippodrome.—Owner, Mr. Scott Alexander; Resident-Manager, Mr. Fred Terry.—G. de Relwyskow (the light-weight champion of the world), wrestler, is making his first appearance here this week, and his wrestling is highly appreciated. The Royal Welsh Glee Singers are heartily applauded; Mr. Tom Lloyd, tenor, is all that can be desired; and the Bioscope is an attraction.

HUDDERSFIELD. — Hippodrome. — Proprietors, The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. William Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—King and Benson, a pair of lively comedy duettists, head the bill; also appearing are Bert Williams, a ventriloquial humorist; Tennis and Laune, duettists and dancers; Charles Ulrick, an expert in the use of his feet; Gibson and Bell, in a clever acrobatic and dancing speciality; Hess and Chivers, a pair of accomplished roller skaters; Miss Lily Lenton, a young comedienne, who is assisted by a troupe of local boy scouts; and Charles Mildare, in his mimicry of birds, in which he is assisted by Miss Edna Werner.

Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Herbert Garside.—An attractively varied entertainment includes the brilliant Max Tourbillon troupe of daring trick cyclists and acrobats; Viviana and company, in the dancing speciality, "The Toy Shop"; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wilde in shadowgraphy; Miss Gwen Francis, comedienne; Rauschle, in his lifelike impersonations; Carney and Armstrong, comedians; Yettmah and O-Sass-San, illusionists; and Pyck, Tholl, and Taylor, in a smart singing and dancing act.

HULL.—Grand Theatre. — Mortons, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. F. Morton.—Mr. Weedon Grossmith and his company have made a huge success here with Mr. Preedy and the Countess. Nothing can be finer than Mr. Grossmith's conception of the obliging and gallant little man; there is not a phase of the character overlooked, and Preedy carries the house with him. Admirably seconded are his efforts by Miss Ruth Mackay, whose insouciance, coolness, and tact are all displayed with a charm that delights all who witness her efforts. Mr. Murray Carson makes the very best that can be made of the commercial Bounsall, and outlines cleverly the failings of this mercenary lover. As Bilson, the servant, Mr. A. B. Murray furnishes an admirable study. Words of praise are due to Misses Evelyn Kerry, who plays sympathetically the fiancée Emma, and Lynor Fontaune, who is cast as the lady's maid. The latter's reading of the rôle caught the full favour of the house. A Ball or a Motor? is the lever du rideau.

Alexandra Theatre.—Mortons, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Geo. Morton.—Once more Hull is welcoming the Two Little Vagabonds, and big houses are nightly sympathising with Misses Helen Granville and Ivy Millais, who sustain the name-parts. Mr. Frank Beresford is well cast as Thornton, while as the wife Miss Dorothy Milne is equally successful. The other rôles are pleasingly portrayed. The Vagabonds will be welcome whenever they come Hull way again.

Hippodrome.—Lessee, Mr. Walter Bentley; Resident Representative, Mr. Alfred Graham.—Here is B. A. Rolfe, "Ye Colonial Septette," presenting An Olde Tyme Hallowe'en, the feature being Mr. Charles Edwards, America's cornet virtuoso. Another item of more than ordinary note is provided by the Five Olracs, in an act entitled Acrobatical Funniosities; Wilton Heriot and company present a new sporting comedy, Denbigh's Divorce. One Billy Farrell, described as the man who made the cake walk, appears in a coon comedy concoction, entitled The Becky's Masquerade, while Young and Evans, Hebrew comedians, play Humanity with the English language. Other turns are Nellie Dellwood, serio comedienne and dancer; Oliver Conroy, comedian; and the Sisters Wingrove, duettists and dancers.

Empire.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Slingsby.—Here prominence of position is given to Clara Coverdale's Nine Dainty Dots, in their scena Gipsy Revels, another good vocal and dancing act being provided by the Three Van-Earles, a speciality "whirling clogs" being introduced. Rozel, described as "Le Roi de L'Air," thrills with his gymnastic feats, whilst Harry Bancroft is a favourite especially in the song "Fifty long years ago." Other turns are Emmie Eames, in Emmie's Christmas Tree; Will Candlish, the black Scotchman, a musical comedian; and Milton and Horton, triple-bar artists.

Palace.—Proprietors, Moss Empires, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Barnett.—The programme here leaves little to be desired. The top turns and that of the Kremo Family are of exceptional merit. Frank and Jen Latona present a very popular turn, the lady artist's musical ability being greatly appreciated. Linked with them at the top of the bill is the Empire Comedy Four, who are no strangers to Hull. The Kremo Family are a marvellous troupe of acrobats; Witty Wattie Walton is as popular as ever, even though many of his jokes are now threadbare. A smart set of dancers are seen in the Great Northern Troupe, and the Prince Milner Trio are adepts at hoop manipulating and wire-walking. Stewart and Morgan's Irish songs captivate the audience, and the Smythson's sketch and Odeyne Spark's song and dance are favourably received. The Bioscope winds up a good show.

ILKESTON.—Hippodrome.—Lessee and Proprietor, Mr. B. Kennedy.—Ediscope and Barnum's pictures, George Edney, comedian, and Frank Brown, vocalist, provide the amusement here.

Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. L. F. A. Rogers.—The Old Home is being played here by Mr. Evelyn A'Dell and company. Miss Nina Blake-Adams appears as Hazel Dean, a part which she works out with great skill; Mr. A'Dell acquits himself well as the Rev. Eric Armstrong; Mr. Charles Franmore gives a fine impersonation of Daddy Dean; and Mrs. J. W. Braithwaite is quite at home as Bridget Donoghan; Sam Adams finds a capital representative in Mr. Fred L. Connynghame; and Miss Ethel Ashleigh is a suitable Polly Pop. Mr. Horatio Sinclair gives a careful study of Lord Avondale. The piece is beautifully mounted.

INVERNESS.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. Burrows.—An attractive bioscopic and vaudeville entertainment opened here on Monday evening. The pictures are varied and amusing, and evoked the appreciation of the audience. Mr. Ben Lomond, a capable comedian, was encored for his singing. Two entertainments are given nightly, with matinées on Saturday.

IPSWICH.—Lyceum Theatre.—Mr. H. Hamilton Stewart's company is here with Sherlock Holmes. Mr. Hamilton Stewart's impersonation of the great detective is all that could be desired; Professor Morarity is well played by Mr. Charles Brandon; James Larrabee is in the capable hands of Mr. Arnold O. Roper; Mr. Eric Morden is a good Dr. Watson; Mr. Ernest Fryer plays creditably as John Forman; Mr. Henry Littlejohn is a good Sir Edward Leighton; and Sidney Prince is well played by Mr. Olly Seymour. Miss A. Bruce Joy, in the part of Alice Faulkner, is altogether satisfactory; Miss May Beatrice, in the difficult part of Madge Larabee, also acts well.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—The strong bill here this week is headed by Achmed Ibrahim's Troupe of Bedouin Arabs whose feats of skill are startling in their wonderful agility; Randolph King, the "original one-man programme," is really a host in himself; the Sisters Shewell are accomplished duettists; the Figaros sing excellently in their Swiss, Spanish, and Dutch impersonations; the merry monopedes, Conway and Leland, create loud laughter by their skilful antics on bicycles; Crissie Cross both sings and dances well; Maxey and Pete are skilful trick cyclists; and Sam Williams is a refined comedian. Some good films on the Bioscope conclude.

JARROW.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. Lionel Locke.—Mr. F. Granville's pantomime company is here with Beauty and the Beast. Miss Hallworth is well placed as Silver Buttons; Miss De Gray does full justice to the part of Prince Great Heart; Miss Dolly Barrie is neat as Beauty; Miss Victoria Francis makes an ideal Fairy Sunlight; Miss Fanny Wallace an excellent Wilhelmina; Mr. Albert Juan is good as the village squire; and Mr. Sammy Foster causes amusement as Sammy; Mr. Micklin Williams does full justice to the part of the Beast.

JERSEY.—Opera House.—Lessee, Mr. Edward Marris; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley Hope.—Mr. Frank Weathersley's company is giving Mark Melford's Flying from Justice. As Haldane Gully Mr. Alec Forbes proves himself an excellent stage villain; Mr. Bert Ellis wins the sympathy of the audience as John Larcarsey; Mr. Byron Douglas appears as Charles Bearing; Mr. Conn Allister is capital as Major Parkes; and Mr. R. C. Carlton is good as Woodruff. As Mildred Parkes Miss Minnie Webster's winning manner wins much admiration; Miss Nellie Murray is well suited as Mrs. Bearing; and Miss Viola March shows ability as Winnie Bradley.

KEIGHLEY. — The Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. Barrasford.—Alfredo Marschall is the principal attraction, and gives a marvellous performance; Sarah Rosebury renders songs, and tells stories in the Lancashire dialect, and is a great favourite; Mlle. Dalmere, with a troupe of performing cats, rabbits, dogs, &c., gives an interesting and pleasing turn; Willie Atom and company, in a smart sketch, entitled Wiggles, prove very diverting; the Lovelaces, in illustrated songs, are popular; Alf. Chester is a comedian of merit; and Hicks and Hunter, skate dancers, are decidedly clever. Benson and Waite are also successful in song, dance, and patter.

KIDDERMINSTER.—New Opera House.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr. Jas. P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. C. Gudgeon.—Miss Violet Osmund's company presents here this week the musical comedy entitled The New Barmaid. Captain Lovebury is well enacted by Mr. Leslie Austen; Mr. C. Sykes is good as Colonel Claymore; Bonsor is capably played by Mr. Chas. Sequin; Mr. Alexander Loftus funnily portrays the character of Bertie White; and Miss Murielle Mascot as Mabel sings and acts prettily.

KING'S LYNN.—New Royal Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. B. Pareezer; Resident-Manager, Mr. Reginald Pareezer.—After being closed for a short season, Hippodrome performances are being given twice nightly. A strong variety company includes A. G. Spry, a favourite comedian with Lynn audiences; Victor Brothers, the American equilibrists; Billy Richardson, stump orator; the Mosaics, in a comedy duo; Bert Crosbie, comedian and dancer; Maud Mathey and Margaret Ogilvie, vocalists; and a screaming absurdity Who Did It? by W. T. Ellwanger's variety company.

KIRKCALDY.—New King's Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Cavanah.—The Village Blacksmith is presented here with great success. In the rôle of Jack Strong, "the smith," Mr. Sam Livesey submits a clever portrayal; Captain Leo is admirably handled by Mr. Joseph Carter; Mr. Edwin Maydew is very good as Lucas Marler, and Mr. George Wilson is an apt exponent of St. John Harman. Mr. Fred Haming as Billy Twigg keeps the house in good humour. Kate Strong is effectively interpreted by Miss Maggie Edwards, and Miss Cassie La Grande performs creditably as Ruth Parkins. The wrestling bout in the last scene is a strong attraction.

Corn Exchange Pavilion.—Licensee, Dr. Walford Bodie; Manager, Mr. George Lee.—Sir Ernest Shackleton's Dash to the South Pole is shown on the screen here this week. Other good pictures are: An Ignored Tragedy, A Woman's Repentance, Artful Dentist, The Two Burglars, and A Tragical Love. Messrs. Donaldson and Emslie, comedians and dancers, give an excellent turn.

LANCASTER.—Grand Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. C. Howitt.—The attraction this week is Messrs. J. C. Lodge-Percy and Jas. Martin's company, in a round of plays, including Moths, The Second Mrs. Tanqueray, and Camille. The first piece was presented on Monday evening to a fairly good house, and the drama was thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. Andrew Money made a capital Prince; Mr. J. C. Lodge-Percy appeared to special advantage as Lord Jura; and as Duke of Mull, Mr. Cecil Kerr was commendable. Miss Henrietta Schrier was a charming Fuschia Leach; Miss Veronica Clinton did well as Vere; and the rôles of Duchess de Sonnaz and Lady Dolly were ably presented by Miss Marie Ramuz and Miss Nellie Statham.

LEAMINGTON. — Theatre Royal. — Lessees, Messrs. Dottridge and Longden; Manager, Mr. Chas. H. Longden; Assistant-Manager, Mr. John Halifax. — Messrs. Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard's company is presenting to appreciative audiences the romantic play The Prince and the Beggar Maid. Mr. C. W. Standing gives a robust and manly impersonation of Prince Olaf; the Prince Michael of Mr. Lionel Gadsden, and the Prince Hildred of Mr. G. Mayor Cooke are two very effective studies. As Captain Hector, Mr. Robert Noble is exceedingly good, and Mr. Richard Lane makes a dashing Lieutenant Karl Stromberg. Miss Stella Campbell makes of Monica a very charming figure. Miss B. Stuart plays Viola in a judicious manner; and Miss Ethel Patrick as Camiola gives a very effective performance. The piece is well staged, and the scenic effects are excellent.

Electric Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Gillsmiths, Ltd.; Manager Mr. Harry Plant.—The chief pictures are: The Children's Doctor, an exceedingly pretty story in twelve tableaux, and The Emigrant's Progress, which provides an enthralling illustration of emigrant life in Canada; A Trip Through Jersey is an interesting travel picture; whilst much amusement is caused by Servants and Masters, Burglary by Airship, Choosing a Husband, A Late Guest, and Juggins' Motor Skates. Mr. Harry Lewis, the baritone, is in fine voice.

LEEDS.—The Grand Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Jno. Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miltar.—The Dollar Princess is the opening engagement for the spring season. Mr. Leonard Mackay as Freddy Fairfax sings and acts the part to perfection; Mr. Eric Thorne is well to the fore as the mirth-provoking Mr. Bulger; Miss Clara Evelyn as Alice scores a distinct success; and Mr. W. Louis Bradfield makes the most of the millionaire character. The chorus, magnificent dresses, and pretty scenery help towards a successful visit.

Royal Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Francis Laidler; Manager, Mr. Nathaniel Hepworth.—The Babes in the Wood is closing here this week after a most successful run. Miss Susie Belmore, the talented and pretty Maid Marian, was to be accorded a benefit on Friday. Miss Florrie Forde is as popular as ever; the Florodoras are big favourites; the funny business finds capital exponents in Bert Byrne, Will Lindsay, and Burley and Burley; and Reski and Raski, Tom Isherwood, and Denaro Bros. complete a good bill.

Empire.—District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alex. Galley.—Fred Karno's company, with Albert Bruno as the leading comedian, is highly successful and amusing; Miss Alice Hollander's superb voice gains her much popularity; Bert Erroll is a clever female impersonator; Florence, the lady mimic, makes a big hit; Horace White, the ventriloquist, appears again after a long absence; and Lockhart's Elephants, A-Ba-Be's Post Card Album, Ernie Gardner, and Rhoda Bros. complete a good company.

Queen's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Bush.—Fred Maxwell presents a thrilling military scena, The Last Command; Godfrey Price gives a song-scena, The Trumpeter; Wilbert and Lealand are clever gymnasts; Massona is a smart juggler; Syd Crossley's songs are very funny; and other entertainers include Mayme Cannon, Little Frankie, and Rich and Rich.

Barrasford's Hippodrome. — General-Manager, Mr. Harry Dunford.—Joe Peterman and Geo. Ricketts present their amusing sketch The Pawnbroker, which is full of funny incidents; Pitts and Gould appear in a nice vocal and dancing scena, Bachelor's Memories; Beatrice Allen is a comedienne of refined style; Charlie Carr makes a quick and welcome reappearance; a sensational cycling act is provided by the Derrington Family; and other good turns include those of Mlle. Pollo, Bill and Bailey, the Three Cunards (in some clever dancing), and Geo. Prince.

The Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sam Jones.—Zeta Gray and Co. make a big hit in The Lancashire Lass; Herbert Rule has rapidly come to the front as a favourite; and the Fordyces are good dancers and vocalists.

LEICESTER.—Royal Opera House.—Business-Manager, Mr. Trueman Towers.—A first visit is being paid here of Mr. George Dance's company in The Little Duke. Miss Zena Dare looks splendid and acts exceedingly well as the Duc de Richelieu; Mr. Johnny Danvers maintains his reputation as a first-rate comedian in the part of Baron de Bellechase. Others in the cast who also shine are Miss Nellie Dade (Baronne de Bellechasse), Mr. Reginald Adair (Chevalier de Matignon), Mr. Alec Johnstone (Abbé de La Touche), Miss Dolly Castles (Diane de Noaille), Miss Kate Graham-Beck (Duchesse de Noaille), Miss Doris Dickens (Césarine de Noce), and Miss Gertrude Robertson (Duchesse de Burgoyne). Miss Nina Terri introduces a clever dance in the second act.

Theatre Royal.—Acting-Manager, Mr. P. Allerton Turner.—A welcome return visit of Mr. E. Hill-Mitchelson's company in Who Is She? is attracting well. The title-part is effectively played by Miss Georgette Thierry, and others who do full justice to their parts are Mr. James Stillwell, Mr. Stephan E. Scanlan, Mr. Horace Booth, Mr. Alfred Grenville, Mr. Willie Hicks, Mr. Bernard Leill, Miss Constance Medwyn, Miss Alice Barber, and Miss Mabel Ronald.

Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. S. Buccleuch.—Ernest Shand, who is aptly billed as the pink of comic smartness, is meeting with a very flattering reception here. His trun is brimful of new business, which keeps the audience in one continual roar of merriment. A clever turn is submitted by Moran and Wiser, whose sensational boomerang hat-throwing is a great feature; Lowenwirth and Cohan (Sam and Charles) are thoroughly amusing Jew comedians, who have some good patter; Mlle. Haydee's miniature vaudeville theatre is finely worked, and introduces a novelty in a conjuring figure; the Four Regals exhibit remarkable feats of strength and endurance in "The Armourers"; Cissy Thompson, a vivacious comedienne, goes well with her songs, "Danger on the Line" and "Riding in a Motor-car"; the Eight Lancashire Lads, vocalists and clog-dancers, are favourites; the Athlones are two finely-developed athletes, whose cleanly and finished performance arouses much enthusiasm. Harry Clifford also entertains with a capital song. The Bioscope still remains a feature of the programme.

Pavilion Theatre.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joseph Lawrence.—At the head of a good programme are Mr. Adderley Howard and company in the well-staged nautical sketch Black-Ey'd Susan, which proves very popular. At the other end are the Eight Sidney Girls, who are delightfully entertaining in their smart musical, vocal, and dancing scenas, "Miss Snowshoes" and "The Soldier Boy." The Two Ludoes (May and Edie) are amongst the best contortionists and tumblers; Alice Lingard, comedienne, renders her songs in good style; Rene is a capital lady juggler, and Roy Bevis a magician of merit. Amy Bathurst, Scotch comedienne and dancer, is on a first visit. The pictures include The Young Redskins, Noel, and Dream of a Would-be Congressman.

Empire.—Lessees, The New Bioscope Trading Company; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. R. Craig.—Large audiences show their delight with the excellent programmes of animated pictures that are submitted here. The two star pictures this week are The Wife's Ordeal and Their Son's Medal, a couple of really fine films. The other noteworthy ones include Princess Nicotine, Up the Pole, Matthew on the Spree, The Celebrations of the Yokohama Jubilee, How the Cook Got Married, A False Accusation, By Rail to Hardanger, The Young Lady-killer, Professor Wise Brains Injector, and The Boyhood of Vidocq. A splendid reception is being accorded Charles Relph, a very good chorus vocalist, who is on a return visit.

LEIGH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Cragg; Manager, Mr. W. Heath.—Misses Nora Carton and Beatrice Selwyn's company is here with Temptation. Mr. Dudley Wynton is a manly and convincing Sir Charles Tremaine; Mr. Norman A. Overton gives a clever portrayal of the scheming Hubert Thorne; Miss Nora Carton makes a charming and sympathetic Hilda Dundonald; Miss Beatrice Selwyn shows ability as the adventuress Iva Blight; Mr. Walter Raleigh is effective as Mr. Blight; Mr. Paul Forrester is successful as the Tramp; and the comedy is in the safe hands of Mr. Frank Ayrton as Bob Saunders and Miss Madge Seymour as Emily Eighteen.

Grand Theatre and Hippodrome, Ltd.—Secretary and Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Woolstencroft.—At the head of a capital bill is Miss Mary Mayfren's company in the dramatic sketch The Yellow Fang. Mr. George Pickett presents an excellent character study of Hung-Kow, and as Judith Beck Miss Violet Campbell is successful. Gulliver presents a smart ventriloquial act; Miss Vera Mayne is a neat and dainty comedienne; the Taffies, duettists, are well received; Shirley and Ransome in Jim's Pal make a great hit; the Fimans in a comedy sketch are very successful; Frank Weaver, coloured dancer, merits praise, as does also Mr. Frank Coyle, comedian; and the Hippodrome Pictures are, as usual good.

LEITH.—New Gaiety Theatre.—Licensee and Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Darlison.—Musical comedy has been attractively presented here this week by Mr. Haldane Crichton's company in an excellent production of The Cingalee. Miss Iza Bowman, a popular favourite with Leith playgoers, acts and sings with great spirit and charm as Nanoya; Miss Ray Anderson is happily cast as Lady Patricia Vane; Miss Winifred Stone, as Miss Pinkerton, introduces some graceful dances; the Peggy Sabine of Miss Maudie Ray and a long list of auxiliary feminine rôles are all pleasing representations. The part of Harry Vereker is ably sustained by Mr. Frank Barclay, an excellent vocalist; Mr. Hylton Warde's study of Chumbhuddy Ram is most pleasing and effective; Mr. Frank Lennard gives due stateliness to the rôle of Boobhamba; Grafton Williams and Mr. Frank Crichton are successful as Sir Peter Loftus and Myamgah; and Mr. Herbert Franklyn makes full use of his opportunities as Bobby Warren.

LIVERPOOL.—Royal Court Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Lawrence.—The spring season commenced here on Monday with Alice in Wonderland, the London Court Theatre company presenting in charming manner Mr. Savile Clarke's picturesque version of Lewis Carroll's fairy stories. The central figure was undertaken by Miss Ivy Sawyer, a dainty little lady who delighted everybody with her pleasing singing and particularly skilful dancing. Her Alice won all hearts. Mr. Franklyn Vernon deserved every praise for his really admirable portrait of the Mad Hatter; Mr. Tom Graves came out with great credit as Mock Turtle and Tweedledum; the Gryphon and Tweedledes of Mr. Ronald Henry proved altogether satisfactory; Dan Leno, jun., was an eccentric caterpillar and also held the part of Red King; and Miss Girlie Le Clair filled all requirements as the Cheshire Cat. The scenery called forth many expressions of admiration, the dresses were exquisite, and Mr. Walter Slaughter's music delightful.

Shakespeare Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wentworth Croke; Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Gaffney.—Dick Whittington and His Cat continues to attract packed audiences, and the pantomime will run to at least the end of the month. Harry Randall, Tom Foy, and Miss Carrie Moore have certainly made the show a big success.

Rotunda Theatre.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery.—A capital presentation of Pete here this week is resulting in good business. Mr. Frederick Victor handles the title-rôle with striking effect, and makes an impression; Miss Constance Bachner plays Kate Cregeen with much tenderness, quickly earning the sympathies of her audience; Mr. Alfred Lugg does full justice to Philip; Mr. Maurice Yorke is well placed as Ross; and other creditable rôles are Cæsar Cregeen (Mr. Ellis J. Preston), Black Tom (Mr. J. Lingard), Grannie (Miss Alice Dorie), and Anne (Miss Lucy Raymond).

Star Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—For Wife and Kingdom is here with Messrs. Matthew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond's company. The rôle of General Nestolde is capably undertaken by Mr. Reginald T. Fox; Mr. Matthew H. Glenville plays with much credit the strong part of Captain Lubeck; Mr. Edward Hobart makes a capital Sergeant Offenbach; Mr. Albert Guyon thoroughly grasps the intention of the Secret Service agent, Baron Breslaw; Miss Lydia Audre is very pleasing as the Grand Duchess; Miss Lilian Malvern deserves thanks for her well-thought-out portrait of the wise woman Esther; and some rich comedy is provided by Mr. Lewis Gordon (Jan), and the Misses Alice Buckland (Nita) and Mabel Veriton (the fat cook).

Kelly's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant.—Sunday is drawing large audiences here, Miss Janet Lind delighting everybody with her sweet assumption of the heroine. The "boys" are admirably impersonated by Messrs. Richard F. Symons, Launcelot St. G. Lowther, James Hussey, and George Marriott, jun.; Mr. Pennington Gush makes a convincing Colonel Brinthorpe; the character of Arthur Brinthorpe is well handled by Mr. Robert Borlande; Mr. Richard Trieve gives satisfaction as Tom Oxley; Mrs. Naresby is carefully presented by Miss H. Graham Edwins; and Miss Gladys Ford Howitt is the Nun. The production is well put on.

Empire.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Manners.—The leading line here this week is the "Vampire" dance, given by Alice Eis and Bert French; those musical marvels the Elliott-Savonas have a cordial reception for their accomplished musical turn, and evoke enthusiastic applause. Anna Chandler, American comedienne, pleases with her songs; Frederick Russell and Lillian Held have a most acceptable turn as song and dance artists, accompanied by some quaint humour; Dusty Rhodes is as funny as ever, and keeps his audience in the best of spirits; Henry Austin has a laughable comedy act, "The Dear Departed"; Keen and Waller cause endless laughter with their eccentricities; and also in the list are Arthur Woodville, light comedian and Minnie Mace, dancer and comedienne.

Lyric.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold.—Top of the bill here are James Edie and Cissie Ramsden with the funny trifle Charlie's Visit; Mlle.

as Damœtas, and Mr. Louis Victor for his smart dancing as Bobby.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietor, Miss A. E. F. Horniman; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edwin T. Heys.—A triple evening bill here comprises two new short plays (special notices of which appear elsewhere), and a performance of Mr. M. A. Arabian's Trespassers Will be Prosecuted, a bright and entertaining problem play, in which the chief successes are achieved by Mr. B. Iden Payne as Oscar Eckersley, a very well studied impersonation; Miss Muriel Pratt as the conventional and innatured aunt; Mr. Henry Austin as the pliable husband; and Mr. Charles Bibby as the swagger but impecunious Sir Laud Duncomb. Miss Mona Limerick as the erring Christophera has also a good part.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Mason.—Messrs. Paumier and Howard's company is still doing good business on the Broadhead circuit with their attractive drama, The Prince and the Beggar Maid. Messrs. Ernest H. G. Cox and Victor Rae are excellent as the brothers Olaf and Micheal; and Miss Ethel Bracewell plays with nice feeling as the Princess Monica. All the other parts are well filled.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Dry.—A weird attraction is here in the shape of Messrs. Watson and Ussher's company in The Face at the Window. Mr. Haughton Macaulay gives a forcible rendering of Lucio Delgado, "the Wolf"; a smart impersonation of Paul Gouffet is given by Mr. T. W. Dunscombe; and interesting impersonations are contributed by Mr. Charles H. Phelps as Lucien Cortier, and Miss Clare O'Sullivan as Marie de Brisson. Humour is capably added by Mr. John A. Stimson as Peter Pottleberry and Miss Frances Day as Barbette.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Brearley.—Sensational fare is offered to the patrons here in Hush Money, which purports to tell the story of the disappearance of Sexton Blake, the well-known detective of fiction. Mr. C. Barrington Foote does well in the central rôle of Blake, and a strong rendering of John Shard is given by Mr. Ernest E. Imeson. Good parts are also in the hands of Mr. J. H. Darnley as Walgrave, and Messrs. John Lowther and William Stevens as a couple of burglars; while comic relief is capably supplied by Mr. Harry Hartley, Mr. Frank Watts, and Miss Agnes Paulton.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Meek.—The principal turns here are the Six Brothers Luck in their laughter-maker, Lift 'ems, Limited, and H. O. Wills, a capital comedian. Geo. Payne's Wanderers provide a novel caravan scena, which is much enjoyed; the Claymore Trio give an entertaining club juggling act; and other good turns are Karl Czynski, the one-man band; the Two Kays, in a speciality scena; and Dick Livesey, ventriloquist.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—An excellent programme here is headed by Phil Ray, the popular comedian, whose humour is much enjoyed; Chas. R. Whittle is equally prominent in a series of his latest successes; and Holden's Mannikins are seen in a clever vaudeville entertainment. Smart turns are added by Tiny Arnold, a juvenile comedienne; Henry Helme, an accomplished Alpine vocalist; W. Fulbrook and company in their Astral comedy, Astronomy; the Sutcliffe Family, Scottish acrobats, pipers, and dancers; Falco and Eida, in an original ju-jitsu act; and Kathleen Gray, comedienne.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Nelson Barry.—The evergreen comedian, Arthur Roberts, tops the bill here in The Importance of Being Another Man's Wife; while prominent also is the Slaviansky-Russian Choir, in a répertoire of national folk-songs; Harry Friskey, an American comedy juggler, is very amusing; the Marco Twins provide enjoyable Continental eccentricities; Farr and Farland, cross-talk patterers, keep the fun going; and other entertaining items are Daisy Martell, comedienne and dancer; Ruth Davenport, the operatic vocalist; and Will Johnson, the popular comedian.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Manager, Mr. A. J. Carter.—The star turn in a good programme here is supplied by Cissie Lawson and company, in an effective dramatic episode, entitled Supremacy; Clark and Hamilton, in their wayward conceits, are well received; the Chung-Ling-Hee Troupe do some fine conjuring and acrobatic varieties; the Starley Bros. are expert acrobatic cyclists; Leslie and Stevens' comedietta, Love Levels All, is enjoyed; W. Jousie presents the Great Four, entertaining comedy humorists; some smart comedy is added by Jock Whiteford, the Scot; and a nice turn is given by Ivy Aberdare, vocalist and sand dancer.

TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles B. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—The Ballad-Monger is excellently presented here by Messrs. E. Shiel-Porter, Edwin Garth and company, including Miss Gladys Morris; Maisie Ellinger, a very charming musical comedy artist, sings taking songs in good style; Fred Cary, a capital comedian of the eccentric order, scores a big success; the Crown Trio of vocalists are deservedly well received; the Four Rosebuds are first-rate dancers; and other enjoyable items are offered by Cossett and Partner, in smart acrobatic act with dogs; Horace Lawson and Dolly O'Dell, in singing and dancing act; Reuben Miller, vocal comedian; Douglas Campbell, comedian; and a series of interesting pictures.

KING'S THEATRE, LONGSIGHT.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. James R. Trippett.—Messrs. Watson and Ussher's company is doing good business with the appealing domestic drama, Only a Little Boy, which was seen last week at the Grand Junction Theatre.

HULME HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Owen.—Billy Merson tops the bill this week, and is very entertaining with his comic novelties; Walter George's Smart Set Entertainers give an excellent drawing-room act; Arthur Albert is heard to great advantage in light comedy vocalism; Kirk and Saraski are remarkable aquatic performers; and other capital items are the Rosses, comedians and dancers; the Wedburns, comedians and instrumentalists; Harry Lawson, a clever eccentric comedian; and the Boys of England in barrack-room ballads.

MARGATE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Edward Michael; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Weathersby.—Caste has again been presented here this week by Mr. Frank Weathersby's company. The characters have been ably presented by Mr. Escott Robson as Hon. George D'Alroy; Mr. Elliott Ball as Captain Hawtree; Mr. Louis Palgrave as Eccles; Mr. Arthur Dennis as Sam Gerridge; Miss Ethel Lodge as Marquise de St. Meur; Miss Roberta Pulleyne as Esther Eccles; and Miss Florence Harcourt as Polly Eccles. The piece has been remarkably well played.

HIPPODROME. — Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Mayall.—Charles Garth, the man in black and white, although well known as a concert artist, has made his first appearance at the halls this week, and has been accorded a very good reception as a raconteur and as a singer of topical songs; Ina Lorimer, Scotch comedienne and dancer, made a remarkably good impression as a fascinating singer and a clever dancer. Crawford and Johnson, in their coon comedy and instrumental act, gave a clever performance. The other turns include Will Ambro, comedian and dancer; Litz Bros., comedy cyclists; Athlone and Sinclair, in a sketch.

METHIL.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Methil Theatre Co., Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. John C. Burnett.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley and company are here with Was She to Blame? Miss Constance Laurie as Lilian Norman evokes sympathy; Mrs. Kimberley receives warm appreciation for her Kate Rosselle; Miss Ellen Beverley is an exceedingly good Mary Norman (the Vicar's wife); Mr. Kimberley as Billy Clark is realistic; John Norman (the Vicar), as portrayed by Mr. Henry Rutland, is successful; Mr. George Keene is a manly Capt. Courtney; Mr. George Langdon as Frank Rosselle is a good representation of stage villainy; and the lighter vein is introduced by Mr. Kenneth Black, jun., and Miss Nita Owen as Mr. and Mrs. Swales.

MEXBOROUGH.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. H. Melton.—Mr. Frank M. Thorne's company is presenting Little Phil's Mother. Mr. Percy Ballard is a manly and effective Frank Towers; Mr. Hy. Earlesmere makes the character of Oscar Titherton the acme of despicableness; Mr. H. J. Monte presents a fine study of Geoffrey Dyne; Donald Taggerty and Bill Brissett are capital character studies in the hands of Mr. J. P. Marsden and Mr. J. E. Tomlinson; Mr. F. M. Thorne imparts a fund of humour to the part of Sam Perkles; Miss Maud Russell is deeply sympathetic as Ruth Towers; her bête noir, Rispeth, is powerfully played by Miss Florence Dalton; and Miss Gertie Renaud cleverly plays the cripp.ed boy, Phil.

MIDDLESBROUGH.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. K. Chaito.—Mr. George Dance's company is this week delighting large audiences with Miss Hook of Holland, in which Miss Marie Studholme appears with pronounced success as Sally. As Nina Miss Maud Denny deservedly meets with warm approval. Mr. Hook is most capab y delineated by Mr. Alfred Wellesley; as Bandmaster Van Vuyt Mr. Frank H. Crimp does excellently; Mr. Charles Ross is a capital Ludwig Schnapps; and the part of Simon Stinks is ably portrayed by Mr. Fred Lyne. The chorus and orchestra under the direction of Clement Lockrane are deserving of much praise.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. Imeson.—Miss Renee Glendower and company this week appear with success in the society play What a Man Made Her. As Jane McAllister, an artist's model, Miss Glendower is seen to advantage; Miss Stella Carmichael as Lady Thorn is quite successful; Mr. C. Hartopp does justice to the part of Sir Ernest Cavendish; the character of Dr. Mark Haven is well sustained by Mr. J. M. Olivert; and Mr. Barnett Lando creditably fills the rôle of Lewis Emmanuel Gunnerstein.

EMPIRE. — General-Manager, Mr. Chas. G. Rembges.—Large and appreciative audiences this week welcome the Seven Perezoffs in their capital pot pourri act; the Five Whiteleys, speciality artists; Tom Moore, vocal comedian; Ronald George, instrumentalist; Lieutenant Albini, illusionist; Miss Eileen Poole, comedienne and dancer; Bake and Granby, in a sketch The System; Bert Lytton, comedian; and the Empire Bioscope pictures.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. Frank D. Todd.—A programme of Pictures draws well at this large and comfortable hall.

MOTHERWELL.—NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chisholm Taylor.—Mr. H. Leslie Bell's pantomime Cinderella is here. Winifred Ray, who is the possessor of a fine stage presence, sings and dances neatly, and makes an ideal Prince Charming; Miss Lily Pearl is dainty and clever as Cinderella; Dandini is aptly rendered by Miss Annie Craig; Miss Alice Leon sings sweetly as Fairy Sunshine; Messrs. Eno Davys and Pat Yost are a couple of excellent comedians, and as the Ugly Sisters score a decided success. Mr. Barry Bond and Mr. Tom Veronique are successful as the Baron and his Page Buttons; the Kilina Girls are a troupe of excellent dancers.

NELSON.—PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Benson.—The Bellong Bros., cycle equilibrists, perform some very daring feats; the Lizette Trio are accomplished lady acrobats, dancers, and singers; and a capital comedy sketch, entitled Kissing Belinda, is presented by Mrs. Greenwood-Croft and company. Mrs. Croft, who was formerly lessee of the Grand Theatre, had a hearty reception on Monday, and at the close was presented by her old staff with a beautiful bouquet. The bill also includes the Saxonia Family in a high-class musical extravaganza, Maggie Powell and her mannikins, Tennyson and Wallis (comedians), Little Spencer (a versatile clog dancer), and Stanley and Vandyke (comedy duo).

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. W. C. Horner; Manager, Mr. Parker.—Mr. John Leopold's company is here in the musical absurdity New Frivolity. The company is a strong one, and includes the original Leopolds. Mr. Watson Hume is a successful Oliver Buckwheat; Mr. Jack Leopold acceptably presents Daniel Teething; and as Vermiglio, the deserted husband, Mr. Fred Leopold, jun., shows much ability; Samuel Vermiglio is well depicted by Mr. Harry Ugar; and as Prof. Tumble Mr. Bob Otto scores a distinct success. Miss Kathleen Cavanagh makes an admirable Madam Cobweb; and in the character of Lucy Buckwheat Miss Elsie Foster is all that could be desired; Miss Violet Keand is charming in the rôle of Nita Gordon; and Miss Rita Kola makes a vivacious Manenette. A capital acrobatic performance is given by the Four Kellys. An athletic comedy, The Stadium, makes a good curtain-raiser.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Teale Lingham.—Mr. George Edwardes' company is here with Our Miss Gibbs. As Miss Gibbs Miss Alice Pollard supplies a most delightful personation, fresh and alluring. Miss Pollard has a sweet voice, which she uses to advantage. In Timothy Gibbs Mr. George Gregory has ample opportunity to display his well-known ability as a comedian, and in this he succeeds to the utmost. Mr. Lionel Mackinder as the Hon. Hughie Pierrepont is quite at home in the part, and causes genuine amusement in his desire to become a "daring" criminal. Slithers, a professional crook, is cleverly caricatured by Mr. Robert Nainby, and Mr. H. V. Crofton gives a manly performance as Lord Eynesford. Miss Marie Wilson as Lady Elizabeth Thanet, Miss Dora Sevening as Madame Jeanne, and Miss May Maston as Mrs. Farquhar play their respective rôles with fine effect. The chorus is strong and well balanced; several smart solo dances are given by Miss Florence Phillips.

TYNE THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessees, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham; Manager, Mr. Fred C. Sutcliffe.—Cinderella has entered upon its last week. All the principals have become great favourites. Miss Nellie Wigley, Mr. George French, and Mr. Tom Conway have been largely concerned in the triumph. Miss Dorothea Clarke has won all hearts as Cinderella. Messrs. Arthur Sutcliffe, Bobbie Walker, Chas. Kean, and Miss Ethel Oliver have been responsible for a large share of the merriment.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Rowe; Business-Manager, Mr. E. B. Clark.—Mr. and Mrs. J. Rice Cassidy and company is here in Seaweed. Mrs. Cassidy is excellent in the leading part, of which she gives a most artistic study. Mr. J. Rice Cassidy acts with excellent effect as the Hon. Algernon, and the performance of Mr. Tom Roydon as Duke Sergius is strong and convincing. Mr. Villiers Stanley is responsible for a clever study of Allen Armstrong, and Miss Ada Roscoe plays Countess Olger with care and finish. Commendable work is also done by Mr. William Melvyn as Harry Lortimer, Mr. David Douglas as Abraham Bolton, Mr. Alfred Boxall as King Olger, and Miss Isabel Hunt as Maggie Bolton.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. F. W. Bolam; Manager, Mr. Chas. E. Linney.—Another of Mr. Charles Elderton's pantomime successes, Aladdin, is the attraction here this week, and is drawing capital houses.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Manager, Mr. W. P. Wells; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. W. Kilgour.—The great conjuror and illusionist Chung Ling Soo is here. His performance is undoubtedly one of the finest, and wins a hearty reception. Mr. Herbert Sleath's company in The Deputy Sheriff scores a decided success. A clever turn is that of Takio, Japanese imitator of sounds, and some exceptionally good dancing is done by Cumminger and Colonna. The Brothers O'Brien in a horizontal bar act win acknowledgment for their brilliant display, and the Sisters St. Julian prove entertaining duettists and dancers. Lily Burnand in a series of good character songs goes well, and an amusing show is provided by Mr. Walker Carter. The Bioscope completes.

NORTHAMPTON.—PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Samson and McNeil, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Manager, Mr. P. H. Gould.—The programme here this week includes Cecil Gray and company in The Last Straw; the Croiset Trio of French acrobats; Benson and Rose, who are bright, brisk, and breezy; Charlie Craston, comedian; Maggie Rimmer, comedienne; Walter Aubrey, a good dancer; Madge Brownie, a dainty comedy artist; the Arthur Gallimore Trio in a comic act; and the Palace Pictures.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—Secretary, Mr. G. Skempton; Resident-Manager for Andrews' Pictures, Frank Lyndon.—Some fine dramatic films are shown this week, including Senorita, a Mexican love drama; The Heir of Clanvancourt; The Mountaineers' Honour, a tale of the Kentucky hills; a good comic film, Scroggins Puts Up for Blankshire, is a very amusing election skit.

NORTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Levy and Mr. J. E. Cardwell's company, with the pantomime Hop o' My Thumb, is attracting large and delighted audiences here. In the title-rôle Little Georgie Harris makes a hit; Miss Kitty Trewhitt as Prince U-No sings several popular songs in capital style; Miss Kitty Rafferty makes a charming Princess Meadowsweet; Miss Gladys Wyse as Jeannie McGregor is a great favourite; Miss Olive Purcell proves a sweet Fairy Moonshine; and Miss Evelyn Major is good as Rupert. Mr. Vivian Wakeman makes an entertaining Dame; Mr. E. W. Selman an amusing Jerry; Silversheen and Goldsteen are cleverly impersonated by Messrs. A. E. Rick; and Tom Cowley and Mr. Harold Pyott (the smallest man in the world) as Tommy causes much hearty laughter.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Wm. Mould.—At the head of the programme here we have the Five Musical Palmers in The Village Blacksmith, which has been warmly greeted. An interesting turn is provided by Jordan's Simian Actors, consisting of dogs and monkeys; Daisy Palmer, character comedienne, scores a big success; and Mumford and Mard, knockabout comedians and dancers; Madge O'Neill, character vocalist; The Rumins, speciality artists; and some excellent pictures contribute successfully to a good bill of fare.

NORTHWICH.—CENTRAL THEATRE.—Manageress, Miss S. Golden.—Messrs. Poole's myriorama and variety combination provide the attraction here this week. In addition to a series of up-to-date pictures there are some first-class variety turns, including Captain Permane's live Teddy bears, a clever show; the Snow Family, expert and grotesque skaters; Harry Dowsett, comedian; Bert Gates, ventriloquist; the George French troupe, acrobatic and comedy cyclists; and Learto and his clever little dog, Pom-Pom, in an original comedy musical act.

NORWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Morgan.—Mr. Percy Williams' excellent company in The Fatal Wedding makes another welcome visit, and meets with success. Miss Ethel Kay gives an earnest and sympathetic portrayal of Mabel Williams; Miss Leah Marlborough is excellent as Cora Wilson; Miss Marie Wilson is good as Jessie; and Miss Blanche Huber is a humorous Bridget; Mr. Edward Lloyd is excellent as Howard Wilson; Mr. Cyril Melton is successful as Robert Curtis; Mr. Harry M. Vernon as Toto and Mr. Watson Hume as Peter Schwartz cause amusement; and Mr. Frank Ashley as O'Reilly and Mr. J. Newton as the Rev. Dr. Lanceford ably fill their respective rôles.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. Councillor F. W. Fitt.—An excellent programme is headed by Mr. Charles Baron's burlesque menagerie, which is most entertaining; Sandy McNab and his company, assisted by Miss Bessie Arthur, in their sketch The Egyptian Mummy, cause endless fun; Roma and Romani give their delightful entertainment on a variety of instruments; the Kahn and Kahn Trio, in their sleight-of-hand tricks, mystify the audience; Mr. R. Cumming is a clever and amusing ventriloquist; Brown and Ascot are good dancers; Mr. Ted Gill, the Yorkshire tenor, sings with much taste; Miss Dorothy Gould is a favourite comedienne; and the Hippo-bio pictures are good.

AGRICULTURAL HALL ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Mr. E. V. Barr's animated pictures this week include The Terror and the Terrier, The Hempen Bag, The Building of a Transcontinental Railway, The Corsican's Romance, To Save Her Soul, The Delights of the Shoot, Choosing a Husband, The Kind-hearted Employer, and A Journey to the Centre of the Earth. Mr. Tom Taylor sings very well.

NOTTINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—The Little Damozel is being excellently played by a capable company. As Julie Alardy Miss Ida Molesworth plays with real sincerity; Mr. Frank Lacy gives a finished touch to his portraiture of the reformed rake, Recklaw Poole; Mr. Townsend Whiting adds a breeziness to his interpretation of Walter Angel that is distinctly refreshing; Captain Partington is well depicted by Mr. Geo. A. Brandam; and Mr. Mark Blow supplies an amusing contribution as Fitzroy Lock. Miss Marion Ripley gets the most out of her small part as Sybil Craven; and Batholdy is an effective character sketch in the hands of Mr. Julian Cross.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Harry Upton.—Patrons are again treated to pantomime fare in The Sleeping Beauty. The vivacity of Miss Lilian Elliott is well employed as principal boy, and Miss Ivy Moore makes a dainty and effective principal girl. Mr. Tubby Edlin's comicalities are a source of amusement. He is capitally supported by Mr. Tom Shenton (King), Mr. Willie Black (Queen), and Newsboy and Lennan (Woodcutters).

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert C. Duncan.—The varied accomplishments of Chas. T. Aldrich make him an excellent entertainer; Les Romanis are clever on a number of instruments; the Eighteen Lancashire Singers give pleasing renderings of glees and choruses; and the smart imitations by O'Gust are as amusing as ever. Ted E. Box adds to the hilarity; and a humorous sketch is given by Frank Bertram and company. The programme is further enlivened by Goggin and Davis, acrobats; Albert Letine, female impersonator; Gladys Mavius, comedienne; and Jessie Albini, comedienne.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwards; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. F. Miller.—The dramatic episode, entitled The Drums of Oude, by Mr. A. L. Levering's company, in which Mr. Cecil A. Collins and Miss Beatrice Whitney do some excellent work, is the principal attraction, with Leoni Clarke's 200 trained cats, dogs, rats, mice, &c., as a good second. A very clever and pleasing turn is that of Alma at a piano; and two most expert trampolinists are seen in Hayes and Merritt. Madge Temple sings well and looks charming; Gwennie Morgan is a dainty comedienne; Tony Black is a funny Scotchman; Tudora's ponies exhibit a high degree of equine docility; Les Saletos are equilibrists of no little skill and attractiveness; and the programme is completed by the usual pictures.

NUNEATON.—PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietors, Theatre and Entertainment Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Brown.—Messrs. Dudley Bennett and T. C. Wray's company is here with Miss Hook of Holland. Mr. Charles Sims makes a capital Mr. Hook; Mr. Robert Selby is a good Captain Paap; Mr. Frank G. Dunn is an effective Bandmaster Van Vuyt; Mr. Frank Attree a satisfactory Ludwig Schnapps; and Mr. Edward Kipling a highly amusing Simon Slinks. Miss Biddy O'Brien makes an attractive Miss Hook; Miss Madge White does exceedingly well as Mina; and Miss Mabel Selby is a successful Gretchen.

OLDHAM.—GRAND THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sam Smiley.—Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's pantomime company finishes its second week's stay here, and Robinson Crusoe has proved a popular success. Miss Maude Mortimer as Robinson makes a dashing principal boy, and is a prime favourite; Miss Yolande Noble invests the part of Polly with much vivacity, and Miss Mildred Carr as Jack and Miss Gladys Hicks as Sally are most successful; Miss Marie Longden is clever as Daisy; Miss Jennie Weston as Dick being equally smart; Miss Rita Vincent and Miss Ray Morgan as Neptune's daughter and the Dusky Princess are excellent; Mr. Arnold Richardson is the life and soul of the panto, hearty laughter greeting his every effort as Billy; Mr. Flockton Foster as the Captain is very smart, and Mr. C. Young Fixott makes a capital Mrs. Crusoe; Mr. Chas. Heslop (Will Atkins), Mr. Oswald Battye (Friday), Elton and Elma, and the other members of the company combine to win success. "A Merry Winter Time" is a capital juvenile act, embracing good singing and smart dancing, by Mlle. Pauline Rivers. The Pauline Sextette and Bert Rolfe's Quartette also appear with success.

COLOSSEUM THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Wm. Eastwood.—The Two Little Drummer Boys occupy the boards here, and Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley have a capital company to interpret the popular drama. Miss Maggie English and Miss Madie B. Douglas in the parts of Eric and Jack respectively act cleverly; Miss M. Townsend plays in a forcible manner as Alma Kingsley, and Miss Violet Ingram gives a good study of Margaret Rivers; Mr. Frank Rogers is a manly Capt. Frank Carsdale; and Mr. Polson Turner is sufficiently venomous as Capt. George Darrell; Mr. Edward Bikker makes a fine soldier as General Kingsley, and Mr. F. Walters is smart as Lieut. Allen Kingsley; Mr. George Turner as the Rev. John Rivers does good work; Miss Patricia Connaughton as Molly Meadows, Mr. Will Percy as Quincey O'Quirke and Mr. Dick Seddon as Timothy Trimmer, in the comedy parts, cause much amusement.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hulme.—The Sins of a City is being played here by Miss Winifred Maude and company. Miss Maude as Seaweed acts in sympathetic and finished manner; Mrs. Wingold Lawrence is a capable Lesbia L'Estrange, the partner in crime of Ralph Blackwater, a part well acted by Mr. Morris Maud; Mr. Arthur L. Reed makes a smart Sandy M'Donald, and Mr. A. Lester is capital as Donald M'Ivor; Mr. Victor Du Cane plays the dual rôle of Joe and Jasper Woodleigh in a masterly manner; Miss Minnie Millwarde as Midge causes merriment, and sings and dances capitally; Mr. Fred Chester does well as Isaac Levi; Misses Mona Leslie and Gipsy Alexander as Flo Barton and Kit Marshall act cleverly, and Mr. L. Carlton is very good as Jenny.

PALACE THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Sharrocks.—Sandford and Lyons are prime favourites in their well known song and dance act; Gerald Mount is excellent and successful in his burlesque scena; Harry Tate's Motoring is as funny and amusing as ever; the Georgia Coons provide a song and dance scena, and the Three Favourites are excellent in their speciality, Park Pets; Bowman and Parker are amusing in their musical comedy act; and Mr. and Mrs. Alaskas are smart in a refined comedy acrobatic turn; Irene Rose sings acceptably, and the Palace Pictures conclude.

ROYAL THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge.—The pictures here are popular and very interesting. A new version of Red Riding Hood is very interesting, and The Duality of Man is an intensely dramatic film. The Gorge of the Andes is a very good travel picture. An Unexpected Shower-Bath is amusing. Mr. Don Cameron contributes "A message from home, sweet home."

HIPPODROME. — General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. L. King.—The Heart of a Cowboy is a film of the thrilling order. Pine Ridge Fiend is a dramatic film much appreciated. A Modern Dr. Jekyll, Mr. Foolshead's Crime, The Witch's Kiss, and The Last Cook are among the funny pictures. An amusing singing competition is being held, the prize for which is a donkey.

OSBORNE PICTURE HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. W. Hughes. — Custer's Last Stand is the principal picture. Mme. Street sings some good songs.

OXFORD.—NEW THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. C. C. Dorrill; Assistant-Manager, Mr. G. T. Lucas.—Mr. Frank Curzon's company opened here on Monday for three nights with Dear Little Denmark, and met with a very cordial reception from a well-filled house. Mr. Arthur Staples sustains Hans Hansen admirably, and his popularity increases as the play progresses; Mr. Henry Kitts, as the Duke Ernst von Rasmussen, is irresistibly quaint; as Conrad Petersen, Mr. Conway Dixon is good; Mr. J. C. Fagan sings and comports himself well as Karl; and Mr. Tom Redmond is what he should be as Simon Jorgensen; Mr. Harry Gregory is restrained enough to be sufficiently humorous as Jonas Jensen; Mr. C. B. Williams fulfils the duties of Chamberlain quite adequately; Miss Joan Penrose is very bright and a general favourite as Ophelia, and is the recipient of hearty encores for her admirable rendering of her topical and fascinating songs; Miss Claire Lych is duly dignified as 'Xandria; Miss Netta Lynde is very graceful, and looks quite a charming Danish maiden as Christine. The setting of Act II. is magnificent. The choruses are all well rendered.

Miss Eva Travis makes a very effective Cinderella; Miss Georgie Hawkins is a smart Prince Charming; Miss Florie Anderson is agreeably prominent as Dandini; and Miss Isa Bernard does well as Rose. Mr. James Mackenzie works commendably as Peps, and helps to make things move considerably; Mr. Arthur Farren is a typical Baron Limerick; Mr. Alf Stokes is good as Zarmier; and Mr. Eugene Macabe is successful as Janetta. Interesting specialities are contributed by La Zenith, kaleidoscopic dancer; Bernard and May, comedy duettists; Miss Flo Banks, clog dancer; Mr. Arthur Farren; and Mons. Le Clair's canine gallery, the dogs being admirably trained.

PAISLEY.—PAISLEY THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile.—The Eyes of the World has proved a draw here, being well presented by Miss Ethel Van Praagh and Mr. J. Edward Whitty's company. Miss Van Praagh plays Helene de L'Orme, and gives a refined and scholarly reading; Mme. Esme de Carnac is extremely well impersonated by Miss Flora Hastings; Miss Nellie Garside gives a vivacious and delightful embodiment of Mlle. Susanne Pomfleure; and Avice is charmingly portrayed by Miss Elsie Capell. Mr. Charles O'Connor gives a convincing rendition of M. Hector de L'Orme; Mr. Will Casey as M. Gaston de Carnac is admirable; Mr. A. Wilson Wynne plays Octave in telling style; M. Paul Roqueville is given a capital rendering by Mr. R. Wilton Bedford; and an extremely humorous portraiture of M. Achille Fanfarade is submitted by Mr. J. Edward Whitty. Miss Beatrice Hulment as Antoinette and Mr. Harold Forde as Brigard successfully sustain their respective parts.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jack R. Bostock.—Harriet Vernon, burlesque artist, heads an interesting programme, and she has a cordial reception for her capital songs; the Faludy Troupe are smart and skilful acrobats; Dan Whitley is an eccentric comedian, whose singing and patter are well worth listening to; Bert Weston, comedian, provides a most acceptable turn; Leslie Race renders several songs in a manner that wins applause; Dorothy Dundas is a pleasing vocalist; Fred and Lulu Camplin present an up-to-date musical comedy act; William McLerie gives a good exhibition of club swinging and ball punching; and the Hippodrome Bioscope is entertaining.

PERTH. — PERTH THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Aldridge.—The theatre is occupied this week by a company of local amateurs in the nautical comical opera Billee Taylor. Mr. Savile has not only staged the opera beautifully, but has very kindly superintended the final rehearsal, and the piece goes with a fine swing. The entire proceeds are to be handed to a local charity.

PETERBOROUGH.— HIPPODROME.— Proprietor, Mr. Fred Karno; Manager, Mr. Percy Hart.—A good programme is drawing crowded houses here. Alec Hurley and company, in their latest musical comedy sketch, Cockneys in Japan, gain the utmost approval; Brothers Obo, the popular laughing comedians, score a great success; Enid Errol and company, in a fantastic dancing episode, The Magic Vase, evoke much applause; Victor and Lewis, in The Golfer and the Caddy, provide much fun; Gertie Rex is a dainty comedienne; Edgar T. Hayes introduces his remarkably well-trained horse Billy, and the turn is warmly appreciated. Karnoscope completes.

PLYMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.—The always popular Sign of the Cross is again in the West, and is doing good business. Mr. Lawson Butt furnishes a brilliant rendering of Marcus Superbus; Miss Ethel Hope supplies a sympathetic study of Mercia, which has a pronounced effect; Mr. Charles Aldred works hard as Jigelinus; and Mr. Frank Wood relieves the heavier situations with a refreshing vein of comedy as Glabrio. Mr. Mayne Lynton is well placed as Nero; and Mr. Dorothy Last is a popular Berenice.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. Jack Field.—The leading item is supplied by Mlle. Suzanne de Verneuil and ladies, who furnish a series of poses depicting classic art, the most popular being "Diana," and "Morning Star," some well-rendered vocal efforts by Miss Ella Maynard forming an acquisition to the turn; the Three Bros. Huxter, American leapers and tumblers, provide a very exciting number; Elroy, the armless wonder, gives a truly remarkable demonstration of the use a man can be even when bereft of both arms; Thiessen provides a miniature entertainment with some highly trained dogs; Carl Lynn, animal mimic, pays a return visit, and receives a warm welcome; and Dave O'Toole does well as a comedian. The remaining turns are supplied by Rod. Bowden, eccentric comedian, and Carlotta Levey, vocalist.

PONTEFRACT.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Manager, Tom Diacoff.—Ted Karno and company, four in number, appear in the funny pantomime sketch Hotel de Quick. Mr. J. W. Hall, the Yorkshire comedian, has become a decided favourite with his original patter and songs. Mlle. Hengleur's troupe of Russian Poodles are well trained, and together with the leaping dogs give a good show. The Dancing Paceys are harmony singers and expert dancers. The Dunlops appear in a humorous cycle act. Lilian Sivardo is a charming lady gymnast. Carvel and Dora appear in a novel act introducing a ventriloquial item. The Alexscope depicts the Paris floods; and Miss Russell, banjoist and dancer, is deputising for the Victoria Troupe of instrumentalists.

PORTH.—PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Poole's, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. J. Bynorth.—William Leo and Helen Bentley are presenting here a playlet of parody and sentiment, entitled The King's Counsel; the Phœnix Trio of harmony singers and dancers are given a warm reception; Emily Lyndale is a unique dancer; Susie and Protti give a good dancing act; that fine comedian Tom Wootwell sings his songs with great success; and Pop Dearey, the Three Alskarnos, and Minnie Love are also in the bill.

PORTSMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—A welcome return visit by Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Benson is attracting an appreciative and intellectual audience. They opened on Monday with an excellent presentation of The Taming of the Shrew, and successively Julius Cæsar, Twelfth Night, Macbeth, The Merry Wives of Windsor, The Winter's Tale, As You Like It, and Richard III., with Miss Genevieve Ward as Queen Margaret, have been billed.

PRINCE'S.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Agate.—Mr. J.

the onlookers with his wonderful tricks, and is very popular; a novelty here are the comedian baboons introduced by Capt. Taylor; Valoni's highly-trained pigeons and juggling rivet attention; the Bijou Juvenile Troupe display their dancing abilities; Kitty Marion, Stevens and Brett, Two Nevarros, Fred E. Ellis, Maggie Nolan, and pictures gratify the audience.

PRESTON.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, The Executors of the late Mr. W. Johnson; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Alban Newton.—Mr. Raynor's company, in répertoire, is paying a welcome return visit with Moths, Jim the Penman, and Young Mrs. Winthrop. On Monday Moths was staged. Mr. Clinton Baddeley gave a characteristic rendering of Prince Zouroff; Mr. Raynor made a hit as Lord Jura; Mr. Milton C. Curtis was an acceptable Duke of Mull; Mr. Conrad Heywood was again seen in his old part of Correzé, which he sustains in his usual able manner; Miss Cecilia Dare gave a clever rendition of the Duchess de Sonnaz; Miss Francis Waring was an interesting Lady Dolly; Miss Dora Dench was a natural Vere Herbert; and Miss Hilda Blance an excellent Fuschia Leach.

Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Page; General-Manageress, Mrs. M. M. Clarkson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. E. Clarkson.—Miss Hilda Beverley's company, in A Destroyer of Men, is here this week. Mr. H. Ryeland-Leigh as the rascally Count Starevitch, imbues the part with the necessary amount of villainy; Mr. Herbert Pearson, in the triple rôle of Mishla, Herr Runz, and Uno, has a heavy part, but emerges with much success; Mr. James Jarrett is also to be complimented on his portrayal of Michael Nirshla; Mr. J. Armitage sustains the dual rôle of Fedore Strellitzke and Paul Starevitch most capably; the comic relief is well supplied by Mr. Edward Keith as Coco Tatchoski, ably supported by Miss Dorothy Hilderbrand, a vivacious Nina Patticake. Mr. Arthur Swaine is a good Col. Limevitch; and Messrs. Leonard Conroy and Tom Slater as General Drakensburg and Sergeant Kranz are both successful. Miss Mary Brammer as Vida Ravel plays with feeling throughout; and Miss Elsie Schular as Vashti and Miss Louie Underwood as Nadine are deserving of praise.

Royal Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank E. Burdett.—Mr. William Holland's pantomime, Aladdin, is this week's attraction, and nothing has been stinted in the production; the dresses, scenery, and accessories are good, whilst the chorus and special music by Caffyn Baxter is not the least of the attractions. Miss Helen Charles is an excellent Aladdin, and her specialities are deservedly well appreciated; the Three Comedy Chanters as the Emperor and Bo-Bi, and Bo-Ko (the Royal policemen) render excellent service; Miss Poppie Holland is a bewitching Princess; Miss Beatrice Vere a capital Yum Yum; and Mr. Robb Wilton as Widow Twankey, an excellent dame, is funny without the least vulgarity; Miss Francis Haskoll is a dashing Pekoe; and Miss Queenie Tilbury and Bertha Clifton as Electrica and Lilo respectively are most successful. The fun is materially assisted by the whimsicalities of Bob Selvidge as Abanazar and Kennedy Allen as Wishee Washee.

RADCLIFFE (near Manchester).—Grand Opera House.—Sole Owner, Mr. Geo. T. Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. James Boothman.—Playgoers are again favoured with a welcome visit of Mr. George Munro and his specially selected company. In the comedietta, Delicate Ground, on Monday, Miss Doris V. Horrocks as Pauline displayed much talent, and Mr. Ernest Digges as Citizen Sangfroid was seen to advantage. The Sleigh Bells was performed in excellent style, Mr. George Munro leaving nothing to be desired as Matthias, while Mr. E. Digges as Christian did excellent work. Mr. W. Lawrence as Hans and Mr. Ivor Barnard as Father Walter rendered valuable assistance, and Miss Doris V. Horrocks was a charming Annette. During the week David Garrick, Hamlet, Othello, and Macbeth are billed.

RAMSGATE.—Royal Palace Theatre.—Under the Sole Direction of Mr. Chas. Evans; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Bowman.—The Sign of the Cross, by Mr. G. W. Bowes' company, has done good business at the Palace this week. Mr. Leonard Yorke is a fine manly Marcus Superbus; Miss Florence Maber plays with grace and power as Mercia; Nero has a brilliant exponent in Mr. Aubrey Fitzmaurice. On Friday night, to celebrate the 21,000th performance of the play, the management decided to present each lady in the audience with a souvenir portrait of the late Wilson Barrett, the creator of the part of Marcus.

Marina Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. J. Attack.—Under the popular régime of Mr. Attack the Marina Picturedrome reopened its door on Monday with many improvements. Capital varieties are supplied by Stave (comedy artist) and his amusing dog Spot.

RAWTENSTALL.—Grand Theatre.—Lessees Manchester Electric Theatres, Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. E. Renshaw.—The programme this week is an exceptionally enjoyable one, the pictures especially interesting, including as they do An Egyptian Maid, Curse of a Wandering Minstrel, A One-legged Story, Paris from the Eiffel Tower, For Valour, The Merry Clowns (an exceptionally good one), A Trip up the Rhine, Redwing's Grititude, and In Love With a Picture Girl. Variety turns are given by Miss Lucy Lynd, who is certainly one of the best artists in her line. Mr. Harold Hughes has good songs.

READING.—Royal County Theatre.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. A. Evans.—Mr. T. C. Wray and Mr. Austen Hurgon's principal company is appearing here successfully in the popular musical comedy, The Girls of Gottenburg. The company is under the able management of Mr. Cyril Leonard. The piece is admirably staged, and the costumes and uniforms are exceedingly tasteful and smart. Mr. Phil Smith works hard as Max Moddelkopf, and gives a vastly humorous impersonation; Mr. Murray Moone acts capitally as Prince Otto; Mr. Percy Clarke is a good representative of Captain Albrecht; Mr. Charles Berkeley plays amusingly as the Sergeant of Hussars, and also dances with agility; Mr. Ralph Forster gives an excellent character-sketch as the stolid Burgomaster; Mr. A. Galloway as the Innkeeper, Mr. George Robertson as Adolph, the Town Clerk, Mr. Lionel Yaldwin as the General, Mr. James Cook as the Policeman, and Mr. Jones Spencer as Corporal Schmidt all sustain their parts effectively. Miss Hilda Vining is very pleasing as Meitzi; Miss Nan Stuart is a charming Elsa; and Miss Nellie Laurence is well suited to the character of the Burgomaster's Daughter. Mr. William Paterson is an efficient conductor, and has the full chorus and augmented orchestra well in hand.

The Palace.—Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Howard Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. E. Draco.—McWalten and Partner appear in An Artist's Home, in which they do some amusing tricks and produce some clever lightning sketches; J. P. Ling, who makes a welcome reappearance, is an accomplished comedian and mimic; Arabella Allen, who has also been here before, displays great dramatic ability in her character-sketches from famous authors; Ruby Dahl, with her merry mannikins, gives a very clever living marionette performance; Sid Bedford and company create great hilarity in their farcical comedy, The Second Mrs. Chester; the Three Coopers, comedy and harmonising vocalists, give a good musical turn; Frank Couch and Miss Kitty Meredith appear in an amusing comedy interlude; Irene Meldon, comedienne, is well received; and the Santeron Wonders display great skill and agility in vaulting and other feats. Pictures of the Italian naval manœuvres on the Bioscope complete an acceptable programme.

ROCHDALE.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Burton.—The Flag Lieutenant is finely staged, and holds the audience interested throughout. Mr. Mark Paton admirably sustains the part of Vice-Admiral Wynn; Mr. Guy Newall plays the hero, Dick Lascelles, with freshness and vigour; Mr. Frederick Leister portrays with stirring effect the part of Major Thesiger; Miss Mabel Rees acts with power the rôle of Mrs. Cameron; and Miss Rita Johnson charmingly enacts the part of Lady Hermoine Wynne.

ROTHERHAM.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Holbery Hardy.—Mr. Allan Wilkie and company are here this week with a repertory, including Hamlet, The Merchant of Venice, The Sleigh Bell, and The Merry Wives of Windsor. Mr. Allan Wilkie gives scholarly renderings of Hamlet and Shylock; Miss Carrie Baillie as Ophelia and Portia displays histrionic ability; Mr. Eugene Wellesley as Laertes has a strong part; and Mr. Alexander Marsh is seen to advantage as the Ghost. The other parts are capably and effectively enacted, and the mounting and scenery are elaborate.

Hippodrome, Ltd. — Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. E. Smith; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. R. Hollande.—Miss Marquess with her highly-trained ponies is delighting the house here; the Selbinis are an exceptionally clever troupe of expert cyclists and acrobats; Cliff and Kean are smart comedy artists; Marie Francis is a pleasing comedienne; Dan Robans does a finished vocal turn; Mary Golding is a good ballad vocalist; the Langley Trio receive well-deserved applause; and the Arntes do a capital song and dance act.

SALFORD.—Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—The Drama of Life, by Lingford Carson, with that gentleman as the hero, Harry Beech, drew a good house on Monday. The heroine was successfully presented by Miss Patty Hastings; villainy was well presented by Mr. Archie Helsby as Walter Beech; and Mr. Marshall Meade as Jack Lawton, Mr. Sidney C. Cranston as Sir Dobson Wilde, and Miss A. Oliver as Lady Jane Wilde supplied most of the comic element. A number of good character studies were given by Mr. Vernon Daily, Mr. Geo. B. Davies, Mr. G. Byrne, Mr. Alf Kitson, Mr. Cal Hunt-Mortlake, Miss B. Hudson, and Miss D. Denville.

Regent Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—Managing Director, Mr. W. Turner; General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. R. H. Lee.—Miss Juliette's highly-trained sea lions give a clever performance; "La Fiancée du Dragon" is the title of a smart acrobatic terpsichorean act by Les Alex Carangeot; Adele Moraw, French comedienne, is a captivating dancer and singer; Sergt. Bert Powell is an expert magician; acceptable business is also done by Jack Holland, eccentric comedian; Rellabo Brothers, artistic gymnasts; Allen Hanbury, patter comedian; George Benson, comedian and mimic; and Percy Maye, clever female impersonator and graceful dancer.

Royal Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; General-Manager, Mr. H. Winstanley; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. W. J. Boyle.—Mr. Wm. Watson's Robinson Crusoe is a bright, pretty, and funny panto, and the result is enormous houses (twice nightly). An ideal Robinson Crusoe is provided by Mlle. de Rose, whose voice is well suited to the catchy solos which she sings; the Waldrons (Joe and Ettie) as the twins, John Willie and Mary Crusoe, leave the audience very little breathing time between the laughs they cause; Mrs. Crusoe has an exponent in Phil Lestor, who does not overdo the part; Billy Watson does well as Will Atkins; Lambert and Butler are two comic policemen; Cliff Dacre as Wreckeros and Ruby Carlton as Wavina sing very well; an excellent King Guzzlem is well presented by Mr. J. H. Hawtrey, who also has a good voice; Bendene as the Crocodile and Dick Nash as the Dog do some clever work; Miss Hilda Claremont is a charming Polly; Miss Rene Ralph is a smart Jack, and the Cannibal Queen is well sustained by Mme. Louie Gilbert; the Sisters Gaye are charming dancers; the Three Royal Temples are much applauded for their singing; the choruses and ballet manœuvres show excellent training; the scenery is realistic and pretty.

Opera House and Assembly Rooms, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond.—Suspicious Ma-in-Law and Country Servants are two comical films. Among the other pictures are Cowboy Millionaire, Bear-hunting in the Arctic, Egyptian Maid, Her Terrible Ordeal, and Two Mr. Whites. Mr. Tom Sherlock sings "Is there no message from England."

New Central Hall.—Proprietors, Messrs. Matt Raymond Co.; Manager, Mr. A. H. Gilbert.—The Raymond pictures include The Unfortunate Lover, An Ingenious Safe Deposit, On the Border, Comato the Sioux, Choosing a Mother-in-Law, Foolshead on Temperance, The Grand Sire, and Servants and Masters. Mr. Gilbert's songs are "For he's a jolly good fellow" and "For months and months and months."

SALISBURY.—County Hall.—Proprietor, Mr. Arthur Whitehead; Business-Manager, Mr. T. Brinsmead.—Miss Dudley Bennett and T. C. Wray's company gave two admirable performances of Miss Hook of Holland to crowded houses. A capital study of Mr. Hook was given by Mr. James Harcourt, who provides abundant mirth; Mr. Reginald Hunter as Simon Slinks was excellent; and the same must be said of Mr. R. Harvey as Ludwig. Mr. Sam Lockeridge as the Bandmaster looked very smart, and his catchy songs made him popular; Mr. H. Jackson as Captain Adrian Paap was well placed, and his song "Soldiers of the Netherlands" was very fine; Miss Kathleen Starling in the rôle of Miss Hook was most successful with her bright manner and dainty singing; and as Mina Miss Muff Carew was very clever. Mr. Geoffrey Blackmore conducts.

SCARBOROUGH.—The Aquarium.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. W. Kitchingman; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Bench.—Harry Nelson, comedian, occupies premier position here, and is heartily applauded; Nora Doone is well received; Les Trippellos are responsible for a very agreeable musical turn; and the Society Quartette execute clever dances. Edie Endon is a smart high-kicker and dancer; Ted Saunders is successful; and Carpos Bros. give an excellent acrobatic display.

The New Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Tully.—The attraction here is Easily Led, in which Mr. J. Pitt Hardacre takes the part of Coupeau, Mr. H. F. Maltby that of Gouget, Mr. V. Harvey Cantier, with Miss Julie Kennard as his accomplice, and Miss G. Hall as Gervaise, the loafer being well portrayed by Mr. F. Lomax.

SEACOMBE.—King's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Kiernan.—The romantic play, The Love of the Princess, is here this week. Miss Dorothy Haigh, as Princess Idalia plays the part with distinction; Mr. Frank Harvey gets in some good dramatic work as Prince Conrad; and Mr. Richard Vane as the traitor, Count Nicholas, succeeds in evoking general detestation. Mr. John Burton as the profligate King Josef is responsible for some good work; as also is Mr. Beckett Bould at Lieut. Orlans and Mr. John Worth as Lieut. Zaroff. Mr. D. Laurence Doyle as Prince Regent of Narava and Mr. Francis Serle as Duke Scarfe are both equal to their respective parts, the comic relief being introduced by Mr. Edgar Morgan as Boris. Miss Josephine Lee touches a sympathetic cord as Constantia; and Lady Irene is piquantly played by Miss Maude Steeple.

SEAHAM HARBOUR.—New Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. A. C. Harrison; Manager, Mr. Wallace Childs.—The Eve of Her Wedding is being successfully presented by Mr. Wilson Benge's company. Mr. Cecil A. Melton is a worthy successor to Mr. Benge in the character of George Tremain; Squire Leverton is faithfully drawn by Mr. Cecil A. Melton; Mr. H. Danson (General-Manager) submits a powerful conception of Dick Leverton; an amusing study of Rudolph Earle is contributed by Mr. C. Miller Doyle; Dean Clifton is strongly interpreted by Mr. Harry Leyton; Mr. Chas. W. Dockwray is capital in the dual rôle of Paul Carstairs and Hiram P. Younger; Mr. Robert Hastings is a popular Jack Hearne; Miss Pauline Nanton excels in her portrayal of Marvis Leverton; Miss Annie Hylton plays skilfully as Renie de Telle; Miss Nancy J. Clarke as Gwendoline Younger is a smart interpretation; and as Edith Trevanion Miss Amy Milstrad wins praise. The scenic effects are admirable.

SHEFFIELD.—Lyceum Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—The Earl and the Girl was played to a good audience on Monday by Mr. Bannister Howard's excellent company. The dresses and scenery were first rate, and there was a well-balanced chorus. Mr. Bert Beswick appeared to revel in the rich humour of Jim Cheese, and his comic business and dry remarks caused great mirth. Other characters were cleverly represented by Miss Lily Gullick, Miss Ada Waugh, Mr. J. M. East, Mr. Arthur Hyde, Mr. Sam Lyssons, and Mr. Herbert St. John.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. Henfrey Aldred.—The spring season opened on Monday with the laughable musical absurdity His Majesty's Guests, well played by Mr. Fred Karno's company. Mr. George Hester was amusing as Sergeant Lightning; Miss Winnie Bradfield was a prepossessing Lady Maud; and the fun was kept up by Miss A. Wright as Miss Manley and Mr. G. Gordon as Mr. Minks. The songs and concerted numbers were well received.

Alexandra Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—The Bad Girl of the Family, played by Mr. Fred Melville's company, concludes a very successful two weeks' engagement to-night.

Empire Palace.—The Moss Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—The admired and accomplished vocalist Miss Evie Greene made her first appearance on the local music-hall stage on Monday, and scored an immediate and genuine success with three songs and a humorous dialect recitation; Mr. W. J. Churchill, a pantomime favourite here, caused great laughter; and the programme also included the Three Delaries, in a finely-staged gymnastic spectacle, The Demons of the Grotto, which was loudly applauded. Frank Maura, the Mexican wonder; Mr. Tom Clara, vocal entertainer; Miss Minnie Engler and company, in a comic sketch; Mr. Charles Vincent, comedian; Miss Leonie Dixon, comedienne; the Glenroy troupe of dancers; the Bioscope, with comic pictures; and Mr. Harry Allister, with lifelike impersonations of political celebrities.

The Hippodrome.—The Barrasford Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Frank Poole.—Mr. Fred Karno's burlesque company opened on Monday in the lively knockabout absurdity Skating, which kept the crowded house in roars of laughter; Mr. Fred Russell, accompanied by "Coster Joe," is a popular favourite; Miss Kitty Collyer's vivacious contributions to the programme are well received; and other successful entertainers this week are Hector and Loretta, in a novel act; Ritter and Foster; Mr. Brent Hayes, banjo expert; and the Christie Duo. The clever illusion "Buddha's Blackboard" and the Bioscope pictures are also pleasing.

Central Hall.—Lessees, the Jasper Redfern Co., Ltd.—The new-comers on Monday were the talented Dudley Girls; Farrell and Dunn, Caledonian duettists; Miss Vera, vocalist; and Mr. George Bernard, comedian. The Opening of Parliament and other artistic new pictures were deservedly applauded by a crowded house.

SHREWSBURY.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Director, Mr. W. Yates Gregory; General-Manager, Mr. Thos. Baugh—Mr. G. Carlton Wallace's capable and hard-working company is here this week with The Lancashire Lad. Mr. Harry T. Wood is a manly and conscientious hero as David Elmore; Mr. Ernest Vaughan as Max Carlton, the villain, acts with considerable ability; Mr. Wilton Reed merits high praise as Jem Wincote; Mr. Bob Anderson is droll and capable as John Willie Wardle; Mr. Geo. Stuart is a picturesque and amusing character as Tom; Miss Madge Douglas is an attractive Jessie Wincote; Miss Muriel Inglis as Lorna Wincote plays creditably; Miss Lilian Rignold as Jane Alice Clithero acquits herself admirably; Miss Gertie Henderson as Kitty de Vere is deserving of considerable praise; Miss Gertie Haye as Florrie Mayfair acts with spirit and success; Miss Molly Shine as Trixie Golightly makes the best use of her opportunities; and Miss Nellie Warden is successful in the dialect part of Mother Wardle. Miss V. Hayden makes a typical mill girl as Maggie Ramsden; and Miss Louise Norden as Mary Ann Burns, another mill girl, gives a good interpretation.

SMETHWICK.—Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. C. Barnard; Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson.—Messrs. Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard's company is again presenting The Midnight Wedding, which is followed with interest. Mr. A. E. Winnington Barnes gives a splendid portrayal of the dashing Swordmaster, Paul Valmar; Mr. John Nesbitt impressively portrays the Crown Prince Leopold; Mr. Charles Whitlock acquits himself with remarkable ability as Captain Rudolph von Scarsbruck, and a similar remark is applicable to the acting of St. George Frere, who appears as Lieut. Eugene von Strelsburg. Mr. Forbes Harrison is good as Father Gerard. Messrs. James E. Page, Wm. Franklin, and Algie Spalding cause roars of laughter by their impersonation of Max, Otto, and Bobo. Miss Jessica Black plays merrily as Kathie; Miss Gwladys Faunce acquits herself creditably in the difficult part of Satanella; Miss Margaret Brodie as the Princess Astrea von Strelsburg makes a decided hit. The play is well mounted in every detail.

SOUTHAMPTON.—Grand Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Fredk. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Weston.—Mr. F. W. Bolam's company is appearing in The Sins of Society. Miss Grace E. Leslie repeats her fine impersonation of Lady Marion, and looks charming; Miss Cissie Carlton is excellent as Lady Goldbury, and her efforts in the comedy line are well seconded by Mr. Maitland Marler as James Hogg. Mr. H. Bonhote Wilson is a capital Sir Dorian March; and Mr. C. F. Collings gives a satisfactory rendering of Noel Ferrers. Miss Rosamund Bunton (Lady Gwendolen) and Mr. Sidney C. St. Clair (Mr. Morris) are also seen to advantage.

Hippodrome.—Joint Managing-Directors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and W. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Yardley.—Joe Peterman and company are presenting The Butler's Party with conspicuous success; the Gotham Quartette are, as usual, loudly acclaimed; and the Three Laurels excel in a smart acrobatic act. Benn's Dutch boys and girls are exceedingly popular; and a novel music act is introduced by G. H. Carlisle and W. H. Wellman, who score an emphatic success. Gladys Archbutt, comedienne, and Owen McGiveney, character impersonator, also add to an attractive bill of fare.

Empire Theatre.—Lessees, the Walturdaw Co., Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Auguste Denton.—An interesting programme of pictures is given twice nightly, and good houses rule. On Wednesday night a special concert was given in aid of the Needy Children Fund. The performance was a success.

Philharmonic Hall.—Lessees, the Walturdaw Co., Ltd.; Manager, Mr. F. Boustead.—The animated pictures here are excellent and up to date.

SOUTHPORT.—Opera House and Winter Gardens.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Percy Hutchison; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Clarkson.—Mr. William Maclaren and Miss Lily C. Bandmann's capable company, in the powerful Roman play Claudian, forms the attraction at the Opera House this week. Mr. W. Maclaren submits an ideal and striking impersonation of the title-rôle, which he depicted throughout in a manner worthy of his high histrionic reputation; Miss Lily C. Bandmann is an admirable and charming representative of Almida, the part being enacted with artistic skill, both in its lighter and stronger phases; the treacherous Tetrach had a highly-commendable delineator in Mr. Frank Owen Chambers; Mr. Douglas Earle did full justice to the part of Agazil; the comedy parts were well sustained by Mr. Chal. T. Chaloner and Miss Maud Garth as Belos and Edessa respectively. Other prominent characters were ably portrayed by Mr. Weston Hubbard (Alcares), Mr. George Roberts (the Holy Clement), Mr. Franklyn Bellamy (Theorus), Miss Amy Hardcastle (Serena), and Miss Jean Fergusson (Clia). The Cymbal Dance was excellently executed by Mlle. Stella Dorin.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. John Coulson.—Mr. T. Edward Ward presents His Real Wife to good houses. Miss Ward is charming and emotional as Rose Avondale; Lady Sybil Welton is powerfully portrayed by Miss Ella C. Turner; Mr. J. W. Evelyn submits a fine characterisation of Martin Avondale; Herbert Barton is well represented by Mr. Clifford Bean; the rascally Colombe is cleverly depicted by Mr. Charles Yorke. The comedy is well sustained by Mr. T. Edward Ward as Simon Bletherell, Miss Clarrie Yandell as Betty, and Mr. Walter Walmsley as Alf. Snickers.

Empire Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ernest Bridgen.—Les Rubens, the fortune-tellers, have an excellent reception; Rossi Ashton does some clever sketching; W. Selkirk's juvenile spectacle, "Our Empire's Defenders," demonstrates the excellent training of the children employed; O'Malley and Brown are popular comedians. The remaining items are J. J. Maunix, the coffee-coloured coon; May Thorne, comedienne; and Ena Baxter, vocalist. The two last named have been engaged for the Moss and Thornton tour as a result of the Wednesday trial matinées organised and carried on by Mr. Ernest Bridgen, the manager. The Bioscope complete the programme.

SPENNYMOOR.—Cambridge Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. David Collins.—The attraction here consists of Mr. Morton Powell's company in A Girl's Temptation. Mr. Frank V. Fenn is a powerful Guy Warren; Miss Gertrude Gilbert makes herself a great favourite as Kate Stirling; Mr. Clifton Earle is a success as Mark Klaw; Mr. Charles Herbert is a capital Basile Warren; Mr. Gerald Nolan acts creditably as Geoffrey Stirling; Mr. W. A. Crande as Moss Isaacstein is effective; Mr. Tom Handley as the Hon. Charles Clade does well; Mr. Fred J. Mace as Jim Judd is a success; Miss Blanche Lee does justice to the rôle of Annie Brown; Miss Winnie Donovan as Lady Constance Heathfield, Miss Louie Walton as Mrs. Stirling, and Miss Amy Corallie as Jemima Jossap also act capably.

STAFFORD.—Lyceum Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Elphinstone.—The principal item of a fine variety programme is Consul, the almost man, a remarkable specimen of animal training; Mlle. Rosina gives a smart musical act; the illustrated patter of "Mr. E" is diverting; Harry Drew is an accomplished baritone vocalist; the impersonations of Amandus are wonderfully realistic; Rosie Gaston is a chic comedienne with catchy songs; the Evalos give a good entertainment, comprising flying rings, comic juggling, and hoop manipulating; and the ventriloquial turn by Fred Neiman is well received.

ST. HELENS.—Theatre and Opera House.—Proprietors, St. Helens Theatre, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. M'Leod Loader; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harry E. Johnson.—Messrs. G. M. Polini and Austin Melford's company is here in The Silver King. Wilfred Denver is taken in a most able manner by Mr. Fred D. Daviss; Miss Mildred Surrey portrays Nellie with power and feeling; a capital Daniel Jaikes is Mr. Edward J. George; as Capt. Skinner, Mr. Sidney Lynn is excellent; and Elijah Coombe and Henry Corket are equally well done by Mr. Arthur Wright and Mr. Ralph Leon. Miss Mary Glanbrane as Olive Skinner deserves praise; and Miss Margaret Rooke makes an amusing Tabitha Durden.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford, Sley, and Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. Leo Weisker.—The London Grand Opera Company is presenting here abridged versions of the more popular operas, a pleasing representation of Faust being given on Monday evening; Park's Eton Boys and Girton Girls do well in song and chorus; N. T. Kioto and C. H. Esa perform some daring balancing feats; and the Maples' turn is enjoyed. Guy Ryder whistles beautifully; and Will Burnand is good at impersonation. Lil O'Gorman sings and dances well.

STOCKPORT.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—A distinct treat is provided habitues here in the visit of Messrs. Armitage and Leigh's company presenting Lucky Durham to large audiences. As John Durham Mr. Edmund Kennedy acts with much power and effect; Lord Mountfallon is capably impersonated by Mr. William Calvert; Mr. Arthur Leigh makes a highly satisfactory Hon. Reginald Steighton; and Mr. Charles Wemyss acts ably as Mr. Vallerton. As Mrs. Durham Miss Nellie Bonser plays with sympathetic feeling; Florence Tressillian charmingly portrays the part of Helen Vallerton; Lady Mountfallon is acceptably portrayed by Miss Frances Wolviston; and Miss Dorrie Turner acquits herself meritoriously as the Hon. Margaret Steighton.

Empire.—Proprietors, the Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black.—The Three Meers, clever and amusing wire performers, head the bill here; and among others appearing are Ford and Hanson in their pleasing musical act; Adelaide Waldorf, a delightful soprano vocalist; Juno Salmo, whose performance is weird and wonderful; Mr. and Mrs. George Leonard in a very laughable sketch, Coming Home; Joe Cookson, an entertaining ventriloquist; Burns and Bentley, smart simultaneous dancers; and Morton Coyne, a successful comedian.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.—Castle Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Cecil Imeson.—Messrs. John Tiller and J. Chas. Imeson's pantomime Jack and Jill commenced its second week's run here on Monday. Miss Marguerite Broadfoote makes a dashing Prince; Miss Moyna Hill is very chic; and Miss Cissie Iris and Miss Gladys Satchwell are well liked as Jack and Jill; Mr. Ernest Rees, Mr. Will Lytton, and Mr. Fred Walmsley keep the audience in high good humour. The charming dresses and beautiful scenery are greatly admired.

Hippodrome.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. Stainton.—One of the most successful pantomimes yet produced is Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's Dick Whittington. Miss Ethel Campbell wins hearty approval for her impersonation of Dick; Miss Tina Franks as Alice is charming; Miss Ivy Proudfoot is a captivating Viscount Piccadilly; Miss Ethel Haidee is an attractive Princess; Madame Benita, Fairy Sunshine, is an excellent vocalist; Mr. Deane Tribune as Jack Idle is a fine comedian; Mr. Albert Williams supplies a comic turn as Sarah; Mr. Jack Hodgson makes a good Alderman Fitzwarren; Mr. Leo King as King Rat is good; the part of the faithful Cat is admirably played by Mr. Tom Gilmore. Pauline Rivers's troupe of Merry Mill Girls is a speciality, clever and attractive. The pantomime throughout goes with a swing, and the singing is excellent.

Grand Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. John Batty; Manager, Mr. Walter Batty.—The melodrama The Better Land is presented here by Mr. Fred Granville's company. Mr. Paul Lovet is a great success as Philip Radcliffe; and Mr. Stanley Radcliffe appears with distinction as Hubert Radcliffe; Miss Margaret Trevosper fills the rôle of Doris creditably; and Miss Madge Trevelyan gives a good portrayal of Mercedes. The piece is well attended.

STOKE-ON-TRENT.—The Hippodrome.—Lessee, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Arthur Burton.—Another series in The Adventures of Ronnie Blair is presented this week by Mr. Vernon Sansbury, Miss Josephine Colona, and company. These sketches are capably presented, and the scenery used is most effective. After a long absence, Roxborough and Wright pay a return visit in their musical pot-pourri; Joan Deering's violin solos are well rendered; and Les Zanonis are smart in a club-juggling act. Damerell and Rutland are topical up-to-date cross-talking comedians; and also here are Chas. Woodward, Tom Bass, and the Perfection pictures.

STOURBRIDGE.—Alhambra Palace of Varieties.—General-Manager, Mr. Douglas C. Phelps.—Morritt, illusionist, is the starring engagement, and draws full houses twice nightly. The Three Veros foot the bill and give a smart dancing turn. Keane Harker is a capital comedian; Karl is an expert juggler. The Blind Man with the marvellous memory puzzles his hearers. George Vere is a capital dancer and comedian, and some good Pictures complete the show.

SUNDERLAND.—King's Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. S. F. Davidson; General-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Townrow.—Mr. John Tiller's pantomime Bo-Peep is being played here by an excellent company. Miss Nancy Hearne is the principal boy, and as Boy Blue gives much pleasure by her captivating performance; Miss Zena Hay in the title-rôle wins favour by her sweet singing; Mr. Fred Eastman in the rôle of Mother Hubbard keeps the audience merry with his many eccentricities. Messrs. Harry Harrigan and Will Holt as Hoppit and Poppit contribute much rollicking humour; and Mr. Harry Kirk as the Squire, Fred Warwick the landlord, and Miss Gertrude Harrison his wife, all get the very utmost out of their parts. The Diamond Troupe of dancers and the Twelve Pretty Primroses contribute acceptable specialities. The scenery is excellent.

Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Dunn.—Mr. Harry Foxwell's company is playing A Broken Heart here. Miss Sheila Walsh is the principal lady, and as Mary Bernard she gives a meritorious performance. Mrs. Barnard is well done by Miss Louis Millward; Miss Helen Lowther is excellent as Grace Fanshaw; and Miss Daisy Rochefort gives much promise as Little May. Mr. Harry Cullenford gives an exceedingly fine rendering of John Barnard, and Messrs. A. C. Holmes (Stephen Raylton) and Ernest Duval (Gash-Gills) are first-class representatives of villainy. The lighter vein is in the able hands of Miss Nancy Mitchell (Sally Travner) and Mr. Millar Wilson (Tony Tibbetts).

Empire Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Mr. Ernest Stevens presents Cinderella twice nightly here. Mr. E. Stratham Staples as the Baron is popular, and with the Baroness (Mr. Alfred Clark) has many funny scenes. The two work capitally together. Much humour comes also from Mr. W. Leopold, junr., as the page. Miss Felicia Fermin presents a dainty and attractive Cinderella; Miss Agnes Tandy makes a dashing Prince; Miss May Sheridan is in the rôle of the Fairy, and pleases all with her sweet voice. Miss Hollis Hook is a stylish Duke, and Mr. Harry Ongar as Dandini contributes much good singing and clever dancing. The Lottie Stone troupe of dancers are also worthy of praise for their graceful work.

Avenue Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—A good programme is drawing correspondingly good audiences. The Sisters Lillian are having a cordial reception for their pleasing vocal duets; Belford and Mars present a capital vocal comedy scena, The Lady from Cook's; Ted. E. Bond is deserving of praise as a comedian. The pictorial part of the programme is equally as good. The Heart of a Cowboy and A Blackleg's Conversion being the principal films.

SWINDON.—Empire Theatre.—Proprietors, The Wiltshire Entertainments Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Manners.—Mr. Fred Melville's company is here in the stirring drama Her Forbidden Marriage. Mr. Louis Hector gives a manly impersonation of George Maddison; Mr. W. H. Porter is effective as the scoundrel Charles Devereux; his accomplice Geoffrey Broughton is ably rendered by Mr. T. Macdonald; Mr. Fred De Vere causes endless fun as Timothy Tuttutt; Mr. Frank Denis is well placed as Sir George Lancaster; Miss Sybil Hare is very good as Patty; Lucy finds a charming exponent in Miss Alice Bowes; Miss Grace Lester is excellent as the scheming Lady Lucretia; and Miss Gladys Newcombe portrays the Mother Superior in a sympathetic manner.

County Electric Pavilion — Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur E. Melborne.—The pictures here continue to be popular. The films shown this week include The Grand-Sire, 'Twixt Red Man and White, A Visit to Berne, The Life of Moses, Jealous

Miss Marian Ripley is a charming Sybil. Recklaw Poole is played by Mr. W. Lemmon Warde to perfection; and the same remark applies to Mr. Wynn Weaver (Hon. Fitzroy Lock), Mr. J. Henry Twyford (Captain Partington), Mr. Walter Matthews (Walter Angel), and Mr. Charles R. Stone (Papa Bartholdy).

WELLINGBOROUGH. — EXCHANGE HALL. — The Woman of Kronstadt was smartly played here by Mr. Keith G. Kenneth's company, from Monday to Wednesday. Miss Betty Fairfax made a charming and accomplished Marion Best; the Colonel Bonzo of Mr. K. G. Kenneth was an admirable piece of acting; and Mr. Bernard Copping was decidedly meritorious as Captain Zassulic; Mr. Horace Sinclair put any amount of vigour into the blustering General Stefanoff; Madame de Bellegarde was ably taken by Miss Rosamond Thompson; and a satisfactory Princess was found in Miss Edith Vogne.

WEST BROMWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. R. Nightingale.—Scottie and his variety combine are providing the attractions here, with the military episode, Napoleon at Waterloo, played on Tuesday, Friday, and Saturday. Mr. Scott Alexander was a capitl Napoleon; and Miss Kitty Caen was delightful as Kathleen O'Moore. The same evenings Trapped by Sexton Blake, a fine detective incident, was staged.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. R. Colin; Resident-Manager, Mr. Joe Hastings.—Pantomime takes the place of pictures and variety at this place of amusement. Mr. R. Nightingale's Aladdin has been warmly received. It is an excellent company, Miss Edna Latonne in the title-rôle being very charming. Mr. Harry Albery as Widow Twankey is delightfully funny; Miss Jenny Hachett as the Princess and Miss May Rivers as Pekoe are also clever; and the Cin Sing of Mr. Laurie Oban is a smart performance.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville.—The Idol of Paris is drawing large audiences. The rôle of Flare-Flare could not be in better hands than those of Miss Annie Bell, who makes the most of the intense dramatic situations; Mr. Scott Leighton is capital as Victor Cashells; and Mr. Alec Alexander most capably interprets the rôle of Philip D'Esterre. The humour of the austere character of Mme. Sancterre is well brought out by Miss Frances Bruce; and none of the drollery of Anne and Tatave is lost by Miss Annie Megson and Mr. H. Vivian Thomas, who are great favourites.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Hill.—Renee and Wallis, in their comedy and dancing duo, are taking well. Their humour is good and their dancing neat. The Mannikins, living marionettes, also provide a turn which is novel and smart. The chief picture is illustrative of the playlet A Child's Forgiveness; the Adventures of Foolshead are also good; and the travel picture, showing the Fjords of Norway, is exceptionally fine.

EMPIRE THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Thompson.—Phil Percival, a clever entertainer with a ready wit, takes his audiences by storm; the breezy style and capital patter of Paul Barnes, American comedian and raconteur, also appeal to all; whilst the humour of Coverdale keeps everyone in a constant ripple of merriment. The Wire and the Liar is the title of a delightful little comedy duologue, in which Minnie Hunt and Rhys Thomas keep the patrons of the house well entertained; Henriquette Maude, the New Zealand travelling girl, tells the story of her travels in a very interesting manner; and the Royal Delomes are good in their novelty speciality, The Phantom Clogs. Talbot and Pearce are very charming in their pretty Japanese duologues; and the Westwoods, comedy cyclists, execute some clever feats. Katie Butler as a comedienne is dainty and good. Bioscope pictures complete the bill.

WHITEHAVEN.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Falconer Jacques.—Mr. Chas. H. Lester's company is engaged here in A Life for a Life. As Don Leon Mr. Lester is excellent, and Mr. Hugh Travers works hard as Pedro. Mr. W. Carr is well cast as the Sheriff, and Mr. Harold Kinton is good as Bunker Ben. Miss Dorothy Riddell scores as Kate, and Miss Lallah Davies is pleasing as Eulalie. A clever child study is that of Little Winnie Warden as Venetta.

WIDNES.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Kiddie; Secretary, Mr. Thomas Swinton.—The irresistibly funny farce, Miss Lancashire, Ltd., is presented here by Miss Florence Baines' strong company. Miss Madge Grey as Mary Ellen Thompson scores a richly deserved success. Mr. Gerald Gambier is effective as John Higgins; and in the parts of the son Harry and daughter Bertha, Mr. Allan Servington and Miss Mabelle Clinton are good; Miss Ruby Glyn is a charming and sweet heiress; Messrs. Arthur Henry as Herbert Fox, Londen Meadows as John Henry Thompson, Miss Amy Ross Clyde as Mrs. Thompson, and Mr. Sam C. Leslie as Moses Goldburg are distinctly funny, their antics creating much diversion; Mr. Henry Lloyd gives a good character study of Mr. Higgins' butler, and at intervals shines as a violinist of merit. The music is of a refreshing character, while the scenic effects are good. The orchestra, under the baton of Mr. Bert Harding, do their work in finished style. Amusing films on the bioscope are thoroughly appreciated.

CO-OPERATIVE HALL.—Lessees, Messrs. Hamilton and Hughes.—The following artists do well in their respective spheres: Mr. Gene Morelle, musical humorist; the Echos; Wilson Blackledge, society entertainer; and the Quality Quartette, harmonising humorists. The films presented are distinctly good, and include Dove Eyes' Gratitude, Dancing Tabloids, In Love with a Picture Girl, Poultry Breeding, Papa, Mama and Baby, and Muggins V.C.

WIGAN.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Co. — Crowded audiences assemble here to witness Mr. F. Melville's drama Married to the Wrong Man. Miss Mary Pemberton as the heroine acts with exceptional power; Mr. Harry Lonsdale is a hearty and manly Jack Gladwin; Mr. George Arthur plays Deering with great skill; Mr. Leonard Thackeray is distinctly clever as Jasper Skinner; and excellent service is rendered by Mr. Leonard Harrison as Sergeant Manners.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Co.—Premier position is occupied by Carrie Laurie's Juveniles, who are heartily encored for their singing and dancing; the Olympian team of trick cyclists are smart; Lily Lonsdale's vocal selections are well received; Alex Lukos' impersonations are very skilful; Neville and Mars are loudly applauded for their operatic singing; and the Lesters dance themselves into favour. Terry and Bentley give a most entertaining performance; Ernie Myers is an amusing comedian; Mlle. Telka causes quite an ovation with her illustrated songs; and Chris Cunard, a legmania performer, is good.

WISHAW, N.B. — PAVILION.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; General-Manager, Mr. René Clayton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Fred Nimse.—The tabloid musical comedy The Prince of the Dandies, with Arthur Watson and Flo Stanley in the cast, is topping the bill; Minnie D'Aubyn, chorus vocalist, is warmly applauded; Regan and Ryan are a couple of excellent comedians; the Brooklyn comedy Four are musically excellent, besides being decidedly funny; Kendrick and Laura are a couple of pleasing singers and clever dancers. Some excellent films on the Bioscope conclude.

WOLVERHAMPTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles Barnard; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lewis M. Chapman.—The visit of Mr. F. R. Benson's Shakespearean company is always looked forward to here, and a large house witnessed the performance of The Merchant of Venice on Monday. Mr. Henry Herbert gave a strikingly original study of Shylock, and was recalled again and again; Mr. Charles Sparrow made an ardent lover as Bassanio; Mr. Robert Atkins was excellent as Antonio; Lorenzo was admirably enacted by Mr. Pat Lewis; Mr. John Cairns ably portrayed the Prince of Morocco; Mr. Andrew Leigh was particularly good as the Prince of Arragon; Mr. H. S. Cohen was a droll Launcelot Gobbo; Salanio, Salarino, and Gratiano found admirable exponents in Messrs. Joseph O'Dowd, John Hood, and Cyril Gworder; and Mr. Eric Snowdon did well as Tubal. Miss Gladys Vanderzee was responsible for a decidedly clever rendering of Portia; Miss Kate Turner did well as Nerissa; and there was no fault to find with the Jessica of Miss Dorothy Radford. For the remainder of the week Hamlet, King Lear, The Taming of the Shrew, The Tempest, and Macbeth are billed.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Vivian Evans.—Harry Champion, comedian, heads the bill here; the Cromwells give a unique and novel juggling act; Clark and Glennie, in "The Haunted House," are as popular as ever; Henriette and Selina, refined instrumentalists, provide an acceptable item; Mart and Pep, hand balancers and tumblers, win much applause; Julia Reeve, comedienne, has a capital song in "The Lady Billposter"; Sergeant Mumford contributes a clever performance on the slack wire; and Flo Cecil is a pleasing comedienne and dancer.

ELECTRIC THEATRE.—Proprietors, The London and Provincial Electric Theatres, Ltd.; General-Manager, W. Reynolds Benjamin.—The pictures shown at this comfortable hall maintain the high standard which marked their inception. Her Sister's Sin and The Rocky Road are dramas of a domestic nature; Temptations and Forgiveness appeals strongly to the audience; and included in a lengthy programme are Pygmalion, Sue at Antwerp, A Lesson in Wrestling, The Professor's Cigarettes, A Bad Sixpence, An Interrupted Wedding, Herring Fishing, Amorous Billy, The Poacher's Revenge, A Day Off, Mr. Giddy's Revenge, and Mochet's Washing Day.

WORCESTER. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edward Evans.—The Moody-Manners Opera Company has been playing to big houses throughout the week, their répertoire including Samson and Delilah, Faust, Tannhäuser, The Daughter of the Regiment, Carmen, and Maritana. The successive casts have included Madame Beatrice La Palme, Miss Helen Culver, Miss Lilian Matthews, Miss Grace Nicoll, Miss Rita Wallace, Miss Mary Norton, and Miss Rosa O'Farrell; Messrs. Albert Bowyer, Dudley S. Marcus, John Child, Graham Marr Wm. Anderson, and Wm. Farmer. With a numerous and well balanced chorus, full corps de ballet, and a considerably augmented orchestra under Mr. Cuthbert Hawley, the operas have been produced under the best possible auspices.

WORKINGTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers. — This week Mr. Lindo and Miss Marion Wakeford are here on a welcome return visit, with Home, Sweet Home. As the hero, Stephen Armitage, Mr. Frank Lindo plays with true histrionic talent, and is ably supported by Miss Wakeford as Joan; Mr. Norton Shields as Armitage the elder and Mr. Sidney Dench in the character of Duke are well placed.

CARNEGIE HALL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers.—Among a sensational set of pictures perhaps The Rocky Road is the best. The variety list is headed by Bert Alden, comedian; Leicee Prinella, singer and dancer; and D. W. Watson, soloist on the posthorn.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Mack.—The Ashleys, trick skaters, make a welcome first appearance; Mr. Albert Lawrence, vocalist; and Marcus Boyle, comedian, also give a good account of themselves.

WORKSOP.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. S. Goodman.—The boards of this theatre have been occupied during the whole of this week by Messrs. Jacob and Jephson's pantomime Dick Whittington. Miss Florrie Curette is well cast for the name-part, and specialities by the Dunvilles, Cyril Jephson, Cissie Trent, the Toys, and Seale and Seale are very taking. Messrs. Ernest Adrien and Robbie Graham are responsible for much hilarity as Fitzwarren and Sarah, the cook. The music is bright and sparkling, and the dresses and scenery all that could be desired.

WORTHING. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. Adolf Seebold.—An excellent programme is provided here this week by the Co-operative Variety Artists' Federation, and the attractions have been greatly appreciated. The chief turn on the bill is that of John Warren with the musical military mystery The Magic Carpet; it is a glimpse of Eastern wonders, and the appearances and disappearances in this mimic drama are astounding. Orpheus in a high-class musical act also delights his hearers; Athas and Collins present their original comedy act, of which singing and dancing are prominent features; and Elvio, Ross, and Elvio are also popular turn in their absurdity, Those Troublesome Slaveys. Clarke and Mostol find favour with their songs and patter; and Fannie Humber, instrumentalist and dancer, and R. C. Note, vocal comedian, complete.

WREXHAM.—EMPIRE MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. J. Scott.—Matt Wilkinson Trio cause immense amusement by their original comedy sketch, What Every Woman Wants; Bob Stephenson is a clever dancer and funny comedian; U. C. Ugo, in his magical scena Mirthful Mysteries, in which he introduces "the enchanted tree of India," provides a most acceptable entertainment; and Miss Violet Beatrice is a dainty boy impersonator. The Bioscope pictures are excellent.

YNYSHIR.—WORKMEN'S HALL.—Lessees, Messrs. Pooles, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. J. Bynorth.—The pictures here are still attracting crowded houses, all the latest being shown. The King's State Opening of Parliament, Fantine, a notable creation of the great novelist Victor Hugo, Evil Men Do, and Joseph Sold by His Brethren are the leading pictures. Miss May Macpherson sings illustrated songs.

YORK.—ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Dacre.—The Arcadians is undoubtedly one of the most beautiful productions before the public, and the excellent company sent out by Mr. Courtneidge is doing splendid business this week. Miss Marion Edwards is particularly pleasing as Sombra, singing with great taste and acting delightfully; Miss Mysie Divine as Eileen Cavanagh stands out prominently, her impersonation being marked by much grace; Mr. Roy Sidney is at once a success as Jack Meadows, giving a merry rendition of a popular rôle; as Mrs. Smith Miss Madge Haines is at once a distinct success, the part in the hands of this clever lady having full justice done to it; Mr. Frank Collins is quaintly funny as Peter Doody, and never misses an opportunity of raising a laugh; Mr. Roy Lorraine is lively as Bobby; Miss Katie Yates a fascinating Chrysea; and, lastly, Mr. Gus Exley fairly delights all by his extremely funny efforts. For genuine comedy he would be hard to beat. The mounting and general ensemble are beyond praise.

OPERA HOUSE AND EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sidney Brooke.—The visits of Queenie Leighton are eagerly looked forward to, and during this week the receptions accorded her have been most cordial, and large audiences have been the rule; the Miles Stavordale Troupe give a splendid musical turn; as gymnasts the Krags Trio have few superiors; Reg. Bolton presents a popular and funny scena; and Beddow is a ventriloquist of much merit, who goes well. Chas. Cardew is a very popular comedian; Bonair and Tess appear with success in a quick-change scena. The Rent Brothers, acrobats; Ernest Clifford, dancer; and Dene and Douglas, vocalists, complete a clever list.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Bowman; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. E. Bradley.—The pictures at this popular house continue to be of great excellence. The Sleep-Walker, Almost His Bride, and A Quiet Honeymoon are all good. Phil Terris, comedian, and J. E. Waldow present neat turns, and large audiences attend.

VICTORIA HALL.—Lessee, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Resident-Manager, Mr. Bert Rutter.—Irish episodes in the career of Nick Carter are causing enjoyment; A Noble Sacrifice is a fine film; and Taming Wild Horses has been appreciated. Mappin and Webb in their business are excellent.

AT the Cripplegate Institute Theatre on Tuesday evening a company of amateurs, under the direction of Mr. Sydney H. Strong, will, in addition to performing George Arliss's popular farce There and Back, produce a new one-act play entitled Double Dummy, from the pen of Mr. B. Macdonald Hastings.

THE North Bristol Concert Party and Dramatic Society Cricket Club (mixed) under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hare, will be pleased to play theatrical companies. Matches will take place on Clifton Downs on Saturday afternoons from April 3 till Sep. 24, 1910 (also on Good Friday. Date of visit should be sent to Mr. Harry Hare, 35, Salisbury-road, Redland, Bristol.

THE Grand Theatre, Blackpool, is undergoing reconstruction and redecoration at the hands of the new proprietary, who are having the work done thoroughly, every part of the interior, from the entrance to the flies, being re-dressed. The theatre reopens on the 21st inst., with Mr. George Edwardes's London company in The Dollar Princess.

AMERICAN AMUSEMENTS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

NEW YORK, FEB. 9.—Miss Ethel Barrymore has won new laurels in Pinero's Mid-Channel, produced at the Empire Theatre on the 31st ult., on which occasion she appeared before a New York audience for the first time since she became Mrs. Russell G. Colt. She received an enthusiastic welcome, the friendly demonstrations of the audience delaying the commencement of the play for several minutes, and at the close of the third act she was repeatedly recalled. Miss Barrymore's embodiment of Zoe Blundell showed a complete grasp of the character, and her performance has evoked a chorus of praise. But the entire company was good, and Mr. Pinero's play received a representation that, from all points of view, was really admirable. Mr. Charles Dalton as Theodore Blundell gave a lifelike portrayal of the rough-and-ready husband; Mr. H. Reeve-Smith's impersonation of the Hon. Peter Mottram was a finely finished performance; Mr. Eric Maturin did full justice to the rôle of the "tame robin," the caddish Ferris; Miss Nina Sevening contributed a clever characterisation as Mrs. Annerly; the Misses Phœbe Coyne, Louise Rutter, and Marianne Thurber acted minor parts well.

Mr. Pinero's play has been reviewed and discussed at considerable length in the newspapers. One and all pronounce it powerful, but depressing.

"NONE SO BLIND," an American play in four acts, in which Mr. John Mason is appearing at the Hackett Theatre, was written by Ernest Poole, a new author, as far as the stage is concerned, but known to magazine readers as a writer of short stories. The drama is described as an exposition of the dangers of too great attention to a single purpose. It tells the story of John Howe, a civil engineer, who neglects his wife for a wonderful railway bridge he is building across a chasm 2,000ft. deep in the heart of the Rocky Mountains. Egotistically intent upon his constructive theories, and insensible to fatigue, Howe labours night and day until he suddenly loses his eyesight. Even with this dread handicap he refuses to give up his work, but presses his wife Anne into his service, and Billy Locklin, his uneducated but practical and devoted assistant. He drives them as he has driven himself, unmindful of everything but the completion of the bridge, having staked his professional reputation upon the success of the undertaking. This goes on for nine months, during which period he makes several trips to Denver for the ostensible purpose of consulting another engineer, but in reality to be treated by an oculist. In the meantime, Frank Knowlton, a lifelong friend of Mrs. Howe, comes from New York to the Rockies for the benefit of his health. He learns that she has written a book called "The Top of the Mountain," of which she has said nothing to her husband, because the blind engineer cares only for books on the construction of steel bridges. Beginning with an interest in the book, Knowlton becomes deeply interested in the writer, and the two are constantly together. A letter from a publisher, in which a brilliant literary future is predicted for Mrs. Howe, spurs Knowlton to denunciation of her cold, hard, unsympathetic existence as the wife a man who thinks in geometry, and whose songs are sung by a pneumatic drill. Knowlton makes it plain that he is in love with her, and urges her to leave her husband. Whilst the woman is pondering over Knowlton's words, her husband returns from one of his trips to Denver, and is greeted by the faithful Billy, whom he amazes with the news that his eyesight has been restored to him. Billy advises his "boss" to pretend that he is still blind and to observe what is going on about him. Acting upon his assistant's advice Howe sees that his blindness has been mental as well as physical. His view of the matter is that his consuming ambition is a form of selfishness which has almost estranged his wife, and the companionship that he has withheld she has naturally sought elsewhere. While bewailing his fate he makes no attempt to regain his wife's affection, but takes it for granted that she is utterly lost to him, although there has been nothing in his wife's conduct to justify such an extreme view. He even makes arrangements for her to accompany Knowlton when he leaves for New York. The play ends, however, as one foresees that it will, with a reconciliation. The final scene discloses a magnificent view of the Rocky Mountains at daybreak. The mists disappear gradually, and John Howe is discovered seated on a high rock, gazing into the distance. He has climbed the heights, figuratively to see things as his wife sees them, he declares—in reality, to escape the ordeal of her departure. There, after a hard climb, Anne finds him. Her eyes, too, have been opened. She realises that her place is beside her husband and comes to tell him so.

So much fault has been found with the play that it is hardly likely to have a long run. Mr. Mason does all that an accomplished actor can do under the circumstances, and is ably assisted by Miss Mabel Roebuck, Mr. Walter Hale, and Miss Ivy Troutman.

"THE HEIGHTS," a drama in three acts, by William Anthony McGuire, has had a short run at the Savoy Theatre. The scenes of this play are laid in a London boarding-house and a hut in the Italian Alps. One of the principal characters is a girl who has preserved her ideals and still believes in the possibility of perfection in man. Although everyone she meets turns out badly, or far below her standard of goodness, she persists in the belief that some day she will find her ideal personified. The other character is a man who has lost his belief in his fellow-men and has become the personification of all the primitive passions and impulses of humanity. The one woman he loved has proved unworthy of him. He and the girl meet, and her purity and idealism lead him to the conclusion that his own weakness caused him to find nothing but badness in the world, while the girl learns that her goodness was also within herself, and that she has been expecting too much of humanity.

Georgia Warren thinks she has realised her ideal in Richard Sidney, whom she believes to be a perfectly good man. He disappoints her, however, and she wonders where true manhood may be found. The second act shows the hut of Joe Moreau, a cosmopolitan Alpine guide, whose faith in the goodness of women has been destroyed by an unfortunate love affair in Paris. During a snowstorm Georgia finds her way to the hut, and Moreau tries to make love to her. Her attempt to kill herself rather than submit to his embraces makes him understand that she is a good woman, and he goes out into the storm, leaving her to occupy the cabin alone. In the last act the repentant Sidney comes seeking her, and Georgia, having come to the conclusion that all men are human, goes away with him to be married. Moreau, supposed to be transformed by this experience, is left to climb "the heights" alone. In the dialogue there are many similes and epigrams. Mr. Frank Keenan appears as Joe Moreau, and depicts the character of the man realistically. Miss Willette Kershaw as Georgia Warren and Mr. Frank Mills as Sidney acquit themselves well; Mrs. Charles G. Craig is amusing as Granny Melton, who keeps the boarding-house; and Miss Hilda Keenan as Nellie Barnum contributes a capital character-sketch of a slangy chorus girl. Mr. J. Harry Benrimo gives an excellent portrayal of an Italian guide.

MR. FRANK DARCH, who, since his return last September from America, where he had been touring with Mr. Ben Greet, has been playing with Miss Horniman's company at the Gaiety Theatre, Manchester, will be married on Monday to Miss Luey Edith Hare, the youngest daughter of Lieut.-Colonel Hare, of Blair Logie, Menstrie, N.B.

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

MELBOURNE, JAN. 11.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE (Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson; Business-Manager, Mr. E. J. Tait).—Crowded houses nightly assemble to witness Mr. Williamson's gorgeous pantomime Aladdin. All the members of the company have now settled down into their various rôles, and the fun is kept merrily going from the rise to the fall of the curtain. The pantomime is brimful of good songs, set to bright and catchy music, while the mounting throughout is on a very lavish scale indeed.

THEATRE ROYAL (Lessees, Messrs. Meynell and Clarke; Business-Manager, Mr. Arthur Levy).—Shakespeare's delightful comedy The Merchant of Venice entered on Saturday upon its last six nights. The comedy has drawn full houses since the opening night. Next Saturday Count Hannibal will be staged, for the first time in Melbourne, with Mr. Oscar Asche in the name-part. The booking for the opening performance is very heavy, so a bumper house is assured.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. William Anderson; Business-Manager, Mr. Julius Grant.—Mr. William Anderson's pantomime Babes in the Wood draws crowded houses nightly, and has proved itself a most popular pantomime. Miss Lilian Lea and Messrs. Nat Clifford and Foreman and Fannan give excellent turns, while the dialogue is interspersed with a number of excellent songs. Special matinées for the "kiddies" are given on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Rickards; Business-Manager, Mr. Fred Aydon.—Mlle. de Dio, who has recently been appearing with great success in Sydney, made her first appearance here on Saturday evening, and at once established herself as a genuine favourite with the audience. Mlle. De Dio appeared in a number of novel and decidedly interesting dances, and at the conclusion of her turn was accorded an ovation from a packed house. As a danseuse Mlle. De Dio thoroughly understands her business, and fully deserved the success she achieved on Saturday evening. Other artists appearing here with success at present include Fred Curran, Miss Lillie Langtry, Bertha Stuart, Fred Bluett, the Two Bells, the Wheelers, Post Mason, Hilda Lane, Baby Watson, Fanny Powers, Browne and Robinson, and the Wille Brothers.

BIJOU THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. George Marlow.—The last nights of the sensational melodrama, Married to the Wrong Man, are announced. The drama has drawn excellent houses since its opening night. On Saturday next the evergreen drama East Lynne will be staged for the seven nights.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. James Brennan; Business-Manager, Mr. Harry Brennan.—Mr. Brennan's National Entertainers provided a new programme on Saturday. Among new arrivals may be mentioned the Medoras, comedy sketch artists, who appeared in a laughable skit, entitled Fun in a Studio; while other excellent turns were presented by Wise and Milton, Pearl Lovell, Frank King, the Smith Sisters, Lulu Eugene, Mabelle, Ernest Pitcher, Lucy Lavinia, Con Carroll, P. J. Knowles, James Craydon, Lily Vockler, and many others. Excellent pictures were shown by the Miorama.

MELBOURNE, JAN. 18.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson; Business-Manager, Mr. E. J. Tait.—Entering on its fifth week the gorgeous pantomime Aladdin promises to be as popular as other pantomime productions of Mr. J. C. Williamson of recent years. Saturday saw a packed house at both matinée and evening performance. Miss Lily Iris has established herself a great favourite with Melbourne playgoers.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Clarke and Meynell; Business-Manager, Mr. Arthur Levy.—After a successful season of four weeks The Merchant of Venice was produced for the last time on Friday evening last, in the presence of a packed house. Saturday evening saw the first production in Australia of the romantic play Count Hannibal, adapted from Stanley Weyman's novel of the same name. Needless to say, there was a crowded house, amongst those present being Lord Kitchener and staff. The gallant soldier received an ovation upon taking his seat in the manager's box. Mr. Oscar Asche gave a powerful, breezy, and commanding rendering of Count Hannibal; while Miss Brayton fills entirely to the satisfaction of the eye the somewhat sombre character of Clothilde. Mr. Kay Soupar was well placed in the character of Tigonville; while Mr. C. A. Doran can be congratulated on a performance of La Tribe, the Protestant minister. Count Hannibal's troopers are hit off to the book life by Messrs. Athol Forde and Fritz Russell; and Mr. Caleb Porter makes a finished study of the sinister Father Pezelay. Minor characters were admirably portrayed by Miss Constance Robertson (Mme. Carlot), Mr. R. F. Anson, Mr. Tripp Edgar, Mr. Ian Penny, Mr. F. Pollard, Mr. Ewan Brook, Mr. George Relph, and Miss Muriel Hutchinson. The costumes are admirable, and the scenery, especially the gold and white ante-room in the Louvre, and at the Riverside, Angers, worthy examples of the painter's art and stage resources. Count Hannibal will be the last production of the present Oscar Asche-Lily Brayton season.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Rickards; Business-Manager, Mr. Frederick Aydon.—A particularly strong bill is being presented here at present. The chief attraction is Mme. De Dio, the charming French dancer, who is now an established favourite with Opera House patrons. Those exceptionally clever acrobats, the Wille Brothers, gain loud applause nightly for their skilful and interesting "turn"; Miss Lily Langtry is a great favourite with her bright and catchy songs and smart dancing; Fred Curran sings his quaint ditties in his own inimitable style; an amusing turn is presented by the Two Wheelers (trick cyclists); Fred Bluett is back with a budget of new songs; Miss Fanny Powers gives a series of excellent imitations of well-known artists, while other pleasing items are furnished by Bertha Stuart, Brown and Robinson, Baby Watson, Hilda Lane, and Post Mason.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. James Brennan; Business-Manager, Mr. Harry Brennan.—New artists are continually being added to the programme at this popular place of amusement. Saturday evening saw the first appearance of the Driscoll Brothers, patter comedians, who instantly established themselves as popular favourites with their amusing turn. Mr. Tom Tepuni, Maori vocalist, is also a newcomer who is likely to prove a strong draw here. He is possessed of a fine voice, which he uses to good advantage in several pleasing ballads. Other artists appearing with success include Frank King, the Smith Sisters, Wise and Milton, the Medoras, Pearl Lovell, Lulu Eugene, Con Carroll, James Craydon, Ernest Pitcher, and Addie Barton. Excellent pictures are shown by the Miorama.

SYDNEY, JAN. 18.—Mr. J. C. Williamson revived The Merry Widow at Her Majesty's Theatre on the 15th, the Sonia being Miss Florence Young. Miss Young is, first and foremost, a very fine singer, and she made the music her great feature. She was vivacious and forceful, and her performance hit the public, as everything does when undertaken by the deservedly popular Australienne. Miss Elinor Knight, a beautiful newcomer from London, took a front place in playgoers' esteem as Olga; and Miss Nellie Wilson once more made a success as Natalie. Miss Fanny Dango, indisposed, is resting, and so Miss Tilly Woodlock is seen as Fi Fi. Mr. Andrew Higginson adds another excellent portrait to his stage art gallery as Prince Danilo. Mr. Victor Gouriet is Baron Popoff, and that means all that the part can accomplish. Mr. Arthur Hunter as the Waiter is good; and Mr. Reginald Roberts, Mr. Claude Bantock, and D. B. O'Connor are in their old places. Mrs. George Lauri made her first appearance since her husband's death, and her Paaskova was an item in the general success. Mr. Arthur McCunn conducted the orchestra.

THE Clark and Meynell rendering of The Girl Behind the Counter is still booming, and no hint is heard or seen of her successor.

MR. JULIUS KNIGHT and Miss Beatrice Day are drawing Royal houses to see them in A Royal Divorce, but next Saturday The Lion and the Mouse will be staged, with Miss Katharine Gray in the leading female rôle.

MR. HUGH J. WARD and his clever companions in fun manufacture have crowded houses to see and hear A Bachelor's Honeymoon, the most laughable farce in their répertoire.

THE Tivoli has a splendid new turn, given by the Brothers Martine, whose acrobatic work is marvellously clever and seductive. The comic portion is unusually attractive. Franco Piper, who juggles with banjo, mandoline, and cognate instruments, keeps Harry Rickards' patrons in a state of wild enthusiasm. Mrs. Robert Fitzgerald is a vivacious and cultured soprano, and, like her pugilistic husband, very popular. Fred Graham and wife (Nellie Dent) are at all times most artistic in their sketches—not one dull moment during their stage tenure.

WEST'S PICTURES, at the Glaciarium, now include several taken by Pathé Brothers, by arrangement with the Commonwealth Government, as also every new subject on arrival from London.

SPENCER'S Theatrescope at the Lyceum now gives a series of films taken during Lord Kitchener's visit to this state. These are capitally taken by Mr. Spencer himself, and interest those who did, or did not, see the great War Lord on his visit of inspection.

PROFESSIONALS who have visited Sydney will learn with regret of the death of Mr. Philip Sheridan, manager of the famous Sydney cricket ground. He died on the 14th, aged 77.

SYDNEY, JAN. 25.—The event of the week has been the Williamson production of The Lion and the Mouse at the Royal. It is far and away the cleverest written play of the decade, and the crowded house was held in thrall by the intensity of its interest. Mr. Julius Knight, hitherto engaged in portraying romantic heroes, exhibited an unexpected element of forceful finesse, which lifted him up many rungs in the thespian ladder. The autocratic money king, John Burkett Ryder, requires all the resources of the actor's art. His remorseless crushing of all obstacles—human or otherwise—to his nefarious greed, his love for his own kith and kin, and his acknowledgment of a rival keen intellect, these make opportunities, and Mr. Julius Knight seized, used, and revelled in them all. Companioned to him is a new American actress, Miss Katharine Grey, who leaped in one night into the playgoers' affections, and has made the box-office busy. Miss Grey depicts Shirley Rossmore very perfectly. Miss Katharine Grey has won the praise of the Press, the applause of the men, and the love of the women, who waited outside the theatre to crave flowers from her splendid floral tributes. A new English actor, Mr. Langford Kirby, was the financier's son and the heroine's fiancé. His début in Australia was a decided success. Mr. Leslie Victor is the victimised Judge; and Miss Alma Vaughan is his beautiful wife. Miss Susie Vaughan distinguishes herself as John Burkett Ryder's wife; Miss Bessie Major is an interesting maidservant; the Hon. Fitzroy Bagley, an English aristocrat, who is Ryder's private secretary, is capitally done by Mr. Sydney Sterling; and a strident character is made by Mr. Winter Hall of Senator Roberts.

MELBOURNE, JAN. 25.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson; Business-Manager, Mr. E. J. Tait.—Full houses nightly follow Mr. Williamson's gorgeous pantomime Aladdin with keen enjoyment. Several new songs have been introduced since the opening night, and all the actors has settled down into their various parts and keep the fun merrily going.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. William Anderson; Business-Manager, Mr. Julius Grant.—Mr. William Anderson's pantomime, Babes in the Wood, has now been running for five weeks, but it is still drawing well.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Meynell and Clarke; Business-Manager, Mr. Arthur Levy.—There has been no doubt about the success of Count Hannibal, in which Mr. Oscar Asche and Miss Lily Brayton are appearing. Saturday evening saw a packed house, who followed every exciting incident in this highly romantic play with keen interest. Count Hannibal will be the last production of the present Oscar Asche-Lily Brayton season.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Rickards; Business-Manager, Mr. Fred Aydon.—"Boom" conditions rule here at present. Mlle. De Dio is undoubtedly a great attraction, her pretty entertainment satisfying the most exacting patron. This performance is divided into four sections, and each meets with approbation. The Wille Brothers' thrilling act also is just to the taste of lovers of perfection in acrobatics. Other "star" performers are Miss Lily Langtry, Mr. Fred Curran, Messrs. Brown and Robinson, and the Wheelers; while excellent turns are given by Ted Anderson, Post Mason, Fred Bluett, Fanny Powers, Baby Watson, and Hilda Lane.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. James Brennan; Business-Manager, Mr. Harry Brennan.—Excellent business is being done at this theatre. A generous programme is provided just now by the Hedleys, Driscoll Brothers, the Medoras, Lulu Eugene, the Smith Sisters, Frank King, Pearl Lovell, Lucy Lavinia, Ernest Pitcher, James Craydon, Addie Barton, and Will Wynand. Excellent pictures are shown by the Miorama.

WEST'S Picture Palace is nightly thronged by large crowds, who thoroughly enjoy the fine series of pictures displayed. Excellent music is provided by West's Military Band.

MESSRS TAIT should feel highly gratified with the business doing at the Glaciarium, where they are presenting an exceptionally fine series of moving pictures. On Saturday evening there was a complete change of programme, which was fully appreciated by full houses.

HOYT'S Pictures at St. George's Hall and the World's Pictures at the Bijou Theatre, continue to attract good business. A feature of the former show is the fine music provided by an efficient ladies' band.

THERE have been many notable "last nights" at the Theatre Royal, Sheffield, but none can have surpassed in heartfelt enthusiasm of the last performance of Jack and Jill on Saturday. Big receptions were extended to all the clever performers, and loud cheers were given at the close for Mr. John Hart and the popular Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont. Mr. Henry Dean, the veteran musical conductor, who has officiated here since 1876, was not forgotten. Miss Ella Retford, the dashing principal boy, Miss Josie Delaine, the piquant and graceful Jill, and all the other ladies whose charm and talent have brightened the pantomime received presents and beautiful bouquets, and the ladies and children of the well-trained corps de ballet had chocolates showered upon them. Mr. Charles Norton, the débonnair King and talented mimic, was greeted with uproarious applause and shouts of "the old firm!" on his entrance, and received tangible expressions of esteem and regard from some of his local admirers. The smart and resourceful

"THE ARTFULNESS OF ADA."

Farcical Comedy, in Three Acts, by Arthur Shirley, Produced at the Pleasure Gardens Theatre, Folkestone, on Monday, Feb. 28.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The first act of this play opens in the home of Mr. Byron Bruce, a London actor-manager with an excitable little wife, Ada, who, going out of curiosity to see a Suffragette "raid" on the Government Offices in Downing-street, has been accidentally arrested by the police in place of a militant member of the "Votes for Women" contingent, and formally charged with breaking the Prime Minister's windows. This she well knows is likely to prove disastrous to her husband's chances, as he is expecting to be knighted by the King, and the authorities could scarcely recommend a celebrity to the notice of his Majesty at the very time his wife was standing in the prisoners' dock. Realising the awkwardness of her position, the artful Ada resorts to a mild deception that, merely entailing a few fibs at first, ultimately brings down upon her head an avalanche of disasters, mostly comic in their effect but dreadfully distressing for her to bear. A self-satisfied lady friend, one Jane Googlie, has secretly undertaken to bail out the offender, who has had the foresight to give a false name at the police court, and when the curtain rises the unlucky Ada finds herself under the necessity of surrendering that morning to her bail, with the probability of getting at least a month's imprisonment "without the option" for her escapade. Not daring to tell her indulgent husband the truth, she invents a plausible story of being invited to go away on a motor run through Spain, and at the end of the first act departs with forced gaiety, ostensibly to take a pleasant trip, but really to spend a month in gaol unknown to her husband or her friends.

In the second act we find the artful Ada incarcerated in Holloway Prison, where the head matron happens to be a "first-nighter," a matinée idol-worshipper and ardent admirer of Mr. Byron Bruce, the celebrated star actor, and darling of all the ladies. Mr. Senoakes, a persistent adorer of Ada's sister, penetrates within the precincts of the prison, and is promptly detained there for his pains, and the horrified Ada is put on "bread and water" for insubordination. In Act 3 the now desperate wife of Byron Bruce being released, returns to her home, and, of course, has to dilate upon the joys and beauties of Spain, a country she has never visited, and thereby weaves a further net of falsehood, not only arousing her husband's suspicions, but finally enmeshing herself hopelessly in an endless net of prevarication and deceit. The ridiculous manœuvres of her zealous but stupid friend, Jane Googlie, to cover up the foreign trip fraud merely serve to precipitate the denouement until the final crash comes, when, after an open confession to her husband, pardon is granted, and the longed-for title opportunely comes to settle the difficulties of the excitable Ada, a series of most amusing situations that succeed each other with unexpected rapidity.

Miss Madge Crichton made the most of Ada Byron Bruce, and extracted all the fun possible out of the part. Miss Crichton is to be congratulated on the personal success she made, her charming and vivacious acting calling forth continual outbursts of applause, and the enthusiasm that followed the final descent of the curtain was due to her spirited performance rather than to the author of the play. Miss Crichton is supported by an efficient cast, who make the very best of the poor parts created by the author.

The Artfulness of Ada was received with hearty laughter and applause. The piece was admirably acted. Miss Madge Crichton as Ada Byron Bruce played the part for all that it was worth, and made a decided success; Miss Kate Kearney as Mrs. Googlie gave a really funny rendering, and created much laughter; Miss Valerie Crespin as Mrs. Glynne was worthy of warm praise; Miss Ethel Hart as Lucy gave a charming performance; Miss Nellie Shirley as McClosky hit off the characteristics of that individual cleverly; Mr. Frank Tennant as Robert Byron Bruce put plenty of energy into his rendering; Mr. J. F. Knowles as Fred Spencer was full of smartness and spirit; Mr. Alick Chumley gave a humorous impersonation of Tom Sennoaks; and Mr. Thomas Sidney and Mr. Stanley B. Farbridge as Jopling and Colonel Duval filled those parts most satisfactorily.

Before Mr. E. Leadam Hough, senior official receiver, on Tuesday, the first meeting of creditors was held under the failure of Frederick Hewson Coppin, comedian, formerly of Richmond Park-road, Kingston-on-Thames. Although the debtor filed his own petition, it appeared that he had not yet attended upon the official receiver, as he was engaged in the provinces. He was believed to have no assets, and consented to an order of adjudication. The case remained in the official receiver's hands.

Mr. James Welch was the only one to remember—or, at any rate, to remark on—the parallel between the belief of Chantecler in M. Rostand's piece that the sun's rise depended on his morning song, and the quip quoted by a character in "Adam Bede" as having been spoken by the immortal Mrs. Poyser—"that Craig is like a cock who thinks the sun gets up every morning to see him crow." Mr. Welch introduced this observation into his lecture on "Fools" at the Criterion Restaurant last Sunday week. Mr. Welch is a warm admirer of George Eliot, whom he considers far superior to most modern novelists.

Mr. Neil Kenyon writes from the Grand Theatre, Glasgow:—"Re my friend Mr. Jack O'Connor's challenge, published to-day, my argument was on the buoyancy of sea and fresh water. I still insist that the match should be swum in the sea, but if Mr. Jack likes, and the authorities allow it, I will swim the match in the Clyde, from Jamaica Bridge to Clyde-street Ferry. As I am informed the river will soon permit of salmon fishing, this will suit his fresh-water ideas. Apart from joking, I suggest that the match be swum at the Red Rocks, Fort Matilda, at an early date."

In the production of Ivanhoe at Covent Garden on Tuesday the Ashby-de-la-Zouch tournament will be realistically represented. Twelve horses take part in it, and there will be a realistic conflagration in the scene showing the attack on the castle. So heavy is the first set of scenery that a hundred extra hands have been engaged. The production has cost £5,000. When the curtain goes up on the tourney scene the audience will see a careful reproduction of the tournament held in honour of Prince John at Ashby-de-la-Zouch. The oaks and elms of Sherwood Forest stretch far away in the distance, and in front is the dais of the Prince, decorated in the Royal colours, a blaze of gold and scarlet. Opposite is the richly-decorated tent of Font de Bœuf and the tents of the Knights Templar. The horses will really gallop at each other, and the shock of the combat will be startling. The hall in Cedric's house in Act 1, which is painted by Mr. Harry Emden, will be a marvel of apparent solidity.

MR. FRED CARPENTER.

Mr. Fred Carpenter, whose portrait appears below, is chairman of Popular Playhouses, Ltd., the lessees of the Lyceum Theatre, and is also chairman of Carpenter's Theatre, Ltd., which owns the Theatre Royal, Bristol, and several other places of entertainment.

He is the sole surviving brother of the late Mr. Ernest Carpenter, who had such a great deal to do with the success of these various theatres. Mr. Carpenter's family has been interested in the stage for a great many years, and Mr. Fred Carpenter has always been closely associated with his brother and financially interested in their various enterprises.

He has had a long and varied business experience, having been director of several large concerns in the Midlands, in addition to the theatrical ventures above-mentioned; but since the Lyceum Theatre started he has been drawn more and more into the theatrical world, and has now many enterprises on his hands. He is still, however, associated with other business, being chairman of Carpenter and Warren, Ltd., the well-known advertising agents at Kingsway.

The wide field covered by Mr. Carpenter's many enterprises compels him to be ubiquitous. One day he may be found at the Lyceum, another at the Westminster Palace, next at his Aldwych advertising business, or perhaps at the Theatre Royal, Bristol. For instance, on Thursday last, the Theatre Royal, Bristol, was visited in state by the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, Mr. Sheriff and Mrs. Riseley, and many other members of the Corporation, the occasion forming a notable landmark in the history of the old theatre, and a tribute to the success attained by this year's pantomime Robinson Crusoe. The visitors were received on arrival by Mr. Fred Carpenter. At the close of the performance they expressed their thorough enjoyment of the whole show. During one of the scenes Mr. Fred Carpenter made a short speech, welcoming the Chief Magistrate of the City and his colleagues, in which he said that the occasion added to his pride in the old theatre and the great associations connected therewith. He also announced that next year's pantomime would be Dick Whittington, and that one of the strongest companies ever seen in the theatre had been engaged, including several old favourites.

"LA FETE CHEZ THERESE."

Ballet, in Two Acts, by Catulle Mendès, Music by Reynaldo Hahn, Produced at the Paris Opéra, on Dec. 16.

Mimi ..... Mlle. Zambelli

When the curtain rose on La Fête chez Thérèse and the first notes of M. Reynaldo's score were heard, the audience looked decidedly happy. Nor was it surprising. We have had the new art movement that gave us crooked and distorted furniture. We have had the impressionist school of painting that sent many of us into a madhouse. We have had plays without a vestige of plot, and as to the "music of the day," whence the slightest melody is severely expunged, the poor public has been asking itself for a long time past how many more months it is going to last. If I make those remarks it is because the above ballet was preceded by La Forêt, by M. Savard, and described in the bill as a two-act musical legend. Anything more dreary, more dull cannot be imagined. The composer had centred his whole attention on the orchestration, which, indeed, was masterful, yet did not compensate for the endless tirades that sent the public to sleep. It was "modern music" in all its dismal glory! Fortunately, M. Reynaldo Hahn struck another chord. His score is melodious, full of charm, and the good people in the house heaved a sigh of relief. For once they had what they would call a "tune," and they felt happy. The story, too, is pretty. In the opening tableau, in the shop of Mme. Palmyre, a dressmaker, the work-girls—all in the quaint 1830 dress—are busy at work. Enters Carlotta Grisi, the famous dancer. At the request of the girls she not only dances a pas seul, but teaches that step to Mimi, one of the employees, who dreams of joining the ballet. In the second tableau we see a fête at the house of the Duchesse Thérèse. That lady has fallen in love with Théodore, Mimi's sweetheart. Mimi is heartbroken, but she musters up courage, and implores the Duchesse not to rob her of Théodore, whereupon the Duchesse magnanimously induces her admirer to return to Mimi. The ballet was magnificently staged, and Mlle. Zambelli as Mimi scored a huge triumph.

Mr. F. R. Benson, as most actors are aware, is a keen athlete. He was on tour once, and wanted a certain actor in London to play the part of Rugby in The Merry Wives of Windsor, so he wired: "Can you play Rugby? If so, come at once." In a few minutes came the reply: "Arrive at 4 p.m. Played half-back for Stratford."

Mr. Henry George Hibbert, the editor of the Music Hall and the London correspondent of the New York Clipper, has contributed to the finely illustrated number which that paper published on its fifty-seventh anniversary last month, a scholarly article on "The Circus in England." The information it contains ranges from Banks's performing horse to the enterprises of Hengler and Howes and Cushing; and the essay is embellished with four excellent blocks.

SACRED CONCERTS.

Before Mr. Justice Bucknill and a Common Jury in the King's Bench Division on Wednesday was heard an action brought by Mr. Henry Bernhardt, concert conductor, of Regent-street, against the Popular Playhouses (Limited) to recover damages for alleged breach of contract, under which the plaintiff said that the defendants agreed to let him have the use of the Lyceum Theatre on the evening of last Good Friday for the purpose of holding a sacred concert. The defendants denied liability.

Mr. E. F. Lever appeared for the plaintiff, while Mr. Holman Gregory represented the defendants.

Mr. Lever, in opening the case for the plaintiff, said that his client put himself into communication with the defendants' managers and offered £50 for the use of the Lyceum Theatre for last Good Friday evening. The defendants accepted Mr. Bernhardt's offer, provided that the concert was of a distinctly sacred character, and that it would not interfere with the terms of their lease. Mr. Bernhardt did not care for the reference to the lease, and he wrote to the defendants, who replied that he could have the theatre for the evening for £50, on condition that the concert was of a sacred character. Mr. Bernhardt then proceeded to engage a number of well-known artists, including Miss Marie Tempest, Mrs. Lewis Waller, Miss Constance Collier, Miss Hortens Paulsen, Mr. Lionel Brough, Mr. Bransby Williams, and Mr. E. Hedmont, and to have posters printed and circulated.

Shortly before Good Friday, said counsel, Mr. Bernhardt received a letter from the defendants stating that they had only consented to let the theatre for a sacred concert, that by engaging Mr. Lionel Brough and Mr. Bransby Williams Mr. Bernhardt would place them and their property in a very serious position, and that the arrangement to let the theatre must be considered at an end. The objections to Mr Lionel Brough and Mr. Bransby Williams being engaged for a sacred concert were absurd. The former was well known to the public as a reciter of Shakespeare, and the latter as a reciter of Dickens, and both could give entertainments to which the absolute purist or the strictest thinker could not take exception. Later the defendants stated that the concert could not be regarded as of a strictly sacred nature, that the Lord Chamberlain's licence prevented the theatre being opened on Good Friday, and that in the circumstances it would be illegal to hold the entertainment. Mr. Bernhardt hurriedly took the Crown Theatre, Peckham, and arranged that certain of the artists should appear there. Miss Marie Tempest, who received 50 guineas for two songs, went to the King's Theatre, Hammersmith, and Miss Constance Collier, who was paid 20 guineas, agreed to go to the Pier Theatre, Brighton.

Mr. Bernhardt gave evidence in support of counsel's opening statement. He added that he paid Miss Marie Tempest 50 guineas, Miss Constance Collier 20 guineas, Hortens Paulsen 15 guineas, and Mr. Hedmont 10 guineas. Mr. Hedmont's fee was 15 guineas, but he took 10 guineas as he would not appear at any place but the Lyceum. He estimated his general damages at from £250 to £300.

Mrs. Lewis Waller gave evidence, and said that she was engaged for this performance at the Lyceum.

Mr. Lever: You know Mr. Brough and Mr. Williams. Are they capable of giving performances satisfactory for audiences in England to hear on Good Friday.—Mrs. Waller: Oh, positively.

His Lordship observed that he saw by the bill announcing the concert that Mrs. Waller was going to perform, and he inquired what she was going to do.

Mrs. Waller: I was going to give "How Harry won the Victoria Cross."

Mr. Richard Temple gave corroborative evidence. He said that Mr. Brough was a character-actor, and a good low comedian. The witness had heard Mr. Bransby Williams recite serious pieces in evening dress and at a variety theatre put on costume to add to the effect.

What were you going to do?—I proposed to recite one of the Psalms of David. It is one I have done with great success. I think it is Psalm 51. It is the one known as the "Miserere."

Mr. Gregory, for the defendants, submitted that there was no case to answer here. He submitted that the contract was unenforceable, as the defendants had no licences for concerts on Sundays. It was only a theatre, and they had no power to let it for Sunday performances.

The case was resumed on Thursday, when Mr. H. R. Smith, the managing-director of the defendant company, described the result of a visit he and Mr. Ernest Carpenter paid to the Lord Chamberlain's office. They were told the Lord Chamberlain only granted permission for the opening of the theatre on Good Friday, Christmas Day, and the Lord's Day on the following conditions: That the proposed entertainment was a bona-fide charity, and not for profit or gain in the ordinary way of business; also that two representatives of the charity should enter into a bond with the Lord Chamberlain to have all the accounts properly audited and to abide by these rules. The theatre was closed on Good Friday, and the company had lost the £50 which the plaintiff was prepared to pay for the use of the theatre.

Mr. Lever: Did you think it was wrong that Mr. Bransby Williams and Mr. Lionel Brough should appear?—No. My partner (the late Mr. Carpenter) took a much wider view. These are all first-class artists, and it was only the fact that we were afraid they would jeopardise our licence.

When the plaintiff wrote asking for the theatre for a sacred concert, the defendants replied that they were thinking of something of the kind. Witness now explained that had reference to a religious service to be given by the West London Mission. The Lord Chamberlain had allowed them to let the theatre for a purely religious service.

Mr. Frederick Carpenter, chairman of the company, also gave evidence, and questions were put to the jury by his lordship and answered as follows:—

(1) Did Mr. Carpenter tell the plaintiff before the letter of March 19 that everything was in order about the lease?—Yes.

(2) Or about the Lord Chamberlain's licence?—No.

(3) Did plaintiff know that the Lyceum, being a theatre, was not licensed for a concert on Good Friday?—No.

(4) Was it agreed that the Lord Chamberlain's consent should be a condition precedent to the contract?—No.

(5) Damages?—£110.

His lordship adjourned the arguments upon these findings.

Opera is to make further advances at His Majesty's, where on April 12 Miss Marie Brema revives Glück's Orpheus (in English) for six matinées. Miss Brema, who is renowned for her impersonation of the title-rôle in London, Paris, and Brussels musical circles, will appear as the grief-stricken lover, and Miss Viola Tree will be the Eurydice. Miss Margaret Morris, of the Isidor Duncan school, will execute the Hellenic dances, besides training the ballet in the lovely classical movements which are a feature of the immortal work. Miss Morris, by the way, also made the sketches for the scenery from Miss Brema's plans, and the costumes are being copied from Greek works of art. Michael Balling, the famous Beyreuth conductor, will direct the orchestra.

PROVINCIAL MANAGERS.

MR. JAMES CARR.

The present resident-manager of Mr. Charles Dare's Empire Theatre, Douglas, Isle of Man, Mr. James Carr, has had an adventurous career. Born at Tunbridge Wells, and educated in England, he and his family hazarded their fortunes in the States. Success as a soloist in the choir of the principal Catholic church in New York, suggested the lyric stage as a career. On Miss Mary Anderson's return to America from her first English triumphs Mr. Carr was engaged for the quartet in the revival of As You Like It at the Star Theatre, New York. This led to an engagement in one of the first productions of Messrs. Gilbert and Sullivan's Mikado. Then came a long tour with the J. M. Hill Opera Company and an interlude as a member of the Star Trio.

A new departure was a successful appearance as Side Dobbe in the musical comedy Muggs' Landing. Then Mr. Carr came to England again with the Christiana Minstrels, opening at the Comedy Theatre, Manchester. An important engagement as interlocutor ensued with Moore and Burgess, and was followed by a long tour with the Greater New York Comedy Four, and a never-to-be-forgotten association with Messrs. Barnum and Bailey as stage-manager of the concert department during a European and Transatlantic itinerary.

In fact, Mr. James Carr "knows the ropes." He has few foibles besides his profession; perhaps he prefers pedestrianism to any other pursuit. He has only been a short time in Douglas, but in that brief period he has made many friends, and is persona grata to the large clientèle who frequent the Empire Theatre during the dreary winter months in Douglas. Mr. Carr has been associated with Mr. Charles Dare in various artistic enterprises for many years, including a special visit to Vienna.

"JACK AND JILL" AT BIRMINGHAM.

Early in the year reports reached Birmingham that the Jack and Jill pantomime at Sheffield was breaking all previous records in the cutlery city. Mr. J. F. Graham, of the Prince of Wales's, Birmingham, was delighted with the production, and Messrs. Howard and Wyndham having made arrangements to withdraw The Babes in the Wood last Saturday after a successful nine weeks' run, he decided to bring Jack and Jill to Birmingham for a fortnight. His enterprise has already been fully justified, the theatre having been packed at every performance this week.

Jack and Jill is full of life and "go" from beginning to end. There are several very pretty scenes, and a feast of genuine wholesome pantomime fun is provided. The songs are well chosen and excellently rendered, dances are gracefully executed, and the costumes are exceptionally smart. The company, without exception, is an excellent one. As Jack Miss Ella Retford is a performer full of vivacity and resource. She looks exceedingly pretty in her various costumes, and she sings and dances with remarkable skill. She has several catchy songs, including "Molly O'Morgan," and she appears to advantage in a duet, "I like your way," with Jill (Miss Jessie Delaine). Miss Delaine also sings and dances prettily, and is highly successful in her number "The little girl from nowhere." Miss Connie Haydon is a pretty and attractive young lady, and makes an admirable Prince; and the rôle of Patty, the Princess's maid, is ably sustained by Miss Winnie Haytor. The "funny men" work well together, and a striking success is scored by Mr. Albert Le Fre. His Walker is excellent, and an inimitable piece of fooling. He is a quaint character, and the audience simply roar with laughter at his funny stories and eccentricities. One could not wish to see a better Dame than Mr. Jack Cromo. He presents the exaggerated dress fashions with great effect, and his Dame is a masterpiece. The Haytors as the King's handy men are responsible for some smart comedy business, and keep the audience in merry mood. Warm praise is due to Mr. Charles Norton, who makes a very animated King. In the racecourse scene he is repeatedly encored for his clever impersonations of Joe Elvin as the bookmaker, and other well-known "stars" who appear to make hits. Miss Nellie Bindon is a winsome Fairy, and her song "Love rules the world" is one of the outstanding features of the production. Mr. Fred Hudson, the Demon, sings "Revenge I cry" with excellent effect. The ballet is splendidly arranged under the direction of Mme. E. Louie.

The thirty-ninth annual general meeting of the corporation of the Royal Albert Hall was held on Monday, with the Earl of Pembroke and Montgomery (the president) in the chair. In moving the adoption of the report, the Chairman said that, after wiping off £2,144 for depreciation, renewals, &c., the revenue account showed a credit balance of £432. The expenditure on repairs during the year had again been very heavy, amounting to £1,972, whilst the deposit on rentals for 1910 amounted to £301. The total estimated expenditure for the year had been £7,825, which included £5,975 for the maintenance of the hall. Towards the expenditure the council recommended a seat rate of £2 per seat, which amounted to £2,682. During the past eight years the very large sum of £13,968 had been expended on various works, in addition to the ordinary cost of efficiently keeping the hall in repair. It must be remembered that the hall was opened thirty-nine years ago, and they had now come to the time when they began to feel the effects of wear and tear. Mr. Ernest De la Rue seconded the adoption of the report, which was unanimously adopted. At a statutory meeting held subsequently a seat rate of £2 per seat for 1910 was approved.

THE ALDBOURNE VILLAGE THEATRE.

The charming village of Aldbourne, which lies sheltered by the Wiltshire Downs, is the proud possessor of a theatre, thanks to the enterprise and kindness of Mr. Charles McEvoy, a gentleman who resides at Aldbourne, and is the author of several plays.

The theatre, which was formerly a disused malt-house, adjoins Mr. McEvoy's residence, and has seating accommodation for about 150 persons. The stage is substantially built, and has been fitted up with proscenium, drop curtain, footlights, roomy wings, &c. Provision has also been made for scenic and limelight effects. The orchestra seats are so arranged that the musicians do not obstruct the view of the audience, and access to the orchestra is made through an entrance under the stage.

The opening of the theatre took place on Saturday afternoon last, when, in the presence of a large and influential company, Mr. Granville Barker (with whom was seated on the stage Mr. Bernard Shaw and Mr. McEvoy) in a graceful speech declared the theatre open.

This pleasing ceremony was followed by the performance, by the Aldbourne village players, local ladies and gentlemen, of a new cottage drama in three acts, from the pen of Mr. McEvoy, entitled

"THE VILLAGE WEDDING."

Sarah Picter ..... Miss Mabel Hedges
Robert Beal ..... Mr. Charles Martin
Daisy Picter ..... Miss Alice Cook
Fanny Picter ..... Miss Edith Palmer
Polly Saunders ..... Miss Lilian Lake
Lizzie Beal ..... Miss Agnes Stroud
Dick Strong ..... Mr. Edward Hawkins
William Picter ..... Mr. George Jerram
George Hicks ..... Mr. Charles Tucker
Albert Black ..... Mr. John Orchard
A Tramp ..... Mr. William Freemantle

The scene of the drama is Robert Beal's cottage, and the action opens with the assembling of villagers preparing to depart for the church, where a wedding between Lizzie Beal and George Hicks is to be solemnised. Whilst the wedding is taking place Robert, who has been left behind owing to his infirmity, is soliloquising, and a tramp named Albert Black calls, asking for help, and eventually is admitted. Beer is partaken of freely, and the wedding being the topic of conversation, Robert tells the tramp the story of one Dan, who has been in Canada many years, but previous to his going had buried his wife, and had left his suit of black clothes in Robert's care. Black finds out where these clothes are kept, and whilst Robert is dozing, owing to his imbibing too freely, the tramp fetches them and makes a hasty exit.

In the evening the wedding party are keeping up the festivities; and in the midst of the proceedings, Black turns up dressed in the stolen suit, introduces himself as a relative of Dan's from Canada, and is made welcome. At the breaking up of the party, George's friends persuade him to go with them for a midnight ramble in the woods in search of birds; and Black being invited to join them, Lizzie is left at home in an unhappy frame of mind.

At three o'clock next morning Black returns, and finding Lizzie, who has been waiting up, alone, informs her that her husband and his friends have been arrested for poaching. Taking advantage of the situation, he tries to kiss her. Her father, who had retired to rest early in the evening, hearing screams, comes downstairs with a rifle in his hands, and threatens to shoot Black if he moves. Black, putting up his hands, is kept in that position until the arrival of George and his friends, who had been released because of their help in putting out a fire, and they proceed to deal with the intruder, ultimately giving him a minute to change the clothes and get away, which he does. Lizzie and George become good friends again, and the piece ends.

Great praise is due to Mr. McEvoy, to the stage-manager, Mr. William Freemantle, and his assistant, Mr. G. Notley, for their efforts, and also for the admirable cottage setting and effects, which were very realistic. The Aldbourne Village Band occupied the orchestra, and gave some pleasing selections during the intervals. At the conclusion the author was called, and thanked the audience for their kind reception of the drama.

THE RICHELIEU FIASCO.

At the Bow-street Police-court on Tuesday Mr. Robert Hilton was summoned, before Mr. Marsham, for not paying the wages due to seventeen stage hands engaged at the Strand Theatre during the "run" of Richelieu, which only lasted a few nights. Mr. Appleton appeared for the complainants; Mr. H. Curtis-Bennett and Mr. Edward Duke watched the case on behalf of interested parties. The defendant was not present. Mr. Appleton asked the magistrate to allow the cases to stand adjourned for two reasons. In the first place the summonses had not been served. His second reason for making the application was that since he applied for the summonses, he discovered that for the purpose of producing Richelieu at the Strand Theatre a company was formed called Cleodan, Ltd. It was registered on Feb. 2, and it is a proprietary company formed under table A, with certain exceptions. There are two signatories—Miss Mabilla Daniels and Mr. Arthur C. Thread, who is described as a box-office manager—and they each hold one £1 share.

There was, said Mr. Appleton, a document filed at the office of the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies, which gave a list of the directors and managers as follows:—Lord Clifford of Chudleigh; Mr. Alfred Farquhar, of Belgrave Square; Mr. Robert Hilton (the defendant), The Cottages, Little Stanhope-street; Mr. Harry Robert Wilkinson, of Hotham-road, Putney, theatrical manager; and Mr. Harry L. Raphael, of South Villas, Camden Town. That company being on the file, and an authentic return having been made of responsible persons, Mr. Appleton said he would have to reconsider his position with regard to the proceedings on behalf of the men. There were claims against the defendant by musicians, who were engaged at the theatre, and by actors, supernumeraries, and others. Mr. Marsham said Mr. Appleton would have to take action in a civil court.

Mr. Curtis-Bennett said he wished to say that until Feb. 25 Lord Clifford of Chudleigh, on whose behalf he attended the court, had no idea that his name had been connected in any way with this company. If his name appeared on the file at Somerset House it had been put there by someone without his sanction. He had nothing whatever to do with the company, and on receiving a letter from Mr. Johnson, the secretary of the National Association of Theatrical Employees, telling him that his name appeared as a director, he wrote back at once saying that he knew nothing about the company, and desiring that that should be made known at the earliest possible moment. If he had been connected with the company he would, of course, have met his liabilities. Mr. Appleton said the return was signed by the defendant as manager. Mr. Marsham marked the register "summonses not served," and said Mr. Appleton might mention the matter to him again if necessary.

Signor Grasso and Madame Bragaglia, of the Sicilian players, will hold a reception on the stage of the Lyric Theatre on Tuesday afternoon, when they will receive a number of their personal admirers. The company will wear native costumes, and a picturesque and animated assembly may be expected.

"THE PURSE OF GOLD."

A Comedy in One Act, by J. Sackville Martin, Produced for the First Time on any stage at the Gaiety Theatre, Manchester, on Monday, Feb. 28.

Mr. Tom Naylor .....MR. LEONARD MUDIE
Mrs. Naylor .....MISS HILDA DAVIES
Mr. Astley .....MR. MONTAGUE ELPHINSTONE
Mr. Barker .....MR. STANLEY DREWITT
Mr. Gregory .....MR. EDWARD LANDOR
Mr. Thompson .....MR. GILBERT CLARK
Mr. Miller .....MR. FRANCIS HOPE

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Dr. J. Sackville Martin, who has contributed quite a number of small successes to the répertoire of the Gaiety Theatre company at Manchester, shows considerable shrewdness and observation of character in his latest, The Purse of Gold. The scene is the office of Mr. Astley, a young solicitor, who has invited Mr. Barker and Mr. Gregory to wait upon him at a given hour. Barker is the first to arrive, and Astley explains to him the details of a scheme he has in hand for the benefit of one Tom Naylor, who has fallen on evil days through illness and misfortune, and who is about to leave the town to try his luck elsewhere. The scheme is in the form of a purse of gold, to which already about £20 has been subscribed by a number of friends and sympathisers. Astley's idea is to make it ninety, and he therefore proposes that Barker and Gregory shall each add £5, this being the amount he has himself contributed. Barker is rather dubious about giving quite so much, but eventually yields to persuasion. When Gregory comes, the same argument is gone through, and he also yields, rather more freely than his friend, until Astley, having for a few moments left the room, and the subscription list being put into the second-comer's hands, the latter observes that Mr. Miller is down for a sovereign only. Gregory's remarks upon this are curiously natural and amusing to hear; both he and Barker feel they have been victimised to the extent of £4 each, or that Miller should have contributed the same as themselves. On the score of Mr. Astley's generosity, however, they are agreed. It is a fine thing for Astley to have done, considering that he is already a heavy loser by Tom Naylor, having bought a £70 debt against him from a third person, previous to the change in his fortunes. When Astley reappears there is some discussion as to who shall make the presentation speech, which is eventually relegated to Barker, who has a style with him; and as the gift is to be made at once the requisite preparations are made. The next arrivals are Messrs. Thompson and Miller, the former looking like a derelict undertaker, and the latter loud-toned, vulgar, and self-confident. The passages between Gregory and Miller, insinuative of the latter's parsimony and undue importance in the matter compared with the larger subscribers, are richly humorous, and the argument is still going on between them when the four are bundled into a room until Astley shall call upon them, following his reception of Tom Naylor and his wife, who are now due. It is obvious that the latter couple are in a bad way. Naylor looks consumptive, and his wife is heavily laden with anxiety. Both think that Astley has called upon them to come and make some arrangement about the £70 debt. Their surprise and pleasure when the truth is made known effects a great change in their outlook, and when the deputation is called in, and Barker announces the form and extent of their friendly recognition, Naylor can scarcely find words to thank them and the many others they represent. The deputation goes, and Astley leaves husband and wife together for a short time to realise their good fortune and to talk it over. The passages between the couple are intimate and affecting, until, unable to stand the joy of this great kindness any longer, Mrs. Naylor departs, while her husband remains for a few last words with Astley. Now comes the sequel. In response to Naylor's renewed expressions of gratitude, Astley merely remarks that he thought that the object of his solicitude might like to "straighten things up a bit" before going away for good. Naylor, wondering for one brief moment, takes the hint. The revulsion from the prospect of five minutes ago embarrasses his tone and manner. "I don't want you to feel obliged to do it," says Astley; "but if you would like to——" Naylor's feelings leave him no choice. So long as he would like to, therefore, Astley makes him out a receipt for £83, the amount of the old debt with interest; and Naylor, with a balance of £7, dejectedly takes his departure, leaving the empty purse behind him. "Poor chap!" comments Astley, as he places the bulk of the subscriptions in his cash-box.

A very natural and incisive rendering of the solicitor was given by Mr. Montague Elphinstone; Mr. Stanley Drewitt was especially good in making the presentation as Barker, some clever interpolation of cross humour being notable between the speaker and Gregory, who thought to prompt him now and then; in the last-named rôle Mr. Edward Landor showed something of his fine resource as a comedian, and caused plenty of laughter throughout; while Mr. Francis Hope stood out well as the pugnacious Miller, and Mr. Gilbert Clark added to the amusement as Thompson. In the rôles of Naylor and his wife, Mr. Leonard Mudie and Miss Hilda Davies both acted with the right feeling and contributed much to the realism of the play, which, as a whole, may be written down, in spite of the unpleasing issue, as a success.

"THE PRODIGAL'S WELCOME."

A Play, in One Act, by Annie Möller, Produced at the Theatre Royal, Darwen, on Friday, Feb. 25.

Jacques .....MR. J. PITT HARDACRE
Adolph .....MR. H. V. HARVEY
Marguerite .....MME. ANNIE MOLLER

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

A most absorbing story, graphically told. The scene is a lonely cottage on the Brittany coast. Jacques and Marguerite are in great pecuniary trouble, and the next day are to be turned out of their home. After a vain attempt to borrow money, Jacques returns, covered with snow, and drenched to the skin, and dreads to face his wife with the news of his failure. She is a second wife, and she reviles him for dragging her into poverty. In the midst of her recriminations a knock comes at the door. It is a sailor who has been caught in the storm, and who seeks a night's lodging. He foolishly displays his savings, and Marguerite immediately conceives the idea of murdering him. She gives him a drug, and on the lad's retiring, Marguerite forces her husband to do the terrible deed. On the counting of the money, a locket is found, and the discovery is made that Jacques has murdered his own son. In a fit of frenzy he attacks his wife with the knife with which he has just committed the murder; but the excitement is too great, and he falls dead. The authoress played Marguerite with a fine appreciation of the varied emotions of the part; and Mr. H. V. Harvey as her stepson looked and acted the young sailor to the life. The ripe experience of Mr. J. Pitt Hardacre enabled him to impart great interest to the character of Jacques, and he rose to a height of tragic excellence at the end of the play, which brought down the curtain amidst loud and prolonged applause. The success of the piece was undoubted.

MR. EDITOR,—Sir,—In your favourable notice of The Football Match at the Grand Theatre, Birmingham, last week you state that Stiffy, the goalkeeper, was played by Gilbert Childs. The was played (and will be in future) by Yours truly, WILL POLUSKI, JUN."

"THE TALLYMAN."

Comedy, in One Act, by Edward A. Parry, Produced for the First Time on any Stage at the Gaiety Theatre, Manchester, on Monday, Feb. 28.

Charlotte MacIntyre .....MISS EDYTH GOODALL
Mrs. Gutterage .....MISS ADA KING
John MacIntyre .....MR. CHARLES BIBBY
Angus Grant .....MR. LEONARD MUDIE

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

A special interest attaches to this latest achievement of Judge Parry, who is well-known to theatre-goers as part-author of What the Butler Saw, in that his knowledge of the subject has been derived from his experience on the Bench, and that therefore the play may be taken as embodying more than a little of the truth. It does not, however, ring true in all particulars. One cannot quite believe, for example, in the engine-driver, who is apparently in all other respects a sensible man, desiring that his wife shall do nothing all day but dress finely and read trashy novels about the aristocracy, while the work of the house is done by other women; nor does it seem feasible that a wife who can consent to practice such a life should have it in her to rise to the point which the circumstances of the play prescribe for her at the end. We are shown the wife, Mrs. MacIntyre, smartly attired, reading by the fireside, while Mrs. Gutterage, a typical charwoman drawn from the life, is engaged upon some ironing at the table. Much of the preamble is devoted to sheer comedy characterisation, which is remarkably well done and full of entertainment; but the carking influence of the tallyman soon betrays itself in the allusions of both women to the circumstances of the home. MacIntyre thinks that the dress his wife is wearing has been bought out of household savings, and his wife dare not tell him the truth, though Mrs. Gutterage advises her to do so, and make an end of her secrecy and anxieties. There are other things besides, such as a fan and a watch and chain. Presently the husband comes home, bringing news that he has to attend a meeting of the directors of the railway at one o'clock. It appears likely that this is in view of a possible appointment to drive the royal train on a forthcoming journey; but the sophisticated playgoer knows that it has more to do with MacIntyre's failing eyesight. During his presence in the house Angus Grant, the tallyman, makes a call, and MacIntyre, without ceremony, sends him about his business, following it, unobservant of the embarrassment of his wife, with a homily on the evils of the packman's trade, which induces silly women to run their husbands into debt. Later, however, Grant returns, and gives what one must take as a fine exhibition of the methods of his fraternity in temptation, accommodation, and the general humouring of a possible customer. Even Mrs. MacIntyre, who is already heavily in debt to him, he almost persuades into further speculation; but, finally, she brings these business overtures to an end. There is something ugly in the eye of Angus Grant when he realises that his prey is anxious to escape from his toils. Mrs. Gutterage he has sent out for a jug of beer; and now he brings pressure to bear upon the silly woman who thinks to repudiate him. He soon gets to his point. His desire is to come to see her, whether he does business or not; and if she is agreeable, he will there and then write "Settled" across his account against her. It is to her credit that she casts his suggestion back upon him, and resists him strenuously when he seizes her in his arms. The engine-driver returns at this juncture, floors the transgressor, and afterwards kicks him out. The author shows how easily such a scene might be misinterpreted by a husband; and the idea in MacIntyre's mind is not dissipated until the whole story, with proofs, is placed before him. Then he sees his folly, and his wife begins to see redemption for herself in this clean breast of things. To add to the value of her resolutions, MacIntyre confesses that his eyesight has been tested and found wanting by a medical man before the Board, and he is now to be considered out of employment. On the whole, it seems that the circumstances are likely to make a woman of Mrs. MacIntyre, not the dressed doll of the fireside; and one of the first symptoms of reformation is the discharging of Mrs. Gutterage from the house, save in the capacity of a friend.

Really fine acting distinguished the performance. Miss Ada King as Mrs. Gutterage gave a lifelike impersonation, full of natural touches and apparently unconscious humour; it ranks, in fact, as one of the best things that this gifted comedy actress has done. As Charlotte MacIntyre, Miss Edyth Goodall displayed her usual cleverness; and a capital delineation of John MacIntyre was added by Mr. Charles Bibby, to whom nothing comes amiss; while Mr. Leonard Mudie as Angus Grant played with excellent spirit and effect.

OPERATIC FESTIVAL AT EDINBURGH.

Herr Ernst Denhof, a well-known musician and entrepreneur in Edinburgh, has, in conjunction with the Carl Rosa Company, entered upon an enterprise this week at the King's Theatre, Edinburgh, which is worthy of all praise, having arranged to present, for the first time out of London, Richard Wagner's Ring of the Nibelung, alternating the four music dramas of the cycle with operas from the repertory of the Carl Rosa Company. It is satisfactory to be able to record that Das Rheingold, with which the fortnight's season opened on Monday, attracted a crowded and representative audience. A highly-satisfactory rendering was given of Wagner's work; principals, chorus, and orchestra alike striving to make the performance a brilliant success.

Herr Balling, a promising young German conductor, has been engaged to conduct the series of the Ring performances; a number of the members of the Scottish orchestra, under the leadership of that admirable musician, Mr. Verbruggen, are responsible for the instrumental part of the work, and the vocalists comprise many of the foremost singers of the day. Mr. Frederic Austin as Wotan, Mr. E. C. Hedmondt, who is also stage-manager, as Loke, Miss Marie Alexander as Tricka, Miss Florence Easton as Freia, Mme. Edna Thornton as Erda, Mr. Wm. Bolland as Froh, and Mr. Thomas Meux and Mr. Sidney Russell as the two Gnomes completed a singularly fine cast of the Rhinegold, while the chorus, supplemented by various local musical societies, sang with power and effect. The Valkyrie was played on Tuesday, Siegfried on Friday, and the fourth drama of the cycle, The Twilight of the Gods, will be given this afternoon. Among other operas which have been produced this week was Carmen on Wednesday, when Miss Doris Woodall contributed a fine performance, dramatically and vocally, of the title-rôle, and had artistic support from Mr. E. C. Hedmondt, Mr. Alan Turner, and Miss Beatrice Miranda. Mr. Walter Van Noorden conducted in masterly style. Don Giovanni was announced for Friday night, and The Merry Wives of Windsor for this (Saturday) evening.

AT the performance of The Masque of Comus at the Caxton Hall, on March 8 and 9, the Earl and Countess of Ellesmere, for whose ancestor, John, first Earl of Bridgewater, the Masque was written, will be present as patrons. Sir Frederick Bridge's arrangement of the original music will be performed for the first time in public. Mr. Gordon Cleather, Miss Beatrice Spencer, and Miss Ethel Henry Bird will be supported by an orchestra and chorus. The Masque will be produced under the direction of Mr. Frank Stevens, who will himself enact Comus.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

MR. J. H. BATSON.

A sketch of the career of Mr. John Hastings Batson appeared in The Era of Aug. 11, 1900, but a supplementary account of the work of so experienced an actor may not be unacceptable. Mr. Batson is an Englishman by birth, his father being a well-known architect in England and Australia. When quite a youth Mr. Batson developed a taste for the stage, and took to the boards in Christchurch, New Zealand. His first three parts were Lord Tinsell in The Hunchback, Francis Osbaldiston in Rob Roy, and Sheila in The Colleen Bawn, and he acted with many of the great English stars who visited Australia. In 1870 he visited India, and made a hit in Calcutta by his performance of Hamlet. Subsequently he undertook a recital tour through the country, playing in Madras, Bombay, and all the principal hill stations. His travels may be said to be world-wide, for he visited the Straits Settlements, China, and Japan, and later on South Africa. He did not return to England until July, 1881, when he found himself a stranger in the land of his birth. Mr. Batson has fulfilled an imposing list of parts, including those of Prince Arthur, King John; Bassanio, Antonio, Old Gobbo, the Duke, and other parts in The Merchant of Venice; Biondello in The Taming of the Shrew; Amiens in As You Like It; the title-rôle and heavy parts in Hamlet and Richard III., and Baradas in Richelieu. Mr. Batson, indeed, has played in almost all Shakespeare's plays, and has appeared in tragedy, comedy, and burlesque.

In 1884 he visited South America, where he did admirable work, and was a big success. He returned home in 1885, and since that date has had the honour of being in the original cast of The Dancing Girl at the Haymarket, with Sir (then Mr.) H. B. Tree; in the original cast in The Struggle for Life, with Mr. George Alexander, at the Avenue Theatre (now the Playhouse); in The Panel Picture at the Globe, with Lady Monckton in the leading part; and was under the management of Lady de Bathe at the Haymarket. Later he played Sir John Garnett in The Great Ruby, with Miss Marie Illington as Lady Garnett, under the management of Mr. Ben Greet. He was also engaged for Sir John when Mr. Dundas sent the play out. He acted in The Flood Tide, The Great Millionaire; played Mr. Havisham in The Real Little Lord Fauntleroy; and went on tour with Miss Haidee Gunn. Among recent successes have been Lord Dachet in The Freedom of Suzanne, with Miss Mabel Love in the cast, under the management of Mr. Percy Hutchison; the Duc de Brissac in Zaza, with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sugden; Father Lamplugh in The Christian; and Elijah Coombe in The Silver King, under Mr. Howard's management.

Some years back, it may be recalled, Mr. Batson made a great hit in the part of Beau Brummell, in a clever one-act play, A Packet from England, by W. Outram Tristram. He has also produced plays for that gentleman, for Mr. Walter Helmore, and Mr. Eden Phillpotts. Two years ago Mr. Batson recited Everyman at Croydon, and achieved a marked success.

MR. BENSON AT BELFAST.

Students' Night in connection with Mr. and Mrs. Benson's annual visit to Belfast was celebrated on the evening of the 25th ult., when the Queen's University students attended in force at the Grand Opera House. Arrayed in all kinds of fantastical costumes representing soldiers, jesters, Kaffirs, Boy Scouts, negroes, nurses, dairymaids, Chinamen, &c., they paraded the principal streets ere taking possession of the Opera House gallery, where they provided a musical programme of surprising excellence. On this auspicious occasion Mr. and Mrs. Benson and company produced The Merry Wives of Windsor with gratifying success, every rôle being cleverly sustained. During the course of the piece Mrs. Benson was presented with a lovely bouquet of flowers, which was let down by a wire by the students amidst a scene of enthusiasm.

Mr. Benson (who has always been a great favourite with the students) came forward, and in response to loud calls said he would like to thank their friends the students for the good cheer and kindly gifts that they had sent them by wireless telegraphy. He assured them that during—he would not say how many years—they had learned to value their friendliness, the friendliness of their noble institution and the good fellows connected with it, very highly. He would also like to congratulate the students on the establishment of the new University, which would give them greater scope for their abilities. At the conclusion the students raised cheers for Mr. and Mrs. Benson and the members of the Scottish Rugby team, who occupied seats among the crowded and fashionable audience in the dress circle.

BARONESS VON GARIES, who, as Mme. Fanny Gardoza, was a popular singer at Milan and Covent Garden as long ago as the early forties, has died recently at Raynes Park. She knew Mme. Patti as a beginner, and sang with Jenny Lind, Mme. Albani, and other leading vocalists. Alexandre Dumas wrote and Gounod composed for her, and on several occasions she sang before the late Queen Victoria.

A DRAMATIC performance in aid of the Ladies' Work Society will be given this evening at the Royal Albert Hall Theatre, under the patronage of Princess Louise Duchess of Argyll. The programme will consist of A Privy Council, by Major W. P. Drury and Richard Price, and The Looking Glass, by Major Philip Trevor.

PARIS, THURSDAY, Feb. 24.—Some twenty years ago, if anyone had predicted that works by Courteline and Tristan Berhard would be produced at the House of Molière, the person making such a rash statement would at once have been transferred to a padded cell. Yet the impossible has come to pass. These two witty, observant playwrights have entered the sacred portals of the Comédie-Française, although it must be owned that their realistic comedies appear strangely out of place in that classical atmosphere. The evening's entertainment began with the above work, which did not prove very satisfactory. The story is as follows. Jacques d'Amblize, a bachelor, and Dr. Vigneul are neighbours, their country houses being separated only by their two gardens. Jacques is the lover of Denise, the doctor's wife. One night Denise, taking advantage of her husband's absence, comes to see Jacques. She throws herself into his arms, but all at once utters a faint scream, and her head drops on his shoulder. She is dead. Half mad with grief and fright, Jacques sends for Hélène Ravenel, a young widow, Denise's great friend. Whilst the two are discussing, not knowing what course to take, the doctor suddenly enters. He has returned home earlier than he expected, and not finding Denise, he has become suspicious. When he sees his wife's body his suspicions are confirmed, and he is certain that Denise is the mistress of the man at whose house she has expired. Although Pierre Vigneul did not love his wife very much, he is shocked at this discovery, and his eyes betoken his mental anguish. A curious transformation then comes over Hélène. She, the upright woman, discovers at that moment that she loves Pierre, and in order to allay his sufferings she takes an heroic resolve. She says that she is Jacques' mistress, and that Denise, at her request, accompanied her as she (Hélène) wanted to break off with Jacques. As she pours out her tale Pierre is horrified, for it dawns upon him that Hélène's confession hurts him more than his wife's supposed infidelity, and he realises the fact that he loves Hélène. Jacques, however, will not allow Hélène to compromise herself for her dead friend, and he tells Pierre the truth. And Pierre is appeased, almost happy. Denise's treachery does not weigh much on his mind, since he knows that he can now marry Hélène. This end did not please the audience, especially as the final scene was treated in a needlessly brutal fashion.

The curtain next rose on Courteline's immortal Boubouroche, brought out some fifteen years ago at the Théâtre Libre, then managed by M. Antoine. Played in a masterly manner by Pons-Arlès, by Gémier, and Irma Perrot, the work at the time created a tremendous impression, and at once made Courteline celebrated. Unfortunately, the Comédie-Française is ill suited for realistic scenes, and it is to be regretted that M. Claretie added these to his répertoire. The famous comedy seemed dwarfed there, and the actors appeared at sea. Boubouroche is a satire on the eternal deceit of woman and the immortal credulity of man. In true Molieresque style the author shows us his heroes—Boubouroche and Adèle—as two jolly types, who have a horror of tears and try to avoid all complications of life. In the opening tableau we are in a café, where Boubouroche, a retired tradesman, is playing his nightly game of cards. He has a comfortable income, he is a bachelor, he is good-natured, and his sole ambition is to see everybody happy around him. For this reason he does not mind being exploited by his friends and acquaintances, who pocket his money when they win at cards, and allow him to settle the score when they lose. But Boubouroche does not mind that. He is thoroughly happy, thanks to Adèle, his little mistress, with whom he has had a liaison for close upon eight years. On the evening in question Boubouroche's friends have all left the café, and, as usual, he is paying the waiter for their drinks, when an old gentleman walks up to his table and informs him that Adèle has for the last few years deceived him with a youth, whose voice the old gentleman—whose apartment is just below Adèle's—can hear the moment Boubouroche has turned his back. In the next act we are at Adèle's. The old gentleman has spoken the truth. There is her lover, a youth, and every time they hear a suspicious ring at the bell, the youth disappears in a cupboard, wherein, thanks to a lamp and a collection of books, he can while away the time until the enemy has left. To Adèle's surprise Boubouroche rushes into the room, and, having accused her of infidelity, begins searching the place. A streak of light through a crack of the cupboard betrays the visitor, whom Boubouroche drags forth from his hiding place. Having shown the youth the door, Boubouroche turns upon Adèle, but to his surprise, she looks at him indignantly. "I don't know that man," she says, "and you cannot accuse me of deceiving you with a man who is a stranger to me. As to his presence in that cupboard, it is a family secret; and unless you want me to break faith with those who trusted me I may not divulge to you who he is!" Adèle, then, in a severe tone, tells him that since he suspected her, the only thing she can do is to leave him for ever. Poor Boubouroche is crushed. He begs Adèle to forgive him, and, on his promise never to doubt her again, she magnanimously gives him her hand. Boubouroche, however, is not satisfied. Adèle has been maligned, and she has to be avenged. He therefore rings at the door of the old gentleman, his neighbour, drags him before Adèle, tells him he is a liar, and then kicks him out of the room. M. Silvain was too heavy for the rôle of Boubouroche, and Mlle. Lara was a far too serious and sentimental Adèle.

The third play produced was Le Peintre Exigeant, a farcical comedy in one act, by M. Tristan Berhard, a trifle too much spun out, but intensely funny. M. and Mme. Gamois, parvenus, have made the acquaintance of M. Hotzeplotz, who is to paint their portrait. Hotzeplotz is a genius. He does not do much painting, but he is raving about Art. He is a slave to Art, and poor M. and Mme. Gomois also become slaves. Hotzeplotz reigns like a despot, and all tremble before him. He has started making a portrait of Lucie, the young daughter of the house. On that portrait she is smiling. When Hotzeplotz discovers that his young model looks sad because her parents will not allow her to marry the man of her choice, he orders the parents to give at once their consent to the match. How can he make the portrait of a smiling girl if the smile has gone? And the parents give way, and even say nothing when he bundles them out of the house so that they should not interfere with his work. It must not be believed that this artist is a humbug. The man is perfectly sincere, but his ideas are too big for his limited brain, and he not only suffers in consequence, but makes others suffer as well. These types are by no means uncommon, and M. Tristan Bernard portrayed that character with consummate skill. M. Berr, the best comic actor at the Comédie-Française, impersonated Hotzeplotz with great success.

"UNE FEMME PASSA."

Play, in Three Acts, by M. Romain Coolus, Produced at the Renaissance on Feb. 25.

Simone .....MLLE. MARTHE BRANDÈS
Suzette .....MLLE. DE MORNAND
Alice .....MLLE. LAUGIER
Mme. Grivard .....MLLE. DELYS
Mme. Lavigne .....MLLE. SABRIER

Bourland .....M. BERTHIER

PARIS, THURSDAY, March 3.—There is a certain analogy between La Vierge folle and the above work. As in M. Bataille's play, a woman has passed into the life of Jean Darcier, a great nerve specialist, who, after years of toil has arrived at the pinnacle of fame. Ladies are flocking to his consulting-room; and Jean, for the first time in his life, begins to realise that he has left off to care physically for his unselfish wife, Simone. At that psychological moment Suzette passes, and Jean loves her with all the ardour of the man of middle age. Simone suffers terribly from that estrangement which, she feels, she is powerless to prevent. Fortunately for her, chance comes to her assistance. Suzette, "la femm qui passe," is an unworthy creature. She is married, and Jean has not even the satisfaction of knowing that he alone is the "amant de cœur"; and this fact is brought home to him in a curious fashion. Among Suzette's lovers is Hériez, who worships her despairingly, and to whom she gives as many hours as she can spare. But Hériez has found a letter proving to him that his lady-love is anything but faithful, and, broken-hearted, he goes to consult a physician, who is no other than Jean. The latter gives the patient a prescription written in a feigned hand and hurries him out. When Suzette comes, he upbraids her and turns her away. But, owing to the agonised cross-examination of Suzette, Hériez has learned the truth, and, calling on the doctor, he forces him to show his real writing. Satisfied by the comparison with the letter he holds, he leaps at his rival's throat. Darcier, however, overcomes him at first physically, and then morally, by telling him the state of his own feelings, whereupon Hériez falls into a fit. Whilst he attends his patient Simone comes in and implores Jean to stand by her and his work, and turn his back on that worthless woman. Jean promises to stay with her when Suzette is announced. Again Jean falters, and it is only when Simone seriously threatens to leave him for ever if he goes to her rival, that he tells the butler to say that he has left Paris. Suzette leaves without a word, and the curtain falls whilst Jean goes to nurse his rival back to health. The work was superbly acted by M. Tarride, who gave a perfect representation of the strong, self-controlled, masterly man. M. Capellani was also highly impressive as Hériez. Mlle. Brandès showed herself the great artist in the difficult rôle of Simone, and Mlle. De Mornand gave a good account of the part of the flighty Suzette.

"LA FLAMME" is the title of a three-act play brought out at the Théâtre Réjane. It is signed Dario Niccodemi, a fact that did not surprise anybody, considering that for a long time past that gentleman seems to be the only author considered worthy of writing plays for Mme. Réjane. This is all the more to be regretted as M. Niccodemi, although talented, has not sufficient scenic vision to produce a dramatic work unaided. There are only four personages in the piece: Vigier, a banker; Geneviève, his daughter by his first wife; Farnçoise, his second wife; and Antoine, Geneviève's husband. Vigier married Françoise, a penniless girl, on account of her beauty, and, Geneviève, his daughter, lost her heart to Antoine, a youth without a cent, and made him her husband. Vigier has gone to Paris on business, leaving Françoise and his daughter and son-in-law at his country house in Taormina, in Sicily. Antoine and Françoise fall in love with one another whereupon the jealous Geneviève, who has watched them all along, sends a telegram to her father: "Come back at once. My husband in love with your wife." Vigier, a sexagenarian, does not see much harm in this affair, which he thinks will never go far. He would willingly have left things alone, but the infuriated Geneviève leaves him no peace. Terrible scenes follow. The house becomes a hell on earth, whereupon Françoise at last consents to elope with Antoine. Everything is arranged for their flight, but as they leave the house we hear a shot, and Françoise falls dead, killed by Geneviève.

"LE PECHE DE MARTHE."

Play, in Five Acts and Seven Tableaux, by M. Emile Rochard, Produced at the Ambigu on Feb. 26.

Marthe .....MLLE. LAURENT
Jeanne-Gilberte .....MLLE. BERENGERE
La Parigotte .....MLLE. HUART
La Marquise .....MLLE. FRANQUET
Olympe .....MLLE. COLAS

M. Rochard, the former manager of the Ambigu, has given us a stirring play, the scene of which is laid during the Franco-Prussian war. A Prussian bullet has killed Gilbert de Rocheaigue before he could carry out his promise to marry Marthe, although the last thing he did was to legitimise his child. Marthe, seeking refuge with her relatives in besieged Paris, where they have a café concert, is denounced as a spy by her cousin, whose advances she rejects, knowing him to be seeking the inheritance due to her child. She dies from the shock in the open street, leaving her little Gilberte to the care of old Florestan, the stage-manager of the music hall. But, thanks to "the long arm of coincidence," Gilberte comes into her own property, despite the dark machinations of the cousin who caused her mother's death; and she falls into the arms of young Jacques de Rocheaigue, her father's nephew. The amusing, healthy play met with an excellent reception.

AN attractive programme has been arranged for the St. Patrick's night concert at the Crystal Palace. The vocalists are Miss Agnes Christa (a young artist who is rapidly making her way to the front), Miss Rosina Beynon, who has done such sterling work with the Moody Manners Opera company, and Mr. George May, Mr. Wilfrid Yearton, Mr. Bertram Mills, Mr. W. H. Brereton, and the Westminster Singers. Irish songs, old and new, will alternate with humorous Irish part-songs and National airs. The musical director of the Crystal Palace, Mr. Walter W. Hedgcock, will be at the piano, and the Crystal Palace Band, under Mr. Herbert Godfrey, will play.

THE Good Friday concerts at the Crystal Palace will, assuredly prove decidedly attractive. Particulars of the programme have already been given, but it may be well to repeat that the artists will include Miss Agnes Nicholls, Mme. Clara Butt, and Mme. Edna Thornton, Mr. Charles Saunders, Mr. Kennerley Rumford, and Sir Charles Stanley. The London Symphony Orchestra, and the Crystal Palace Choir and Military Band will officiate. At the afternoon concert the programme will include Rossini's "Stabat Mater" and the "Laudate Dominum" from Cherubini's Fourth Mass. At the evening concert a popular programme will be contributed.

LONDON AND SUBURBAN THEATRES.

KING'S THEATRE, HAMMERSMITH.
On Monday, Feb. 28, the Drama, by Hall Caine, entitled
"THE PRODIGAL SON."

A warm welcome awaited the return of The Prodigal Son to the King's on Monday, Mr. Hall Caine's celebrated play meeting with a magnificent reception. Mr. Wentworth Croke's company give evidence of having been carefully chosen, and deserve much credit for their impersonations of the numerous parts in the play. Mr. Hugh Montgomery gives a sound and intelligent representation of the much-maligned hero Magnus Stephensson, and fully earns the hearty applause which greets him at the fall of the curtain. In every respect satisfactory is the rendering of Oscar Stephensson by Mr. S. Herbert Humber, whose impassioned acting quickly appealed to the audience. Mr. Ernest Rivarz makes a capable Stephen Magnussen; and the Factor, Oscar Nielson, is capitally rendered by Mr. Philip Renouf. Mr. Fred Manners embodies the Sheriff in good style; and Dr. Olsan is nicely played by Mr. Charles Brownless. Mr. Bernard Merefield is convincing as the Director of the Casino; and Mr. Henry Denton acts well as the Agent of the Bank of Denmark. In the dual rôle of Thora and Elin Miss Elsie Wood gains appreciation for her sympathetic and earnest acting; as Helga Nielson Miss Betty Castle rises to the occasion in her passionate declarations to Oscar, and scores satisfactorily; Miss Barbara Gott is a charming and highly successful Anna Magnussen; and much laughter is caused by the humorous impersonation of Margaret Nielson by Miss Marie Harcourt. A number of small parts are ably played, and the scenery is highly artistic.

THE MARLBOROUGH.
On Monday, Feb. 28, the Comedy entitled
"BREWSTER'S MILLIONS."

Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company, direct from Wyndham's Theatre, is playing here this week in Brewster's Millions to appreciative audiences. The play is staged in a highly-creditable manner, and everything that the careful stage-management of Mr. A. P. Kaye can do to ensure success has been done. Great credit is due to Mr. Percy Hutchison for his exceptionally fine portrayal of Monty Brewster. The difficulties of the part are of more than ordinary character, but he skilfully overcomes them and achieves a conspicuous success. Mr. Gordon Ash gives a praiseworthy performance as Charlie Harrison; Mr. Henry Hampson displays distinction as Archie Golding; Mr. H. Douglas Greet is an amusing Tommy Smith; and Messrs. Aubrey Mather (Joseph McLeod), Charles Esdale (Frank Bragdon), Otho Hazlewood (Horace Pettinghill), and N. F. Plinge (Jack Gardner) all adequately present their respective rôles. Mr. A. Andrews supplies a commendable performance as Mr. Grant; Colonel Drew is ably delineated by Mr. A. Andrews; Mr. George Silver is good as Captain Perry; Mr. A. P. Kaye is vastly diverting as Monsieur Bargie; Mr. Frank Hill gives a characteristic representation of the butler, Rawles; Miss Cicely Stuckey contributes a pleasing embodiment of the rôle of Peggy; Miss Lilias Earle acts with distinction as Mrs. Dan de Mille; Miss Dorthy Whittaker is a clever Barbara Drew; Janice Armstrong is admirably performed by Miss Francis Duvie; and Miss Pauline Straus and Miss May Seton meet every demand as Miss Boynton and Trixie Clayton. The Deck scene is a novel and ingenious achievement in the way of scenic illusion. Preceding Brewster's Millions, the one-act play by Eille Norwood entitled Chalk and Cheese is admirably acted by Mr. A. P. Kaye, Miss Pauline Straus, and Miss May Seton.

THE CORONET.
On Monday, Feb. 28, the Comic Opera entitled
"LES CLOCHES DE CORNEVILLE."

Success bids fair to attend the enterprise of Messrs. Milton Bode and John Hart in securing a first-rate company to produce on a lavish scale the evergreen operetta Les Cloches de Corneville, with its sparkling melodies by Planquette and the romantic and amusing lyrical and comical dialogue by H. B. Farnie and R. Reece. The piece is excellently mounted and staged, and goes with great freedom and vivacity. Miss Vera Darien has a very pretty voice and a charming personality, and wins golden opinions as Germaine; Miss Gurney Delaporte is very dainty and chic as the saucy Serpolette, but she should impart more vigour into her rendering of the "Just look at this" ballad, and we would like to see more of her dancing. Mr. Stuart Alexander does justice to the beautiful music allotted to his part of Henri, Marquis de Corneville, and acts with animation; Mr. E. St. Alban is very fine as the old miser, Father Gaspard, and secures quite an ovation for his realistic acting in the scene where he is surprised fondling his gold in the château. Mr. Wensley Russell revels in the part of the cowardly fisherman Grenicheux, in which he is seen to the fullest advantage. Mr. Mark Lester as the Baillie and Mr. Alfred Selby as his shadow Gobo are entirely excellent, and ably sustain the traditions of the parts for quaintness and comicality. Miss Lucy Kipling is good as Christophe, and a word of praise is due to the efficient chorus. Mr. George Rowlands is business manager, and Mr. George McCloskie stage manager for the company.

ELEPHANT AND CASTLE THEATRE.
On Monday, Feb. 28, the Play entitled
"THE KING AND THE UNKNOWN WOMAN."

The attraction here this week is the above-named play, presented by Mr. E. Hill-Mitchelson and a well-selected company. Mr. E. Wellesley Draper cuts a manly figure as the heroic and tender-hearted Prince Loris, and is responsible for an excellent performance; Mr. E. Hill-Mitchelson gives a stirring portrayal of the villainous Prince Menski; and the character of General Platz is played in a straightforward and effective manner by Mr. W. R. Winning. Mr. Cyril Harrison infuses a good deal of comedy into the part of the somewhat easy-going Captain Gara and Mr. J. Telly Dillsen is humorous as Corporal Stack. A good study is provided by little Elsie Clark as the boy Caesar; and Miss Gertrude Sterrol does well as the Countess Melveitch. Miss Helen Richmond makes the most of the opportunities offered in the character of Else, and comes through with flying colours; and Miss Cissie Podmore endeavours to make the character of the maid Schnapps amusing. The rôle of Zora (the unknown woman) is played by Miss Violet Carlisle, who gives a most excellent performance; her acting throughout is natural, her pathetic scenes being particularly convincing. All the minor characters are in safe keeping, and the play is well staged. Mr. W. Stephenson has returned to his old position as chef d'orchestre after a tour with pantomime.

DALSTON THEATRE.
On Monday, Feb. 28, Balfe's Opera,
"SATANELLA."

The last week of the present season's return visit of Mr. J. W. Turner's English Opera company to the Dalston Theatre is proving as successful as the preceding weeks. On Monday evening Balfe's tuneful opera Satanella drew to the theatre a large and appreciative audience, who applauded every item to the echo, and, wherever possible, secured an encore. The choruses were all particularly well rendered, especially that occurring during the scene representing a street in Tunis. The part singing of the Pirates in the second act was admirable; and Mr. Frank Clarke's singing of a rousing song was rewarded with an emphatic recall. Mr. J. W. Turner was once again seen and heard at his best as Count Rupert. He acted admirably, and all the songs falling to his share were rendered with vigour and tunefulness, the ever-popular tenor meeting with a rousing reception from his friends. His song in praise of the enlivening qualities of champagne gained the inevitable encore. Miss Sarah Williams, in the title-rôle of Satanella, practically carried all before her. The melodiousness of her voice was undoubted, and her acting most effective. She was specially recalled at the close of the second act. The Arimanes of Mr. Tom Griffiths was one of the dramatic features of the performance, and the duets with Satanella were remarkable, each eliciting an encore. Mr. P. Newton was a success as Karl, rendering some pretty songs with care; Mr. George Ridding was acceptably humorous as Hortensius; and Mr. S. Appleby made an excellent Vizier. Miss Doris O'Brien, in the character of Lelia, was the personification of innocence, and the possession of a sweet singing voice enhanced her performance. Miss Jessie Dennis made a spirited Stella, singing with her customary tunefulness; and Miss Grace Parish was quite satisfactory as Dame Bertha. Tännhauser, Maritana, and Carmen have been repeated during the week by special request.

BRIXTON THEATRE.
On Monday, Feb. 28, the Farce, in Three Acts, entitled
"CHARLEY'S AUNT."

Once again the dear old lady from Brazil, "where the nuts come from," is paying this popular playhouse a visit, and meeting with the usual gratifying success. Indeed, throughout the week business has been capital. Mr. Brandon Thomas, the author, has again selected a very capable company, with the result that during the evening incessant fun and laughter prevail. Mr. Stanley Cooke is a most diverting representative of Lord Fancourt Babberley, his effervescence being infectious; as Colonel Sir Francis Chesney Mr. Theo McCausland Stewart is very good; Stephen Spettigue finds a capital exponent in Mr. Roy Byford, a thoroughly amusing and amorous lawyer; Mr. Sydney Compton is again at hand with his clever study of the lugubrious Brasset; Charles Wykeham is pleasantly played by Mr. Robert Burnett; and Jack Chesney is bright in the hands of Mr. Charles King. As Donna Lucia Miss Enid Ross is graceful and wins admiration, as also does Miss Bertha Wilson as Ella Delahay. Miss Ruth Henton (Kitty Verdon) and Miss Phyllis Back (Amy Spettigue) are typical and charming representatives of English girls.

Charley's Aunt is preceded by a capital one-act play, written by Mr. Brandon Thomas, The Colour-Sergeant. Charley's Aunt is well staged and dressed, and was received with much enthusiasm. Mr. Cecil Barth, so long associated with Charley's Aunt, is still acting as the general-manager for Mr. Brandon Thomas.

THE SHAKESPEARE.
On Monday, Feb. 28, the Comedy, in Three Acts, entitled
"MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH."

Mr. Gaston Mayer's company is on a return visit to the Shakespeare this week with Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch, and the homely theme of the play, amusingly developed, appeals to the audience by reason of its simplicity. The interpretation of the piece is in the hands of a well-balanced cast, foremost amongst whom is Miss Sophie Lingwood, who in the title-rôle is in every respect admirable. Her delineation of the philosophical and charitable Mrs. Wiggs is highly entertaining. Miss Rita Carlyle makes a droll appearance as Miss Hazy, cleverly depicting the eccentricities of the character and scoring a decided hit; the antagonism of Miss Eichorn is ably portrayed by Miss Beatrix A. Bell; and Miss Violet Vivian as Miss Schultz renders good support. Miss Ruhamah Catton adequately sustains the rôle of Lovey Mary; and Miss Rhoda Beresford is a pleasing Miss Lucy, Miss Marie Stella a precocious Asia; and Miss Mollie Shiells, Miss Dutchie Forsyth, Miss Meina Connell, and Miss Florence Mitchell are all efficient in their respective parts. Mr. Frederick Forrest contributes a highly amusing impersonation of Mr. Stubbins; Mr. Ernest Rutson is responsible for an earnest sketch of Mr. Wiggs; and Mr. Norman Clifton's Mr. Bob is a sound performance. The matrimonial agent, Mr. Hunkerdunkus Jones, is played in breezy fashion by Mr. Harry G. Wright; and Mr. Robert Shiells does well as the Sheriff. Mr. Walter Hicks works hard as Billy Wiggs; and Mr. Sydney Carlyle as Chris Hazy is acceptable. The remaining parts are well filled, and the whole production is thoroughly enjoyable. Mr. Walter D. Nicoll is general-manager (in advance) for Mr. Gaston Mayer; and Mr. H. Percival Young is acting-manager for Messrs. Bennett and Bennett.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.
On Monday, Feb. 28, the Comedy, entitled
"THE CHORUS LADY."

That striking American comedy The Chorus Lady, from the lively pen of Mr. James Forbes, occupies the boards at the Kennington Theatre this week, and as presented by Mr. William Mollison's clever and well-balanced company makes a tremendous hit. The play gives an interesting and entertaining view of American stage-life, being full of humour; but, withal, there is a serious under-current of pathos which, developing, as it does in the third and fourth acts, into a series of highly dramatic situations, enthrals the attention of the audience. There is not much room for stage effects, but the dressing is effective, and the second act furnishes a pretty faithful representation of a theatrical chorus-room. That talented actress, Miss Annie Hughes, sustains the title-rôle with pronounced success. The part of Patricia, with her varying moods of light-hearted gaiety and deadly earnestness, is one which calls for the exercise of histrionic powers of a high order; and Miss Hughes proves she possesses these in abundance. She rises to the occasion when called upon to circumvent Dick Crawford, and wins an ovation. That character is sketched with vividness and power by Mr. William Mollison. It is not a pleasant part to enact, but Mr. Mollison interprets it with grim realism that is irresistibly effective. Nora O'Brien, the wayward, self-centred, and superficial girl, is graphically drawn by Miss Elsie Vron-Neville, who is responsible for quite a brilliant piece of stage-portraiture. Sylvia Simpson, the shallow-natured show girl, is acted with great effect by Miss Mabel Durrant, a lady of queenly carriage. Mr. Henry Deas gives a carefully conceived and attractive study of the warm-hearted Dan Mallory, Patricia's lover; while Mr. Fred Marston is a very good Patrick O'Brien. Mr. Eric Dane is well placed as Rogers, the taciturn servant of Crawford; and Messrs. E. Kendrick and Calender make a couple of breezy stable-boys. Miss Josephine Woodward furnishes an admirable delineation of Mrs. O'Brien, the overfond mother; Miss Agnese D'Aragan is quite a picturesque relic of former theatrical glory in the rôle of Georgie Coots, the wardrobe woman; and the parts of the chorus damsels are taken by the following bevy of pretty and fascinating ladies: Misses H. Oliver, V. Role, H. Donn, J. M'Gwerin, K. Trevare, and F. Lang. Mr. Archie W. Chappell is a tactful general-manager for Mr. Mollison.

THE WEST LONDON.
On Monday, Feb. 28, the Dramatic Playlet entitled
"THE MISER'S HOARD."

An excellent interpretation of this well-written playlet was given bly the members of Miss Lena Penrose's small but capable company. As Michael Rawke Mr. W. Buckland was seen to the greatest advantage, and he depicted the various emotions of the old miser with faithful fidelity; Mr. Edmund Sydney gave a manly impersonation of Stephen Blake; Mr. W. Rossiter was light and easy as Tom Shrimp; Miss Phyllis Brent was decidedly pert and piquant as the maid Betty; and Miss Lena Penrose enacted Mary Rawke in a painstaking and convincing way. During the evening the Weimars contributed a pleasing musical speciality, and some particularly clear films were shown on the Cinematograph, the best being The Interrupted Rendezvous, The Surgical Operation, House under Repair, Little Jim, and The Pretty Fisherwoman. Mr. J. H. Shotton is the acting-manager for Mr. F. R. Griffiths.

THE LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH.

"Luke's going to give him one directly—you wait!" That was the remark of a small boy to his parents whilst seated in the stalls of the Lyric, Hammersmith, one night this week and when witnessing the progress of Mr. Frank M. Thorne's fine human play The Woman Pays. The observation was made in a suppressed, passionate manner, at the end of the third act, when, it will be remembered, Nell Morland, the victim of the diabolical steward of Treadgold Manor, rushes from a sick-bed whilst still in night attire to stop the infamous marriage of Madge Armstrong with the scheming Roger Marchant. The youth had followed the fine acting throughout the piece with every eagerness, and, truth to tell, his elders were scarcely one whit less anxious as to the fate of the lovely daughter of Squire Treadgold and the handsome and ill-used young fisherman Sid Armstrong. "You see, sir," one of the parents explained to the writer on seeing his slightly amused glances at the lad's knowledge of what was to come, "Harold came to see The Woman Pays over a year ago, when it was here before. He came by himself, and has worried us this week to see the piece. Indeed, he has always talked about it since he first saw it. He has been through it—line by line—from beginning to end, dozens of times. And he is right. It is fine; there's no mistake about that!" Criticism of this kind is of more value than the studied utterances of the blasé critic, and we will let it suffice as our opinion also on the occasion of the return visit to London of The Woman Pays.

The cast is a good one. Mr. Phil Harper as Sid Armstrong looks every inch a sailor and is an ideal hero. But if that is so, Mr. Raymond Thomas's interpretation of the part of Roger Marchant, the slimy steward, is equally excellent. He is a first-class monster, and what villain can hope for better praise? The rolling stone, Micky Moloney, is made a very laughable character by Mr. Joseph Magrath; and Miss Lily Beverley aids and abets him remarkably well in the humorous corners of the play, when, dressed in maidservant's black or print dresses, she assumes the character of Polly Stoke. Squire Treadgold is a dignified member of the aristocracy, and Mr. Beresford Innes in this part looks and acts the character to the life. Of the remaining folk we are introduced to, all are excellent in their respective ways, Luke Morland calling for the most attention. Mr. Dunlop Stewart handles the old nondescript fisherman-sailor in a highly praiseworthy way. He never forgets the dual rôle he is called upon to enact. One does not know quite when to admire him the more—as the drunken, rum-soaked seaman, or as the father of a dearly-loved daughter, dearly loved possibly as much because she is a fallen woman and all his world knows of the fact, as that when it had been in his power to help her when she had first gone astray he had turned her away—and that then he had repented and loved his lass more than ever. A very fine character-study, Mr. Stewart. Miss Kate Blair undertakes the trying part of the steward's victim, Nell Morland, but she gets through with it in splendid style.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE, N.
On Monday, Feb. 29, the Play, in Four Acts, entitled
"RAFFLES."

Mr. Leonard Boyne's company is appearing here this week in Raffles, and although it is not the first appearance of the amateur cracksman in Stoke Newington, there seems to be many anxious to either make or renew acquaintance with the attractive scoundrel whose name gives the title to the play. Although comparisons are said to be odious, Mr. Reginald Dance has little to fear from comparison with his predecessors in the part, and his performance of "A. J.," if inclined to err a trifle on the melodramatic side, is, nevertheless, a thoroughly interesting one. Another excellent piece of work is the Bunny of Mr. Harold West, who cleverly indicates Manders' supreme faith in and devotion to his old schoolfellow. Mr. Edward Irwin is duly incisive as the detective, Curtis Bedford, and plays with all the necessary sang-froid. The Crawshay of Mr. Buckstone Clair is a strong and vigorous character-study that leaves its mark upon the production; and an entertaining little sketch of Viscount Crowley comes from Mr. Arthur Fitzgerald. Miss Frances Titheradge is particularly well placed as Gwendoline Conran, her graceful and sympathetic style admirably suiting the character; and in the none too pleasant part of Mrs. Vidal Miss Lilian Hallows is to be congratulated on the admirable restraint she exercises in handling it, and on avoiding the temptation to make the character that of an ordinary melodramatic adventuress. A neat and finished study of the French maid Marie is contributed by Miss Beatrice Fitzgerald; and Messrs. Oswald Griffiths, Allen, Booker, and F. Drake, and Misses Agnes Knights and Marguerite Unett in other parts add their share to the general success. Jerry and a Sunbeam is played as a curtain-raiser by Miss Titheradge and Mr. West.

THE BROADWAY, NEW CROSS.
On Monday, Feb. 28, the Drama entitled
"THE BEGGAR GIRL'S WEDDING."

Melville drama always draws crowded houses here, and this week proves no exception to the rule, for large and delighted audiences have gathered nightly to applaud The Beggar Girl's Wedding. The comedy scenes are excellent, and are capitally played by all concerned, notably by Mr. Herbert Lloyd as Dickey Storm and Miss Daisy Meynard as Tina Torkington. Mr. Otto Minoten plays with force and ability the trying part of Jack Cunningham; Mr. Charles Barclay gives an excellent portrayal of Dr. Milbank; Mr. Charles Brucester is a clever and convincing Norman Marsh; Mr. George Vernon is a capable Police-constable Phillips; Mr. David Cartwright cleverly sustains the enthusiasm and clerical dignity of the Rev. Mr. Melsom; and other male parts are well acted by Messrs. C. Brown, B. Elton, H. Morgan, Hy. Playfair, Horace Kenny, Hubert Goddard, H. Stewart, and C. Smith. Miss Marie Duncan gives a pleasing and sympathetic rendering of Bessie Webster (the beggar girl); Miss Anita Playfair is a capital Lizzie; Miss Olive Warne is a clever and attractive Maud Villiers; and Miss Lily Duncan is a competent Elsie Cunningham. As is the rule with Melville productions, the piece is lavishly mounted Mr. Bertram Iles makes all welcome, and his popularity continues to increase.

THEATRE ROYAL, WOOLWICH.
On Monday, Feb. 28, the Drama, entitled
"THE BONDMAN."

Particularly attractive fare is provided for the current week, as Mr. Wentworth Croke's company is presenting the great Drury Lane success The Bondman, by Hall Caine, and large audiences are the result. The mounting of the play is excellent, and characteristic of all Mr. Croke's productions. The cast is a good one throughout, and all, working well together, obtain most satisfactory results. Mr. Philip Darien supplies a powerful rendering of Jason, a character particularly suited to his abilities, and his pathetic portrayal creates a forcible impression and wins hearty plaudits. Michael Sunlocks is capitally represented by Mr. Stanley Harrison, whose sincere and convincing study holds the rapt attention of the audience throughout, and congratulations are worthily bestowed upon his efforts. Mr. Wilfred Beckwith does well in the character of Adam Fairbrother; and Mr. W. H. Rotherham is equally successful in the dual rôle of the Grandfather and Father Farrati. Dr. Boni is ably depicted by Mr. Fred J. Waller. Mr. Sidney Stephens and Mr. Cecil H. Ford are suitably placed in the parts of Governor Testa and the Marshal of Police respectively. Miss Violet Macree does ample justice to the character of Greeba, and is accorded a warm reception. Miss Madge Laverton supplies a clever portrait of Mrs. Fairbrother, which is greatly appreciated. Miss Emelie Mayhew is also successful as Christian Anne. Lily Callow and Dora Callow have able representatives in Miss Dorothy Radcliffe and Miss Florence Owen; and Mona and Danny are capably essayed by Miss Beatrice Maud Hughes and Master Walter Neville.

CRYSTAL PALACE THEATRE.
On Monday, Feb. 28, the Comic Opera, entitled
"THE KING OF CADONIA."

This is undoubtedly the most complete and successful engagement so far made here by Mr. J. Bannister Howard, and, despite bad weather, the audiences have been most encouraging. The dresses, scenery, and the entire production are the same as at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, and the artists selected by Mr. Frank Curzon most capably fulfil their parts. Mr. Bertie Wright as the Duke of Alasia is the success of the evening, having plenty to do, and doing it well. He scores heavily with his many songs, and his resemblance to his brother, who created the rôle, is agreeably evident. Mr. J. Warren-Foster as Alexis, the King of Cadonia, is excellent, his commanding presence, easy manner, and artistic acting securing immediate recognition. He is an ideal monarch and lover, and his striking costumes become him well, especially in the last scene, when he appears in coronation robes. Mr. Jack Martin is appropriately stern and unbending as General Bonski, looks well in his handsome uniform, and gives a realistic touch to the part, which is very convincing. Mr. Cameron Carr makes a soldierly figure of Capt. Laski, and gives a most intelligent interpretation of this important part. Mr. E. Hartley Summers as Panix is inimitably droll as the secretary, a very clever make-up enhancing the effect of the performance. As Laborde Mr. Cecil Tresilian renders the part of the conspirator with much realism. Bran, Capt. Laski's comic servant, is quite safe in the experienced hands of Mr. Edward Thirlby, and the many merry scenes with Miss Molly Keen, who plays the pert waiting-maid Militza, are thoroughly enjoyed by all. Special mention is due to Miss Keen's clever acting and dancing and general vivacity. Miss Olga Marsden as Stephanie is appropriately sympathetic; and Miss Florence Lelgarde as the Duchess of Alasia is a stately figure and well becomes her handsome gowns. Miss Alice Moffat as Princess Marie, the heroine, is charming, her singing being excellent, and her love scenes with the King admirably carried out. Messrs. Leslie Winter and R. Saker are smart and soldierly as Lieut. Jules and Lieut. Saloff; and Mr. W. J. Meade as Corporal Polski is the non-com. to the life. Miss Nellie Cambray, Miss Mabel Hirst, and Miss Winifred Sampson as Nattine, Ottaline, and Fridoline make a charming trio of ladies-in-waiting; and Miss Marjorie Coleman and Miss Mary Brougham figure as two smart little pages in the Coronation scene. A full orchestra is under the direction of Mr. H. R. Mathews, and an efficient chorus of gardeners, soldiers, &c., makes the stage quite a bouquet of colour, the uniforms and dresses being of an elaborate and gorgeous nature.

OPERA HOUSE, WOOLWICH.
On Monday, Feb. 28, the Farce, entitled
"WHEN KNIGHTS WERE BOLD."

The management certainly gauged the public taste by the engagement of that popular and amusing farce When Knights Were Bold, and the members of Mr. James Welch's company should feel highly gratified by the reception accorded to them by a Woolwich audience. The artists carried through their impersonations with a light hand, to the accompaniment of continuous laughter. Mr. H. Langdon Bruce, in the rôle of that irresponsible and irrepressible aristocrat Sir Guy de Vere, is a host in himself, and his well-sustained humour and drolleries keep everyone in excellent spirits. Mr. Charles Lloyd achieves distinction as Isaac Isaacson, and does ample justice to the part; Mr. H. Winton cleverly portrays the character of the Hon. Charles Widdicombe, and is the source of much merriment; Mr. Colin Johnston presents an admirable portrait of the Rev. Peter Pottlebury, D.D.; Sir Brian Ballymote is capably undertaken by Mr. Gerald Venning; Lady Rowena has a handsome representative in Miss Ernita Lascelles, who puts force into her acting, and displays much ability; Miss Isla Glynne is seen to advantage as Miss Sarah Isaacson; while Lady Millicent, Lady Marjorie, and Kate Pottlebury are charmingly impersonated by Miss Elspeth Oliphant, Miss Marjorie Carton, and Miss Peggy Brember respectively. Wittle and Barker are admirably undertaken by Mr. Lionel Brocknor and Mr. E. R. Hollway respectively. Miss Adelaide Grace as the Hon. Mrs. Waldegrave makes the most of her opportunities; and Miss Ethel St. John is an attractive Alice Barker. Mr. Herbert Ranson as the Herald completes the cast. The farce is preceded by an amusing sketch entitled Millie's Mother, in which appear Mr. H. Winton, Miss Elspeth Oliphant, Miss Adelaide Grace, and Mr. E. R. Hollway.

Mr. Reginald A. Hunt, the producer and stage manager of Mr. Arthur's Aladdin at the Theatre Royal, Glasgow, which terminated its run of 11½ weeks last Saturday, was the recipient of no fewer than nine presentations from Happy Fanny Fields, Maie Dillon, Malcolm Scott, Harry Tate, Harry Claff, Regan and Ryan, London chorus ladies, chorus gentlemen, and the ballet. In a few well-chosen words he thanked the company for the manner in which they had worked for the success of the pantomime.

Mr. Edward Eden Peacock, of Thornilie, Redhill, manager of the Morning Post, and hon. secretary of the Savage Club, left estate of the gross value of £4,437, of which the net personalty has been sworn at £4,150. The testator left practically the whole of his property upon trust for the benefit of his wife during widowhood, and for the education and maintenance of the children of his second marriage, and in the event of his wife's re-marriage he left to her £100. Subject to his wife's interest, he left the ultimate residue of his property, on the youngest of his children obtaining majority, to all of his children, in equal shares.

Favourable reports are to hand regarding the progress of the Green Room Club in Melbourne. It has an extensive membership, the funds are in a very satisfactory condition, and the governing board are considering the advisability of taking larger premises to accommodate the increased demands. Visitors from all parts are welcomed by members. Social gatherings are held every fortnight, when the best professional talent is engaged, and on two occasions special ladies' nights have been given with the utmost success. With a view of establishing a benevolent fund, arrangements have been made for a matinée at one of the Melbourne theatres.

A Copy of "The Era" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps. The Era is posted on Saturday in time to reach London Subscribers by the first Town Delivery, and Country Subscribers should receive their Papers by the first London Post. Address, The Publisher, 5, Tavistock-street, W.C.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

Minutes of the Council held on Tuesday, March 1, at 32, Regent-street. Present: Mr. Clarence Derwent (in the chair), Mr. W. H. Mote (hon. solicitor), Messrs. Lewis Casson, Cyril Cattley, F. H. De Quincey, R. A. Greene, F. J. Arlton, Leonard Shepherd, Edward Morgan, M. Moncrieff, H. Le Grand, Langford Reed, Miss Rose Cazalet, and Mr. D. Young (secretary). The minutes of the previous meeting were read and passed.

In reply to a letter from Miss Liza Coleman, suggesting that the Council should take action in regard to bogus managers, the Secretary was instructed to reply to Miss Coleman to the effect that in future the names of bogus managers should be posted in the rooms of the Association.

With reference to a complaint re a member of the Association, it was decided that the member be asked to give an explanation or to attend the Council meeting on Tuesday next.

The Secretary reported the result of inquiries with regard to Cleodan, Ltd., and Robert Hilton, and Mr. Mote was instructed to write to the different gentlemen whose names were mentioned as directors of that syndicate.

In view of the recent constantly recurring instances of bogus management, the Secretary was instructed to inquire of the West End Managers' Association, the Touring Managers' Association, and the Theatrical Alliance, whether they would unite with them all in their endeavours to prevent by legislation, or other means, a continuance of the evil. In answer to a letter from the Orchestral Association, the Secretary was directed to thank them for their letter, and to say that the Council would be very glad to arrange to send a representative to a meeting for the purpose of bringing about legislation with regard to bogus management.

The Secretary submitted the report of the conference of the A.M.U., and after discussion certain deletions were agreed to. Mr. Casson was appointed delegate to attend the next meeting of the associated committee, together with the Secretary.

The Finance Committee's report and the House Committee's report were submitted by Mr. Arlton and adopted. Miss May presented the Association with a charming valance for use in the lounge, which the Council accepted with grateful thanks. The Hon. Solicitor reported three interviews and recovery of £2 12s. 6d. for a member.

Mr. Derwent tendered his final report as to the appeal, which was warmly received by the Council. A hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Derwent for his labours, and the excellent results that are likely to accrue was carried unanimously.

The Secretary was instructed to send a letter of invitation to Signor Grasso and his company, inviting them to make use of the rooms during their stay in London.

A sub-committee for inspection was appointed, consisting of Miss Rose Cazalet, Mr. Edward Morgan, and Mr. F. J. Arlton, with power to add to their numbers.

The following letter was received from Mr. James Welch:

"In response to your circular, no one regrets more than I do the exclusion of actor-managers from the list of members, and I had always been an active supporter of the Association, until the fatal day came when I had my notice given to me as a manager.

"I am only too delighted to return to the fold at your instigation, and ask you to re-enter my name in the list of members. It is only reasonable to expect that actor-managers, being excluded so deliberately, would not utilise the services of the agency. However, I shall be only too delighted in future to put anything in your way that I can.—Yours faithfully, James Welch."

Elections: Rose Edouin, F. Manning Sproston, Arthur Stanley, Kirsteen Graeme, Margaret Omar, Delisse St. Audrie, and Madge Trenchard. Reinstatements: George Alexander, James Welch, Elsie Davison, and Percy Mormont. Nominations: Alfred Wiltshire, Enid Edoni, Marie Leonhard, Frank K. Cooper, Barbara Violet Mendl, Cuthbert J. Harron, and Francis Holland.

DRESSES AT THE PLAY.

Miss Marie Doro, in The Climax at the Comedy, wears a blue and white muslin, simply made, with the skirt gathered into a band and trimmed at the bottom with two frills edged with Valenciennes lace. The corsage is draped from the shoulders, and the folds crossed just above the waist; and it is finished with a V-shaped chemisette of white tucked chiffon. The sleeves only reach to the elbow, and are there finished with a frill of Valenciennes lace.

Another dress of Miss Doro's is of crêpe-de-chine in a dark shade of wine colour. The bodice is arranged with cross-over bands of the material tucked into a waistband of satin. The skirt is charmingly designed, with a tunic edged with folds of the crêpe-de-chine, and opening both back and front to show the plain skirt below it. The tunic is caught up at the back and held in place by a rosette of crêpe-de-chine, and another rosette decorates the band at the left side of the waist.

Miss Doro wears a bridal dress of white chiffon veiling white satin in the last act. The corsage is of white lace and chiffon, fitted with short sleeves of the chiffon opening over a second pair of white net. The skirt is arranged with a tunic of the chiffon inserted with lace and caught up at the back with a knot of white roses and a pretty bow of white satin ribbon; and from here also falls a long cord of twisted white chiffon to be trailed to the edge of the skirt. This tunic is sufficiently short to show the under-skirt and train of white chiffon, which is quite devoid of trimming or decoration of any kind.

The customary prosperous state of affairs is revealed in the report—the sixty-first—of the Prudential Assurance Company, which gives particulars of the year ending Dec. 31, 1909. The number of policies issued in the Ordinary Branch was 76,087, assuring the sum of £7,044,603, and producing a new annual premium income of £415,015. The premiums received were £4,710,107, being an increase of £93,770 over the year 1908. The claims of the year amounted to £3,018,981, the number of deaths being 8,375, and 17,629 endowment assurances maturing. The number of policies in force at the end of the year was 682,204. In the Industrial Branch the premiums received were £7,171,770, an increase of £246,015. The claims of the year amounted to £2,877,978, including £176,401 bonus additions. The number of claims and surrenders, including 4,545 endowment assurances matured, was 382,233. The total number of policies in force at the end of the year was 18,375,229, their average duration exceeding eleven and a half years. The assets of the company, in both branches, after deducting the amount written off securities, are £74,201,701, being an increase of £2,242,842 over those of 1908. The total surplus of the Ordinary and Industrial branches is £3,002,068, which is disposed of as follows: £265,000 has been added to the Investments Reserve Fund of the Ordinary Branch, and £50,000 to the reserve fund of the Industrial Branch; £1,674,937 will be distributed among participating policyholders in the Ordinary Branch, policyholders in the Industrial Branch, the shareholders, and the superintendency and agency staff, leaving £812,131 to be carried forward. In the Ordinary Branch a reversionary bonus at the rate of £1 14s. per cent. on the original sums assured has been added to all classes of participating policies issued since the year 1876, an increase of two shillings per cent. over the rate declared for the past three years.

ONE LICENCE FOR ALL.

MR. HENRY ARTHUR JONES' VIEWS.

On the occasion of the National Sunday League concert at the Alhambra last Sunday, a most interesting address was given by Mr. Henry Arthur Jones on "The Licensing Chaos in Theatres and Music Halls."

Sir HERBERT TREE presided, and before the address was read there was a most enjoyable concert. Miss Amy Evans was in excellent voice for "Oh, love that rulest in our land," and "Robert, toi que j'aime"; whilst Mr. H. Lane Wilson gave "When the Almond Blossoms Fall" and "Yo San." As usual, Mr. G. W. Byng's splendid orchestra was a delight to listen to. The selections rendered by them included Allegro Marcia, Henry VIII.; Overture, Mignon; Selection, Pagliacci; Suite, Egyptian; Overture, The Merry Wives of Windsor; Scenes Napolitaines, 5th Suite; and Grand Finale, "Reminiscences of Tschaikowsky," introducing "1812" Overture.

Sir HERBERT TREE made a remarkable announcement regarding the Censorship. He said: "At one time I myself was of the opinion that the theatre and the music-hall should be kept apart, but the public have shown that they would prefer it otherwise, and I am now heartily in agreement with the recommendation of one licence. The managers, I think, have for the most part also come to the conclusion that there should be one licence for all."

MR. H. A. JONES' ADDRESS.

Mr. HENRY ARTHUR JONES on rising said: This meeting to-night reminds me of a meeting in old St. James's Hall in the autumn of 1889, when I addressed the National Sunday League on behalf of the opening of the National Gallery and the National Museums on Sundays. Perhaps one or two of you may remember that meeting. At that time there seemed little hope of our obtaining a rational Sunday in England; but so quickly did things move that in a few years our national collections of pictures were thrown open so that their owners (the English people) might have the privilege of looking at them for one or two hours on the only day in the week when many of them have the leisure and freedom to enjoy the contemplation of works of art. I never addressed a more enthusiastic meeting than that meeting twenty-one years ago. I want to address you to-night on a kindred question, one that is, I believe, of almost equal importance: the evening amusements of the people of England. That is our theme to-night. Think how much it means! Consider the millions of our English citizens living, for the most part, sedentary, monotonous lives. The great majority of us are toiling during the day at desks, at looms, in shops, in warehouses, and offices at some quite routine task which, instead of quickening the powers of our minds, rather tends to clog and deaden them. Well, after the dreary routine of the day is over, millions of our population go out in search of relaxation and amusement. To-morrow night, at this hour, this building will be occupied by a very different audience from that which has assembled here to-night. At least, that audience will come here in the hope of getting a rather more lively entertainment than I fear I can promise you in my lecture. And this building is only one of many hundreds throughout England where, to-morrow night, at this time, vast audiences will be assembled in the hope of being entertained and amused. I will ask you to enlarge the spaces of your imagination until they contain seating capacity for hundreds of thousands. Try to conceive all those vast audiences to-morrow night in all the theatres and music halls of England; summon them before you, multiply row after row, tier upon tier, crowd upon crowd listening, watching, laughing, weeping, hushed, applauding; here catching a moment of rapture from some heroic sentiment, there grinning and chuckling perhaps at some half-veiled indecency; here, a few of them tasting the fine flavour of some choice Shakespearean passage; there rolling and roaring over some piece of stale buffoonery; here awed by the tricks of the scene-shifter; there startled and impressed by some searching flashlight into the human heart; here being stupefied, coarsened, and vulgarised; and there being charmed, exhilarated, humanised, vitalised. I want you to conjure up in your mind these millions of amusement seekers, to put your finger on their millions of beating pulses, and I want you to consider how enormous, how far-reaching, how operative—not only upon manners but upon conduct and character—must be the effect upon them of what occupies their evening hours of leisure. For the great majority of them the hours of day are dull and lifeless, with mechanical labour. It is only in their two or three hours of evening leisure that nine-tenths of our population can be said to live at all.

THE PEOPLE'S AMUSEMENTS.

Well, I maintain that the character of the amusements of our people is a matter of supreme importance in our national economy; in fact, outside the great permanent concerns of Government, the defence of the country, the guarding of the national finances, the enforcement of law—outside a few such great matters as these, I cannot see what question has more intrinsic importance, or could so fittingly engage the attention of legislators as the question of the amusements of the people. I want you to feel with me how very important it is that any attempt to raise the character and quality of those arts should not be interfered with by and useless restrictions, akin to those restrictions which a few years ago shut the doors of our museums and picture galleries on Sunday. I want you to feel that this is a question of the same kind; that it is quite related to that other question which the National Sunday League spent many years to settle on the only firm and reasonable basis. How was the opening of the museums and picture galleries carried and established? By an appeal to common-sense and to fair play all round. There were many people in England who wished to go to church on Sundays; there were many other people who wished to go to a public-house; there were many other people who wished to see their National collection of pictures, and to hear fine music. There were many others who wished to do some two or all three of these perfectly reasonable things. Well, in the end, it was found that the people who wished to employ their Sunday leisure in these reasonable ways could not be thwarted and restricted and denied without the risk of great and increasing disturbance. It suddenly occurred to the Government that there was a very simple way out of the difficulty, and that was to allow those people who wanted to go to church to go there; those people who wanted to go to a public-house to go there; and those people who wanted to see our collection of pictures to see them. That was the only solution. It was the simple solution of common-sense and fairplay all round. Well, now, let us again take common-sense and fair play all round as our guides, and apply them to the regulation of the people's amusements on their week-day evenings.

Inasmuch as theatres and music halls are places where intoxicating liquors are sold; inasmuch also as they are places where large crowds assemble and there is danger of fire and crushing; inasmuch also as they are places where possibly indecent exhibitions may be held; for all these three reasons it is necessary that there should be a licence to regulate them so that the manager may be held responsible for anything taking place there which is indecent or dangerous, or harmful to the general body of their frequenters. I say that there is no doubt that a licence—a set of regulations is necessary. We are all agreed upon that. But surely this licence ought to be framed with the idea, and in the intention of not stopping or thwarting any amusement that is not dangerous or harmful or indecent. Our two rules in framing this licence ought to be these:—"Let any citizen who provides amusement for his fellow-citizens have the right to give them whatever amusement he thinks they want, providing only that it is not dangerous, harmful, or indecent. Let every citizen who wants amusement have the right to go where such amusement is provided. That seems to me to be the only way in which a licence can be framed according to the very plain dictates of common-sense and fair play. Instead of licences being framed and issued in accordance with that very simple rule, we have at the present moment a bewildering and mischievous chaos of stupid restrictions. I will not attempt to describe that chaos to you, for I should only keep you here till to-morrow morning, and then I could not give you any clear idea of the endless and futile absurdities that cramp and thwart the managers of theatres and music halls, and prevent them from giving, and the average citizen from getting, the harmless or intellectual amusement that he is asking for. If I do not tax you beyond endurance I will instance a few of them. There are thirteen varied forms of licensing:—

1. A Patent Theatre. The origin of this licence was that a number of citizens said to the authorities "We have a very respectable company who wish a very respectable play, and we should like the King to permit our theatre to have the Royal patent." The only remaining patent theatres in England are Covent Garden, Drury Lane, the Theatre Royal, Bath, and the Theatre Royal, Margate.
2. Lord Chamberlain's licence for stage-plays only, and for the sale of drink, but no smoking.
3. L.C.C. licence for plays, but no drink.
4. L.C.C. for plays and drink.
5. L.C.C. licence for plays and drink and smoking.
6. L.C.C. licence for variety entertainments, and smoking without drinks, and without plays of any kind.
7. L.C.C. licence for variety entertainments and drinking and smoking.
8. Provinces, similar licenses, with the occasional privilege of holding three distinct kinds of licences granted by the local authorities
9. Dublin, under the approval of the Lord Lieutenant.
10. The rest of Ireland under the approval of the local magistrates.
11. Isle of Man. A licence from the House of Keys.
12. In Glasgow the theatres are licensed with no sale of drink after ten. Judging from the national character this seems to be a distinct encouragement to the audience to miss the earlier acts and get drunk while they have time.
13. The Oxford and Cambridge Theatres are controlled by the University authorities.

The Court Theatre is the only West-End house not under the Lord Chamberlain, because it happens to be outside a boundary line, therefore it has a licence from the L.C.C.

A man may build a perfect playhouse, such as the Scala, and under the Lord Chamberlain's licence he is helplessly restricted to stage-plays, while a theatre like Covent Garden, to the good and gain of the manager and of the public, may be at any time either

A Circus,	A Concert Hall,
A Playhouse,	A Variety House,
An Opera House,	A Dancing Saloon.

Is that common-sense? Is that fair play?

THE COMMON INFORMER.

The Camden Theatre was opened as a theatre, and, like most theatres in these bad days, it did not pay. So it was sold to a music hall syndicate. They opened with a variety performance. A common informer sought the parish constable of Camden Town, who is, it seems, the legal authority to institute proceedings. He could not find the parish constable. The case was, however, tried and the theatre closed. It was reopened with a cinematograph and an electric piano. Down again came the common informer and said, "You are not licensed for music." The manager said an electric piano was not music, but this plea did not serve. He was fined 40s. and was told he ought to be fined £400. And again the theatre was closed. Is that common sense? Is that fair play? Hengler's Circus was able for some time to present many varied forms of entertainment, but the Princess's and Scala, a few yards away, remain closed because they may only produce stage-plays.

A touring pantomime found it possible to give a complete performance in a music hall; the following week in another hall they had to cut it up into variety turns to conform to music hall licence. Is that common sense? Is that fair play?

The Coliseum, about four years ago, held the Lord Chamerlain's licence, and therefore could not legally perform variety entertainments. They, therefore, dished up all the music-hall turns into some semblance of a play by supposing an Uncle Gregory to be giving a party, and Uncle Gregory had to invite the elephants to entertain the children. Is that common sense? Is that fair play?

The Aldwych was forced to have a play written at five minutes' notice to cover the performance of a famous American band. The Scala, under the management of the Variety Artists' Federation, had to provide a play to introduce a succession of music-hall stars, who, under this subterfuge, could give their ordinary performance. Is that common sense? Is that fair play?

The Marlborough Theatre, Holloway, can only produce stage-plays and must prohibit smoking. At the Crouch End Theatre, a short distance away, which happens to be outside the Lord Chamberlain's boundary, there you may smoke and give any kind of entertainment, play or varieties. Is that common sense? Is that fair play?

Now you know that it is quite illegal for music halls to produce any stage play, but under the illegal agreement between theatre managers and music-hall proprietors, which was condoned by our chairman (I am grieved to point him out as a law-breaker)—under this illegal agreement Oscar Wilde's Florentine Tragedy and Shakespearean scenes are performed at music halls, but theatres may not introduce songs or dances unless they are part of the play. Is that common sense? Is that fair play?

A sketch recently seen in the music halls is now played at a West-End theatre, and several one-act plays recently seen at West-End theatres are now given at the halls. Both performances are illegal. Is that common sense? Is that fair play?

In a well-known seaside town the local entertainment provider, both at theatres and other playhouses, is a most important property-owner in the town, and has no difficulty in presenting any form of amusement, whereas a stranger wanting to build a new place of amusement would probably experience great opposition. Is that common sense? Is that fair play?

In Blackpool you may combine a circus, concert-hall, theatre, dancing-hall, restaurant, and general amusement building, as at our Crystal Palace; at other places the theatre and therefore the drama is handicapped by being able to present only stage-plays. Is that common sense? Is that fair play?

In Harrogate the ratepayers have built their own concert-hall and theatre, and voted themselves a free licence to give any sort of programme; but the Opera House may only give stage-plays. Is that common sense? Is that fair play?

Music-hall managers are everywhere giving performances of plays not exceeding thirty minutes, and not having more than six characters; these performances are illegal and they are liable to prosecution if any common informer brings an action against them. They are, however, tolerated by the authorities. But if any dramatic author produces a play lasting thirty-five minutes and with seven characters, he would be prosecuted by the authorities themselves. Is that common sense? Is that fair play?

"BLIND, WILFUL IMBECILITY."

On the other hand, if Sir Herbert Tree wished to give a high-class entertainment at His Majesty's—say, an entertainment consisting of a troupe of five dancers, a song by a prima donna, a solo by a violinist, and a play of an hour in the middle—if Sir Herbert wished to give a high-class variety entertainment, and you may judge what a high-class artistic variety entertainment Sir Herbert would give you—if he did that, he would be liable to prosecution. Is that common sense? Is it fair play? Is it anything but sheer blind wilful imbecility? Is it not putting handcuffs on artistic and intellectual amusement? These are some of the features of this confusion worse confounded that prevails throughout the amusement world all over the country.

I want to know what you citizens of London would say if next Sunday morning, when you take a walk across Hyde Park, you found that the authorities had stuck up barbed wire enclosures all across the main paths and thoroughfares; if you wanted to go from the Marble Arch to the Serpentine you found these rings of barbed wire in your way, and a policeman stationed at each of them warning off any peaceable citizen who wanted to walk along the public path.

"You can't go down that path. Take your wife and family the other way."

Well, you take them another way round, and you find the same barbed wire stuck all across another path, and you find another policeman, saying:—

"You can't go along there. Come off that path."

And you say "Why? It is a public path, is it not?"

"Come off that path!"

"Why?" you peaceably ask.

"Well, the authorities have rigged it up with barbed wire and you cannot go across."

"But why have the authorities put up that barbed wire?" you ask. "What is the reason?"

"They have not got any reason; they've put up the barbed wire. Come off, that is what you've got to do!"

If that took place in Hyde Park I think the citizens of London could very soon make short work of that barbed wire and those fences. I do not think it would be there the next Sunday morning. But the result of our present system of licensing amusement is quite as obstructive to the ordinary rights of the citizens. All across our evening hours of leisure—the only time when we may be said to live—all across these evening hours of leisure they have stuck the barbed wire of senseless and indefensible restrictions. If you ask for the reason, there may, indeed, be some sort of a reason why perhaps the barbed wire fence was once put there, but there is no reason on earth why you should not pull it down and use your own public way.

Many of these needless and indefensible restrictions have grown up from the fact that our music-halls and theatres had an entirely different origin. Our English drama had its origin in the period of the Renaissance, and came, as you know, from the old morality plays and from the mummeries that grew round Church feasts and Church holidays. It is not certain at what date the Lord Chamberlain first began to exercise a censorship over stage-plays; but the records of his office show that as early as 1628 the Lord Chamberlain either personally or through the Master of Revels, licensed theatres, and closed them, and exercised a general supervision over the work of the dramatist. These powers sprang from the Royal prerogative, but in 1737 the censorship became a statutory function of the Lord Chamberlain. Our great Henry Fielding had been writing political plays, and had put on the stage political personages. This became so offensive to Sir Robert Walpole that he brought in a law which constituted the Lord Chamberlain licenser of theatres within the city and liberties of Westminster, and wherever the Sovereign might reside. That law empowered the Lord Chamberlain to prohibit, at any time and anywhere in Great Britain, a performance of any play, and it imposed heavy penalties on those who should perform any play in an unlicensed theatre, or any prohibited play, or any new play, without the sanction of the Lord Chamberlain or of letters patent from the Crown. Ever since then our plays all over the country have been licensed and played according to the judgment, or mercy, or caprice of the Lord Chamberlain, according as he liked to open his eyes or to close them.

Now, the music-hall entertainment arose in quite a different way. Before 1751 there was no regulation of entertainment outside the theatre. To show how the regulations for our present London music halls arose I cannot do better than quote to you the preamble to the Act of 1751, which was the date when they became subject to legal supervision. The preamble to that Act reads as follows:—

"AND WHEREAS the multitude of places of entertainment for the lower sort of people is another great cause of thefts and robberies, as they are thereby tempted to spend their small substance in riotous pleasures, and in consequence to put on unlawful methods of supplying their wants and renewing their pleasures; in order, therefore, to prevent said temptation to thefts and robberies, and to correct as far as may be the habit of idleness, which has become too general over the whole kingdom, and is productive of much mischief and inconvenience, be it enacted 'Any house, room, garden, or other place kept for public dancing, music, or other public entertainment of the like kind in the City of London or Westminster, or within twenty miles thereof, without a licence, had for that purpose from the last preceding Michaelmas Quarter Sessions of the Peace, to be holden for the county in which said house, room, garden, or other place is situate, as signified under the hands and seals of four or more of the Justices there assembled, shall be deemed a disorderly house or place, and every person keeping such house, room, &c., without such licence as aforesaid, shall forfeit the sum of £100 and be otherwise punishable as the law directs in the case of disorderly houses."

You will see from this that until within the last generation there was a very definite line between the theatre and the music hall. Until then there was a legal line of demarcation, which gave the theatre the absolute right to the performance of stage-plays. There was a further line of demarcation in the character of the entertainments given at music halls, which were generally of a rather low, disreputable, and sometimes indecent character. There was also a pretty general line of demarcation between the audiences who attended the theatre and the music hall respectively. So that, until about a generation ago, there was a reason for the separate licensing and the separate regulation of the theatre and the music hall.

Now there is a very great deal to be said for the legal reservation of the theatre as the sole place where stage-plays can be performed. I can well understand and sympathise with our leading London managers who still hold that the theatre should be the only place where stage-plays shall be performed, and that the dignity of the drama will be best upheld if the theatre alone has the legal right to the performance of stage-plays. I say there is much to be said for that view of the whole question.

SIR HERBERT TREE'S BROAD VIEWS.

I suppose until a few years ago Sir Herbert Tree would have been one of the first to claim this reservation and distinction of the theatre. I think it says much for his broad-mindedness and for the liberal way in which he looks at the question generally, that he is found taking the chair to-night with a view of breaking down all barbed wire restrictions between the music hall and the theatre. I hope we are all agreed that the dignity of the English Drama is one of the first considerations that should guide us. Nobody living has done more to uphold that dignity than Sir Herbert Tree, and if he is here to-night to support my argument for breaking down these restrictions and barriers between the theatre and the music hall, you may be quite sure that it is not from any lax views about the dignity of the drama, and about the necessity of upholding it as a fine art, and as an instrument of refinement and civilisation in England to-day. You may be sure that he has thoroughly weighed the whole matter, and it is not from any wish to degrade the English theatre or to lower its influence that to-night he is found to be expressing different views from those he held, under different circumstances, a few years back, and different views from those held by the majority of his brother West-End managers at the present time.

There is much to be said in favour of reserving the theatre as the only place where stage-plays can be performed. There is also very much to be said for the Feudal System. The main argument against it is that it is quite unworkable in the present condition of England. Equally unworkable is the enforcement of the law which still exists, that licensed theatres are the only places to-day where stage-plays can be legally performed.

Gradually, during the last generation, the music halls have more and more raised the character of their entertainments, and have drawn a more and more respectable class. During that time they have more and more illegally encroached on the rights and reservations of the theatre.

The improvement of the music-hall entertainment took place when music halls began the illicit performances of sketches and little plays. I believe that that improvement (a very surprising improvement when we remember what music halls were thirty years ago) is largely due to their performance of stage-plays. You know that, at first, these sketches being illegal, were prosecuted, and the managers of the music halls were heavily fined. These prosecutions were instituted until it became very evident that they were powerless to prevent the performance of sketches in the music halls. If these prosecutions were continued, it is estimated that at the present time there would be 150,000 of them annually. The law-breaking has become so frequent and so respectable that it is quite useless to continue proceedings against the law-breakers. Upon this point the recent report of the Censorship Committee contains these very significant words:—

"The performance of sketches in music halls is a practice too firmly established to be uprooted, nor is there any reason why the public which frequents music halls should be deprived, by force of law, of the pleasure of witnessing whatever form of entertainment those who cater for their amusement are able to provide.

"We believe, and we are supported in this belief by the evidence given before us by many of those best qualified to speak in the interest of the serious drama, that the competition of the variety stage is not likely, appreciably, to affect the well-being of those forms of British drama which are entitled to solicitude."

Let us go back for a moment to our rule of common sense and fair play. What common sense and fair play indicate is the only simple way of meeting our difficulties. It is that indicated by the report of the Censorship Committee, namely, to abolish the present legal differentiation between the theatre and the music hall, and to allow each to present whatever form of entertainment it desires. I believe that whatever differences of opinion there may have been about other points, the Censorship Committee were unanimous in coming to the conclusion that there is no other way out of the present entanglement. There is no other way of allowing each provider of entertainment to give to his various patrons the best that he can provide. There is no other way of allowing you, as citizens, to get the kind of amusement that you wish for.

CLASSICS SEEN THOUGH SMOKE.

For many years past I have advocated that music halls should be allowed to give their patrons whatever kind of entertainment those patrons desired. I have urged music-hall managers not to rest until it is legal to produce Hamlet and The School for Scandal in every music hall of the kingdom. I do not suppose there are many music halls that would produce Hamlet, but it has been done in a small way, and there is no conceivable reason why you should not be allowed if you wish to see The School for Scandal and to smoke your pipe at the same time. Well, that is how the affair stands at the present moment; but recently another aspect of the question has been presented to us. The music-hall managers who have been illegally prevented from giving sketches and plays and have been claiming the right to do so, seem now to be protesting against the only common-sense and fair-play settlement of the difficulty, namely, one uniform licence for theatre and music hall, with permission to the manager to allow smoking if he thinks it advisable. The music-hall managers object to that. They wish to have the right of producing plays of thirty or forty minutes or an hour's duration, but apparently they do not wish that the theatres should have the right of producing dances, songs, and other items of high-class variety entertainment. The music-hall managers have not, so far as I am aware, given any valid reason for their opposition to the one and uniform licence. Such reasons as they have given seem to me to be wholly vague and unsustainable, and wear the aspect of being dictated by considerations of their own personal profit. Of course, if the music halls could still be protected in doing their little plays, and if the theatres could be prevented from giving a high-class variety entertainment, that would undoubtedly be a great thing for the prosperity of the music halls; but would it be in accordance with our rule of common sense and fair play? Would it be best for the public? That is the consideration that must guide the settlement of this matter. The music-hall managers must be very firmly asked to state their reasons why they are so anxious that there should be one licence for the music hall to give it the right to do short plays, and another licence for the theatre, apparently designed to restrict it in competing with the music-hall entertainment. Now the Theatre Royal, Dublin, is licensed by the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and is allowed to present to the public whatever entertainment the manager may find advisable and profitable, that is to say, the manager of the Theatre Royal, Dublin, is allowed to present to his patrons any kind of entertainment that is not dangerous or harmful or indecent. Why should not the manager of every music hall and every theatre in the Kingdom be allowed an equal privilege. Did I say "privilege"? I meant to say why, in the name of common sense and fair play, is any music-hall manager, and theatre, to be any longer hedged in by these useless barbed-wire restrictions!

A COMMON-SENSE ARRANGEMENT.

I will tell you the result of this common-sense, fair-play policy in Dublin. I was speaking to the managing-director of that theatre a few days ago. He tells me that this common-sense arrangement has allowed him to give a dramatic season of high-class plays at a time of the year when his patrons wanted them. It has allowed him to give a variety entertainment when his patrons asked for a variety entertainment; it has allowed him to give a hippodrome entertainment in the summer when that form of entertainment was most suitable to the weather and to the tastes of his patrons. The result of this common-sense arrangement has been that the drama has prospered in Dublin, the theatre has paid, and he has secured a handsome dividend for the shareholders. I can only ask again, why this common-sense arrangement should not be in practice in every music hall and theatre in the kingdom.

Our drama is virtually dead in the provinces owing to the enormous popularity and prosperity of the music hall entertainment. Those of us who wish to see the dignity of the English drama upheld do not propose to curtail or to thwart the music-hall proprietors in their presentation of any stage-play that they may wish to produce. But, obviously, this also implies that the music-hall managers must not endeavour to kill the legitimate art of the drama by enforcing upon it unnecessary restrictions and disabilities.

I will make a very strong appeal to music-hall managers. I will say to them: "Look at the enormous success and prosperity of your music halls! Well, they deserve it. They have given the English people the amusement they have asked for; they are rightly successful."

The entertainments in music halls are certainly on the up grade. There is no doubt there is much to be deplored, much that one would not call very intellectual, very high class, but it is mainly harmless and amusing. But are you sure that the great body of English playgoers and amusement-seekers are not ready for a still greater advance, a still higher quality of amusement, a still greater development of the dramatic part of your entertainment? I am sure that many of you do not consider yourselves as mere shopkeepers just to supply that kind of stupid, coarse, or even demoralising amusement that there may be a passing demand for; I am sure many of you take a higher view of your position and your responsibilities. Will you not class yourselves as managers of licensed houses where the great and noble art of the drama may be found to flourish, more and more; flourish, as I believe, to your pecuniary profit, and to the intellectual profit and well-being of your audiences? That is the appeal I will make to the music-hall managers, and I still demand from them some valid, some reasonable argument why the one uniform licence should not be made general throughout the kingdom.

I think, also, that I may ask the National Sunday League to keep an eye on this question, and, so far as possible, to make it a plank in their platform.

I have confined myself to-night to the question of the one licence because it would be very easy to pass a short Act of Parliament legalising all stage-plays in music halls and legalising all kinds of entertainments in theatres. Of course, the matter is complicated with the Censorship question. I have not touched on that to-night, but perhaps at some fututre time I may ask you to give me half an hour to explain to you what the censorship of plays really means.

The question of the one licence is also deeply complicated with the question of Sunday recreation generally; that also is a matter which we cannot touch upon to-night. But, seeing that it is involved with your own Sunday question, I will ask you not to rest until the licensing matter is settled in the only way that it can be settled in conformity with our rule of common sense and fair play all round. I ask you not to rest until every theatre and every music hall in the kingdom has Letters Patent from you as playgoers to give and perform whatever entertainment the manager may choose and the audiences may wish to see, the only restriction being that that entertainment shall not be indecent, or dangerous, or harmful to the general public.

Sir HERBERT next expressed the hope that "the gilded pill of Mr. Henry Arthur Jones's eloquence" would be swallowed by the authorities, in accordance with the obvious desire of the audience. At one time he had himself thought that a theatre should be a theatre and a music hall a music hall; but he was in the minority, and the public preferred that it should not be so. The evidence given before the Censorship Committee showed that one licence would be better, and he hoped the address to which they had listened would strengthen the hands of those in favour of the proposed legislation.

THE Rev. Montague Fowler, in one of his dinner-time lectures on the "Morality of Social Pleasures," at All Hallows, London Wall, on Wednesday, said the principal reasons brought against theatre-going were (1) that the theatre is the ante-chamber of the devil and ought to be avoided like a plague-stricken dwelling; (2) that plays have an immoral tendency; and (3) that the majority of the theatrical profession are godless and immoral. These views were not those of a superannuated Scotch Calvinist only; they occupied a place in the minds of some Nonconformists, and such narrow-minded bigotry was to be found in Anglican ranks.

SUCH a bigoted condemnation of the theatre was unworthy of serious consideration by sensible people. He entirely agreed that if a play with an immoral tendency was produced, it was the duty of Christian people to avoid it. But at the present day such plays were rare. The censorship exercised a reasonable amount of discretion, and was it fair to condemn theatres wholesale because of one offender in this respect? The majority of the pieces now running were full of fun or had an historical interest. In suburban melodrama vice was unmasked and virtue triumphant when the curtain fell, and the applause showed that the moral had gone home.

THOUSANDS had been impressed by Mr. Forbes Robertson in The Passing of the Third Floor Back, and the lesson conveyed by The Sign of the Cross had been powerful for good. The theatre could be a strong factor in the promotion of enlightenment. In spite of the difficulties of Sunday travelling, the percentage of actors and actresses who attended church compared favourably with that of other classes. He would not advise a flighty girl to go in for musical comedy, nor a father to take his young daughter to see a problem play.

THE Classical Concert Society announces three concerts, to take place on April 13, 20, and 27, to celebrate Schumann's centenary. The programme will be representative of Schumann's pianoforte, vocal, and chamber music. On Dr. Arne's 200th birthday will be given a performance of many of his best-known songs by the Sunday Concert Society, and "Rule, Britannia," scored by Mr. Henry J. Wood, will be a feature of the concert. The vocalist will be Miss Amy Evans.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

Sir Herbert Tree announces with every satisfaction that owing to the success of The O'Flynn at His Majesty's Theatre the run of that play will be continued until the annual Shakespeare Festival. The manager of His Majesty's has been greatly gratified by the proffered co-operation in this festival of nearly all the leaders of the English stage.

Sir John Hare has consented to unveil Mr. Thomas Brock, R.A.'s, statue of Sir Henry Irving, and at a meeting of the Irving Memorial Committee which took place on Wednesday morning at the St. James's Theatre, it was settled that the statue on which Mr. Brock has been at work for about three years should be erected in July. At the invitation of the committee, Mr. H. B. Irving's name was enrolled among the number of the members.

Mr. Lewis Waller will present The Rivals at the Court Theatre, Liverpool, on Monday, the 28th inst., opening with the revival in London on Tuesday, April 5. Mr. Waller's Jack Absolute is sure to be a vivacious and virile conception; much interest centres in Mr. Robert Loraine's Bob Acres; and for the excellence of the Lydia Languish of Miss Kate Cutler and the Sir Anthony of Mr. C. W Somerset the reputation of those two artists is sufficient guarantee.

Mr. Hermann Vezin, who celebrated his eighty-first birthday on a bed of sickness, received many congratulatory letters and telegrams, principally from members of the theatrical profession. He wishes us to ask the senders all to accept his sincere thanks. He has, while confined to his bed, managed to make many translations of plays from the French and German.

The movement to present Mrs. D'Oyly Carte with a testimonial in the shape of her own portrait painted by a distinguished artist is progressing favourably, and Mr. W. F. Fladgate, at 2, Craig's-court, Charing Cross, has already received many subscriptions, including cheques from Mr. George Alexander, Messrs. Chappell and Co., Mr. George Edwardes, Messrs. A. and S. Gatti, Mr. William Greet, Lord Kilmorey, Sir J. Runtz, Mr. Samuel Samuel, Mr. Edward Terry, Sir Herbert Tree, and Sir Charles Wyndham. The subscription is open to all theatrical managers and also, it should be noted, to any members of the general public who may desire to show their affectionate esteem for Mrs Carte.

Mrs. Carte, we are sorry to hear, has been again unwell, and has been confined to her room with a bad attack of influenza, but she has not allowed her own sufferings to prevent her remembering the wants of others. Mr. C. I. Coltson, the popular secretary of the Actors' Benevolent Fund, has received from her the following letter: "Dear Mr. Coltson,—I am afraid from what you write me that the distress is very great indeed this year, and I gather this also from the many letters I have myself received. I am, therefore, sending you an extra subscription of £50 to the fund." Mrs. Carte is arranging for a recuperative holiday on the South Coast.

Mr. James Welch had a gratifying testimony to the amusing qualities of When Knights were Bold at the Criterion on Tuesday. Prince Henry of Prussia, who occupied a private box, was convulsed with laughter during the performance; and at the conclusion he sent round for Mr. Welch, complimented him very graciously on his performance, and expressed the intense gratification and amusement which he (the Prince) had derived from the play.

Mr. Cyril Maude will produce The Toymaker of Nuremberg at the Playhouse in the afternoon of March 15 for a series of Tuesday and Thursday matinées. Mr. Maude will impersonate the old toymaker, and additional interest will be given to the production by the fact that his daughter, Miss Margery Maude, will make her début on the stage. Mr. J. D. Beveridge, Mr. Fred Lewis, Mr. A. Holmes Gore, Mr. Shiel Barry, Mr. Daniel McCarthy, Mr. A. G. Onslow, Master Bobbie Andrews, Miss Emma Chambers, and Miss Elsie Chester will complete the cast.

Lady Beerbohm Tree has sent a special gift of £100 to the Actors' Benevolent Fund.

Mr. Weedon Grossmith and his company, which includes Mr. Murray Carson, Miss Ruth Mackay, and the members of the Criterion Theatre company, met with an enthusiastic reception at the Theatre Royal, Hanley, last week. At the fall of the curtain on the opening night there was thundering applause, and Mr. Grossmith was not allowed to leave the stage until he had addressed the vast audience, and given them a promise to return to them at the earliest opportunity. This week Mr. Grossmith and his company are arousing similar enthusiasm at the Grand Theatre, Hull.

Sir Herbert Tree, while His Majesty's Theatre is being occupied by Mr. Thomas Beecham, intends to go on a six weeks' tour to some of the principal provincial towns. His repertory will include The Merchant of Venice, Trilby, and The O'Flynn, which will doubtless prove very acceptable to the playgoers of Dublin, where a whole fortnight will be spent.

Mr. Charles Allan, who will be one of the cast of Mr. Austin Strong's Toymaker of Nuremberg, which Mr. Cyril Maude will shortly present at a matinée at the Playhouse, is one of the most experienced actors on our stage. He made his first professional appearance at Brighton in 1884, and has since appeared in hundreds of leading rôles, both with Sir Herbert Tree and others. Mr. Allan has been engaged by Mr. Maude, by permission of Mr. H. B. Irving, Mr. Allan's present manager.

Mr. Charles Frohman, at the Duke of York's Theatre on Wednesday, will present The Madras House, a comedy in four acts, by Mr. Granville Barker, with a cast including: Mr. E. W. Garden, Miss Florence Haydon, Miss Ada Marius, Miss Elizabeth Chesney, Miss Joy Chatwyn, Miss Victoria Addison, Miss Sybil Thorndyke, Miss Nell Carter, Mr. Charles Bryant, Mr. Dennis Eadie, Miss Fay Davis, Mr. Sydney Valentine, Miss May Whitty, Mr. Arthur Whitby, Miss Mary Jerrold, Mr. Lewis Casson, Miss Mary Barton, Miss Geraldine Olliffe, Mr. Charles Maude, and Mr. Donald Calthrop.

The following artists are in the cast of the new musical play, in two acts, entitled Two Merry Monarchs, written by Arthur Anderson and George Levy, lyrics by Arthur Anderson and Hartley Carrick, and music by Orlando Morgan, which will be produced on Thursday next at the Savoy Theatre:—Messrs. C. H. Workman, Robert Whyte, jun., Lennox Pawle, Roland Cunningham, Leslie Stiles, and Neville George, and Misses Daisy Le Hay, Alma Barber, Mayne Young, Aileen Peel, Marie West, Laurie Opperman, Joan Adair, Betty Heaps, and Adeline Waterlow.

Mr. Charles Frohman left London for Paris on Wednesday. He will return in about a week, doubtless having acquired some important rights of French plays, and will superintend the rehearsals of the new American play Alias Jimmy Valentine, in which the leading parts will be played by Mr. Gerald du Maurier and Miss Alexandra Carlisle.

An elaborately set-out programme of the Shakespeare Festival, which will be given under the direction of Mr. F. R. Benson at the Memorial Theatre, Stratford-on-Avon, has been issued. Sixteen plays of Shakespeare will be presented, including the Histories, Richard the Second, Henry the Fourth (part 2), Henry the Fifth, and Richard the Third. The programme will also include The Knight of the Burning Pestle, by Beaumont and Fletcher, The Prize Play, and scenes from The School for Scandal, A Midsummer Night's Dream, &c.

The festival will be opened by Sir Herbert Tree on Tuesday afternoon, April 22, with a performance of Hamlet, to be followed by a succession of plays afternoon and evening for four weeks. Among the distinguished actors and actresses who will appear for Mr. Benson are also Mr. Martin Harvey, Miss N. De Silva, Mr. Otho Stuart, Miss Genevieve Ward, Mr. Arthur Bourchier, Miss Violet Vanbrugh, Mr. James Carew, Miss Ellen Terry, Mr. Lewis Waller, Miss Winifred Emery, Mr. Henry Ainley, Miss Marie Lohr, Miss Nora Lancaster, Miss Mary Rorke, and Mr. Charles Glenny.

The Old Bensonian matinée is to take place on the afternoon of May 3, when scenes will be given from The Merchant of Venice, The School for Scandal, A Midsummer Night's Dream, and The Taming of the Shrew. Shylock and Petruchio will be acted by Mr. F. R. Benson, and Portia and Katharina by Mrs. Benson. Amongst Old Bensonians who have promised to appear are the Misses Jessie Bateman, Lilian Braithwaite, Elsie Chester, Frances Dillon, Elizabeth Kirby, Jean McKinley, Frances Wetherall; Messrs. Henry Ainley, Alfred Brydone, J. B. Fagan, George Fitzgerald, A. E. George, H. R. Hignett, Herbert Jalland, Charles Quartermaine, Otho Stuart, V. Stenhouse, E. Lyall Swete, Henry Vibart, E. A. Warburton, Arthur Whitby, Harcourt Williams, and Christopher Wilson.

Beaumont and Fletcher's comedy, The Knight of the Burning Pestle, will be produced on Tuesday evening April 26, and Thursday afternoon, April 28. The Birthday Revival play will be Two Gentlemen of Verona, which will be given on Saturday evening, April 23, Tuesday evening, May 3, Thursday afternoon, May 5, with Mrs. F. R. Benson as Julia, Mr. Eric Maxon as Proteus, Mr. F. R. Benson as Duke of Milan, Miss Nora Lancaster as Silvia, and Mr. Murray Carrington as Valentine.

On April 5 will be given the first performance of a prize play, selected from among 315 for an award of £300, which will be publicly presented to the author. On the afternoons of the 6th and 7th The Merchant of Venice is to be the attraction, with Miss Ellen Terry as Portia, Mr. Otho Stuart as Bassanio, and Mr. James Carew as Shylock. On Monday evening, the 9th, Much Ado About Nothing will be repeated, Miss Winifred Emery playing Beatrice, Mr. A. E. George Dogberry, and Mr. Lewis Waller Benedick. The festival will terminate on the evening of the 14th with a revival of The Merry Wives of Windsor, in which the characters will be sustained by Mr. and Mrs. Benson and the members of their Shakespearean company. On the afternoon of Tuesday, April 26, Mrs. Leo Grindon will deliver a lecture on "Some Overlooked Points in the Text of Hamlet."

The celebration this year will be on an extended scale, including decoration of the town, music, singing, processions, Old English games, &c. The Memorial Lecture Room will be set apart during the Festival as a reading-room and rendezvous for visitors to the town. A collection of paintings and drawings will be exhibited. An exhibition of arms, armour, and heraldry, illustrating Shakespeare's history plays, is being arranged at the Grammar School. The floral procession to Holy Trinity Church will take place, as usual, on April 23, from the Birthplace, and the Old English sports, folk dances, and games will be held on Thursday, May 12, in the Theatre Gardens.

Mr. Augustus Belmont, banker, racehorse owner, and the wealthiest widower of New York, was privately married on Sunday last to Miss Eleanor Robson, the well-known American actress, who was born at Wigan, Lancashire. Except the bride's mother, Mrs. Madge Carr Cook, none of the bride's associates on the stage was present at the wedding, which took place at Miss Robson's residence in 77th Street.

Mr. Belmont and Miss Robson obtained the licence by special arrangement on the night of the 26th ult., when the marriage licence bureau was kept open after hours for their convenience. The front drawing-room of Miss Robson's house was beautifully decorated with white lilac, yellow jonquils, and palms. Beneath a floral marriage bell Mgr. Lavelle, assisted by Father Byrde, performed the ceremony. The bride wore a gown of heavy white silk made with Princess effect.

The draped skirt was fastened on one side by hand embroidery, which was also used for the Dutch neck and the elbow sleeves, while the bodice was trimmed with old lace. The age of the bridegroom was given as fifty-seven and that of the bride as thirty-one.

Miss Robson has a most engaging personality and is highly regarded by all sorts and conditions of playgoers in New York and elsewhere. Her high intelligence and individuality were duly noted when she made her first appearance in the metropolis as Bonita Canby in Arizona at the Herald-square Theatre in 1900, and during the last ten years she has steadily advanced herself in the esteem of the public by her excellent work in such plays as A Gentleman of France, with Mr. Kyrle Bellew; Zangwill's Merely Mary Ann, in which piece she fulfilled a London engagement at the Duke of York's Theatre in 1904; Nurse Marjorie, another Zangwill play; Paul Armstrong's American drama Salomy Jane; and The Dawn of a To-morrow, in which she appeared with great success as the optimistic street-waif Glad. Miss Robson is the daughter of Mrs. Madge Carr Cook, who achieved a conspicuous success in Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch. She was born in Lancashire in 1880, but has lived in America since her infancy. Mr. August Belmont is a "multi-millionaire." He financed the New York subway system. He is fifty-seven years old and a widower.

The Academy of Dramatic Art will give one of its interesting public performances at the St. James's Theatre on the afternoon of Tuesday, April 5, when the third acts of The Admirable Crichton and The Gay Lord Quex, with scenes from Love's Labour Lost and an extract from Molière's Ecole des Femmes, in French, will be presented. There also will be a demonstration by Miss Earle of the Delsarte system of gesture, which she will give in Florentine Renaissance costume. Sir Squire and Lady Bancroft's gold medal for the best dramatic performance will again be presented; and Sir Arthur Pinero, Mr. Dion Boucicault, Mr. J. Fisher White, Mr. Ben Webster, Mr. Louis D'Egville, M. Felix Bertrand, Miss Gertrude Burnett, and Mlle. Jeanne Laurent, of the Nouveau Theatre, Paris, have signified their intention to be present. Mr. George Alexander, who is a member of the Council of the Academy, is lending the theatre, and many other accessories.

Mr. J. Bannister Howard is introducing some Chantecler dresses into his The Earl and the Girl and The Belle of New York companies, and the new costumes should prove a great attraction. A new number has been written to include the Cock, the Hen Pheasant, and the Guinea Fowl. It will be sung for the first time at the Tyne Theatre, Newcastle, on Monday next.

Sir John Tenniel, the King of Cartoonists, celebrated his ninetieth birthday on Monday. Amongst the telegrams received was the following from Mr. George Grossmith, sen.: "God bless you, good friend of the public, live on."

Mr. Cyril Maude's great naval success The Flag Lieutenant will be performed at the Coronet on Monday, and that excellent actor Mr. Lyn Harding, whose managerial venture it is, has taken care that the production shall be a replica of that at the Playhouse, and has engaged a very bright and clever company.

The successful run of The Whip at Drury Lane will be resumed on the 26th inst, and there will be a special matinée on Easter Monday and morning performances every Wednesday and Saturday. Mr Arthur Collins has been fortunate in being able to re-engage every member of the original company. The principals in the cast are, therefore: Messrs. Basil Gill, Cyril Keightley, Vincent Clive, Charles Rock, Arthur Bucklaw, Cecil Cameron, and George Barrett, and Misses Fanny Brough, Nancy Price, Madge Fabian, and Jessie Bateman.

The long and successful run of Henry of Navarre at the New Theatre will end on Wednesday, and on Saturday The Scarlet Pimpernel will be put on for a few weeks, with Mr. Fred Terry as Lord Blakeney. Miss Miriam Lewes will appear as Lady Blakeney, by arrangement with various obliging managers. The cast will also include Mr. Horace Hodges, Mr. Alfred Kendrick, and Mr. Malcolm Cherry. The new three-act piece by an unknown author, Mr. Carroll, will be produced about April, with Mr. Terry and Miss Lewes in important parts.

Sir H. Beerbohm Tree writes:—"It will be remembered that the Select Committee of the Houses of Parliament recommended a single licence for theatres and music halls. That recommendation was supported at a public meeting on Sunday by Mr. Henry Arthur Jones. As chairman of the meeting I stated that I was entirely in favour of such legislation, which seemed to be demanded not only by the public, but also by the interests of theatres and music halls. At the same time, I should like to make it clear that the majority of London managers (of whom I am one) desire that we should remain under the control of the Lord Chamberlain."

The cast of the dramatic reading of Romeo and Juliet—to be given by the British Empire Shakespeare Society at the St. James's Theatre on Tuesday afternoon next—is now complete, and is as follows: Romeo, Mr. Lewis Waller; Mercutio, Mr. Arthur Bourchier; Capulet, Mr. Fisher White; Friar Laurence, Mr. A. E. George; Tybalt, Mr. Arthur Wontner; Benvolio, Mr. Athol Stewart; Paris, Mr. Godfrey Tearle; Prince, Mr. Halliwell Hobbes; Montague, Mr. J. Henry Twyford; Peter, Mr. Edward Rigby; Gregory, Mr. Ross Shore; Sampson, Mr. Herbert Alexander; Abraham, Mr. Leonard Calvert; Watchman, Mr. Walter Armstrong; Apothecary, Mr. Tom Heslewood; Balthazar, Mr. Maurice Elvey; Nurse, Mrs. E. H. Brooke; Lady Capulet, Miss Adeline Bourne; Lady Montague, Miss Mary Webb; Page, Miss Dora Jesslyn; and Juliet, Miss Evelyn D'Alroy.

Mr. Ernest Hendrie has resumed his part of the Dog in Maeterlinck's exquisite fairy play, The Blue Bird, at the Haymarket Theatre, having quite recovered from his recent indisposition.

When the German version of When Knights were Bold is produced in Berlin, Mr. Welch's part will be played by a very clever German comedian named Baselt, who is as great a favourite in the German capital as Mr. Welch is in London.

Mr. Percy Hutchison has been paying a first visit with Brewster's Millions at the beautiful Marlborough Theatre this week, and judging by the big business on Monday evening last is captivating the North Londoners completely. There were no less than sixteen curtain calls on Monday after the wonderful ship scene.

Members of the Actors' Benevolent Fund who are willing and entitled to serve on the committee for 1910 and 1911 are requested to send in their names to the secretary, Mr. C. I. Coltson, at 8 Adam street, Adelphi, not later than the 17th of this month. The committee will be composed of fourteen members of £5 and upwards, and seven members of not less than one guinea. All subscribers of 21s. and upwards are entitled to nominate and vote.

"Vom andern Ufer," a series of three plays by Felix Salten, will constitute the next production of the Incorporated Stage Society.

Theatrical managers in Birmingham have figured in many exciting scenes, but Mr. J. F. Graham, of the Prince of Wales's Theatre, and Mr. Lester Collingwood, of the Alexandra Theatre, experienced more "thrills" on Tuesday afternoon than they have done for many years. These two gentlemen figured in the final of the Theatrical Managers' Billiard Handicap at the Woolpack Hotel. The game was 250 up, and both started off the 120 mark. It was a neck-and-neck contest for the first half an hour, when Mr. Collingwood came to the front, and the figures in his favour read 221—199. But Mr. Graham went ahead, and ran out a winner by 250 to 236.

Owing to the indisposition of Miss Violet Macaree the part of Greeba, in Mr. Wentworth Croke's Bondman company, was successfully played by Miss Lilian Mayne at short notice on the 25th and 26th ult. at the Theatre Royal, Smethwick.

Mr. Lewis A. Long, the acting-manager of the Theatre Royal, Bath, is to be given a benefit on Saturday, March 19, when the Bath Amateur Operatic Society and other local amateurs will provide the attraction.

The King and Queen and suite witnessed the Charles Frohman and Arthur Bourchier production of Mr. Somerset Maugham's new play The Tenth Man at the Globe Theatre on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Andie Caine's pantomime Babes in the Wood concluded its tour at Stratford last Saturday. A farewell dance was held on the 25th ult. at Essex House in the Broadway, when a merry time was spent from 11 p.m. till 4.30. The entire Babes company and the whole of the Cinderella company were present from the Stratford Empire, in addition to 250 guests. Mr. Caine's conductor, Mr. Beaufort, supplied an excellent orchestra, who varied dreamy waltz melodies with lively dances, and a banjo band of eight performers kept things going with the wild rag-time music of the Sunny South. A café chantant held in one of the side rooms provided much amusement, over thirty different numbers being performed in the course of the four hours. The evening was engineered and stage-managed by Misses Dolly and Madge McCalla, who attended to the whole of the arrangements on behalf of Mr. Andie Caine, who was congratulated by all present on a most successful and enjoyable gathering.

A fillip to theatrical progress in Preston is to be given by Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son, who have decided to erect on the site of the Empress Rink a magnificent building with winter gardens and aviary combined, by which access to a theatre will be gained. The auditorium will be arranged after the style of the Royal Hippodrome, except that a double frontage of boxes is proposed. The stage will be sufficiently spacious to enable the management to do full justice to the largest and best of productions. The proposed name of the new theatre is the New King's Opera House, and the management may be relied upon to cater cleverly for the wants of the people.

Important changes have recently taken place in connection with the Marina Theatre, Lowestoft, the building having passed into the hands of Mr. B. Pareezer, a gentleman of excellent credentials, who enjoys a wide experience of matters theatrical, and who has under his control various other similar successful ventures in different parts of the country. The new proprietor has taken over the whole of the bookings entered into by the Lowestoft Theatre Company, and many first-class musical, dramatic, and variety companies are promised during the season. The licence was formally transferred to Mr. Pareezer at the Borough Police-court on Monday.

Mr. F. R. Gwyn-Richardson terminates to-day his third engagement as general-manager of Mr. Frank Bertram's The Breed of the Treshams company. He leaves to take up, for the third season, a similar position for Messrs. Helters, Ltd., at their Figure 8 Park at Morecambe.

Mr. Allan Wilkie has been secured by Mr. Bennett for this year's annual Easter Shakespearean and Old English Comedy Festival week at the Opera House, Coventry. The programme for the week will be as follows:—Monday, The Sleigh Bells and David Garrick; Tuesday, Macbeth; Wednesday, Merry Wives of Windsor; Thursday, Taming of the Shrew; Friday, School for Scandal; Saturday matinée As You Like It, Saturday evening Othello. Mr. Wilkie opens on Monday his second visit to the Grand Theatre, Derby.

"When Knights Were Bold" will figure as the attraction at the Crystal Palace Theatre next week, when the famous glasshouse at Sydenham may be expected to resound with laughter loud and long. Mr. H. Langdon Bruce will play Sir Guy de Vere, a part in which he is seen to great advantage. The rest of the company have all been personally chosen by Mr. Welch, and the piece will be staged exactly as in town. The demand for seats at the Palace is sure to be great.

Mr. Payne Seddon's lease of the Theatre Royal, Loughborough, terminates at the end of April. On the 27th of that month a benefit performance will be given to Mr. and Mrs. Seddon, and a company of amateurs will present the comedy My Wife.

Miss Helen Graham Edwins terminates at Easter a long and successful engagement extending over three years with Mr. Louis Calvert and Mr. William Giffard, playing in stock at the Broadway Theatre, and on tour as Mrs. Naresby in Sunday, Peters in Dolly Reforming Herself, and Mrs. Boiler in The Topside Dog. Miss Edwins, it may be added, comes of an old theatrical family, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Edwins (Helen Graham).

Messrs. Murray King and Clark will at the Devonshire Park Theatre, Eastbourne, at Easter give an elaborate reproduction of that highly successful musical comedy The Catch of the Season. Everything will be new for this production, which, after its visit to Eastbourne, will go on tour. It is interesting to note that every available spring date was taken up the moment this revival was announced.

Mr. Percy Hutchison, having now recovered from his recent illness, travelled from Brighton to Cambridge on Saturday last, and appeared as Monty Brewster in that great success, Brewster's Millions, before a full house of 'Varsity men, who gave him a warm welcome, the cheering and applause being spontaneous and prolonged. This successful actor-manager has always been much appreciated by the patrons of the New Theatre, and is a universal favourite with the undergraduates.

Mr. C. C. Dorrill, of the New Theatre, Oxford, having found the experiment of producing a pantomime at Christmas so successful, has determined to repeat the same next season, and has again arranged with Mr. Brydon Phillips to produce it.

Messrs. Glenister and Ingram have acquired the entire touring rights for the autumn of The Fires of Fate, by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, and will send out a first-class company, visiting all the principal towns with the original London production.

"The House of Temperley," the great melodrama of the ring, by Arthur Conan Doyle, will be sent on tour in the autumn by Messrs. Glenister and Ingram, who will visit all towns in the United Kingdom with the exception of the limited number already booked by the London company. A production in every respect equal to that at the Adelphi Theatre will be travelled.

Miss Florence Baines—the girl who made London laugh—who returned last autumn from a tour round the world with her mirth-provoking farce Miss Lancashire, Limited, has received so many offers of dates that she has organised a second company, which is playing at Manchester this week. Miss Madge Grey (Miss Baines's sister) plays the part of Mary Ellen Thompson. Miss Baines herself is appearing as the Lass fra' Lancashire with her A company at Preston next week.

The title-rôle of Mr. George Edwardes's Merry Widow company, which is at the Grand Theatre, Croydon, this week, is played by Miss Daphne Glenne, who makes a very charming widow, singing and acting artistically. Her voice has greatly improved since we heard her last. We understand she has been studying under Mme. Kate Flinn, who thinks very highly of her pupil.

Mr. Oswald Cray has made arrangements with Mr. T. Morton Powell to tour Guy Thorne's remarkable play When It was Dark from Easter onwards. Mr. Cray, we are informed, has already booked a very fine tour right through the summer. Everything will be done in first-class style, and no expense will be spared to ensure success.

Mr. Courtice Pounds and his company, in the charming Viennese musical play A Merry Peasant, by Victor Leon and Leo Fall, will commence their spring tour on March 14 at the Grand Opera House, Middlesbrough, with Newcastle, Birmingham, Manchester, &c., to follow. A strong cast is engaged to support Mr. Pounds, who will appear in his original part, in which he was so delightful in the London production. The revised version, by Mr. Cosmo Hamilton, plays very smartly, and the dialogue is as sparkling as the music. Little Mary Glynne, the sweet little child actress, who was such a success at the Strand, will be seen in her original part of Rosalie. The mounting and dressing will be on the same lavish scale as that of the West End production. Mr. Sidney Watson is producing and stage managing, and Mr. Fred W. Crellin is general manager for the tour.

Mr. J. A. Campbell's principal company, including Mr. Graham Woods and Miss Mary Fulton, in From Convent to Throne, visits Manchester again next week, making the seventh visit to Cottonopolis within nine months. This sumptuous production has lately been delighting crowded houses in Newcastle, Sunderland, and other Northern centres. The magnificent scenery and costumes are on a scale never before attempted with a romantic drama. The tour terminates Easter week at Warrington, and re-opens August Bank Holiday at the Lyceum, Newport, Mon., being is booked to visit the principal dramatic theatres in the kingdom. Mr. Campbell's latest play of the domestic order, The Hand that Rocks the Cradle, will be produced on July 25 at the Junction Theatre, Manchester, for two weeks, and is fully booked for the present year.

Princess Henry of Battenberg saw Dame Nature at the Garrick Theatre, for the second time, on Tuesday evening.

Miss Lydia Donovan's many friends will be glad to hear that she has recovered from her recent very serious indisposition and is now allowed by her doctor to resume work.

Mr. Harry Bristow has secured the rights of The Pin and the Pudding (which was produced at the Comedy Theatre, London) from Mr. Barton White, and intends touring it during the summer months with a powerful cast and Miss Pearl Noyle as Tamsie.

Little Marie Wilson at the Theatre Royal, Norwich, this week completed her 600th performance of Jessie (the Little Mother) in The Fatal Wedding.

"The Bad Girl of the Family" will celebrate the 100th performance at the Aldwych Theatre on Friday, March 11. On this occasion Mr. Fredk. Melville will present a special photographic souvenir of the play to every member of the audience. The booking for the play is still going strong; three matinées are given weekly—Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays; in addition to these a special matinée will be given on Easter Monday at 2.30.

Mr. J. Forbes Knowles will restart shortly his tour with Her Marriage Vow, and in the autumn Messrs. Shirley and Landeck's drama Nick Carter (Detective), which Mr. Knowles will present on a liberal scale. Meantime, he is supporting Miss Madge Crichton in the new comedy, The Artfulness of Ada, which was produced on Monday at Folkestone, and in front of which he is appearing in his one-act play Auld Robin Grey, which is proving very acceptable. Mr. Alic Chumley and Miss Valerie Crespin support him in the lever de rideau.

The annual ball given by Mr. Fred C. Sutcliffe, manager of the Tyne Theatre, recently took place in the Grand Assembly Rooms, Barras Bridge, Newcastle. There was a large attendance. The music was provided by the Tyne Theatre orchestra, under the bâton of Mr. E. J. Rogers. The majority of the artists appearing in Cinderella at the Tyne Theatre attended, together with the members of the Our Miss Gibbs company appearing at the Theatre Royal, amongst whom were Miss Alice Pollard and Mr. George Gregory. Mme. Maud Santley and Mr. Malcolm Scott were also present. Messrs. W. H. Boardman, George French, Tom Conway, T. Bryne, M. Abrahams, H. Sutcliffe, and Charles Campbell acted as M.C.'s.

"The Little Damozel" registered its 150th performance at Wyndham's Theatre on Thursday night. Mr. Vane Tempest, who has been out of the cast through illness, resumed the rôle of the Hon. Fitzroy Locke, one of the best character sketches this clever actor has yet given us.

The King and Queen and suite witnessed the performance of Dame Nature at the Garrick Theatre on Thursday night.

"The Man Who Knew," the new play by H. Brinsley Hill, will be produced on March 21. The company already includes Mr. Arthur Poole, Mr. Aiden Lovett, and Miss Jessica Waters. The locale of the play is in Paris and London. The scenery is by Mr. Edmund Banks. The play is being produced by the author.

Mr. Walter Reynolds writes:—"Mr. Henry Arthur Jones advocates equal licensing treatment of theatres and music halls. I am pleased to say that at least one of what he describes as the senseless restrictions connected with stage licensing seems likely to be removed at last. On June 15, 1909, as a result of the unanimous adoption of my notice of motion, the London County Council resolved to make application to Parliament in the session of 1910 for power to enable the Council to grant music and dancing licences at any time of the year.

"Following on this, on Friday last the draft of a Bill was issued, entitled 'The Music and Dancing Licences Act, 1910, a Bill to amend the laws as regards Music and Dancing licences in London.' The main object of the Bill is to enable the London County Council to grant a licence to a music hall at any time of the year, instead of being limited as now to the one licensing sessions held annually in November.

"So many complications exist and so many interests are concerned in the licensing of amusements that the County Councils are compelled to make haste slowly. Still, if through the passing of the Bill even only one of the imbecilities can be got rid of, some little will, at any rate, have been done to reduce the bewildering, mischievous chaos which so exasperates Mr. Henry Arthur Jones and everybody else concerned."

A four-act play in verse, called 1812, by M. Gabriel Nigond, has been brought out at the Théâtre Antoine, Paris, describing the horrors of the Russian campaign in 1812. Following in the footsteps of Erckman-Chatrian, the author portrays, not the beauties, but the misery of warfare. Some of the tableaux are thrilling, especially the one showing the passing of the Berezina during the retreat of Napoleon's army from Moscow. It is a meritorious work, and special attention is bestowed on the mounting.

Paul Friest, a Dutchman, was charged on remand, before Mr. Francis, at Westminster, on the 26th ult., with the theft of the bowl part of an antique Chinese bronze, valued at 100 guineas, from the front garden of the residence of Miss Ellen Terry, in King's-road, Chelsea. The prisoner was further charged with disobeying an order for expulsion from the country. The husband of Miss Terry—Mr. James Carew—deposed that prisoner, lifting the heavy bronze—nearly a hundredweight—on to his shoulders, succeeded in carrying it a hundred yards from the house before witness overtook him, and gave him into custody. Detective-sergeant Farrent, D Division, proved that prisoner, in June last, was convicted of representing himself as a detective at Howland-street, Tottenham Court-road, and stealing £100 worth of jewellery from a safe. An expulsion order was then served on him. The prisoner said he had no money to leave the country, and Mr. Francis sentenced him to six months' hard labour—three months on each charge.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Crime and Punishment.

MR. JOHN GALSWORTHY has explained in the Pall Mall his views in connection with modern Justice. "I yield to none," he says, "in my admiration of the fine qualities of our judges. I believe that our prison officials, as a body, are animated with a high sense of duty and conscientiousness. I regard the police with respect. I am convinced that the public of this country is, on the whole, the most humane in the Western world.

"But what I have felt is, that Justice is a machine divided into four departments: the department of circumstances before crime, crime itself, and prosecution; the department of trial and conviction; the department of punishment; and the department of life which follows punishment.

"Each of these departments is in different hands—public and police; counsel and judge; prison officials; and again public and police. Those responsible for each of these departments of the machine are naturally concerned only with their own departments; and are naturally unable to see and gauge the cumulative effect of the whole process. I have tried to sum up this process, to give such a picture of it as will bring the business into proportion, and enable people to see the workings of the entire machine, and the effect of these workings. Whether I have succeeded is beside the point, here.

"It is a mistake to suppose that the bulk of our criminals are congenitally vicious. The bulk of them are, or have been, merely ordinary people deficiently endowed with powers of resistance to the pressure of life. They are raw material when they enter the machine of Justice, and are transformed by the various departments of that machine into the finished article.

"They are so transformed because the public does not realise what it is doing when it prosecutes, because the judge, following the line of least resistance to the great pressure on his faculties, usually observes precedent; because the prison official administers a system which, also following the lines of least resistance, tends to become cast-iron; because again the public do not realise the difficulties of a man who has once been in prison, and the police, as servants of the public, are only concerned with protecting the public."

The Tenth Play.

"'THE TENTH MAN' is the most brilliant piece I have ever had the pleasure of appearing in," says Mr. Bourchier in the Pall Mall Gazette. "There is not a character in it you might not meet anywhere. Mr. Maugham is absolutely Mr. Pinero's successor, if, indeed, he is not a greater author, because he takes a broader view. Only about one play in ten becomes really a big success. Others may go very well indeed, but it is only the tenth that is a huge success like The Walls of Jericho and, let us hope, The Tenth Man."

Catching a "Corker."

MR. BOURCHIER mentions that when Mr. Maugham read his play to some friends, one thought the lover should have been the tenth man, for it is difficult to see at the outset who the tenth man will be. But that, he pointed out, would not have done at all. He recalled with what skill the author led up to the crucial situation, and how, in the second act, long before the decisive moment when George Winter is outmatched, James Ford is described as a "corker" to deal with. "There is, of course," he went on to remark, "always a tenth man, although one has never thought of it in this light before."

Killed by Kindness.

As to the ending of the play, Mr. Bourchier maintained that suicide is the only way when once the tenth man has crossed George Winter's path, and he pointed to a subtlety which audiences will notice for themselves when they see the play. "If it was not," he said, "for the one little act of kindness that he shows his old father-in-law, in sending him off to bed after a tiring day, George Winter would have been saved. It is that one kind act that kills him, for Lord Etchingham knows the thing that saves those who have been mixed up in his criminal finance, and would have saved him."

Elegant Epigrams.

SOME of the lines in the late George Meredith's unfinished play The Sentimentalists, which was produced at the Duke of York's Theatre on Tuesday, are quite Meredithian. "Praise of beauty lodges in my ear," says the heroine. "I would believe a poet though he praised me to my face." She has faults, but they "draw one to her, like dancing maids with garlands." She delights in the devotion of lovers, but does not "leap to the thought of a debasing marriage." Professor Spiral's oratory has "the beat of wings," and he is "a thinker and gives women their due." Old men are "voraciously constant." Others, while they express "pious agreement with the dame, are conspirators behind their masks"; they "do homage to her principles, but look like dogs at the forbidden bone." "I am strong to resist," she says to her confidante, "but I have no strength to move." "I see," answers Lyra, "the sphinx of ages!"

Mr. Harvey on Mounting.

"IN real life," says Mr. Martin Harvey in an interview in the Dundee Advertiser, "the crowd at once fixes its attention on the victims of a railway accident rather than on the attendant spectacle of sinister-looking débris; but reproduce the accident on the stage, and the wreckage will, in nine cases out of ten, assume the first importance. The reason is plain. In the reality human nature is immediately responsive to the needs of human nature, and the spectator is aware only of the urgent requirements of the wounded and dying. Surroundings are not considered. But in the stage accident, however realistic the acting, the spectator is not touched in the same inward and agonising way, and the eye, rather than the mind or heart, is the more deeply impressed.

"THE modern stage has made too much of realistic settings, to the detriment of critical perception applied to the living interest of drama. And, curiously enough, while it has boasted of its success in realism, it has been strangely backward. Its 'realism,' in many instances, has taken in only the attractive aspects of historical spectacle. It has not, for instance, shown us a Macbeth feasting in a hall strewn with old, malodorous rushes, thick with the bones cast to prowling dogs by ladies who shuddered not when the castle slops were carried through their midst.

"WHEN I did Hamlet originally my great care was to reproduce the period of the eleventh century in Denmark, with all the details as archæologically correct as possible. But I think that was inviting a closer attention to the points of archæological and historical accuracy and architectural and decorative detail than was right under the circumstances. Therefore, in my present production I have tried to direct the mind, first of all to the play itself, and, secondly, to the decorative background, which ought never to be allowed to obtrude itself."

We shall be obliged if our readers will send us any amusing anecdotes they may hear, or accounts of any quaint incidents they may witness while acting or rehearsing.

THE REPERTORY THEATRE.

Mr. Charles Frohman presented, at the Duke of York's Theatre on Tuesday evening a bill fit for an epicure. There was a new one-act piece by Mr. J. M. Barrie, a new unfinished comedy by the late George Meredith, and another one-act piece, a new comedietta by Mr. Barrie, to conclude the evening's enjoyment. It was an ideal entertainment for the thoughtful, fastidious, and analytic mind, and its success was certain. Mr. Barrie's first item was entitled

"OLD FRIENDS."

Stephen Brand	MR. SYDNEY VALENTINE
Mrs. Brand	MISS LENA ASHWELL
Carry	MISS DOROTHY MINTO
Rev. J. Carroll	MR. HUBERT HARBEN

This was a gruesome and impressive dramatic homily on heredity, and the descent of the sins of the fathers upon the children. Stephen Brand, now sober and prosperous, was at one time a moderate, but steady, drinker. A clerk in an office, he knew exactly how much he could take without preventing him from turning up at 9 a.m. with a clear head for work; and for years he thus cultivated the vice of alcoholism until it had entered into his blood. The result is that his daughter Carry has in her an irresistible desire for drink; and when Brand locks up the liquor in a cabinet in the hall Carry comes downstairs in her nightdress, steals the keys from her father's pocket as he sits asleep in his armchair, and is about to procure drink when Brand wakes up and discovers her. After trying in vain to screen herself by lying, Carry confesses to an irresistible craving for drink. Mrs. Brand, who knows all about Brand's past intemperance, has concealed it from her daughter; but Brand insists that Carry shall know all. He declares that he has conquered his vice; but Mrs. Brand tells him, rather cruelly perhaps, that he deceives himself—his vice left him instead of his vanquishing it. However, they agree to watch Carry night and day in the hope that her tendency may be overcome.

There could not have been a better selection for the part of Stephen Brand than Mr. Sydney Valentine, an intellectual actor of great power and insight, whose restraint is one of his most valuable qualities. Mr. Valentine played the part with a stern, sad resolution and decision which were very impressive; and the depth and earnestness of his performance were very remarkable. Mr. Hubert Harben was a bluff, shrewd, and solid Clergyman; and Miss Lena Ashwell made the most of the part of Mrs. Brand, Miss Dorothy Minto contributing a representation of the unhappy dipsomaniac which was absolutely faithful and very touching and pathetic. Old Friends was followed by an unfinished comedy by George Meredith, entitled

"THE SENTIMENTALISTS."

Homeware	MR. DENNIS EADIE
Arden	MR. CHARLES MAUDE
Swythin	MR. HUBERT HARBEN
Osier	MR. LEWIS CASSON
Professor Spiral	MR. C. E. VERNON
Astræa	MISS FAY DAVIS
Lyra	MISS MARY JERROLD
Dame Dresden	MISS MAY WHITTY
Virginia	MISS PENELOPE WHEELER
Winifred	MISS SYBIL THORNDIKE
Lady Oldface	MISS EVA KILLICK

George Meredith's style is better suited to the printed book, in the perusal of which it is possible to pause and appreciate the quaint felicities of expression, than to the acted play in which the rapid continuation of the delivery of the author's lines causes much of the literary merit to be lost. The delicate flavour of the piece was quite perceptible, but one could not help feeling that a "book of the words" or a slower delivery, and even an exaggerated distinctness of enunciation would have revealed even more of the beauties of the text. The "vehicle" of the stage performance seemed, somehow, inadequate in the case of an author of so much preciosité. Arden, a poetical and ardent young man, is in love with the beautiful widow, Astræa, who is inclined to remain faithful to her husband's memory. Arden pleads his suit earnestly, and the comedy is created by the contrast between the artificially high plane on which she keeps the discussion and the natural and quite feminine feelings which eventually, so we are led to hope, will secure the success of Arden's suit, one of the most effective influences to that end being the fact that the company at the country house where she is staying have seen her and Arden in attitudes suggesting loving converse. The Sentimentalists had every justice done to it; and if at times the author's intent proved elusive, it was not the fault of the artists. Mr. Dennis Eadie as the cynical philosopher Homeware spoke his lines with clearness, point, and pleasantry; Mr. Charles Maude put a great deal of passion and spirit into his delivery of Arden's amorous rhapsodies; and Miss Fay Davis daintily and delicately expressed the fastidious refinement and elegant intellectuality of Astræa. A vivacious young wife of an elderly uxorious philosopher was brightly and amusingly portrayed by Miss Mary Jerrold. The remaining personages had little to say and less to do; but they were represented without flaw or failing by Mr. Lewis Casson, Miss May Whitty, Miss Penelope Wheeler, Miss Sybil Thorndike, and Miss Eva Killick, Mr. C. E. Vernon being slightly prominent and entirely effective as Professor Spiral. The pretty garden scene was designed by Norman Wilkinson and painted by W. T. Hemsley.

The concluding play, which was by Mr. J. M. Barrie, and was produced by Mr. Dion Boucicault, was in one act, and was entitled

"THE TWELVE-POUND LOOK."

Sir Harry Sims	MR. EDMUND GWENN
Lady Sims	MISS MARY BARTON
Kate	MISS LENA ASHWELL
Tombes	MR. C. C. CALVERT

The Twelve-Pound Look was both humorous and sarcastic, and was heartily enjoyed. Sir Harry Sims is a succesful man of business of the brutal type. When the play commences he is rehearsing, with his submissive wife, the ceremony of knighthood, which honour is about to be conferred on him as a rich and influential personage. He is completely self-satisfied, dense, and narrow-minded. He has ordered a type-writer to come to the house, to prepare copies of a letter which he is sending out saying how unexpected was the honour which he has received, and Lady Sims, after a talk with the "young person," leaves her and Sir Harry together. Sixteen years since there was an episode in Sir Harry's life which he has almost forgotten. His wife, Kate, the daughter of a country clergyman, left him suddenly and mysteriously in circumstances which allowed him to divorce her. It was never known with whom she had eloped, and Sir Harry is still in ignorance when she turns up with her typewriter to make the copies. After ridiculing him merrily, Kate tells him that she went off, quite by herself, in sheer weariness of the life led by him and his rich, dull associates. For some time, she explains, she wore a "twelve-pound look," as she had resolved that only when she had earned that sum by her own labours could she take the step of leaving her husband. Sir Harry is enraged at being "chaffed," and is still less pleased when his present wife, whom he keeps in a state of sad subjection, seems to envy the typewriter her cheerfulness and liberty. Mr. Edmund Gwenn as Sir Harry Sims gave a graphic and forcible picture of a thick-headed, stubborn, overbearing vulgarian, and his Sir Harry Sims was an effective foil to Miss Lena Ashwell's sharp and brilliant rendering of the rôle of Kate. Miss Mary Barton sketched Lady Sims with a few adroit touches; and Mr. C. C. Calvert was satisfactory as Tombes.

"THE CLIMAX."

Play, in Three Acts, by Edward Locke, Performed for the First Time in England at the Comedy Theatre on Saturday, Feb. 26.

John Raymond	MR. GUY STANDING
Luigi Golfanti	MR. RUSS WHYTAL
Pietro Golfanti	MR. EFFINGHAM PINTO
Adelina Von Hagen	MISS MARIE DORO

The Climax, which Mr. Charles Frohman presented at the Comedy Theatre on Saturday evening, is hardly strong enough to draw the London public, especially as Miss Marie Doro is a stranger to them; but it is surprising how much interest is created from the simple and rather scanty theme by the author's realistic and sincere treatment, and by the artistic acting of the performers. Mr. Edward Locke's play deals with the opposition between the domestic affections and the artistic temperament. Adelina von Hagen is a young girl from an American country town, who has "a voice," and is ambitious of operatic fame. She is living with an elderly teacher of music, Luigi Golfanti, and his son Pietro, a composer, in a shabby flat in New York. All three are poor; but Adelina is happy, for her hopes of success are strong. A young doctor named Raymond has fallen in love with her; but, engrossed in her dreams, she treats his affection as lightly as she does that of Pietro, who adores her hopelessly. A touch of originality is given to the piece in the fact that Adelian's singing-lessons are actually heard. Miss Marie Doro has an agreeable voice, and she cleverly mimics the errors and improvements of an earnest pupil. The Climax is altogether more realistic than most pieces of its kind, the representative of Pietro being a skilled pianist.

There is something the matter with Adelina's throat, and an operation is inevitable. Now Dr. John Raymond is absolutely convinced that the musical stage is no place for a good girl, and he implores Adelina to relinquish the object of her life, and marry him. She refuses to do anything of the kind; and the young doctor descends to deception. In the second act we find Adelina, after the operation, not allowed to talk, but anticipating a great improvement. But when she tries to sing, she finds that her high notes have "gone," and the doctor, deceiving her, leads her to believe that her voice is ruined permanently. She is so deeply distressed that she is going to stab herself, when she is prevented by Luigi.

In the last act Adelina has consented to marry Raymond, and is about to start for the church in her bridal dress, when she tries to sing, and finds that her voice is better than ever. She is rapturously delighted; and when Raymond confesses his deception, and is cursed by Luigi—and almost assassinated by Pietro—she refuses to marry the doctor. He goes out sorrowfully; but it appears from Adelina's reception of Luigi's remarks about the preciousness of love that a compromise may be arrived at.

Miss Marie Doro is very pretty, and her Adelina von Hagen is a bewitching and charming personage—capricious, self-willed, affectionate, and humorous. Her performance as the young singer was delightfully vivacious and sincere, and she sang very nicely, indeed. It was impossible for the audience to resist her winning ways and her dainty, impulsive method, and her depiction of tearless despair was very intense and thrilling. Mr. Guy Standing was just the representative required for the sturdy, straightforward Philistine, John Raymond, and played the part perfectly well; and Mr. Effingham Pinto hit off the peculiarities of the struggling composer, Pietro Golfanti with tact and decision. Mr. Russ Whytal's Luigi Golfanti had all the necessary flexibility and refinement, combined with a certain artistic dignity. The piece was well mounted, and interest in it was maintained to the close. It was preceded by that ever-popular artist, Mr. Barclay Gammon, whose genial chat and playful performances "with a piano" were, as usual, immensely enjoyed.

MR. MORTON ON AMUSEMENT.

Mr. William Morton, of the Grand and Alexandra Theatres, Hull, in a speech at a recent local church bazaar meeting said: "This is a novel position for me to occupy, but I am glad to fill it, if for no other reason than it brings the Church and Stage nearer together—a very desirable object. The Committee of the Salem Chapel Bazaar did a courageous thing in sending me the invitation, and in all probability their conduct will not be applauded in some quarters. Why, indeed, should not the Stage and Church endeavour to help each other? I am not going to say that the two organisations are running on parallel lines, but they are helpful to each other in the great work of christianising the world. It may be that the Church is what the stone or masonry is to an edifice, and the Stage merely the mortar, but neither is indispensable to the stability of the structure. It cannot be denied that morality is next door neighbour to righteousness, and I contend, the stage properly controlled is an education in morality, and the frequenters, to a considerable extent, are non-churchgoers, and more especially this may be said of the working classes. Where would many of these slaves of labour be at night if not at places of amusement? Is it too much to assume—in the public-houses or promenading the streets.

"Then, surely the theatre is the better place. Although I am not an advocate for the parsons being so much in favour of the stage as to read the play bill from the pulpit with the notices of the mothers' meetings, I censure them when they go out of their way to preach against play acting and warn their flock not to go to see it. Within my experience more than one minister of the Gospel have been so desirous of witnessing a particular play that they sought an interview with me, suggesting that I should smuggle them in, as it were, through the keyhole of the back-door, and then hide them behind the drapery in a private box. On the other hand, I could name others of the same cloth and denomination who have stood boldly at the front door until opening time, and then gone in with the sinners. That's the class of man I applaud—men not afraid of their actions. Conduct that would even be admired by the sceptics. Another thing which surprises me is that the one denomination which has shown itself to be most hostile to theatres and music halls is unblushingly using the same methods to attract an audience, and moreover, under an unfair commercial basis, inasmuch as their spacious halls, being licensed as places of worship, are exempt from paying rates."

MR. WILLIAM ARCHER delivered a lecture on Monday evening at Highbury Quadrant Church Hall on the Shakespeare Memorial National Theatre. Mr. Fredk. Newton presided. Mr. Archer supplied details of the recent movement to establish a national theatre, and said that at a meeting of the General Committee, held at the Mansion House on March 28, 1909, it was announced that an anonymous donor had contributed £70,000 towards the estimated sum required for the establishment of a national theatre. A series of lantern views of the municipal theatres and opera houses in Continental cities and of the new repertory theatre in New York were shown.

AN interesting Chamber music concert will be given at the Hampstead Conservatoire of Music on Thursday, the 10th inst., at 8.30 p.m., in aid of the Scholarship Fund. The programme will include the first performance in England of a Piano Quintet by Kaun, and Mr. Charles Fry will give his popular recitation of Poe's "The Bells" with music by Stanley Hawley.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

French audiences as a rule are undemonstrative, but the elegant crowd that witnessed the first performance of M. Bataille's La Vierge Folle shrieked itself hoarse with "bravos" when, according to custom, at the end of the performance the author's name was officially announced. Nor was the audience wrong in its estimation of the new work. It certainly is the finest dramatic production that has come our way for a long time past. But, by a curious coincidence, on that same evening another play, by an equally well-known dramatist, was given at the Renaissance, also dealing with the supreme unselfishness of the wife, who sacrifices her own feelings and happiness for her husband, who is infatuated with another woman.

At curtain rise we are at the house of the Duc de Clarance, and, from a conversation between the Duc and the Abbé Roux, we gather that a calamity has befallen the house of Clarance. The Duc and the Duchesse have just discovered that their eighteen-year-old daughter, Diane, has a guilty liaison with Marcel Armaury, a married man of about forty, a barrister. In order to avoid a public scandal, the Abbé advises the parents to place Diane in a strict convent in Belgium until her twenty-first year. This advice is accepted, and the parents then send for the young culprit, who, having reluctantly given a few details concerning her liaison, finally consents to be cut off from the world for a number of years. The Duc has also sent a note to Mme. Armaury requesting her to call. The lady arrives, and in a brutal manner the Duc hands her her husband's letters to Diane, which have been discovered in Diane's secret drawer. Fanny Armaury staggers under the blow, but she promises to do all she can to have that unfortunate affair kept hidden from the world.

But Diane has not the slightest intention of becoming a nun; and she only consented to the arrangement in order to gain time that she and Armaury might elope. In the second act she has come to her friend's chambers, and everything is arranged for their departure, when Fanny, warned by a servant, arrives. She tells her husband that she is aware of his plans, and begs him to listen to reason; but he refuses to acknowledge that she is right until she shows him the key of a small room which she has locked up whilst he was absent from the room for a few minutes. It is to this room that Diane has flown, and the husband then owns himself beaten. There is a ring at the bell, and Gaston, Diane's brother, arrives. He also has been warned by a servant, and he has come to see whether his sister is there. To save her husband and the young girl from disgrace (for the Duc has not told his son of Diane's liaison) the wife plays comedy, pretending that she has been with her husband all the afternoon, and that it is impossible that he should have made arrangements to flee without her knowledge. Then she displays her nobility of character by giving her husband the key, telling him to act as his conscience prompts. But she is ill-rewarded for her generosity. Her infatuated husband leaves the room, releases the girl, and flees in the automobile waiting downstairs. When the distressed wife discovers her husband's treachery she is frantic with grief, and in a flow of tears tells the astounded Gaston all that has occurred, adding that she will help the Clarance family to regain possession of their daughter.

The runaway couple are in a hotel in London. Armaury refuses to see Gaston, whereupon the Abbé Roux appears upon the scene. The good priest tries to appeal to the man's better feelings, but, as was to be foreseen, his arguments, based on religion and morality, fail to have any effect on the love-sick, free-thinking Armaury. To Armaury's surprise Fanny then enters the room. The moment Fanny sees her husband her anger vanishes. She loves her husband, and she realises that arguments and threats will not cure him of his infatuation. "Do you really love Diane with all your heart?" she asks. "Yes," replies Armaury. "But," says the woman in heart-rending accents, "if by some unforeseen event you and Diane were to separate, what would you do?" "I would return to you!" replies Armaury. "I swear it!" This promise is Fanny's sole comfort, but her self-sacrifice has given her strength. Hope is not dead in her heart. Something tells her that her erring husband will return to her one day, and she decides to defend him against the anger of the Clarances. The latter ask her to divorce Armaury that he might marry Diane, thus mitigating the scandal, but she refuses; she will remain Armaury's wife; and when the Clarances darkly hint at murder to avenge their wrongs Fanny swears that she will watch over him.

Fanny keeps her word. In the final act Armaury and Diane are in their room in the hotel. It is past midnight. Suddenly there is a discreet knock at the door, and Fanny enters. She tells Armaury that Gaston de Clarance is at that very moment walking up and down the corridor. Unheeding Fanny and Diane's supplications, Armaury opens the door wide and Gaston walks in. He carries a revolver, but, obeying his sister's command, he deposits the weapon on a table. Fanny then takes Gaston in hand, and urges him to follow her example and accept the inevitable. Gaston, however, does not share these sentiments. His feelings are intensely human, and he is thirsting for revenge. But during this discussion it dawns upon Diane that she is far below Fanny. This idea maddens her, and, seizing the revolver, she kills herself, for she has realised the fact that Fanny's love is purer and higher than the one she can offer Armaury. And, as the title of the play implies, the foolish little virgin, who squandered all the oil in her lamp, never saw the bridegroom.

The weight of the play rested chiefly on the shoulders of Mme. Bady, who showed herself a perfect actress. She scored a great and well-deserved triumph. Mlle. Delza, too, may be congratulated on the manner in which she impersonated Diane. The men's rôles were less important. In the hands of a less clever actor the part of Armaury might have become grotesque, but M. Duménу, with his customary skill, avoided all the pitfalls. A special word of praise is also due to that great artist M. Armand Bour for the admirable sketch he supplied of the Abbé Roux.

La Vierge Folle has entered upon a long and successful career.

Too Much Frivolity.

MR. J. T. GREIN, lecturing to the Manchester Playgoers' Club on Saturday at the Midland Hotel, Manchester, on the question "Are We Progressing?" deplored many modern tendencies. "There was," he said, "too much amusement, too much running after the spirit of the times, too little introspection, too little seriousness. The mission of the theatre was not to amuse or to entertain, but to edify." He proposed that £500 should be guaranteed to cover the cost of production by a "Manchester Independent Theatre" of five plays of universal literary interest, and offered to contribute one-tenth of that sum himself if the rest were forthcoming. The meeting expressed its cordial appreciation of Mr. Grein's offer.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, THURSDAY, March 3.—This merry little piece, the work of two popular collaborators, is more of a burlesque than a farce. It has been given with success on several provincial stages, and on its reception here met with an equally cordial reception. Plot there is very little, the chief fun being in the broad fun of the "situations," and in the absurd complications and misunderstandings. Dr. Hans Schmidt, a barrister whose speciality is divorce cases, lives in perfect harmony with his own wife, and is about to celebrate the anniversary of his wedding day. Dr. Klemm, a medical man, is less happy. His better half, after seeing Ibsen's Doll's House, believes herself a second Nora, and runs away from the spouse who treats her as a doll. The third couple are Fritz von Rauendorf and Else—the former a young lawyer, the latter a friend of Frau Schmidt, and the two are betrothed lovers. The demon of Jealousy soon commences his reign among all these young people. Each believes his or her affinity is unfaithful. A perfect hailstorm of errors and misunderstandings break upon the hitherto peaceful horizon, which last through three acts, the final act, of course, clearing everything up. The men find their wives again, the lovers are reunited. It was a storm in a teacup. The acting was very bright all round, and there is every probability of the piece enjoying a lengthy run.

Two interesting revivals, both of which have attracted the personal attention of the Imperial family in no small measure, took place last week—Hebbel's powerful tragedy Judith at the Deutsches and Der Prophet at the Royal Opera. The latter opera has not been given for a number of years, and the greatest pains were expended upon the revival, costumes and scenery being new for the occasion. The Emperor attended the dress rehearsal, and was present with the Empress and several members of their family on the opening night. Dr. Strauss conducted, the cast was particularly fine—including Fräulein Hempel, Frau Goetze, and Herr Berger—and the work was superbly staged.

FOLLOWING his Imperial father's example, the Crown Prince is showing a liking for attending rehearsals. He and the Crown Princess went to the dress rehearsal of Judith, and thoroughly enjoyed themselves, complimenting the manager—Prof. Reinhardt—at the close. The cast was admirable, the mounting, as it always is at the Deutsches, being very effective. It is not in the nature of the work to become popular, but it will run some time at intervals, and be witnessed by many lovers of the old classics.

HERR GEORGE ENGELS, the well-known and esteemed playwright, has given his latest work to the Court Theatre at Hanover this time, instead of Berlin according to his usual custom. It is a four-act comedy entitled Der scharfe Junker, and its reception is reported to have been extremely cordial, so that we shall certainly see it here before long. The scene is laid in the country, the principal figure being a gentleman farmer named Baron Malte von Büngelwitz. He is a typical "feudal" landowner, as understood in this country—very conservative, very thorough in all he undertakes, a little rough and arrogant, but generous and kind-hearted to a degree. How the Baron meets the woman of his life, and how he overcomes her prejudices to himself, occupy three acts, but the scenes are reported to be interesting and amusing throughout.

AT the Rose Theatre a three-act farce, Der Eisenbahnräuber, by Fritz Groebert, made a decided hit. The hero is an elderly tradesman from Berlin, who is taking a holiday on the Baltic with his wife and family. He leaves them for a season to shake a loose leg on the quiet at Ostend, but is mistaken on the journey for a long-wanted railway thief. After some unpleasant adventures in consequence, he returns to his family a better and a wiser man. The acting was vivacious.

HERR LENGYEL'S drama Taifun, recently described in your columns, is being translated into Japanese for production at the theatre in Tokio. The action passes, it will be remembered, in Paris, the chief persons being Japanese Commissioners of the Government.

INDIGNATION has been caused by the action of Bishop Hermogen in prohibiting a service which it was proposed to hold in Saratoff Cathedral, St. Petersburg, in memory of Mme. Kommissarjefskaya, an actress of great popularity, who died recently at Tashkend while on a professional tour in Central Asia. The Bishop insists on making inquiries at Tashkend concerning the cause of the actress's death, her religion, and her keeping of Church observances.

The German Actress's Life.

A PARLIAMENT of actresses was held in the Philharmonic Hall, Berlin, on Wednesday night. Fräulein Hübner, of the New Theatre, said the expenses of actresses were out of all proportion to their emoluments. In the second- and third-class theatres, and these are the vast majority, the salaries paid during six or seven months of the season worked out at from £21 a year for subordinate performers to £100 for leading players. Out of these sums the actress had to pay agency fees, travelling and other expenses, and to provide all her dresses. It sometimes happened that in the course of a single month, during which her earnings were from £3 10s. to £12 10s., she had to furnish as many as ten separate costumes.

FRAU ROSA BERTENS, another well-known figure on the Berlin boards, complained that the profession was overrun by women who had met with misfortune or ill-luck in other walks of life. Formerly, she said, when a girl had an unhappy love affair she retired into a convent. Now she went on to the stage. The teacher left her class and the student her books to try her fortune as an actress.

FRAULEIN GALLE, a young actress, next narrated the difficulties the novice had to contend with. Success, she said, always went to the candidates with the smartest frocks. If an actress had no pretty dresses she was kept back, while if she had them people inquired who her protector might be. If she married she was dismissed at once.

HERR WAUER propounded the view that the "life of the artist is necessarily a martyrdom." "If," he added, "you eliminate privation from the conditions of the actor's life you will undermine his art, for it is only through affliction that one can mature to a great artist." The proceedings were brought to a close by a resolution calling upon the Federal Council and the Reichstag, which was represented by a number of deputies from different parties, to remedy the grievances of the dramatic profession by legislative action.

THE L.C.C. AND AMUSEMENTS.

The last meeting of the London County Council elected in March, 1907, was held on Tuesday at the County Hall, Spring Gardens, Sir Melvill Beachcroft (chairman) presiding.

THE ALDWYCH SITE: AN OLD PROPOSAL REVIVED.

The Improvements Committee presented a report, stating that on April 23, 1907, the Council agreed to grant to M. Ernest Gerard, on certain conditions, an option to take a lease of the central portion of the crescent site between Aldwych and the Strand. The resolutions provided that a payment of £5,000 should be made within fourteen days from that date. Certain extensions of time for the completion of the agreement were allowed, but finally on Oct. 15, 1907, the Council rescinded its resolutions in the matter. M. Gerard now asks that an option may be granted to him on the terms that were agreed to in 1907. In their previous report on the subject the committee stated:

"The site has an area of about 124,000 square ft., and lies between Aldwych and the Strand, being bounded on the east and west by the 50ft. approaches which it is proposed to form between the Strand and Aldwych. It has frontages of about 636ft. to Aldwych, about 413ft. to the Strand, about 236ft. to the approach on the west side of the site, and about 231ft. to that on the east side. The proposal has been made by M. Ernest Gerard on behalf of a syndicate who have prepared a scheme for developing the site as a whole. M. Gerard offers to make a deposit of £5,000, which is to be forfeited in the event of a building agreement not being entered into for a lease of the site at a rent of £55,000 a year within six months of the date of the provisional agreement.

"Preliminary sketch plans have been submitted which show a scheme for the erection of shops with offices above fronting on to the Strand, the two side thoroughfares and a part of Aldwych. On the central portion of the site, with a frontage to Aldwych, it is proposed to erect a stone building of commanding architectural features. This building will contain large galleries for use in connection with a permanent exhibition of arts and manufactures; it will also contain a theatre, a concert hall, and a restaurant, with courts around. We are informed that since the sketch plans were submitted, negotiations have been entered into by the promoters which may lead them to modify the scheme in the direction of erecting a different class of building in the Strand. This would materially assist in the development of the remainder of the Council's land, and would give even greater security for the ground rent than would be afforded by the erection of shops.

"The minimum amount to be spent in the erection of these buildings is to be £500,000, and the buildings are to be completed within four years of the date of the signing of the agreement. The plans, elevations, and specifications of all the buildings will be entirely subject to the Council's approval.

"The promoters make their offer dependent upon their being permitted to apply for a licence for the sale in the café, restaurant, and courts of beer, wines, and spirits to be served at tables by waiters, who will also serve other refreshments, but no bars are desired in connection with this part of the scheme. In the theatre such facilities for refreshment will be provided as are usually allowed in theatres licensed by the Lord Chamberlain. The lease will provide that these facilities will be afforded only while performances are being given in the theatre, and that they will be in strict accordance with the regulations of the Lord Chamberlain governing such cases. The part of the site to which the sale of alcoholic liquors is restricted will be defined on the plan attached to the lease when granted. The requirements in the matter of licences will not be greater than those agreed to by the Council in the case of the letting sanctioned on March 20, 1906, to the syndicate of which Mr. L. Wormser was secretary."

We are of opinion that, with such variations as the circumstances necessitate, the Council should grant the option on the terms it agreed to on July 23, 1907.

The committee accordingly recommended that an agreement be entered into with M. Ernest Gerard upon the terms mentioned.

The recommendation was passed without discussion.

JAPAN-BRITISH EXHIBITION.

In a supplementary agenda paper issued during the evening, the General Purposes Committee reported that the Council had been invited to furnish an exhibit at the forthcoming Japan-British Exhibition, descriptive of the London public services. The committee were strongly of opinion that this is an occasion on which the Council should provide an exhibit worthy of the Council's position as the greatest municipal authority in the world, and they were further of opinion that a comprehensive exhibit illustrated by means of models, diagrams, maps, &c., of the several services of the Council should be prepared. For an expenditure of £1,000 a suitable exhibit could be provided, and the committee recommended that as a matter of urgency they should be authorised to arrange, at a cost not exceeding £1,000, for the provision of such an exhibit.

On the motion of Mr. Edward White the recommendation was unanimously agreed to.

SUNDAY OPENING OF CINEMATOGRAPH SHOWS.

The Theatres and Music Halls Committee reported as follows:

The Council on Dec. 21, 1909, decided that the licences granted by the Council under the Cinematograph Act, 1909, should be subject to a condition "that the premises shall not be opened under the licence on Sundays, Christmas Day, or Good Friday." On Feb. 15, 1910, the Council refused a request made by the Cinematograph Trade Protection Society and the Cinematograph Defence League that the condition should be withdrawn, and decided not to consider any application to give cinematograph entertainments on Sundays or other days prohibited by the licence, unless the application be accompanied by an undertaking from some recognised society or organisation, unconnected with the premises concerned, to the effect that—(1) The entertainments will be properly conducted and not for private gain or by way of trade; (2) the licensee or his servants will have nothing to do with the arrangements for the entertainments (i.e., the engagement of operators or employees, &c.) beyond being responsible to the Council for the observance of its regulations; (3) none of the persons employed at the licensed premises on week days will have any pressure put upon him or her to assist at Sunday entertainments; (4) an audited balance sheet will be submitted to the Council at the end of each series of entertainments; (5) the rules required to be observed on week days for securing the safety of the audience will be complied with; (6) the heads of the society or organisation will hold themselves responsible for seeing that the assurance given to the Council is adhered to.

This decision was communicated to the Cinematograph Trade Protection Society and the Cinematograph Defence League, and we have been informed that with few exceptions the premises licenced for cinematograph exhibitions were closed on Sunday last. As regards the places that were kept open, we hope in some cases to be in a position to take proceedings under the Cinematograph Act for a breach of the conditions of the licence granted by the Council. In two cases, however, we are informed that the proprietors alleged that non-inflammable films were used, and therefore that the premises were not kept open under the licence. We think therefore that the condition on the licence should be altererd to make it clear that except under the conditions laid down on Feb. 15, 1910, the Council will not allow premises licensed for cinematograph exhibitions to be kept open on Sundays for such purposes, even though non-inflammable films be used. We recommend:

(a) That the resolution (No. 1) of Dec. 21 and 22, 1909, prohibiting the keeping open on Sundays of premises licensed for cinematograph exhibitions be rescinded.

(b) That, except where a licence is granted for a particular day or days and the condition would be inappropriate, the licences granted by the Council under the Cinematograph Act, 1909, be subject to a condition that the premises shall not be opened on Sundays, Christmas Day, or Good Friday for cinematograph exhibitions.

The Chairman: The question is that Recommendation 1 (a) be agreed to.

This was agreed to.

The Chairman: The question is that Recommendation 1 (b) be agreed to.

Mr. Jesson (Walworth): I want to move an amendment on that, sir. It is to add the following words to the recommendation:—

"and that the conditions upon which the Council, on Feb. 15, 1910 (p. 208), decided to consider applications for permission to give cinematograph entertainments on Sundays and other days prohibited by the licence be supplemented by conditions to the following effect, viz.,

"(1) That a copy of the agreement between the proprietors of places of amusement and the societies or organisations which have been given permission to organise Sunday entertainments shall be supplied to the Council; and

"(2) that an approximate balance-sheet of the entertainments be presented to the Council monthly."

Mr. C. Jesson said: In moving this, I desire, on behalf of the four organisations representing the profession, to thank Mr. Greenwood for the kind way in which he has assisted us in this matter.

We have no desire in any way to curtail the people's pleasures if they desire Sunday entertainments, but what we do desire is to see that, if this question of Sunday entertainments is going to develop at all, it will not develop upon lines which will cause hardship to those engaged in the entertainment profession. We do not desire to see the same conditions spread about in this country as obtain in America. The Federation of Variety Artists, Actors, and Musicians, and everyone associated with the entertainment profession in America, are protesting against the seven days' labour forced upon them by people popularising Sunday entertainment. They do not object to Sunday entertainments, but they desire that entertainments, so far as they are concerned, shall not be compulsory.

Mr. Greenwood: For the convenience of the Council I may say that I am quite prepared to accept the amendment.

The Chairman: Who seconds it?

Mr. Frank Smith (Lambeth): I second.

The Chairman: I understand the Chairman of the Committee is prepared to accept that; the whole of it?

Mr. Greenwood: Yes, sir; the whole of it.

Mr. F. L. Dove (Islington, North): This seems rather involved, and I should be glad if the Chairman of the Committee would give us some further explanation. If this is only a back-door way of opening these places on Sunday, I shall vote against it.

Mr. Greenwood: It is by no means a back-door way. It is, rather, a more extensive safeguard that the Council will have to see that these concerts are only given under the regulations which govern Sunday entertainments.

The Chairman: The amendment is moved. Does the Council agree?

This was agreed to.

The Chairman: The question is that recommendation (b), as amended, be agreed to.

This was agreed to.

LEWISHAM HIPPODROME.

The committee reported: The Council on Dec. 1, 1908, approved, subject to certain conditions, drawings showing a music hall to be known as the Lewisham Hippodrome, and to be erected on a site in Rushey Green and Brownhill-road, Catford. Further drawings have now been submitted by Messrs. F. Matcham and Co., showing a proposal to construct the premises on a slightly modified site. The music hall will have accommodation for about 3,300 persons, and, subject to certain conditions being complied with, the premises appear to be satisfactory. The committee recommended that, provided that the works shown on the drawings submitted be commenced within six months, the Council will be prepared to grant a certificate to the owner of such building, on being satisfied that the premises have been completed in accordance with the drawings referred to and the regulations of the Council, &c.

PROPOSED CINEMATOGRAPH HALL.

The committee reported that they had considered drawings and a specification, submitted by Mr. R. E. Clarke, showing a proposal to convert premises at Nos. 246 and 248, Kentish Town-road, into a cinematograph hall. It is intended to apply for a music licence for the hall, which will have accommodation for about 500 persons, and, subject to certain conditions being complied with, the premises appear to be satisfactory for the purpose for which the licence is desired. The committee recommended that, provided that the works be commenced within six months, the Council will be prepared to grant a certificate to the owner of the building, on being satisfied that the premises have been completed in accordance with the drawings and specification and the regulations of the Council.

Agreed to.

ELECTRIC THEATRES, &c.

The Committee also reported with reference to drawings submitted by Mr. M. S. Ward, showing alterations proposed to be made to a mission hall in Praed-street, Paddington, in order to convert the premises into an electric theatre. The premises will have accommodation for about 450 persons. It is intended to apply for a music licence for the hall.

Also with reference to drawings submitted by Messrs. Lovell and Bulman, showing a skating rink and a cinematograph hall proposed to be erected on a site abutting on High-street, Putney, and Brewhouse-lane. The skating rink is shown to accommodate about 1,820 persons, and the cinematograph hall 1,060 persons. It is intended to apply for a music and dancing licence for the two halls.

Subject to the usual conditions being complied with, the committee recommended that certificates be granted.

The committee also recommended approval of a drawing, submitted by Messrs. Norfolk and Prior, showing alterations proposed to be made to the Catford Central Hall Picture Palace, Sangley-road, in order to comply with certain of the requirements made by the Council to render the premises suitable for a music licence.

Agreed to.

SHAFTESBURY THEATRE.

With reference to drawing submitted by Mr. F. A. Tugwell showing a proposal to provide a new dressing-room on the prompt fly at the Shaftesbury Theatre, the committee recommended approval of the arrangements.

Agreed to.

The Music Committee of the City of London Corporation has received a legacy from the late Mr. Alfred Morten of £5,000 Cambrian Railway Fourth Preference stock for the Guildhall School of Music, in order to found two scholarships. The committee recommend that the City seal be affixed to the declaration of trust in connection with the bequest.

MUSIC HALL CELEBRITIES.

MR. HARRY RUSSON.

A Londoner, Mr. Russon had the privilege of being tutored, encouraged, and placed on the first rung of the ladder by Mr. Albert Chevalier, a privilege he appreciates more and more as he realises how important a good start is. Previous to his entry into the profession Mr. Russon was a sailor in the merchant service, and afterwards was in business in a big London warehouse, where by playing Cis Farringdon in an amateur performance of The Magistrate and Rupert Slater in Conan Doyle's Halves, he discovered his particular talent.

He then joined Mr. Thomas Sydney, playing in Green Bushes and Dr. Bill, afterwards appearing as Guppy in Miss Jennie Lee's company of Jo, Billy in Trilby, Charley in Charley's Aunt, Fidgety Phil in Shock-headed Peter at the Garrick Theatre, &c. Mr. Russon then went in for musical comedy, playing Comte de Fleury in Mr. George Edwardes' Messenger Boy company; two tours of The Toreador company followed, and after this Mr. Russon played Lord Plantagenet in Kitty Grey for a tour, and stage-managed two tours of The Three Little Maids. After managing a concert party, entitled The Red Cavaliers, Mr. Russon went into partnership with Mr. Henry J. Corner in The Dandies, with whom he remained three years. At the end of the engagement of the Dandies in the Coliseum Revue, in which Mr. Russon played an Eton boy in the Zoo scene, a County Councillor, and a Cook's Guide, he dissolved partnership with Mr. Corner and started as a single turn on the halls. Within three weeks of his commencement as a music-hall artist he was booked by Messrs. Glenister, Gibbons, Barrasford, Payne, De Frece, Elliston, Clarke, Bostock, &c., for five years' solid work.

Mr. Russon does not confine himself to any particular style on the halls, as his répertoire consists of light comedy, character comedy, and dramatic work. His favourite number is Mr. Rudyard Kipling's "Gunga Din," and some of his most successful songs have been "The workhouse pauper," "In the days of good King Charlie," "There's always room for a girl," "The stage-door keeper," and "Thoroughbred." His latest effort, which has proved a tremendous success, is a song-scena, entitled "The Last of the Cabbies." In this Mr. Russon uses the scene of a cab rank, with cab shelter at the entrance to a park, horse and four-wheeler, and has the assistance of a lady "fare" and a cab rank "runner." He recently had a most tempting offer to go to America, but owing to his bookings he is unable to leave England for some time.

MR. HARRY RUSSON.

The annual Bohemian concert arranged by the choristers of the Theatre Royal pantomime, Birmingham, was held after the performance at the Grand Theatre on Tuesday evening. Mr. George Robey occupied the chair, and he was supported by Mr. Harry Lewis. Members of the pantomime company and performers at the local music halls contributed to an excellent programme, and the affair proved a huge success.

Mr. George Grossmith, jun., made his French début in a revue at the Folies-Bergère on Tuesday, and had a very hearty reception from a crowded house. Appearing first as a Government expert on female beauty, he was surrounded by a bevy of charming English girls, and sang the famous "Yip-i-addy-i-ay" in boulevard French. At his third encore he gaily improvised a line in English: "I don't understand a word that I say." Later in the evening he gave a "skit" on the English elections with Miss Campton, an English comedienne, which was heartily applauded.

Harry Ross, thirty-five, tailor, of Gibson-square, Islington, was charged at Clerkenwell last week with being concerned in breaking and entering 16, Furlong-road, Islington, and stealing three diamond rings, a diamond pin, and bracelets, value £150, the property of George D'Albert, music-hall artist. The prosecutor said that he left his house about 5.30 in the evening, his wife being at home. On his return just after midnight he found that the front door had been broken open, and a quantity of jewellery had been stolen. The case was remanded.

The Electric Picture Palace, Canterbury, fills well every evening. Among the best pictures this week may be numbered a patriotic film entitled For Her Country's Sake; a doll-maker's dream, called Blessington's Bonny Babs; a realistic drama, entitled Poor Mother; a dog story, Dear Old Dog; a humorous item, Those Awful Matinée Hats; an appreciative tale of a jolly Jack Tar, under the title of One of the Bulldog Breed; and a dramatic story of a crime, called The Detective's Son. A beauty show took place on Thursday.

A very attractive series of pictures is exhibited at the Court Theatre, Brighton, this week. The Children's Doctor conveys a powerfully effective story, The Squire's Romance is very dramatic, and the films of an amusing character include Calino goes Shopping, Wouldn't it Tire You? Imps of the Bottle, Stickfast Paste, Terror and the Terrier, and When We Called the Plumber In. Mr. Osland Denner contributed baritone songs, which merit high praise.

MASONS AT WORK.

CONSECRATION OF THE PROSCENIUM LODGE AND INSTALLATION OF THE FIRST MASTER.

Tuesday last was a red-letter day in the variety world, for yet another Masonic coterie was called into existence, having for its object the ingathering of those whose inclinations may lead them to wish to enter the fraternity or join a body of men whose avocations of necessity bring them into the closest intimacy, and in many instances the most cordial and lasting comradeship.

The prosperity of the Chelsea Lodge, which was consecrated some few years ago, has been so great that some of its members joined together in a petition to the Grand Master, H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, for the establishment of a new Lodge, to be called the "Proscenium," with Mr. Albert Le Fre as W.M. Designate, Mr. W. H. Roberts (better known as Atlas) as S.W. Designate, and Mr. Frank Hardie as J.W. Designate; and the prayer of such petition being favourably received and a warrant of constitution granted, the day was fixed for the consecration, and on Tuesday last a large and representative gathering of members of the fraternity who were interested in matters concerning the variety world and its ways assembled at the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, London, to witness the beautiful and interesting ceremony, which was carried out with dignity, solemnity, and perfection of detail by Sir Edward Letchworth (the Grand Secretary of England) as W.M., Mr. James W. Mathews, the first Master of the Chelsea Lodge, A.G.D.C., as S.W., Mr. Harry Nicholls, P.G.Std.B., as J.W., and Mr. Charles Cruikshanks, P.A.G.Std.B., as I.G. Mr. Henry Sadler, the Grand Tyler of England, having charge of the consecrating vessels, was also present.

Many of the Founders were present to receive the benefits of the ceremonial and to witness the due constitution of their Lodge. The full list of Founders was as follows:—Messrs. Albert Le Fre Henry Coutts, W. H. Roberts, Frank Hardie, W. S. Lyon, C. J. Doughty, Monte Bayly, Andie Caine, Harry Bawn, Ernest A. Warsaw, F. H. Pedgrift, Dan Lipton, J. T. W. Grant, Cecil H. Phillips, B. J. Whiteley, W. H. Hitch, Gilbert Girard, Chas. Norton, Harry Bancroft, W. A. Stone, E. A. Bedford, Fred Keeton, G. A. Keen, H. J. Kisby, E. M. Myers, E. E. Brook, Stanley Palmer, George Mozart, Frank Fort, and R. B. Bradshaw. The Rev. J. Farrington Downes, P.A.G.C., officiated as Chaplain, and delivered an eloquent oration; while Mr. J. S. Granville Grenfell, M.A., D.G.D.C., undertook the arduous duties of Director of the Ceremonies.

The consecration being ended by the pronouncement of the patriarchal benediction, Sir Edward Letchworth installed the first Master, Mr. Albert Le Fre, and that gentleman then proceeded to appoint his officers—investing such as were present—as follows:—Messrs. G. H. Cobly (Henry Coutts), Hon. I.P.M.; William H. Roberts (Atlas), S.W.; W. J. Wells (Frank Hardie), J.W.; Alfred B. J. Bayly (Monte Bayly), S.D.; Ernest Taylor (Andie Caine), J.D.; A. W. H. Beale (Harry Bawn), D.C.; F. H. Pedgrift, I.G.; and Wm. J. Mundy (Dan Lipton), J. T. W. Grant, Cecil H. Phillips, and Benjamin J. Whiteley as Stewards.

The election of Treasurer being left in the Master's hands, his choice fell upon Mr. Wolfe S. Lyon, L.R., the Treasurer of the Chelsea Lodge, and Mr. J. H. McNaughton was elected by the brethren as Tyler of the Lodge. The Master was pleased to appoint Mr. Charles J. Doughty, the Secretary of the Chelsea Lodge, as his Secretary, and the appointment was highly approved by the Founders as a well-deserved and distinguished honour.

The consecrating officers were asked to accept honorary membership of the Lodge and commemorative jewels, and Sir Edward Letchworth, in replying for himself and those who had rendered him such invaluable assistance, accepted the kindly invitation and the handsome gifts, and expressed the hope that the Proscenium Lodge would have a long and prosperous existence, and that he and those associated with him in the delightful task of forming the Lodge might in the future often have the privilege of being present at their assemblies.

Throughout the proceedings Mr. W. J. Waterman, Mus.Bac., G.O., presided at the organ, and, with the assistance of Messrs. Herbert Tracy, Percy Watson, E. C. Ashford, and Frank Tebbutt, rendered the musical portions of the service with telling effect.

Messrs. Henry Neville, P.A.G.C., and John Worth, P.G.P., were present as visitors; and also Messrs. A. W. Morgan, Lionel Carson, S. C. Montague Austin, Harry E. Gosling, Percy J. Scale, C. D. Weston, Herbert Chenery, Pete Murray, W. Douglas Carlile, H. H. Sadler, A. W. Samwells, E. H. Granville, James W. Fortune, W. E. Lincoln, A. J. Robbins, Arnold W. Phillips, L. M. Frytel, Eric Strae, E. Ashton, Fred W. Banning, and Aleck George, amongst whom were several Provincial Grand Officers.

Apologies for non-attendance were received from several whose professional engagements in various parts of the United Kingdom precluded the possibility of their being present, nor did the pressure of engagements rest with the absent ones alone, for the Master (Mr. Albert Le Fre) himself was obliged to hurry away after the closing of the Lodge in order to catch an afternoon train to the Midlands to enable him to reach his destination in time for the evening performance. With luck, he could do it with a few—a very few—minutes to spare.

The brethren reassembled in the Dome Room of the "Connaught" suite, and under the able presidentship of Mr. Harry Coutts, who deputised for the absent Master, a right royal time was spent. A good dinner was followed by good speeches and a good programme of music, song, &c., and the occasion will long be remembered as a joyful one. The various toasts were duly honoured. That of "The Grand Officers" drew from Mr. Wolfe S. Lyon, the Treasurer, a very interesting account of the rise of the Proscenium, which was an offspring of the Chelsea Lodge, which was itself an offspring of the Earl's Court Lodge, and recounted his connection with the three, and in the name of the members of the Proscenium tendered the Grand Officers their cordial thanks and good wishes. The toast was enthusiastically received, and Sir Edward Letchworth and Messrs. James W. Mathews and Harry Nicholls each, in the happiest manner, replied. Mr. Charles Cruikshanks, having an engagement elsewhere, had left, and was unable to express his thanks. The toast of "The Master" was cordially received, and a telegram of congratulation was sent to him. "The Officers" brought eloquent replies from Messrs. W. H. Roberts (Atlas) and Frank Hardie, as S.W. and J.W. respectively.

When the final stage was reached and the brethren were cogitating as to how and where they would spend the evening, it was announced that Mr. Frank Glenister had invited them all as his guests to the London Pavilion, and many availed themselves of the kind invitation.

The Town Council of Broughty Ferry are prepared to receive offers for the right to provide al-fresco entertainments, shows, &c., on the promenade and sands for the summer season. Mr. Edward Cowan, Town Clerk, 4, High-street, Dundee, will give all particulars to applicants up to March 12.

A special feature in the programme at the Palace, Camberwell, this week is the first appearance there of Miss Maude May Murray, who presents an enchanting spectacular dance act, with wonderful lighting effects. She appears in a blaze of light from start to finish, and is greeted with storms of applause.

GEORGE ROBEY AND THE OXFORD, LIMITED.

In the Court of Appeal on Monday, before the Master of the Rolls and Lord Justice Fletcher Moulton and Lord Justice Buckley, the Oxford, Ltd., appealed against the decision recently given by Mr. Justice Joyce in the case brought against them by Mr. George Edward Wade (Mr. George Robey), in which he asked for a declaration that a contract entered into between him and the late Mr. George Adney Payne, managing-director of the defendant company, was a personal agreement, and lapsed when Mr. Payne died in May of 1907.

Mr. Justice Joyce held that the contract was a personal one with Mr. Payne, and that on his death it became unworkable, and that in the circumstances Mr. Robey was justified in entering into an agreement with another person.

In the appeal Mr. Younger, K.C., and Mr. Maugham appeared for the appellants, and Mr. Simon, K.C., and Mr. McCardie for the respondent.

Mr. Younger, K.C., in stating the case for the appellants, said he thought the Court would come to the conclusion on the evidence that the particular right which Mr. Payne had to exercise was such as Mr. Robey could not have intended to be exercised by one particular person.

Lord Justice Moulton: Is your contention that the Oxford are bound to carry out this agreement?

Mr. Younger: Certainly.

Do you admit that you were liable for the whole of the £120?

Mr. Younger: Certainly.

Mr. Simon, K.C.: Not only has there been a doubt about it, but it was not the view of the judge.

Mr. Younger: We have always admitted the liability.

Lord Justice Moulton: I am not clear that it makes them liable for the £120.

Mr. Younger: There is no doubt what the words mean.

Lord Justice Buckley: You have no words defining that the Oxford must pay the salary, but you have words that the salary is to be made up as Mr. Payne "thinks fit."

Mr. Younger: It has to be paid by the Oxford.

Lord Justice Moulton: If Mr. Payne had to find two other halls, it looks conclusive that that was a personal undertaking on his part to find the halls.

Mr. Younger submitted that the Oxford were to have the exclusive services of Mr. Robey for £120, and were entitled to require him to sing at three halls. The Oxford was one of the associated halls, and was able to secure the others to take up this contract and let Mr. Robey have the opportunity of performing.

The hearing was adjourned until Tuesday, when Mr. Younger, K.C., argued the case on behalf of the defendant company. He contended that Mr. Payne was acting as managing-director of the Oxford.

Lord Justice Buckley thought there were words in the agreement which enabled Mr. Payne, as distinguished from the Oxford, to introduce variations that would affect the contract as between the Oxford and Mr. Robey.

Lord Justice Moulton said Mr. Payne agreed to find Mr. Robey two other halls to work, in conjunction with the Oxford, at a salary of £120 a week, such salary to be made up as Mr. Payne might think fit.

Mr. Younger remarked that this sum was to be paid for Mr. Robey performing at three halls.

The Master of the Rolls said he was not satisfied that the Oxford was liable for the whole £120.

Evidence taken in the Court below was read, and counsel, on behalf of the appellants, submitted that it was not the duty of the Court to allow a person to get out of his bargain when he was not injured by being kept in it.

On Wednesday the Master of the Rolls said it was impossible to say that there was any complete contract between the Oxford (Limited) and Mr. Robey in the first part of the document. In the second part, which was signed by Mr. Payne, without binding the Oxford (Limited), there was no trace of the salary which Mr. Robey was to receive for appearing at the two additional halls, and he was clear that it was of a personal character as between Mr. Payne and Mr. Robey, as distinct from Mr. Payne acting for the Oxford and Mr. Robey. He was impressed by the fact that Mr. Payne was a gentleman of great influence in the music-hall world and a personal friend of Mr. Robey, and that Mr. Robey treated himself as contracting with Mr. Payne alone. Mr. Payne was dead, and the £120 had never been apportioned between the three halls, and no human being could say what was the proportion of the salary which the Oxford was liable to pay. He saw no ground for saying that the Oxford was to pay the whole £120. The appellants said that that did not matter; they were willing to pay the £120, and make such arrangements as they thought fit. The answer was that that was not the obligation which Mr. Robey entered into. He was unable to see that it was anything else than a case in which the essential parts of the contract were left to be settled by a gentleman who had since died without performing that duty. Even if it were held that the second part of the contract was to be treated as between the Oxford (Limited) and Mr. Robey, that would not get over the difficulty, because there were still things to be done by Mr. Payne as an individual. In his view the contract had come to an end, and was no longer binding, and the appeal must be dismissed.

The lords justices concurred, and the appeal was accordingly dismissed.

The Two Falcons, comedy acrobats, sail on Friday next by the P. and O. Mooltan to fulfil an engagement with Mr. Harry Rickards in Australia, made by Tom Pacey.

Miss Edith Courtney and Miss Florence Wilton have been successfully exploiting at the Canterbury during the week a musical duologue, entitled A Marble Flirtation.

Frank Hartley, the boy juggler, made a big success at the Palace, Shaftesbury Avenue, where he opened on Monday last. He has been booked at that house by the energetic Tom Pacey.

Lee and Arden have arranged to supply the al-fresco entertainments at Leven. This will be their first season on the East Coast. They have opened up all the principal Clyde resorts, and are generally recognised as the pioneers of high-class al-fresco entertainments in Scotland.

At the New Brighton Winter Gardens this week a fine programme is being presented, including Master Harcourt Mills, a wonderfully clever boy-actor; the Raymond Trio, refined dancers and instrumentalists; the Carlo and Maie Trio, comedy acrobats; Mr. and Mrs. F. Shelley, sketch artists; Miss F. Ormonde, vocalist; Mr. W. Mosford, a fine baritone; and Mr. A. Fagan, comedian.

Mr. Benj. Woodger, secretary of the Music Hall Home, desires to thank Mr. Vivian Evans (Empire Palace, Wolverhampton) for box collection of £1 19s.; Mr. Sam Jones (City Varieties, Leeds), 4s.; Mr. Herbert Raymond (Regent Theatre, Salford), box collection, £2 11s.; and Mr. Jack Woolf, of Wonderland, has sent a cheque for £2 to the Home Fund. Many thanks also for parcel of men's clothes received from Pat Carey and Peggy Pryde; and to Ernest Ball, Harry Blake, and Harry and Lillie Vento (Clacton-on-Sea) for parcel of books and magazines for the inmates of the Home. The secretary would be glad to receive men's old boots and clothes, which would be very acceptable at all times.

MISS LOUIE TRACY, the dapper dandy boy, is topping the bill at the Pier Pavilion, Southport, singing no less than four songs at every performance. All the songs are by Harry Carlton and Carlton and Sullivan, and it would be hard to find four songs to beat the following: "That's a nice little girl over there," "The Earl of the Esplanade," "Where's the girl who doesn't love the soldiers?" and "I'm bidding good-bye to the boys."

MR. EDWARD THANE is busy rehearsing a new dramatic sketch entitled The Mask Torn Off, written by Ward Bailey and himself. Miss Helena Millais, who has been so successful on tour in the part of Kate Cregeen (Pete), will run it in the halls, starting from the Empress, Brixton, on March 14.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

[We do not answer inquiries by post. In all letters the names and addresses of inquirers must be given as a guarantee of good faith. Initials only or pseudonyms will be used in the answers if so desired.]

WILL CHATTERTON.—An answer to your question will appear next week.

HOPE.—We should suggest an advertisement in our Authors' column, for which rates can be sent you on application to our publisher.

SETON BERNARD.—It is certainly necessary to get permission if you are giving any verses of their songs, which we may conclude is your intention. Besides, courtesy should count for something in the relations between one professional and another.

MISS STICKLAND (Ealing).—The Beloved Vagabond, the play based on W. J. Locke's play of the same name, was produced at the Dublin Theatre Royal on Oct. 10, 1907, and afterwards at His Majesty's Theatre on Feb. 5, 1908. It ran to the end of March of that year. See notice above.

F. T. P. (Watford).—Miss Lottie Collins sang "Ta-ra-ra Boomdeay" at the Tivoli in the first week of November, 1891, and appeared on Boxing Night in the same year at the Grand, Islington, as Alice Fitzwarren in Geoffrey Thorn's pantomime Dick Whittington, in which the success of the number was repeated.

T. W. Y.—Have you had any training in elocution, gesture, or deportment? Have you any special gifts that impel you towards the stage? These are the first questions we would ask you before any advice can possibly be given. The theatrical profession is, as you know, overcrowded, and even actors and actresses of experience find it most difficult to obtain engagements. There must be something more than desire—there must be fitness, there must be personality, and there must be magnetism if success is to be won.

DEATHS.

CLIFTON.—Feb. 27, of paralysis, Harriet Clifton, aged 63.

HARWOOD.—Feb. 20, at Newcastle-on-Tyne, Robb Harwood, aged 40.

KIRBY.—Feb. 28, at 14, Gladstone-street, London, S.E., Hartwell J. Kirby, of Bright's disease, after much suffering.

IN MEMORIAM.

BROWN.—In loving memory of Henry Brown (Shakespearean jester), who died March 4, 1902. Never forgotten by his widow and family.

LARKIN.—In loving memory of Harriett Larkin (Miss Harriett Clifton), who passed away at 6, Albion-terrace, Dalston, on Feb. 27, aged 63.

LEYTON.—In cherished memory of my only and beloved son, Sydney Leyton, who died of pneumonia, at Liverpool, on March 5, 1909. Born April 11, 1870. "Jesu, mercy."

NOYLE.—In ever loving memory of our darling mother, Olga Kate Noyle, who passed peacefully away Feb. 28, 1899. Ever mourned by her devoted daughters, Louise, Katie, Ruby, and Pearl. "There is a God of Pity, and Love, He knows best. Leave all to His compassion, and rest, my dear one, rest."

THORNE.—In ever-loving memory of our darling mother, Sarah Thorne, who passed away Feb. 27, 1899. Always missed.

BIRTHDAYS OF THE WEEK.

We wish Many Happy Returns of the Day to the following ladies and gentlemen:—

Fewlass Llewellyn—Saturday, March 5.
Harry Bawn—Saturday, March 5.
Arthur Slater—Sunday, March 6.
Will Bishop—Sunday, March 6.
Charles Cartwright—Monday, March 7.
Florence St. John—Tuesday, March 8.
James Skea—Wednesday, March 9.
David Collins—Thursday, March 10.
Edward Terry—Thursday, March 10.
Basil Gill—Thursday, March 10.
Joseph William John Webb—Friday, March 11.

MME. ELLA RUSSELL, the famous operatic prima donna, who is making her first appearance on the variety stage, is the principal newcomer to the Coliseum on Monday. Although America has not produced many great composers, that country at least has given us many sweet singers, of whom Mme. Russell is assuredly the most popular.

A NEW turn at the Empress, Brixton, this week is the Romantiques, a quartet of refined vaudeville entertainers who give practically what may be considered an excerpt from a musical comedy. Three gentlemen in court costume and refined appearance support Miss Dorothy Evans, a lady who sings charmingly and dances rhythmically. Miss Evans sings "The man in the moon," which is accompanied by her companions with an earhaunting humming refrain; then Mr. Reginald Thomas, a capable young baritone, gives "You and the girl you love," and Mr. Harry Lea (comedian) follows with "I'm running after Nancy." The song is amplified by the members of the quartet giving a kind of running chorus; this is the finale to a very successful act. Mr. Carlton Lee gives excellent support.

THEATRICAL ACCOUNTS FOR BUSINESS MANAGERS.

How the Affairs of a Theatre can be most Efficiently Controlled by the Adoption of Systems of Internal Check

By CUTHBERT E. SMEDLEY, Chartered Accountant.

Price, 3/6. Post free, 3/9.

All concerned with the business side of a theatre will find much useful information and many valuable hints in "Theatrical Accounts for Business Managers," by Mr. Cuthbert E. Smedley, published at The Era office.—Referee, Jan. 31, 1909.

"Theatrical Accounts," by Cuthbert E. Smedley (The Era, Ltd., 3s. 6d.), shows how the affairs of a theatre can be most efficiently controlled by the adoption of systems of internal check. Specimen pages of the books to be kept are given. Receipts, tours, book-keeping, and accounts, audit—each is allotted a separate chapter. In the appendix is given "a form of agreement with artists for touring engagements."—Morning Post, Jan. 27, 1909.

"Theatrical Accounts" (The Era, Ltd., 5, Tavistock-street, W.C.), we should say, is a very useful compilation for business-managers of our places of amusement. It is practical, exact, and analytical; it should stop leakages, and needs only good houses to keep it fully employed.—Sportsman, Feb. 8, 1909.

"Theatrical Accounts for Business Managers," by Cuthbert E. Smedley, A.C.A. (3s 6d., The Era, Ltd., 5, Tavistock-street, W.C.). The work of accountants has now been brought to a fine art, and in almost every branch of business a different system has been elaborated. The present work deals in a small compass fully and clearly with all the special features of theatrical management on the business side.—Financial Times, Feb. 1, 1909.

Skeleton schemes of book-keeping, &c., with explanations, showing how the affairs of a theatre can be efficiently managed by the adoption of systems of internal check in all departments. Contains also a draft agreement as between manager and artist.—Birmingham Daily Post, Jan. 27, 1909.

1910—THE ERA ANNUAL—1910

PRESS OPINIONS.

DAILY TELEGRAPH, Feb. 2, 1910.
Once more "The Era" Annual justifies its claim to a place which is unique in the theatrical literature of the year. It contains a record of all the new plays and important revivals produced at the London theatres and in the provinces during the twelve months ending Nov. 30 last, arranged in two lists, one according to the theatres and the other alphabetically according to titles. Then another carefully compiled section gives the casts concerned in these productions. The principal sketches put on at the London and provincial variety houses are treated in the same thoroughgoing manner, and lists of the plays produced in Paris, Berlin, and New York complete a remarkably comprehensive survey of the doings of the theatrical year. It will be clearly seen, therefore, that to the "profession," the student, and the theatrical enthusiast "The Era" Annual is indispensable. But the casual reader is also skilfully catered for in the series of articles and stories contributed by many favourites of the stage, including Sir Herbert Tree, Mr. Rutland Barrington, Mr. Dan Rolyat, Miss Louie Freear, and Miss Vesta Tilley. No conscientious theatre-goer can do without his "Era" Annual.

THE ROAD, February, 1910.
"The Era" Annual for 1910, illustrated (1s., The Era Office), always one of the best theatrical volumes of the year, this time excels itself. It gives a dramatic and musical calendar (each day recalling some event of importance in corresponding years); a number of short stories, each by some well-known actor or acting-manager; new plays and important revivals in London and suburban houses for 1909; the same in the provinces; an alphabetical list of plays, both London and provincial, for the whole year; the casts of new plays; plays produced in New York; new pieces at the Paris theatres; the same at Berlin; principal sketches at London variety houses, and casts thereof; separate lists of theatres and music halls in the United Kingdom; a theatrical, musical, and equestrian obituary; and, last and saddest, the deaths of the year illustrated, brought down to so late a date that it includes photos of Mr. E. H. Carpenter, who died on Dec. 23, and Mme. Meta Illing, who died on Dec. 26 last past. It is a veritable mine of information between two covers, and makes us wonder how so many valuable facts can be published at the low price charged for this. Our sincere congratulations to the editor and publisher thereof.

MORNING ADVERTISER, Jan. 20, 1910.
"The Era" Annual (price 1s.) is always welcome in stageland and among the theatre-goers. This year's issue maintains the reputation of the publication for amusing reading and useful information. A number of lively contributions from well-known actors and actresses fill nearly half its pages, and the rest of the book is devoted to particulars as to the new plays and revivals of the year 1909, a list of theatres in the United Kingdom, and a full obituary list of artists who, having "fretted their hour upon the stage," are heard no more. "The Era" Annual is an invaluable reference book to all concerned with the stage.

REFEREE, Jan. 30 1910.
About this time of year players and playgoers alike begin to look for the works of theatrical reference to which they are accustomed. Again we welcome that old-established useful shillingsworth, "The Era" Annual, or "Almanac" as it was wont to be called. As of yore, "The Era" Annual contains articles, anecdotes, and pictures galore, Sir Herbert Tree (with portrait) leading off with that new Shakespearean conundrum, "Where was the Old Globe Playhouse?" Among other well-known people contributing are Messrs. Fred Terry, Willie Clarkson, Rutland Barrington, J. H. Barnes, John Le Hay, Harry Nicholls, John Lawson, Charles Collette, Arthur Williams, Alfred Lester, Dan Rolyat, and Henry Neville. The lady story-tellers include Louie Freear, Vesta Tilley, and Miss Edith Cole. The lists of new plays in London and the provinces, Paris, New York, and Berlin, and the catalogue of new sketches (with casts thereof) are admirably compiled.

THE FINANCIER, Jan. 20, 1910.
"The Era" Dramatic and Musical Annual (5, Tavistock-street, Strand, 1s.), is a full and accurate record of the past year's productions and a calendar of theatrical events. It also contains a feature of wide public interest—namely, "Stories Told by Well-Known People." The story-tellers are, for the most part, the bright, particular stars of the stage, whose recollections, sketches and poetic interludes—these last by Messrs. J. H. Barnes, Charles Collette, and Tom Craven—are likely to command wide attention. The Rev. T. Horne, chaplain of the Showmen's Guild, also contributes an in memoriam tribute entitled "Faithful Unto the End." The opening contribution is by Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, and deals with the problem concerning the site of the old Globe playhouse of Shakespeare's day.

FINANCIAL TIMES, Jan. 24, 1910.
"The Era" Annual, 1910, 1s., 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C. As usual, this well-known annual of the theatrical profession contains a complete record of the plays and sketches produced during the year, in this country and abroad, a record, with photographs, of stage celebrities whose deaths have taken place during the period, directories of theatres and music-halls in the United Kingdom and a well-arranged dramatic and musical calendar. The ever-popular series of good stories told by well-known people, and illustrated by the author's photographs and autographs, is led off this time by Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, with "Where was the old Globe Playhouse?" and the reputation this symposium has gained for humour and wit is thoroughly maintained. The Annual will make a strong appeal, not only to members of the profession, but to all theatre lovers.

EVENING NEWS, Feb. 9, 1910.
"The Era" Annual, issued at a shilling, has been complied with care and is replete with interest for all concerned in the personalities and the events of stageland. In addition to the diaries of theatrical productions, there are short stories and reminiscences by well-known actors and actresses. This section is led by Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, who raises again the disputed site of the old Globe playhouse. The latter part of the book deals with the deaths of the year, with excellent photographs of the artists who have passed away.

SUNDAY TIMES, Jan. 23, 1910.
"The Era" Annual (1s.) continues to swell in bulk. In addition to the dramatic and musical calendar, are alphabetical lists and full casts of the new plays and important revivals produced in London, New York, Paris, and Berlin, and of new sketches in London and the provinces, there is a series of stories by well-known members of the profession with portraits and autographs of the authors. Sir Herbert Tree answers the question, "Where was the old Globe Playhouse?" and other contributors include Mr. Fred Terry, Mr. John Le Hay, Mr. Arthur Williams, Mr. Dan Rolyat, Mr. J. H. Barnes, Mr. Harry Nicholls, Mr. Will Clarkson, Miss Louie Freear, and Miss Vesta Tilley.

PELICAN, Jan. 27, 1910.
"The Era" Annual is full of interesting matter from cover to cover to all who are in any way connected with the theatrical profession. To familiar "Era" Almanack features are added stories by well-known members of the Profession, and there is a very interesting series of portraits of the many well-known actors and actresses who have died within the past twelve months, starting off with an admirable and characteristic picture of dear old Lal Brough. Mr. Pedgrift is to be congratulated upon a shillingsworth of characteristic excellency.

YORKSHIRE POST, Feb. 2, 1910.
"The Era" Dramatic and Musical Annual (The Era Office, 1s.) as usual contains stories and short articles by many well-known people of the stage, in addition to a list of London and provincial productions in 1909, and many other items of interest to the theatrical world.

THE ERA

SATURDAY, MARCH 5, 1910.

MR. JONES ON LICENSING.

Mr. HENRY ARTHUR JONES means well and speaks well; but he is apt to be unpractical. On the platform he is most persuasive, but he is inclined to be a theorist, not a practical politician. In England we are fond of discussing things; the only trouble is that so often nothing follows the discussion. "I thought he had said what he ought to have said, and I com'd away," says TENNYSON'S Northern Farmer of the parson's sermon; and the same delight in rhetoric and dislike to acting up to logical conclusions distinguish the whole of the Anglo-Saxon race. We discuss the abolition of the Censorship, but the Censorship remains unabolished. We proclaim in impassioned words the advent of a National Theatre; but, without prejudice or any desire to throw cold water on a grand idea, we must confess that it is "a long time coming." It would almost seem that the more a matter is talked about the more likely it is to remain unchanged.

The intellectual temperament cannot be content with anything less than logic and symmetry; and the English are the most illogical and unsymmetrical nation on earth. The British Constitution is a mass of inconsistencies and absurdities; but, to judge by the recent elections at any rate, at least half of the population are averse from altering it. Our laws affecting the licensing of amusements are most complicated. Mr. JONES enumerates twelve different forms of licensing; but many years ago Mr. JOHN HOLLINGSHEAD exhausted all his eloquence on the obvious absurdities of the system. Yet who suffers, and who cares?

Said Mr. JONES in his speech: "If Sir HERBERT TREE wished to give a high-class entertainment at His Majesty's—say, an entertainment consisting of a troupe of five dancers, a song by a prima donna, a solo by a violinist, and a play of an hour in the middle—and you may judge what a high-class artistic variety entertainment Sir HERBERT would give you—if he did that, he would be liable to prosecution." But the point is that Sir HERBERT TREE does not want to give a variety entertainment at His Majesty's. He is in a similar position to the scholar in the garret, who, when told that there was not room in the apartment to swing a cat, replied that he never desired to do so. Mr. JONES'S speech was a model of eloquence, but he "gave the whole show away" when he touched on the only really important matter: the opinions of the theatrical and music-hall managers. The idea that the general public is interested in this question is utterly without foundation. The general public is perfectly content with the present state of things. If a demonstration in favour of a single licence were announced to be held in Hyde Park, the grass would show no signs of trampling on the morrow. The theatrical managers, as Sir HERBERT says, desire to remain under the control of the Lord Chamberlain; and, as Mr. JONES admits, the music-hall managers are opposed to the single licence. To quote from Mr. JONES'S address: "The music-hall managers seem now to be protesting against the only common-sense and fair-play settlement of the difficulty, namely, one uniform licence for theatre and music hall, with permission to the manager to allow smoking if he thinks it advisable. The music-hall managers object to that. They wish to have the right of producing plays of thirty or forty minutes' or an hour's duration, but apparently they do not wish that the theatres should have the right of producing dances, songs, and other items of high-class variety entertainment. The music-hall managers have not, so far as I am aware, given any valid reason for their opposition to the one and uniform licence. Such reasons as they have given seem to me to be wholly vague and unsustainable, and wear the aspect of being dictated by considerations of their own personal profit." We fail to see why the reasons of the music-hall managers should not be so dictated. The business of amusement is like any other business—playwriting, for instance; it is carried on for profit. If the music-hall managers do not want the single licence, and the theatrical managers are not asking for it, and the artists are uncertain, and the general public is absolutely apathetic, the only conclusion to be drawn is that suggested by Lord MELBOURNE'S celebrated query, "Can't you let it alone?" Who would be free themselves must strike the blow; and it is useless to endeavour to talk people into wanting what they do not want, or to agitate them about something to which they are indifferent. The theatrical managers, as a body, do not want smoking and drinking in their auditoriums; the music-hall managers know very well that the popularity of their entertainments is based on their disconnected and various character; a modus vivendi has been arrived at, and Box and Cox appear, on the whole, to be satisfied. "The music-hall managers," says Mr. JONES, "must be very firmly asked to state their reasons." Mr. OSWALD STOLL and Mr. HENRI GROS have already done so, and we need not weary our readers by recapitulating the excellent arguments of these important and representative gentlemen. Indeed, it appears that, for the present at least, discussion of the question might as well be dropped. It seems pretty certain that no drastic legislation will take place in connection with the matter for a long time. The vis inertia which is the distinctive quality of the race, except when roused to indignation and excitement, and the practice of "shelving" which is usually followed in the case of independent Bills unless strenuously and generally supported, may be trusted to keep things in statu quo for years to come.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

M. Debussy's L'Enfant Prodigue, in French, was produced for the first time in England at Covent Garden on Monday night, being followed by Humperdinck's opera Hänsel and Gretel. M. Debussy's charming little "scène lyrique" was composed in 1884, gained the Prix de Rome, and some twenty years after heard as a cantata, and sung at the Sheffield Festival. Although not to be compared to the esteemed French composer's Pelleas et Mélisande, there is some pleasing and graceful music in L'Enfant Prodigue. Eastern in local colouring, and thoroughly French in feeling and treatment, the little work, barely lasting an hour in performance, closely follows the beautiful original story. Azael is the prodigal son, and Simeon and Lia the father and mother. Mr. M. D'Oisly successfully undertook the part of Azael, and Miss Perceval Allen sang Lia's music with expression, charm, and sentiment; while Mr. Alfred Kaufmann as the Father did all that was possible for the character. The scenery was effective, and the orchestra played Debussy's music with refinement. The revival of Humperdinck's delightful fairy opera, Hänsel and Gretel, is a very welcome feature of Mr. Thomas Beecham's season, and the performance (in English) on Monday night proved excellent. Miss Muriel Terry made an ideal Hänsel, and sang and acted with great spirit. Admirable also was Miss Ruth Vincent as Gretel, and well suited in the music of the part. Mr. Harry Dearth made a capital Peter, alike good in his acting and the skilful use of a really fine voice. Miss Christine D'Almayne played the Mother; and Miss Carrie Tubb as the Witch displayed marked ability by her grotesque and weird performance of this character. As the Sandman Miss Rosina Benyon deserved hearty praise for her singing; and the little part of Dewman was ably undertaken by Miss Betty Booker. The beautiful scene in the forest where the angels descend and group themselves round the sleeping children proved as impressive as usual. Mr. Percy Pitt conducted both operas, and the large audience gave an enthusiastic welcome to Hänsel and Gretel.

Miss Ethel Smyth's opera The Wreckers was performed at Covent garden for the first time on Tuesday night. When produced at His Majesty's Theatre last summer Miss Smyth's opera aroused considerable interest, and one performance was given by command of the King. The subject of the libretto is quite English, and deals with the old Cornish wreckers on the coast luring, by means of false beacons, ships to their destruction on the wild, rocky shore of Cornwall. At the time of its performance at His Majesty's Theatre, many of the scenes proved unduly long, and Miss Smyth was, by all competent judges, strongly advised to curtail and condense her plot, and so make the opera more dramatic. On Tuesday night, however, nothing seems to have been done in this direction, and the large stage of Covent Garden only made the need of condensation more apparent. In the chief scene, where the hero, at the risk of his life from the enraged wreckers, lights a true beacon to warn passing ships, operatic as well as dramatic effect would have greatly gained by unsparing cuts, and the last act of the opera, when the lovers are locked in the cave to perish by the rising tide, made far more impressive by the same treatment. By her clever scoring for the orchestra, Miss Smyth displays great talent, and the music on several occasions is admirably fitted to the dramatic situations. The performance was generally excellent. Miss Edyth Walker, as might be expected, made a splendid Thirza, while M. Koubitzky sang the music of Mark with purity of voice and considerable charm. Herr Weldemann proved a very impressive Pascoe, and Miss Edith Evans was excellent in the part of Avice. Mr. Dilion Shallard's Lawrence was effective, and Miss Betty Booker gave a capital performance of the boy Jack. Harvey and Tallen were played by Mr. Frederick Ranalow and Mr. Byndon-Ayres. The chorus sang finely, and the conductor, Mr. Bruno Walter, did all that was possible for the score. At the close the composer was called on and well received.

They Would Laugh.

"How can any play be decently performed," says Mr. Bernard Shaw in the Daily Mail, "when the actors have to wait for two minutes between every sentence while the audience makes a disturbance? Of course, one likes to see them enjoying themselves; but they lose a great deal by it. In the modern drama, laughter and tears come together; if you guffaw at a joke, you may profane a deep stroke of pathos. In Berlin, where my plays are an institution, the audience sits in silence."

"ACTORS need no encouragement by applause. They are serious artists doing serious service to the community, and practising a high profession. Bishops preach without applause. Barristers plead without applause. I can write a play without applause. Do you think actors cannot act it under the same conditions? Applaud as much as you like when the curtain comes down, and show your sincerity by coming again; but don't interrupt a work of art like the performance of a play any more than you would interrupt a symphony or a church service."

Princess Stephanie	MISS ISABEL JAY

The atmosphere of that newly-discovered country Balaria is exhilarating indeed. Here most of the inhabitants seem to consider themselves favoured rather than otherwise by the "rule absolute" of that pretty tyrant, the Princess Stephanie. She is not in any way harsh or capricious when we first see her—only pensive, and wondering at the outcome of the strange decree that is to determine her future. Love has not yet entered her heart, yet she has to choose a husband by midnight on a certain date or abdicate. There are restrictions, too, in her choice. She must find a partner among the six tallest dukes who own her sway. When ordered up for inspection one of them is missing. This is Sergius, who heartily sympathises with the proletariat, and thinks his chief offence is "rank." At any rate, his writings have fostered discontent, and being something of a revolutionary—like his father, who was banished from the Court—he objects to be trotted up for inspection. The quintet of aspirants to the hand of the Princess in turn boast of their wealth and advantages, but she is curious to meet the Duke Sergius. He interests her, and she determines that he shall not escape her fascinations.

In the second act we find her in very mixed company at the Bohemian Restaurant, where she is dining incognita. It is unnecessary to say that Sergius, on seeing her, is at once enslaved by her charms, and engages himself to her for every dance in the adjacent ballroom. Sofia, a former sweetheart of Sergius, becomes jealous of her rival, is determined to put an end to her lover's infatuation; and, learning the identity of the new favourite, suggests to the Duke that he shall drink the old toast, "Down with the Princess Stephanie!" Just as he is about to do so, the Princess declares herself, and in a flash of indignation orders his arrest. This forms an excellent finale to the second act. In the last it only remains for the lovers to come together. But she signs away the throne, and thus once again becomes the simple girl with whom Sergius fell in love at the restaurant. Such self-sacrifice appeals to him, and he is more than ever infatuated. He tears up the deed of abdication; Stephanie no longer resists the promptings of her heart; and the two will rule together. There is an under-plot that concerns the escapades of Max Hein, who calls himself Prince Boris of Matalia, and his confederate, Blatz, who plot with the Palace charwoman, Magda, to steal the Princess's jewels. Magda's long-lost husband turns out to be the comic waiter, Henri, who is so much in evidence in the Restaurant Scene.

Of the beauty of the new Princess's entourage there can be no question, and her fascinations and vivacity are bound to increase nightly. Mr. Frederick Lonsdale, the author of King of Cadonia and The Early Worm, whose name is bracketed with Mr. Frank Curzon, has invented an ingenious plot, which is not lost sight of, as is customary in musical plays, and his dialogue is often smart. He contrives, too, a really dramatic situation at the end of the second act, by far the strongest of the three. Mr. Paul Rubens, a past-master of tuneful jingle, is responsible for a capitally-written finale to the first act, and two numbers stand out from the rest by their engaging qualities, and these are "A wonderful world" and "When a man is a man." Mr. Arthur Wimperis, we shrewdly suspect, is responsible for the verses of the topical song that comes almost at the conclusion. It is entitled "A hard life," and is sung with immense success by Mr. James Blakeley, who, as the waiter, Henri, may be said to provide fun à la carte, with a capital choice of entrées. Mr. Lauri de Frece, who secured a position as a West End low comedian by his capital performance in Amasis a year or two since, plays the part of Blatz, a variant of the famous character Jacques Strop, and a replica almost of the character of Cadeau in Erminie, though more up to date. Blatz has an innocent partner in his larcenous intentions in Magda, the char lady who cleans out the room where the jewels are kept, and the association with Magda, as the palace cleaner is called, leads to a piquant duet and dance in the second act, "Lady and Gentleman," in which Miss Mabel Sealby, delightfully defiant and dainty, scores one of the hits of the evening, the final dance with Mr. de Frece being enthusiastically encored. Mr. Charles Brown as that most plausible humbug Max Hein plays in a gay, light-hearted fashion that is most effective. Mr. Bertram Wallis and Miss Isabel Jay, as in King of Cadonia, are again hero and heroine. Both are happily placed. Miss Jay is duly imperious and agreeably sarcastic in her manner in the interview in the first act with the rejected grand dukes, but in the second shows unmistakably the subtle influence of love on Stephanie's woman's heart. She sings with her customary charm "Wonderful world" and other numbers allotted to her. Mr. Bertram Wallis as that most reckless of Bohemians, Duke Sergius, sings with insouciance and abandon the number "You dear, delightful women." He becomes more serious in "When a man is a man," which has a fine swing and an inspiriting melody. Mr. William Lugg as the Balarian Prime Minister has the grace of a courtier and the savair faire of a diplomat. Miss Mabel Green expresses with a vein of seriousness the affection of Sofia for the fickle Duke Sergius, her clever acting adding to the effect of the dramatic situation at the end of the second act. Miss Hazel Dawn makes an attractive Olga. Mr. Ridgwell Cullum is a smart, soldierly Captain Radomir; Mr. C. Morton Horne, Mr. Norman Blume, recently one of the Follies, Mr. Peter Blunt, and Mr. Barry Neame, play small parts with considerable cleverness; and Miss Margaret Ismay, Miss Madge Kirkham, Miss Peggy Lorraine, Miss Babs Capelle, and Miss Sylvia Beresford add to the gaieties of the scenes at the Bohemian Restaurant. Mr. Joseph Harker is responsible for the beautiful garden set of the last act, in which the stage, overarched with the hanging blossoms of laburnum, becomes a dainty pleasaunce. The uniforms and dresses, designed by Percy Anderson, are strikingly handsome. Mr. I. de Orellana ably conducts the music, and Mr. Fred Farren has arranged the dances.

MISS FRANCES ALDA, the fiancée of Signor Gatti Casazza, the director of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, was seized with internal pains while singing in Otello on Monday evening. After the curtain fell she was carried to her room, and at three o'clock on Wednesday morning an operation for appendicitis was performed.

MISS LILA FIELD'S MATINEE.

Miss Lila Field gave her second dramatic and musical matinée at the Playhouse on Thursday. The programme included a new comedietta in one act by Lila Field, entitled

"PLAIN FARE."

Lady Vane-Rivers	MISS MARIE ILLINGTON
Wyorne	MISS ERNESTINE BOWES-LYON
Hector Graham	MR. F. KINSEY PEILE

This playlet, we understand, had only previously been represented at a drawing-room performance. The scene is Lady Vane-Rivers' boudoir in her house at Kew. Staying with her ladyship is her niece Wyorne, and her aunt, a widow, is extremely anxious that the young girl should not miss any chance of getting married. Wyorne, however, informs her aunt that she has not yet met her ideal in husbands—he must be a man who allows her to have her own way. She is not inclined to marry Hector Graham, who is middle-aged, and prefers a substantial dinner at home to dining at fashionable and crowded restaurants. The conversation is interrupted by the arrival of the gentleman. Wyorne does not favour him long with her company, as she is going out to pay a call, and leaves the visitor and her aunt together. She frankly gives him to understand that she is anxious to find a husband for her niece, as Wyorne is one of some half-dozen nieces whose mother relies upon her to get them comfortably settled in life. Mr. Graham just as frankly admits that he has no intention of asking the girl to marry him, and describes the kind of woman whom he would choose for a wife. And then, without receiving any encouragement from the widow, but rather the contrary, he makes it plain that it is she who realises his ideal of a wife, and the lady finally approves his preference for plain fare. Miss Marie Illington was delightfully natural and piquant in her embodiment of the widow who has long since left behind the age of romance, Miss Ernestine Bowes-Lyon was a pleasing and attractive Wyorne, and Mr. F. Kinsey-Peile did well as the middle-aged Hector Graham.

There was also produced a new one-act fairy play by Lila Field, entitled

"THE GOLDFISH."

King Star Fish	MISS IRENE VALERIE HYMAN
King Gold Fish	MISS JULIA LANDAU
Queen of the Anemones	MISS ALMA SAMUEL
Amber Fairy	MISS MARGARET LANDAU
Sea Nymph	MISS NELLIE BLACKFORD
Pearl Fairy	MISS RENE MAYER
MORTALS.
Kitty	MISS MAXINE HYMAN
Dolly	MISS VERA LE FLEMMING

Miss Field's fairy play served as a medium for the introduction of a series of songs and dances by well-trained little girls. The story itself was not easy to follow, but with the exception of two all the characters were fairies, sea nymphs, and other "immortals," and on an August afternoon at sunset these beings disport themselves on a secluded portion of the beach at Little Sunny Cove, a seaside resort. But the first arrivals here are two little girls, Kitty and Dolly, who have managed to escape from the custody of their French teacher, who has, it seems, a great admiration for the conductor of the band on the promenade. There are a King Star Fish and a King Gold Fish, a Queen of the Anemones, an Amber Fairy, a Sea Nymph, and a Pearl Fairy, and they spend their time in singing and dancing, until the revels are interrupted by the return of Kitty and Dolly. Miss Maxine Hyman, a very little girl, was quaint and amusing in the part of Kitty, and spoke her lines with remarkable distinctness; Miss Vera Le Flemming was excellent as Dolly, sang sweetly, and danced in dainty style; Miss Rene Mayer also made a favourable impression as the Pearl Fairy, and Misses Irene Valerie Hyman as King Star Fish, Julia Landau as King Gold F'sh, Alma Samuel as Queen of the Anemones, Margaret Landau as the Amber Fairy, and Nellie Blackford as Sea Nymph all did well, considering their extreme youth. The play was produced by Miss Lila Field and Mr. Clarence Derwent.

Earlier in the afternoon Mr. F. Kinsey Peile's comedietta, Money and the Girl, was played. The author was good in the part of Jack Trefusis; Mr. David Darrell did well as Charley Constable, and Mr. Sidney Buckland represented the butler, Simpson. In a "dance idyll," by Newman Harding, music by G. W. Byng, Miss Christine Helga as a Greek girl and Miss Elise as a Greek boy gave a graceful display of dancing. Miss René Mayer was also applauded for a pas seul, "Danse de Feu," and Miss Christine Helga for a fascination dance, "Caressante." Miss Bertha Scholefield sang "a second sheaf of little songs" by Robert Coningsby Clarke, accompanied by the composer, and later she gave three songs by Herbert Bunning, each of her contributions being received with applause. The programme opened with a selection by Mr. Harold Robertson Grimston's orchestra. Mr. P. Mavor-Ibbs acted as accompanist at the piano.

"Strife" in the Provinces.

MR. FRANZ BENTZ writes to the Daily News with reference to Mr. Frederick Whelen's interesting lecture, entitled "An Optimist on the Theatre": "I fully and freely admit there are those who thoroughly enjoy a Shakespearean play—we have had ample evidence of this during the run of The Merchant of Venice here—but the great public do not seem to exhibit any overwhelming desire to see Shakespeare acted, despite the care and expense devoted by Mr. Arthur Phillips to its revival.

"CAN Mr. Whelen explain this? Nearly twelve months back Mr. John Galsworthy's wonderfully fine play Strife took London by storm. I had the good fortune to go on tour with it in the provinces, and in every town, without exception, we lost money, and lost heavily: the provincials would not look at it. It is a pretty long jump from William Shakespeare to John Galsworthy; but both playwrights, I have no doubt, have written with the object of elevating public taste, and the lamentable fact—yet to be faced—is that the public do not desire elevating: it is quite satisfied at being amused."

Rachel at Windsor.

MLLE. VALENTINE THOMSON, the latest of Mme. Rachel's biographers, has published in her new book some interesting letters of Rachel's. In one of these the actress says:—"Oh, my triumph at Windsor! At nine at night a beautiful carriage came to convey me the short distance from my hotel to the Castle. Windsor, it is a palace of the Arabian Nights. There was a dinner of a hundred guests. So I spent the interval in wandering about the galleries. At ten the Queen was announced. Entering slowly, she glanced with a charming smile at every side of the assembled company, and sat down. After they were all seated I awaited Her Majesty's orders.

Queen and Actress.

"A TALL, lean man came up to me. He was the Chamberlain, who whispered to me, in indifferent French, that the Queen wished me to begin. I was seized with stage fright, but it was a case of do or die. And so I started with the second act of Bajazet. The last piece I played during the brilliant evening was from the third act of Marie Stuart, which charmed the young Queen exceedingly. She herself, sending for me, told me so, and there and then presented me with a very pretty bracelet, with her own name and the date engraved upon it."

OUR correspondent for Gateshead last week, in noticing the King's Theatre, omitted the name of Wisper, the Comedy Kid Juggler.

SUNDAY ENTERTAINMENTS.

THE "SUNDAY DEFENCE COMMITTEE."

The four Societies which recently addressed the Theatres Committee of the London County Council on the question of their regulations affecting Sunday entertainments have lost no time in completing an organisation for the protection of the interests of their members and to avert the development of entertainments on Sunday.

The situation is somewhat peculiar. The L.C.C. committee are relying upon the public and societies interested to protest against an abuse of their regulations. Already a large number of picture theatres are open, ostensibly for the benefit of some society or fund, but the representatives of the "Sunday Defence Committee" are of opinion that the regulations are not being observed in the letter or the spirit. For instance, it is contended that an arrangement by which a society secures a percentage, suggested at 25 per cent., of the gross takings, is not in accordance with the regulations, but rather indicates a co-partnership between the management and the society. Such an arrangement cannot effectively give the society the control in the selection of the staff required, their number, or their remuneration, or give any satisfactory guarantee that members of the staff employed on week-days are not subject to pressure to work on Sundays.

On Wednesday afternoon representatives of the Variety Artists' Federation (Messrs. Clemart and Coborn), the Actors' Association (Mr. Duncan Young, secretary), the Amalgamated Musicians' Union (Messrs. J. B. Williams and C. Jesson), the National Association of Theatrical Employees (William Johnson), and the Variety Artists' Benevolent Fund Committee, met at the Musicians' Union Club, 9, Great Newport-street, to consider certain proposals that had been submitted to their various executive committees. Mr. W. H. Clemart, the newly-elected chairman of the Variety Artists' Federation, was elected chairman. It was decided to form a joint committee, to be known as the "Sunday Defence Committee," and its objects, as agreed to, are as follows:—

1. To secure the strict observance of the L.C.C. regulations relating to Sunday entertainments on premises licensed by the London County Council, where entertainments of any character are given on a Sunday, by whomsoever such entertainments may be organised.

2. To urge the licensing authorities throughout the United Kingdom to adopt and enforce regulations similar to those of the L.C.C. as a condition of a licence for premises used for dramatic or variety performances, the exhibition of animated pictures, or any other class of entertainment.

3. To urge that the L.C.C. and all other licensing authorities shall demand, before permission is given, that a copy of any agreement between any manager of such licensed premises and any society giving an entertainment on Sunday, a statement of accounts for any such entertainment, or series of entertainments, shall be supplied monthly to such licensing authority, and be open to the inspection of the public.

4. To take steps to secure the incorporation of these regulations into any Act of Parliament affecting the licence of any place of public entertainment.

5. That each society represented on this joint committee shall give an undertaking not to give, organise, or support any entertainment on a Sunday on licensed premises contrary to the L.C.C. regulations, or under conditions detrimental to the interests of the members of any of the above societies.

6. That it be agreed none of the above societies shall give Sunday entertainments before reporting same to this committee.

7. That in order to avert developments that may tend to create a demand for Sunday entertainments or the evasion of the L.C.C. regulations, it shall be one of the objects of this committee to make thorough inquiries into the bond-fides of any society whose name is used in connection with Sunday entertainments.

Mr. William Johnson, general secretary of the National Association of Theatrical Employees, of 29, Wellington-street, Strand, W.C., was elected hon. secretary to the "Sunday Defence Committee."

It has been decided to invite eminent representatives of the Church, the Legislature, the dramatic and variety professions, and others to become vice-presidents of the committee.

The next meeting will be on Thursday, at twelve o'clock, in the Board Room of the Musicians' Club, 9, Great Newport-street. The committee will be glad to have information as to the entertainments given on Sunday in any part of the United Kingdom.

A circular letter has been addressed, on behalf of the Joint Committee, to all candidates seeking election to the London County Council, asking them, if elected, if they will support the regulations now in force affecting entertainments on Sundays on licensed premises. A large number of favourable replies have been received by Mr. Wm. Johnson.

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

An interesting concert was given on Wednesday evening by the students of the Guildhall School. Miss Dorothy Axtell played two piano solos, Chopin's Nocturne in F sharp and "Merry-making" (Home Scenes), a lively and pleasing composition by Mr. J. F. Barnett. In "I am a roamer," from Mendelssohn's "Son and Stranger," Mr. Sidney Peck displayed no little talent, and Miss F. Blaikley can be warmly commended for her singing of Lully's "Bois épais." Hearty applause and three recalls were given to Miss Pattie L. Norris for her clever performance of Rhapsodie Hongroise No. 14 (Liszt), while Miss Jessie Willis, another pianist, played MacDowell's "Nautilus" and the spirited "Aufschwung" of Schumann with much ability. Mr. Reginald Crawford, the school (tenor) prize winner, sang "Moon and sea" (Phillips) and "The first farewell" (Thomson) with excellent expression and clear enunciation, and was evidently able to do justice to far more difficult music, but the young artist should avoid mannerism in his singing. The Rita Mandoline Quintett, pupils of Mme. Waldahoff, appeared in picturesque costume, and played Persechini's "Remembranzi de Fiori" with capital execution and tone, and the audience were greatly pleased by Miss May Harding's rendering of "O flower of all the world" (Finden) and Löhr's lively song "The little Irish girl," in which Miss Harding was particularly successful. The only violin solo in the concert, Concerto No. 7 in G (De Beriot), was well played by Miss Mimi Brennand, a youthful violinist of the school. A comedietta in one act, A Woman Triumphant, by Mrs. Edward Norton, afforded variety to the programme, being well acted by Miss Dorothy Lucas and Miss Georgina Darby (pupils of Mr. George Cruikshanks), who appeared as Mrs. Arabella MacCaller and Mrs. Jack Soonert, the subject of the little sketch, of course, dealing with the faults of mere man. Miss Jenny Hyman was the accompanist.

THE Marseilles Municipal Opera House had to close its doors on Tuesday night on account of a strike of the musicians and scene-shifters. The musicians demand an increase of 10d. a day in their salaries, and, among other things, claim that no performance should last more than four hours. On Monday negotiations had been begun, but no agreement had been reached. The performance that night only took place thanks to a concession made by the strikers. On Wednesday negotiations fell through, and in the evening the opera house was closed.

A COPY of "THE ERA" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

Mr. Alfred Butt returned to England, home, and the Palace Theatre late on Thursday evening. He is full of new projects, and we may expect to hear very shortly further interesting particulars of the preferential bookings and interchange of attractions with the Orpheum Company and the United Vaudeville Circuit of America. There is, however, no truth in the rumour that the name of any new combine is to be "Hemispheres, Unlimited."

Mr. Alan Young, who has relinquished his position at the Moss and Stoll bureau at Cranbourn Mansions, has been replaced by Mr. Llewellyn Johns, the representative of the interests of the firm in the States. Mr. Johns, who was formerly private secretary to Mr. Oswald Stoll, has entered upon his new duties.

Mr. Fred Russell's term of office as honorary chairman of the Variety Artists' Federation expired on Monday. Chosen at one of the most stormy periods of the existence of the Federation, Mr. Russell has done much by his diplomacy and tact since taking office to lessen the width of the breach between proprietors, managers, and artists.

At the recent dinner in aid of the V.A.B.F. and the Benevolent Institution Mr. Joe Elvin referred to the magnificent sum that was secured for the Actors' Orphanage at the Theatrical Garden Party last summer. But that result was only obtained by the co-operation of every actor-manager in London with the members of the profession. At the principal music-hall functions nowadays proprietors are conspicuous only by their absence, and they contribute little or nothing to music hall charities. Mr. Oswald Stoll has led the way to a new entente; Mr. W. H. Broadhead has followed; Mr. Harry Bawn, proprietor of the Empire, Edmonton, is in practical sympathy with any charitable scheme for the poor variety artists; and it is hoped yet to have the co-operation between artists and proprietors to a much greater extent than is now the case.

Mr. Walter Gibbons's eventful career has been shortly reviewed in this week's London Opinion. Walter says he has been "cornering" artists—some of whom he has secured until 1920. This "corner" is, of course, only secured by handsome payments and square deals. He has his trusted experts scouring the provinces, the Continent, and the States, with special centres at Manchester, Liverpool, Leeds, Scotland, and Paris, all on the qui vive for new talent.

"Everything at my forty halls," he says, "is worked from my central offices, Randvoll House, 39, Charing Cross-road. For instance, we plan there, to within a minute or two, the exact time for the appearance of each of the turns at each of the houses. They say the entertaining business is highly speculative. Well, it may be so. But, assuming normal weather, I could tell you to within £20 the exact takings which will occur at each of my forty halls, and if there is any other business more steady and regular than that I should like to know of it."

It is announced that Adeline Genée—our Adeline—who has conquered at least several Empire cities by the grace of her pirouettes, is to be married to Mr. Frank Isitt, a personal friend of the Duke of Newcastle, in London during the first week in June. Mlle. Genée will close her American tour at St. Louis on May 21, and will go direct from St. Louis to London. She will return to America next August for a farewell tour, which will extend from New York to San Francisco, and then retire permanently from the stage.

Messages have been flashed across the Atlantic during the past few days with the view of persuading Adeline to put off the wedding ceremony until a later date than that now fixed, so that, if only for a week or two, she may delight her London admirers with an exhibition of her exquisite art.

Miss Louie Freear will make a notable re-appearance in London on Monday at the Hippodrome, at which she entertains for the first time. Miss Freear, who is in excellent voice, will appear in costume, to sing some of the clever, merry ditties which brought her world-wide fame.

Mr. G. H. Elliott, the chocolate-coloured coon has become such an immense favourite in Bristol that crowds follow him from the theatre and cheer him on his journey home. He has been organising successful entertainments at the workhouse and hospital, and appeared at the Theatre Royal at the benefit given there to Kitty Upton and Blanche Marion, the principal boy and girl. He had an enormous reception after singing "I used to sigh for the silvery moon"; but could not stay to do more as he had to get back to the Prince's.

Mr. Will Collins has launched a theatrical and variety exchange at Broadmead House, Panton-street, Haymarket, W., to which is attached a sumptuous reading and writing room for artists. Mr. Collins promises his clients that every detail as to their future, be it in England, on the Continent, in the Colonies, or elsewhere, will be made clear, and much friction between artists and managers thereby avoided. Mr. Collins's telephone number is Gerrard 9839.

Sir Herbert Tree writes:—"It will be remembered that the Select Committee of the Houses of Parliament recommended 'a single licence' for theatres and music halls. That recommendation was supported at a public meeting on Sunday by Mr. Henry Arthur Jones. As chairman of the meeting, I stated that I was entirely in favour of such legislation, which seems to be demanded, not only by the public, but also by the interests of the theatres and music halls. At the same time, I should like to make it clear that the majority of London managers (of whom I am one) desire that we should remain under the control of the Lord Chamberlain."

Exactly. That will be the difficulty of the one licence. Who is the licensing authority to be—the London County Council or the Lord Chamberlain? Is it to be either or neither? The L.C.C. have gained the confidence of the public by their administration founded on an experience of twenty-one years, and the beneficent rule of the Lord Chamberlain over the theatres is so generally acknowledged, that it need not here be insisted upon. With a statute embodying the principle of the double licence, both the L.C.C. and L.C. could deal as experts with theatres and halls in Central London. Licensing legislation in this form, too, would have the immense advantage of simplicity.

The Salambos will look back with immense pleasure to their engagement at Drury Lane Theatre, which terminates on Wednesday next, after 110 performances. Their wonderful electric act, with its clever diablerie has given the most original turn to the part of the Geni of the Lamp; and the uncanniness of Mr. Salambo's doings has been instrumental in realising the miraculous atmosphere of the immortal story of the gamin of Pekin. The Salambos sail for America on March 23. During their absence Mr. W. H. Armstrong, their solicitor, of 1, Renfrew-road, Lambeth, will look after their English business.

Eastham Ferry Pleasure Gardens and Hotel, on the Mersey are for sale. Particulars may be obtained by writing to George N. Dixon and Son, 89, Andover-street, Liverpool.

Mr. T. Gerald Morton, the district-manager of Yorkshire in the Moss-Stoll interests, was specially honoured at a farewell concert last week. He is relinquishing his position in May.

Mr. J. D. Askew, who has filled the post of stage-manager at the Palace, Carlisle, since it was first opened four years ago, has been appointed by Mr. Macnaghten to the general-managership, and now controls the whole house. Mr. Askew's never-failing courtesy, geniality, and business tact are freely acknowledged by the "Border City" playgoers, as well as the members of the profession.

At the adjourned annual licensing meeting for the city of Wakefield on Wednesday, Mr. H. Chalker applied on behalf of Mrs. Fanny Sherwood for an intoxicating drink licence in respect of the Empire, which was erected last year in Kirkgate at a cost of about £11,000. Two petitions, signed by a large number of people, favoured the application.

On behalf of the lessee of the Hippodrome it was contended that there was no necessity for a liquor licence, as in close proximity to the Empire were twenty-six public-houses. It was also pointed out that Mrs. Sherwood already had a drink licence in respect of the Wakefield Opera House. The Licensed Victuallers' Association also opposed, and in the result the Bench refused the application.

Mr. F. V. St. Clair appeared at the annual concert of the Whitchurch Church Lads' Brigade on Monday last, and was again given a cordial reception. He sang a special song composed by himself for the occasion, the lads appearing on the stage with him, and singing the chorus. The programme was carried out and managed by Capt. Lambert, D.S.O. Many of the aristocracy of the county were present.

After setting aside a sum to capital redemption fund and providing for depreciation and preliminary expenses, the directors of the Tynemouth Palace Co., Ltd., will recommend to the shareholders at the annual meeting a dividend of five per cent., free of income tax, for the year ending Dec. 31 last. The Palace Theatre and Skating Rink were opened in May of last year, and the company has thus been trading seven months.

Mr. Julius Simpson, from the Palace, Carlisle, has taken up the duties of management at the Palace, Halifax. Mr. Simpson is a well-known business manager, and has been several years under the Macnaghten banner. Amongst other places, he has had the management of the Macnaghten houses at Burnley, Bath, West Hartlepool, and Saddler's Wells. His varied experience will stand him in good stead with Yorkshire audiences.

After running successfully for more than two months The Babes in the Wood pantomime at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, Birmingham, terminated on Saturday night. During the interval on Saturday Mr. J. F. Graham, the manager, expressed his thanks to the public and the artists. An interesting presentation ceremony followed. Mr. M. Bernsten, the proprietor of Midland Amusements, announced that the competition conducted in his paper, the public voting for their favourite artist, had been won by Miss Dorothy Ward, the principal boy.

The prize was a handsome diamond ring, and this he handed to Miss Ward amidst great enthusiasm. Mr. Seth Egbert, of the Bros. Egbert, on behalf of the company, presented to Mr. W. Southworth, the musical-director. A smoker's cabinet and outfit and reading lamp; to Mr. J. Lloyd, the stage-manager, a splendid travelling companion and Gladstone bag; and to Mr. Humphries, the manager of the company, a set of silver-backed brushes.

Mr. Leslie Ward, who has made a capable assistant stage-manager, received a silver cigarette case from Mr. Egbert on behalf of the company, a silver-handled walking-stick from Mr. Lloyd, and a present from Mr. Fred Wyndham, who complimented him upon the efficient manner he had discharged the duties of stage-manager during the absence of Mr. Lloyd owing to illness. Little Violet Egbert, the little daughter of Mr. Seth Egbert, who made her début as a toe dancer during the run of the pantomime, gave a box of cigars to Mr. Southworth.

At the monthly meeting last week of the Gourock Town Council—Provost Duley presiding—Judge Brown, in submitting a motion in favour of open-air entertainments during the summer months, stated that all the other leading places on the Firth had such entertainments. Mr. Guthrig asked if it was intended to have the music-hall type of concerts. Judge Brown, answering the question, remarked that there was now hardly such a thing as a music hall. They were called variety theatres, where they, their wives, and daughters could spend a pleasant evening.

Mr. Campbell moved that there be no concerts this year. Mr. Guthrig seconded the amendment because he understood that the entertainment proposed was of the music-hall type, and Bailie Johnstone had no hesitation in supporting the amendment. He had taken occasion during August of last year to open his window in the evening to hear what kind of entertainment was going on, and he must say that what he had heard was far from edifying. Much of it was indescribably silly.

Perhaps the Bailie expected lectures on the differential calculus, with a musical accompaniment. Was it not Robbie Burns who wrote: "Wo frisk away like schoolboys, scorning cold-pausing caution, to joy and play"? Scottish Gradgrinds, please note.

"Students' Night" was celebrated at the Theatre Royal, Birmingham, on Tuesday, when this fine theatre was practically taken possession of by several hundred students from the University. The pantomime Jack and the Beanstalk should have been performed, but the students provided a pantomime of their own. The "boys" were attired in all manner of costumes, and they spent a thoroughly enjoyable evening. Their voices filled the place, and the good-natured artists entered into the programme of pleasure with great enthusiasm.

After Mr. George Robey had sung the first verse of "We all want something to cuddle" six girls came on to repeat the chorus, and after the second verse six students came on and gave their version of the chorus. Later in the evening one of the students was deputed to make presentations to Mr. Philip Rodway (manager), Mr. Guy Jones (musical director), Mr. Robey, and others. The last-named, accepting a present for his wife (Miss Ethel Haydon), explained that Mrs. Robey was unable to be present on account of a serious illness.

The annual dinner and ball of the Terriers' Association will be held to-morrow (Sunday) at the Horns Hotel, Kennington, at 9.30 p.m. Application for tickets should be made at once to Arthur Were, secretary.

Mr. Herbert Sprake, son of dear old Herbert, who did so much for the purity of variety entertainment in the old Collins's days before the existence of the London County Council, has taken up the general management of that hall.

Ernie Mayne, who has made such a hit as the Simple Robber in The Babes in the Wood at the Marlborough Theatre, has been inundated with offers for next Christmas, and is engaged at his own terms by Mr. J. M. Chute, for the Prince's Theatre, Bristol. He commences on Monday a London season at the Gibbons halls and Oxford, &c. &c.

The decision of Mr. Justice Joyce in favour of Mr. George Robey in the action Wade v. the Oxford, Ltd., was upheld in the Court of Appeal on Wednesday. Mr. Robey claimed that his agreement was a personal contract between himself and the late Mr. George Adney Payne, and that it had lapsed through Mr. Payne's death.

Miss Lily Langtry is experiencing very hot weather in Melbourne, where the height of the thermometer is typified in the warmth of her receptions. She has just finished five weeks at the Opera House in that city, and confesses to a strong liking for Australia—a liking that is quite mutual. Miss Langtry returns to Melbourne after the fulfilment of a Rickards' engagement at Sydney.

Miss Geraldine Montrose and her full West End company have been doing splendid business with The Storm. The new magnificent scenery, real rain, and special electrical effects have proved very effective, and the piece was immediately booked by Mr. Walter Gibbons.

Miss Kitty Rayburn has been honoured by Lord Grey accepting the dedication of her new colonial song "Westward Ho!" ('Neath the dear old Union Jack), written by Percy Edgar, and published by Francis, Day, and Hunter. Miss Rayburn also rejoices in the successful production of "The girl in the Chantecler hat," and in her re-engagement for the third year by Mr. Wentworth Croke to play principal boy, Lyric Theatre, Hammersmith, next Christmas.

Miss Millie Payne has been retained yet another week specially to sing "Chantecler" at the Oxford. Miss Payne is the first variety artist to produce a song on this latest craze, and intends singing it in the principal towns on the Moss and Stoll tour, where she is under contract to appear shortly.

The next ladies' concert, under the auspices of the Terriers, will be held at the Three Stags Hotel, Kennington, on Sunday, March 13, at 8.15 p.m. Terrier Tom Packer has been appointed musical-director.

To-day Mr. George Lashwood is announced to sail from the States, after a most successful engagement. He will have as companion Mr. R. A. Roberts, who has been presenting Dick Turpin and Cruel Coppinger to New Yorkers and others.

The officers of the Terriers' Association for the month of March are as follow: Terrier George Cooper, W.T.; Terrier Harry Bent, V.T.; Terrier H. Cee Mee, W.D.; Terrier T. C. Callaghan, Y.B.; Terrier C. C. Cornish, W.I.; Terrier Arthur Were, organist.

Miss Dolly Harmer will arrive to-day per s.s. Orvieto, after an enormously successful engagement in Australia with Mr. Harry Rickards, and a second unprecedentedly successful engagement in South Africa with Mr. Sydney Hyman, who has made her an offer to return.

The 649th meeting of the Executive Committee of the M.H.A.R.A. was held at the offices of the Association on Wednesday afternoon, with Mr. Fred Herbert in the chair. The Manchester representative's report on the past year's working in that city was read by the secretary. The weekly financial statement, showing a cash total of £53 5s. 6d., was passed.

Miss Dorothy Ward, the delightful principal boy of the Prince of Wales's Theatre, Birmingham, pantomime, whose success has been so gratifying, will appear again on Monday before her legion of Brum admirers at the Gaiety. She will feature the song "Wouldn't you like to be the bridegroom?" written by C. W. Murphy, and published by Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter.

Mr. Julian Mack was initiated into the mysteries of the Terriers' Order on Friday, 25th ult. The ceremony was performed by Terrier Ben Obo, W.T., assisted by Terrier Jim Obo, V.T. Terrier Arthur Were officiated as organist. Mr. Tom Nelldon, a candidate for membership of the Terriers' Association, has successfully passed the ballot. He is requested to forward his present address to the secretary, Mr. Arthur Were, 69, Kennington-road, S.E.

The following additional donations have been received on behalf of the Benevolent Fund and Institution since the Music-Hall Artists' Railway Association Dinner:—Already acknowledged, £603 12s. 6d.; Ralph Pringle, £20; Chas. Austin, £10; W. J. Pettitt, £5 5s.; the Kellinos (on behalf of English artists in America), £2 10s.; Barney Armstrong, £1 1s.; George Formby, £1 1s.; Jas. Kellino, £1 1s.; Fred Eustace, £1 1s.; Tom Stuart, 10s. 6d.; total amount to date, £646 2s.

Mr. Johnny Alexander desires us to express his most sincere thanks to all the artists who appeared on the occasion of his benefit at the Empire, Camberwell; also to all the subscribers to the testimonial, as well as the committees who organised the matinée, and especially to Mr. Arthur Were (the secretary) and Mr. Douglas Stuart (assistant hon. treasurer) for their hard work in connection with the same.

The committee of the Johnny Alexander Testimonial wish to inform intending subscribers that the list will be closed at the end of next week, so will they kindly forward their donations to Mr. Joe Elvin, the hon. treasurer, at 18, Charing-cross-road, as soon as possible?

Many of the "old brigade" of music-hall artists will regret to hear of the death of Mr. "Jack" Matthews, one of the oldest London music publishers. He placed upon the market some of the best-remembered songs of vocalists whose memory is still preserved through the yet-remembered refrains of ditties that were the "Silvery moons" and "Let's all go down the Strands" of a bygone day, when Howard and Co., Great Marlborough-street, was a veritable Rialto of professionals.

Many of Mr. James Fawn's earliest admired songs emanated, we believe, from his office, and, if we mistake not, Miss Marie Lloyd's first-published ditty, "Wink the other eye." The deceased gentleman, who was well on the road to four score years, died from cancer on Thursday in last week, at Brighton, where he had lived in retirement for some years, and was buried at Patcham on Wednesday.

Mr. William Bailey, who is so well known to the vast majority of our readers, on Monday next takes up the position of manager of the Metropolitan music hall—the big home of variety in the Edgware-road so ably controlled by Mr. Henri Gros.

In renewing his acquaintance with this hall it is interesting to note that Mr. Bailey was previously sole manager there for nearly thirteen years for Mr. H. G. Lake, a former proprietor, and his return after an absence of nineteen years is a somewhat noteworthy incident in the variety world. We feel sure that all our readers will join us in wishing him many years of prosperity and good health in his latest position.

It is a good many years since Mr. Bailey left home to act in minor stock companies, in which salary was light and experience heavy. Nevertheless he speaks of his early days as an actor with much thankfulness, as the parts he played "knocked off the corners" and enabled him to score no little success as a comic singer.

Then came an offer from Mr. Edwin Villiers of the position of chairman and manager at the Canterbury, where he did a turn occasionally, as was the custom in the days of old. Mr. Villiers followed the late Charles Morton at the Canterbury. After the Canterbury engagement, Mr. Bailey went to the Metropolitan with the late Water Gooch, and was promoted to the management of the hall by the late Mr. George Speedy, the appointment being confirmed by Mr. H. C. Lake, under whose proprietorship Mr. Bailey remained many years.

Amid the regret of a host of friends he left the Metropolitan after a stay of fourteen years, to take up the management of the Alhambra, Leicester-square. He also acted as expert adviser for six months at the Alhambra, Brighton, on the opening of that hall. In the early nineties he took over the West London (the old Marylebone) Theatre in partnership with Mr. A. E. Oliver, and for many years ran it with great success.

In municipal life Mr. Bailey is also well known. He represented his division of Marylebone on the Borough Council and old Vestry for nine years, and filled the position for three years of a London County Councillor for the division of West Marylebone. Such is the high opinion entertained of Mr. Bailey's administrative ability by his friends and neighbours, that he was asked to stand for Parliament—a very high compliment indeed. Mr. Leslie Gooch, a son of Mr. Bailey's old governor, will retain his position as assistant manager of the Met.

Snatching at the purse of a demure-looking young lady near the Gare St. Lazare, Paris, an "apache" had a rude surprise (telegraphs the Daily Mail Paris correspondent) when the damsel, who was a dancer from the Folies-Bergère, without a moment's hesitation, set off in pursuit, easily overtook the thief, held him by the collar, and gave him a good shaking until help in the shape of two cyclist policemen arrived.

An application to alter and enlarge New Brighton Winter Gardens was considered at the Wallasey Petty Sessions on Monday. Mr. Rigby Swift appeared on behalf of the lessees of the establishment, Messrs. Jones and Douglass, and explained that the applicants had held a singing and dancing licence since October, 1907. No intoxicating liquor was sold upon the premises, and the accommodation had been found quite inadequate, the stage itself being also too small.

It was proposed to lower the floor to the level of the street, which would permit the addition of a balcony and give greater height in the wings without raising the centre-roof. The additional accommodation would raise the seating capacity of the theatre from 900 to 1,350. It was proposed to take in the adjoining house in order to obtain further accommodation for the artists, and also to provide for the construction of emergency exits. The whole of the alterations were estimated to cost about £4,000. The theatre would then be fully equipped, sanitary, comfortable, and safe from fire. The Bench granted the application.

Scenes of great enthusiasm were witnessed last Saturday at the conclusion of the pantomimes at the Theatre Royal and the Princess's, Glasgow. At the former Miss Bessie Butt and Miss Dorothy Firmin received several handsome floral tributes, and Miss Fanny Fields had, amongst other trophies, a floral horseshoe and a huge sabot, decorated with flowers, and lettered on the side "Happy Fanny Fields." Mr. Reginald A. Hunt, stage-manager, and his assistant, Mr. W. R. Percival, were rewarded with such gifts as a cruet-stand, travelling-rug, cigarette-case, &c., by the chorus, ballet, and principals. Mr. Ernest Carpenter, musical director here, was presented with a handsome watch and chain, the presentation being made by Mr. Malcolm Scott in a humorous speech. Mr. Percy O. Humphrys was also the recipient of several valuable presents. At the final scene tartan ribbons were let down from the boxes to the stage, and the audience and the company, taking hold of these, joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne," in which Messrs. Harry Tate, Malcolm Scott, Harry Claff, and Regan and Ryan joined lustily.

At the Princess's, Glasgow, the enthusiasm was equally marked. Mr. Harry Levaine was presented with a travelling-case, Mr. Fred Ingram with an umbrella, Miss Jessie Templeton and Miss Venie Clements with flowers, chocolates, and dolls innumerable; and Miss Edith Haley, in addition to similar tributes, was extolled in extempore verse by the boys and girls in the gallery in most friendly and affectionate terms.

Mlle. Polaire, who, it will be remembered, created the character of Ma Gosse in Paris, comes on Monday next to the Palace Theatre, where she will be seen in a little sketch, Le Visiteur, in which she will have an opportunity of exhibiting her powers as a mime in tragedy and comedy and as a dancer. M. Georges Baud and Mlle. Dinard will support her.

She is said to have the smallest waist of any actress in Paris, but what is more important from the point of view of her art is that she is a most original and expressive dancer.

Her dramatic triumph was secured when she played Estrella in the production of La Maison de Danses in November last at the Paris Vaudeville. This comedy, in five acts, adapted by MM. Nozière and Ch. Muller, was only a succès d'estime, but Polaire's impersonation will remain a memory with playgoers in la ville lumière.

In the final scene Estrella faces the three men whom she has duped with her heartless promises. They wait for her, knife in hand, but when the girl stands before them and defies them to strike, the murderous weapons drop from their hands. They stand humbled before her. She derides them, and declares that she intends to live according to her own fancy. She knows that she will leave blood and tears behind her, but no matter—vive la joie!

Mlle. Polaire is better remembered by variety audiences in Paris by her conception of the Apache Dance, which duly became popular in this country. She will present at the Palace a new creation "La Danse des Faubourgs." Will this have a flavour of Montmartre?

The monthly meeting of the committee of the Music Hall Sick Fund will be held at the Crown Hotel, Charing Cross-road, on Wednesday afternoon next at four o'clock.

Mr. G. H. Elliott, the "chocolate-coloured coon," is having some busy times in Bristol. Despite extra pantomime matinées at the Prince's Theatre, he is finding time to appear at charity concerts and benefits, but one of his most interesting engagements was at the Barton Regis Workhouse, where he was the leading spirit on the occasion of the visit of the pantomime artists to entertain the inmates.

Mr. Elliott acted as stage-manager, and the accompanist was Mr. Hay. The artists included Miss Lulu Valli, Miss Alice Pollard, Miss Betty Rutherford, Miss Gardner, and Messrs. G. H. Elliott, C. Harvey, Uzelli, and Leighton. Mr. Elliott opened the concert and was repeatedly encored, and warm appreciation was shown of the remainder of the turns. The entertainers were formally thanked at the close, and refreshed with tea. Mr. Elliott also showed kindly thoughtfulness by giving a £5 note for extras for the inmates. The Bristol Guardians have thanked Mr. Elliott and his friends for their kind entertainment.

Mr. Fred Eustace, of Amber Light fame, has just returned after a six months' trip to Ceylon, Egypt, &c. He will resume work in a few weeks, when he will produce a new sketch, written for him by Mr. Chris Davies.

The Walton-on-the-Naze Urban District Council are prepared to let beach space for refined beach entertainments during the summer season of 1910. All offers are to be sent in writing on or before March 21, 1910, to Mr. T. W. Wilson, Clerk to the Council, Town Hall, Walton-on-Naze.

The Entertainment Committee of the Gravesend Town Council invite tenders for the sole right of supplying musical entertainments on the promenade during the forthcoming summer season. Tenders, marked "Promenade," must be delivered not later than March 13 to Mr. H. H. Brown, Town Clerk, 147, Windmill-street, Gravesend.

It is announced by the Morning Leader Paris correspondent that Dranem, of the Paris music-hall stage, whose name in private life is M. Ménard, will be among the candidates for a Paris constituency at the coming General Election. The district which Dranem hopes to represent in the Chamber is the 10th Arrondissement, that of St. Martin, where the music-hall element is very strong.

It is not known whether, when M. Ménard quits the Chamber in the evening, he will do a turn at the halls as Dranem. If so, his opportunities for making topical hits should be illimitable. His salary as a deputy of £600 a year would, of course, be far inferior to what he makes on the stage. All that is known for certain is that the popular comedian is a strong Radical-Socialist and a strong partisan of co-operation. If Dranem stands and is elected he will probably be the first member of "the" profession who has ever sat in the Palais Bourbon.

Edward Rexo's remarkable skating act at the London Hippodrome has provided a great deal of talk in variety circles lately. His most astounding item is that of unexpectedly doing the splits, doubling his body forward, and, like a flash gliding on the toe and heel wheels through a long tunnel 16in. high. Nobody but a trained acrobat—and readers of The Era know Mr. Rexo to be one—could even attempt this feat with the faintest chance of success. It is not surprising to learn that it took Edward Rexo ten years' hard work to master this particular movement.

Another of this expert's most remarkable feats is to skate in an upside down position. Even after practising this "stunt" for seven years Rexo is unable to lift either hand in order to thrust the skate further forward. "I did it once," he remarked to the writer, "and cracked my skull, so I'm not trying any more."

The popular impresario, Frederic Melville, has just returned from an extensive tour of Central America, including such places as Nicaragua, Bogato, Boco del Torres, Jeremie, Hayti, West Indies, and Kingston, Jamaica, and has brought back with him Señor Zelaya, the son of President Zelaya, who recently has been brought into prominence by ordering two Americans—Cannon and Grose—to be shot for interfering with the revolution that was taking place in Greytown. The younger Zelaya is a most wonderful pianist, and is said to have all the great masters, such as Liszt, Chopin, and Schumann, at his fingers' ends, though he never learned a note of music in his life. Mr. Melville will shortly introduce him into American vaudeville at a very large salary. The young pianist's father, now the ex-President of Nicaragua, is threatening to sue the United States Government for 250,000 dollars for taking away his country.

Already a number of topical introductions have been made to the most successful of all Empire revues, Hullo! London, and this policy of constant changes will be carried out throughout its run. A success second only to that of Mr. J. F. McArdle as Mr. Lyons, Miss Millie Legarde as Lily Philligabs, is that achieved by Miss Frances Kapstowne as the Guinea-fowl in the Chantecler skit. The delightful ballet Round the World is now being revised by Lieut.-Col. Newnham Davis and Mr. C. Wilhelm, and will shortly be presented to Empire audiences, under the new title of East to West. In the new version, the action will start in Japan and finish in Moscow. Graham, the popular human Marionette, with his new entertainment "Graham's Masterpiece," is engaged to appear for another two weeks, so successful has been his turn.

Miss Florrie Forde opens at the Pavilion, Glasgow, on Monday, after finishing a sensationally successful pantomime at the Theatre Royal, Leeds. On her benefit night Miss Forde received some most magnificent presents.

From Mr. Laidler and the members of the company came an old Sheffield fruit epergne; Mr. Laidler, a substantial cheque; Francis, Day, and Hunter, cheque; B. Feldman and Co., cheque; Mr. C. W. Murphy, cheque; Miss Susie Belmore (principal girl), silver manicure set; Old Pal, Markie Abrahams, silver cake tray; Mrs. W. Thomas, Dorothy bag; A Friend, silver belt; Mrs. Macgregor, real lace doyleys; Mr. and Mrs. Woolf, gold bangle; Miss Halliwell, photo in frame; A. Fallowfield, real lace handkerchief; Mrs. Groves, life-size photograph of self; L. Barnett (Miss Forde's husband), aluminium lunch basket; Mrs. Hitchin, hand-worked table centre; Mr. and Mrs. Stead, antique cut glass jug, filled with choice flowers; Miss Mabelle Morgan, cut-glass tube filled with choice flowers; Emmie and Woolfie, art vase filled with choice flowers; Miss Jane Eyre (principal boy), Grand Theatre, magnificent basket of flowers; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Laidler, basket of choice flowers five feet high; and numerous boxes of chocolates. Miss Forde also received forty-three telegrams wishing her success, for which she desires to thank her friends.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

JUST as, according to a vast number of the British public, there are only two seasons in the year—humorously defined by a pair of well-known Hebrew comedians as Cricket and Football—so to a very large section of the profession there are also but a couple of seasons in a twelvemonth—viz., Pantomime Time and Pierrot Time—and it is acknowledged by everybody that each of these periods, without the aid of those good fairies Messrs. Francis and Day, would be a cycle of calamity. But not alone for Christmastide feasts of fun or seaside symposiums of song at holiday autumntide does the big house cater. No matter the month, week, or day, the time or occasion, the firm has ever something in the song line to seasonably suit, and that something is always new. That it is of the very best goes without saying.

AND so it is that with the approach of St. Patrick's Day all good Irishmen—which, to coin an Hibernianism, includes the ladies—look to Messrs. Francis and Day for a good new "chune." Nor will they be disappointed. Fred W. Leigh, whose great success "Molly, I love you" still lingers pleasantly on the memory, has again apparently, in lieu of a pen, dipped a shillelah in a drop of "the cratur," and the result is a lovely Irish ballad entitled "Come back to Mallow, Molly," which will be largely in evidence on the 17th inst., and which is already on the market, as is also "I'm coming back to Erin and to you;" a most charming Irish song, by Arthur Lynch and Herbert E. Haines, with which Miss Evie Greene has been delighting multitudes.

MISS KITTIE RAYBURN is nothing if not up to date, as is evidenced by her continually giving her countless admirers something fresh to talk of and marvel at. Her latest song, "The girl in the Chantecler hat," is a case in point. It is by J. P. Harrington, Frank Brighten, and Orlando Powell. Messrs. Francis and Day have acquired the publishing rights.

MR. JACK PLEASANTS has been working double tides during the week, and both at the London Coliseum and New Cross Empire has been the cause of outbursts of merriment such as are rarely heard nowadays. At the moment of going to press we hear that Messrs. Francis and Day have acquired the two ditties which, in conjunction with his inimitably humorous delivery, have so tickled the vast audiences at the houses mentioned. They are "I'll be a bad lad, 'Liza Ann," written and composed by C. W. Murphy, and "I'm shy, Mary Ellen, I'm shy," by Charles Ridgwell and George Stevens. The firm also publish Mr. Pleasants' "I shall sulk!" and his fine "dame" number, "For fourteen and sixpence a week."

MR. DAVID DAY'S firm are publishing a pretty song, written and composed by George Ross (of the talented duo Ross and Grayson), entitled "The love that I beat for you."

THOSE well-known writers Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford have placed with Messrs. Francis and Day a charming song fully up to the character they have earned for originality and melodiousness. It is entitled "You do look pretty in your old Dutch dairy."

MR. SAM DODWELL (Bernard Phelps), whose great reputation as a writer of dance music is fully deserved—his "Choristers," "Convent Girls," "Old Belfry," and "St. Sebastian" waltzes having sold in tremendous numbers, as was expected from their very inceptions—has again published with Messrs. Francis and Day a waltz which is certain to rank with its compeers. It is entitled "The Snake Charmer."

THE chocolate-coloured coon (Mr. G. H. Elliott) has acquired from Bert Lee and Alf J. Lawrance a characteristic coon number entitled "Little Luna Lou." It will bear, when published, the imprint of Messrs. Francis and Day. Mr. Lawrance, in collaboration with F. W. Leigh, has placed with the same house a rarity nowadays in the shape of a good motto song, to be known as "The stepping stones of life."

MR. HARRY RUSSON'S latest comedy song is yclept "Bluff," and is by Harry Adams (of "On Guard" fame) and Ernée Woodville. Messrs. Francis and Day will produce it in sheet music form directly.

MISS HELEN TRIX has at the London Coliseum been singing with great éclat "Isn't that like a man!" by Paul Mill and J. Airlie Dix, and "Miss Boodle and her poodle," a song in which smart words are wedded to a tuneful melody, it having been written by Leonard Cooke and composed by Henry E. Pether. This latter item will be in great request among Pierrettes who desire a song of an arch nature. Messrs. Francis and Day have published both items.

HUNTLEY TREVOR'S opening choruses and special lyrics for entertainers promise to be quite a feature of the coming seaside campaign. His clever lines, so ably set to music by Henry E. Pether (Messrs. Francis and Day's musical editor), which will be a prominent item with Mr. Wilson James's company, the Gaieties, have been pronounced first class by those most able to judge, and he has just completed, both words and music, a special opening chorus for Mr. Finlay Dunn's Dandies, who will again this year occupy the Pier Hill Bandstand, Southend-on-Sea. Himself a humorist of parts, Mr. Trevor will throughout the summer at all his engagements feature several of Messrs. Francis and Day's songs—notably Henry F. Greenfield's "And just then he fell out of bed."

"M. AND MADAME POM."

Sketch, in One Scene, Produced at the South London Palace on Monday, Feb. 28.

A succession of ludicrous incidents are contained in the sketch M. and Madame Pom, which is the novelty of Mr. William Payne's bill at the South London. They are enacted in a newly-opened riding-school, of which a property horse with an effective hind kick is the chief article of furniture. A French couple come to take lessons in the equestrian art, and meet with a peculiar reception at the hands of an eccentric groom, Madame being subjected to much indignity. She requires a nice, easy-going pony, and there is immediately trotted forth a volatile donkey, who attacks the groom vigorously and chases the visitors right and left. Some dissatisfaction being expressed, a pony is produced, with little better results, the lady being speedily thrown. After being carried off by a practicable airship and dropped unceremoniously to the ground, both Madame and her husband are given the choice of riding home in a pannier, but the baskets placed astride the horse give way, and leave their occupants gracefully dangling their legs through the apertures.

Most of the comic effect gained is due to the groom, who negotiates the butting donkey and the kicking horse with much effect, also taking leaps over the heads of the visitors with agility. Some of the fun, however, is of a primitive character, and the author should lose no time in realising that the pulling away of a chair just as a lady is about to sit down and the dropping of candle-grease on another's head can no longer be relied upon to arouse laughter. The sketch is enacted by Mr. Jimmy Holloway and company with indefatigable energy.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

THE OXFORD.

Happy Holland has a breezy, cheery sound that gives earnest of irresponsible doings on the stage to the music of laughter in the house. We think Mr. Jake Friedman became acclimatised many years ago to the impersonations of the merry Dutchmen who are supposed to have their dwellings by the Zuyder Zee, and who speak a stage patois of which the origin is, like the birth of Thackeray's Jeames, "wropt in mystery." Mr. Friedman is the head and front of this sketch, which is described as a "Dutch burletta," and it is full of sauce Hollandaise and blessed with a series of bright numbers in the way of song, dance, and concerted items. We are in a fishing village near Rotterdam when the curtain rises, and become interested in the fortunes of Jackey Oodlevasal, who, trusting to the "skirts of happy chance," returns to his birthplace and to his Gretchen. He disguises himself as a mature lady guide, and the mystery thickens with the arrival of Sam Slick, an American detective; but the main purpose of the trifle is frank jollity, and this is furnished in plenty by Mr. Friedman in the dual character, to which he imparts much quaintness; Mr. George Fairhurst, as the American detective; Mr. Leigh Ellis, as Alphonse, a French tourist; Mr. Charles Mavern; Miss Ada Dale, as Sadie, sweet on physical culture; and Miss Florence Hunter, a lively and entertaining Gretchen, also assist ably in the scheme of fun.

That stalwart actor and descriptive vocalist Mr. George Leyton is presenting The Wreck of the Birkenhead with fine dramatic effect, the back cloth, with the troops massed on deck, adding to the poignancy of the harrowing scene, which is so graphically depicted by the singer.

ments are played by a pianist, violinist, and 'cellist. The lady singer opens with Gounod's "Ave Maria"—the melody composed to a prelude of Bach's—which is sung off. The instrumentalists then show the excellent quality of their playing in a Hungarian rhapsody, and the interlude winds up with the soloist singing the popular song "Because."

Mr. Will Evans's "Villain of the piece" increases in drollery at every performance, and the "number" chorus is sung in all parts of the house. The popularity of Joe Elvin in Billy's Money-Box, one of the drollest of his many productions, does not wane; there is plenty of laughter for Wilson and Waring in Yankee vaudeville; the Martinckes have a clever show in The Rag Doll; and Mr. Fred Keeton's "Simple Simon," Mr. Fred Land's comic edition of nursery rhymes, and the wonderful acrobatic dancing of Will E. Stopit are all features of an excellent bill, to which Miss Ella Shields, a most fascinating chorus songstress; Baker and Balfe, versatile xylophone soloists; Mr. James Stewart, the amusing tramp at the piano; Miss Ida Barr, and Mr. Luis Hardt also contribute. Miss Maidie Scott was unfortunately absent through indisposition on the night of our visit, the fact being duly advertised at the box office by Mr. C. Blyth-Pratt, the manager. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope presents some capital pictures.

CAMDEN HIPPODROME.

On visiting this handsome theatre this week we found the energetic manager, Mr. Albert H. Adams, hard pressed to find room for all his would-be patrons who were eager to enjoy the excellent bill of fare put forward. Three dramatic sketches of the most varied character are the big lines of the programme. The best of these in the sketch The Storm, a play of much interest. The story of the artist who is so deceived in his wife and the sensational end of the unhappy woman is well told and well acted, especially by Mr. H. W. Scaddan, who gives such a finished portrayal of the artist, Jean, and Mr. H. B. Lewis, who as the priest opens the misguided man's eyes to the truth. Miss Geraldine Montrose gives a vivid picture of the adventurous Camille. The play is well staged, and the introduction of a real storm of rain, which is cleverly effected, causes much astonishment. The Bioscope, with some interesting pictures, concludes.

HOLLOWAY EMPIRE.

Large audiences were present at this popular house at both "houses" on Monday, when the curtain was rung up after an inspiriting overture performed under the direction of Mr. Fred Camp. A prominent item in the bill is provided by Miss Margaret Parker, who, with an efficient company, appears in a dramatic episode entitled Under the Seal. Mr. John Herbert shows artistic restraint in his handling of the part of Father David; and Mr. Frank Hawthorne makes a realistic ruffian in the rôle of Isaac Fogdale. Miss Margaret Parker takes the part of the "slavey" Bet, and moves her audience to laughter and tears, showing histrionic powers of no mean order; Miss Lily Palmer, a dainty comedienne and dancer, sings "Hannah," a coon ditty, concluding with a pretty and graceful dance; Barnard's Mannikins provide a variety entertainment in themselves, and meet with a flattering reception. The cake-walk and coon dance in their little sketch, The Coon's Revelry, are quite up to date, and there is an old-fashioned Grimaldian flavour about the pantomime fun which concludes their entertainment.

A lively and diverting duo are Ryan and Hall, two comedians of an acrobatic turn; and Harry Anderson scores with "There you are again" and "Man, man," a humorous contribution that greatly pleases the audience. The Concoran Bros., clever instrumentalists, present a novel naval and military quick-change act, and have a reception of the most flattering description; that incomparable juggler Cinquevalli is also here with his attractive, clever, and interesting series of tricks, his act being humorously supplemented by his new assistant, an apt disciple of the late-lamented "Walter." Raymond "the Great" is also starring here this week, and contributes a very novel and highly-amusing entertainment, including the "Hand of Fate," "The Enchanted Table," and "A Trip to Spookville." It is an entertainment of the Maskelyne type, and is one of the treats of the programme. Owing to the sudden indisposition of Mr. Albert Rees he was unable to give his well-known drawing-room entertainment on the night of our visit, and the programme concluded with a display of animated pictures.

RICHMOND HIPPODROME.

A discriminating audience gave a cordial welcome on Monday to the bill provided here for the week. Collett and Keith give quite a fine display of heavy-weight juggling, and contrive to impart humour to their performance. The troubles of "moving" are indicated by droll Tom E. Conover, who confides his condition to the audience with comic effect. "What is the use of the front-door key?" is the query propounded by the comedian, when he admits "he doesn't know where he lives." His second contribution as a Sundowner of the Socialist order further evidenced the vocalist's ability. As a social reformer one is inclined to think Tom has a great future. Miss May Fairclough from a somewhat varied répertoire wins unanimous approval for her impressions of the characters of Juliet and Claire Foster in the popular play A Woman in the Case. With considerable sweetness the Sisters Draycott duettise with a melodious theme anent "The Southern Queen." The "Captain Kettle" incident, so admirably represented by Frank Calvert in the title-rôle, with Joey Rose as his "charming mate," is one of the successes of the evening. The sketch goes with a snap from start to finish. Calvert as a medico diagnosing a complaint with Joey Rose as the patient must be seen to be appreciated. Harry Rogerson's "drama in five minutes" is not without considerable merit, and wins great approbation. The Bioscope scenes of the St. Stephen's show and the orchestra are alike excellent.

In a new and original production, entitled The Fun of the Fair, by Paul Pelham and Herbert Rule, Miss Kate Carney as Carmen is well supported. As the gipsy queen the queen of coster comedians is the life and soul of the show, and never for a second does she let the fun flag. She sings, dances, and acts with astonishing energy and no little skill. A clever bit of character-acting is the witch, Hagar, of Mr. G. M. Mariott; Mr. Percy Morgan is excellent as the showman; Albert Mason as the dude is deliciously comic; and good work is also done by Mr. Fred Malcolm as Jem the Romany. The sketch is mounted with scrupulous care.

PECKHAM HIPPODROME.

This popular South London hall, over the fortunes of which Mr. Cecil Paget so ably presides, has a programme this week which has filled the house at each performance with appreciative audiences. After an overture, which is well rendered by Mr. Julian Goldsmid's talented orchestra, the ball is opened by Miss Madeline Rossiter, a tall brunette, who gains loud applause for her song and dance. Mr. Albert Mackelvin, described as a "Scotch monologist," is amusing in a dialect song with some humorous patter; the Three Langfords (two gentlemen and one lady) give an exhibition of skilful dancing which rouses the house to the utmost enthusiasm; Miss Aidi Martini renders an attractive chorus song, "Mr. Man in the Moon," and she follows this up with a very graceful dance, her efforts being warmly applauded.

A cordial welcome is given by the Peckhamites to our old friend Cliff Ryland, who in his inimitable dry manner sings "Don't," and causes uproarious laughter with his droll patter. The Bros. Erard, one made up as an Irish bricklayer, while the other appears in evening dress, exhibit considerable skill both as acrobats and musicians. They play the violin, one gentleman standing all the time upon the head of the other, and the famous Prison Duet from Il Trovatore is very well rendered upon one string. A very bright item on the programme is the performance by Lawrence Brough and company of No. 9, a sketch by Sir Francis Burnand, which is evidently a boiled-down version of the amusing comedy The Lady of Ostend. Mr. Lawrence Brough as the mercurial Dick Whortles rattles through his rôle in splendid style; while Miss Olga Esme is very charming as his aggrieved young wife. Mr. Arthur Bawtree as the volatile Frenchman, Mr. Lionel Braham as the Prize Fighter, Mr. Percy Marshall as old Cadbury, and Miss Clara Nicholls as Mrs. Cadbury, all render loyal assistance. The sketch goes with a bang from start to finish, and the curtain has to be raised several times at the conclusion in response to the universal applause.

Mr. Arthur Leslie is successful with his song "Has anyone seen a sixpence?" later on giving a most artistic imitation of Mr. Wilkie Bard in his rendering of "You, you, you." The Hayman and Franklin's Players present the entertaining sketch Toplitsky; or, The End of the World, which is very favourably received. Mr. Frank Bernard as the irritable but good-hearted Jew Abraham Levy makes a great hit, and he is ably assisted by Mr. Frank H. Dale as Sam and Miss Edith Martyn as Esther. The excellent programme concludes with some beautiful coloured films illustrating A Trip Across the Isle of Ceylon. The energetic acting-manager is Mr. H. E. Sawyer.

ILFORD HIPPODROME.

Since this outer metropolitan hall was opened at the latter part of last year many good programmes have been submitted to its patrons, and last week's attractions reached a degree of excellence. At the top of the bill was Vesta Victoria, the "people's idol" and a universal favourite, in her latest successes, including "Skating" and "The simple life." These numbers carried the audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm, and no less than two encores had to be responded to. Miss Victoria's selections, "Is there anybody here looking for a widow?" and "He used to come and court his little Mary Ann," created increased amusement, and the plaudits of the audience were loud and prolonged until she had bowed several times in acknowledgment.

The reception of Miss Beaumont Collins and her strong company in Leaves of Memory was as hearty as it was deserved. Undoubtedly this is one of the finest episodes of real life at present appearing on the halls, and the interpretation is very realistic and cleverly given by the several artists. Miss Beaumont Collins is an actress of considerable ability, and as Ruth Challoner she is able to give of her best talent. She invests the character with an atmosphere of intensity which adds to the dramatic effect of the presentation.

Wyndham and Wyatt, in The Professor and His Pupil, contributed a very humorous sketch, and some excellent singing was also heard. The audience were very appreciative of both these items. The popular descriptive vocalist Frank Harwood added to the amusement of the audience, his song "All about the girls" being a very "taking" number, and his monologue on "The Burglar and the Old Maid" caused much laughter. Mons. Carloti, in the protean Parisian play The Apache, came in for a hearty reception. The character of the Apache was cleverly portrayed by Carloti, sen.; and the other characters, which included that of the Apache's sweetheart, a gendarme, and several others, were smartly rendered by Carloti, jun.

My Friend the Count, an amusing sketch by Miss Louie Counsell and company, was well received, as also was the comedy duo, Manson and West. Miss Kitty Clinton, comedienne, and Miss Marion Armitage, the comedy girl, were also excellent turns.

THE BALHAM HIPPODROME.

Snugly placed at the foot of Balham Hill, Mr. Gibbons' pretty hall affords an alluring prospect to the inhabitants of that thriving suburb, and Mr. W. E. Hancorne James makes such careful provision for the comfort and amusement of his patrons that they make the house a place of weekly resort. Heading an attractive bill this week is the sketch King Nobbler, in which the adventures of Jerry and Nobbler are carried a stage further. There is no end to the fun while Lew Lake and Bob Morris as the precious pair are on the scene, and their comic antics never fail to create laughter. Their efforts are "Abe-ly" seconded—if we may perpetrate a pun—by Dave Bentley as the cheery Hebrew; and Harry Lavers as a cannibal chief, H. Roberts as his minister, and G. Thursby as a bluejacket, are prominent among a picturesque throng.

Travesty has always been the forte of Mr. Harry Pleon, and as The Bad Girl of the Family Journal he displays that species of volatile humour in which he is specially effective. His make-up as the typical heroine of fiction is drolly realistic, and the quaint perversions of the familiar dialogue arouse much laughter. Mr. George D'Albert secures a hearty reception, and maintains his reputation as a light comedian, singing "Only one girl at a time" and "Do what you like with me" in the bright and breezy fashion for which he is famous. Miss Edie King, who may always

The Ballad Hit of the Season, sung by Mdme. Ada Colley.

FRANCIS, DAY & HUNTER, 142, Charing Cross Rd., London, W.C.

Little Jack Marks, described as the youngest Hebrew comedian in the world, is gifted with the precocity of his race. He is a born actor, as one easily detects by his policeman song—a most amusing contribution. Miss Lalie Brooke raises considerable interest by the presentation of a most original scena entitled Girls Past and Present. Among the young ladies of the twentieth century Miss Brooke chooses the Directoire and the Salome girl, and the crinoline girl with a pork-pie hat and a diminutive parasol is a figure of the sixties that excites a deal of laughter. The turn is well conceived, cleverly worked out, and heartily applauded. A satire of the latest vogue in plays is presented by Miss Millie Payne, who appears as Chantecler—a capital make-up—and "crows salutation to the morn," much to the amusement of kind friends in front. As a preface to her latest novelty Miss Payne proclaims her excellence in a gutter-snipe character modelled on the caricatures of the late Phil May.

Miss Meredith Meredro has a capital song in "Betsy, the pride of Battery B." It is one of those melodies with an irresistible swing with which Mr. Herman Darewski, the composer, has so familiarised us. We feel quite sure Betsy is an interesting heroine; but Miss Meredro's enunciation did not enable us to glean as many particulars of her career as we should have liked. The best bit of legitimate comedy in the bill is the impersonation of "The Debt Collector" by Mr. Syd Walker. He walks round a specially-constructed stage set, in which the exteriors of the workhouse and a pawnshop are conspicuous. His interviews with the various debtors or their representatives are drolly written, and his experience with the "delicate" husband sets the house in a roar. Mr. Walker's acting stamps him as an excellent comedian.

A musical turn of considerable charm is presented by the Zigeuner Quartette. The accompaniundoubtedly is The Pride of the Regiment, a capital little drama, which has already made its mark in the West End Theatres. It is being presented by Mr. Neville Graham and company, who act in the most telling manner possible, and the story of the young fellow who finds the army life distasteful and his subsequent quarrel with his over-ambitious father is keenly followed by the audience, who are not slow in showing their appreciation of the play and its players.

Belle Braham provides an entertaining turn with her illustrated song-sheet and its funny pictures; Roland Hill, "Ye Dame," is a very welcome comedian, whose song "My dear John" goes splendidly; Farlie, Rennie, and company provide a laughable turn with their act The Terrible Tailors, in which they indulge in many antics which cause laughter; Miss Burley and her assistant are a most entertaining couple, performing many clever acrobatic feats; the assistant is a most expert tumbler and a comedian as well. Kitty Clinton scores with her song "I'll let the world go by," which she sings with much charm; Frank Fort, comedian, sings and talks of everything imaginable in a most comic manner, and makes a hit; Ivan Coherney's company appear in a very thrilling episode, entitled The Tempter, which is well played by the company engaged in presenting it, and they keep the interest and excitement at a high pitch throughout, making a most emphatic success; Charles Grantley provokes merriment with his song "You'll pardon me"; and Rappo and Ella give an exhibition of balancing and feats of weight-lifting with the teeth which are very clever. Kloof and Ramsey, musical entertainers, have a very novel act, with which they make themselves big favourites, and their success is well merited. Russell Carr, ventriloquist, with his soldier lad accomplice, is very smart indeed, and has some capital cross-talk between himself and the figure.

Miss Geraldine Montrose and company appear be relied upon to give a touch of originality to her work, sings and dances in entrancing style. Her illustrations of a Spanish fandango, a vampire dance, and the pas de seul of a premier danseuse, each effort being accompanied by a characteristic song, are a delight to the eye and ear.

Impressions of children are cleverly conveyed by Mr. Wilson Hallett, whose "baby" seance elicits shrieks of merriment; and mirth is also stimulated by the Moxon Family, who give an entertainment in which somersaults and Risley feats are varied by a sand dance on the hands and much amusing work; Cliff Diamond, boy comedian and dancer, is accurately described as a marvel; the Bioscope depicts The Man Who Swallowed the Sponge with diverting results; and the programme is also contributed to by Queenie Essex, a dainty comedienne; Bi-Bo-Bi, Parisian eccentric musician; and the Four Amaranths, lady acrobatic dancers. The orchestra is skilfully directed by Mr. Lawrie Owen.

ISLINGTON EMPIRE.

The great attraction here is John Lawson and company in his new production The Secret of the Talmud. This proves to be a very elaborate and interesting production, dealing with the Jewish colonisation of East Africa and the plots against the successful consummation of the scheme consequent on the discovery of gold and diamonds on the site of the proposed settlement. This leads to a series of very exciting episodes throughout the seven scenes in which the plot is developed.

Mr. John Lawson himself as Joseph Emmanuel acts with great dignity, and presents a capital study of the blind leader of what may be termed Jewish Nationalist aspirations. He is conspicuously good in the scene where, alone in Jerusalem, Joseph regains the use of his eyes. The support accorded him is also distinctly above the average. Mr. F. Joynson Powell, who is well remembered here for his work in the stock seasons at the old "Grand," is excellent as Vachell. Another capital performance is forthcoming from Mr. F. Naylor Grimstone, who enacts the rôle of the apostate Jew, Goldstein, with intensity and success. Mr. George Bushra as Wallah, the native Prince, presented a convincing performance that deserves great praise. Miss Lucille Sidney as Ena acts with power in the later scenes, and is altogether admirable. A very large number of auxiliaries are engaged, and they have been thoroughly drilled. The scenery, by Messrs. Charles Mannon and Frank Seddon, is very effective, particularly the first scene depicting an East African Forest, which has been designed and carried out by Mr. M. Guggenheim. The playlet was received with great enthusiasm, Mr. Lawson and the principal members of his company all taking calls, and there is no doubt that it will form a very successful addition to Mr. Lawson's productions.

Maud Wilton, vocal comedienne, does well in one song. Pat Rafferty, in two songs, "We've all got a world of our own" and "The Irish Pensioner," is scoring a distinct hit, the latter song especially gaining a great reception. Gilbert Girard submits some clever imitations, and his genial style makes him a favourite. Dave Samuels, who is very popular here, sings several parodies, and indulges in some of his extraordinary dancing, his act gaining great approbation. Graham's Premier Juveniles prove to be a talented crowd of juvenile entertainers, whose contribution to the programme is much appreciated. Hayman and Franklin, in "A Matrimonial Agency," caused a great deal of laughter, and gained several calls. Sylvia Phillips, comedienne, is well received in her one song. Fioretti and Elly, spade and barrel jumpers, present a skilful turn, the feats of the gentleman securing great applause. Sam Mayo is running a singing competition this week, and the efforts of the seven competitors provoked some of the greatest hilarity on the evening of our visit. Others in the bill are the Hyde and Cody Trio and Lily Esplin. The Bioscope is good; and the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. T. Gray, adds to the attractiveness of the evening. Mr. B. Adams, the popular manager, is attentive and courteous in the front of the house.

EAST HAM PALACE.

With such well-known and popular "stars" as Marie Lloyd and George Formby appearing at the top of the bill, it is only natural that immense audiences are flocking here at each performance. Miss Marie Lloyd, who came in for a hearty reception on Monday evening, sang no fewer than four of her most popular songs, especial favourites being "I lives in hopes" and "She's the next best thing." Geo. Formby maintains his popularity with the "Palace" audiences, and as a laughter-maker he is irresistible. Uproarious mirth is caused by his songs "John Willie, come on!" and "Playing the game in the West," which he sings in his quaint characteristic style, with occasional shafts of droll humour.

An extremely funny sketch is Fun in a Music Shop, by Brull and Hemsley, who are bright and original in their humorous rendering. Chas. Banks and his wonderful dog "Woof" provide excellent entertainment, and the remarkable way in which the dog does several things immediately its master mentions them is warmly applauded by the audience. The Scotch comedian, Dan Fraser, gained hearty applause for his popular number, "Glengarry"; and Leonard Barry kept the audience in excellent humour with "You go where Hugo goes" and "Think I'd marry a girl," two songs with choruses just to the right tastes of the audience. The Markies, in their vocal, comedy, and instrumental scena, The Professor's Studio, delighted everyone, and loud and prolonged applause was given for the several musical items. Especial features of this entertainment were the playing on glasses of "Alice, where art thou?" and the difficult overture from William Tell, which was played on ordinary bottles with wonderful precision and perfect tone.

The Three Cape Girls make a welcome re-appearance, and come in for their usual hearty reception, a speciality of their act being some clever long-boot dancing. Madge Osmond, a vivacious young comedienne, scores heavily with her two numbers, "It's all over with you" and "Captain Percy of the Fusiliers." The performance also includes many excellent and humorous pictures on Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope.

SHOREDITCH EMPIRE.

An excellent programme is being placed before the patrons of the above hall this week. Josie Colverd, a comedienne with a winning style, sings with taste "How would you like me to sit next to you?" and is deservedly applauded, and the Donnas Trio perform some really clever feats on the trapeze, and prove themselves gymnasts of no mean order. Ernie Mayne, a comedian well known for the peculiar style of his simple songs, causes considerable merriment with his "Have a banana?" ditty, and his medley of popular songs blended in a clever manner takes well, and is responsible for much hearty laughter.

Mr. Fred Winn and company appear in a dramatic episode entitled Treachery. Captain Osborne, an officer in the Navy, has in his charge the plans of a certain battleship, and the story tells in an exciting manner of the efforts of one Emile Elvach, a German spy, to become possessed of them, and how his endeavours are eventually thwarted by Lieutenant Ripley and Lady Mary Osborne. The latter part is undertaken with skill by Miss Marion Ling, who plays with feeling throughout. Lieutenant Ripley is ably represented by Mr. John Dennis, and the rôle of Captain Osborne is presented with distinction by Mr. Edward S. Betley. Mr. Fred Winn as the German spy, Emile Elvach, makes a capital villain, and plays with force.

Mr. Tom Bryce, with the assistance of a young lady, scores a success in a musical comedy sketch named The Dude's Wooing. A certain dandy is in love with a young lady, who fancies she would prefer a German or a Scotchman as a husband. The young man, on hearing this, disguises himself in turn as each of the above, and raises many a laugh by his drollery. The duologue is well received.

The Westbrooks appear in a novel scena, Two Little Maids from School, in which they introduce a Dutch dance and various other steps, which they execute with neatness and precision. Ferguson and Mack, a couple who are irresistibly funny, greatly enliven the proceedings of the evening. Their mock drama is particularly droll, and their impersonation of the two Sisters Dimple is humorous beyond description. The American comedienne, Miss Wish Wynne, proves a conspicuous success. Her song "Swank" is good, and her other numbers are equally praiseworthy. Her efforts are much appreciated, and she is forced to oblige again and again. Mr. C. E. Stelling has a small fortune in his clever dog which appears with him. The creature seems to understand every word spoken to it, and obeys without any other sign whatever. The Primrose Quartette supply some excellent music. Their voices harmonise beautifully, and their rendering of a "Fishing" song and "Asleep in the deep" is tasteful to a degree. Mr. Frank Fox does extremely well in his song, and Leonard Charburn's Young Stars give considerable pleasure in their scena A Picnic up the River, singing their various numbers in a capable manner. Mr. Sam Mayo, the popular comedian, is also here.

SHEPHERD'S BUSH EMPIRE.

The popularity of Mr. Harry Fragson seems to be greater than ever, and six songs at each performance do not serve to satisfy the crowded audiences that are being attracted to the Shepherd's Bush Empire this week. At the close of the sixth song applause and cries of "Encore" fill the theatre, and it is only after taking several calls that Mr. Fragson is allowed to retire. Amongst the songs from his répertoire that this clever entertainer is singing this week are "My Aeroplane," "The Employment Agency," "Billy Brown," "John Bull's Budget," and "The Bandbox Girl."

The Jackley Trio of comedy acrobats (including George, the irrepressible page) supply an excellent turn; and Alf. Gibson sings a couple of excellent humorous songs, one entitled "The Old Brigade," the other an excellent burlesque of "Let me like a soldier fall." An excellent "dog turn" is that known as Loyal's Trained Dogs—one of the most amusing and clever we have seen for many a day. Carl Howard, the "Komic 'Un," assisted by Miss Lily Foy, the "vanishing lady," performs some most amusing tricks, and his act is the cause of great laughter. Another turn of real merit is that contributed by the popular comedy artists George Goodfellow and Jennie Gregson. They give a duologue of the medley description, but their dialogue and business are unusually funny, and gives them excellent opportunities of showing their undoubted talent. Addie Dorina, the protean actress, appears in her new and successful production Dr. Spot's Patients, in which she impersonates six widely-different characters. The changes are complete in every detail, and are performed in a wonderfully short space of time. Miss Dorina is certainly a clever actress. Dolly England, the juvenile male impersonator, provides a very attractive turn; and the programme, as usual, includes the American Bioscope, with a new series of up-to-date subjects.

Another turn of considerable prominence is that provided by Mr. Harry Roxbury, who is appearing in a new musical absurdity, in three scenes, entitled On the Track, of which the book and lyrics are by Miss Vashti Wynne and the music by Dudley Powell and Oastlere Walker. On the Track provides Mr. Roxbury with a very excellent comedy part in Archibald Longfellow, a policeman and private detective of a very farcical kind, and his company affords him very excellent support. The little play is well mounted and dressed, and its progress is punctuated with roars of laughter. A really funny item. Mr. Lewis Vincent is the popular acting-manager, and he has a courteous assistant in the person of Mr. Herbert Mack.

STRATFORD EMPIRE.

Heading a very attractive bill this week is Miss Vesta Tilley, who is paying a return visit to Stratford with new songs, as well as clothes which are at once the admiration and envy of those who aspire to the "correct thing" in dress. Miss Tilley is right at the top of her form, and in "Sydney's Holidays" she has a number among the very best in her répertoire, Sydney belonging to that particular type of cheap youth to whom the annual vacation is the event of the year, and requires eleven and a half month's preparation; but Miss Tilley's caricature is so genial and clever that Sydney himself would not be hurt thereat. "Come and be one of the boys" relates of a rollicking young "sport" bent on a good time, and the song is rendered in immaculate style; while "Give it to father" is a gem of a number dealing with youthful precocity. Miss Tilley's success is so pronounced that a fourth song is clamorously demanded, and she responds with the popular "Jolly good luck to the girls who love the soldiers."

Charles Matthews would appear to be the successor of the fictional Spring-heeled Jack, for his jumping feats are remarkable. Leaping in and out of tubs with tied feet, clearing a series of chairs with a piano at the end, and doing a record distance in two succeeding standing jumps, are deeds accomplished with rare skill and ease, and which elicit unstinted applause.

Sammy Shields, the football enthusiast, is highly entertaining as a raconteur, and his powerful voice stands him in good stead in making himself heard above the loud laughter and applause he provikes. The audience are completely carried away by his vivid description of the local team, West Ham United, in an important match, though the remarks of the spectators are much too rich not to have been of the singer's own creation.

Tom and Marie Motramo are a clever duo, who perform with considerable fluency on various instruments, their act being interspersed with comedy business, much of which is very amusing, though jokes are introduced which have well borne the stress of time. Charles J. Johnson is a dusky singer and dancer possessed of considerable ability, and his turn finds plenty of favour. Miss Marie Pera, assisted by Mr. Thomas Kennard in a smartly-written comedy duologue by Russell Vaun, Two Doors and a Passage, provides a very pleasant interlude, and the couple are deservedly applauded. Beatty and Blanche are clever and prepossessing duettists and dancers; the vocal act of the Elite Harmony Boys, introducing songs and dances, proves a very popular item; and Miss Mirrie Saunders makes a successful appearance.

The clearly-shown Bioscope pictures are, as usual, a strong attraction, and early comers are regaled by the selection "Welsh Airs," by the very efficient orchestra under the guidance of Mr. Alfred Whipp, Mus.Bac. Mr. E. J. Macdermott is courteous and energetic in his managerial capacity, and he has an able lieutenant in Mr. A. E. Barnes.

"WHEN THE CAT'S AWAY."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—I am informed by a correspondent that certain parties are using the title of When the Cat's Away for a comedy sketch. I should esteem it a favour if you will kindly give publicity to the fact that I produced a sketch under this title at the Camberwell Empire on June 12, 1909. I would beg managers and others to note also that this title being claimed by Mr. W. C. Carter (W. C. Bland), the same was purchased by me from him.

As I have this sketch booked in England for the coming autumn there may be some confusion, and it behoves managers and agents to see that when buying goods they are getting the real thing.—Yours faithfully,

HUBERT BARTLETT

Mr. Fred Day, of that foremost Anglo-American music-publishing concern Messrs. T. B. Harms and Francis, Day and Hunter, of 1431-3, Broadway, New York, who has been on a visit to the Old Country, is returning to the United States this (Saturday) morning, leaving Waterloo at 10 a.m. for Southampton, thence to embark on the s.s. Minniewaska, of the Atlantic Transport Line.

"Have a banana" is a catch-phrase for which credit is due to Ernie Mayne, and a song of that title by Alf. Ellerton was exploited last week by the popular comedian at Middlesbrough. At the conclusion of his engagement there on Saturday night a large stalk, tied with pretty ribbon and with some four dozen bananas hanging to it, was handed up to him.

King Pantomime has not yet entirely relinquished his sovereign sway in these islands, and some of the hardy "annuals" still flourish like the green bay tree. Without a doubt, an important factor in the longevity of most of these productions has been the interpolation of so many of the Feldman "winners," which everywhere occupy pride of place. This season has seen no more successful songs than "Somewhere," "Beside the seaside," "Pretty little girl from nowhere," "Alpine dress," and a number of others from the Arthur-street catalogue of good things. Many of these great pantomime "hits" are already the assured summer successes of the near future.

The vocal hit of the London Coliseum this week is undoubtedly Mr. Fred Barnes's really magnificent rendering of John Glover-Kind's fine new comedy chorus song, "I'd rather be by the fireside," which is received with acclaim at every performance, and has firmly established itself as first favourite with the cultured audiences of this fine palace of varieties, to whom the subtle wit of the verses seems to irresisitbly appeal. Messrs. B. Feldman and Co. are to be congratulated on this excellent successor to "Seaside," from the same fluent pen.

Miss Florrie Forde, principal boy in the Theatre Royal, Leeds, pantomime, records the gratifying fact to Messrs. B. Feldman and Co. that the two greatest hits of her pantomime engagement have been "I do like to be beside the seaside" and "Somewhere," which she has sung constantly, to an accompaniment of vociferous cheers and nightly recalls ad libitum, and the sales of copies in Leeds have in consequence been simply enormous. This talented artist will shortly produce on the halls as her principal number a new song, published by the same firm, and written and composed by Billy Merson and Mark Lorne, entitled "They can't find Kelly," which is predestined to be among this year's biggest hits, especially in the Isle of Man, where Miss Forde is again appearing this summer.

At the London Pavilion, during the current week, that golden-voiced tenor Mr. Arthur Aldridge has been winning golden opinions from all his auditors for his truly magnificent rendering of "Garden of Roses," by Dempsey and Schmid, and this delightful song bids fair to become one of the present season's favourite waltz-time ballads in Mr. Aldridge's accomplished hands. Messrs. Feldman and Co. are certainly to be felicitated on the possession of a number far above the average, both in words and music.

That inimitable performer Mr. George Formby is as successful at the Paragon this week as he is at the Tivoli, evoking screams of merriment and thunders of applause from the denizens of Mile End for his mirth-provoking rendering of his latest and greatest success, "Playing the game in the west." Another Feldman publication that is going very big at the Paragon also is "It's the Alpine dress you're wearing," which Miss Edith Arundel sings with a dainty charm that wins the hearts of all her auditors.

That petite vocalist and dancer Miss Maidie Harrison has been eminently successful in pantomime this season with Feldman's three songs, "Sweet little sun-bonnet lady," "Just like the dear old swing," and "Pretty little girl from nowhere," and is repeating them with great success at the Palace, Plymouth, this week. She will sing all three popular numbers in the halls for many months to come.

The ballad that has "come to stay" this year is indubitably Chas. K. Harris's latest and greatest effort, "I'm longing for one sight of you." The ear-arresting melody and intensely human sentiment enshrined in the verses entitle this number to a high niche among this season's song productions, and Feldman and Co., the publishers of this latest gem from the pen that gave us "After the ball," have undoubtedly found the legitimate successor therein to their truly phenomenal success "Somewhere," the pantomime rage of 1909-10.

"By the Light of the Silvery Moon," by Madden and Edwards, is now being actively rehearsed by that favourite "coon" delineator Mr. George H. Elliott, for production at all his music-hall engagements as soon as pantomime terminates at the Prince's, Bristol, and this clever performer daily waxes more enthusiastic anent the certainty of success awaiting this new number with which Messrs. B. Feldman and Co. have just equipped him.

At the London Pavilion this week Miss Violet Loraine has been eminently successful with Messrs. B. Feldman and Co.'s latest acquisition, "I wonder who's kissing her now?" by Hough, Adams, and Howard, her rendering of which was received with vociferous acclaim by the entire audience, and in this number Miss Loraine certainly possesses one of the finest songs she has yet sung on the variety halls. This song should be much in evidence this season at the seaside, and altogether a most prosperous career seems assured for this latest Anglo-American offering of the famous Arthur-street firm.

Miss Madge Temple, the popular artist, who has been specially engaged for the Barrasford tour, on which she is now appearing, has eclipsed all her previous successes. The Nottingham Daily Express, speaking of this charming artist's success, says: "Miss Madge Temple's two songs were not nearly sufficient to satisfy the audience."

Mr. G. H. Elliott, the famous chocolate-coloured coon, for whom Messrs. Lester Barrett and Hermann E. Darewski, jun., wrote the two great successes, "Sue, Sue, Sue," and "I used to sigh for the silvery moon," has secured an even finer number from them, entitled "There's a little black Cupid in the moon." Mr. Elliott will produce the number directly he finishes his pantomime engagement at the Prince's Theatre, Bristol, where his song, "I used to sigh for the silvery moon," which he sings in his own inimitable style, is one of the features of the pantomime.

"Betsy," by Weston and Barns, and music by Hermann E. Darewski, jun., has proved an instantaneous success, both at the Oxford and the Chelsea Palace.

Miss Florrie Forde, the queen of chorus singers, will produce her new number, entitled "'Tis a faded picture," by Lester Barrett and Hermann E. Darewski, jun., at the Pavilion, Glasgow, following on the conclusion of her pantomime engagement. Miss Forde considers the number one of the finest she has had.

The whole of the music trade learnt with regret a day or two since of the death of Mr. Stanley Mullen, who had been associated with the business side of music from his earliest days. He was for long the London representative of the John Church Company, and later became secretary of the Musical Copyright Association, doing yeoman service as a foeman to the music pirates. He went to Australia two or three years since for the benefit of his health, pulmonary trouble giving his friends anxiety, and for a while he looked after the interests of several English music publishers "down under," and ultimately founded the Sydney house of Stanley Mullen and Co. He succumbed to consumption there on Thursday in last week at the early age of thirty-six.

Young Eskimo ..... }
Stella's Father ..... Mr. R. Vallis
Stella ..... Mlle. Britta

Since the intrepid deeds of Shackleton and Peary astonished the world, scenes from the immediate neighbourhood of the Poles have been the vogue in burlesque, melodrama, and spectacle; but it has been left to the Alhambra management to give a fanciful twist to the subject, and for the purposes of ballet to treat the Arctic circle as a realm ruled by the benign influence of the "Polar Star."

This fairy spirit, exercising her gracious sway, turns the snow wastes into regions of pleasure. From out the depths of solid hummocks emerge ice queens—all of them high priestesses of Terpsichore—who foot it deftly and merrily in the close companionship of the quaint penguin and the philosophic white bear. The little story which is a prelude to this really enchanting scene concerns the love affair of Geoffrey and Stella. Youth and maid have plighted their troth at a ball; but as Geoffrey has no particular purpose in life except to advance his affaire de cœur and to make Stella his bride, her parents apparently are not satisfied with their daughter's prospects, and make it clear to him that he must distinguish himself. Geoffrey thinks things out; and while doing so sees in a vision a radiant figure—the "polar star," who beckons him northward. A lively dance by housemaids and footmen concludes the scene.

In the next, Geoffrey has become the Arctic explorer, and is in sore straits; but the polar star fairy cheers him onward, and in the final scene—in the regions of the aurora borealis—where he is followed by the dramatis personæ—there are high jinks shared by the fairies in silver sheen and by the humble Eskimo. So much for the scenario of the divertissement, which is, however, not entirely sentimental in its aspect, for Miss Elise Clerc, who is quite a Nelly Farren of the ballet, and Master Bert Clerc, a budding Fred Farren, give us comic manœuvres and eccentric dances that bring down the house. Then there is little Rita Leggiero, who doubles the parts of a penguin and an Eskimo, to once more astonish us with her gifts as a dancer, and to show us that the juveniles at the Alhambra are promising enough to assure the maintenance of the fine terpsichorean traditions of that house. As the Polar Star Mlle. Britta has some delightful soli, and one cannot help remarking that she seems to grow more like Genée every day. Miss Julia Seale shows her customary cleverness as Geoffrey.

The scenery is from the brush of Mr. E. H. Ryan, who has reproduced a subtle sense of atmosphere in his Arctic scene, and the lighting effects will be even more wonderful still when the mechanical devices are better controlled. The dresses display great taste, and the penguins are amusingly realistic in plumage and shape. Mr. G. W. Byng's music is both gay and melodious, and he very rightly shared the honours of a "call" with Miss Elise Clerc. Mr. Alfred Moul also appeared in answer to the enthusiastic applause on Monday. The popular manager's friends were evidently glad to see him again, but they hope he will not overtax himself after the fine recovery he has made from his operation.

The rich environment of the Mirza Golem Troupe in the way of carpets and lighter fabrics gives a cachet to their really versatile act; but the work on poles erected at the back of the stage in the shape of a star shows a prehensile activity that is more than remarkable. Sebastian Merrill and company not only make light of the most difficult feats on bikes, but introduce a quaint Yankee comedian, who twists funny tricks on the audience in a way that keeps the house laughing all the time. The race is a most effective bit of fooling, and in the way of seriousness there is the feat of man and bike reaching the summit of a pedestal by jumping up narrow ledges, and then leaping to the ground. Garcia, shadowgraphist, is quite a humorist, and introduces an amusing farce in silhouette in which rival lovers, a lady, and a dog figure with comic results.

Miss Kitty Traney, in an elaborate rose-bedecked toilette and quite the sweetest thing in hats, drives a pony and small dogcart on to the stage. After unharnessing the animal, she supports the vehicle on her chin. Kitty then balances a small column of champagne bottles, the top one opening and disclosing a small terrier. Boldly removing her skirts, she shows her figure to advantage in tights, and presents a series of interesting feats with a clever fox terrier, who somersaults.

The patriotic ballet Our Flag is placed early in the programme, and evokes much enthusiasm. Miss Violet Essex, vocalist, and De Biere, conjurer, are other attractive turns on the bill.

The Elite Concert Party, under the direction of Mr. Francis Rolfe, a popular eccentric comedian, have arranged a fine répertoire of original songs, duets, trios, concerted items, farces, musical comedy selections and pianoforte solos, and their popularity, already great in the Midlands, is extending rapidly.

Miss Lois du Cane and her clever company go to the Hippodrome, Coventry, next week with the stirring success The Russian Princess, by Fredk. Maxwell.

"SIR ROGER DE COVERLEY."

Sir Roger de Coverley ..... Mr. Ernest Legh
Rev. Mr. Gray ..... Mr. Geo. T. Greig
Captain Sentry ..... Mr. E. E. Deans
Mr. Will Wimble ..... Mr. C. H. Pullen
Mistress Prudence Ingle .. Miss Sheila O'More
Mistress Constance Steele
Miss Stella St. Audrie

Miss Irene Delisse, Miss Aline Andrews, Miss Violet Varcoe, Miss Maud Willey, Mr. Manning Sproston, and Mr. James Cregan.

Mr. Ernest Legh, in his pretty and quaint sketch, tells the love-story of a seventeenth-century celebrity, whose kindness of heart and fondness for dancing make the hero sadly out of a period that usually presents nothing but a swaggering military aspect. At the Standard we get a sight of Sir Roger's home, a fine old English interior, in which it is easy to see that detail and the recognised authorities have been studied. It is a fine setting, and the care with which the dresses have been designed reflects the greatest credit on Messrs. Sheridan and Benjamin. We are kept waiting too long for the curtain to go up on the opening scene. It is over much to expect an audience to sit through the air "Sir Roger" and a repeat, and then to get a long-drawn-out introduction as well, before commencing the story. Start with "Sir Roger" once through by all means, and then we should have a bright, brisk introduction to put us in good humour with what is to follow. That, however, will doubtless be done, and then we shall have as pretty a sketch as is to be seen to-day. There is not much of a story after all. Captain Sentry, Sir Roger's nephew, is in love with sweet Mistress Prudence Ingle, a young widow, and so also is Sir Roger. The Captain, in arrogant fashion, declares his passion, and is "turned down" by the young lady in brisk style. Then his fuming threatens to upset the Christmas revels. Sir Roger, as was the wont of gallants in those times, finding himself in love, takes to bad verse-making of the "Mistress Prue, I worship you, would die for you" order. The verses he shows to the Rev. Mr. Gray, his chaplain, a character very well played by Mr. Geo. T. Greig. But as that worthy has had no love experiences he is unable to advise his patron as to the best way of proceeding to win the young widow's affections. It takes Sir Roger quite a week to offer his heart and hand, and New Year's Eve arrives before he screws his courage up sufficiently to make his declaration. That his suit is successful goes without saying, and the curtain descends with everyone happy except the Captain, and a very spirited "Sir Roger de Coverley" dance in progress. Mr. Legh as Sir Roger was very good, and his awkward attempts at love-making were most amusing. Mr. E. E. Deans as Captain Sentry is scarcely forceful enough. Miss Sheila O'More as Mistress Prudence is pretty, coquettish, well dressed, and always very welcome. Her confidante, Mistress Connie Steele, is a good character in the keeping of Miss Stella St. Audrie. Altogether, the cast is a good one.

There is another sketch in the current Standard bill, entitled No Other Way, played by Cameron Matthews, Jessamine Newcome, and Arthur Stratton. It deals with the misdeed of a young fellow who has stolen a sum of money from his firm in order to get married. Everything is found out, of course, after the wedding-day, and the villain of the piece makes suggestions that the hero should hand his bride over to his (the villain's) tender mercies in return for evidence against him being destroyed. In getting the better of his wife's would-be betrayer the unfortunate young fellow loses his dear one's love, and when she sends him away from her he commits suicide, for there seems to be "no other way." The little piece is intensely and well played by all concerned, and our only regret is, in a week of new sketches remarkable for invariably dismal, suicidal, or murderous endings, that the author has not seen his way clear to find "some other way" out for a well-intentioned young man, who has been guilty of nothing worse than badly floundering in life's deep waters.

Jack Smiles's "smile" is bigger than ever. It is the Boston brand, and impossible of imitation. His reception is also big, and deservedly so. Jack's ditty "He won't be able to do it again for months, and months, and months" is beloved of the gods. His "smile" makes everyone smile, too, and the "smile" broadens into a grin, and the grin goes to a guffaw, and it is a sight to watch "the house" rock at Jack ('s) Smiles and sallies. And what a dancer! Jack gives us a Lancashire clog dance—the real thing, mind you—"smiling" and sallying all the time. Quite a good thing is his imitation of a man with a stiff leg doing a step-dance. Fifteen minutes of Smiles is one of the best tonics we know of to-day.

Daisy Jerome sang three songs, and in the same bill are the Sisters Du Cane, the Brothers Weltman, the Frolics, the Sisters Lavender, the Hiatts, Harriet Rose, Mark Hanbury, and the Lecardo Brothers, excellent as tired acrobatic bakers.

Owing to the popularity of the Extra Show Turn matinée, another one will take place at the Paragon to-day. An innovation will be the addition of animated pictures, accompanied by a full orchestra.

The Five Hunters, with a high provincial reputation, make their bow to London audiences on Monday at the Camberwell Empire in their musical comedy act entitled Auntie's Visit. Managers on the look-out for an original and refined show should see this act.

A DARE-DEVIL DIVER.

"Death-Defying, Danger-Deriding, Dare-Devil Diving Cormack." Such is the arresting and alliterative description that Cormack, the highest of high divers, has won for himself during an eventful career. A man of varied accomplishments, Mr. Cormack for three months last year acted as manager of the Jungle at the Marine Gardens, Portobello, Edinburgh, where also his high diving furnished the season's attractions. Mr. Cormack is an Irishman, but has spent most of his time in Australia, where he has performed with celebrated aggregations, including those of Prince's Court, Melbourne, Wirth's Greatest Show on Earth; the Wonderland City, Bondi, N.S.W.; and Christchurch Exhibition, New Zealand.

A collection of photographs in his possession shows Cormack diving from dizzy heights, watched by enormous crowds of people. He figured, it will be remembered, at the Crystal Palace on Variety Artists' Federation Day, when he effected the highest dive ever attempted, 175ft. into a tank, in the presence of 13,000 people. On that occasion Mr. Cormack was fully convinced that he was diving to his doom, and when he emerged from the tank safe and sound nobody was more surprised than himself.

Mr. Cormack has a fine physique, being 6ft. 1in. in height, 14st. 9lb. in weight, and 45in. round the chest. He, nevertheless, never goes lower than 4ft. in the water, and seldom feels any shock.

DIVING CORMACK.

When there is a wind, however, he sometimes strikes the water at a wrong angle, and jars his chest slightly. Once when the wind was extra strong, he struck the edge of the tank, and dislocated his shoulder, a circumstance that necessitated a suspension of the feat for several days. Mr. Cormack, it should be added, holds a diving championship, beating thirty-seven other competitors from all over the world.

Mr. Cormack's newest sensations are the "Monte Cristo" dive, in the course of which he is enveloped in a sack, which is set on fire, the performer freeing himself when he reaches the water, and the "Circle of Death" dive, consisting of a dash through a fire-bound space, 4ft. square, into a tank from a height of 80ft. The latter feat was originated by Professor Peart, who lost his life in the attempt in Sydney, Australia, in 1902.

An exciting incident, of which Mr. Cormack was the hero, occurred during his term of management at the Marine Gardens Jungle. One of the young lady animal tamers was escorting a couple of panthers from their cages to the arena, when the brutes suddenly sprang at the girl, lacerating her breast, tearing a thigh, and inflicting a severe wound on the scalp. With great courage Mr. Cormack rushed to the assistance of the lady, and by firing his revolver, which was loaded with blank cartridge, succeeded in beating off the infuriated animals at no inconsiderable danger to himself. Another example of Mr. Cormack's pluck and readiness was furnished a few years ago, when he dived into 40ft. of water and saved a man from drowning. One of the events of Mr. Cormack's managership of the Jungle was the visit of Mr. George Alexander, the distinguished actor, who performed the ceremony of christening a couple of lion cubs. Another interesting occasion which Cormack recalls is that of officiating as "best man" at a wedding celebrated in a lion's den, the function passing off with the utmost éclat, despite the fact that the principals were surrounded by a half-score of lions, who regarded the proceedings with interest.

Cormack's intrepid feats provide an unequalled attraction for parks, piers, exhibitions, &c., and the coming season should find his services largely in demand.

SHINE v. MOSS' EMPIRES.

Sir Herbert Tree had stated that the play in which he tripped and fell
And hurt his nether branches was Fedora; he remembered well.
Now Shelton says the drama was A Bunch of Violets instead,
But from The Era's file 'tis plain the piece was as Sir Herbert said.
    And so, you see,
    Sir Herbert Tree
  May still march on with head erect,
    But thoughtless Bert
    Is greatly hurt
  To find he's wholly incorrect.
Some years ago, we understand that Bertie Shelton used to be Employed as acting-manager to Sir (then Mr.)
  Herbert Tree.
But as his services are now no longer used where Tree's about,
It would appear Sir Herbert Tree can gently jog along without.
    And though it may
    Be best to say
  That this must be an oversight,
    We quite agree
    Sir Herbert Tree
  In this affair is also right. S. L. J.

Mr. Geo. Dickinson, the courteous acting-manager at the Glasgow Gaiety, is to have a benefit on Tuesday, March 29, when special attractions are promised.

Mr. Fred Edwards and Miss May Edouin left England on Saturday for South Africa, where they open on the 26th inst. at the Opera House, Cape Town. It will be a tour round the world. The company includes Miss Bertha Northam, the Mystic Weimars (telepathists), and Mr. Green.

Miss Evelyn O'Connor (of Jack and Evelyn) occupied a box at the Grand, Glasgow, on Monday, and was an appreciative spectator of the fun provided in Mother Goose by her brother, Jack O'Connor, and Neil Kenyon, Fred Allandale, and the other members of a clever company.

Miss Bertha de Pas is unfortunately suffering from a severe cold contracted through the severe weather in the North, in consequence of which she is unable to fulfil her engagements in South Wales. The various managements have kindly postponed her dates for two or three weeks through the representations of her agents, Tom Shaw and Co.

"A MEDICAL MUDDLE."

Farcical Sketch, in One Scene, by Edward Marris, Produced at the Canterbury Theatre of Varieties, on Monday, Feb. 28.

Teddy Granmere ..... Mr. Edward Marris
Bertie Westminster ..... Mr. Walter Nugent
Maudie Maybud ..... Miss Ethel Ward

A highly amusing trifle in the entertainment at the Canterbury is the above-named sketch, which proves to be an excerpt from The Dandy Doctor, a musical burlesque, with which its author, Mr. Edward Marris, has toured the theatres successfully for a number of years. It exactly suited the tastes of a music-hall audience, who found the adventures of a racing man in a doctor's surgery very diverting. The genial "sport" calling upon the owner of the surgery to transact some racing business, is mistaken for the doctor himself, and enters whole-heartedly into the fun occasioned thereby. His dosing of a dude who comes to him for relief is very laughable, a voluminous book containing remedies for all the ills that flesh is heir to furnishing a fruitful source of mirth. Among the applicants for medical advice is a music-hall artist suffering from an injury to the knee, who affords the sporting man opportunity for further droll exploits, while the lady herself is induced to prove the efficacy of the treatment undergone by indulging in a lively dance.

The mirth of the playlet is maintained at high pressure by Mr. Edward Marris, a genuine comedian, whose resources for creating laughter are unlimited. As the breezy "sport" he keeps the house in high spirits, and reaps a rich harvest of laughs. He is ably supported by Mr. Walter Nugent, who is possessed of a remarkably penetrating voice, making a most amusing dude, and Miss Ethel Ward a dainty and fascinating Maudie Maybud, full of vivacity and charm. An elaborate set, in which every detail of a surgery seems to be reproduced, is carried. The experiment was decidedly successful.

As an extra turn on Wednesday evening a new duologue, entitled A Marble Flirtation was submitted. The story is simplicity itself, and shows how a young married sculptor, who favours the attire of a pantomime principal boy, falls in love with a statue. The wife, however, is a practical person, and scoffs at his devotion to the marble figure, but when the young man expresses in song his readiness to accompany it to "the end of the world," she determines to assert her rights, and changes places with the statue. She makes so presentable an appearance on the pedestal that the erring husband's love for her revives, and when the wife declares herself, he vows he will ever remain true.

The duologue was acted by Miss Edith Courtney and Miss Florence Wilton, the former playing the lover gallantly and singing very tunefully. Miss Wilton made a comedy part of the wife, and was the cause of much laughter, her acting during the singing by her companion of "Ah! che la morte," from Il Trovatore, being particularly quaint. She has some witty lines to deliver, as for example when she calls upon Lloyd George to help her, because the statue "taxes" her strength and she can't "budge it." The ladies worked unremittingly, and well won the applause bestowed on them.

Mr. Godfrey Hemsley of From Scotland Yard fame, has safely arrived in Melbourne, en route for Sydney, after a very successful run with his sketches A Father's Love and A Living Lie.

MUSIC HALL LADIES' GUILD

THIRD GENERAL MEETING.

There was a very good attendance at the third general meeting of the Music Hall Ladies' Guild at the Bedford Head Hotel, Maiden-lane, on Thursday afternoon last.

Mrs. George Smythson was in the chair, and in the course of her opening remarks suggested that their annual general meeting should be held as near the 23rd of September as possible instead of being postponed from time to time as had hitherto obtained. They had no teas or any refreshments now from the Guild—the committee paid for their own refreshments entirely. Presentations were made from the private purses of every lady on the committee. Miss Melinda May, the Secretary, read the report and statement of accounts, as follows:—

REPORT FOR 1908-10.

The Executive Committee have pleasure in presenting this its third annual report and balance-sheet up to date, and wish to draw attention to the fact that it is the postponed general meeting which was originally intended to take place on Nov. 21, 1909, at the Oxford Music Hall. The committee, however, discovered that the majority of its working members could not be present on this date. It will be noticed that the committee list is greatly increased, and that a great many of the leading and influential members of the music hall profession are now giving their active support, helping in many ways to swell the funds. It is very gratifying to know that so many earnest supporters are appreciative of the good work, and the committee hope that many more will join and assist during the coming year. Several special collections have been made, in one instance to bury a poor dear little baby, in another instance to send a poor consumptive to a sanatorium for four months, which was paid for during the whole of the time, and she completely recovered her health. One poor man was in an asylum in the country; the committee looked after the wife in this instance. When, unfortunately, the poor man died the committee brought the wife to London and obtained her a good situation. In another case a home and employment was found for a whole family. The parents of another case are here in London, their children are being looked after in the provinces, the Guild helping to maintain them at school. The poor father, whose health is failing, has been assisted into a hospital; we hope soon to hear of his complete recovery.

THE L.G. OLD AGE PENSION.

The committee wish to draw special attention to maternity cases, for which they find doctor, nurse, nourishment, lending all linen and long clothing for a time, and then giving two full sets of shortening clothes as a gift. Most of these garments are made by the willing hands of the committee and members. During the first year we have had no less than nineteen maternity cases all of which we have helped. Another special feature of our work has been our endeavours to obtain, by writing and investigation, the probability of obtaining the old age pension for some of our poor and aged applicants. Another feature is to place deserving poor and unfortunate cases into homes for the blind where possible and visiting the sick. Although nothing definite has yet been done in reference to combining with Mr Joe Elvin's scheme—the "Variety Artists' Benevolent Institution"—the committee hope to work in harmony in the noble efforts to help the poor and needy. In the absence of Mrs. Fred Ginnet, our worthy president, the committee wish to express their appreciation and thanks for her untiring efforts on behalf of the Guild, who, although so many miles away, kindly sent a cheque for boots to be given to our poor pensioners and their children at Christmas time. Thanks are also due to Miss Maude Mortimer, the retiring vice-president, and also to Miss Belle Elmore, honorary treasurer, for her hard work during her year of office and organising the dinners, which, with the help of the committee, proved such an unqualified success, the first having realised a profit of £23 10s. 9d., the second, a vast improvement, showing a profit of £94 1s. The committee desires to state the work by the secretary of the Guild, Miss Melinda May, in investigating cases, coupled with her other duties, has been performed with ability, tact, and discretion.

THE COMMITTEE'S GRATEFUL THANKS.

The committee of the Guild return grateful thanks to all those kind friends who have helped us in our noble charity:—The Variety Artists' Benevolent Fund for kind co-operation, in no case having refused their assistance; to Dr. Walker, Camberwell-road; to Dr. Burroughs, City-road; to Dr. O'Dwyer, Hackney-road; to Dr. Loudon Gordon, Edmonton; to Dr. J. J. Oakman, Battersea; to Nurse Baxter, Streatham; to the seventy medical gentleman in the provinces who have so kindly and generously promised to attend to all Guild cases in their districts free of charge; to the Rev. Arthur Brinkman and the Variety Artists' Benevolent Fund for letters to enable us to place patients in hospitals and homes; to the clergy; to Messrs. Roberts, Seyd, and Co., Regent-street, honorary solicitors; to the M.H.A.R.A. for their generous donations; to Messrs. H. and M. Rayne, Waterloo-road, and Mr. Morris Angel, Shaftesbury-avenue, costumiers, for many kindnesses received from them; to the gentlemen of the Press; and to Mr. Joe Zarmo for his splendid gift of a motor bicycle, which realised the handsome sum of £30 19s.

Mrs. Smythson said: I can only speak of the work of the committee from the experience of a very few months, though I have from the commencement been a member of the Guild. But during the brief period I have been privileged to assist the committee I have seen much excellent work accomplished and much progress made. Our finances have now been put upon a sound business basis. A weekly financial statement of income and expenditure is placed before the committee which enables us to know exactly how we stand at any moment. And our books are kept in a business-like manner, and I wish to take this opportunity to express our hearty appreciation and thanks to our accountants, Messrs. Hyland and Riches, who have spared no pains to assist us in this direction. If the ladies of the profession generally only knew the great number of necessitous cases we have to deal with weekly, I feel sure a greater number would assist us in this necessary work.

Mrs. C. C. Bartram, in support, said: No incident has impressed me as has the Christmas tree and treat given to the children of the poor of the profession at the Horns, Kennington, last Christmas week. How their little faces brightened with joy when they saw the great Christmas tree laden with pretty toys and the tables heaped with good cheer. What a happy afternoon they had! It was more than recompense for the work of the committee just to see the sunshine it brought into the usually dull lives of the poor little mites. Several of these little children were brought to the treat almost in rags, and painfully few even of those. They were stripped and entirely reclothed, and sent away warm, happy, and comfortable. And now, in conclusion, I want to urge the ladies of the profession to give us more help. I want you to tell as many as you can how much we need their assistance, until all are lending a helping hand. Make a resolution to-day to devote a little time to the Guild work every day, even if only fifteen minutes, and during that time to collect a few coppers, or do some fancy or plain sewing for us. Carry that resolution into effect to-morrow and every morrow of the year. If every lady of the profession would do this, we would not only soon have all the cash we so urgently require, but from the accumulated fancy work we would be able to hold an annual bazaar for the sale of these goods, which, I am sure, would be well patronised, and would gladly assist our funds. Woman's work is many-sided, but the greatest of that work must always remain—Charity. We, therefore, want every woman in the profession to give a helping hand to the Ladies' Guild. If you do not know just what to do to help us, come up to 61, New Oxford-street, any Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock, and we will be glad to tell you. You are always welcome.

Mr. Fred Herbert moved the adoption of the report. He said he had presided over many general meetings, but it was the first time he had been present at a meeting presided over by a lady. It was a very hard matter for a body of ladies to do all the things that were absolutely right. He had very great faith in the way the work was carried out on behalf of the Ladies' Guild. The Ladies' Guild had done everything possible in the cases the Variety Artists' Benevolent Fund had sent them. Variety artists get large salaries—at least, some of them did—but the vast majority of the artists were in struggling circumstances, considering the expenses that had to be taken out of a weekly salary. Therefore the artists knew that in the event of falling on evil times the Guild was an institution on which they could fall in times of trouble. They got a great deal of abuse from undeserving people who did not get help from the V.A.B.F., and he supposed the Ladies' Guild would get their share of such treatment. He congratulated them upon the good assembly present, and hoped it would not be the last meeting he should be invited to attend.

Mr. Douglas Stuart seconded the report, and thanked Miss May for her assistance to the V.A.B.F. during the past year. He knew how hard Miss May worked.

"FOR CHARITY'S SWEET SAKE."

Miss Lil Hawthorne then read an appeal from the committee.

"The committee of the Guild earnestly ask the reader to remember this truthful text: 'It is more blessed to give than to receive,' and to follow its implied advice by assisting them to carry on the good work of relieving the destitute, feeding the hungry, and clothing the poorly clad. Surely it is a blessing to feel that one has been able in some small measure to lighten the sorrowful burden of the poor.

"The ladies of the Guild will attend to the administration of all that is donated and promise that it will be given only to the deserving. The reader has to do so little, just to post a cheque or an order. Think of the recompense—the reward and certain consciousness of well doing! Would that we could touch your hearts, and bring home to you the unhappy knowledge of the distress that should be, and must be, relieved every day the whole year through, with food, clothing, coal, medical attendance during illness, and the necessity of obtaining engagements for unemployed artists, which involves providing new stage costumes and properties, and even paying fares to get to their various engagements.

"One of our great events is the happiness brought into the lives of the dear little children at Christmas time, when we provide a huge Christmas tree, dinner, tea, concert, and games of all kinds, which would gratify the hearts of the givers did they but know. We had a real Santa Claus in costume, who sang and played to the children, distributing the toys from the huge Christmas tree, filled to its utmost capacity by the ladies of the committee, who worked from early morn till late at night, endeavouring to give the children a real happy Christmas. To quote the remark of our visitor, 'Ladies, it is worth all the trouble you have taken.'

"Those who live in the provinces are never forgotten; each year a parcel containing clothing, toys, sweets, &c., is posted to the children with a money order to enable the parents to have a large joint of English beef and plum pudding for their Christmas dinner.

"Beef, pudding, and clothing were also distributed at the Guild Rooms the day before Christmas to nearly forty families, so that everyone had a bright and happy Christmas. The parents have told us that the little mites have never ceased to speak of it, and look forward the same as ourselves to the great joy given by sending them home with arms filled with new clothing, boots, sweets and fruits. We beg of you to give from the depth of your heart, and you will not only have our gratitude, but the blessings of those whom we help through you."

Miss Lottie Albert said they did not give a lot of food away, but what they did give was good. She was present at the distribution last Christmas, and the sight she saw went to her heart. They were only ladies, and they needed a lot of help.

The Rev. Donald Hole said that a small meeting very often roused more enthusiasm than a large one. He had always found that in the former cases the members were the harder workers. The Actors' Church Union did not bar the Ladies' Guild, and the Ladies' Guild did not bar the Actors' Church Union. The work of the Ladies' Guild was a very great work, and he could not speak too highly in respect of the work of the ladies present. It would be a great thing if they could induce clergymen in many of the provincial towns to join with and help them. He congratulated them on the past year's results.

Miss Cecilia Macarte proposed a vote of thanks to the Press.

Miss Melinda May (secretary), on behalf of the committee of the Music Hall Ladies' Guild, begs most gratefully to thank the following:—Mr. Alec Barish, Liverpool, for arranging with the committee and Mr. Carasov, hon. secretary of the Young Men's Hebrew Association, for a collection to be made, which resulted in 35s., as follows:—By the ladies who so kindly gave their services: Mrs. John Foy, 8s.; Miss Ernestine Foy, 5s.; Miss Hollyhassen, 7s. 6d.; Miss Agnes Zambuhl, 5s. 6d.; Miss Elise Gardner, 5s.; and Mrs. Naughton (Naughton and Gold), 4s. Mrs. Terriss, collection 2s. 6d.; Mr. Roy Cochrane, manager, Surrey Theatre, six pairs of boys' new boots; Mr. Coombs (Castle Hotel, Tredegar), at the M.H.A.R.A. dinner, per Mrs. Fox, 10s. 6d.; Mrs. Paul Martinetti, collection at the M.H.A.R.A. dinner, 10s.; Miss Indiana Smythson, at Empire, Bradford (result of hoop-la competition), 10s.; Mrs. Vernon Cowper's 2s. 6d. collection last week was from Mr. Austin Rudd; Mrs. Zola gave and collected 2s. 6d.; Mrs. Kitty Carson (founder of Theatrical Ladies' Guild), letters for hospital; two useful parcels of gentlemen's clothing, anonymous; Miss Lottie Albert, babies' new woollen jackets; and Mrs. Fred Slingsby, for kindness in visiting our cases in Manchester.

"THE ODD TRICK."

Farcical Absurdity, Produced at the Standard, Pimlico, on Monday, Feb. 21.

General Blazeaway ..... Mr. Henry Hare
Angelina ..... Miss Frances Routledge
Edwin ..... Mr. Christopher Steele
Ananias Hustle ..... Mr. Geo. Martin

Full of funny lines and farcical situations and business, The Odd Trick kept Monday night's audience continually on the laugh during the quarter of an hour or so it occupied the stage. Angelina Blazeway, the fascinating daughter of an American millionaire, and Edwin, a dude, are determined to wed, but Blazeway strongly objects to the union, and the couple come to implore the assistance of Ananias Hustle, a registrar of marriages. After they have explained matters he promises to marry them for a consideration; but the irate Blazeaway is heard outside, and Edwin and Angelina beg Hustle to protect them. He tells the girl to go into an adjoining room and disguise herself as a young man, and Edwin dons a smock and wideawake hat, mounts a ladder and assumes the character of a painter. The fiery Blazeaway, armed with a six-shooter, demands to see his daughter and the scoundrel who has lured her away from home, and, of course, Hustle denies all knowledge of the young couple. Edwin slaps the paint-brush in Blazeaway's face when he becomes too inquisitive, and although he sees in the dapper office-boy a striking resemblance to his daughter, he has no suspicion as to the "boy's" identity. When Blazeaway has departed Edwin breathes freely once again, but the millionaire is soon heard returning, and Hustle then tells the dude to hide in a huge box. Safely hidden in this he manages to perpetrate many indignities on his prospective father-in-law by popping out when the latter's back is turned, and the angry Blazeaway accuses Hustle of fooling him. The astute matrimonial agent, who is determined to marry the young couple and get the dollars, then tells the General of a ruse whereby the young man can be made to think he is marrying Angelina. His plan is that the office-boy (really Angelina) shall dress up as a girl and wed Edwin. The millionaire thinks it an excellent joke, and pictures Edwin's discomfiture when he finds out how he has been fooled. When Edwin and Angelina are man and wife, Blazeaway is made aware of the trick that has been played on him, and also compelled at the pistol's point to give them his blessing, confessing he has been beaten by "an odd trick."

The farce was played with a briskness and a bustle essential in a piece of this description, Mr. Henry Hare being very funny as the fiery and firearm discharging General Blazeaway; Mr. Christopher Steele submitting a humorous enactment of Edwin, the dude with an inane giggle; Mr. George Martin contributing largely to the success of the farcelet by his droll portrayal of the wily Ananias Hustle; and Miss Frances Routledge portraying the fair and fascinating Angelina admirably, especially laughable being the incident when, dressed as a boy, she has to imitate the walk and deportment of a girl.

"THE DUD OF THE FAMILY; or, THE WORST WOMAN IN THE PROFESSION."

Burlesque Melodrama, Written by Harold Montague, Produced at the Grand Hall of the Criterion Restaurant on Sunday, Feb. 27.

John Smith ..... Mr. Fred Stephens
Emily Smith ..... Mr. Alfred Thomas
Gladys Smith ..... Mr. Walter Walters
Harold Hardup ..... Mr. Robert Dennant
William Posada ..... Mr. George Robins
Gertrude Uphenphum ..... Mr. Wilson James
Bill Bashem ..... Mr. Harry Ruming
Walter Jones ..... Mr. Harry Briden
Richard Marsh ..... Mr. Harold Montague
Waiter ..... Mr. Bret Hayden

This piece, which was dedicated with due humility to the members of the Concert Artists' Benevolent Association, shows how Gladys Smith, known as the "Dud" because she has "only booked fourteen benefits since Christmas," falls in love with Harold Hardup. They plan an elopement, which is frustrated by William Posada, a villain. William shoots a waiter at a concert because he will only supply one syphon of soda water in the artists' room. Harold is accused of the crime and sentenced to death. Of course, all comes right in the end, and Harold and Gladys fall in to one another's arms, surrounded by the dead bodies of the rest of the cast. The burlesque, which was produced in aid of the Benevolent Fund of the Concert Artists' Benevolent Association, contained many sly hits at the profession, and the spectacle of a comic singer trying to get into Dartmoor Prison—on his card—in order to get away from the annual benefit season was hilarious in the extreme. A notice "Love One Another," hung up in the artists' room at the Frocadero Restaurant, where the second act takes place, caused much amusement.

The entire cast was excellent in every way, and Mr. William Sparks, the energetic chairman for the evening, announced that the fund would benefit to the extent of £50, including donations from Mr. Fred Terry, Miss Julia Neilson, Miss Queenie Leighton, Mr. James Welch, Miss Isabel Jay, Mr. Ernest Devereux, and others.

MUSIC HALL HOME SHILLING FUND.

2,635½ SHILLINGS.

We are again making an appeal on behalf of the Music Hall Home Era Shilling Fund, and with that appeal we have very great pleasure in associating the name of Miss Vesta Tilley, who will for the next few months act as a sort of fairy godmother to the fund. "I think," said Miss Tilley, in conversation with our interviewer the other day, "that the Music Hall Home is a very deserving charity and a very excellent thing. Something of the sort was certainly wanted for the poorer professionals. Every week of my life I give pounds away at the stage-door to numbers of the profession who call upon me for assistance. Now this year I want to create a record in the matter of collections for the fund, and I personally shall work my very hardest for it. In everything I wanted before the profession has always come forward very generously, and I hope that they will help me all they can now. I have a number of private friends who are going to work for me, too. I think, however, that most of the support should come from the professionals themselves. Outside people have their own charities to look after. I have asked my husband if he can arrange special matinées at each of his halls for the benefit of this fund, and he thinks that he will be able to do this. A great deal in that case will rest upon the artists, and if they would turn up we should be enabled to augment the funds of the Home very considerably. Wherever I am now appearing I am fixing up cards so that members of the same company for the week may put their names down for a subscription. I also hope by the sale of autograph postcards in the front of the house to collect a still further sum for the same purpose."

As was arranged last year, a solid gold medal will be presented by The Era to the collector who obtains the largest amount for the Fund up to March 31, 1910, the lists closing on that date.

RINKING GOSSIP AND NOTICES.

Peters Lifts £60.

THE final of the one mile roller-skating professional tournament, open to the world, was held at Earl's Court last Saturday evening. The huge rink was packed to capacity limit. Prior to this, however, the dead heat of Friday night between C. J. Wilson and A. H. Bear was run off, and resulted in favour of Wilson by six yards in 3min. 20sec. The final was contested by the two competitors who had scored most wins during the week, and these were the Americans, Allie Moore and Rodney Peters. After several false starts, Peters got off with the lead, and at the end of the first lap was two or three yards to the good. In each circuit Moore made efforts to get level in the straights, but Peters kept ahead, and won by five yards, in 3min. 12 1-5sec., the fastest time recorded throughout the meeting. The first prize was £60, and the second £20.

Concerning Rodney Peters.

RODNEY PETERS, who has just won the mile roller-skating championship of the world, has had a brilliant career. He has only been racing seriously for three years, and in the last two has carried all before him. The present boom in the States brought him to the front, and having won five world's championships in his own country, he came to England to meet our best. Among seven competitors for the prize at Earl's Court five were Englishmen, who did not seriously trouble the winner, and he had to meet Moore in the final, whom he readily defeated.

A Fine Record.

PETERS is twenty-one years of age, so he has time in front of him to win everything the world has on offer. Last year he won world's championships at Pittsburg, Chicago, and Indianapolis. He also held the Harmon Cup in the States. Trying for the mile record he did it in 2min. 46 2-5sec., but afterwards failed to obtain official recognition for it. Peters has a wonderful turn of speed, and, added to his impetuosity, he makes fast times. If he has anything in hand over an opponent he goes all out and wins by a distance. Restraint is an unknown quantity to him. His style is perfect when going round a track. With his hands folded high up his back, and bending low, he gets over the ground with a machine-like ease. To win his race he unfolds his hands, and with a flying stride astounds spectators with his speed.

Will Harloy Davidson meet Peters?

IT is to be hoped that a match can be arranged between Peters and Harley Davidson—who is on his way here from America—for a purse which the Empress Rink will put up. On this side Harley Davidson has done a mile in 2min. 50sec.

Last Day at Olympia.

LAST Monday saw the finish of the present roller-skating season at Olympia.

Liane de Lou.

MR. BARNES, Holland Park's energetic manager, is doing his utmost to eclipse the Olympia carnival with his big event of Friday, 11th inst. The prize list insures a very large number of competitors. One of those already entered is the famous Parisian beauty, Liane de Lou, who made such a great sensation with a startling Oriental costume at Ostend last summer. The fair Liane will be attended by six Moorish maidens.

Last Skating Carnival at C.P.

NEXT Wednesday the last fancy-dress skating carnival of the season will be held at the Crystal Palace. The programme will be as follows:—6.30, general skating; 8, judging of costumes; 8.45, award of prizes; 9 till 10.15, general skating. Handsome prizes (which are on view in the Centre Transept) will be awarded to the successful competitors.

Why Not Open-Air Rinks?

THE White City is a place of vast spaces, therefore the Star suggests: "Why not asphalt one of the vastest, and make a great open-air skating-rink, for the summer months when it is too warm to skate indoors? Earl's Court might very well follow suit. Asphalt instead of the present gravel would convert the present Empress Court into an ideal rink, with a bandstand ready in the middle. There is money in the idea—and it would undoubtedly appeal to the public."

The Richardson Trophy.

THE Richardson Cup, which will be competed for in the figure championship on March 16, is now on view at Maida Vale, and is one of the finest trophies ever presented to a sporting association. Every figure skater of repute has promised to compete, and as tests are being held by the N.S.A. at Liverpool, probably more talent will be discovered.

John Davidson's Latest.

AT the Worcester Roller Skating Rink last week John Davidson, attired in a striking blue costume, trimmed with fur, gave a very clever turn. Davidson jumped the height of 3ft. 10in., and gave a very amusing imitation of a beginner's first essay in the art.

"Silent Ice Floors."

NEW SKATING PALACES, LTD., has been formed to construct roller-skating rinks and electric theatres, and it is proposed to erect one of each kind at East Dulwich-road, East Dulwich, London, S.E.; one of each kind at Brixton Hill, Brixton, London, S.W.; and also one of each kind at Burnt Ash Hill, Lee, London, S.E., and to acquire and construct roller-skating rinks and electric theatres in other districts as and when favourable opportunities are offered. The company has secured, on most favourable terms, the sole rights for Great Britain and the whole of Europe for Alexander Macgregor's process for making silent imitation ice-floors, which yield a skating surface almost equal to real ice.

Coming Catford Carnival.

A MASKED fancy-dress skating carnival will be held at the Central Hall, Catford, on Thursday, March 17, 1910. Valuable prizes will be awarded.

Committed for Trial.

MR. CHARLES BYNG HALL, managing-director of the County Skating Rink, Kingston, has been committed for trial on a charge—brought under the Disorderly Houses Act—of keeping the rink open and allowing a band to perform in it without having a music and dancing licence.

Phillips at Kingston.

CHARLES D. PHILLIPS, the "champion free skater of Great Britain," has been giving displays at 4.30 and 9 each day this week at the Central Hall, Kingston. Phillips claims to be the leading exponent of the international style of figure skating, and has won many trophies for his skill.

Empress Rink Champion Wins at Maida Vale.

IT remained to be seen how the visitors to the N.S.A. One Mile Championship, held at Maida Vale Rink on Wednesday last, would fare in competition with such experts as are to be found in the ranks of the Lava S.C., one of whose members, D. M. Swain, succeeded in lowering the one mile amateur record of 3min. 24 3-5sec., set up by C. J. Wilson, by 7sec. in the London v. Birmingham tournament at Brixton a fortnight ago. With the Southern Counties champion, H. F. O'Hagan (Empress), who in the event at Earl's Court on Feb. 9 only worsted Swain by inches in a very fine race, J. T. Cooper (the Midland Counties champion), and J. Price (Lava S.C.) (the holder of the N.S.A. mile championship and Benetfink Cup) among the competitors, some very fine racing was anticipated.

Maida Vale Track.

THE track is 7½ laps to the mile, and the event gave one an idea of the abilities of the Midland Counties champion, J. T. Cooper, for in his heat he had nobody good enough to extend him, and he romped home an easy winner by about 40yds. in 3min. 17 1-5sec., which was 2-5sec. better than the previous best for the distance. One of the surprises of the evening was the defeat of the holder of the championship, J. Price (Lava S.C.), in his heat by his fellow-member, S. F. Casey. Price qualified for the final by reason of being the fastest second, and H. O'Hagan (Empress S.C.) was successful in his heat. It was anybody's race until after the bell, but spills put Cooper and two other competitors out of the running, and a great race between O'Hagan, Price, and E. W. Bussey (Lava S.C.) in the straight saw the first-named successful by inches only from the holder.

The Officials and the Final.

Officials:—Judges, Messrs. G. M. Campbell, A. March, and Colonel G. T. B. Cobbett; starter, Mr. H. G. Brockman; timekeepers, Messrs. H. J. Barclay, and D. K. Hall; lap-scorer, Mr. J. C. Poole.

FINAL.—H. F. O'Hagan, Empress, 1; J. Price, Lava, 2; E. W. Bussey, Lava, 3; D. M. Swain, Lava, 4; S. F. Casey, Lava, 0; J. T. Cooper, Birmingham, 0; C. Wiedhoff, Ilford, 0. Casey, Price, Cooper, and O'Hagan were the leaders at two laps, and just later Price went up, only to be displaced by O'Hagan, who led at the bell, followed by Price and Casey. A spill had put Cooper out of the running, and a great finish resulted in O'Hagan's favour by the merest shade. Time, 3min. 19 1-5sec.

Maida Vale Carnival.

THE first fancy-dress carnival at the Maida Vale Skating Palace will be held on Wednesday next, when £100 in cash will be awarded in prizes. A full military band will be in attendance. Competitors' tickets (including use of skates) can be obtained at the rink, price 5s. each. Over 4,000 skaters can be accommodated on the Maida Vale rink.

Eighty-two Shillings.

GEORGE FREDERICK MORGAN, of the Queen's Hall Rink, Peckham, was summoned for having on Dec. 21, Feb. 8 and 19 unlawfully kept open for the purpose of public entertainment without having obtained the grant of a certificate from the London County Council. Mr. Thomas Chilvers, appearing on behalf of the Council, said that the defendant applied to the Council in November last for a music and dancing licence, and he had also on more than one occasion submitted plans for approval of the Council with a view to obtaining a certificate. The Council refused to grant a music and dancing licence. The Council had granted him a provisional licence. Up to the present time the defendant had not completed the hall in accordance with the plans which he submitted to the Council. Since Nov. 23 the defendant had been using the hall for the purpose of skating. The music was supplied by an orchestrion. Answering a question by Mr. Philip Conway, who defended, Sub-divisional Inspector Lee said that the defendant was well known in public life in Peckham, and was a member of the Borough Council. Penalty 40s. and 42s. costs.

For Lady Amateurs.

THE Peerless Roller Skate Company, Ltd., 14, Great Smith-street, S.W., are prepared to put up for competition a handsome silver cup, to be competed for on a date and rink to be arranged. The competition is open to young ladies over the age of fourteen, the distance to be one mile. The Sporting Life will appoint the referee.

Jumped and Saved Himself.

ON Saturday last the Wandsworth Speed Club held their initial race, a mile handicap. The prize was a gold medal, given by Mr. Rowley, president of the club. Ten members took part, including J. Lunn, scratch; A. Sutton, 5yds.; S. E. Hunt, 10yds.; B. Botting, 15yds.; Hayward, Bartlett, and Campbell were limit, each receiving three-quarters of a lap. Everybody got off the mark in fine style. At the first lap Hunt fell, and Sutton, who was following, made an exceptionally fine jump, and managed to clear the fallen man. At the seventh lap Lunn was leading everybody with the exception of Hayward, who was going in fine style. The race now rested with these two, and, after a very good race, Hayward eventually won by 2yds. Mr. Doland, the floor-manager and club handicapper, is to be congratulated on the arranging of the handicap.

Wood Green's First Carnival.

ON Thursday next, March 10, a fancy-dress carnival will take place at the North London Skating Rink, Wood Green. Mr. A. F. Wilson, the general-manager, has arranged to give prizes for handsome costumes. Sergeant Lightning, of Earl's Court fame, and his full force has promised to be present, consequently, the fun should be fast and furious. Mr. H. T. Boys, the local manager, is having the rink decorated. This will be Wood Green's first carnival.

Ayr Pavilion.

PROBABLY in no town in Scotland is rinking more popular than it is in Ayr, and the Saturday opening of the "Pav." is much appreciated by devotees of this exhilarating pastime.

Rinking Popular at Ballsbridge.

AT Olympia Rink, Ballsbridge, there were either competitions or other attractions every evening during last week. On Monday night the "Team Race" was started, which was run off in relays during the week, and was the source of great interest to skaters and spectators alike, resulting in a victory for Mr. Anslow's team by half a lap. First prize was gained by Miss Ada Bell and Mr. A. H. Allen. Saturday afternoon gatherings at Olympia have now become quite a recognised feature in Dublin social life, and the reunion there last Saturday was quite as largely attended as ever. Lady M'Donnell, Miss M'Donnel and party, Sir Henry Lynch-Blosse and a large party of friends, Colonel, Mrs., and Miss Denis MacCarthy, the Misses Blakeney and friends, the Misses Carter, Miss Falkiner, Captain Bolton, Captain and Mrs. Robinson, Captain and Mrs. De C. Wheeler, the Misses Nixon and party, Miss Cooper-Ormsby, the Misses Lyons, Miss Strickland, the Misses Bell, and Mrs. and Miss Gore Browne were present.

Extension of Time at Batley.

MR. W. A. CAMPBELL, manager of the Dewsbury and Batley Empire Roller Rink, applied to the magistrates on Friday last for an extension of time for the rink to be open, the alteration being that the rink should close at 10.30 p.m. instead of 10 o'clock. The application was granted.

Pictures on Wheels.

BURNLEY'S largest skating rink has been granted a cinematograph licence, and other rinks are now asking for the same privilege.

Skating at Cardiff.

GOOD-NATURED rivalry in the exercise of roller-skating on a fine maple floor is daily to be witnessed at the American Roller Skating Rink in Westgate-street, Cardiff. The three sessions at the rink continue to be well patronised. Patrons of the Central Roller Rink, on the Hayes, had their first masked and fancy dress skating carnival last Wednesday night. Increasing attendance is daily seen at the Olympia Rink in Queen-street. The management are at present paying attention to the re-surfacing of the floor.

Dundee Notes.

THE Olympia Skating Palace, under the management of Mr. J. Adams, is still booming. Week after week Mr. Adams provides additional attractions of an irresistible order. At the West End Rink a hockey match, Edinburgh University v. Home Team, was announced for Friday evening.

Rink and Picture Palace at Folkestone.

THE large lawn at the entrance to the Victoria Pier, Folkestone, is to be converted into a first-class open-air lava rink, measuring 175ft. by 60ft. Building contracts have been settled, and the rink will be open to the public just before Whitsun. The Pier Pavilion, which has been used throughout the winter as a roller skating rink, will be converted into a comfortable picture palace, to open at the same time as the open-air rink.

Gateshead Olympia.

OLYMPIA, Gateshead's first skating rink, was opened on Wednesday, when the promoters and their friends had a trial spin. A company, with the title Olympia (Gateshead), Ltd., is running the hall, which is situate next the King's Theatre in Sunderland-road. The floor space is 3,762 square feet, and only white slip maple has been used, making the "top" one of the finest in the North. Mr. A. V. Elliott, late of the Tynemouth Palace and Wellingborough rinks, is manager.

Round the Glasgow Skateries.

THE American Roller Rink in Victoria-road is doing good business. The carnival just held was a success, both from a financial and social standpoint. An "Evening of Sports" took place last week. The programme consisted of a half-mile race for amateurs, obstacle race, balloon race for ladies, egg and spoon race for ladies, &c. There are large attendances at the various sessions at the Dennistoun Rink, too. In the western section of the city there is now only one large enclosure—the West-End Rink—and that establishment is well patronised. Since Mr. Mungo Anderson's initiation as manager at the King's Park rink everything has set off with renewed vigour. The hockey club created more than a favourable impression among the patrons of this rink. The international masquerade and carnival held recently at the Govan Skating Rink proved a great success, there being about 2,000 spectators present.

Gloucester Olympia.

THE newly-erected Olympia Skating Rink, Gloucester, was opened to the public last Monday evening. The building is composed of brick and steel stanchions and girders, and the floor is supported on birch piers on a concrete foundation. The skating surface is 198ft. by 72ft. The floor will be governed by Mr. W. T. Cairns, who has made himself so popular during his term of office as manager of the India House Rink. Mr. Allie Moore has been invited to come to Gloucester at an early date, when people will have an opportunity of witnessing his unique performance.

Gosport's First Skating Rink.

THE Gosport Olympia Roller Skating Rink was formally opened last Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. George Churcher, wife of the chairman of directors, who was the recipient of an ornamental silver key as a memento. There was a crowded attendance of shareholders, skaters, and spectators.

New Game at Ipswich.

MR. W. BARRELL, the secretary of the Empress Club, has introduced a novel game called goal-tennis, and a match was played at the Empress Rink last Saturday evening. The game consists of ten players, five each side, and is played with tennis racquets, small football, and goals. The game was thoroughly enjoyed both by the spectators and players, who are looking forward to a return match. This is the first game of goal-tennis ever played on a roller skating rink.

Leicester Items.

FINE business continues to be done at the Leicester rinks. At the Belgrave Rink Mr. L. H. Cockram has still to combat against the absence of his orchestra. On Saturday the race of a mile between C. Burgess, of the Belgrave Rink, and Upton, of Nottingham, ended in favour of the former. The first grand moonlight carnival and confetti fête took place on Thursday, when fourteen valuable prizes were offered. There are also other attractions announced for this week. Mr. Ernest Holdsworth is another live manager who keeps well to the front at the Boulevard.

AT the Empress Rink Mr. Court continues to make headway. A great feature here is the Elite Club, which has a special session on Friday afternoons, at which most of the prominent people and finest skaters of the town assemble. Another carnival is announced to take place on March 17.

Coming Events at Limerick.

ON March 10 a half-mile race handicap for gentlemen and a quarter-mile race for ladies, will be held at the Limerick rink, and, later on, March 17, a grand fancy carnival is announced.

ON Feb. 26 the Roller Department of the N.S.A. held a figure test meeting at the Tournament Hall, Liverpool. Ten competitors presented themselves for the third International test and nine for the third English test. Of the former, Miss M. Baile, J. D. Harris, A. C. Lemer, J. D. Massey, and A. L. Bray were successful. Miss Baile exhibited an extremely good conception of the methods of International style. Of the English style contingent, the Misses E. M. and N. Anderson, Miss G. M. Cleaver, A. A. Davies, J. D. Massey, H. Gaskell, Wilberforce, and Dr. Musson were successful. The best style was exhibited by Wilberforce, who skated the tests most steadily and in extremely good form. He, however, was run very closely by Musson and the three ladies. The standard reached by these contestants was very high, and all had evidently practised very assiduously. A large crowd viewed the proceedings with great interest, and showed their appreciation of the best of the skating in a very hearty manner. The judges were Mr. T. T. Harley, of Dublin, and Mr. W. Stanton, the hon. secretary of the Association.

Lady Desborough Opens Maidenhead Rink.

THE temporary roller-skating rink at the Pavilion having proved so successful, Mr. George Gude has erected a splendid new building in the adjoining pleasure grounds. The floor, which is of rock maple, provides a skating area of 9,000 square feet. The opening ceremony on Monday last was to have been performed by Lord Desborough, but urgent public business prevented his attendance. Lady Desborough, however, acted for his lordship, and discharged the duty in a very charming manner. Introduced by Mr. J. W. Walker, J.P., she made an effective little speech, and, performing a "tug of war" with a ribbon stretched across the rink, opened the way for a large number of skaters, who were ready to "take the floor." Later, a remarkably clever exhibition of trick and figure skating was given by Mr. Leonard Young, who was afterwards called up and highly complimented by Lady Desborough.

RICHARDSON SKATES are the BEST in the WORLD.

They have held ALL WORLD'S RECORDS for twenty-four years, and every event of importance during the past few years, either fast or fancy has been won on RICHARDSON SKATES, including Harley Davidson's victory at Olympia Rink, London, February 26th, 1909.

STATEMENTS WHICH CANNOT BE DISPUTED:

The Richardson Ball Bearing Skate Co. positively equipped 80 per cent. of the Rinks operating in America. Sixty per cent. of the Rinks in this country operated by independent rink proprietors are equipped with Richardson Ball Bearing Skates.

Richardson Skates are the universal choice of, and used by, practically all the leading instructors, unless employed in rinks operated by other skate manufacturers. The Richardson is the most perfectly constructed Skate on the market. The front truck is under the ball of the foot, and the rear truck practically under the heel, which allows the skater to be over his work. This principle is acknowledged to be the best by the leading skaters of the world. Rear trucks extending back of heel only act as a leverage when skaters lose their balance.

The Richardson Ball Bearing Skate Factory have equipped more Independent Rinks than all other manufacturers combined.

The repairs of Richardson Skates are 50 per cent. less than those of any other make, and the simplicity of construction makes it an easy matter to effect repairs.

THE SHOWMAN WORLD.

P. Collins's New Enterprise.

It is no surprise to those who know the man to find that the monarch of British showmen, P. Collins, has determined to add a first-class circus to his aggregation of popular shows. We hope that more of the ever-popular shows will come into vogue again. It has been forced upon our attention lately at many of our big fairs that more variety in shows would be a great advantage. The recent development of permanent cinematograph palaces in all our towns has largely discounted the attractiveness of cinematograph shows at our fairs. Four or five picture shows all in a row at one fair does not give the show-loving public much choice. Why not a revival of some of our standard shows—the circus, the marionettes, the mechanical show (with modern lighting effects, &c.). Mr. Collins, we imagine, recognises this, and with quick decision proceeds to lead the van.

Guild Service at King's Lynn.

Mr. Charles Thurston's cinematograph theatre was well filled, despite the stormy weather, on the Mart Sunday afternoon. The clergy taking part in the service were the Guild Chaplain and the senior curate of St. Margaret and St. Nicholas. The singing was well maintained by the St. Nicholas choir. The Guild Chaplain conducted the service and preached. The attention of the congregation was marked, and the whole service created a lasting impression.

Plucky Young Lion Tamer.

An exciting incident occurred a little before two o'clock last Saturday morning in the arena of the Frank C. Bostock Jungle, at present being shown in the Glasgow Zoo.

Herr Falkendorf, one of the trainers, had taken three members of his "group," a lion and two lionesses, into the steel arena for his customary practice, and while his attention was directed to one of the latter, the lion Vendredi, without even a warning growl, sprang upon him, bore him to the floor of the arena, and seized the left leg above the knee, burying both his upper and lower teeth in the flesh. Falkendorf, taken so suddenly off his guard, momentarily recovered his presence of mind to draw and fire his revolver, and cause Vendredi to release his hold of the limb.

Trainer Martino, who had previously occupied the arena with a number of bears, was at the moment of the attack signing the Jungle training report sheet. Seizing the emergency revolver and an iron cage-scraper, he rushed into the cage just as the lion was about to make another attack upon Falkendorf, who had lost consciousness, and was lying on the arena floor. Using the scraper as a guard, Martino rapidly fired six blank cartridges into the face of the lion, and succeeded in driving him past the safety gate to the back of the arena, from whence he rushed through the narrow passage to his cage.

Falkendorf, on being carried from the arena, recovered consciousness and refused to be taken to hospital. He was removed to his rooms and attended by Dr. Dinwoodie, who had in the meantime been called in, and who adopted measures likely to prevent the setting in of blood poison, and dressed the wounds. A bad laceration made by one of the lower incisors in penetrating the flesh is regarded by the surgeon as the most serious.

The action of Martino, a young trainer scarcely out of his teens, adds one more to the long list of daring deeds that the "Jungle" trainers have self-sacrificingly done when their comrades have been in danger. Herr Falkendorf is a German by nationality. He is known in America as "Fearless Falkendorf," on account of his apparently unlimited nerve and daring in the training of tigers, a number of which figure in the "group" he presents. It had been arranged that he should appear in next week's arenic programme, but his accident will not permit of this.

Vendredi is a lion of a "bad" type. About two years ago he badly mangled his former trainer, Herr Konigsdorfer, in the Bostock Jungle at Coney Island, New York.

Memories of Old Bristol Fair.

In an interesting note in a Bristol contemporary a correspondent muses thus of old Bristol Fair:—"I remember the time when children, yes, and grown-up people too, counted on the fair from one year to another. What shows there were in those days! Fat ladies, lovely as Venus—or at least we children thought them so—tiny dwarfs, depicted on the canvas outside as "small enough to go into a teapot," but sadly disappointing when seen in reality, though what they lost in size they usually made up in ugliness. Huge giants, as a rule tall enough, but frequently very thin and inclined to be knock-kneed. Lions, tigers, performing pigs, and, as the flaming posters used to say, 'Curiosities brought from the four quarters of the Globe.' I wonder how many people recall the fairs of Bristol with just a little feeling of regret? They were noisy, perhaps vulgar, and certainly not particularly elevating, but we enjoyed them for all that, and nothing quite seems to have taken their places. How well I remember the plays which were performed in a booth called 'The Theatre Royal,' and in which there were invariably two or more murders and a corresponding number of ghosts. Vice was always severely punished in the long run, and virtue came off triumphant. I do not think they ever did us any harm and we certainly enjoyed them tremendously. Bristol was always celebrated for its Fairs. There was St. James's Fair, which began on Sept. 1, and was held in St. James's Churchyard and the adjacent streets, and which was the largest of the Bristol fairs. The second largest was Temple Fair, and here everything imaginable was sold. Cloths of all sorts and kinds, carpets, rugs, blankets, and stockings. Cotton stockings from Tewkesbury, hardware from Birmingham and Sheffield, lace from Nottingham, dresses and trinkets from London, and worsted from Norwich. Then there were 'Flying coaches, waxworks, wire dancing, tumbling, balancing, puppets, Punch and his wife Joan, sea fights, conjuration, magic, and mummery of all sorts recommended by merry andrews, buffoons, drums, trumpets, French horns, fiddles, rattles, and vociferation'—to quote an old writer. It took a month to prepare this fair, and more leather was sold there than at any other fair in England. The shops and standings were built of wood, and in some cases remained permanently. Fifty years ago Bristol fairs were flourishing as vigorously as ever—to-day there are no more fairs. Merchants, performers, and showmen have passed into the land of shades, and our children hardly know what the word fair means."

Mr. J. J. Bennell, proprietor of the Palace, Dundee, has opened up the Empire Theatre in the same town as well. A change of programme is given twice weekly, and there have been crowded houses and absolute success ever since the opening.

FILM GOSSIP.

The New Regulations.

New regulations have been published in the London Gazette for cinematograph shows. They provide, among other things, that no building is to be used unless it be provided with an adequate number of clearly indicated exits, so placed and maintained as readily to afford the audience ample means of safe egress. Fire appliances are to be provided, and in a building used habitually for the purpose of cinematograph or other similar exhibitions they are to include a sufficient number of hand-grenades or other portable fire-extinguishers.

Love's Stratagem.

The Woman From Mellon's is a Markt film, and a story of love's stratagem. Harry Townsend, a young stockbroker, is in love with the pretty daughter of James Petersby, a Wall Street magnate, and as Harry is a very promising fellow, he gives his consent to the match. Harry, however, is hard hit by a panic, and loses practically all, so the young lover is forbidden the wealthy man's house. Despairing, he goes to look for employment, and in answer to the "ad." of a detective agency, he finds the chief an old friend of his, and gets the job. Petersby writes a letter to the Mellon Detective Agency to send to his house a reliable strong woman as guard and companion for his daughter, whom he suspects is bent on eloping. This happens to be the agency with which Harry is connected, and he prevails upon the chief to be allowed the assignment. He then procures the wardrobe, and shaving off his moustache, appears at the Petersbury mansion. Mary is rebellious, and the fact of being watched is extremely repugnant, so she avows that no woman shall watch over her, but she cannot help herself for she cannot stir without having the lady from Mellon's at her side. Finally she bursts into tears of anger, and then Harry discloses his identity. They, however, carry on the little farce, and the father becomes quite smitten with the fair stranger. Besides flirting with him he gives out valuable stock tips, which Harry makes good use of and recoups his fortune. Thus far, everything goes well, but the old gentleman is getting serious, and suggests that they elope. "Good heavens!" So Harry exclaims to Mary, "Hurry up! If you don't elope with me, your father will." So away they go, just as papa enters ready to fly with the fair charmer. Learning of their departure, he follows and traces them to Harry's rooms, where he is prevented from entering while the marriage ceremony of his daughter and her lover is performed. There is nothing left but to make the best of it, which he does, realising what a fool he has made of himself.

The Warwick Boatrace Film.

The Warwick Trading Co. is taking a picture of the University boat race. Views of the Blues as they dash past will be snapshotted from several advantageous spots. The length of the picture they estimate will be about 180ft. Showmen should place their orders at an early date for this important topical subject.

Gaumont's Sole N.Z. Agents.

Messrs. John Fuller and Sons have been appointed sole New Zealand agents of the Gaumont films, both for exhibiting and selling.

Weisker's Picture Palaces, Ltd., has been formed for the purpose of acquiring, as a going concern, and further extending the business of Messrs. Weisker Brothers, cinematograph specialists, engineers, and electric theatre proprietors, with offices, photographic studios, and mechanical workshops, including electrical and full developing and printing plant, capable of making all accessories necessary to the bioscope business, situated at 4, 6, 8, and 10, Wilde-street, Liverpool. The directorate is entirely composed of gentlemen intimately, successfully, and actively connected with the company's business. The price to be paid by the company for the business, theatres, and halls acquired, including leases, underleases, and agreements, stock, and other assets connected with the business is £40,000, payable as to £25,000 in cash, £14,000 in 14,000 fully-paid preferred participating ordinary shares, and £1,000 in deferred shares. The lists are now open, and will close on or before March 8.

Sunday Shows for A.B.F.

Mr. Frederick Mouillot, one of the directors of Electric Theatres, Ltd., has, on behalf of that company, arranged with Sir Herbert Tree, Mr. George Alexander, and Mr. Cyril Maude, that the profits of all the cinematograph theatres open on Sundays owned by this—the largest of all biograph concerns—shall be devoted to the Actors' Benevolent Fund and the Actors' Orphanage.

An Election Leaflet.

From a leaflet which has been circulated by the Imperial Sunday Alliance to all voters in the L.C.C. elections this week, we quote the following passages:—"If the proprietors . . . are allowed to give entertainments on Sundays by way of trade and for personal gain (as they desire, and claim the right to do), an invidious preference would be given to them; . . . and we are certain that managers of theatres and music halls would, in self-defence, immediately make an effort to secure the same right. If this came to pass, we should have Sunday amusements all round, with seven days' compulsory service for all engaged in places of amusement. These places of amusement are already earning from forty per cent. dividends and upwards during six days a week. There is no necessity for them to be opened on Sundays. Vote only for the candidate who will secure fair play all round by keeping Sunday free from all unnecessary business. Safeguard your Sundays."

Adventures of Dr. Nikola.

An interesting film of the adventures of Dr. Nikola has been shown at many provincial halls this week. It will be remembered that the first of this series was shown a week or two ago, when Dr. Nikola obtained a magic cane from a Chinaman. This week Dr. Nikola makes use of the cane, and by its "magic" he gains admission to the Chinese Convent of Lama in Tibet. After the secrets of the monks and mysteries of the convent have been disclosed to him, his disguise is discovered, and he is condemned to death, but escapes.

At the Jap. Exhibition.

Sir Henry Trueman Wood, as president of the Japan-British Photographic Section, states that the display on the British side will be the finest yet placed before the public, especially as regards the loan collection. This will be shown in a separate room in one of the exhibition palaces. In an adjoining apartment will be all the most up-to-date scientific results in colour photography. Here will also be demonstrated the system of long-distance electric picture-taking, while from all over the provinces the best photographers are, for the first time, being given the advantage of showing their work each on separate screens.

Training Doctors by Cinema.

The cinematograph is being introduced into American scholastic life as a serious aid to study. Long ago now, Professor Doyen, one of the most amazingly rapid and sure of the French surgeons, had records made of his own operations as he actually performed them. His professional brethren frowned on his methods, partly because it was thought they smacked of advertisement, and partly from the conviction that the quick operating necessary was dangerous to the patient; they even hinted that Dr. Doyen might "sew-up in a hurry" and jeopardise the success of the operation, only to have a clean record in the limited time possible to the cinematograph. American Medicine says that the cinematograph lecture will give the country a great school of surgeons. "Heretofore, medical men desiring to acquire facility with any particular method have been obliged to make pilgrimages to the clinic or hospital of the recognised expert. Soon this will be unnecessary, for each medical school can have its own collection of films showing classical operations by the world's master surgeons. Every student will thus be able to study and observe first-hand. Every physician knows how unsatisfactory are the practical surgical courses in many colleges. With, however, a series of films properly selected at the outset and added to as opportunity offers, the smallest and most unpretentious school can train its students as well in surgical technic as its most successful metropolitan competitor."

I.S.A. and a Weekly Rest Day.

The chairman and executive of the Imperial Sunday Alliance are drawing the attention of municipal electors to the importance of supporting those candidates only who will use their best endeavours to secure (1) the six days' working week—with one day's rest in seven—for all employees of the L.C.C.; and (2) the refusal of Sunday licences to cinematograph or other public entertainments opened for purposes of trade or for personal gain. In urging these reforms, the Alliance claims to be voicing the earnest plea of the employees, including those engaged in the amusement industry, and is supported by ratepayers of all classes. The principle of a weekly day rest is indeed already recognised as the normal standard for L.C.C. industrial employment; and its impartial application to all grades and ratings of the employees is desired by men of all parties on the Council. How directly this sound and simple principle bears upon the unemployment problem—by distributing the seventh-day "overtime" among the unemployed—is readily seen from the case of the London Police, the recently granted Weekly Rest Day providing regular employment for some 1,400 "new" policemen.

Italian Political Riots.

The latest Ambrosio film shows how Pauli, the famous conspirator and leader of the rioters, escapes from his imprisonment in the Three Towers, but followed by the prison guards, has a hard struggle to hold his advantage in the chase which ensues. Well nigh exhausted with his efforts, he manages to mount the wall of a castle, and is almost over when a shot from the soldiers strikes him as he falls into the grounds of what proves to be the Duke of Cesena's castle. Here he is discovered by the owner, to whom he tells the facts of his escape, and of the proximity of the soldiers. The Duke agrees to assist him in baffling the search party, and taking him to a mask ball taking place in the castle, he borrows the Duchess's domino and covers Pauli just before the soldiers appear. Pauli plays his part right beneath the eyes of his would-be captors. Pauli recovers from the effects of his wounds, and an attachment springs up between the Duchess and her patient. During the Duke's absence one evening the pair, oblivious to all surroundings, indulge in expressions of affection, but the light from the lamp throwing the shadow of their forms upon the curtains, gives silent evidence to the astonished Duke. Petrified almost by the revelation of a fact he had not suspected, he is at first tempted to break in upon the pair, but stifling his anger, determines to seek redress by other and more certain means. Informing the Government of the presence of the notorious Pauli, plans are duly laid by the Duke for the visit of the military guards to take him prisoner. The appearance of the soldiers alarms the Duchess, and she hastily runs indoors to warn Pauli of his danger. Pauli attempts to make a bold stand, but in the firing which takes place, a shot finds its mark in the person of the Duchess. Taking one brief look at his companion as she measures her length upon the pathway, Pauli turns his pistol upon himself, and drops beside her, raising himself in his last moments to imprint a dying kiss upon her lips.

Wilful Walter.

The worst boy in the school is Wilful Walter, and his adventures are shown in an Ambrosio film. Walter is always late, and a source of trouble to parents and schoolmaster alike. Along the street to school his mother has to push and goad him, and it is not until they have brought down vegetable stalls in their struggles that the mother gives up her task. Offering the boy some money as an inducement, she extracts a promise from him to go without further trouble, and leaves him. No sooner is her back turned than the spirit of mischief suggests an investment in some fireworks. Having made his purchase he proceeds to the school-house, and whilst the master's attention is devoted to a lesson on the blackboard, he fixes a large fire-wheel to the side of the desk and sets it going with a splutter. Walter is for the moment the hero of the school. The young rascal indulges in a number of other equally laughable and mischievous escapades. Length 320ft.

400 Miles of Picture Films.

The immense development of the cinematograph industry in France has placed the officials of the National Library in a dilemma. In accordance with law a copy of the scenario of every play produced by the cinematograph has to be deposited at the library, and last year over 3,000 of these scenarios were received. The library has also accumulated nearly 400 miles of cinematograph films. The authorities are at a loss to know what to do with them.

A film of The Blue Bird, as produced at the Haymarket Theatre, has been shown this week at the Kensington Picture Palace, by arrangement with the Gaumont Co., Ltd., the holders of the exclusive rights. We print the plot, as it may be of general interest. Christmas Eve—Mytil and Tyltyl put to bed.—Their dream begins.—Entrance of the Fairy Berylune.—The Fairy explains her mission, bidding Tyltyl find the Blue Bird. She presents him with a cap adorned by a magic diamond, which makes the souls of things visible.—"Turn the diamond once round, and then——" The hours issue from the Clock.—Loaves from the Bread-pan.—Fire comes out of the Hearth.—Milk and Sugar, Cat and Dog, all have "Souls," which appear on the scene.—The Dance of Fire and Water.—Fancying he hears his parents coming, Tyltyl turns the diamond to disperse the "Souls."—Alas! he turns it too quickly!—Several of the Souls fail to disappear and follow the children in their search for the Blue Bird (The Symbol of Happiness). In the Palace of Berylune.—Led by the Cat, the Souls conspire to get rid of the children, but the Dog will not hear of it.—Bread cuts a slice of himself, and Sugar breaks off pieces of his fingers to refresh the children.—The Land of Memory.—Welcomed by their Grandparents, long departed.—Grandpa measures the children to see if they have grown since he left them.—Tyltyl asks for the Bird which is "A Blue Black Bird."—The children have supper with their departed brothers and sisters.—The children return, but as they have stayed over their time, the bird's colour is changed.—Tyltyl's disappointment at finding the Bird black. The Forest.—The Cat turns traitor and incites the trees and animals, which all have souls, to kill the children.—The plot frustrated by the faithful Dog.—"Light" also comes to the rescue, and the animals disperse. The Kingdom of the Future.—Unborn children awaiting the call of Father Time.—Father Time arrives to take to Earth those who are due to be born.—Future Inventors, Mechanics, &c., yet unborn.—The parting of the Lovers, who will meet again on Earth. The Palace of Night.—In spite of "Night's" warning, Tyltyl opens the doors from which issue the "Horrors."—The faithful Dog protects them from pestilence.—The Dance of the Stars.—Tyltyl opens the Garden of the Blue Bird, and all escape with Blue Birds, which die.—The return home. Leave-taking with the Souls.—The grief of the faithful Dog, the last to leave. The Awakening in the Wood-cutter's Cottage.—The children think their dream has been true, and their mother thinks them ill.—She sends for their Father.—Father announces them well.—Tyltyl describes their travels and adventures in search of the Blue Bird. Looking for the "Hours."—The children present their Blue Bird to a kindly neighbour who has a sick child, and all is well.—"Thank you."

Strand Theatre De Luxe.

This week's programme at the Theatre de Luxe, Strand, includes the following pictures:—Three Thanksgivings, In Southern Tunis, Choosing a Mother-in-Law, The Lord and the Gypsy, Tobacco Mania, The Training of Horses in Buenos Aires, and Foolshead at the Ball.

Lewisham P.P.'s Noble Visitors.

The Electric Palace, High-street, Lewisham, was visited on Wednesday last by the Duchess of Marlborough, Lord Percy, and Lady Blandford, who expressed themselves to Mr. Jess Smith, the manager, as being delighted with the pictures

Death of Adolphus Rowella.

After only a short illness, Mr. Adolphus Rowella, the manager for Mr. Matt. Raymond at the Picturedrome, Grimsby, died on Sunday last. He was attending to his duties until within a few days of his death, and it was only the previous Sunday that he was taken ill. A violent attack of influenza was the cause of death. Mr. Rowella had been in the theatrical profession since boyhood, his first situation being with Mr. Richard Warner, the variety agent. Then he was appointed secretary of the Star, Bermondsey, and ultimately became the manager, his connection with that house extending over twenty-two years. Mr. Rowella next held posts at Hoxton and the Queen's Park Hall. In June last he came to Grimsby to manage the Picturedrome for Mr. Raymond.

Yorkshire Manager's Benefit.

Mr. Arthur Izon, manager of the Alexandra Picture Palace, Morley, Yorks, takes his second annual benefit on Thursday next.

At the Albert Hall, Darwen, a good set of films include The Postmistress, Anne of Masovia, Capture of Bear Cubs, and An Easy Job. Varieties are introduced by Hector and Lauraine, upside-down comedians; Hope Jones, Welsh tenor; and Arthur Bright, Swiss piper.

Two exceedingly interesting pictures are shown at the Operetta House, Edinburgh, this week, namely, The King on His Way to Open Parliament and A Visit to the London Zoo, which are very enjoyable. The Poacher's Revenge and The Stolen Necklace are both films of no little dramatic merit. A Cure for Cowardice keeps the audience in continuous laughter; while Mr. Neil Nelson, comedian, contributes the variety part of the entertainment.

A Spanish Girl, The House of Cards, and When the Plumbers Called are the principal films shown at Pringle's Picture Palace, Edinburgh. The variety entertainment is contributed to by Earl and Melville, comedians, and Mr. W. E. Hilton, "the Scottish Valentine Vox."

The Picture Hall, Falkirk, opened a fortnight ago, is doing very good business. The pictures are educative and interesting, and these are interspersed with variety. This week illustrated songs are being given by Mr. Ralph Goggin.

On Monday evening Mr. J. Cummings, of picture fame, opened a several weeks' engagement at the Town Hall, Falkirk, with a capital show. An excellent programme of variety turns was provided by the Royal Selbonians, comedy jugglers; the Sisters Hall; the Richards' Trio; and Cora Duncan and Albert Brasque.

In its demand for animated pictures the public has become fastidious, but its taste may be fully gratified by the liberal assortment of films always provided at the Palace Theatre, Dundee, by Mr. Lunn. The Heroine of Mafeking portrays the siege in realistic manner—the attack on the trenches and the astounding bravery of a titled lady in conveying water to the thirsty "Tommies."

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

A meeting of cinematograph operators will be held on Tuesday next at 10.30 a.m. in the Rehearsal Room at the Musicians' Union Club, 9, Great Newport-street, W.C. (near the London Hippodrome). Mr. A. Malcolm, President of the National Association of Cinematograph Operators, will preside. Among the list of speakers are Mr. C. Jesson, L.C.C., Mr. William Johnson, Mr. H. K. Merritt, secretary of the N.A.C.O., and Mr. Edwin Catlin. All operators are urged to attend, as several important matters will be laid before the meeting.

A meeting called by a new union called the "National Union of Cinematograph and Skating Rink Employees" was held at the London Bridge Picture Theatre on Sunday evening. There was a very small attendance. Mr. E. S. R. Smith, formerly secretary to the National Society of Operative Printers' Assistants, and of the "One-and-All Assurance Society," presided. Mr. Smith admitted that the new union had not yet drawn up its rules, or fixed its entrance fee or contributions, and, apparently, he and the organiser were the only members of the new union present. It was reported that a circular had been sent to all candidates seeking election to the London County Council, asking them, if elected, if they would permit places of amusement being open on Sunday by way of trade, and two replies, not altogether favourable, were read. The attendance at the meeting did not indicate the alleged discontent of the employées of picture theatres with the action of the London County Council. It was pointed out by Mr. Wm. Johnson that the proposed new union had no justification for its existence, having regard to the fact that there were already in existence unions to which these employées could belong, and even if the new union was formed it would not be recognised in the Labour movement, as the national organisations had decided not to recognise any union formed in any trade or business already covered by existing unions. Mr. Smith said he did not know of the existence of the N.A.C.O. The operators whom he seeks to organise know that the N.A.C.O. is in existence, and know what it has done and aims to do for them.

A meeting of the committee of the Cinematograph Operators was held on Tuesday, when a number of applications for membership were granted and a report of members attending the meeting mentioned above was considered. It was decided to send the following letter to the Chairman of the London County Council:—

The National Association of Cinematograph Operators,
29, Wellington-street, Strand, London.
March 1, 1910.

The Chairman, Theatres Committee,
London County Council, Spring Gardens.

Dear Sir,—I am instructed by my committee to draw your attention to the fact that the London Bridge Picture Palace, 116 and 118, High-street, Borough, S.E., was open on Sunday evening last, and that an announcement appeared on a sheet of paper posted at the doors that the theatre was open for the benefit of the "Bioscope Operators' Benevolent Fund." On the same announcement appears the "National Union of Cinematograph and Skating Rink Employees."

With regard to the "Bioscope Operators' Benevolent Fund" we question whether there is any other such fund in existence except the fund under the control of my committee.

We also wish to draw your attention to matters affecting the bona fides of the "National Union of Cinematograph and Skating Rink Employées." At a meeting held on Sunday evening on the premises of the London Bridge Picture Theatre, Mr. E. S. R. Smith, presiding as the chairman of this organisation, stated that the rules had not been drawn up; that the entrance fee and contributions had not been fixed; and, without avail, invited nominations for the committee from the meeting. Several members of our committee were present to protest against the proceedings. We were also informed that communications in the name of this union had been addressed to all candidates for election to the London County Council, asking them to agree to Sunday opening by way of trade and personal gain, and this request was made, ostensibly in the name of employees yet to be secured as members of that organisation.

We doubt if one employee other than our members was present at this meeting on Sunday last, and we protest that that organisation has no claim to be recognised by your Committee.

We trust your Committee will ask for the rules showing how the funds of any charitable funds are being utilised by societies who obtain permission from your Committee to give entertainments on a Sunday, as otherwise the regulations will be ineffective. Yours sincerely,

(Signed) H. L. Merritt,
Secretary.

At a meeting of the General Staff branch of the N.A.T.E., held on Wednesday evening, the Secretary gave a report of the proceedings taken on behalf of members affected by the action of Mr. Robert Hilton. As Mr. Hilton had left the country the summonses issued by members could not be served. The committee decided to take counsel's opinion as to the right of action against the directors of Cleodan, Ltd., which had apparently been formed to finance Mr. Hilton at the Strand Theatre. The committee also decided to advance the amount due to the members from Mr. Hilton, as a loan from the funds, pending a settlement of the case.

Mr. Johnson had written to Lord Clifford of Chudleigh, whose name appeared on the list of directors, and his Lordship had replied to say he had no responsibility in the matter, and that his name had been used without his knowledge or consent, and he thanked Mr. Johnson for drawing his attention to the matter. The committee are determined not to let the case drop if anyone can be made responsible for the matter.

THE GREAT SHOW OF THE YEAR.

THE INTERNATIONAL CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION.
BUENOS AIRES, ARGENTINE,
"OLYMPIC GARDENS," THE CENTRE OF ATTRACTION.

Apart from the well laid out gardens lake, and extensive grounds, considerably more than ONE MILLION DOLLARS is being expended solely on the beautiful buildings of this AMUSEMENT SECTION of the Argentine Republic's Great Centennial Exhibiton.

This Section is to remain open almost the whole year, and to be continued permanently on somewhat similar lines to the "White City" or "Earl's Court" of London.

Buenos Aires is the Paris of the New World, with a population of over 1,300,000 amusement-loving people, and a mild summer climate that lasts practically the whole year round.

The display of luxurious wealth and lavish expenditure in this Great City of the South astonishes and deeply impresses all visitors. These features, due to the amazing development of the country and the stupendous wealth of its marvellously rich and illimitable resources, make it to-day the chief commercial goal of the world.

"OLYMPIA" (originally the Japanese Gardens) is a large natural park located in the heart of the city, and on this unique site there is now being erected a careful selection of all the leading and most successful features of the most famous Amusement Parks of the world.

PROMINENT SPACE IS NOW AVAILABLE for good concessionaires and FIRST-CLASS attractions. It offers a golden opportunity for manufacturers of novelties. Apply by letter only to THE LONDON AGENT, INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITIONS, LTD., OF BUENOS AIRES, 50, GRESHAM ST., LONDON, E.C.

NEW REGULATIONS UNDER THE CINEMATOGRAPH ACT.

By the courtesy of the Under-Secretary of State for the Home Department, the president and council of the Showmen's Guild have received official copies of the new Statutory Rules and Orders issued by the Home Secretary under the Cinematograph Act, 1909.

It is with great satisfaction that we place the new regulations in extenso before our readers. It will be remembered that The Era took an active part, before the Act had secured the full approval of Parliament, in rousing to a proper sense of the impending danger that the Cinematograph Bill, as originally drafted, threatened the whole of the film-making and film-using industry.

We can all be wise after the event, but it is obvious that if the various threatened interests had taken counsel together before the Bill was through Parliament, a great many of the difficulties would have been avoided that since the Act came into operation so seriously endangered the business and enterprise in all its branches of cinematography.

Valuable Definitions and Concessions.

Our first reading of the new regulations impress us with the important truth that a great many of the practical difficulties of the cinematograph exhibitor in public halls, with touring companies, panoramas, &c., have been met by the Home Office.

We have received scores of letters from exhibitors following this line of business. In every case we have advised our correspondents to form into line and join the Cinematograph Defence League, and so obtain an official expression of their grievances through their Trade Union at the Home Office.

The concessions obtained by this class of exhibitor using public halls are of the utmost value. With the new regulations before us we repeat with greater warmth, and particularly our appreciation, of the most excellent work done by the executive officials of the Cinematograph Defence League.

Indeed, it is not too much to say that if, apart from the particular class of film-users we have specifically dealt with, there had been no other advantage gained but clearer definition that the redrafting of the regulations give, it would have been ample reward for the labours of the Defence League executive.

There are, however, as we have already indicated, great modifications and important concessions that will materially benefit all cinematograph exhibitors. These we briefly indicate :—

(1) The abolition of the ventilating shaft from the operator's box to the roof.
(2) The removal of that terrible bugbear of inspecting officials—the smoke-proof box.
(3) The 14in. spool box.
(4) The clearer option given to the licensing authority to dispense with the necessity for the operator's box being outside the building.
(5) The dropping out of the regulations of a number of tiresome requirements that only tended to fret and worry the cinematograph exhibitor without securing any practical advantages.
(6) The removal of the voltage limit fixed at 110 meets a great practical difficulty with regard to public halls and where the supply of electricity is from public sources.

Having thus indicated the importance of the modifications and concessions of the new regulations, we ask our readers now to carefully compare the old regulations issued by authority on Dec. 20, 1909, with the new regulations under date Feb. 18, 1910, and to bear in mind that the old regulations are null and void; that all kinds of cinematograph exhibitors are under the new regulations. It now remains for the local authorities to fulfil their duties in a liberal and practical manner, having regard to the importance of the industry that cinematography has brought into being.

STATUTORY RULES AND ORDERS, 1910.
No. 189.
CINEMATOGRAPH, ENGLAND.

Regulations, dated Feb. 18, 1910, made by the Secretary of State under the Cinematograph Act, 1909 (9 Edw. 7, c. 30).

In pursuance of the power vested in me by the Cinematograph Act, 1909 (9 Edw. 7, c. 30), I hereby make the following regulations :—

GENERAL.

1. In these regulations the word "building" shall be deemed to include any booth, tent, or similar structure.

2. No building shall be used for cinematograph or other similar exhibitions to which the Act applies, unless it be provided with an adequate number of clearly indicated exits so placed and maintained as readily to afford the audience ample means of safe egress.

The seating in the building shall be so arranged as not to interfere with free access to the exits; and the gangways and the staircases, and the passages leading to the exits shall, during the presence of the public in the building, be kept clear of obstructions.

3. The cinematograph operator and all persons responsible for or employed in or in conection with the exhibition shall take all due precautions for the prevention of accidents, and shall abstain from any act whatever which tends to cause fire and is not reasonably necessary for the purpose of the exhibition.

FIRE APPLIANCES.

4. Fire appliances adequate for the protection of the building shall be provided, and shall include at least the following, namely : a damp blanket, two buckets of water, and a bucket of dry sand. In a building used habitually for the purpose of cinematograph or other similar exhibitions they shall also include a sufficient number of hand grenades or other portable fire-extinguishers.

The fire appliances shall be so disposed that there shall be sufficient means of dealing with fire readily available for use within the enclosure. Before the commencement of each performance the cinematograph operator shall satisfy himself that the fire appliances intended for use within the enclosure are in working order, and during the performance such appliances shall be in the charge of some person specially nominated for that purpose who shall see that they are kept constantly available for use.

ENCLOSURES.

Regulation applying in all cases and to all classes of buildings.

5.—(1) (a) The cinematograph apparatus shall be placed in an enclosure of substantial construction made of or lined internally with fire-resisting material and of sufficient dimensions to allow the operator to work freely.

(b) The entrance to the enclosure shall be suitably placed and shall be fitted with a self-closing close-fitting door constructed of fire-resisting material.

(c) The openings through which the necessary pipes and cables pass into the enclosure shall be efficiently bushed.

(d) The openings in the front face of the enclosure shall not be larger than is necessary for effective projection, and shall not exceed two for each lantern. Each such opening shall be fitted with a screen of fire-resisting material, which can be released both inside and outside the enclosure so that it automatically closes with a close-fitting joint.

(e) The door of the enclosure and all openings, bushes, and joints shall be so constructed and maintained as to prevent, so far as possible, the escape of any smoke into the auditorium. If means of ventilation are provided, they shall not be allowed to communicate direct with the auditorium.

(f) If the enclosure is inside the auditorium, either a suitable barrier shall be placed round the enclosure at a distance of not less than two feet from it, or other effectual means shall be taken to prevent the public from coming into contact with the enclosure.

(g) No unauthorised person shall go into the enclosure or be allowed to be within the barrier.

(h) No smoking shall at any time be permitted within the barrier or enclosure.

(i) No inflammable article shall unnecessarily be taken into or allowed to remain in the enclosure.

Regulations applying only to specified classes of buildings.

(2) In the case of buildings used habitually for cinematograph or other similar exhibitions the enclosure shall be placed outside the auditorium; and in the case of permanent buildings used habitually as aforesaid the enclosure shall also be permanent.

Provided, with regard to the foregoing requirements, that, if the licensing authority is of opinion that compliance with either or both of them is impracticable or in the circumstances unnecessary for securing safety and shall have stated such opinion by express words in the licence, the requirements or requirements so specified shall not apply.

LANTERNS, PROJECTORS, AND FILMS.

6. Lanterns shall be placed on firm supports constructed of fire-resisting material, and shall be provided with a metal shutter which can be readily inserted between the source of light and the film-gate.

The film-gate shall be of massive construction and shall be provided with ample heat-radiating surface. The passage for the film shall be sufficiently narrow to prevent flame travelling upwards or downwards from the light-opening.

7. Cinematograph projectors shall be fitted with two metal film-boxes of substantial construction, and not more than fourteen inches in diameter, inside measurement, and to and from these the films shall be made to travel. The film-boxes shall be made to close in such a manner, and shall be fitted with a film-slot so constructed, as to prevent the passage of flame to the interior of the box.

8. Spools shall be chain or gear driven and films shall be wound upon spools so that the wound film shall not at any time reach or project beyond the edges of the flanges of the spool.

9. During the exhibition all films when not in use shall be kept in closed metal boxes.

LIGHTING.

10. Where the general lighting of the auditorium and exits can be controlled from within the enclosure, there shall also be separate and independent means of control outside and away from the enclosure.

11. No illuminant other than electric light or limelight shall be used within the lantern.

Electric Light.

12.—(a) Within the enclosure the insulating material of all electric cables, including "leads" to lamps, shall be covered with fire-resisting material.

(b) There shall be no unnecessary slack electric cable within the enclosure. The "leads" to the cinematograph lamp shall, unless conveyed within a metal pipe or other suitable casing, be kept well apart both within and without the enclosure and shall run so that the course of each may be readily traced.

(c) Cables for cinematograph lamps shall be taken as separate circuits from the source of supply and from the supply side of the main fuses in the general lighting circuit, and there shall be efficient switches and fuses inserted at the point where the supply is taken, and in addition, an efficient double-pole switch shall be fitted in the cinematograph lamp circuit inside the enclosure. When the cinematograph lamp is working, the pressure of the current across the terminals of the double-pole switch inside the enclosure shall not exceed 110 volts.

(d) Resistances shall be made entirely of fire-resisting material, and shall be so constructed and maintained that no coil or other part shall at any time become unduly heated.* All resistances, with the exception of a resistance for regulating purposes, shall be placed outside the enclosure, and, if reasonably practicable, outside the auditorium. If inside the auditorium, they shall be adequately protected by a wire guard or other efficient means of preventing accidental contact.

The operator shall satisfy himself before the commencement of each performance that all cables, leads, connections, and resistances are in proper working order. The resistances, if not under constant observation, shall be inspected at least once during each performance. If any fault is detected, current shall be immediately switched off, and shall remain switched off until the fault has been remedied.

Limelight.

13.—(a) If limelight be used in the lantern the gas cylinders shall be tested and filled in conformity with the requirements set out in the Appendix hereto. The tubing shall be of sufficient strength to resist pressure from without and shall be properly connected up.

(b) No gas shall be stored or used save in containers constructed in accordance with the requirements contained in the Appendix.

LICENCES.

14. Every licence granted under the Act shall contain specific conditions for the carrying out of regulations 2 and 5 (1) (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), (f) in the building for which the licence is granted, and may, in accordance with regulation 5 (2), contain an expression of opinion on the matters referred to in the proviso thereto.

15. Subject to the provisions of No. 16 of these regulations, every licence granted under the Act shall contain a clause providing for its lapse, or, alternatively, for its revocation by the licensing authority, if any alteration is made in the building or the enclosure without the sanction of the said authority.

16. Where a licence has been granted under the Act in respect of a movable building, a plan and description of the building, certified with the approval of the licensing authority, shall be attached to the licence. Such a licence may provide that any of the conditions or restrictions contained therein may be modified either by the licensing authority or by the licensing authority of the district where an exhibition is about to be given. The licence and plan and description or any of them shall be produced on demand to any police constable or to any person authorised by the licensing authority or by the authority in whose district the building is being or is about to be used for the purpose of an exhibition.

17. The regulations dated Dec. 20, 1909, made under the Cinematograph Act, 1909, are hereby repealed, provided, nevertheless, that any licence granted prior to such repeal shall remain valid for the period for which it was granted without the imposition of any more stringent condition than may have been imposed at the time of the grant.

Given under my hand at Whitehall this eighteenth day of February, 1910.

H. J. GLADSTONE,
One of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State.

APPENDIX.

LIMELIGHT.

The gas cylinders shall be tested and filled in conformity with the requirements set out below, which follow the recommendations of the Departmental Committee of the Home Office on the Manufacture of Compressed Gas Cylinders [C. 7952 of 1896] :—

Cylinders of Compressed Gas (Oxygen, Hydrogen, or Coal Gas).

(a) Lap-welded wrought iron.—Greatest working pressure, 120 atmospheres, or 1,800lb. per square inch.

Stress due to working pressure not to exceed 6½ tons per square inch.

Proof pressure in hydraulic test, after annealing, 224 atmospheres, or 3,360lb. per square inch.

Permanent stretch in hydraulic test not to exceed 10 per cent. of the elastic stretch.

One cylinder in 50 to be subjected to a statical bending test, and to stand crushing nearly flat between two rounded knife-edges without cracking.

(b) Lap-welded or seamless steel.—Greatest working pressure, 120 atmospheres, or 1,800lb. per square inch.

Stress due to working pressure not to exceed 7½ tons per square inch in lap-welded, or 8 tons per square inch in seamless cylinders.

Carbon in steel not to exceed 0.25 per cent. or iron to be less than 99 per cent.

Tenacity of steel not to be less than 26 or more than 33 tons per square inch. Ultimate elongation not less than 1.2in. in 8in. Test-bar to be cut from finished annealed cylinder.

Proof pressure in hydraulic test, after annealing, 224 atmospheres, or 3,360lb. per square inch.

Permanent stretch shown by water jacket not to exceed 10 per cent. of elastic stretch.

One cylinder in 50 to be subjected to a statical bending test, and to stand crushing nearly flat between rounded knife-edges without cracking.

Regulations applicable to all Cylinders.

Cylinders to be marked with a rotation number, a manufacturer's or owner's mark, an annealing mark with date, a test mark with date. The marks to be permanent and easily visible.

Testing to be repeated at least every two years, and annealing at least every four years.

A record to be kept of all tests.

Cylinders which fail in testing to be destroyed or rendered useless.

Hydrogen and coal gas cylinders to have left-handed threads for attaching connections and to be painted red.

The compressing apparatus to have two pressure gauges, and an automatic arrangement for preventing overcharging. The compressing apparatus for oxygen to be wholly distinct and unconnected with the compressing apparatus for hydrogen and coal gas.

Cylinders not to be refilled till they have been emptied.

If cylinders are sent out unpacked the valve-fittings should be protected by a steel cap.

A minimum weight to be fixed for each size of cylinder in accordance with its required thickness. Cylinders of less weight to be rejected.

Accompanying the official copy of the new Regulations was an explanatory letter dealing with the causes that had led the Home Office to issue the new Regulations, and also referring to point by point the variations between the two sets of Regulations.

The letter is as follows :—

Home Office, Whitehall,
Feb. 25, 1910.

Sir,—I am directed by the Secretary of State to transmit to you, herewith, a copy of the amended Regulations, dated the 18th instant, which he has made under the Cinematograph Act, 1909, in substitution for the Regulations of December 20 last.

The new Regulations are for the most part in substance the same as those which they repeal, but the experience already gained has led the Secretary of State to introduce amendments on several points on which practical difficulties have arisen or modifications are required to meet the varying circumstances in which cinematograph and other similar exhibitions are given. At the same time the opportunity has been taken to make certain alterations in the drafting and arrangement of the Regulations, with a view to greater clearness.

I am to draw attention to the following points. Reference is made by the numbers in brackets to such of the old Regulations as are replaced or amended by the new provisions, to which attention is drawn.

Fire Appliances. Regulation No. 4. [11.]

The requirements as to fire appliances have been considerably amplified, so as to indicate what appliances should, according to the class of building, be available in every case. As regards the distinction drawn between buildings habitually used for cinematograph or other similar exhibitions and buildings not habitually so used, it is not intended that the latter class should be confined to buildings which come within Section 7 (2) of the Act.

The appliances must be so disposed that sufficient means of dealing with fire may be available for use within the enclosure, and some person specially nominated for the purpose is required to be responsible for the appliances being kept constantly available during the performance. As thus modified, the rule allows of some appliance, e.g., the bucket of dry sand, being kept within the enclosure, if this is considered desirable; and while it requires an attendant to be specially nominated to the duty of keeping guard over the fire appliances, it does not require this to be his sole duty, if that is not reasonably practicable.

Enclosures. Regulation 5. [2, 3, 9, 10, and 13.]

All the provisions relating to enclosures have been brought together under one head, and arranged in two sections, (i) applying in all cases and to all classes of buildings; (ii) applying only to specified classes of buildings.

1. As regards amendments on particular points, I am to say that, as the term "smoke-proof" lent itself to too strict an interpretation, the word "close-fitting" has been substituted wherever it occurred, and a new clause 5 (e) added, explanatory of the sense in which the door, openings, bushes, and joints are required to be close-fitting. It was also found that it was difficult or impracticable to comply with the requirement as to ventilation direct to the outside air in many cases where the enclosure was not of a permanent nature, particularly in the case of travelling shows exhibiting in public halls, &c. The object aimed at, viz., to prevent, in the case of fire, the escape of smoke into the auditorium, will be sufficiently attained, the Secretary of State thinks, by the provision that, if means of ventilation are provided, they shall not be allowed to communicate direct with the auditorium. I am also to draw attention to the altered requirements with regard to a barrier round the enclosure (Clause 5 (f)). A barrier need be placed only where the enclosure is inside the auditorium, and must be at a distance of not less than two feet from the enclosure.

2. The conditions of the repealed Regulation 2 (a), requiring that the enclosure should be "outside the building or auditorium," were satisfied if the enclosure was outside the auditorium, but, as this has not been clearly understood, the words "building or" have been omitted. While it is desirable that the enclosure should be placed outside the building where reasonably practicable, it is physically impossible in very many cases that it should be so placed.

What constitutes the auditorium must of course vary in different buildings, and from time to time in the same building. The enclosure may be regarded as outside the auditorium, if outside the limits to which the audience is allowed to extend during the performance. For example, the enclosure may be placed in a gallery from which the public is for the time being excluded.

Under the old Regulations it was necessary to obtain a licence in the case of a building used for cinematograph or other similar exhibitions exceptionally and occasionally only, and on not more than six days in any one calendar year, if it was desired to have a temporary enclosure inside the auditorium. Under the new Regulations the requirements that the enclosure shall be permanent and shall be placed outside the auditorium do not apply except in the case of a building habitually used for cinematograph or other similar exhibitions.

Lanterns, Projectors, and Films. Regulations 6, 7, and 8. [4 and 8.]

With reference to the rule that lanterns shall be placed on firm supports of fire-resisting material, I am to explain that this does not necessitate the use of supports constructed of metal, e.g., a stand with a teak or other hardwood top is permissible.

Experience has shown, the Secretary of State thinks, that in place of allowing 14-inch film boxes in the case only of an exhibition for which a single film is used, the general use of film boxes of this size may safely be permitted, subject to the new provisions (i) that all film boxes shall be chain or gear driven, and (ii) that films shall be wound upon spools, so that the wound film shall not at any time reach or project beyond the edges of the flanges of the spool.

Lighting. Electric Light. Regulation 12. [6.]

Words have been added in Clause 12 (b) so as to allow (e.g., in the case of an alternating supply) both leads to the lamp being taken within the same pipe or casing, a course to which there is no objection provided that the pipe or casing is of metal or other suitable material.

I am also to draw attention to the last sentence in Clause 12 (c), which makes it clear (i) that it is only when the cinematograph lamp is working that the pressure of current inside the enclosure is not to exceed 110 volts, and (ii) that this limitation applies only to the pressure across the terminals of the double-pole switch in the cinematograph lamp, and not to any pilot light in the enclosure.

Clause 12 (d), which deals with resistances, is to a large extent new. It specifies the overheating of resistances as the danger to be particularly guarded against, and places upon the operator the responsibility of seeing before the commencement of a performance that resistances, cables, &c., are in proper order.

The rest of the changes in the Regulations are mainly of a drafting nature.

I am, Sir,
Your obedient Servant,
EDWARD TROUP.

Chaplain and Organiser,

* E.g., they should not become so heated that a piece of newspaper placed in contact with any part of the resistance would readily ignite.

"RICHELIEU'S SPY."

By Ivan P. Gore, Produced at the Surrey Theatre, on Monday, Feb. 28.

Count Arderre .....MR. FRANK POWELL
The Abbot of Bonne .....MR. WATKIN WYNNE
The Executioner .....MR. CALVIN CLARKE
Blanche de Brugonne ....MISS FRANCES CAMPBELL

If one remembers all the ladies who are credited by various authors with having intrigued and spied for the famous political priest Richelieu, the number is legion. Dumas doubtless started a fashion when he immortalised Miladi, and as all Japanese sketches include a British naval officer and a tea-garden scene, after the manner of the famous musical comedy The Geisha, so all Richelieu sketches seem bound to have a D'Artagnan kind of hero and a Miladi kind of heroine. Richelieu's Spy, by Mr. Ivan P. Gore, produced at the Surrey this week is very carefully treated on the conventional lines. Count Arderre (Mr. Frank Powell) is very much in love with his mistress, Blanche de Brugonne (Miss Francis Campbell), but as he is a fighting man as well he is likewise very much away from home. So the lady passes the time pleasantly by intriguing for the Cardinal. But as she is an escaped Nun, for some time past the Abbot of Bonne (Mr. Watkin Wynne) and his minions have been on her track. When, therefore, the Count leaves his fair charmer to go on a military mission, enter four men—one the public executioner. Blanche tries to wheedle and cajole the Abbot in vain, and after accusing her of many crimes, she is branded on the shoulder with the fleur-de-lys, even as Miladi was, that all men might know her as an excommunicant. She is still moaning with pain when the Count unexpectedly returns. Blanche learns from him that he possesses certain papers, and determines to drug him. But the Count is suspicious and feigns to be asleep, after making a pretence of swallowing the wine. Blanche appropriates the papers, and talking aloud, says sufficient to show the soldier that he has been this woman's dupe. There is a very good and powerful scene now between accuser and accused. In the end the Count strangles his mistress. The acting of Mr. Powell and Miss Campbell is sufficiently good to make one feel creepy. The murder by slow process of a beautiful woman is never good to see, and we could wish that Mr. Gore had found a pleasanter curtain.

Another sketch in the same programme with a gruesome ending is The Key, capitally played by Mr. Gilbert Heron, Mr. Victor Huntley, and Miss Jessie Danvers. The Key is the story of an old friend who steals the love of his chum's wife. The chum suspects and returns home suddenly. The wife hides her lover in a big safe, and her husband, suspecting how matters stand, locks the door and puts the key in his pocket. In an attempt to save her lover from suffocation, the wife confesses her guilt, but her husband determines that his false friend shall pay with his life for his treachery. When, with a sardonic laugh, he flings the safe key at last to his wife, she opens the door, and the dead body of her lover falls at their feet.

Turning from this double dose of tragedy with a sigh of relief to Cline and Clancy, we get a pair of patterers and dancers of A1 brand. Their turn is bright, brisk, new, and very welcome. So is that of the girl contralto, Gladys Witton. This young lady first gives us an Irish ditty, and then sings of Scotland very nicely. But we winced a little, Gladys, when your song-writer thought it necessary to rhyme "Allanah" with "Banner," and in another "Scotland" with "Hot Land."

Marie Santoi's "Japanese Tea Garden by Night" is a very pretty act and now in fine working order. The lady is in good voice just now. But the British naval officer should not be in full dress. A naval warrant officer sitting near the writer remarked : "If that fellow were to do such a thing in real life, he'd lose his ship, and serve him right for being such an ass." The interest in the remainder of the programme is well sustained by Dave Laird, Eight Marvels, Les Five Jover, and Flush.

RINKING GOSSIP AND NOTICES.

To Follow Mi-Carême.

THE great building of the Paris Hippodrome has now been transformed into roller floors. The entire space on the ground level has been got into shape for the purpose, and the galleries on each side, which can accommodate thousands of spectators, have been turned into beautiful promenades. There will, of course, be buffets, cinematograph, and other side-shows, and several orchestras. The great building is to be opened anew shortly after the Mi-Carême festivals, and the premises will be given over entirely to the joys of dry skating and the sounds of popular bands.

Roller-Skating Royalties.

THE roller-skating craze has now reached the Quirinal. The Throne Room has been converted into a rink, which was used last week by a party of skaters invited by Queen Elena. The party numbered thirty, and included Princess Helena of Servia. The mosaic floor of the Throne Room lent itself to the pastime, and the skating-party was so successful that Queen Elena has arranged several more.

Carnival at Motherwell.

MOTHERWELL RINK held its first fancy-dress carnival on Thursday in last week, and, as a result, a record attendance was attained.

Geo. Holt's Benefit.

MR. GEO. HOLT, manager of the Nottingham Empress Rink, is to be given a benefit performance by his directors This function will be held on the night of Thursday, April 14.

Stockton's Double.

THE first team of the Royal Rink Hockey Club journeyed to Ferryhill on Wednesday, Feb. 23, and were victorious with 6 goals to 3. The second team played Middlesbrough second, and also won by 1 goal to nil.

Valentine Carnival at Stourbridge.

A VERY successful carnival was held at Stourbridge on Feb. 24. Spectators numbered about 500, and skaters nearly 200. The costume that stood out above all the others was that of the Wedding Cake, worn by the Era correspondent, Mr. C. E. Evason. The idea was well carried out with wreaths of flowers, sugar, and tinfoil. Mr. Evason secured the first prize. This is the third carnival at Stourbridge, and Mr. Evason has secured the first prize for the most original costume each time.

Speed Events at Ton-y-Pandy.

AN exceptionally attractive gymkhana was held at the Pavilion Rink, Ton-y-Pandy, on Friday. Included in an extended programme were two speed events, the first in South Wales. Exhibitions by Mr. J. E. Peach were highly appreciated. The ladies' and gentlemen's hockey clubs are doing well.

The Only One.

OF the Widnes rinks, alas! only one now remains, but of five tip-top rinks the Borough Rink has become the only popular and fashionable "skatery" in Widnes, and, as will be expected, business is booming. Attractions are supplied by the energetic management in galore, but hockey matches rule as prime favourites. The Borough possesses eight fine teams, and the "leading lights"—the Borough champions—top the Liverpool and Wirral Rink Hockey League.

THE wedding of Mr. J. H. Tinney, of Truro, to Miss Harriett Henderson, niece of W. C. and S. Hancock, and adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Hancock, took place at Stoke Church, Devonport, on Feb. 21. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. W. Hancock, and the best man was Mr. C. Hancock. The bride wore a travelling dress of brown face cloth, with hat to match. The bridesmaids were Miss Sophia Barrett, niece of the bride, and Miss Amy Locke, and wore white silk Empire dresses. The guests were Miss W. Hancock, Miss S. Hancock, Mr. M. Tinney, Miss P. H. Kneebone, Mr. and Mrs. Spinney, Mr. T. Woodley, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. A. Locke, Mrs. and Miss Hamlin, Master Albert Young, and George Locke. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. St. John Mitchell, of Dawlish, the appointed minister for the travellers in the West of England during the months of August and September. The Bridal and Wedding March was played at the church by the organist, Mr. Harris. The bride and bridegroom left by the 3 55 train for Cornwall to spend the honeymoon. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Tinney desire to thank their many friends through this paper for their numerous presents.

THE principal pictures at the New Public Hall, Carlisle, this week are The Opening of Parliament by the King, and an intensely dramatic film, Cleopatra; another dramatic picture which is very popular is To Save Her Soul. Amongst others are two good humorous films, The Lieutenant's Orderly and A Late Dinner Guest. Packed houses are still the usual thing.

VERY good audiences are the rule at the Dewsbury Industrial Hall this week, and there are some very delightful pictures. The Yellow Devil is a very exciting one.

Oswestry March Fair.

MRS. FLORA COLLINS No. 1 Wonderland show was the chief attraction at this fair. The principal machines were provided by Mr. P. Collins, who exhibited the No. 1 motor-cars, the fine set of four abreast galloping horses, and the twin ships in the air, and racing bicycles. The rifle ranges, shooting galleries were provided by Messrs. Fossett and Wright. The houp-la circles by Messrs. Mills, Birch, Lewis, and Cordwell. Throwing games in great variety by Messrs. Humphreys, Jones, Farrell, Mills, and other caterers. There were numerous stalls and other amusements, the whole forming an excellent fair.

NOTICE.—OPTION CLAUSE.

COUNSEL WAS REQUESTED TO ADVISE

Whether, having regard to the terms of Clause 16 in the model contract attached to the Arbitrator's Award, the Management are entitled to insist upon the exercise of their option.

(a) In the event of the Artiste having filled by engagements made either wholly or partly after the date of the contract, all vacant dates within 18 months after the date of the notice of intention to exercise the option, and

(b) In the event of the Artiste having, in similar manner, partly filled his time so that the number of vacant dates within that period is insufficient to comply with the option.

COUNSEL'S OPINION.

In my opinion the clause requires the Artiste so to arrange his or her engagements, made after the date of the contract with the Management as to render it possible for the artiste to fulfil a re-engagement with the Management, should the latter exercise the option conferred upon them by the contract; and that it is no answer for the Artiste to say that he or she cannot fulfil such re-engagement because of engagements made by him or by her after the date of the contract.

(a) In my opinion the Management are entitled to insist upon the exercise of their option, although the Artiste may have filled up all vacant dates within 18 months after the date of the notice of intentionto exercise the option, provided such engagements were made wholly after the date of the contract. So far as these engagements were made before the date of the contract, the Artiste is entitled to fulfil them, and the Management cannot insist upon such engagements being a breach of the artist's contract with them.

(b) In my opinion the Artiste is bound to reserve sufficient dates to enable him to fulfil a re-engagement by the Management. If, therefore, he accepts engagements after the date of the contract which prevent him fulfilling his re-engagement in its entirety, he commits a breach of his re-engagement.

IMPORTANT NOTICES.

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS.—All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office. Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns. Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier. Artists employing agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents. New Acts seeking Engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our District Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follow:—

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, and DISTRICT.—MR. S. GETHING, Empire Theatre, Glasgow.

LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, and DISTRICT.—MR. T. GERALD MORTON, Empire Palace, Leeds.

BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, and DISTRICT.—MR. HATTON WHARTON, Empire Theatre, Nottingham.

LIVERPOOL, MANCHESTER, and DISTRICT.—MR. HORACE COLE, The Empire, Liverpool.

SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.—MR. ALBERT MITCHELL, Empire Theatre, Cardiff.

LONDON DISTRICT.—MR. J. CHRISTIE, Empire Theatre, Shepherd's Bush, W.

TOURS COMMITTEE.—LLEWELLYN JOHNS and DISTRICT MANAGERS.

EMPIRE THEATRE, SOUTH SHIELDS.—Artists working in the North of England who have odd weeks vacant are invited to communicate with the Local Manager at above Theatre, with a view to arranging a trial week.

N.B.—MR. OSWALD STOLL or MR. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously. Artists and Agents are requested to note that the Standard Theatre, Shoreditch, and the Terriss Theatre, Rotherhithe, come within the areas absolutely barred by us. Artists and Agents are also requested to note that the Hippodrome, Aston, Birmingham, comes within the area absolutely barred by the Grand Theatre and Empire Palace, Birmingham.

INSTRUCTIONS TO ARTISTS.—Artists must have at least Fourteen Band Parts for English Orchestrations, and Seventeen Band Parts for Foreign Orchestrations. Matter of Bill, Blocks, and Specimens of Pictorials FOR THE ABOVE THEATRES must be sent to Co-operative Offices, at above address, THREE WEEKS before Opening, failing which Artists will run the risk of having their Engagements cancelled. It is important that separate bill-matter, blocks, pictorials, &c., for Dublin, Belfast, and South Shields, be sent direct to Mr. Frank Allen at the Co-operative Offices. IMPORTANT.—Artists must forward Copies of Songs to the STAGE DEPARTMENT, ABOVE ADDRESS, TWO WEEKS previous to opening, with Assignments for same, which will be returned. Artists are requested to note carefully that the clause in their contracts relating to rehearsals will in future be strictly enforced. Artists' Scenery, Properties, &c., MUST be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Licensing Authorities. ARTISTS WILL CLEARLY UNDERSTAND THAT THEIR BUSINESS MUST BE FREE FROM ALL VULGARITY.

No order or contract for goods or services must be accepted for any of the foregoing theatres except upon receipt of an Official Form, issued from the Co-operative Offices, London, and signed by either Mr. Oswald Stoll, Mr. Frank Allen, or the Chief Accountant, otherwise the Company concerned will not be responsible for same, and will refuse payment. In special cases, where goods are required at once, suppliers must look to the individual placing the order, who will be personally liable, unless an official confirmatory order, signed as above, is received within forty-eight hours. Invoices must be sent to the Theatre, but monthly statements should be sent to the Co-operative Offices. The individual Company on whose behalf orders are signed is solely responsible for payment. The Management will not hold themselves responsible in the event of loss of or damage to any MSS., Songs, &c., submitted for consideration.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS

ABERDEEN.—HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Robert Arthur Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Adair Nelson.—Peter Pan is crowding His Majesty's with enthusiastic audiences. The production is on a most elaborate scale, and with Miss Pauline Chase as the "hopeful who wouldn't grow up," nothing is lacking to make this one of the most notable novelties of the season. Miss Chase receives excellent support from Miss Gertrude Lang, Master Harry Duff, and Master Herbert Hollom as the three bright darlings, Wendy, John and Michael; while Mr. Frederick Annerley, Mr. George Shelton, Mr. Walter Pearce, and Miss Sybil Carlisle are all first-rate exponents of the "grown-ups."

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Percy H. Gallagher.—The bill is topped by Signor Arvi with his wonderful "Metablescope," by means of which he gives some very fine representations of famous paintings. Another fine turn is that of Paul Paulton and George Doley, smartly humorous trick cyclists; others contributing being George Hendry, light comedian; Walton and Lester, "the Worst Wizards on Earth"; Geo. James and Ted Cowan, both clever comedians; the Creedons, in a smart boxing act; the Zanfrellas, novelty equilibrists; and Vere and Nelldon, versatile artists.

ACCRINGTON.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—Mr. George Dance's Company is paying a welcome return visit here with Miss Hook of Holland. Miss Gertrude Melville is heard to good effect in the various numbers allotted to Miss Hook; Miss Cissie Sephton commands commendation for her delineation of Mina; Mr. Edmond Russell acquits himself capably as Mr. Hook, and Mr. Wood Mansey plays in first-class style as Captain Paap. As the Bandmaster Van Vuyt Mr. Arthur Ballance acts and sings in an admirable manner; Mr. George Mudie, junr., makes an excellent Ludwig Schnapps; and Mr. Fred Dark as Simeon Slinks keeps the audience in a continual state of merriment.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Accrington Hippodrome Co.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Mould.—Chas. Aldrich is creating quite a sensation with his marvellous quick change entertainment, and the burlesque of a tramp juggler is much appreciated. The MacConnell Trio, in a new vocal comedy sketch, The Invalid, supply a turn of much interest; and Milner and Story sing and dance acceptably. Irve Hayman and his little girl partner present a most interesting episode entitled Christmas Eve. The Brilliants are expert xylophonists, and Guy Ruyder is a vocalist and whistler of merit. Miss Lil O'Gorman is a charming comedienne; and Eily Adair, Irish songstress, and the Bioscope pictures complete the list.

ALDERSHOT.—ROYAL AND HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Jack Gladwin.—The programme presented this week is above the ordinary run Mr. John Warren (Court Magician to the late Sultan of Morocco) appears as a ventriloquist and "the conjurer at home," and with his company gives an exceedingly clever magical military mystery. Some extraordinary dances are given by Messrs. Clarke and Mostol, whose patter is particularly good; Mr. G. Fenn, in an elocutionary scene, "Phil. Blood's Leap," by Robert Buchanan, provokes applause; Miss Mamie Iris is a clever comedienne and dancer; Jackson Collis, a chirpy, cheerful chorus comedian; and Miss Mollie Wynter just a whistling girl. Miss Fanny Humber, in a musical quick-change and dancing act, is much appreciated.

ALEXANDRA PICTURE PALACE.—Proprietors, Carpenter's Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. H. Crocker.—The management here are again providing a good bill. A lady vocalist, Flo Inman, proves an acceptable turn with a couple of well-rendered songs, and a large number of interesting films are shown with great clearness. An instructive picture showing The Birth of a Big Gun at Sir William Armstrong's works at Elswick is well worth seeing, and whilst watching The Carnival of Nice one feels that one is really witnessing the marvellous procession in reality. Other capital pictures are The Red Man, Comedy of Mr. Brown, Letting the Cat out of the Bag, &c. An attractive bill is advertised for next week, including a war picture, A Heroine of Mafeking, and little Ivy Lee, a child vocalist and 'cello-player.

WIDE WORLD PICTURES.—Proprietors, Messrs. J. Golder and B. Sloman.—A good selection of films is being shown here, one of the best depicting Life in the British Navy. Others include The Missionary's Daughter, Bird in a Gilded Cage, The Revengeful Lover, An Apostle of Gaul, The Hypnotiser, Modern Pirates, Date Industry, Jaggers Breaks All Records, The Forgotten Umbrella, Shortsighted Cyclist, Salvation Army Lass, The Smugglers, Unfaithful Cashier, Sentimental Thief, A Four Years Old Heroine, The Poacher's Wife, and Fishermen's Perilous Work. There is a children's matinée on Saturday.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill, jun.—Messrs. Armitage and Leigh's company, organised for the tour of Mr. Wilson Barrett's latest play, Lucky Durham, is here. Mr. Edmund Kennedy, specially engaged for the part of John Durham, gives a powerful depiction of a strong character; Mr. Arthur Leigh, as Reggie Steighton, depicts very cleverly the vagaries of a scapegrace son, and Mr. William Calvert as Lord Mountfallon sustains the character impressively; Miss Florence Tressilian as Helen Vallerton is all that is tender and lovable; an acceptable interpretation is given by Miss Frances Wolverton of Lady Mountfallon; Miss Dorrie Turner is amiable as the Hon. Margaret Steighton, and a capital characterisation is furnished of Mrs. Durham by Miss Nelly Bonser.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Jesse Burslem.—The return visit of Messrs. Sutton and Rayner's dramatic company was welcomed by a good audience on Monday, when Jim the Penman was well staged. Captain Redwood was admirably played by Mr. Raynor, whose easy, nonchalant manner was well assumed; equally fine as an impersonation of craftiness and quiet villainy was the portrayal of Baron Hartfeldt by Mr. Jos. B. Montague; Mr. Milton C. Curtis scored as James Ralston, and other able exponents of character were Messrs. Clinton Baddeley, Conrad Heywood, Ed. Ashworth, and C. Babbington; the conception of Nina Ralston by Miss Cecilia Dare won deserved sympathy and applause; a fine appreciation of what was required in the impersonations of Agnes Ralston, Lady Dunscombe, and Mrs. Chapstone was shown in the studies of Misses Dora Dench, Frances Waring, and Hilda Blanche. Camille and Still Waters Run Deep are also in the week's bill.

THE NEW PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech; Assistant-Manager, Mr. E. A. Sims.—Some capitally-displayed Pictures are again shown at the Pavilion this week. There is the stirring incident of a feud in the Cotton States of America; the Kentucks are at daggers drawn, and some tense moments are witnessed by the spectators. The picture is entitled Sins of the Fathers. Black Beauty introduces a wonderfully-trained horse. Taking a Day Off is, as the title suggests, a humorous experience. Accompanied on a Tom-Tom is quite a new kind of picture. Of the travel series of films the Electric Train from Fayet to Chamounix is really a delightful excursion. Mysterious Cigar is another picture which has for its object the amusement of the spectator. Madame Schofield, contralto vocalist, sings some good songs in splendid voice. Harry McKenzie, the Scotch comedian, gives some good songs of Bonnie Scotland. Mr. Alan Wright supplements the vaudeville turns with baritone songs, illustrated.

THE ODDFELLOWS' HALL.—Lessees, the Ashton Entertainments Syndicate; Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Marks.—This week's exhibition of films is very attractive. Cossette is a film illustrating a story of deep interest, and arouses much concern for those who are enacting the personages in dumb show. Foolshead's Crime consists in the eccentric man's perverseness of behaviour by which he renders himself liable to punishment. Bridegroom's Joke turns out a little alarming, but ends up happily. Saved By His Sweetheart is a tale of a courageous woman's devotion for her lover. Bleary Oh is a village aviator who creates much fun and not a little disaster to others by his vagaries. The Pillagers is a beautifully coloured picture of mountain bandits, who capture a young girl, and steal and pillage.

THE PICTUREDROME.—Lessees, Messrs. Weisker Bros.; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. Leckie.—The heading of the bill for the week is Her Terrible Ordeal. It is a dramatic story, a story of a young lady who is rescued from a terrible situation by her admirer; it is certainly most exciting. Mr. Fred Garland, a coster comedian, and Miss Flo Warner, a noted chorus song singer, are the interlude artists.

ATTERCLIFFE.—THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manageress, Miss Ethel J. Hope.—What is described by the management as a "great special week" is announced here, the principal attraction being a sensational picture dealing with the Martyrdom of Adolf Beck. Other pictures include The Ordeal, Lines on the Hand, The White Nigger, The Test, and An Apish Trick. Chorus songs by Miss Daisy Birch, and the efforts of Mr. Jerry Hayes, comedian, give variety to the programme.

PICTURE PALACE.—Lessee, Mr. Matt Raymond; Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward King.—The high standard of excellence aimed at by Mr. Raymond is being maintained, and this week's pictures are the very latest productions of cinematography. On the Reef is a superb series, which thrills the audience. Other interesting pictures are Duchess D'Anglais, Grandeur and Decadence, Taking a Day Off, Too Short of Chairs, Stolen Cherries, and another of the popular Foolshead series. Pleasing variety is given by Miss Jessie Starr, a taking Scotch comedienne, and Mr. King Leo, a smart and original ventriloquist; and also bright selections by the Scarlet Band.

AYR.—PICTURE PALACE.—At this amusement resort there are quite a number of "star" pictures this week. A Fisherman's Bride takes well, as also does the old favourite Blue Beard. Calimo's Fire Extinguisher is nothing if not a mirth-creator; From Egg to Spit is a beautifully coloured instructive picture; Maud Müller, The Open Gate, and The Zoo at Antwerp make up a comprehensive programme.

BARNSLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. A. C. Mitchell.—Mr. Geo. Dance's Company in that popular musical comedy Our Miss Gibbs is here. Miss Effie Vincent is successful as Miss Gibbs; she sings sweetly and has a charming style. Mr. Vincent Erne causes no end of fun as Timothy Gibbs; Mr. S. Radcliffe is thoroughly at home as Lord Eynsford; Mr. Eustace Burnaby is good as Hon. Hugh Pierrepoint; Mr. J. P. Durant is an exceedingly smart Slithers; Miss Ellaine Thorne is well adapted to the part of Mlle. Jeanne; Miss Lilian Birtles as Lady Thanet sings well and acts agreeably; Miss Amy Singleton as Duchess of Minster is extremely funny.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing Director, W. Smithson.—A capital programme is being appreciated by crowded houses. The Daunton-Shaw Troupe of Australian cyclists top the bill, and their tricks are simply astounding. Horace White meets with a hearty reception, his pianoforte recital and ventriloquial show being much above the usual standard; Cliff Ryland is a comedian who makes the audience laugh; Passmore Brothers pay a return visit and go as well as ever; Lucretia and Josephine, burlesque artists, give a neat show; Charles Ulrich is not termed "the Barrel King" without reason; Miss Mi Narom is delightful; Wun Hi Lung, a Chinese illusionist, quite mystifies the onlookers. The Bioscope show clever pictures, including the Barnsley—Queen's Park Rangers Cup tie.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Roberteon; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Mr. Wilson Benge's company in The Sinner is here. He himself does exceptionally well as Monk Stretton, and Mr. Charles Burdon is effective as Edgar Thornton; Mr. Frank Radcliffe is a typical Bill Stanton, and Miss Mona Gray a capital Meg Stanton; Miss Geraldine Verner is a good Vera Ewen, and Nora Stretton is well done by Miss Jane Wigney, the heroine, Honor Thornhill being played admirably by Miss Sadie Smith.

HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—Miss Horniman's répertoire company is here. Miss Edyth Goodall makes a charming Candida in Bernard Shaw's play; Mr. B. Iden Payne is a clever Eugene Marchbanks; Mr. Henry Austin a good Rev. Mavor Morell, and Miss Ada King an intelligent Proserpine Garnett; Mr. Edward Landor is a quaint Mr. Burgess, and Mr. Basil Dean an amusing Rev. Alexander Hill. Candida was preceded by Mother to be. Widowers' Houses and Cupid and the Styx are also billed.

TIVOLI.—Lessee, Signor Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Wood.—The Venetians present a most artistic and interesting turn of living statuary, singing, and pictures a musical treat is given by Orpheus, who has to respond to several recalls; the Gilberts have an exceedingly clever tight wire act; the Eldras, smart acrobats, are assisted by a clever dog; J. C. Scatter is amusing; Andrew McManus has a capital voice; and Lily Ward is a pleasing comedienne.

BATH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—Alone in London once again is being staged here, the presentation being in the hands of a capital all-round company under the direction of Mr. Charles Gibbon. The four leading characters, Nan, John Biddlescombe, Old Jenkinson, and Richard Radcliffe, are finely impersonated by Miss Nellie Clyde, Mr. Russell Norrie, Mr. J. W. Wilkinson, and Mr. Gerald Jordan; Miss Laurie O'Neil enacts Tom Chickweed in a truly pathetic style that calls forth much sympathy; the most intelligent child actress seen here for a long time is Hetty Hornsby as Little Paul, who, considering her tender years, exhibits wonderful talents; two popular artists are Mr. Frank Caffrey and Miss Carrie Young as Charlie Johnson and Liz. Jenkinson; equally in favour is Miss Molly Monaghan as Mrs. Maloney; and Mr. Cecil Renton causes no little amusement as Spriggins. Mr. J. Vernon Shaw is seen as the kind-hearted banker, Mr. Burnaby, his son Walter being impersonated by Mr. Charles Gibbon, and his niece, Ruth Clifton, by Miss Lenna Vernon. The mounting of this sterling old drama is fully up to the high standard of previous productions.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Charles Schuberth.—For the third time Harry Tate's famous Motoring sketch is being performed here, and goes as well as ever; the marvellous equilibristic feats of Leo and Roland once again arouse the utmost enthusiasm; Woodhouse and Wells supply plenty of jollity while they occupy the stage; Arthur Woodville is a smart comedian and a capital dancer; the Darntons return to render duets with all their former charm; Madge Allan shines in song and dance; the fine bass voice of Walter Barrett is heard to advantage in two well-known balads; and the pictures are always of the best.

BEDFORD.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—Mr. Wentworth Croke's company presents the Lyceum Theatre version of The Christian. Mr. R. Scrope Quentin is a vigorous and earnest John Storm, and Miss Muriel Marsden gives an admirable study of Glory Quayle. Mr. Arthur D. Layland is good as Horatio Drake, and Mr. John Blake presents in a clever manner Lord Robert Ure. Father Lamplugh and Archdeacon Wealthy find able exponents in Mr. Edward Ling and Mr. Burton Yaldwyn. Miss Alice Maude is seen to advantage as Mrs. Callendar, and Miss Sissie Murdoch plays with exquisite feeling the part of Polly Love.

BELFAST.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—The Ulster Literary Theatre Company provide the patrons of this theatre with a rare treat this week by producing several of their most attractive comedies. On Monday The Drone, by that well-known author, Rutherford Mayne, was produced, the various characters being cleverly sustained by Miss Seveen Canmer, Miss Margaret O'Gorman, Miss Mary Crothers; and Messrs. G. A. Charters, Arthur Malcolm, John Field, Robt. Henry, and J. M. Harding. The Mist that does be on the Bog, by Gerald Macnamara, formed an acceptable curtain-raiser. On Tuesday evening a new play, Captain of the Hosts, was produced for the first time on any stage. A report will be found in another column. To-night (Saturday) The Drone will be repeated.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Salmond.—The attraction here is the sensational drama The Scarlet Clue, presented by Miss Grace Warner, supported by Mr. George Gordon and company. In the rôle of Sal Scarlet Miss Grace Warner acquitted herself with distinction, and Mr. George Gordon presented a capable character sketch of Michael Stanton; as Jack and Harry Esmond Mr. Frank Smith was thoroughly convincing; and Mr. Louis Nanton, as Billy the Rotter, gained much approval for his songs and eccentric dancing. Mr. Frank Hertie, in the difficult rôle of Edward Croker, was admirable; Mr. J. Clarence acted well as Sir Desmond Lisle; Mr. Roy Rhind appeared as Crazy Jim; and Miss F. M. Daly appeared to advantage as Mrs. Tabitha Esmond. Little Rita Corri during the course of the piece renders "The Ugly Duckling" with much acceptance. Other rôles are adequately presented by Miss E. Dean, Miss E. Rutland, Mr. P. Parsons, &c.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred Willmot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The leading attraction here is provided by the Brothers Luck, who produce with every element of success their rollicking sketch The Demon of the Cellar. Carlton, who made such a hit in the Christmas Belfast pantomime, again achieves fame as a card manipulator; and a hit has been made by Laurie's Juveniles in their vocal and dancing items. Lee and Kingston, the clever comedy duo, gain a good reception, thoroughly deserved; Miss Maude Mortimer's catchy chorus-songs quickly command much favour; Miss Marie Dreams is the happy possessor of a fine baritone voice, which has been heard to much advantage; and also on the programme are Dolly Ross (comedienne and dancers), Farrow and Harding (comedy duo), the Mysterious Cross illusion, and the Hipposcope.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. C. Laidler.—The star here is Miss Minnie Cunningham, the accomplished comedienne, in Irish songs; D'Arc's Marionettes afford much pleasure with their attractive entertainment; Miss Florence Esdaile's songs have been loudly applauded; the gymnastic feats of the Lorettes are smart; the clever dancing of the Sisters Jerome has aroused much enthusiasm; Lesville introduces something new in her wire act, and her performance has found universal favour; and also appearing are Mr. C. M. Ure (soldier vocalist), Mr. Edgar Budden (skate dancer), and the Bioscope.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Will White.—Some beautiful films have been exhibited here this week, including The Lie, The Pretty Violin Player, The Haunted Inn, &c. The vaudeville element is sustained by Ryde and Beeman, clever eccentric comedians; and the funny Boston Twins, speciality comedians, who speedily made themselves favourites.

ST. GEORGE'S HALL.—General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Rogers.—Under the direction of Mr. Hugh Beckett a fine series of pictures have been presented here, including The Light that Came, The Children's Doctor, The Life of Moses, Much Ado about Nothing, &c. Charles Heeley and Cissie Crawford, society entertainers, appear with undeniable success; and Mr. Charles Champney, light comedian and actor-vocalist, is deservedly encored for his capital songs.

BILSTON.—ROYAL AND HIPPODROME.—Licensee, Mr. A. L. Owen; Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. J. Tunstall.—Pictures and variety twice nightly is the order here. The pictures shown by the Hippograph include a fine representation of Shakespeare's Richard III., Mary is Dismissed, and Lover's Serenade. Comedy acts are creditably introduced by Pearce and Ward and Clive and Vera. Other turns are by Fred Tenby, Miss Maud Beaumont, and Little Lily.

BIRKENHEAD.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Herbert M. King.—Moody-Manners Opera Company, Ltd., commenced their annual visit on Monday. The present season extends over two weeks, and Samson and Delilah opened the engagement. Saint-Saens' opera has never been produced in this neighbourhood before, and a crowded and interested audience appreciated most thoroughly the many beauties of a fine performance. Mr. Albert Bowyer, the Samson of the occasion, achieved a signal success; Miss Helen Culver sustained the arduous rôle of Delilah with an intensity and artistic finish which quite captivated the audience, and Mr. William Farmer, the High Priest, is worthy of special commendation. The chorus are most efficient. The week's productions also include Faust, Lohengrin, Daughter of the Regiment, The Masked Ball, and The Bohemian Girl. The staging of the various operas is perfect, and the orchestral arrangements are under the direction of Mr. Harrison Frewin.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Keating.—Gardner and Stoddard, two clever American entertainers new to this town, worthily head an excellent company, and have made a decided hit; Mr. Harry Ford, the popular comedian, is on a return visit, and meets with his customary success; Mr. Tom E. Finglass, coon vocalist, is cordially received. The strong programme is also supported by Mr. Herbert Rule, comedian, the Sisters Simms, dancers; Guyer and Valli in Wait for the Finish; Miss Marie Stroud, comedienne; Shirley and Ransome in Jim's Pal; Miss Alice Hughes and company in a musical comedietta; Mr. George D'Albert, vocalist; and Brown's Royal Bioscope. Mr. Ernest Denney is musical director.

HIPPODROME.—Director of Entertainments, Mr. Will Sley; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Weston.—Mr. John Tiller's pantomime, Red Riding Hood, fills the house twice nightly. Miss May Merry is a splendid representative of the title-rôle, and Miss Lulu Russell is a sprightly Prince. The clever comedians of the company include Fred Danvers, Fred Lawrence, and Charles Verno, and the production is most creditably staged.

BIRMINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; General-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—The successful run of Jack and the Beanstalk will terminate to-day (Saturday). There were scenes of great enthusiasm at the benefits of Mr. Philip Rodway and Mr. George Robey on Monday and Friday respectively.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnstone.—Jack and Jill is meeting with the patronage it fully deserves, and the whole company is delighted. Considerable praise is due to Miss Ella Retford, Miss Josie Delaine, Mr. Albert Le Fre, Mr. Charles Norton, Mr. Jack Cromo, and the Haytors for exceptionally clever work.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Business-Manager, Mr. Fred Barnardo; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. T. Guest.—This has been a busy week at the popular Alexandra, seats being at a premium at every performance. On Tuesday night the members of the Tin-can Club visited the theatre, and last evening (Friday) over 400 members of the Rocket Club were due. Aladdin will occupy the stage until April 2.

BORDESLEY PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. Goodwin Woodward.—Lovers of good drama are flocking to see Messrs. Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard's production of The Prince and the Beggar Maid. Mr. C. W. Standing appears well qualified for the part of Prince Olaf; and Miss Stella Campbell plays naturally and gracefully as Princess Monica, the beggar maid. Messrs. G. Mayor Cooke and Lionel Gadsden represent striking characters as Prince Hildred and Prince Michael; Mr. Robert Noble (Capt. Hector) and Mr. Richard Lane (Lieut. Karl Stremberg) are also deserving of mention. Other characters are well represented by Miss B. Stuart, Miss Ethel Patrick, and Mr. Ernest Gray.

METROPOLE.—Proprietor, Mr. Andrew Melville; Manager, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Draycott's company is presenting Her Path of Sorrow, a wholesome melodrama that is drawing appreciative houses. The two chief characters are portrayed feelingly by Mrs. Charles Draycott (Pauline Ferrars) and Miss Fay Garnet Vane (Nellie Rayne); and Mr. Frank Eaglesfield acts creditably as Guy Lowther, the heavy character. Mr. Charles Draycott is convincing as Richard Burfield; and Mr. Frank Etheridge is clever as Lionel Heathcote. Mr. Will Hook provides plenty of comedy in conjunction with Miss Daisy Carlton.

ASTON THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Chas. Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Manager, Mr. Martin Morris.—The romantic situations in the drama The Midnight Wedding, presented by Messrs Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard's company, are delighting audiences every night this week. Miss Margaret Brodie gives a notable representation as Princess Astrea, and Mr. A. E. Winnington Barnes is a clever actor as Paul Valmar. Miss Gwladys Faunce makes an admirable Rosell, alias Satanella; and comedy of a pleasing character is furnished by Miss Jessica Black and Messrs. J. E. Page, William Franklin, and Algie Spalding. The uniforms and costumes are a pretty feature.

CARLTON THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—East Lynne is being presented by Mr. Tom Watt's company. It is an original version of the well-known novel, relieved by judicious touches of humour. Miss Laura Hanson gives a fine portrayal of Lady Isabel; Mr. E. Rayson-Cousens is clever as Archibald Carlyle; and Mr. Wilfred Percy Mansfield gives a careful study of Levison. Other characters are cleverly represented by Mr. Joe Rowland, Mr. Clifford Clifford, Miss Ida Heron, and Miss Isabel Singleton.

THE EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. Williams.—An exceptionally strong bill is attracting crowded audiences to this well-conducted house. George Formby is irresistibly funny in new songs and burlesques; Mr. J. L. Shine and company appear in Hogmanay, and J. L. is heartily applauded for his clever acting; Tom Costello is as popular as ever; Edward E. Ford, the "Australian Sundowner," is a wonderful facial contortionist; a clever gymnastic performance is given by the Four Eugenes; the Three Cape Girls are skilful and graceful dancers; the Korries appear in a pleasing musical act; a comedy interlude, entitled An Old Tragedian, is capably presented by Frank Couch and Miss Kitty Meredith; and Anna Chandler is a pretty and vivacious American comedienne.

GRAND.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Foster; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Lucas.—Lady Beerbohm Tree makes her first appearance here in a playlet entitled The Sirocco. Lady Tree is excellent, and she is well supported by Mr. Edward O'Neill and Mr. Charles Goodhart. A wonderful risley entertainment is provided by the Dayton Family, who are big favourites in Birmingham; Helen Trix returns fresh from her South African tour, and creates quite a furore with her catchy songs; Minnie Hunt and Rhys Thomas create roars of laughter in their new comedy act; Les Romanis are exceptionally clever musicians, and introduce several interesting and attractive novelties; Thora is highly successful in a difficult ventriloquial act; Little Zola is a genuine mirth-provoker; and the vocal numbers of Williams and Parker are rendered in finished style.

GAIETY.—General-Manager, Mr. Albert Bushell.—Miss Dorothy Ward, who gained undoubted success as principal boy in the Prince of Wales pantomime, heads the bill, and crowded audiences are demanding repeated encores. She has new songs, and this pretty and charming artist knows how to sing them. Roars of laughter are created by Harry Weldon, whose comedy business is really clever; Jenny Hartley is a clever soubrette; Geo. Payne's "Wanderers" give a pleasing entertainment of whistling, singing, and dancing in a caravan scena; Frank Bertram and company appear in a sketch entitled The Chaperon; Leo Trainor has some good humorous songs and patter; the Three San Remo Girls are comediennes who dance gracefully; Ross and Grayson justly describe their act "Piano playing extraordinary"; the Bros. Obo are up-to-date comedians; and the Pirman Trio figure in a pot-pourri act.

HIPPODROME.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Barrasford; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. D. Elbourne; Assistant-Manager, Mr. C. Baldry.—Miss Madge Temple, of musical comedy fame, is a big drawing card, and creates quite a furore with her songs, the choruses of which are enthusiastically taken up by the large audiences; Gentlemen, the King is a powerful military sketch, splendidly played by Mr. Reginald Eyre and company. Considerable praise is due to Mr. H. Bedford for a faithful representation of a veteran soldier. An acceptable item is an exhibition of roller skating by the McLellan-Carson duo; Harry Taft is a comedian of exceptional ability, and bubbles over with good humour; and other turns on a good bill are Charlie Carr, comedian and dancer; Beatrice Allen, comedienne; the Alberto Troupe of lady equilibrists; Tom Lee, the Tennessee coloured guards, and Elroy, the armless wonder.

ASTON HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Aston Hippodrome, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. T. H. Middleton.—An excellent programme is headed by Edward Lewis and company, who present a farcical interlude, entitled The Five Wishes, in which absurd situations are contrived by the influence of an ancient idol. The Pasquali Bros. introduce new features into a clever tumbling and equilibristic turn; Bert Woodward is a droll steeple-chasing cyclist; Cedar and Elgar are original comedians in a novel guise; Alice Golding sings catchy chorus songs; Natalia and Diana are accomplished trapeze artists; Cyrus Dare gives clever child impersonations; and Harry Bickley and Monty Walker are popular comedians.

CURZON HALL.—Lessee, Mr. Waller Jeffs.—The Birmingham Picture Palace reopened this week for another season with a splendid programme of animated pictures. Two performances are given each evening at 6.50 and 9.0, and there is a special afternoon programme for children and families. The Story of Muggins, V.C., is the title of an effective subject, and another depicts the working arrangements of a matrimonial agency. Other films of an exciting and amusing nature are shown, and Miss Dora Kingsley delights audiences with her popular songs.

KING'S HALL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. J. P. Moore and B. Kennedy.—Entertainment of a varied and up-to-date nature is contained in the programme presented here this week. The Witch of the Glen is a striking subject, and other pictures of strong dramatic interest are: The Honour of an Alpine Guide, Three-Fingered Kate, &c. A special feature is also being made of the film, From Cabin-Boy to King, which is accorded a good share of applause. Will Eylades is clever in impersonations of celebrities, and George Edney, vocalist, and Madge Keyworth, soubrette, also contribute acceptably.

QUEEN'S HALL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. B. Kennedy and J. P. Moore.—With a complete change in the programme the entertainment here is not lacking in interest, a number of first-class dramatic and comedy pictures being featured. Audiences fully appreciate the excellence of the fare, and the house is enjoying a most successful season.

BISHOP AUCKLAND.—EDEN THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. R. Addison, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. Huntley.—Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Levy and Mr. J. H. Cardwell are presenting their juvenile pantomime company in Hop o' My Thumb. Mr. V. Wakeman is very clever as Georgina Thumb, and an amusing Jerry is that of Mr. E. W. Selman; Messrs. Cowley and Rick (Silversheen and Goldstein) sustain their parts with pleasing results, their dancing being a special feature; Little Georgie Harris keeps the house in high spirits, his enactment of the title-rôle being very clever; Mr. Harold Ryott, the smallest man in the world, is very effective; the rôle of Prince U-No is delightfully handled by Miss Kitty Trewphitt, her songs being well rendered, and praise is due to Miss Olive Purcell (Fairy Moonshine), Miss Evelyn Major (Rupert), Miss Gladys Wyse (Jeannie McGregor), and Miss Kitty Rafferty (Princess Meadowsweet). The chorus is strong and the scenery delightful.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, The Hippodrome (Bishop Auckland), Ltd.; Managing-Director, Signor Pepi.—Walter Bellonini is appearing here in his marvellous juggling turn, being well assisted by Wal; Messrs. Howard and Thorne produce with pleasing effect their musical comedy scena Mary Ann; the Kebbles are good in their song and dance; and the Three Krakes provoke roars of laughter in their sketch entitled The Electric Car Conductors; Lazern is well received in his mystifying entertainment, and Miss May Henderson is very popular as a comedy artist; Reski and Reski are remarkably smart gymnasts.

BLACKBURN.—PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Will Murray.—Olga, Elgar, and Eli Hudson are a big attraction here, and prove an exceptionally clever trio of musicians. Lily Vine and her Goodwin's Piccanninies give a good exhibition of dancing; Wallace Whitney is a comedian with an up-to-date footballing impersonation; and Charlie Byron has some droll eccentricities. Bonnetti and Corri are clever and amusing comedy jugglers; and Bert Edwards takes well in his whistling song. Beattie Foster, comedienne, and the Palace Pictures complete.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, the Royal and Hippodrome Co.; Governing-Director, Mr. Harry Yorke; Manager, Mr. Reginald Yorke.—Mr. Gaston Mayer's production Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch proves very attractive fare. The character of Mrs. Wiggs is all important for the success of the piece, and this is admirably and faithfully portrayed by Miss Sophie Lingwood. Miss Ruhamah Catton gives a dainty and sweet impersonation of Lovey Mary; Miss Rita Carlyle is very successful as Miss Hazy; and Miss Beatrix Bell and Miss Violet Vivian do well in their unattractive parts of Miss Eichorn and Mrs. Schultz. The characters of Mr. Wiggs and Mr. Stubbins are well handled, and the children in the piece are remarkably clever.

BLACKPOOL.—HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—The Blackpool Lyric Amateur Operatic Society is playing A Greek Slave here, the production being under the direction of Mr. Thornley Dodge, the popular entertainer, who has acted as coach to the society since its inception.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—Mark Sheridan, who tops the bill here, is meeting with quite an ovation nightly; Amelie de L'Enclos, a charming soprano, is also well received; the Croiset Trio appear with great success in an acrobatic scena; Lilian Ward is a dainty vocalist; Foley and Francis provide amusement with their quaint patter; the Four Janowskys are clever acrobats; Mira Wood is a pleasing Australian singer; Benn's Dutch boys and girls supply a song and dance act; and Bessie Benson is a talented comedienne. Vernon's Imperial Bioscope shows all the latest pictures.

BLYTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur C. Moody.—The Idol of Paris once more forms the attraction here. Miss Annie Bell in her original impersonation of the Society star, Flare Flare again scores a decided success. A strong company renders valuable support, and the staging is satisfactory.

BOLTON.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Moncur.—Mr. F. W. Bolam's principal company is here presenting The Marriages of Mayfair to large and appreciative audiences. The drama is splendidly mounted and dressed. Miss Conyers Radcliffe gives a natural and pleasing impersonation of Dorothy Gore; Miss Naomi Neilson is a graceful Bess Bissett; an amusing study of Mrs. Bissett is presented by Miss Dorothy Monkhouse; Miss Mildred Cottell is handsome and dignified as Lady Margaret Villiers; Lily de Mario is well taken by Miss Aimee Gratton-Clyndes; Lord Adolphus Villiers is played in artistic style by Mr. Sidney Renef; Mr. Paul Beckett plays well as the villain Jim Callender; Mr. Dennis Cleugh is an interesting Nigel Villiers; Mr. Duncan Yarrow's Dudley Gore is marked by much skill and power; Mr. Percy Marmont is a manly Duke of Exmoor; Mr. Adam Alexander's Lieut.-General Sir Anthony Gore is a good study; and Mr. Robert C. Harcourt is excellent as Percy Horsfield.

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—Marvellous physical strength is shown here by Paul Conchas, in his Herculean act. Other items in the programme are given by Royston and Royce, comedy artists; Zaleski, in a novel act, "In the Spider

BOSCOMBE.—Hippodrome, Ltd.—Joint-Managing-Directors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. H. Burdett.—The premier turn of an excellent bill is supplied by Edward Crossland's Melody Makers in their phantom scena The Burglar's Dream, well enacted by six brilliant vocalists and comedians; Wild, Willie, and West, the Bounding Navvies, as usual, receive a hearty welcome; Ethel Loftus, the irresistible comedienne, causes roars of laughter; Rauschle is most interesting in his impersonations of celebrities past and present; Moon and Morris are unique dancers and comedians; Arley's Trio have a smart pot-pourri, introducing acrobatic trick cycling, and football dogs; Ina Lorimer as a comedienne and dancer is very successful. The Hippo pictures conclude.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. David Allen and Sons; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Hubert Dunbar.—Mr. W. Bolam presents here this week The Sins of Society, which is well mounted and stage-managed. Lady Marion is capitally handled by Miss Grace E. Leslie, whose superb costumes are quite a revelation; Mr. C. F. Collings conveys a sense of reality, so unusual in the part of the villain, and plays Noel Ferrers in a natural, convincing, and restrained manner; Miss Cissy Carlton is quite good as Lady Goldbury; Miss Rosamund Bunton makes an attractive and sympathetic Lady Gwen; Mr. H. Bonhote Wilson as Sir Dorian is capable; Mr. Maitland Marler provides most of the fun as James Hogg; and Mr. Sid C. Sinclair gives a finished rendering of Morris, the moneylender.

BRADFORD.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—On Monday night last Mrs. Clement Scott presented Mr. John Galsworthy's realistic play, illustrating with remarkable fidelity ordinary yet stirring incidents in the lives of a family of the middle class, viz., The Silver Box. There was a large audience, and the unfolding of the story of the theft of the bauble was followed with deep interest. Mrs. Clement Scott's impersonation of the drudge, Mrs. Jones, was perfectly natural, and as the spirit-broken and uncomplaining charwoman she won sympathy; and Mr. Orlando Barnett gave a thoroughly convincing performance of her out-of-work husband, Jones. Mr. Arthur Vezin submitted a self-possessed picture of the young rake, Jack Barthwick; Miss Agnes Imlay was pompous as the latter's doting mother; and as the indulgent father, John Barthwick, with his pronounced Liberal views, Mr. Clarence Derwent bore himself well. Miss Rita Trekelle did excellent work in the small part of the Unknown Lady; and Mr. James Gelderd as the butler, Marlow, and Mr. H. E. Herbert as Snow, the detective, lent valuable aid.

Prince's Theatre.—Lessee, Councillor F. Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. M. Hamilton.—Stirring melodrama of the Frederick Melville school, in the shape of The Bad Girl of the Family, is presented here this week with pronounced success. As Bess, the bad girl, Miss Violet Crossley displays exceptional histrionic talent, dealing cleverly with a difficult part; the character of the sailor lover, Lieut. Marsh, is well handled by Mr. Henry Hargreaves; Barney Gordon is capitally played by Mr. Luke Forster; and Mr. G. A. Montford is good as his son, Harry Gordon. Very charmingly Miss Daisy Cook fills the rôle of Lord Erskine's daughter, Gladys; the trying part of the refractory Hannah Moore is very capably played by Miss Margaret Tueskie; and Miss Amy Randolph as Sally Smithers, Mr. Tom May as Sammy Snozzle, and Mr. G. Belmore as Jerry Holmes also merit special notice.

The Empire.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—Some remarkable pyramid building and tumbling by the Abdullah Troupe of bounding Arabs elicits hearty applause here; Leonie Dixon, comedienne, sings and dances in dainty style; the Glenroy Troupe of International dancers, on a return visit, are favourably greeted; the Three Delaries, amidst novel surroundings, give a clever performance on the flying rings; a humorous sketch, Beauty and the Burglar, is presented by Millie Englar and company; Frank Maura, "The Mexican Wonder," accomplishes extraordinary feats; and capital turns by Lawrence Barclay and by Chas. Vincent, comedians, evoke laughter. Evie Greene is also a great success.

The Palace.—Lessee, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. E. Harrison.—Austin Rudd's comedy proves an acceptable contribution here this week; Edie Tennis and Gertie Laune provide some capital vocalism and dancing; an entertaining turn is submitted by the clever Maximilian comedy equilibrists; Lily Black, comedienne, fresh from her triumphs in pantomime here, is received with marked favour; Gillin is a smart and distinctly humorous ventriloquist; Chas. Baker is entertaining with Irish song and story; Pete and Minnie Lee, in their diverting interlude, "The Scotchman's Visit to London," achieve success; and the Palace Perfection Pictures are an enjoyable feature.

BRIGHTON.—Grand Theatre.—Lessee and Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Gates; General-Manager, Mr. Ben Court.—Walter Melville's drama, The Beggar Girl's Wedding, is doing good business here. Miss Marie Duncan submits an admirable impersonation of Bessie Webster (the beggar girl); Mr. Otto Minster is powerfully effective as Jack Cunningham; Mr. Charles Barclay's Doctor Millbank and Mr. Charles Brucester's Norman Marsh are excellent portrayals; Mr. David Cartwright makes an impressive Rev. Mr. Melsom; Miss Olive Warne gives a clever enactment of Maud Villiers; and Miss Lily Duncker (Elsie Cunningham), Mr. George Vernon (P.-C. Phillips), and Miss Anita Playfair (Lizzie) also merit commendation. Much amusement is afforded by Mr. Herbert Lloyd as Dicky Storm and Miss Daisy Meyard as Tina Torkington. The drama is effectively staged and mounted.

Alhambra.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Alfred Smith; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. R. Smith.—The Princess D'Aryaba is reappearing here with M. Bartlemey, and their dance scena evokes great enthusiasm; Ernest Montefiore and company are distinctly effective in the dramatic and musical sketch, The Little Colonel; Dot Moss, comedienne, dancer, and banjoist, is well received; the Michel Bros. are clever balancers and tumblers; the Bros. Long are successful in song and dance; Francisco is a capital equilibrist and comedy juggler; John B. Conan contributes some taking songs; the Three Jewels, speciality dancers, contribute an excellent turn; The Bros. Gerard are pleasing comedians; Jessica Brooke, "the Australian Waratah," merits praise; and Kenway and Morley acquit themselves admirably in a refined duologue.

Barrasford's Hippodrome.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Bertram J. Brown.—Fred Karno's company evoke the heartiest of laughter with the sketch The Bailiff; Hamas and Borwick and company are also very amusing in the sketch Half a Dollar; Emerson and Baldwin are smart juggling comedians; Francini Olloms is a clever knockabout musician and plays the concertina while turning somersaults; James and Jenny Lee display skill in a dancing, balancing, and leaping act on a wire; Dorothy Gould is a charming comedienne; the Navarros are skilful jugglers; Minnie Wheaton, comedienne, wins cordial applause; the Bijou Juvenile Troupe and the Eight Lancashire Boys also submit much appreciated turns.

West Pier.—Secretary, Mr. A. W. Scholey.—Mr. Frank Weathersby's company is here with The Best People. Mr. Charles King gives a fine enactment of Lord Emsworth; Mr. Henry Watson submits a sterling representation of the Hon. Gerald Boyle; Mr. Frank Bradley is well placed as Lord Wynlea; Miss Irene Lavington makes a charming Lady Emsworth; Miss Dorrie Roberts is an engaging Mrs. Boyle; and able support is given by Mr. Edwin Hollick as James Spofforth and Mr. Cyril Royce as Jackson.

Court Theatre.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs. Maud Barrasford; Manager, Mr. F. J. Thompson.—The series of animated pictures exhibited here this week prove very attractive. The Little Detective is a realistic drama full of pathetic incidents; The Old Horse and The Poacher's Revenge also convey very dramatic stories; and the films of an amusing character include A Drama in an Hotel, On the Wrong Scent, Cripple and Cyclist, Out of Sight Out of Mind, and The Persistent Wooer. Mr. Osland Denner contributes baritone songs in artistic style, and Mr. Arthur W. Briggs shows marked ability as pianoforte accompanist.

BRISTOL.—Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—Mr. Horace Mills, whose really clever performance of the name-part in Mother Hubbard has been so appreciated, had a well-deserved benefit on Friday, the 4th inst., when the house was packed in all parts. There were numerous extra attractions, including Miss Sybil Arundale, who was a popular principal boy here in the Humpty Dumpty pantomime. Miss Arundale sang "If I had been born a boy" and "Don't shine too soon, moon dear"; Mr. George Barrett amused with his "fake" revolver shots, &c.; Mr. Charles Harvey sang "Queer Questions"; Mr. G. H. Elliott pleased with his "Sue" and "I want you to see my girl"; Miss Daisy Lloyd Wood sang her "Fishing Song"; Miss Betty Rutherford sang "Moon" and "Ten dirty little fingers," with her own pianoforte accompaniment; and Mr. Edward Lewis, an old pantomime favourite, sang "John Peel." Messrs. Bennett and Martell and Mr. Edward Garth, from the "Royal," also contributed amusing turns. There were lots of floral offerings for the ladies, the gentlemen had golf balls, and the children dolls, &c.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. C. Alty.—There was a very full house here on Tuesday evening, when Messrs. Bennett and Martell, the Bo'swain and the Mate of the Robinson Crusoe pantomime, had their well-deserved benefit. Amongst other specialities introduced by Messrs. Bennett and Martell they gave their old song and business from a previous pantomime here, "Shipwrecked Mariner," which went remarkably well. Mr. F. Conquest and Miss Sidney Fairbrother, from the Prince's, gave their "Doorstep Scene" from Mother Hubbard; the Vays, a smart troupe of juvenile artists from the Palace, contributed their speciality, Life in the Slums; the Sisters Emson pleased with their new song, "How d'ye do, little girl?"; Mr. Dave Jenkins sang "The Old Warrior"; Mr. Syd Bishop, "What could you wish for more?" and several new songs and special business were also introduced into the pantomime by members of the company. Mr. Edwin Garth has a benefit on Friday evening, with special attractions, and the run of the pantomime closes on Saturday.

Palace.—Local Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Assistant-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—The leading position on the bill is occupied by Fred Karno's company, who appear in an amusing sketch entitled The Yap Yaps, in which is introduced a lot of comedy, some good singing and dancing, and a display of boxing. Chanti, described as "the modern Proteus," successfully presents a series of transformation dances with quick-change effects introduced; the Denaro Brothers do some smart equilibristic, acrobatic, and tumbling parts; the Brothers St. Clair, comedy cyclists, do a capital act, including a game of football on their machines; an interesting dramatic sketch, A Society Sinner, is well played by the Forestiers; Harry Morris, comedian, is appreciated; Vi Laurie is a pleasing comedienne and dancer; the Vays please with their speciality, Life in the Slums; and Maidie Burker, comedienne, is successful. Up-to-date animated pictures conclude. The seventeenth anniversary of the opening of this popular place of amusement was celebrated on Wednesday, the 9th inst., extra attractions being provided.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sid Macaire.—Clarke and Hamilton, the comedy duo, present an excellent turn, which is warmly applauded; K. Scott-Barrie enterains with songs and recitations; the amusing skit The Brigands of Tarragona is capitally played by Herbert Darnley's company, some smart dancing being introduced; the Four Zodiacs, "the simultaneous dancing girls," are both smart and attractive; Hurman and Arthur score with their comedy juggling act; Bert Bowden, comedian, obtains appreciation; Charlton does some good conjuring and supplies "free drinks" from his inexhaustible kettle; and Carlotta Levey, comedienne, is highly successful with her songs. Interesting animated pictures conclude the entertainment.

BROUGHTON.—Victoria Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. James Cramer; Manager, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—Mr. Seymour Hicks's musical comedy, The Gay Gordons, under the direction of Mr. W. A. Seymour, came here on Monday. Mr. Wm. Greene was an excellent Angus Graeme; Peggy Quainton has a charming heroine in Miss Clarice Lockstone; Nervy Nat and his son Edmund, with Charlotte were cleverly amusing as presented by Mr. Edward Carlton, Mr. W. H. Desmond, and Miss Florrie Groves; Mr. Greville Hayes (Andrew Quainton), Mr. Peter Gale (Jack McPhrisky), and Miss Ada Mellon (Janet McLeod) also did good work. The chorus, under the direction of Mr. Leonard Leslie, added much to the success of the production.

BURNLEY.—Victoria Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—Crowded and enthusiastic audiences are attending the performances by Mr. George Dance's Company of Our Miss Gibbs. Miss Kathleen Courtney in the rôle of Mary Gibbs has a delightful presence and a pleasing voice, and a pretty character is made of Lady Elizabeth by Miss Gladys Ivery. Miss Nancy Hervyn makes a fascinating French lady; and Miss Winifred Knightly and Miss Jennie Richards are excellent in their respective parts. An irresistibly funny impersonation of Timothy Gibbs is given by Mr. Theodore Leonard; and Mr. Tom Shelford as Hugh Pierrepoint is very funny. Mr. Craufurd Kent is clever as Lord Eynsford; and Mr. J. E. Stevenson as Slithers is highly successful.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—The Sutcliffe Troupe of acrobats who head the bill here are a set of very clever performers attired in neat Highland costume; F. V. St. Clair receives high praise for excellent songs; and Sergeant Bert Powell, assisted by Miss Christina Brown, completely mystifies his audience with clever illusions. As a musician Silvo is very effective on silvo chimes, and Gulliver with his laughing doll keeps the audience merry. Arthur Harris, actor-vocalist, is loudly applauded, and J. Milton Hayes is very successful as a gwell comedian. Marie Reeves, comedienne, is good, and the Empire Theatrescope contributes an amusing film.

Palace Theatre and Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. R. Badcoe.—Clarice Mayne, in her delightful and artistic performance, tops the programme here; her pretty songs and mimicry brings forth undeniable encores. The Werds Brothers provoke laughter with knockabout acrobatics and Pyck, Tholl and Taylor, in their diverting dancing sketch, are as popular as ever. The Lennons are brilliant dancers on pedestals, and Phillips and Merritt are smart in patter and dancing. May Poulton is a comedienne with a voice, and Norah Stockelle a very nice soubrette. The Palace Pictures with Uncle's Birthday Present create roars of laughter.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.—Opera House.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. de Hague Body.—Mlle. Suzanne de Vernenil and ladies, in a series of living tableaux, head the bill and give a most artistic conception of some of the most noted pictures; Mlle. Tina in a clever trapeze and rope act is loudly applauded; Rita and Roma are also to the front with clever comedy and dancing. A good turn by the Two Brooklyns finds favour, their dancing being of special merit. George F. Hall, the Yankee story-teller and comedian, is well up to his work and meets with success. A novel comedy duologue entitled Two Doors and a Passage is played in first-class style by Miss Marie Pera and company. Some of the latest living pictures are shown on the Operascope.

BURY (Lancs).—Royal.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Assistant Acting-Manager, Mr. H. H. Potter.—Fred Granville's company is here this week in The Better Land. Prominent in the cast are Mr. Arnold Warren as Philip Radcliffe; Mr. Stanley Radcliffe as Hubert Radcliffe; Mr. Hill Cremer as George Grant; Mr. J. F. Hughes as Bill Bones; Miss Gerty Moody as Harry; Miss Madge Trevelyan as Mercedes; Miss Bella Moody as Aunt Jemima; Miss Emilie Entwisle as Tessa; and Miss Marguerite Trevespor, a powerful Doris Radcliffe. Excellent comedy is added by Mr. Fred Richards and Miss Kitty Terriss.

Circus of Varieties.—Another excellent series of pictures here. Acceptable turns are provided by Lauri Brothers, in gymnastic act, and the Lindos, vocalists and dancers.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. Thos. Baker.—A dramatic sketch entitled The Girl and the Tough is top turn this week, and is ably enacted by John G. Brandon, Leslie Tyler, and Stella Vernon; Manson and West are amusing in a duologue depicting domestic difficulties; Indian club manipulating is given by Leolin; Arthur Wilmer is an acceptable comedian; dancing of a high order is executed by Swan and Latimer; Robb Rossi's songs are deservedly well received; and Walter George's Smart Set Entertainers give a high-class turn.

BURY ST. EDMUNDS.—Theatre Royal.—General-Manager, Mr. Auguste A. Peuleve.—Mr. Charles Windemere has paid a successful visit with Where is William? Mr. Windemere plays Sir William Gregory with humour, and is ably supported by Mr. Rule Pyott as Jolly. Mr. Leslie Norman evokes merriment as the irascible General. Harry being successfully played by Mr. Wylie Thompson. Miss Belle Donaldson is admirably suited as Lady Gregory; a refined portrayal of Phyllis comes from Miss Clare Manifield; Miss Zoe Davis is a smart Eliza; and Miss Evelyn Shelley quite satisfactory as Jolly's wife.

CAMBRIDGE.—New Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.—The Fires of Fate was played here for the first time on Monday, Mr. Vedrenne being responsible for the perfectly satisfactory company. Mr. Stephen T. Ewart was an excellent Cyril Egerton; Mr. Herbert Vyvyan an interesting Samuel Roden; Mr. Charles Francis a very good James Roden; Mr. Edward A. Coventry as Mr. Thomas Belmont; Mr. Stanley Logan as Mr. Cecil Brown; and Mr. Herbert Maule as Mr. Brodie were effective. Mr. Gerald Mirrielees played the Frenchman, Octave Fardet, to the life; Mr. Frederick Warlock was an interesting Captain Archer; Mr. Alfred C. Sandoe played creditably as Abdulla; Mr. G. T. Lambert was a ferocious Spy; Miss Ruth Bower a captivating Sadie Adams; and Miss Gwendolen Floyd as Miss Adams, and Miss Alison Trent as Mrs. Belmont were also of great assistance.

CARDIFF.—New Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—Mrs. Ponderbury's Past, played by Miss Emma and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company is meeting with unbounded success. It is exceptionally well mounted, and the costumes are a conspicuous feature of the production. Mr. George Mudie is again seen as Mr. Ponderbury, and sustains the part with his customary skill; Mr. Stewart Dawson submits a careful rendering of Mervyn Thorpe, and Hyacinth Grayling is well undertaken by Mr. Percival Madgwick; Mrs. Ponderbury finds a capable exponent in Miss Celia Gordon, the impersonation proving her to be an actress of ability; a pleasing rendition is that of Ethel Penniston by Miss Phyllis Stuckey, while Miss Florence Wix's Mme. Modjeski leaves nothing to be desired, and Mr. Percy Bell is most successful as Peter. Chalk and Cheese, delightfully acted by Miss Mamie Mathews, Miss Phyllis Stuckey, and Mr. Stewart Dawson, precedes.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Taylor.—Heading the programme is Miss Margaret Cooper, the gifted soprano, at the piano, whose songs are sung with exquisite clearness and refinement; Gertie Gitana is a Cardiff favourite who is always welcome, and on Monday night her distinct and impressive rendering of sweet melodies greatly enhanced her already enviable reputation; La Berat, the mystic grotto dancer, is another turn which merited approbation, her introduction of artistic limelight effects being extremely pleasing; sweet harmonious singing is furnished by the Coloured Meisters; Will H. Fox is a veritable fount of humour, his manipulation of the piano being also clever; Leo Tell, called Mepho the Mime, is a master of the art of imitation; Arthur Kenny is a wonderful cyclist; Monie Mine is a good songstress and dancer; and the Bioscope is still en evidence.

Theatre Royal.—General-Manager, Mr. Graham Morrison; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. E. Clay.—A capital company brought by Mr. Frank Melville is proving a draw here with Her Road to Ruin. Mr. Charles Dickens excels as Frank Temple; Miss Ada Champion, a native of Cardiff, gives a convincing and well-drawn study of Jess Willoughby; Mr. Kendrew Milsom submits a clever representation of Tom Wells; Mr. Alex Bradley is all that could be desired as Philip Hardy; Miss Mabel Coleman as the girl from Lancashire earns considerable commendation, and Mr. Harry Talbot as Billy Boots is humorous.

Palace and Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Will A. Jackson.—Les Piccolinos head the varied bill, and these clever little people quite astonish their audiences by their versatile and skilful performance, whether as acrobats, dancers, trick cyclists, or sharpshooters; Arnold Richardson's company in a capital sketch entitled Ferdie's Ma-in-Law prove a great hit; Webb and Edna Branston provide a couple of well rendered duets; Little Miss Muffet does well in her amusing diminutive performance; and Blair and Allen, vocalists and dancers; Cavalli a smart and novel ventriloquist, and Ray Royal, a pleasing descriptive vocalist, complete the excellent bill of fare, which is drawing good houses.

CARLISLE.—H. M. Theatre.—Lessees, Mr. Thos. Courtice and Mrs. R. Stewart M'Kim; Manager, Mr. Thos. Courtice.—Miss Winifred Maude's Company is again here in The Stowaway and The Sins of a City. Opening with the first-named piece on Monday before a capital audience, an excellent performance was given. Mr. Victor Du Cane repeated his former success in the title-rôle, being well supported by Miss Maude as Althea Dale. Mr. Maurice Maud in the heavy rôle was powerful and convincing; and Mr. Arthur Read played with discretion as Tom Inglis. Mrs. Wingold Lawrence was prominent in all her scenes; and Miss Minnie Millward was a pert and lively newsboy.

New Public Hall.—Lessee, Mr. Sydney Bacon; Resident-Manager, Mr. Peter Mooney.—The popularity of this house does not diminish in the least, probably accounted for by the excellent programmes submitted week by week. A very daring and dramatic picture is that entitled The Rocky Road; The Guilty Kiss strikes a pathetic note, and is much appreciated; and The Feud is brimful of excitement. Other splendid films are The Dancing Girl of Bute and Twixt Red Man and White. Amongst the laughable films should be mentioned Golf Mania and The New Chief.

CARMARTHEN.—Assembly Rooms.—Proprietors, Public Rooms Co.; Secretary, Mr. Edward Baldwin.—Mr. F. R. Benson's Shakespearean company paid their welcome annual three nights' visit, and opened on Monday evening to a large house with The Merchant of Venice. Mr. Baliol Holloway gave a striking and scholarly interpretation of the part of Shylock; Mr. Douglas Rubery was excellent as Bassanio; Mr. Charles Warburton admirably portrayed the part of Antonio; Mr. Norman Harle was decidedly successful as Lorenzo; Mr. Basil Osborne was equally effective as the Prince of Morocco; Mr. W. Burgess-Barratt was a most amusing Launcelot; Gratiano, Solanio, and Salarino were capitally impersonated by Mr. Fernley Bisshopp, Mr. Doane Gardiner, and Mr. Charles Siddons Kemble; Mr. Arthur Blenkinsopp was very good as Tubal; as were also Mr. Frank G. Weir as Old Gobbo, Mr. L. G. Powell as the Clerk, and Mr. Owen Evans as the Duke of Venice. Miss Emil Leslie gave a fascinating and clever rendering of Portia; Miss Constance Bromley scored as Nerissa; Miss Marjorie Palgrave made a charming Jessica; and Miss Florence Froissant as Stephano and Miss Dorothy White as Balthazar performed their parts well. On Tuesday evening The School for Scandal was performed with equal success. Wednesday afternoon being devoted to Twelfth Night, and Wednesday evening to Hamlet. The mounting and effects were elaborate.

CASTLEFORD.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr. Chas. Gadsby; Business-Manager, Councillor Henry Masterman, J.P.—Mr. Stuart Lomath and company are presenting for the first time here Whom God Hath Joined. Mr. Lomath as Captain Jack Merritt plays with vigorous earnestness; Miss Helena Walbran enters into the spirit of the character of the betrayed Marian; Mr. Arthur E. Pringle as the rascally Major Stevens brings out forcibly the villainous elements of the play; and Mr. Lancelot Usher does well as Digby Trant; Miss Amy Macneil is a success in the rôle of Beatrice Trant; Mr. Victor G. Vayne is a funny Watty Cooper, and Miss Ellen Owen an amusing Kitty; Miss Ethel F. Greene does well as Teddy; and Miss Dorothy Booth makes a natural and pretty Frankie; as Richard Manly Mr. Jack Millar gives a highly creditable performance.

Varieties.—Proprietors, the Castleford Queen's Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Directors, Messrs. Chas. Beanland and W. H. Emerson.—Rowlands and Ford are enjoyable Welsh and Scotch comedians; James Hare and company, in a dramatic episode Wrong 'Uns, do full justice to their parts; Carl and Mary Ohm's dogs, ponies, bears, and monkeys are intelligent and show evidence of being well trained; Milton and Ford are good on the horizontal bars; and Ethel Davey, E. J. Sheldon, Crosby and Walker, J. W. Hughes, and Sadie Early and company complete a varied programme.

CHATHAM.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Messrs. C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lionel Barnard.—The King of Cadonia is being presented by Mr. Frank Curzon's company to highly appreciative audiences. Mr. Bertie Wright is a great favourite and adds to his reputation by his impersonation of the Duke of Alasia; Mr. J. Warren-Foster makes an imposing and popular Alexis; Mr. Edward Thirlby is responsible for a deal of merriment as Bran; Miss Alice Moffat is the Princess Marie, and her vocal efforts bring forth much applause; Miss Molly Keen makes a sprightly Militza, and other parts are in excellent hands.

Gaiety Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Captain H. E. Davis; Manager, Mr. George Humphries.—Here we have Jessie Lee, a dainty little entertainer; the Arntes, coloured vocalists and dancers; Jack Crawley and his cleverly-trained dog Fanny in Lights Out; Mostol, the musical entertainer; the Donnas Trio on a return visit with neat and clever trapeze act; Doughty and Laney in a laughable duologue, entitled A Woman's Way; and Miss Lottie Lennox, who makes a big hit in her chorus song "Put on your old plaid shawl." New films by the Edisonograph form a capital concluding item.

CHELTENHAM.—Opera House.—General-Manager, Mr. H. Oswald Redford.—Mr. Frank Bertram's Company in The Breed of the Treshams had an enthusiastic reception on Monday evening. Mr. Sidney Bland plays to the life the part of Lieutenant Keresby, "the Rat"; Batty is presented with much spirit by Miss Grace Harlington; the young lovers, Cornet the Hon. Francis Tresham and the Hon. Margaret Hungerford, are well-studied impersonations by Mr. Walter Grahame and Miss Mildred Hodson. Mr. Alfred Hollis is notably good as Viscount Dorsington; and Clement Hungerford is cleverly delineated by Mr. George Butler. Sir Henry Curwen is thoughtfully represented by Mr. George Traill. Mr. Sydney Courtenay as the cowardly bully Captain Stanhope, Mr. W. Gravely as Kit Peyton, and Messrs. W. C. Crowley and George Quick as the two Lumsfords all do excellent work.

CHESTER.—Royalty Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—The Merry Widow is presented this week by a company of capable artists. The title-rôle is undertaken by Miss Phyllys le Grand, who does justice to the exacting part of Sonia; Miss Ada Thomas is an entrancing Natalie; Miss Winnie Bailey, a charming and graceful Olga; and the Misses Heather Featherstone and Lucie Donati are good in their respective parts of Sylvaine and Prascovia. The humour is well sustained by Mr. Fred Fowler as the amusing Nisch; Mr. Clifford Seyler as General Novokovitch; and the antics of Baron Popoff are made the most of by Mr. Edward D'Arcy. Mr. Ripley Evans uses an excellent voice to good effect as Jolidon; and Mr. Fred Leslie is an impassioned Prince Danilo.

CLYDEBANK.—New Gaiety Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. A. E. Pickhard.—The leading item in a varied programme is supplied by Welda and Wynne, who excel as comedy jugglers and ball dancers; Amber and Avon, novel comedy and dancing couple, provide an outstanding turn; Wills and Warlock delight the audience with their patter and dancing; W. H. Smart, Irish comedian and dancer, is well received on a return visit; Edna Cragge sings a couple of good chorus songs; Alf. Warner, comedian and instrumentalist, and Mornin Knox, the postman ventriloquist, provide two entertaining turns. A display of dramatic and humorous pictures on the Bioscope completes.

COLCHESTER.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Charles Macdona; Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Graham Macdona.—Mr. Millar Anderson's company opened a half week's engagement here on Monday with For Her Husband's Sake. Mr. Anderson himself portrayed the villain effectively; Mr. Walter Domoney ably undertook the part of Jack Anderson; Miss Josephine Richards made a pathetic Marie Dene; Miss Woolfe a good Eileen Silas, and the Estelle Beaudet of Miss Ethel St. Barbe was an excellent conception; Mr. Raymond sparkled as Jerry O'Neill, and as Joseph Dene Mr. Charles Williams was good. The latter half of the week was allotted to The Revolutionist.

Hippodrome.—Directors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—Miss Hook of Holland is here for a week, the company being Messrs. Dudley Bennett and T. C. Wray's. Mr. James Harcourt as Mr. Hook acted in a droll manner; Miss Muff Carew, droll as ever, did big things as Mina; as Sally Miss Kathleen Starling was bright and songful; Mr. Reginald Hunter exacted the maximum of humour from the character of Simon Slinks; and Mr. Sam Cockridge did exceedingly well as Bandmaster Van Vuyt.

COLWYN BAY.—Victoria Pier Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. Edward G. Bradshaw.—The above pavilion opened the season here on Monday last with a good programme, chief amongst which were Wishart, the celebrated illusionist, with his wonderful bottle and box trick; and the well-known Society entertainers, Mr. Laurence Derrick and Miss Marian Brereton, who in their refined humorous sketches, duets, and vocal numbers, scored a big success.

CONSETT.—New Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance.—Mr. Nelson Howard presents Under the Iron Heel here this week. Mr. Wilson Howard as Capt. Maupassant is well suited; Mr. W. F. CORK.—Opera House.—Manager, Mr. R. J. Bell.—The Luck of Roaring Camp was produced here on Monday by Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company. Mr. Douglas Murray as Will Gordon, the hero, filled the part with distinction, and Miss Elisabeth Dundas as Nell Curtis acted a very appealing rôle with captivating earnestness and charm; the parts of the villains were taken by Mr. Charles A. Johnson as Tom Barnes and Mr. Ernest Clarke as Gonzales; Miss Agnes Verity as Jovita de Sutro acted forcibly; Miss Mary Morrell as Mrs. Brown was excellent; Mr. Harry Benson as Billy Plummer well maintained the comic element; Horace Stewart as Ebenezer and Mr. J. J. Cuthbertson as the Sheriff filled their respective parts in an able manner, and Mr. Arthur Redmond as the old miner was very successful. Under Two Flags was also in the bill.

Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. Thomas F. O'Brien.—The Olympian Team of Cyclists, six in number, do some very clever tricks; the Selbeit Mystery, a demonstration of spiritualism, is very interesting; the Eight Tulips, vocalists and dancers, provide an entertaining turn; Massona, eccentric juggler, goes through a series of funny tricks, and arouses great laughter; Billy Ross and company, in Mr. Maloney's Troubles, are smart pugilists; Edith St. Clare, burlesque artist, sings some catchy songs; Lillie Hales, comedienne and dancer, provides a very attractive turn, and the Palascope pictures complete a good bill of fare.

COVENTRY.—Opera House.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—A Thief in the Night, produced under the direction of Mr. G. Carlton Wallace, is here. Mr. Stanley Boswell admirably portrays the character of Alan Escombe; Mr. Leyton Cancellor is a typical villain; Miss Margery Fane is seen to advantage as the wife of Alan Escombe; Miss Beatrice Homer is successful as Sonia Cleeve; and Mr. Bert Atherton as Toby and Miss Louie Norden as Happy Christmas add considerably to the success.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. S. T. Newsome; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. E. Wright.—At the top of the bill here this week is a sketch entitled The Russian Princess, by Mr. F. Maxwell. Miss Lois du Cane takes the part of Claudia, the Russian princess, with remarkable skill. As General Dragenoff Mr. Lionel D'Aragon is very successful. The piece is staged beautifully. A good turn is provided by Metz and Metz, unique dancers; Mooney and Holbein, advanced vaudevillians, are very entertaining; the Two Lillys are clever equilibrists and gymnasts; and Frank Fox, Ida Barr, Ida Kathrena ("the dolly girl"), and Harry Allister also entertain.

CREWE.—Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. G. Dudley Bennett; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ambrose Fischer.—Dan Thomas's pantomime Dick Whittington is drawing good houses. In the title-rôle Miss Daisy Yates is a big success, and sings her various numbers in dashing style; Miss Olive West makes a dainty Alice. She is a very effective dancer, and the possessor of a sweet voice; Miss Lyda Floyd gets all possible out of the part of the Princess, and Mlle. Lillian as the Fairy Queen is accorded instinted applause for an excellent rendering of "Somewhere"; Mr. Dan Thomas makes an ideal Dame, and is the life and soul of the play all through; Mr. J. Harris is a favourite as Idle Jack; Mr. H. D. Lydon is a capable Fitzwarren; Mr. R. Missouri is well suited as Capt. Kettle; Messrs. W. Haverley and T. Homer are clever knockabouts; and Mr. A. Wade appears successfully as the Emperor. Mr. Pete Almonte, who enacts the dual rôle of the cat and monkey, proves to be skilled in the ways of these animals. The Olga Belles introduce some smart dancing.

CROYDON.—Grand Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Roland Daniel; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ernest Archer.—A cordial reception is being extended to Mr. George Dance's company in The Little Duke. In the title-rôle Miss Zena Dare fairly eclipses herself with a performance which leaves a lasting impression; Miss Dolly Castles makes a sweet and lovable Diane de Noaille; Miss Gertrude Robertson is au fait as the Duchesse de Burgoyne; Miss Kate Graham-Beck is successful as the Duchesse de Noaille; Miss Doris Dickens is charming as Cesarine de Noce; and a big hit is made by Miss Nellie Dade as Baroness de Bellechasse. Mr. Reginald Adair sings and acts to perfection as the Chevalier de Matignon; Mr. Johnny Danvers as Baron de Bellechasse renders valuable comedy services; Mr. Alec Johnstone is very fine as Abbé de la Touche; and praise is also due to Messrs. Jack Gray, G. Vaughan, and J. Watts Fettes in minor rôles. The scenery, chorus, and dresses are praiseworthy.

Empire Palace of Varieties.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter Gibbons; Manager, Mr. Eustace Jay.—Rameses is causing much excitement here with his marvellous Egyptian mystic scena; the Sexton Blake episode, The Case of the Kidnapped King, is cleverly rendered by Carlotta de Yonson and company; the Scener-Fridkin Troupe of Russian singers and dancers are all well received; Syd Walker is a first-rate comedian; Daisy James, fresh from pantomime triumphs, is invigorating; Verno and Voyce are great in sporting sketch; Lewin and Allen are speciality artists of ability; Barbara Babington is a comedienne with a good voice; Marshall and Parr's vocal and comedy act is acceptable; Harry Thurston is a droll comedian; and the Bioscope pictures and Daisy Morell, comedienne, complete the bill.

DARL

Reed is a decidedly funny Becky; and Mr. Charles Luck causes much fun as Bah Lamb Gentle.

HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. Weldon; Stage-Manager, Mr. Jack Harris; Musical-Director, Mr. R. H. Riley.—The Five Olracs' acrobatic funnisities supply the principal variety item here; Fallows and Beaumont submit a novel comedy act; Charles Rowan, a capital comedian, keeps the ball of fun merrily rolling; the Musical Keeths show ability on xylophones and other instruments; Pauline Zaro, comedienne, scores well; Jim Cheetham is a capital boy whistler; and Vera Varna, sabot dancer, and animated pictures complete the bill.

DONCASTER.—GRAND THEATRE AND EMPIRE.—Manager, Mr. I. W. Chapman.—The Bellong Bros., cycle equilibrists, are the star turn, and give exhibitions of real merit; a refined contribution comes from Agnes and Arthur Lynch, whose picture songs are popular; a good impression is created by Colin Carlisle, light comedian; Gaia and Norris are popular in their skit on roller skating (without skates); the semi-comedy sketch Set a Thief of Herbert Evelyn and Ethel Norrie is prettily conceived and pleasingly executed; Edie Anderson, comedienne and dancer, is very acceptable; and the Canworths, in their instrumental and vocal speciality, appeal strongly to the popular taste.

DUBLIN.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frederick Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Hyland.—Mr. Silvanus Dauncey and Mr. H. Browning's company is here with The Walls of Jericho, which has been well attended. Mr. Rutland Barrington cleverly enacts the character of the Marquis of Steventon, and displayed his well-known ability throughout; Mr. Athelbert Edwards fills the part of Jack Frobisher with great satisfaction; and as Lady Alethea Frobisher Miss Gwendoline Hay is most effective. Hankey Bannister is particularly well portrayed by Mr. Russell Barry; and Mr. F. Bridgeman acts admirably in the part of Harry Dallas. Miss Ethel Trevor-Lloyd, Miss Doris Digby, Miss Muriel Wren, and Miss Eva Westropp play their respective parts excellently. The piece is preceded by Mr. Rutland Barrington and Miss Trevor-Lloyd in an interesting entertainment of stories, songs, and musical sketch.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred. Moullot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Terry.—The talent here this week includes Malcolm Scott, "the woman who knows," whose monologue is very amusing; the Stavordale Quintette, banjo and harp speciality, receive deserved applause for their excellent performance; Blake and Amber, in their novel burlesque and comedy entertainment, are well appreciated; the Three Rochesters give an exceedingly clever show, and their sand dance in bare feet wins applause; Herbert Clifton is popular; and Brinn scores in his sensational act, "Pastimes on a Battleship." Arabella does a neat and novel wire act; and the Bioscope displays some interesting pictures.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Marriott-Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. F. Wright.—Miss Gwynne Warren and company appear with success in a sensational sketch, The Penalty; Mr. Colin Coop in songs and patter makes a host of friends; Alf. Tristram, vocalist and dancer, is also popular; and Wys' comic pantomime company also appear. The pictures this week are An Alpine Echo, Motor Cyclist, Uncle Richard, Dimitri Donskoi.

EMPIRE PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—Sydney James's Strolling Players are greeted with rounds of applause for their excellent singing and harmonising; Victor's Juveniles are greatly admired for their singing and dancing; Charles Santon possesses a fine voice, which is heard to advantage; Gwennie Harcourt sings and dances very nicely; Joe Dale renders several amusing songs; Stanley and Greenop are capable performers on the banjo; and the following also appear with success:—Virginia Grant, the Sisters Caselli, Mabel Mignon, Cadwell and Verne, and George Melvin (comedian).

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—The premier position is held here by the Great Four, in a comedy harmony act, their songs and jokes being heartily enjoyed. Stewart and Lorraine give a successful musical entertainment; Miss Diana Hope and company, in a melodramatic sketch, The Other Man, are well received; a number of clever feats are done by the Sisters Urma on a triple trapeze; Reid and Power are entertaining in their sketch The Chambermaid; Heather Belle pleases with her Scotch ballads; Happy Attwood is warmly applauded for his comic songs and patter; Ada Clarisse sings excellently; and the Diamonds score in their acrobatic performance.

WORLD'S FAIR.—Proprietor, Mr. Charles A. James.—The artists appearing here are Ward and Davis, comedy duettists; Allan Arthur, eccentric comedian; Eva Alliston, vocalist and dancer; Ryder Davis, in song and monologue; Eva Ward, burlesque artist; and Alliston and Arthur, comedy duo, together with the cinematograph.

DUDLEY. — OPERA HOUSE. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. Tilley.—Mr. Leonard Boyne's company is giving a thoroughly efficient rendering of Raffles. Mr. Reginald Dance's grasp of the principal rôle is both convincing and complete; the Earl of Amersteth is played by Mr. Oswald Griffiths with refinement; and Mr. Arthur Fitzgerald is an amusing Viscount Crowley. Mr. Edwin Irwin's rendering of the American detective Curtis Bedford is impressive; Mr. Harold West is well suited to the part of "Bunny"; Mr. Buckstone Clair is exceptionally good as Crawshay; Lady Melrose is excellently played by Miss Agnes Knights; and Miss Margaret Unett supplies a pretty sketch of Lady Ethel. Miss Frances Sitherage is a sympathetic Gwendolen; and Miss May Brooke a bewitching Mrs. Vidal.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Midland Entertainment Corporation, Ltd.; Manager Mr. Chas. H. Bowmaker.—The Three Comerfords, comedy acrobats, are paying a welcome return visit; Mr. Len Teel as the suffering dame causes endless amusement; clever tricks are performed by Frank Reno, comedy cyclist; Alf Brookes, comedian, is a strong favourite; and the dancing of Walter Aubrey, comedian, is greatly appreciated; Vere Lennie makes a charming and popular principal boy; and the three Sisters Adare have plenty of "go" as comediennes and dancers.

DUNDEE.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Manager, Mr. Louis Karpe.—The Moody-Manners Opera Company is here. Monday evening witnessed the representation of Samson and Delilah, which riveted the interest of a crowded house. The stage management and scenery were alike excellent, the Interior of the Temple of Dagon being a masterpiece of stage setting. As Delilah Miss Zelie de Lussan held the attention of the audience enthralled, both by her accomplished acting and the excellence of her vocalisation. As Samson Mr. Joseph O'Mara gave a well-thought-out impersonation and sang with passionate fervour; Mr. William Dever, as the High Priest of Dagon, was a decided success, and used his fine voice with effect; Mr. Charles Moorhouse made a dramatic Satrap, his capital voice being heard to the utmost advantage; Mr. Charles Magrath as the Aged Hebrew was admirable both vocally and histrionically. Herr Richard Eckhold conducted with his customary skill. On Tuesday evening Mr. Charles Manners' great artistic success Aida was given with Madame de Vere-Sapio as Aïda and Mr. Philip Brozel as Radames. The week's répertoire also includes La Tosca, Carmen, Tannhäuser, and Faust.

KING'S THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Managing Director, Mr. Alfred Moul; Manager, Mr. S. McIntosh.—A bill of the most entertaining order is headed by those clever acrobats, the famous Craggs, in their exhilarating comedy-sketch Billy, an enjoyable combination of mirth and skill; the Four Royal Scots evoke the greatest enthusiasm with their smartly worked vocal, instrumental, and comedy act; Arabella Allen submits realistic sketches from Dickens's works, and is deservedly successful; Andie Burns finds great favour; Ambrose Thorne indulges in some clever and original business, and Reg Beauchamp is a hugely entertaining comedian of the eccentric type. Ada Oxley appears in a prettily-staged farcical sketch Peggy, which is much enjoyed, being ably supported by Grace Moore and Philip Orr, while the Kingscope pictures are of a diversified and interesting nature.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr. Alfred Moul; Manager Mr. S. McIntosh.—Mr. Montague Beaudyn's company in Send Him Victorious has proved a big attraction here. Miss Sidney Crowe's impersonation of Countess Kara von Mechlinberg is marked by great dramatic ability; Mr. Herbert Skardon scores as the hero Captain Frank Allison; Colonel Henrich Kaufman is capitally acted by Mr. G. M. Montanini; Mr. Howard Hardy is a dignified and impressive King of Ravonia; Mr. James Archer is alert and decisive as the Prison Governor; Mr. Charles Higgins makes a capital Major Carl Strauss; Mr. Lionel Carteret submits a good performance of John Arany; Mr. Charles Russell (Sergeant Max) and Mr. Albert Mellitt (Andrea Vereist) are alike excellent; Miss Netta Mitchell imparts much charm and naturalness to the part of Ethel Harding, and Miss Madge Palmer and Mr. Bert Woodin are thoroughly amusing in their comedy parts.

PALACE THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; Acting-Manager, Mr. Tom Lunn.—The cinematographic entertainment provided here is of the usual high standard. The Heart of a Cowboy depicts a ranchman's story of love and treachery with telling effect. The Lyons Mail is a very dramatic and thrilling film. Foolshead's Crime is a laughter-maker of the best type. Cosette, a film based on incidents in "Les Miserables," is a veritable triumph of cinematographic art.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. W. Austin.—This hall is still achieving great success with animated pictures worked on the two-houses-per-night system. The attendances are on the increase.

NEWMAN'S PICTURE PALACE.—Lessee, Mr. Fred Newman; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jack Noble.—Business is exceedingly brisk at Mr. Newman's house, where a fine assortment of films are on view. The programme is interspersed with several variety turns.

DURHAM.—THE PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. T. C. Rawes.—Cassie Walmer heads an entertaining programme, her singing and dancing evoking enthusiasm; a capital turn is that of Keen and Waller, with eccentric acrobatic feats; and Dolly, Agnes, and Maud win applause for their singing; Carlo and May Trio have a laughable acrobatic and wire act; Prof. Hutchison and his dolls provide an enjoyable ventriloquial entertainment; the Cheers, with their performing cats are well received; Lanozof is an expert foot equilibrist; and the Cathedoscope shows The Drunkard's Child.

EASTBOURNE.—DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Murray King and Clark.—Mr. John E. Watson's company is appearing here in The New Boy. Mr. F. G. Thurstans plays the part of Archibald Rennick very cleverly, and keeps the house in roars of laughter; Mr. T. W. Atherstone does able work as Doctor Candy; Mr. Alfred Field Fisher is a very effective and funny Theodore, the French master; and Mr. J. P. Kirkwood and Mr. L. Lillie lend satisfactory help as Roach and Bullock major. Miss Phyllis Manners gives much and capable assistance as Mrs. Rennick; Miss Evelyn Ormonde is a bright Nancy Roach; while Miss Vera Wallace is a capital servant, Susan. Mr. Alfred Field Fisher highly amuses with his patter, and in his sketch An Afternoon Call he gets the best of help from Miss Vera Wallace.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. F. Woodward.—Topping the bill here are the Three Romas, who give a thoroughly genuine and pleasing strong show; Miss May Lillian Levey, after her pantomime success in skirts, returns to male attire, and is a bright and sparkling impersonator; the Melbournes have a very funny and clever act, which is one of the great successes of the evening; the L.V.O. Trio keep the fun going in a sketch, Jim, the Lady's Maid Burglar; Mr. Archie Glenn sings, patters, and dances as a scout; Kenneth and Kane are a smart couple; Miss Lillian Oaks sings and plays the violin in a refined way; and new films are shown.

ECCLES.—CROWN THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert Rogers.—Mr. F. Marriott Watson and Mr. James Usher are presenting Only a Little Boy. Mr. Oswald Douglas as Steve Kingdom plays the part of the hero in a commendable manner, his acting during the many trying scenes being marked by artistic restraint. Mr. F. Marriott Watson is a capable exponent of the part of Jim Bragstone, whose villanies are thoroughly portrayed; Mr. Aubrey Winn as Sir Philip Meynell makes the most of a rather small part; Mr. Elton Morgan and Miss Mabel Harland as Mr. and Mrs. Pennington are all that could be desired; Miss Florence E. Florence as June is responsible for an excellent interpretation; and Miss Connie Meadows as Deborah proves herself a capital comedienne. The humorous element is also well looked after by Miss Hettie Senior as Tag Rag O'Flynn. Miss Dot Ford, who plays the part of Billie Bragstone, fully merits the approval which her efforts call forth.

EDINBURGH. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Directors, Mr. F. W. Wyndham and Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Whitehead.—Mr. Bernard Shaw's brilliantly successful comedy You Never Can Tell has been here on a return visit this week, presented in very entertaining fashion by Messrs. E. Tower Platt and Harry P. Towers's company. Mr. Graham Colmer makes a very breezy lover as Valentine, and Miss Winifred Beech plays Gloria Clandon with a full understanding of the possibilities of the part; while Miss Edith Hunter as Mrs. Clandon, with Miss Ida Southern and Mr. Geoffrey Wilkinson as Dolly and Philip deal very amusingly with the other members of this peculiar family; and in the outstanding part of the Waiter Mr. Claude Haviland brings out all the points of a capital character study. Mr. J. Edward Pearce as Fergus Crampton, Mr. Allan Jeayes as Finch McComas, Mr. Bellenden Clarke as Bohun, and Miss Sylvia Dawson as the parlour-maid are all well fitted into an excellent cast.

ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE. — Managing-Directors, Mr. F. W. Wyndham and Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. M. Downie.—A crowded house here on Monday last endorsed the favourable verdict passed by metropolitan audiences upon Our Miss Gibbs, with which Mr. Geo. Edwardes's company is paying a visit for six nights. The book is well written, and the music, by Mr. Ivan Caryll and Mr. Lionel Monckton, is pretty and tuneful, while the mounting of the piece is marked by the lavishness which is characteristic of all Mr. Edwardes's productions. Miss Alice Pollard, a graceful and vivacious actress, played the title-rôle with brightness and humour, and she dances with exceeding neatness; Miss Marie Wilson as Lady Elizabeth acted with much ability, and sang sweetly; Miss May Marton displayed admirable powers of comedy as Mrs. Farquhar; and Miss Grace Wixon cleverly represented the part of the Duchess of Minster. Mr. George Gregory as Timothy Gibbs gave an extremely droll performance, his diverting business, amusing singing, and capital dancing evoking loud applause; Mr. Lionel Mackinder was very entertaining as the Hon. Hughie Pierrepoint; and an excellent sketch of Slithers, a professional crook, was submitted by Mr. Robert Nainby. Mr. Myles Clifton as the Earl of St. Ives, Mr. Ernest Mahar as Mr. Toplady, and Mr. V. Crofton, a first-rate vocalist, acted with notable ability; and the other members of the large cast rendered efficient support. The dancing, which was a prominent feature of the performance, was strengthened by a charming solo dance in Act 2 by Miss Florence Phillips, and a delightful Irish jig, executed in exhilarating style by Miss Phillips, Miss Mabel Danby, and Miss Olive Wade. The chorus and augmented orchestra worked with great smoothness under the direction of Mr. Harold Lonsdale.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Aynsley Cook.—Mr. Sam Mayo, who heads the Empire bill this week, is responsible for much laughter by the amusingly melancholy rendering of his songs; and Miss Lily Burnand sings several clever numbers with great vivacity and humour. A pretty and really artistic performance is that of A-Ba-Be's picture-postcard album, in which a young and graceful girl poses against harmonious backgrounds in various tableaux with charming effect; Miss Ray Wallace, in her admirable mimetic turn at the piano, receives loud applause; the Empire Comedy Four sing quartettes tastefully, and supply burlesque business; the Bros. O'Brien, daring and expert performers on the horizontal bar, introduce many fearless feats; and Heeley and Meeley, acrobatic knockabouts, are very good. One of the best turns of the evening is given by Mr. Gobert Belling, his assistant, and his trained animals. There is not only genuine humour and smart gymnastic work shown by the two comedians, but the four-legged performers give evidence of intelligence and highly successful training. Mr. Belling is heartily and deservedly recalled. The Albert and Edmunds company, in an absurdity, The Tower of London, and views by the Bioscope are also items in the programme.

KING'S THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Amand Mascard.—The Carl Rosa Opera company have continued their attractive series of performances this week, the repetition of Wagner's Ring of the Nibelung being supplemented by finished productions of The Marriage of Figaro, Tannhäuser, and Faust, in which Mesdames Beatrice Miranda, Doris Woodall, Ina Hill, Messrs. Charles Victor, Arthur Winkworth, Frederick Clendon, and other artists have appeared with conspicuous success.

OPERETTA HOUSE.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. J. H. Sanders.—Shakespeare's tragedy of Macbeth is shown here this week—certainly an admirable production, both in scenery and action. A very interesting series of pictures depicts the method in which Canadian railways are laid and the wonderful rate at which the work goes on. Several humorous subjects, such as The Grandfather's Clock, make the audience roar with laughter.

PRINGLE'S PICTURE PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. Edmunds.—Humour forms a large part of the programme here this week. The Policeman's Revolver and other films being very amusing. Dramatic stories are represented by vivid pictures like The Heroine of Mafeking and The Bank Breakers, both subjects of strong interest. Sabino and Joe Westley's Scottish Minstrels provide an excellent variety entertainment.

ELLESMERE PORT.—HIPPODROME AND PICTURE PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Corelli and Co.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Corelli.—Hector and Lauraine head the bill, and are very amusing in their eccentric comedy act. Other attractive turns are given by Scarlette, a pleasing comedian and conjuror; Chike, in a novel equilibristic act; Dot Irving, a most pleasing comedienne and dancer; Will Penn, who causes much merriment as a comedian; and Dunco and Langdon, who are thoroughly enjoyed in an up-to-date sketch. An excellent selection of animated pictures prove interesting and amusing.

EXETER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Chairman and Managing Director, Mr. Ed. J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—For the first three evenings this week Mr. A. Austin Leigh's company presented Caste. The company, a small one, has been well selected. Mr. Austin-Leigh gave a capital impersonation of Hawtree; Mr. Ernest Bodkin portrayed the Hon. George D'Alroy with much ability; Esther had a sympathetic interpreter in Miss Kathryn Collier. Miss Belle Travers as Polly was extremely good, and the Samuel Gerridge of Mr. Gerard Wynn was remarkably smart. As the Marquise de St. Maur Miss Emma O'Reilly artistically maintained the dignity associated with that character; and as the never-to-be-forgotten Eccles Mr. Walter Clarke portrayed this difficult part most acceptably.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Karno; Resident and Acting-Manager, Mr. Frederick Sandy.—Alec Hurley heads the bill here with Cockneys in Japan. Dick Tubbs is a comedian whose original business wins favour; Neville Delmar is a successful light comedian; Les Auberts are dancers of exceptional merit; Ossi Souplessi is aptly described as the anatomical wonder; Evelyn Taylor is a popular chorus comedienne; and Rhoda Paul, male impersonator, and Jessie Buckle are also in the bill.

FALKIRK.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace W. Ebbutt.—The Lyceum Tour Company, with the favourite Manx drama Pete, has drawn good houses. The drama is well presented and effectively produced. Mr. Austin Milroy gives a powerful and convincing representation of the part of the honest and honourable Manx fisherman; Miss V. Malcolm Barnett as Kate displays histrionic powers of a high order. Other parts are excellently sustained by Mr. Alfred Gray as Phillip Christian, Mr. J. Edward Fletcher as Ross Christian, Mr. Frank Stone as Cæsar Creegan, Miss Lucy Murray as Nancy, and Miss Minnie Lake as Granny.

FARNWORTH.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. T. Morton Powell.—The New Barmaid is here under the direction of Mr. Alexander Loftus. Miss Madge Prior in the title-rôle acts and sings with grace and refinement, her songs being encored; Mr. Alexander Loftus as Bertie White is responsible for a large share of the humorous element; and is ably seconded by Mr. Charles Adeson, who proves himself a capital comedian as William White. Mr. Charles Sequin plays Bonsor on just the right lines. The play is prettily mounted.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Messrs. Alban and Bernard Limpus' company with The Thief had a most enthusiastic reception here on Monday. Miss Georgina Wynter gives an artistic rendering of Marise Chelford; Mr. Bernard Limpus submits a good study of Richard Chelford; Mr. Carl W. Lindsay shows ability as Harry Leyton; Miss Mary Forrester as Isabel Leyton is all that can be desired; Raymond Leyton is cleverly portrayed by Mr. Frederick Morland; and Detective Protheroe is in the capable hands of Mr. W. Somerset.

T. J. West's Picture Palace at the Town Hall is exhibiting a very entertaining programme of pictures here this week. The star film is a very fine one, entitled The Sacrifice; another grand production is Faust; and Generous Rivals is well received. Other pictures of unusual interest and amusement include Pygmalion and Galatea, Taming Wild Horses in Buenos Ayres, The Gold Mania, &c. Between the pictures, Mr. Harold Kingston, the possessor of a rich baritone voice, sings some good songs, which are well received by the large audiences.

GATESHEAD. — KING'S THEATRE. — Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Local-Manager and Licensee, Councillor Harold Arnold.—Adam Tomlinson, a popular local comedian, heads the list; Archie Royer "tumbles" with great success; Gerhardi Mohr, a Danish champion jumper, furnishes an appreciated item; there is any amount of good humour in Rose and Challoner's The Porter and the Singer; Hemsley and Ambrose have a taking sketch in A Fatal Rehearsal; Mayme Cannon is an entertaining comedienne; and the Kingscope supplies interesting pictures.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Sole Lessee, Mr. F. W. Bolam; General-Manager, Mr. R. G. Elder; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Dixon.—The Gateshead Amateur Operatic Society is presenting The Mikado here for the benefit of local charities.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Bolam; Acting-Manager, Mr. Steve Smith.—The principal items on the bill are The Rocky Road and Tommy Lad. In addition to the pictures, a couple of comedy artists, in Watson and McQue, are appearing and making a hit.

RAVENSWORTH HALL.—Proprietors, Messrs. R. Allan and T. F. McDonald; Manager, Mr. R. Allan; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. S. Newton.—The prime films here are Pine Ridge Feud, The Darling of Their Heart, and The Grandsire. Little Dixie a clever singer and dancer, is also in the bill.

GLASGOW. — THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. W. Wyndham and Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy O. Humphrys.—The visit here for two weeks and six matinées of Sir Herbert Tree's company in Pinkie and the Fairies is evoking considerable interest, and not the least enjoyable part of the entertainment is to see the delight of the many youngsters who are in the audience. The pretty story and beautiful setting were heartily enjoyed, and the younger members of the company do their work excellently. Miss Iris Hawkins as Pinkie, Miss Florrie Lewis as Queen of the Fairies, and Master Philip Tonge as Tommy are a delightful trio. Mr. Ambrose Manning as Uncle Gregory, Miss Kate Forster as Aunt Imogen, and Miss Augusta Haviland as Aunt Caroline give humorous portrayals of the three "grown-ups," ably assisted by Mr. Walter R. Creighton as the Gardener, and later as the Beast. Miss Hilda Antony is a charming Molly; Miss Dora Rignold acts and sings well as the Sleeping Beauty; and Cinderella is cleverly played by Miss Gwennie Brogden. A word of praise is due Master Burford Hampden as the Herald; but, indeed, all the young artists did their parts admirably.

KING'S, LTD.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. W. Wyndham and Geo. T. Minshull; Business-Manager, Mr. Hugh Macfarlane.—A powerful attraction here is provided by Mr. Martin Harvey and his company. On Monday and Tuesday The Corsican Brothers was presented before a packed house. Mr. Harvey made a brilliant appearance in the dual rôle of Fabien and Louis del Franchi; and Miss N. de Silva charmed the house with her fine performance of Emilie de Lesparre. Mr. Alfred Mansfield as M. de Chateau Renaud presents a clever portrayal; Mr. P. Stoney brought the part of Baron de Montgiron into due prominence; Mr. Percy Foster gave an able presentation of Alfred Meynard; and the Baron Martelli of Mr. George Cooke left little to be desired. Mr. Fred Wright, sen. (Colonna), and Mr. Philip Hewland (Orlando) gave careful and well-balanced representations; Mme. del Franchi as acted by Miss Mary Rorke was entirely natural. The Conspiracy preceded, Mr. Martin Harvey playing King Conrod of Polaria with marked success. The latter end of the week is devoted to The Only Way.

ROYALTY, LTD.—Sub-Lessees, The Scottish Playgoers Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Wareing.—The Repertory Company is here presenting Candida for another week, the cast being the same as before. Good houses are being attracted. A new comedietta, called Our First Dinner, noticed elsewhere, precedes.

GRAND.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. B. G. Maclachlan; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. Christie Grant.—In charity's sweet cause the Glasgow Amateur Operatic Society are this week giving five performances of Tom Jones, commencing on Tuesday.

PRINCESS'S.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hugh Murdoch.—Sapho, a new adaptation of Daudet's famous novel, has been attracting large audiences. In the hands of Mr. Ernest R. Abbott's company full justice is done to the production, and in the title-rôle Miss Ada Abbott displays remarkable histrionic ability; as Jean Gaussin Mr. E. Ouston gives a faithful sketch of the infatuated youth; as Henri Dechelette and Flamant Mr. John Drake and Mr. Stephen Crossley render able assistance; Mr. Edwin Keene and Miss Marjorie Tennant as Nichette are very amusing; as Aunt Divonne Miss Ethel Tinsley shines, as also do Miss Florence North as Lucy and Mr. Weedon Rose as old Legrand. As La Gouvernerie Mr. Hugh Roberts gives a fine performance; and as Hettema Mr. W. H. Davis-Brown capably renders a difficult part. The production is elaborately mounted.

METROPOLE, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Gordon Jefferson.—Was She To Blame? is being presented here with telling effect by a strong company headed by Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley. Mrs. Kimberley is the authoress, and is seen to advantage in the rôle of Kate Rosselle, a retired actress; as William Clark, a broken-down actor, Mr. Kimberley shows keen perception of character; Miss Constance Laurie gives a touching portrayal of the Vicar's daughter; and the Vicar and his wife are represented with excellent taste by Mr. Henry Rutland and Miss Ellen Beverley. In the part of Capt. Courtney Mr. George Keene bears himself well; the Frank Rosselle of Mr. George Langdon is strong and effective; the comedy parts (Swales and his wife) are successfully undertaken by Mr. Kenneth Black, jun., and Miss Nita Owen; Mr. S. Wilson Lowther is good as the Doctor; and other parts are well filled by Messrs. A. Smith, John Arthurs, Harry Stone, and Miss Florence Steyne.

LYCEUM.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich Waldon; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. H. Oakden.—Miss Maud Western's production of Folly's Fortunes combines the most agreeable elements of musical comedy, melodrama, and vaudeville. As Billy Boyd Mr. Ellis is the life and soul of the piece; Miss Western as Folly Vaughan displays her abilities to the best advantage; Miss Maudie Lambert as Biddy Boyd also deserves great praise, her singing being specially appreciated. A feature of the evening was the Folly Male Voice Prize Glee Party, who were applauded for their singing; the Monte Carlo Girls also receive an ovation.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Reynolds.—Presented by Fred Karno's company, Perkins, M.P., keeps large audiences in continuous laughter. Mr. Albert Bruno is the principal, and he makes the most of his chances. Merrie Marie Kendall, comedienne, is also here, and sings in her usual vivacious style. Other notable turns include Steve M'Carthy, comedian and dancer; the Channings, in a refined vocal and instrumental act; the St. Johns (Gale and Frank), musical comedians, campanologists, and dancers; Les Silas, French operatic vocalists; Bert Coote and company, in an interesting sketch entitled A Lamb on Wall Street; and the Bioscope, with a series of interesting pictures.

PAVILION, LTD. — General-Manager, Mr. Evan Good; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ernest Foster.—Jack and Evelyn top the bill here with a new act, Introductions, which affords both artists excellent opportunities for the display of their abilities; Hayman and Franklin, in their Hebrew comedy turn, cause hearty laughter; Lily Edwards, after her successful season in panto at the Grand, is taking well in her various songs; Regan and Ryan come from the Royal to repeat their success and enhance their popularity; Lena Verdi, in clever musical impersonations, ably deputises for an absent turn; Three Sisters Sprightly provide excellent amusement with their smart and versatile work; Clare and Pastor take well in an instrumental turn; and the acrobatic items of the Pichel Troupe are neatly carried through.

PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich Waldon; General-Manager, Mr. Harry McKelvie.—Owing to the great success attained by Mrs. Lillie Williams's pantomime Dick Whittington, the management have engaged the "show" for another week. Mr. Sam Thomson as Idle Jack continues to be the life and soul of the performance; and the grand work done by the Sisters Cora as Dick and Alice keep them in high favour. Specialities are still introduced by Lindsay and Harte; the Four Killarney Girls, and the Celesta Comedy Quartette; while the Sisters Cora are again responsible for several items of value to the entertainment. In addition to the pantomime, Miss Jessie Templeton, principal boy from the Princess, meets with a great reception in her several numbers; Mr. Barry Gilmore, also of the Princess, appears with much success, his burlesque conductor proving quite a hit. Old and well-known friends to the Southside house are Walker and Lake, who are accorded a hearty welcome; Miss Crissie Cross both dances and sings well; and Miss Lena Verdi is excellently received in her song and mimicry. Large houses have been the rule.

Gaiety, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. Dickinson.—At each performance during the week the house has been well patronised. Tiny Jessie, a chic comedienne and dainty dancer, has a capital voice, and her dancing leaves little to be desired; Will Leslie, Scotch comedian, amuses greatly. Among the films is A Rival's Generosity, which is followed intently.

Coliseum.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—Lafayette, Conway and Leland, the Merry Monopedes; Wooda, Wells, and Wilkins, in their vocal comedy sketch The Piano-Tuner; Mabel Sinclair, the wonderfully clever ventriloquist; Will Johnson, a quaint and lively comedian; and Gwennie Llewellyn, a young vocalist with an astonishing range of voice, form the programme here. The Bioscope films are up to date.

Panopticon.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. A. E. Pickard.—Read and Wright, versatile duo vocalists and dancers, head the list, their dancing being especially entertaining. The other turns include Jos. S. Aitken, comedian and parody king; Kitty Esdale, comedienne and dancer; Will Hawthorne, the humorous Scottie; and Chas. E. Erneste, a clever vocal and musical mimic. The Bioscope displays The Cowboys' Romance, and other interesting films.

Bostock's Jungle.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank E. Bostock; General-Manager, Mr. Harry E. Tudor.—Variety and enterprise continue to be the watchwords here, and several notable new items are on the programme this week. The presentation to Trainer Martino for his bravery caused special interest to centre round Monday's performance. The crowds who patronise the Jungle serve to emphasise the loss that Glasgow sustained when Mr. E. H. Bostock disbanded his Zoo collection.

GLOSSOP.—Theatre Royal and Picturedrome.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sydney Spenser.—In common with other places of amusement located in the cotton districts, the Glossop Theatre Royal has experienced the severe effects of depressed trade, and the manager and proprietor (Mr. Spenser) has accordingly decided to run the theatre as a picturedrome up to the close of the season. Half prices are to be charged, and a number of variety turns will be introduced. The new venture commenced on Monday evening last. Miss Lily Gaston, a clever all-round dancer and male impersonator, and Miss Winnie Laurie, a fine comedienne and burlesque artist, appeared.

GLOUCESTER.—Palace Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Will Smithson; Resident-Manager, Mr. R. T. Rea.—The chief item of an excellent bill is the Five Musical Marvels, novel and eccentric instrumentalists; Miss Lilian Farrar is a capital vocalist and graceful dancer; the Miovoskys, comic musical acrobatic eccentrics, are well received; and Reg Ewen, light comedian, sings a couple of good songs. Godfrey Price, with spectacular scena The Trumpeter, possesses a fine voice; and Miss Lena Brunton imitates various well-known music-hall artists. Rutters' Dogs play a comic football match and are applauded; the Leozellis in potpourri wire and dancing act are good. The Palace Pictures conclude.

King's Hall.—Messrs. Pooles' Theatres, Ltd.—The two houses a night system is now introduced here, with good results.

GREAT YARMOUTH.—Royal Aquarium.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. H. Nightingale.—Mrs. Frank Bateman and company are here this week in The Way Women Love, Sapho, and Camille.

Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Geo. Gilbert; Manager, Mr. George Zalva.—La Vie is presenting a most refined living picture turn; Susie Dole scores with her songs; Harry Fullett is popular; Mr. Charles Bradford is an amusing comedian; and Messrs. Lytton and Bland successfully appear in A Lesson in Love.

GREENOCK.—King's Theatre.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. A. B. and J. J. Wright.—The Compton Comedy Company is paying a welcome return visit, and on Monday evening David Garrick was presented to a large audience. Mr. Edward Compton had a most enthusiastic reception, and his well-known impersonation of the famous actor was followed throughout with the deepest interest. Mr. Henry Crocker was excellent in every way as Alderman Gresham; Mr. Philip Gordon sustained the part of Rumbelow with marked ability; and as the Hon. Tom Tallyhant Mr. Frank Royde appeared to advantage. As Violet Miss Kathleen Leigh acquitted herself admirably; Miss Marie Hassell filled the rôle of Mrs. Rumbelow with much acceptance; and the remainder of the cast lent valuable support. The comedy was preceded by a one-act comedietta, entitled Tom Noddy's Secret, in which Miss Nell Compton, a promising young actress, made a successful début to a Greenock audience. The week's bill has also included The Blasé Baronet, played for the first time here, The Road to Ruin, She Stoops to Conquer, and The School for Scandal.

Hippodrome.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. L. Skivington.—A good all-round programme here includes Walter Ellis and company, who submit a highly amusing sketch, entitled The Sleepwalker; Abel and Welsh, eccentric acrobats; Oswald and Locke, in their farcical interlude, The Partner; Lily Lonsdale, a charming ballad vocalist; McNally, an expert player on the dulcimer; Erne Myers, a popular comedian; Edie Haley, vocalist; and Mealy and Bois, speciality artists.

Empire.—Lessee, Mr. J. J. Bennell; General-Manager, Mr. J. B. Lawton; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. L. Clayton.—An excellent series of pictures is exhibited here this week. The Heroine of Mafeking is a splendid film, depicting several interesting and stirring scenes. A Day with Our Soldier Boys and 'Twixt Red Man and White prove attractive subjects, and much amusement is afforded by The Cheesemonger's Dog, A Policeman's Revolver, Foolshead at the Ball, and Brought to Terms.

GRIMSBY.—Prince of Wales' Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. North.—The Arcadians is proving very popular, as presented by Mr. Robert Courtneidge's company. Mr. Gus Oxley as James Smith finds ample opportunity for the exercise of his capacity for droll humour; and Mr. Frank Collins as the melancholy Peter Doody makes the part highly diverting. Miss Marion Edwardes sings the charming numbers allotted to Sombra with exquisite effect; Miss Mysie Devine gives a spirited representation of the Irish girl, Eileen Cavanagh; Miss Madge Haines is responsible for excellent light comedy as Mrs. Smith; and others accomplishing good work are Mr. Roy Sidney as Jack Meadows, Mr. Roy Lorraine as Bobby, Miss Katie Yates as Chrysea, and Mr. C. Herbert Hewetson as Sir George Paddock.

The Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. F. Verner Walford.—The Achmed Ibrahim Bedouin Arabs retain all their former popularity here, and their wonderful acrobatic display and pyramid buildings make an attractive turn; the Al Schafer Four show marked ability, both as comedians and instrumentalists; the Florodora Girls are a smart trio of singers and dancers; Willie Gardner is a clever dancer on roller skates; Young and Evans give a capital exposition of Yiddish humour; Wilton Heriot and company appear in Father's Footsteps, which is full of amusing situations; and Daisy Stratton, a comedienne with a good style, dances prettily.

The Picturedrome.—Lessee, Mr. Matt. Raymond; Resident-Manager, Mr. Maxwell Edwardes.—A stirring illustration of adventurous life among the Redskins, entitled Comato, the Sioux, is the principal picture; whilst Into the Shadow of Death is a capital dramatic subject. Among the comic films are another of the Foolhead series, Are You John Brown? &c. A beautifully coloured historic picture is The Egyptian Maid. Mr. Maxwell Edwardes contributes illustrated songs.

GUERNSEY.—Theatre St. Julians.—Lessee, Mr. Ed. Marris; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley Hope.—This week we are being entertained by Mr. Frank Weatherby's company in the drama Flying From Justice. Mr. Alec Forbes as the villain Guhy is a clever actor; Mr. Bert Ellis shows ability as John Lacarsey; Mr. Byron Douglass is a capable Charles; Miss Minnie Webster infuses spirit into the part of Mildred; Miss Nellie Murray does well as Mrs. Bearing; and Miss Viola Church is a pathetic Winnie Bradley.

HALIFAX.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Mr. Brandon Thomas's company is on a return visit here with Charley's Aunt. Mr. T. M. Stewart makes a soldierly and aristocratic Sir Francis Chesney; Mr. Roy Byford as Stephen Spettigue is a good specimen of a bumptious lawyer; Mr. J. S. Woolley and Mr. Robert Burnett are very good as Jack Chesney and Charles Wykeham; Mr. Stanley Cooke fully maintains his reputation as Babs; Mr. Sydney Compton gives a well-thought-out study of the college scout, Brassett; Miss A. Stafford is a dignified Donna Lucia; Miss Ruth Henton a charming and provoking Kitty Verdun; and Miss Phyllis Back and Miss Bertha Wilson play nicely as Amy Spettigue and Ela Delahay. Charley's Aunt is preceded by the Colour Sergeant.

Palace and Hippodrome, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Julius Simpson.—The Carmos (lady and gentleman) are clever balancers and equilibrists; Dorma Morgan, a taking comedienne, is a most attractive "boy"; Barrington gives a talented musical turn with some quaint touches of humour; the Fimans have a humorous scena, The Fire Station; Steel and Laing are clever dancers and tumblers; Jack Warman, comedian, is a success; Clara Coverdale's Nine Dainty Dots prove a popular turn; and La Belle Sylvia, speciality dancer, and the Palace pictures complete.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—Scottie's Operatic Ballet Troupe, in The Cry of the Children, is a popular turn here. Napoleon at Waterloo is a powerful playlet; "whizzing the whirl" is another attractive turn; Hall and Wilson give a clever exhibition of cycling on rollers; Sandy and Ramsay, patter comedians, create considerable amusement; and Ivy Cornwallis, comedienne; Harry Kranlee, eccentric comedian and dancer; and the Merries, entertainers, complete.

HAMILTON, N.B.—Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; General-Manager, Mr. René Clayton; Musical-Director, Mr. J. Millar.—Dan Whitley, patter comedian, is most amusing; Miss Harriet Vernon renders a couple of songs in excellent style, besides appearing in her scena Emblems; Fred and Lulu Camplin are undoubtedly clever; Bert Weston provides an amusing turn; Leslie Race sings a couple of songs in excellent style; Dorothy Dundas sings daintily; the Faludy Troupe of Hungarian acrobats are smart; and Les Valadons in an equilibristic turn and the Bioscope conclude.

HANLEY.—Royal.—Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone.—Good business is being done here as the result of the return visit of The Country Girl, with a capital cast, a capable chorus, and delightful dresses. Miss Dorothy Ariess as Marjorie Joy plays in charming manner; as Challoner Mr. Nelson Hancock sings and acts in a way that gains favour; Mr. Coningsby Brierley in the rôle of Barry is the cause of continuous laughter; and the Sophie of Miss Addie Lennard is a commendable characterisation. Miss Anna Hickisch as Nan is full of vivacity; and Miss F. Newell's Indian Princess is very fine. Mr. Dudley Bennett and Mr. T. C. Wray are to be congratulated upon the provision of a fine company.

Grand.—Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Arthur Rand.—A capital programme is headed by Callaghan and St. George, in a charmingly original scena, entitled The Old Neighbourhood. Park's Eton Boys and Girton Girls, in a new song-scena, Speech Day at Eton College, are enthusiastically recalled; La Sylphe, a charming dancer, is the very perfection of graceful movement; Lilion, cyclist, is clever; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shelley in Black and White are good; and Kendrick and Laura are a clever couple. Fred Poplar and Kitty Wager are also in the bill. Novel Navigation is a comic film, well shown.

King's.—Lessee, Mr. J. P. Moore; Manager, Capt. F. Shaw; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Harlewood.—This week The Scapegrace is followed with breathless excitement. A Tale of the West is a fine pictorial and thrilling picture; A Chase for Wealth is also exciting, and A Youthful Hero is well played. Humorous subjects are The Officer's Men, Silly Billy, and Amateur Acrobats. Lila Vesta returns, and again makes a decided impression.

HARROGATE.—Grand Opera House.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Eric Fielding-Smith.—For the first three nights of the week the Lyceum Tours Company appeared in The Two Little Vagabonds. Mr. Frank Beresford played George Thornton in a satisfactory manner; and Mr. Lockwood was an able exponent of Captain Darville. Miss Mabel Cooke was in every way excellent as Marian Thornton, in spite of the fact she played at a few hours' notice. Mr. Charles Ludlow made an acceptable Bill Mullins, well seconded by Miss Marie Pritchard as Biddy. As the two vagabonds, Dick and Wally, the Misses Grenville and Millias won great credit for their clever and pathetic performances. The play was well mounted and dressed. For the latter half of the week Mr. Keith Kenneth's company were billed in The Woman of Kronstadt.

HARTLEPOOL.—Empress Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Albert Maxsted.—Pictures continue to reign supreme here, and the selection provided by Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope Co. is an excellent one. One particularly fine film is entitled The Call, which depicts scenes in circus life, and is full of excitement; The Lie is another dramatic subject, founded upon incidents in the Franco-Prussian war; Love Letters and The Hard-hearted Farmer appeal strongly to the audience; and Weary Willie Gets a Job, Great Expectations from Uncle, and The Jealous Doll cause much merriment.

HASTINGS.—Gaiety Theatre.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. E. Scutt.—The Artfulness of Ada, the new play by Mr. Arthur Shirley, is being presented here. The piece is light, cheerful, and highly amusing, and Miss Madge Chrichton has a brilliant little company to support her. As Ada Byron-Bruce Miss Chrichton creates great amusement by her remarkably clever comedy acting; Robert Byron-Bruce is naturally portrayed by Mr. Frank Tennant; a graceful exposition of the part of Mrs. Glynne is given by Miss Valerie Crespin; Thomas Sidney makes a capital Scotchman servant as Jopling; Miss Nellie Shirley as McClosky makes a typical wardress; and Mr. Stanley Farbridge is a dignified Colonel Duval. Miss Kate Kearney is particularly bright and dainty as Mrs. Goggle; Miss Ethel Hart successfully represents Lucy; Mr. J. F. Knowles ably sustains the part of Fred Spencer; and an admirable little piece of character drawing is furnished by Mr. Alick Chumley as Tom Senoakes. A one-act play, entitled Auld Robin Grey, precedes.

Hippodrome.—Lessee, Mr. H. B. Boyd; General-Manager, Mr. Fred Ewing.—A capital programme is attracting good audiences. Miss Carrie Forde, Irish comedienne, is warmly welcomed; Kitty Weston sings with excellent taste and expression; the pictures are very popular; Farmer Skein gives a remarkable impersonation of the drunkard Conpeau in Drink, and also impersonates very vividly the character of Robert Macaire. He is supported by Messrs. George Owen, Walter Raysham, Miss Violet Lewis, and Miss Katherine. La Belle Greta is a graceful Spanish dancer. The Stewarts import genuine humour into their Scotch comedy duo.

Hastings Promenade Pier.—General-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—Mr. Ernest Mansell's Electric Art animated pictures are attracting considerable interest, and are being continued this week. Mr. Harry Hardy during the exhibition entertains by his versatile talent in singing and ventriloquism.

HOUGHTON-LE-SPRING.—Gaiety.—Proprietors, Messrs. Hall and Ainsley.—Mr. C. Watson Mill's company is appearing here with great success in A Wrecker of Men. In the rôle of Doris Melville Miss Gwendoline Talbot gives a delightful performance, and the part of Risca Mallinson is capably sustained by Miss Ruth Zillwood. Jim Morley and Pharosanhus are interpreted by Messrs. Arthur S. Pitt and Mr. Thompson Carruthers with much ability; Mr. Tom Bowron gives an excellent reading of Guise Strange; and W. Pallister Acock is effective in the rôle of the Hon. Reggie Verincourt.

HOYLAND.—Hippodrome.—Owner and Manager, Mr. Scott Alexander; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. Terry.—Leoni Clarke appears here with his cats, &c., for the first time. The animals are well and carefully trained, and are heartily applauded. Harry Wright, vocalist and extempore artist, is very humorous; Nellie Gannon is a clever descriptive vocalist; Carita Carmen, comedienne, and Tom Watt, comedian, are very good; Miss Ruby Taylor, winner of Scottie's singing competition, is heartily applauded. The Bioscope includes the following entertaining pictures:—The Gamin's Gratitude, Two Sisters, Judge Not, 1776, and Getting Even.

HUDDERSFIELD.—Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—Considerable local interest is aroused by Selkirk's production of Our Empire's Defenders, in which something like 100 local children are engaged. Also in the bill are the Raymond Trio of refined musicians and dancers; Sam Williams, character comedian; the Rosses, a pair of neat dancers; Miss Adah Payne, soprano vocalist; David Fuller, baritone; and Lemoi and Quieb, in a comedy interlude. The Bioscope illustrations of how a clock is made are very interesting.

Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Herbert Garside.—Exceptional curiosity and approbation mark the visit of the wonderful Tschin-maa and his band of Chunchuses, whose performance includes some weird fire eating, juggling, and acrobatics. In addition there are appearing Chas. Gardner, comedian; Miss Joan Deering, an accomplished violinist and a sweet singer; the Columbia Trio of comedians, who sing in cultivated style; the Will Douglas Troupe of clever risley acrobats; and Tom Yorke, comedian; together with the Palace pictures on the Bioscope.

HULL.—Grand Theatre and Opera House.—Mortons, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. F. Morton.—The Woman in the Case is here. Mr. Wm. Kershaw is admirable as the wrongly-accused husband; Miss Kathleen Russel represents with marked ability the wife of Julian Rolfe; and Miss Winifred Pearson gives a realistic rendering to the unpleasant part of Claire Forster.

Alexandra Theatre.—Mortons, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Geo. Morton.—That famous old play Drink is the attraction. Mr. Pitt Hardacre as Coupeau realises the famous scene with great intensity; the Virginie of Miss Julie Kennard has many fine qualities; as Bottes Mr. Fawcett Lomax catches the spirit of the rôle, and wins the favour of the house; the Phœbe Sage of Miss Helen Pendennis is a well-conceived rendition; Miss Georgie Hall plays sympathetically the part of Gervaise; Mr. Vincent Hardy plies his colours well as Lantier.

Hippodrome.—Large houses are being drawn here by Consul, the man monkey, who is making his first appearance in Hull; another attractive turn is Will Netta's singing jockeys; while Athas and Collins give an eccentric singing and dancing act. The other artists are Howe and Ardie, comedy acrobats and gymnasts; Harriet Rose, chorus singer; Little Pam, American boy phenomenon; Mike Cray and his dog Dooley, in eccentric comedy juggling act; Syd Crossley, the long comic; and Mark Leslie, coon impersonator and dancer.

Empire.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Slingsby.—Here as chief attraction are Tom Drury and Katie Major, in a comedy act The Broker's Man. The other turns are Bertha Evelyn, contralto; Hicks and Hunter, ice skate dancers; Petro and Leon, in gymnastic comedy; Bert Crosbie, comedian and dancer; Baddow, a clever ventriloquist; and Hughes and Carney, boxing comedians.

Palace.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Barnett.—The programme here comprises several popular turns. Barton and Ashley are well-known artists, whose farcical creation Canal Boat Sal was well received. Edie Reynolds displayed remarkable ability as a violinist; and the Lukushimas, Japanese entertainers, present a clever performance, Otova San, lady artist, being an expert balancer. Fred Elton, who gives his scena on board an ocean liner, deservedly earned appreciation; and Fatmah Diard's charming singing won cordial approbation. Harry Bedford, comedian, provided a good turn; and John L. Sullivan and Jake Kilrain gave an exhibition of boxing. Jack Rose and Sue Lewis, the Yankee Doodle duo, were also acceptable artists.

Circus.—Like "Charley's Aunt," still running, are the Globe Animated Pictures at the Circus. For weeks and weeks each evening the holding capacity of the circus—which is an extremely large one—is taxed to its utmost by crowds who follow with keen interest a most excellent and varied entertainment.

HYDE.—Empire and Theatre Royal.—Lessees, Central Theatres and Franco-British Picture Co.; Managing Director and Licensee, Mr. W. Turner; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Percival.—After a succession of melodramas and pantomimes a week of vaudeville is being appreciated by large audiences. Lady Mansel's juveniles sing and dance with vivacity and charm; Elmo and Rego are diverting knockabouts; Lillie Le-Main's smartly-manipulated marionettes are warmly applauded; J. H. Carney displays versatility in various characters. Amongst a series of excellent Pictures, Noel is made extremely interesting by Mr. Ernest Percival's dramatic and effective rendering of "Ora Pro Nobis." Others who contribute to a finely-balanced programme are Della Ray, the Orchids, in a capitally played duologue and topical duet; Sisters Ernest, Harry Mantel, and the Haverleys.

ILKESTON.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. L. F. A. Rogers.—Miss Florence Glossop-Harris and company are proving a strong attraction here in Shakespearean plays. Taming of the Shrew was chosen for Monday, when an appreciative audience thoroughly enjoyed Miss Glossop-Harris's rendering of Katharine; Mr. Frank Cellier as Petruchio displayed great ability, the part of Grumio falling to the capable hands of Mr. H. P. Owen. Mr. Murray Kinnel was an interesting Lucentio, Tranio being capitally represented by Mr. J. H. Irvine. Miss Mary Goulden made an admirable Bianca; and Messrs. James Mason and Vernon Crabtree as Hortensio and Gremio respectively deserved praise. Mr. Arthur Seaton was seen to advantage as Baptista.

IPSWICH.—Hippodrome.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—Sandy McNab and a small but admirable company have a clever sketch, entitled The Egyptian Mummy, which creates roars of laughter here. Roma and Romani, billed as classical musicians, are extremely clever instrumentalists; Baron's Burlesque Menagerie is quite a novel turn, and caught on at once; the clever "impersonation" of lions, leopards, and a crocodile by dogs shows marvellous skill in training, and the four cats deserve special mention; Barnes and Ascot, the "new time dancers," are very amusing; and Ted Gill, the Yorkshire tenor, possesses a powerful voice. The Kahn and Kahn Trio of illusionists are very bewildering; and Mr. R. Dunning, a ventriloquist, is mirth-provoking. Some good bioscope films are included in a good bill.

Public Hall and Opera House.—Messrs. Barnards opened a five months' session at the above house on Monday night with their Imperial Bioscope and company of comedy artists, and were greeted by a crowded audience. The variety turns include Le Strad, a talented violinist, who impersonates successfully Sarasate, Auguste Van Biene, and others. Dandy Page, a juvenile vocalist of some versatility, and a novel fairy scena, with startling electrical effects, by Abdulla and La Superbe.

JARROW.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. Lionel Locke.—Mr. F. Hill Mitchelson's company is on a welcome return visit with Who Is She? Mr. James Stillwell is a manly King Vladimir; Mr. Stephen E. Scanlon a forcible Prince Bora; Mr. Horace Booth is well placed as Captain Arthur Gower; Mr. Alfred Glenville is an effective Sergeant Metroff; Chang Tee is in the capable hands of Mr. Bernard Leile; Miss Mabel Ronald is very good as the Little King; and Miss Georgetta Thierry is powerful in the leading part. Miss Alice Barber is good as Countess Ladori; Miss Constance Medwyn does full justice to the part of Keta Noveitch; and Miss Carrie Moore is at home as Sarette.

JERSEY.—Opera House.—Lessee, Mr. Edward Marris; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley Hope.—Mr. Frank Weathersby's company opened the third of their present visit to the Opera House with The Shadows of a Great City, before a good audience. The acting is effective and the mounting excellent.

KEIGHLEY.—The Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. Barrasford.—Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's twice nightly pantomime holds the boards here. The honours of the evening go to Dean Tribune, an excellent comedian, his soldier turn being excruciatingly funny; able support is given by Mr. Albert Williams as the Dame. The Principal Boy, Miss Ethel Campbell, fell ill on Monday, and at a moment's notice the part was ably undertaken by Miss Ivy Proudfoot. Miss Ida Franks is a charming Alice and Mr. Jack Hodson a capable Fitzwarren. Other characters are in the able hands of Mr. Leo King, Mr. Tom Gilmore, Miss Phyllis Seymour, and Madame Benita.

KIDDERMINSTER.—New Opera House.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr. Ian P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. C. Budgear.—Miss Horniman's company presented on Monday Bernard Shaw's Candida. In Candida Mr. Herbert Lomas as the Rev. James Morell plays with much skill; Mr. Claude Bulkeley ably portrays the Rev. Alexander Mill; Mr. Francis Hope and Mr. J. V. Bryant were good as Mr. Burgess and Eugene Marshbanks; Miss Edyth Goodall in the title-rôle gave a natural rendering; and Miss Muriel Pratt was an excellent Proserpine Garnett. Cupid and the Styx has also been staged.

KING'S LYNN.—New Royal Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. B. Pareezer; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Reginald Pareezer.—Mr. Haldane Crichton's company with The Cingalee appeared here for three nights this week with much success. Mr. Arthur Cartwright as the Hon. Harry Vereker has a fine voice, which was heard to perfection in his song "Cingalee," his acting was also artistic; Mr. Jack Crichton as Chambhuddy Ram was exceedingly comical in the part of Boobaamba; Mr. Douglas Munro made a typical Noble of Kandy; Mr. F. W. Ford as Sir Peter Loftus was all that could be desired; Mr. Scott Cullen was very successful as Bobby Warren; as Nanoya Miss Florence Watson was charming, both in acting and singing; Miss Ida Ernest as Peggy Sabine was vivacious, and won much favour; as Lady Patricia Miss Pauline Hague showed considerable ability; and Miss Sadie Thompson in the Vampire dance was agile and weirdly effective. The chorus was above the average.

KIRKCALDY.—King's Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. C. Cavanah.—The Carl Rosa Company paid a two-night visit here and produced Carmen and Faust to a packed house on Monday and Tuesday. The cast included Mr. Edward Davies, Mr. Allan Turner, Mr. Alexander Richard, Mr. Robert Fellon, Mr. Walter Wheatley, Mr. Arthur Winckworth, Miss Doris Woodall, Miss Ina Hill, and Miss Beatrice Miranda. The piece billed for the remaining part of the week is The Mockery of Marriage.

Corn Exchange Pavilion.—Licensee, Dr. Walford Bodie; Manager, Mr. George Lee.—There is a splendid show of up-to-date pictures here this week. A most lifelike reproduction of Count Toystoy's "Resurrection" is highly appreciated. In Ancient Babylon is a picture of great interest. Other spools contain A White Lie, The Soul of the Artist, and Accompanied on a Tom-Tom. Ben Moor, patter comedian, gave a turn which was highly appreciated.

LANCASTER.—Grand Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. C. Howitt.—Messrs. H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's company is here in the play With Edged Tools. Mr. Hamilton Dean's portrait of Jack Meredith is consistent and convincing; Miss Marie Leonhardt as Jocelyn Gordon triumphs over difficulties; Mr. J. H. Geddes is a most careful Sir John Meredith; Mr. Henry Nunn appears with success as Guy Oscard; and Mr. Campbell Goldsmith as the crafty Durnavo does good work. An excellent portrayal of Millicent Chyne is given by Miss Marguerite Cellier; and Miss Marion Fawcett is most successful as Lady Cantourne.

LEAMINGTON.—Theatre Royal.—Lessees, Messrs. Dottridge and Longden; Manager, Mr. Chas. H. Longden; Assistant-Manager, Mr. John Halifax.—Miss Loie Esmond's company is appearing here in The Sorrows of Satan. Mr. Edward Neville is an excellent Prince Lucio; Amiel is creditably played by Mr. H. Sisto; Mr. J. McGaig assumes the rôle of Geoffrey Tempest with considerable success; and Mr. Frank Wheatley is a commendable Lord Lynton. Morris (Geoffrey's servant) and Charles Grimes are in the capable hands of Mr. Percy Foreman and Mr. B. Anderson. Miss Dorothy Dewhurst plays with distinction as Mavis Clare; Miss Rosie Neville is a charming Lady Sybil; and Miss Loie Esmond is a forcible Diana Chesney.

Electric Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Gillsmiths, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Harry Plant.—Still retaining its popularity, another fine programme of pictures and variety turns is presented here this week. The outstanding pictures are The Grandsire and Drink, two very beautiful dramatic productions; Foolshead at the Ball provides much merriment; whilst other subjects responsible for much interest and amusement include A Romantic Young Lady, School for the Blind, A Suspicious Mother-in-Law, and Who's Got My Hat? Mr. Bert Williams gives a clever rendering of the recitation "Trouble in the Amen Corner"; whilst Mr. Harry Lewis sings with great success "The Bugler."

LEEDS.—Grand.—Managing-Director, Mr. Jno. Hart; Acting Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—The D'Oyly Carte Opera Company is appearing in a répertoire of old-time favourites. On Monday The Gondoliers was given, Mr. Fred Billington being happily placed as the Grand Inquisitor, and Mr. Henry A. Lytton scoring effectively as the Duke. Miss Bertha Lewis as the Duchess gave a clever impersonation. Messrs. Hollis Coote and Fred Hewett, and Miss Beatrice Boarer and Mrs. Arthur Rouseby were excellent in their various rôles.

Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. Francis Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. Nathaniel Hepworth.—Melodrama succeeds pantomime here, Married to the Wrong Man being the attraction. Miss Mary Pemberton as Ruth acts in a charming manner; and Mr. Henry Lonsdale feelingly enacts the hero.

The Empire.—District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alex Galley.—The Dramatist at Home, played by Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Faber, is a big success; Jack Pleasants, fresh from his triumph at the Grand pantomime, has to give several encores; Frank and Jen Latona prove themselves clever musicians and singers; the Kremo Troupe perform some marvellous tricks; and the Prince Milner Troupe, in acrobatic juggling and hoop-spinning, are also successful. The Smythsons appear in a new sketch; and other favourites include the Royal Delomes, Tiny Arnold, and Stuart and Morgan.

Queen's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Bush.—Wee George Wood causes a great sensation by his cleverness; Briff, Braff, and Broff are very smart in an acrobatic act; excellent singing and dancing is done by Olive and Owen and Cosgrave and Burns; Rose and Wold provide a good wire act; and the topical songs of Fred Herbert are highly appreciated.

Barrasford's Hippodrome.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Dunford—Little Tich scores heavily in several songs; Florrie Robina is welcomed as an old favourite, after some years' absence; Hayes and Merritt are exceedingly clever trampolinists; Rorke, Rooke, and Co., in The Prince's Love Affair, come in for a good share of applause; and Ritter and Foster are very clever eccentric dancers. Lily Belle, Max Sterling, Brent Hayes, and Eight 'Varsity Girls are also popular.

City Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sam Jones.—Bowman and Morton's pot-pourri Mixed Pickles, is a popular item; Fred Maxwell and company present a clever sketch, The Girl I Love; Edna Latone is a clever male impersonator. Ted Lowen, a funny comedian; Burns and Bentley, dancers; and Angus Strong, baritone, complete a good bill.

LEICESTER.—Royal Opera House.—Business Manager, Mr. Trueman Towers.—Audiences here are being delighted with The Dollar Princess, which is admirably presented by Mr. George Edwardes's company. Miss Norah Barry is a fascinating Alice; and Mr. W. H. Rawlins an excellent mirth-provider as Mr. Bulger. Mr. Leslie Holland as Harry Q. Conder, Mr. Hugh Henson as Dick, Mr. Alec Worcester as Freddy Fairfax, Miss Peggy Primrose as Daisy, and Miss Madeline Seymour as Olga are others who should be singled out for performances of real merit. The chorus is a good one, and the staging and dressing leave nothing to be desired.

Theatre Royal.—Acting-Manager, Mr. P. Allerton Turner.—Messrs. E. Faulkner and M. de Courtsey's company is here in The Sins of the Fathers. Miss Edith Blande makes a conspicuous success as Camille; and Mr. Max Coutts as Sebastian Brandt is also very good.

Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. S. Buccleuch.—Harry Roxbury and company present a new musical absurdity, On the Track, which is noticed in another column. Signor Rosi's Italian ballet Uncle Isadore serves to introduce a veritable feast of good dancing by Signorina C. Mossetti, Signorina Luisa Patti, and Signor Marcelli. The usual big hit is being made by L'Incognita, the wonderful soprano vocalist; Holden's Mannikins are exceptionally well worked, and provide a thoroughly enjoyable entertainment; Yamomoto and Miss Koyoshi give a remarkably smart display as equilibrists; O'Malley and Brown are a pair of most amusing comedians; Phil Percival is another mirth-provoking comedian, whose travesty on the melodrama is very good; Rita Rhylle is a dainty comedienne; and Frank Cass, a versatile vocal comedian, is also entertaining. The Bioscope remains a feature of the programme.

Pavilion Theatre.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joseph Lawrence.—At the head of this week's excellent programme are Bernard Mervyn and company, who are presenting in fine style the miniature melodrama Nick Carter. Mr. Bernard Mervyn plays with his well-known ability the title-part; and Miss Phillis Dailley, Mr. John F. Traynor, Mr. Ivan P. Gore, and Mr. W. E. Moss also do well. The Amio Trio are versatile artists, who present a very clever performance; Edwin C. Jazon's company create endless merriment in the comedy sketch Charlie's Tram Ride; the Jollions (Viola and Fred) introduce some good singing in their garden scena The Spider and the Fly; the Vocas, in illustrated songs and ballads; Bert Maddison, comedian; and Mamie Morris, comedienne and dancer, are also entertaining. Pictures play a prominent part in the programme, three fine films being The Gunshot, a sensational episode; How They Made a Man of Billy Brown, a laughable comedy picture; and Mr. Dottynob's Double.

Empire.—Lessees, The New Bioscope Trading Company; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. R. Craig.—Leicester will shortly be provided with three additional picture halls, but at this, the first one of its kind in the town, in return for the always first-class programmes submitted, the management have been liberally patronised. The two principal films this week are The Gold Digger's Son and The Bugle Call, which are supported by other excellent pictures in The Sack Race, Three-Fingered Kate, His Duty, Dancing Tabloids, The Last of the Stuarts, The Bogus General, Why Jones Couldn't Sleep, Unexpected Santa Claus, Suffer Little Children, and The Servant of an Actress. The Weimars, including Trooper Daly, are making a most successful appearance here.

LEIGH.—Grand Theatre and Hippodrome, Ltd.—Secretary and Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Woolstencroft.—At the top of a good bill is the wonderful cycling ape, George the First, introduced by Mr. Dandy George; Mr. Jack Truman, tenor vocalist, is lo

LIVERPOOL.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Lawrence.—The Chorus Lady makes her first appearance here this week. Mr. William Mollison as Dick Crawford has little chance to show his well-known histrionic talents, but he makes the most of a somewhat ungrateful part; Miss Annie Hughes is entitled to much praise for her portrayal of the exacting rôle of Patricia O'Brien; Mr. Henry Deas is excellently suited in the character of Dan Mallory; Miss Elsie Vron Neville shows a deal of tact as the frivolous Nora; and a capital character sketch of the drunken Wardrobe Mistress comes from Miss Agnes D'Aragan. A Breezy Morning is the curtain raiser.

SHAKESPEARE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wentworth Croke; Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Gaffney.—Dick Whittington still draws enormous audiences, but the management are compelled to end the fine pantomime on Saturday even-next, the 19th inst.

ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery—Another Man's Wife, with Mr. Fred Granville's company, is here. Mr. Stanley Radcliffe does every justice to the part of Carlos de Vergas, playing with a deal of dramatic power; Miss Ruby Loncraine handles the rôle of Lucie in a manner which shows her ability; as Paul Bernstoff Mr. Alfred D. Adams stands out with some prominence; Mr. Geoffrey Sutherland makes the most of Gilbert Eardsley; and Miss Hilda Brewster as Maisie and Miss Lilian Radbourne (Inez) contribute good work; while the humorous parts are well taken care of by Mr. Willie Reid (Sam Smiles), Mr. Leonard Marshall (Andy), and Miss Marion Mayne (Tibby).

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—Big audiences are being delighted with Mr. C. Watson Mill's capital production of For Love and the King, which is dressed and presented in really good style. In the trying part of Gerald Meredith Mr. Mill plays with much spirit; Miss Rosalind Tate makes a convincing Edith Meredith, acting with charm and naturalness; Miss Joan Ellis is a pathetic Natila; Mr. F. R. Wicksteed proves an excellent Prince Uros; Mr. Oscar Power causes continuous laughter with his Carl; a strong character is that of Valdimir, presented by Mr. Fred J. Webb; Mr. Alfred Maurice deserves commendation for his Michael; and good support also comes from Miss M. Danvers Smith (Grazia) and Mr. Alexander Bronte (Marko).

KELLY'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant.—Here this week is Mr. H. Hamilton Stewart's company in Sherlock Holmes. The title-rôle is efficiently undertaken by Mr. Stewart, who is well supported, among the principals being Mr. Charles Brandon (Professor Moriarty), Mr. Eric Morden (Dr. Watson), Mr. Arnold O. Raper (Larabee), and Miss A. Bruce-Joy (Alice Faulkner).

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Manners.—Top of the bill here are the Slaviansky Russian Choir, whose rendering of native folk-songs is received with much approbation; Phil Ray, who has just come from pantomime in this city, has a cordial reception for his funny songs and patter; Dion Wade shows himself to be an exceedingly droll comedian and mimic; Francis and Alfred present a particularly merry scena, Science and Drollery, which is rapturously applauded; the Brennans (Will and May) show some remarkable dancing; Gipsy Woolf, assisted by "six sunbeams," has a pretty vocal and dance scena, The Mermaids of Margate; Dan the Outlaw is a stirring Irish protean play, presented in capital style by Herbert Shelley; Elsie Roby, as the slavey at the piano, supplies a very acceptable turn; and Emma Don and company please with their vocal scena, On the Thames Embankment.

LYRIC.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold.—An important engagement is made here this week in the appearance of Mme. Albani, the world-famous songstress, whose classical and popular excerpts from her répertoire are delighting large audiences, and in conjunction with her Herr Jan Zakovsky supplies an obligato on the violin, and the pianist is Mr. Harold Craxton; Mr. and Mrs. Alaskas have a hearty greeting for their smart pantomimical acrobatic act; a pretty vocal and dancing scena is submitted by Marguerite Ismay and her peerless White Coons; the Lecardo Bros. are amusing acrobatic eccentrics; the Bros. Lawrence have a neat vocal and dancing act, All Scotch; and the programme also contains the names of Nan Farren (with chorus songs and dances), Tony Freedman (light comedian), Charles Pastor (comedian), and Guest and Newlyn (Hebrew comedians).

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Hassan.—Heading the bill here is Skating, Karno's latest pantomimic absurdity, with Johnny Doyle as Zena Flapper and Charlie Chaplin as Archibald. The merry show causes endless laughter. That always popular artist Jack Whiteford brings down the house with his amusing songs and patter; the Derrington Family go through a really sensational performance on bicycles; Dave Carter sings tenor songs in good style; a funny couple of eccentrics are Bill and Bailey; Pitts and Gould present a pleasing song and dance scena, Bachelor's Memories; the Waltons display a deal of ability as Chinese acrobats; the male impersonations of Miss Louie Tracy are especially neat; and contributions are given by Iris Fox (comedienne) and Tom Joy (comedian), while Buddha's Blackboard is likewise shown.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—The stock dramatic company here this week is dealing with A White Demon. Among the principal parts are Robert Elliott (Mr. Harry Tresham), Dr. Leyton (Mr. Sydney Grant), May Elliott (Miss Lina Nazeby), and Lucy Elliott (Miss Gertrude Entwistle). Brown's bioscope shows The Sailor's Dog.

OLYMPIA.—District-Manager, Mr. Horace Cole; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Wighton.—Dan Crawley is here convulsing everyone with laughter; King and Benson in the musical burlesque Around the Town are a particularly merry couple, who have a warm greeting; Alice Maydue maintains her popularity; the Findens present a smart sketch depicting the humorous side of domestic infelicity; Jean and Josie go through a remarkable act as contortionists; Rich and Rich show themselves a couple of quaint comedians, who are well worth seeing; as a male impersonator Lilian Bishop gains much favour; and also in the list are Dot Hardy (character comedienne) and Miss Juliette's sea lions.

PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Manager, Mr. George F. Slatter.—The attraction here this week is Mr. William Holland's pantomime of Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp, which is affording much satisfaction. It is put on in capital style, and the principals are all capable artists. Miss Helen Charles makes a dashing Aladdin, and pleases greatly with her speciality at the piano in giving clever imitations of very juvenile vocalists and conversation; Mr. Robb Wilton, a well-known local comedian, is an exceedingly droll Widow, his manner of delivery being dry and unforced; Miss Poppie Holland looks well as the Emperor's daughter; as the Prince Miss Frances Haskell earns much popularity; Kennedy Allen is a funny Wishee Washee; and Abanazar finds in Bob Selvidge an able exponent.

LLANDUDNO.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arnold Macara.—For this week a variety entertainment is presented by Neven Tossan, with lightning pictures; George Christian, comedian; the Sisters Ely; Bob White, with smart piano work and humorous songs; Grace D'Alton, comedienne; and Delmar and Demay, in a farcical sketch, My Willie.

LOWESTOFT.—MARINA.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. B. Pareezer.—Mr. Clifford Hamilton's company are presenting East Lynne to good houses. The company are thoroughly capable, Miss Dora Pass being responsible for a fine study as Lady Isabel.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Gilbert; Manager, Mr. W. Alvar.—McPhee, M.P., is an amusing sketch presented here this week by Driscoll and Beattie's company; Geo. Golburn is seen to advantage in funny songs, and good support is given by Nellie Neil, in song and dance, and Connie Rubie, in chorus numbers. The pictures are a strong feature.

MACCLESFIELD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. W. K. Gatley.—Mrs. F. Wybert Clive's company opened on Monday in The Outcast of the Family. Mr. J. D. Clyne worthily holds the part of Harry Thorne; Mr. Wybert Clive's Sir Henry Thorne is a good piece of acting; Mr. Bert Oakes proves a capital Richard Martin; Miss Gertrude Morelli plays with great pathos the rôle of Ruth; as Grace Redburn Miss M. Leslie Cudd gives a good interpretation; and Miss Freda Beckett as Nancy Bray is successful. The Conscript was billed for Friday.

MANCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, the United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edmondstone Shirra.—There is much admirable entertainment in the latest attraction at this theatre, which has just concluded its run of pantomime. The fare is R. C. Carton's farce, Mr. Preedy and the Countess, and one could not wish to see a more apt exponent of the fun that is in Mr. Preedy than Mr. Weedon Grossmith, who is admirably suited to the rôle. The company supporting him is quite good also. Miss Ruth Mackay is really capital as the Countess; Mr. Ronald Squire plays well as the Earl of Rushmere; and fine impersonations are given of John Bounsall and Reginald Saunders by Messrs. Murray Carson and Frank H. Denton respectively. Worthy of particular note also are Mr. Edward Bonfield as the Hon. Robert Jennerway and the Mr. Sidgrave of Mr. Edward H. Wynne, while all the other parts are in safe hands. The farce is preceded by a clever playlet, A Ball or a Motor.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietor, Miss A. E. F. Horniman; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edwin T. Heys.—Cavaliere F. Castellano's Italian Grand Opera Company are attracting large houses here. The week's répertoire opened with a fine performance of Cavalleria Rusticana. Signora Protti as Santuzza, Signor Folco as Turiddu, and Signor Azzolini as Alfio, all on a high level of excellence, were ably supported by Signora Rocco as Lola and Signora Massia as Mamma Lucia; while afterwards, in I Pagliacci, other accomplished singers were heard, namely, Signora Desio, a very pleasing Nedda, Signor Siroli as Canio, Signor Vait as Silvio, and Signor Barterra as Ariecchino; the Tonio being in the hands of Signor Azzolini.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Mason.—Hush Money, last week's attraction at the Grand Junction Theatre, is the fare here, much enjoyed by good houses.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Dry.—A smart programme here is headed by Fred Karno's comedians in The Football Match, which loses none of its attractiveness and fun; Wash. W Evans and company in Paradise Alley, a New York Bowery musical piece, are much enjoyed; Hayman and Franklin's players, in the popular Toplitsky, are also a strong item; and other good turns are the Three Favourites, very pleasing vocalists; Will Rhodes, the droll singing comedian; and Layton and Douglas, instrumental soloists.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Brearley.—Messrs. Watson and Ussher's company are drawing full houses here with their sensational drama The Face at the Window, which last week startled and entertained the patrons of the Metropole.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Mr. J. A. Campbell's principal company are here in From Convent to Throne, including Miss Mary Fulton in her well-known effective rendering of the Princess of Maritza. Mr. Graham Woods adds a virile impersonation of Lieut. Erneste Von Hapsburg; and Mr. William J. Miller makes excellent play with his opportunities as Baron Strelsau. Miss Maudie Grayson plays Rosella with nice judgment; a very effective interpretation of the Mother Superior of the Convent is given by Miss Katherine M. Davis; and accomplishment is shown by Miss Dorothy Cecil and Miss Esme Malim as Lady Violetta and Lady Rotha. Many other picturesque parts are in the piece, and all are capably handled.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—The prime honours here are shared this week by Ernest Shand, the popular burlesque comedian, whose comicalities are hugely entertaining; Miss Ada Colley, the Australian nightingale, who sings with wonderful effect; and Harry Nuttall's company in the weird play, The Ghost of Jerry Bundler, which is remarkably well acted. Rare fun is added by Pip Powell and Kate Vesey in their quick-pace comedy duologue A Perfect Woman; while other smart items are the Tom Davies Trio in their daring motor act in mid-air; Gus Garrick, a quaint fellow; Hans and Lux, the argumentative college chums; Ugo Nap, a pleasing character comedian; and Mabel Mavis, a novelty musician and entertainer.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Manager, Mr. Nelson Barry.—Mr. Seymour Hicks is the big attraction here this week with his altogether excellent performance of Scrooge, an exceedingly clever study. Mr. Hicks is very ably supported by a strong company. The incomparable juggler Cinquevalli is also to the fore; and the Elliott Savonas, with their delightful musical creation The Palace of Orpheus, are deservedly well received. Miss Annie Purcell, the well-known musical comedy artist, sings with her usual charm; Luis Alvarez is a tuneful tenor; Victor Travers is a comedian of the quaint order; Chass Lewis makes a hit with a smart ventriloquial novelty; and Naughton and Gold, Scotch comedians, are entertaining. Up-to-date pictures are shown.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Manager, Mr. A. J. Carter.—The top turn here this week is provided by Barnold's animal actors, among which "Dan, the drunken dog," is really a wonderful example of training and intelligence. A popular turn also is La Tortajada, the well-known Spanish dancer; Cissie Curlette adds a nice turn in character comedy; Herbert Sleath's company are successful in The Deputy Sheriff; Mozetto gives a fine juggling turn; and other capital items are the Four Vagabonds, humorous vocalists; the Cattaneos troupe of acrobats; Will Driscoll, comedian and dancer; Nash and Noel, comedians and cross-talkers; and James Basnett, vocal comedian.

TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—Ernest Legh and company are starring here in their costume comedy, Sir Roger de Coverley; La Belle Morgane, a musical comedy artist from Australia, also figures prominently, and is greatly appreciated; Sid Cotterell and company are successful in The Substitute; and other good turns are Julia Reeve, comedienne; Earle and Godfrey in song and dance; Jennie Lynwood, Scotch comedienne; Kitty Malone, a favourite comedienne; and Stuart and Evans, comedians and dancers.

KING'S, LONGSIGHT.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. James R. Trippett.—Billy Merson, a comedian with something new, is the chief attraction here. Also to the fore is Mabel Thorne, a smart comedienne with a répertoire of taking songs; while other notable items are Karl Czynski, the one-man band; Kirk and Saraski, the girl aquatic marvels; and Herma, novel gladiator and weight-lifter. The programme is completed by Staffo, comedy juggler; the Lovelaces, song illustrators; and the Wedburns, comedians, vocalists, and instrumentalists.

HULME HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Owen.—Mr. William Watson's capital pantomime Robinson Crusoe is still in Manchester, this week being at the above popular hall. The principal parts continue to be well played by the Waldrons; Mlle. de Rose, a first-rate Crusoe; Miss Hilda Claremont, a sweet singer, as Polly Perkins; Mr. Phil Lester, Mrs. Crusoe; Mr. Billy Watson, Will Atkins; Messrs. Waldo, Lambert, and Butler; and Mr. Leon Taylor. Excellent specialities are introduced by the Sisters Gaye, Bendene, Verenni, and the Three Royal Temples; whilst the singing and dancing are throughout good.

MANSFIELD.—GRAND.—Managing-Director, Capt. C. Clayton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Fred Clayton.—Mr. Evelyn A'Dell and company are here this week with The Old Home. Daddy Dean finds an able and realistic exponent in Mr. Chas. Franmore; Miss Lina Blake-Adams is a sympathetic Hazel Dean; Mr. Evelyn A'Dell a capital Rev. Eric Armstrong; Mr. Fred L. Connynghame an amusing Sam Adams; Mr. Horatio Sinclair a forcible Lord Avondale; and Mrs. J. W. Braithwaite is the old Irishwoman to the life as Bridget Donaghan.

MARGATE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. E. Michael; General-Manager, Mr. F. Weathersby.—Our Boys is again here, and the cast is as follows:—Sir Geoffrey Champneys, Mr. Elliott Ball; Talbot Champneys, Mr. Louis Palgrave; Perkyn Middlewick, Mr. Arthur Dennis; Charles Middlewick, Mr. Escott Robson; Kempster, Mr. Alfred Bourne; Violet Melrose, Miss Thea Hansard; Mary Melrose, Miss Roberta Pulleyne; Clarissa Champneys, Mrs. Hansard Blair; Belinda, Miss Florence Harcourt. The comedy has been well played throughout the week.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Mayall.—The programme here is headed by Perrier, in his "faked" ventriloquial act, which is followed by himself and the three "figures" as a remarkably good quartette. Renee Graham, male impersonator, has made a hit; and Wylie and Franks Trio, in their burlesque act, have been amusing. Dollie Denton, comedienne, has been a success; and George Campbell, pattering comedian, has created great laughter. Blanc and Zeyna, in their cycle whirl, have also given an attractive show.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees, the South Wales Entertainments, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Albert Jackson.—Can a Woman be Good? is presented by Mr. Tom H. Taylor's company. Miss Blanch St. Albans plays with ability as Esther Howard; and Manuel Errington has an excellent representative in Mr. Joseph Milne. Other leading rôles are satisfactorily filled by Messrs. Harry C. Robinson, J. Leicester Jackson, J. K. Tyrell, and Misses Florence Hunt, Ethel Bickman, Norah Melton, and Lilian Earle.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—Manager, Mr. Israel Price.—Vanando, the novelty ventriloquist; Susie and Protti, Continental dancers; Renot, mimic; the Bohemians, comedy instrumentalists; and Dawson and Garrow comprise the principals of this week's programme.

METHIL.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Methil Theatre Co., Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. John C. Burnett.—Mr. John A. Thompson's pantomime The Sleeping Beauty came here on Monday. Miss Adele Rose as Prince Charming, and Miss Alyce Wyllyams as Princess Charming are both good, their singing and dancing being much appreciated; and specialities by Abex (the pocket Hercules), the Canadian Melody Four, the Musical Scoreys, and Harlin and Hamlin, are very taking.

MEXBOROUGH.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. H. Melton.—Mr. Gilbert Payne is presenting The House that Jack Built. Miss Nellie Dyson is a captivating Jack Trot; and a charming Sunshine is Miss Fanny Adamson, both artists singing in good style. As Marjory Daw Miss Hilda Deacon contributes some clever dancing; Miss Ethyl Errol is a sprightly Tommy Tucker; as the Fairy Miss Vera Kingdom sings very pleasingly; Mr. Gilbert Payne leads the fun-making effectively as Sir Niggley Grabbs; he has an able lieutenant in Mr. Fred Fulton as the dame; while Messrs. Zapham and Wallen get through a lot of clever knockabout business. The Godfrey Girls contribute some artistic dancing.

MIDDLESBROUGH.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. K. Chatto.—On Monday The Sleigh Bells was presented, with Mr. George Munro in the rôle of Mathias. "The dream" was a fine piece of acting. Miss Doris V. Horrocks entered fully into the sympathetic part of Annette, a character which she sustained with great success; as the Quartermaster of Gendarmes Mr. E. Digges gave every satisfaction; and the other characters were in capable hands. The play was preceded by the romantic costume comedietta, Delicate Ground. Hamlet, The Merchant of Venice, Othello, Romeo and Juliet, Twelfth Night, The Robbery of the Lyons Mail, and Chanson Triste have also been billed.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. J. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Imeson.—Mr. Herbert Fuller and company are appearing with success at the Royal in the pathetic play, As Your Hair Grows Whiter, in which Miss Agnes Collier meets with pronounced approval as Alice Walters. As Timothy Slough Mr. Herbert Fuller is well received.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles G. Rembges.—Arthur Lennard, a vocal comedian much valued by Teeside audiences, is as successful as on former visits to the iron town; the Austral Trio, in their musical act are much enjoyed; Herbert La Martine's eccentric dancing is deservedly a pronounced success; the Musical Bentleys give an entertaining turn; and Elton and Elma, in their comedy bar act; the Sisters Dudley, vocalists; Miss Lizzie Fletcher, comedienne; and the Empire pictures are all well received. Good houses rule.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. Frank D. Todd.—A capital programme of pictures is drawing well at the Hippodrome. The cheaper parts of this large and comfortable hall are especially well patronised.

MORLEY.—ALEXANDRA PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Tom Diacoff; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Izon.—Messrs. Sterling and Cashen contribute a great military duo and dancing act, which arouses much enthusiasm; Sisters Rivers, comediennes and dancers, are greatly in evidence; and Messrs. Whitty and Whyse, duettists, receive deserved appreciation. McAskell, comedy talking conjurer, keeps the audience in merriment; Mr. Charlie Orme is a comedian of merit; and Misses Lillian Harvey and Marie Royce, comediennes and dancers of front rank, make up a programme of exceptional merit. The pictures are up to the usual standard.

MOTHERWELL.—NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chisholm Taylor.—Messrs. Dottridge, Longden, and Livesey's company is this week appearing in The Village Blacksmith. As the Blacksmith Mr. Sam Livesey gives a strong impersonation; Mr. Joseph Carter as the unscrupulous Captain Leo looks and acts the part to the life; Miss Maggie Edwards appears as Kate Strong; and Miss Cassie Le Grand does well as Ruth. Admirable comedy work is contributed by Mr. Fred Haming as Billy Twigg, Mr. Thos. Marshall as Parkins, Mrs. Parkins being amusingly rendered by Mrs. T. C. Livesey. A word of special praise is due to Miss Pauline Garside for her clever acting as Harry.

NEATH.—PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Leon Vint; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Noice.—An excellent programme is provided here this week. The Blackleg's Conversion heads the list of pictures. The Kind-hearted Employer is much enjoyed; a fine dramatic subject is Fantine, which deals with the life of Jeane Valjeane; Mr. Brown Hustling is of the humorous type; a most laughable subject is Would Not Tire You, also The Mirror of Life; a touching story is told in The Poor Composer; an exciting picture, The Heart of a Cowboy, is well received. Excellent variety is provided by the Calcots, singers, dancers, and musicians, and Tom Jones, popular Welsh comedian.

NELSON.—PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Benson.—The Spanish Juanitos are here in an exceedingly clever acrobatic performance. The Five Bohemians, presented by Geo. and Leo Bliss, are capable vocalists; Torti, tenor, possesses a capital voice, whilst a smart instrumental and trapeze act is provided by Les Wambas. Other good turns are Bonhair and Tess in a Japanese quick-change scene, Fame and Fortune, versatile speciality comedians, Renz Bros., comedy acrobats and ladder performers, and Revill Hall, entertainer and mimic.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. W. C. Horner; Manager, Mr. Parker.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company in Two Little Drummer Boys pays a welcome return visit to the Grand. Mr. Frank Rogers shows ability in the rôle of Captain Carsdale; Mr. Polson Turner depicts powerfully the machinations of Captain Geo. Darrell, while Mr. Edward Bikker makes a dignified Captain Kingsley; Privates O'Quirke and Trimmer are well sustained by Mr. Wilf Percy and Mr. Dick Seddon, and Jim Barber is acceptably played by Mr. Wilson Holmes; Mr. Vernon Vayne makes an admirable Lieut. Kingsley; Miss Violet Ingram is a charming Alma; Drunken Meg is skilfully played by Miss Lilian A'Dell, and as the two little drummer boys the Misses Maggie English and Maud B. Douglas maintain their reputations.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Teale Lingham.—The delightful fantasy Alice in Wonderland, founded on Lewis Carroll's masterpiece, is this week charming young and old alike. The honours of the performance are carried off by Miss Ivy Sawyer, who is quite delightful as Alice; Mr. Franklyn Vernon is the Mad Hatter, Mr. Tom Graves the Mock Turtle, Mr Roland Henry the Gryphon, Miss Doris Walker the March Hare, Miss Bertha Schwartz the White Rabbit, and Mr. Dan Leno, jun., the Caterpillar, all of whom make the most of their respective rôles.

TYNE THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessees, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham; Manager, Mr. Fred C. Sutcliffe.—Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company is presenting The Earl and the Girl to good houses here. Mr. Herbert St. John is a capital Dick Wargrave; Miss Lilly Gullick a fascinating Elphin Haye; Mr. Bert Bestwick a successful Jim Cheese; and Miss Ada Waugh an amusing Liza. Mr. Francis Rayne contributes a good impersonation as the Hon. Crewe Boodle; Mr Sam Lysons is a smart American solicitor; and Mr. J. M. East a blustering Bunker Bliss. Miss Beatrice Hayden as Mrs. Shimmering Black and Miss Blanche Astley as Daisy Fallowfield also play their parts creditably.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Rowe; Business-Manager, Mr. E. B. Clark.—The Cotton Spinner is being presented here by Miss Mary Austin and Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds's company. Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds acts with vigour as John Prescott; Miss Mary Austin is a sympathetic Mary Prescott; Lord Northbury by Mr. William Manning and Major Stratton by Mr. W. H. Dewhurst are two well played parts; and Mr. Geo. Porteous does full justice to the character of Arthur Northbury.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. F. W. Bolam; Manager, Mr. Chas. E. Linney.—Mr. T. Edward Ward's new drama, His Real Wife, is the attraction here this week. Mr J. W. Evelyn as Martin Avondale gives a powerful character study; Mr. Bernard Elliott is an excellent Randall Meredith; and Miss Ward is sympathetic in the leading rôle.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Manager, Mr. W. P. Wells; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. W. Kilgour.—The much talked of Vampire dance by Alice Eis and Bert French is this week the principal attraction here; Addie Dorina, quick-change artist, presents a clever sketch, "Dr. Spot's Patients"; G. W. Hunter's songs and patter never fail to amuse; and W. Fulbrook and company, in Astronomy; La Freya, with artistic visions; Gladys Mavius, in songs and speciality dances; the Marco Twins; Rossi Ashton, the war artist, in lightning sketches; and Katie Butler, comedienne, are among the other attractions of the bill.

NORTHAMPTON.—PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Manager, Mr. P. H. Gould.—Harry Olaff and Alice Tremayne make a welcome return in their popular scena The Demon and the Fairy; Mahatma, queen of second sight, is also on a second visit, assisted by Pro. C. N. Steen; Mlle. Eldee, "the girl in the golden frame," presents a series of pretty pictures; A Bo Kou again accomplishes clever juggling and balancing feats; Snow and Alexander make a hit in their comedy act The Football Intruder; Cyril Dane, chorus vocalist, and W. Conn, dancer, also contribute. The pictures, which complete the programme, are The Adversary's Card and The Abduction.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—Secretary, Mr. G. Skempton; Resident-Manager for Andrews' Pictures, Mr. Frank Lyndon.—The pictures here still continue to attract good houses. The leading items are The Devil Woman, a gambling tale; The Kind Employer; and Benedict Arnold, a drama of the American War. Miss Margaret Payne still continues to delight with her charming singing.

NORTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—Mr. Seymour Hicks's company is appearing here successfully in the popular musical comedy, The Gay Gordons. As Angus Mr. Stafford Dickens provides a capital performance; Mr. Sidney Burt in the rôle of Nervy Nat gives a vastly humorous impersonation; Mr. Ernest Pierce proves a good representative of Edmund Siddons; and Mr. Charles P. Wentworth is clever as Andrew Quainton; as Peggy Quainton Miss May Yates scores a distinct success; Miss Ruby Louis as Victoria Siddons is worthy of special praise; Miss Denny Fitzherbert is a pleasing Charlotte Siddons; Miss Mina Goss a good Lady Millicent, and Miss Beatrice Grosvenor as Janet McLeod meets with warm approval.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Wm. Mould.—A well-varied programme here is headed by the Vaseys, comedians and dancers, who are warmly greeted; a very enjoyable turn is submitted by George Young, the blind concertina soloist; the Saltenos, in their clever speciality act, come in for rounds of applause. Other good turns are supplied by Probyn and Bates, comedy artists, Emma Cecilias, comedienne, Swan and Martin, American comedy duo, and A. Normanton, coon singer and dancer. The Palace pictures are, as usual, much enjoyed.

NORTHWICH.—CENTRAL THEATRE.—Manageress, Miss S. Golden.—Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Levy and J. E. Cardwell's company is here in The House that Jack Built. Miss Daisy Wood as Jack is full of vigour, and sings admirably; Mr. Jimmie Watson as Aunt Pudy is a great success, his quaint mannerisms and clever mimicry causing much laughter; Miss Hetty Jones is a typical Page; Mr. H. Hillerby does well as Squire Bounce; Mr. Jack Harrison is excellent as Pills; Miss Isa Wilson makes a charming and dainty Fairy Twinklestar; Miss Marie Lumberg is a picturesque Colin; and delightfully piquant is Miss Jenny Marsden as Gretchen, whilst Miss Dolly Dodds as Jill is charming, and displays her vocal gifts to great advantage; Little Peggy McDonnall as Wee Macgregor is irresistible; and Messrs. Graham and Barron as Scraggs and Scraggles respectively display great comedy powers and agility as dancers. Specialities are introduced by the Forget-Me-Not Trio, Messrs. Graham and Barron, Mr. Paddy Sloan, and Little Peggy McDonnall. The pantomime is lavishly mounted and dressed.

NORWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Morgan.—Mr. Andrew Emm's company in The Diver's Luck meets with much appreciation. Mr. William Macready gives an excellent portrayal of Martin Faber; Mr. Edmund O'Grady is good as Barney Bawn; Mr. William Dexter does well as Tom Hall, and Mr. James Burt is successful as Pedro; Mr. Harry Bristow appears as Snowfall; Miss Chrissie Bickerstaff is a charming Helen Wyngate; Miss Pearl Noyle deserves praise as Peggy; and Miss Phyllis Spalding is good as Winnie Hall; Mr. H. J. Walton deserves mention for his rendering of Maurice Wyngate.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. Councillor F. W. Fitt.—The Seven Perezoffs head the bill, and create much amusement in their original juggling act, "An Animated Supper at Maxim's"; the Brookly Comedy Four are amusing in comedy and pleasing in harmony; W. F. Frame, the great Scotch comedian, sustains his popularity; Cummin and Seaham, "the ragman and the postman," are amusing acrobats; Lucy Coventry is a pleasing comedienne and dancer; Stanley and Vandyke are good as a comedy duo; Minnie Mace is a charming comedienne and dancer; Miss Teddy Edmonds and company in the farce, The Lady Jockey, in which Mr. Jimmy Rous appears as the tipster, are very funny, and the Hippo Bio pictures are interesting.

AGRICULTURAL HALL ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Mr. E. V. Ban's entertainment this week consists of the following pictures: The Short-sighted Sportsman, Who Stole the Necklace? 'Twixt Red Man and White, Foolshead who receives, The Waves of Fontarabic, Jones Buys a Birdcage, The Rocky Road, The Burglar and Little Phyllis, Novel Navigation. Mr. Tom Taylor sings in good form two illustrated songs, "If I built a world for you" and "Meet me where the lanterns glow."

NOTTINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—The company of Mr. Frank Curzon in Dear Little Denmark is making a good impression here. Mr. Henry Kitts is a thoroughly comical Duke Ernest; Mr. Conway Dixon sings pleasantly as Conrad; and Mr. J. C. Fagan gives the song of Karl in spirited fashion. The chief fun-making is in the capable hands of Mr. Arthur Staples, and the "humming" duet with Miss Joan Penrose is a huge success, the latter also being responsible for a quaint little morceau. Miss Netta Lynde supplies a dainty embodiment of Christine; Mr. Tom Redmond is thoroughly successful as Simon; and Harry Gregory gets all the humour possible out of Jonas Jensen.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Harry Upton.—What a Man Made Her is being warmly received here. Miss Renee Glendower plays Janet McAllister with artistic merit; Miss Stella Carmichael puts plenty of "go" into her impersonation of Lady Thora; Miss Russell Spiers is a forcible Dowager Countess; Mr. Edward Rawlinson an excellent Danescombe; and Mr. J. M. Olivert becomes a favourite as Dr. Mark Haven. The humorous element is well presented by Mr. Barnett Lando and Miss Tessa Myers.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert C. Duncan.—The Jewels present their latest spectacular protean production "change" with great success; Miss Daisy Jerome becomes an immediate favourite; an enjoyable turn is that of Miss Alice Raymond and her players; Odeyne Spark is always welcome to Nottingham audiences; and Alf Gibson, with his unique style, causes a deal of mirth. John Macauley combines a good voice with considerable dramatic skill; and Billy Hobbs amuses by his energy and nimbleness. Moran and Wiser exhibit wonderful skill in manipulation of hats; and Frank Danby and company, in the sketch Love in a Coffee Shop, are distinctly good.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwards; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. F. Miller.—First position here is worthily occupied by Ye Colonial Septette, who render delightful music in a charming setting; Fred Russell's ventriloquial patter is always amusing; clever head-balancing by the Carpos Bros. draws appreciative applause; the Four Mayos give a smart exhibition of roller skating; and the Rangers are clever trick cyclists with a large element of comedy. Whirlwind dancing by the Czar Troupe, whistling by George Hall, and dancing by Rosie Lee and the Sisters Wingrove are also agreeable features of the programme.

NUNEATON.—PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietors, Theatre and Entertainment Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Brown.—Her Love Against the World is being presented by Messrs. W. H. Hallatt and Walter Howard's company. Mr. Fred Emery displays excellent ability in the heroic rôle of Eric Strathmere; Mr. Oswald Cray is vigorous and effective in his scheming as Prince Ulric; Mr. W. H. Hallatt makes an excellent Prince Othmar; Mr. Henry Hallatt depicts Prince Maurice with much success; Mr. Chas. R. Horn cleverly represents the patriotic and impetuous Colonel Gessler; Miss Esie Roberts gives a dignified and carefully studied performance as Princess Iris; Miss Blanche Steel is satisfactory as Countess Shula; Miss Rossie St. John arouses the sympathy of the audience by her skilful acting as Lionel Strathmere. The play is mounted and staged in first-rate style.

OLDHAM.—GRAND THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sam Smiley.—Mr. Cecil H. Woodhouse's company is appearing here in Oh, Susannah! Miss Adie Boyne as Aurora, with capital opportunities, is very amusing; Mr. Cecil H. Woodhouse as Dr. John Sheppard infuses clever work into his part; and L

The Three Meers, in their original wire act, present some smart comedy; the Villions again score with their comedy cycle act and dances; Rosie Lloyd is a charming comedienne; and Marie Terry and J. S. Bentley are very good as up-to-date cadets. Florence and Rose Showell, in their vocal duets; little Jennie Alexander, as a mimic and comedienne; and the McKenzies, in a comedy sketch, are also in the bill.

Royal Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Kilrow.—The pictures are of excellent quality, and are highly enjoyed by all. The principal film is a fine one, and is thrilling, namely, 'Twixt Red Man and White. On the Reef is very dramatic; and an interesting picture depicts Testing Armour Plates at India Head, America. The Hour of Revenge is a well-acted film; a fine seascape shows the Waves of Pontarabic; A Lesson in Charity and Pals are also very good; and some very amusing films include Cock-a-Doodle-Doo, Mistake in Addresses, and A Glass of Goat's Milk. Mr. Don Cameron contributes a capital song.

Hippodrome.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. L. King.—A capital programme is provided here. The Sins of the Fathers is very interesting and dramatic. Cherries gained hearty applause, being an excellent picture. Nick Carter and the Jewel takes well, also Father Christmas and The Good Dog.

Osborne Hall.—Proprietor, Mr. W. Hughes.—The Engineer's Romance is well depicted; and a striking Biblical story illustrates Belshazzar's Feast. The Keeper of the Light is a story of the sensational type. The Poacher's Wife's Revenge is most powerful; and a capital list of comic films include Mary's Got the Hump, Mustard Plaister, and The Hero. The vocal items are ably sung by Mr. A. Buckley.

OXFORD.—New Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. C. C. Dorrill; Assistant-Manager, Mr. G. T. Lucas.—For the first three nights of the week Mr. Leigh Lovel, Miss Octavia Kenmore, and company have been providing a most artistic presentment of Ibsen's Hedda Gabler and Rosmersholm. As Hedda Tesman Miss Octavia Kenmore scored an indubitable success, and seemed to have imbibed the true spirit of Ibsenism; while Mr. Lovel was just what Ejlert Lovborg ought to be. Mr. Claude W. Sykes sustained George Tesman admirably; and Mr. Kenneth Black was quite a natural being as Mr. Justice Brack. Miss Daisy Race was good as the frail Mrs. Elvested; Miss Gladys Everard seemed quite in place as Bertha; and Miss Katherine Maynard made the most of the difficult rôle of Miss Juliana Tesman. The company, and especially Miss Octavia Kenmore, had several calls before the curtain.

East Oxford Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Stuart; Acting-Manager, Mr. Julian Graham.—Mr. James E. Lewis's company is here with The Welsh Maid. Mr. Fred T. Carroll is effective as Carodoic Howell; Mr. Harry Jordan is painstaking as Jack Francis; and Mr. W. Pemberton does well as Danfydd Thomas. Miss Violet Barclay is bright as Sally Davis; and Miss Zeta Murdock shows earnest endeavour as Jenny Jones.

PAISLEY.—Paisley Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile.—The Paisley Opera Club is in possession of the theatre this week, producing The Geisha. Much of the success obtained is attributable to Mr. Edwin Bryan, who has been producer, coach, and stage-manager to the amateur society, and to Mr. Savile, who has had special scenery painted for the production The proceeds are to be devoted to local charities.

Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr E. H. Bostock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jack R. Bostock.—The chief attraction is Frank Elliston and company in a delightful masque entitled Long Live the King, which is well performed and equally well applauded; Nelson's Newsboys' Quintette, America's street singers and dancers, meet with great favour; the humorous songs and patter of Harry Levsine, comedian, evoke continuous laughter; Alix Lukoe, as a versatile artist in his scena, "Song, Speech, and Story," is as clever as he is entertaining; the Borella Brothers accomplish some wonderful and novel feats in their gymnastic display; Lily Edwards, a comedienne, proves very popular; Fred Carr and Ada Rose gain hearty applause in their scena, "After a Night Out"; George Hirste, Scotch comedian, is meritorious; and the Bioscope pictures are interesting.

PERTH.—Perth Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Aldridge.—The Eyes of the World is being presented here by Miss Ethel Van Praagh and Mr. J. Edward Whitty's company. Miss Van Praagh plays Hélène de L'Orme with ability, and Mr. J. Edward Whitty as Achille Fanfarade is humorous.

PLYMOUTH.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.—The Girls of Gottenburg pays a third visit, and is drawing capital houses. As Max Moddlekopf Mr. Phil Smith is excruciatingly funny; Mr. Murray Moore is admirably suited to the part of Otto, his two songs being vociferously redemanded; Mr. Charles Berkeley admirably assumes the rôle of Brittlebottle, giving a realistic representation of a well-disciplined German soldier; and Mr. Ralph Forster makes a portly Burgomaster. As Mitzi Miss Hilda Vining's singing and dancing are equally successful; Miss Nellie Laursine as Clementine is genuinely humorous; and Miss Nan Stuart is a winsome Elsa.

Palace of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. Jack Field.—The Spirsel Brothers and Mack, American eccentrics, form the chief attraction, their contribution being clever and very amusing; John S. Leick and Mabel Keith perform some first-rate cornet solos; Harry Champion is a strong attraction, rendering no less than five songs; Angela Warde and Maidée Harrison are exceedingly popular comediennes; S. W. Wyndham is responsible for much amusement with his sketch The Professor and His Pupil, to which Mr. H. Wyatt materially contributes; and Vesta and Minnie Pine in a golfing sketch, and Liston and Barber, topical comedians, complete the programme.

PONTEFRACT.—Alexandra Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Tom Diacoff.—Mr. G. de Relwyskow, the royal wrestler, tops the bill; Mr. Johnny Holland, supported by Miss Rita Warne and Mr. E. W. Edmonds, appear in the farcical absurdities My Friend Boots and The Boatbuilder; Mr. Edgar Forrest and company give a comedy sketch My Friend the Enemy; Baby Sophie (age eleven years) is an accomplished artist; Pulo is a smart young juggler; Leo Fields, character comedian, is as popular as ever; Kettie Cameron, dainty comedienne and dancer; Carl Osmond, the comedy tramp cartoonist, and the Alexscope complete an excellent bill.

PONTYPRIDD.—Royal Clarence.—Sole Owners, Messrs. Trenchard and Jones; Manager, Mr. Charles Trenchard.—Mr. Percy Norman's No. 1 company is producing here a comedy drama entitled The Greater Sin. The piece is full of thrilling incidents, and depicts how the villainy of man can bring shame and degradation to those who wish to live the better life. The production is under the supervision of the author, Mr. A. B. Mackay, and much credit is due to him for the realistic manner in which the play is staged. Mr. Mackay undertakes the heavy lead in an admirable style and receives applause as Greville Brayle which he richly deserves; Miss Ida Mackay is exceptionally good as Dora Brayle and captivates her audience by her graceful manner; Mr. Carle Kerzo ably portrays George Brayle, and is a hero throughout the play; Miss M. Noble as Marcelle de Valcour makes an impression as the mad woman. The comedy parts are taken by Mr. Louis Newman as Bertie Wilkins and Miss Trixie Leighton as Peggy Perkins, who keep the audience in roars of laughter. Mrs. Corlass is also good as Puggy Baxter; Mr. Jack Corlass makes a capital Constable Mike Maloney; and Mr. Black is excellent as Kipper. A part that stands out prominently throughout is that of Mr. Graham Hamlyn as Sneaky Baxter. Mr. Arthur Leslie (Pincher Jim), Mr. J. Brough (Jules), Mr. J. Helpin (Handsome Henry), Master Cyril (Little Dora), take their parts in a commendable manner.

PORTH.—Palace of Varieties.—Proprietors, Messrs. Pooles, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. W. Bynorth.—Miss May Mars, in a song-scena, "A Persian Garden," with elaborate scenery and effects, meets with general approval; Walter Wade, in a new vocal monologue, "Sandy Macgregor," is very good; Wee Madge, a dainty Scotch comedienne, gives capital songs and dances; Harry Russell and company present a laughable comedy sketch Milk Hot the whimsical Warners, in a refined musical and dancing act, arouse roars of laughter; the Three Morocos give a funny and smart military act. Fun in a Barrack-square; Winnie Darrell is a charming comedienne; the Howards, in their screamingly laughable sketch Military Mad, keep the house roaring with laughter; and the Palascope provides excellent pictures.

PORTSMOUTH.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—Patrons here are indebted to Mr. W. Greet for a return visit of The Sign of the Cross, produced in elaborate style. An admirable study of Marcus Superbus is presented by Mr. W. Lawson Butt; Mr. W. Mayne Lynton scores with his impersonation of Nero; Tigellinus has a capable exponent in Mr. Chas. Aldred; Miss Evelyn Hope's rendering of Mercia is excellent; and Miss Winifred Delevanti does good work as Stephanus.

Prince's.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Agate.—A great attraction is provided here this week in the shape of Mr. Walter Melville's ever-popular drama, A Girl's Cross Roads. Mr. Norman B. Cannon makes a handsome and manly hero as Jack Livingstone; and Miss Muriel Dean as Constance Cornell is a charming heroine. Miss Effie Griffies renders with great realism the part of the drunken wife, Barbara Wade; Cuthbert Lumley the conventional stage villain is ably portrayed by Mr. H. Dalton; the character of Nellie Meadows is cleverly and vigorously delineated by Miss Nell Oliver; a fine reading of the part of her father, John Meadows, is given by Mr. Harry Cane. Mr. Fred Hodson as Toby Turvey, Mr. W. T. Harris as Luke Ramsden, and Mr. Edward Valentine as Dr. Weston are excellent. Packed houses testify to the continued popularity of this exciting drama.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Captain E. H. Warren-Wright; Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—Albert Whelan, the Australian entertainer, heads a very attractive programme this week. His versatile entertainment includes whistling solos, impersonations of Lauder, Chirgwin, and Chevalier, and several songs, viz., "The Preacher and the Bear," "The Trombone Song," and "A Little Irish Love Story." He meets with most enthusiastic applause. The Kirbys, burlesque entertainers, give a humorous performance; René and Rousby present a Lancashire comedy act, entitled "Fine Feathers"; a novel and original turn is that provided by Viviana and company, in their dancing scena, "The Toy Shop"; the Five Cliftons, gymnasts, perform wonderful feats of hand-balancing; V. Widdicombe and company are appearing in a light sketch, Her Devonshire Dad; Cissie Thompson is a charming soubrette; Jack Hylton is a comedian of parts. Payne's Bio-Photoscope has some new and interesting films.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris.—George Gilbey, firstly with his prophetic almanack and then as Constable Duffy, keeps the audience in continual merriment; the vocal entertainment of the Gotham Quartette is accorded hearty appreciation; G. H. Carlisle and H. M. Wellmon display their musical abilities on the piano and in song; some clever character impersonations are submitted by Muriel Harding, the Anglo-French comedienne; acrobatic feats have their exponents in the Three Laurels; and Adams and Ward; a burlesque boxing act is provided by Palles and Cusick; Thiessen's Dogs exhibit the fruits of careful training; Owen McGiveney is a clever character impersonator; and L. W. Harris is in favour with his songs. This week's Bioscope film is The Amateur Pugilist.

King's.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Claude Marner.—A picturesque Oriental scene of Japanese life, A Vision of Japan, is presented by O'Hana San; Mlle. Yetta's graceful dancing on the wire is loudly applauded; Alan Holt and company present a well-written sketch, A Society Woman, with great ability; the Paolas submit a refined athletic act; Belrose and De Velin vocalise in good style; Poole and Maguire are smart Society entertainers; Bessie Hews, Tony Black, and Bert Byrne are responsible for much amusement.

PRESTON.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, The Executors of the late Mr. W. Johnson; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Alban Newton.—Messrs. G. M. Polini and Austen Melford are presenting The Silver King with an exceptionally strong company. Mr. Fred D. Daviss as Wilfred Denver gives a capital interpretation of the part made famous by the late Wilson Barrett, and is to be congratulated on the excellence of his performance; Miss Mildred Surrey is equally successful as Nellie Denver, and wins the entire sympathy of the audience; Mr. Edward J. George, in his old part of Daniel Jaikes, is as firm a favourite as ever; Miss Bateman and Master Eric Dene as Cissie and Ned are excellent; Mr. Sydney Lynn is an accomplished villain as the Spider; and Miss Mary Glanbrane is most successful as Olive Skinner; and Mr. Arthur Wright as Elijah Coombe is a clever character-study. The play is realistically mounted.

Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Page; General-Manageress, Mrs. M. M. Clarkson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. E. Clarkson.—Miss Florence Bains is paying a return visit with her own company in Miss Lancashire, Limited, and is as popular as ever in her inimitable presentation of the laughing Lancashire lass, Mary Ellen Thompson. The company supporting her is a good one, and each and all contribute to the success of the play.

Royal Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank E. Burdett.—At the top of the bill is Miss Victoria Monks, who receives an ovation, and is repeatedly recalled. The Lyons Trio, comedians and dancers, are a clever turn, and come in for much applause; the Boys of England in Barrack-room ballads, are an excellent sextette, who contribute some good songs and choruses; Arthur Albert, light comedian and vocalist, sings good songs; H. O. Wills, the Water Rat, is irresistibly funny; Seeley, West, and Rhodesia contribute juggling, mirth, and music in a highly finished style; Blanche Montague is a dainty comedienne and dancer; and Chas. Prelles' bijou circus is unique, the sagacity of the dogs being marvellous.

RADCLIFFE (near Manchester).—Grand Opera House.—Sole Owner, Mr. Geo. T. Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. James Boothman.—Mr. and Mrs. John Walters are doing well with the pantomime Robinson Crusoe. In the title-rôle Miss Violet Thorn does good work, and Miss Kittie Liske is a painstaking Polly Perkins. Young Captain Kettle is adequately impersonated by Miss Rena Rees, while Miss Hilda Hemus as the Spirit of the Ocean receives unstinted applause for her excellent singing; Miss Kitty Chester is also excellent as Fairy Liberty. Ally M. Benson is exceedingly good as Mrs. Crusoe and is well backed up by Mr. W. Bland as Billy Crusoe. Mr. Tom Lewis works hard as Pirate, and Messrs. Dytum and Dale are acrobatic specialists. The staging under Mr. Willie Leigh also deserves special mention.

RAMSGATE.—Royal Palace Theatre.—Sole Director, Mr. Charles Evans; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry Bowman.—Eley's "Ginsy Maids" have been giving bright and successful entertainments. The clever troupe supply a programme of choruses, solos, speciality dances, while there are also ventriloquial sketches by Mr. Edward Vyson, novelty musical acts by Miss Olive Sara, illustrated songs splendid dissolving views, and a comedietta.

The Mahina Picturedrome.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. J. Attack.—A good variety of pictures includes a number of strikingly funny films. H. O. Borrie, the juggler, gives an excellent exhibition of balancing feats with plates and bottles, and his eccentricities create much laughter.

RAWTENSTALL.—Grand Theatre.—Lessees, the Manchester Electric Theatres, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. E. Renshaw.—Miss Babs Lloyd is a dainty comedienne and expert dancer; and Mr. Charles Rothwell a comedian of great versatility and amusing patter. The pictures this week are good, and include The Nerveless Man, Pulp Mills at Quebec, Jenkins Joins the Police Force, The Keeper of the Light, A Good Lesson, In Little Italy, and Scroggins, M.P.

READING.—Royal County Theatre.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. A. Evans.—The Servant in the House is being played here by Henry Miller's company, under the direction of Charles Macdona, and is making a strong impression. Mr. Matthew Boulton acts with great power and dignity as the Bishop of Benares; Mr. Walter Gay is an excellent representative of the Vicar; Mr. Ernest H. Paterson enacts the part of the worldly and hypocritical Dr. Makeshift in characteristic style; Miss Laurie Flockton, a clever juvenile artist, gives a sympathetic rendering of the part of the Niece Mary; Miss Nellie Hodson is good as the Vicar's wife; Mr. Forrester Harvey gives an amusing impersonation of the page boy; and Mr. Harry Parker plays the difficult part of Robert Smith, the repentant black sheep of the family, with artistic skill.

The Palace.—Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Howard Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. E. Draco.—Joe Collins and Fred Mulvey's company creates much diversion in the comedy skating skit Wrinkles on the Rink; Aimée Roberts is an accomplished actress-vocalist; Celest does some dexterous feats in wire-walking and bâton-juggling; the Sisters Gladwin appear to advantage as duettists and dancers; Herslet Brothers, Danish comedy duo, provide an amusing turn; Blanche Spencer is a clever singer of illustrated songs; Fred Spencer is an expert pantomime artist and expressionist; and Williams and Warden appear with success in an Irish vaudeville act, Mr. Dooley. The Palace Bioscope completes.

Electric Automatic Vaudeville (Broad-street).—Johnny Trunley, the famous Peckham Fat Boy, is being exhibited here.

RUNCORN.—Public Hall.—Lessees, Messrs. Hamilton and Hughes.—Excellent business is the result of an attractive bill, of which the Alaskarno troupe of acrobats are the top, supplying some truly sensational feats of daring. Kavados does novel and well-executed juggling acts; Carlos Menard submits effective work on the violin, literally making it "talk"; and the Tames are well received in Welsh vocalism. The pictures comprise Cleopatra, Ma Learns to Ride, Interrupted Marriage, Celebration of School Children, Motor Cyclist, and Temptation of the Goldfields.

SALFORD.—Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—Miss Lancashire, Limited, forms an excellent entertainment, and drew a large audience on Monday, when Miss Madge Grey kept the house in roars as Mary Ellen Thompson. Miss Ruby Glyn was a charming Eva Lancashire; Mr. Charles Williams was a dignified John Higgins; Harry and Bertha were worthily sustained by Mr. Sidney Dench, jun., and Miss Mabelle Clinton; Mr. Charles Neilson was successful as Grant, and played smartly on the violin; Mr. B. Brereton as Herbert Fox, Mr. Lonnen Meadows as John Henry Thompson, Miss Amy Ross Clyde as Mrs. Thompson, and Mr. Allan Servington as Moses Goldburg also contribute to the general fun. Miss Alice Neilson (Bella) and Mr. H. Mitchell (George Hart) do well.

Regent Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—Managing Director, Mr. W. Turner; General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. R. H. Lee.—The Boisset Troupe (Frank Albert and company) in The Bricklayers head a good programme with their comic business. Jay Laurier, direct from the Royal pantomime Cinderella, raises much laughter; the Birkenhead Family includes three boys and two girls, who sing very cleverly; Carlie and Walker get much appreciation for their clever vaudeville act. The other items by Gicardo, a smart juggler; Victor Courtney, "boots" at the piano; George Lennard, light comedian; and Connie Mascot, comedienne and dancer, are also well received.

Royal Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; General-Manager, Mr. H. Winstanley; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. W. J. Boyle.—Mr. J. A. Campbell's No. 1 company presented on Monday the play, The Old Folks at Home, to a good house, who took great interest in the stirring incidents. Mr. Frank Liston was successful as the dissolute young Lord Kenilworth; the hero, Andrew Ross, was forcibly portrayed by Mr. George Steel; Miss Kate Froud as Patricia Bathurst did well; Miss Maud Warburton ably sustained the part of Dorothy Robin; Miss Dorothy Goode was a charming Bonita Durham; Christopher Robin and Martha were well played by Mr. Henry Sainsbury and Miss Clara Santley; Ian Fleming did good work as Hugh Lovell; and much fun was made by Mr. George Scully as Ben Jolly and Miss Cissie Clarke as Susan Giles.

Opera House and Assembly Rooms, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Shepherd. The Regent Animated Pictures this week include The Indian Cocoanut Tree, Story of Circus Life, Theatre Pass, Muggins, V.C., When We Called the Plumber In, and Snoggins for Blackburn. Mr. Sherlock sings "No one knows."

big audience on Monday in the amusing farce, The Importance of Being Another Man's Wife. The "only Arthur" acted with his accustomed distinct and quiet humour as the dashing Fitz-Smith, and he was well supported by Mr. H. J. Worth, Mr. F. Johnson, Miss Beatrice Hobson, Miss Nellie Lamport, Miss Ida Furneaux and Miss Jessie Burgwitz. James Eadie and Cissie Ramsden, two clever and original burlesque artists, were loudly applauded, and the company also included the Ten Loonies in a comic absurdity, Dotty; Miss Ethel Newman, in My Wedding Day; Mr. Henry Helme, operatic vocalist; "Billy," the trained horse; Mr. Fred Barnes, vocal comedian; Carl and Carr, comic duettists; the original Four Regals, in an athletic act; the Bioscope, with new films, and Mr. Charles R. Whittle, the popular comic singer, in catchy songs.

THE HIPPODROME.—The Barrasford Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Frank Poole.—Messrs. Peterman and Ricketts' combination in The Pawnbroker is here. Other performers are the Three Cunards, vocalists and dancers; Alice Rex and the Xentric Troupe in a spectacular scena, The Garden of Terpsichore; Mme. Pollo, lightning gymnast; Prof. Wilsen, novelty artist; the Great Lumar troupe of acrobats and equilibrists; Miss Amy Russell, vocal comedienne; Miss Alma pianist; the Bioscope pictures; and the wonderful Kiners-Moulin and Mlle. Tricky in a graceful and daring act of equipoise.

SMETHWICK.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. C. Barnard; Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson.—Mr. Wentworth Croke's well-chosen company in The Prodigal Son is paying a welcome return visit. The part of Magnus Stephensson could scarcely be better filled than it is by Mr. Hugh Montgomery; Oscar Stephensson as played by Mr. S. Herbert Humber is a fine piece of acting; Mr. Ernest Rivarz is well suited to the part of Stephen Magnusson; Mr. Philip Renouf is an admirable Oscar Nielson, the Factor; Dr. Olsen is well represented by Mr. Charles Brownless; Mr. Bernard Merefield is very good as the Director of the Casino; Mr. Henry Denton acts well as the Agent of the Bank of Denmark; and Mr. Fred Manners embodies the Sheriff in good style. In the dual rôle of Thora and Elin Miss Elsie Wood gains appreciation for her sympathetic and earnest acting; Helga is well portrayed by Miss Betty Castle; Miss Marie Harcourt is a creditable Margaret Nielson; and Miss Barbara Gott a highly successful Anne Magnusson.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.—THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, The Southend Hippodrome.—The entertainers at this popular place of amusement are Alexander and Hughes, musical comedians; Three Stewarts, acrobats; Lillian Rose, entertainer; Tokio Troupe, Japanese equilibrists; Jock Smiles, comedian; and Gladys Archbutt, comedienne. There is also a very good dramatic sketch, Before the Dawn, by George Sheldon and company.

SOUTHPORT.—OPERA HOUSE AND WINTER GARDENS.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Percy Hutchison; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Clarkson.—Mr. Jerome K. Jerome's interesting play The Passing of the Third Floor Back was presented at this theatre for the first time on Monday. Mr. Ian Robertson, at the head of a strong company, submits an excellent study of the Wayfarer, which was capitally portrayed in all its phases; Miss Jeannie Thomas gave a characteristic representation of the landlady, Mrs. Sharpe; Stasia, the slavey, was skilfully and realistically impersonated by Miss Helena Parsons, and effective work, both in the prologue and the play, was contributed by Miss Blanche Ripley (Mrs. De Hooley); Miss Drusella Wills (Miss Kite); Miss Lena Delphine (Mrs. Tompkins); Miss Barbara Everest (Vivian); Mr. W. O. Bellington (Joey Wright); Mr. J. Woodall-Birde (Christopher Penney); Mr. P. G. Twyman (Major Tompkins); Mr. Stanley Brown (Jake Samuels); and Mr. Herbert Garthorne as Harry Larkcom. The play was preceded by an interesting curtain-raiser by Mr. Ian Robertson entitled Come Here.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. John Coulson.—Mr. Harry Foxwell's company is here this week in A Broken Heart. John Barnard is portrayed with considerable power by Mr. Harry Cullenford; and Miss Sheila Walsh displays ability in the emotional scenes and incidents of the drama; Mr. Ernest Duval and Mr. A. C. Holmes are well cast as Gash Gills and Stephen Rayiton; and all the principal parts are well supported.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ernest Bridgen.—The chief item is Pioifax and Panto in Humpsti Bumpsti, an eccentric acrobatic act; Tom Lloyd, a popular eccentric, scores; a favourable impression is caused by the Northern Troupe of dancers; and Mona Garrick is well received. Takio, Japanese mimic of sounds; Ethel Bourne, contralto; Sisters St. Julien, duettists and dancers; and the Bioscope are other attractions.

SPENNYMOOR.—CAMBRIDGE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. David Collins.—Mr. Harry Tilbury and company are appearing here with the Anglo-American drama My Native Land. Mr. George Fry gives a good rendition of Andy Blake; Mr. Fred Owen as Doctor Magee acts capitally; Mr. Gilbert Hall undertakes Norry Boyle effectively; Mr. George Walkley as Eardley Cunningham acts well; Mr. Harry Tilbury creates much amusement as Solomon Moses; and Mr. Edwin Brown does well as Mick Murphy. Miss Belle Tilbury is exceedingly smart as Myra Pyne; Miss Priscilla Barnard is popular; and Miss Arline T. George wins commendation.

ST. HELENS.—THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, St. Helens Theatre, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. A. M'Leod Loader; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harry E. Johnson.—Her Secret Lover is being played here by Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company. Mr. Arthur St. John, in the part of Gilbert Seymour, makes a manly hero; Miss Laura Walker's plaintive attractiveness as Ivy Seymour gain her much sympathy; of Capt. Darrell Rose Mr. Walter H. Wilson gives a careful study; and Mr. Alfred Stretton throws vigour and dash into the character of John Strange. Miss Flora Leslie is a strong Alicia Royale; Mr. Victor Vernon a humorous Bill Burley; and Miss Lynn Darlington an admirable Jane Maria Wilkes.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford, Sley, and Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. Leo Weisker.—The Casey Army is the cause of much merriment here; Mlle. Renee, charming and beautiful, performs excellently on several instruments; Harry Taylor obtains much applause for his songs; and Captain Kettle's tricks and patter are appreciated. The Bros. Ford dance with marvellous unanimity; and Harry Conlin and Rosie Coleman give excellent turns.

STOCKPORT.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—Florodora, popular and attractive as ever, is being presented here this week by Mr. Charles Constant's company to appreciative audiences. Mr. Arthur Lenville is exceedingly funny as Tweedlepunch; Cyrus G. Gilfain is amusingly portrayed by Mr. Jos. R. Tate; Mr. Robert Hine is pleasing as Frank Abercoed; and Mr. Johnny Junior makes a highly satisfactory Captain Arthur Donegal. Miss Josephine Ellis is charmingly graceful as Angela; Lady Holyrood is captivatingly impersonated by Miss Kate Lester; and Miss Daisy Lake, whose delightful vocalism is a distinct feature, makes the character of Dolores a great success.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, the Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black. Marie Santoi and company, in A Night in Japan, have been pleasingly greeted here this week; and among others appearing are the Two Countees, entertaining humorists and harmonising duettists; Les Rallis, the artist and his monkey, in a clever gymnastic act; Madge Goodall, a capable vocalist and dancer; Tom Gott, comedian, with an abundance of amusing patter; and Miss Tudora's admirably trained ponies.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.—CASTLE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. J. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Cecil Imeson.—Mr. C. Watson Mill's company is here with The Love of the Princess. Mr. Frank Harvey as Prince Conrad earns much applause; Mr. Richard Vane is a capital Count Dacilo; Mr. John Barton cleverly depicts King Josef; Mr. Beckett Bould as Lieut. Orlans is seen to advantage; as is also Mr. John Worth as Lieut. Zaroff; and Mr. D. Laurence Doyle as the Prince Regent, Miss Dorothy Haigh as the Princess, Miss Josephine Lee as Constantia, and Miss Maude Steeple aid the success achieved.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Burns; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. V. Stainton.—Harry P. Solwyn's company is here this week in the sporting episode A 33 to 1 Chance, which meets with great success; Ada Gatley, in a pot-pourri act, takes well; Damerell and Rutland, comedians, have some good patter; Colbert is a clever hoop manipulator; Frank Cumminger and Francis Colonna, sand dancers, receive loud applause; Jack Sheridan is a popular comedian; Reg Bolton makes a big hit in a comedy scena The Editor's Imp; and the Bioscope concludes.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. John Batty; Manager, Mr. Walter Batty.—Mr. Wilson Benge's company is performing here twice nightly the domestic drama, The Eve of Her Wedding. Mr. Cecil A. Melton is a capital George Tremain, and Miss Pauline Nanton an admirable Mavius Leverton.

STOKE-ON-TRENT.—THE HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Arthur Burton.—Yangar, in a series of mysterious problems and illusions, is a great attraction and one highly appreciated; Walter Stanley is accorded a vociferous reception in his parodies; Neilson's Boys and Girls in a singing and dancing potpourri are popular; Hern and Palmer are clever gymnastic comedy artists; Reg Amber is a pleasing light comedian; and also here are Flo Cecil; Fields and Lewis; and the Perfection pictures.

STOURBRIDGE.—ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Douglas C. Phelps.—Mr. Carlton Wallace's company, with The Lancashire Lad, is here for a week. Mr. Harry T. Wood is a capital David Elmore; Mr. Ernest Vaughan as Max Carlton is well placed; Mr. Wilton Reid as Jem Wincote deserves special praise; Miss Madge Douglas plays Jessie Wincote with power and feeling; Miss Muriel Inglis as Lorna presents a careful study; and Miss Nellie V. Warden is quite at home as Mother Wardie.

SUNDERLAND.—KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. S. F. Davidson; General-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Townrow; Treasurer, Mr. L. Crawford Orr.—Miss Lena Ashwell's Diana of Dobson's company is here this week. The title-rôle is supported by Miss Molly Tremaine in artistic style; Mr. Leslie Rea gives a fine exposition of Captain Bretherton; Mr. A. A. Harris sustains the part of Sir Jabez Grindley with much point; Mrs. Cautelupe is cleverly presented by Miss Hilda Franks; and Miss Mary Crewe is also good as Mrs. Whyte-Frazer. Misses Nannie Hume, Eva Boyne, Cicely Oates, and Winifred Lowe are all excellent as the assistants at Dobson's. The piece is preceded by a playlet, entitled Out West, in which Messrs. A. A. Harris, T. Pauncefort, Leslie Rea, and Miss Eva Boyne take part.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Dunn.—Miss Marie Dagmar's company is here this week in The Tyrant. Miss Marie Robson gives a fine performance of Tisbe; Miss Jean Scott is an excellent Lady Catherine; and Miss Lallah Shelton is seen to advantage as Eulie. Mr. Edward E. Lewis has a part for which he is well suited as Rudolf; Mr. Percy Fotliss is capital as Homodei; Mr. Roy Fortescue plays with considerable strength as the tyrannous Angelo, having a capable accomplice in Mr. J. P. Lallan as Lieut. Taska. The comedy is in the capable hands of Miss Katie Lever (Regi-nella) and Messrs. Fred Luard (Nobbo) and Wilson Summers (Victor).

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Heading the bill this week is the renowned illusionist, Chang Ling Soo. Jack Lorrimer, Scotch comedian, is as popular as ever; Witty Watty Walton delights everybody with his varied programme; the Carina Sisters are appreciated for their tasteful and refined music; and Florence is applauded for her imitations. The Rhoda Brothers' acrobatic act is one of great daring.

AVENUE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—T. W. Romer is highly successful here in his clever song-scena; Phyllis Stean, comedienne, is popular; and Clown Paulo and his performing pony have an enthusiastic reception. The pictures are of a high order.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Hamilton's Picture and Variety Co.—The best picture here this week is Pardners, a clever dramatic item. The programme is good and varied. The Seven Wulfrunas were very amusing in an acrobatic scena entitled "Fun in a Café," which included many difficult feats; Jordan's dogs and monkeys gave evidence of skilful training; and Fred Horsfall was loudly applauded for his mimicry and vocal efforts.

SWINDON.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Wiltshire Entertainments Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Manners.—Mr. Herbert Sleath's company in A White Man is being received here with great enthusiasm. A convincing portrayal of Jim Carston is given by Mr. Guy Hastings; the Earl of Kerhill is smartly portrayed by Mr. Chas. Maunsell; Mr. Harold Richardson makes an amusing Sir John Applegate; Mr. Alex. Wills is a successful Malcolm Petrie; Mr. R. A. Brandon is exceedingly good as Big Bill; Mr. Eric Hudson's forceful impersonation of Tab-y-Wena could hardly be better; Mr. Frank Mayo acquits himself with credit as Cash Hawkins; and Bud Hardy is ably presented by Mr. Ray Raymond. Miss Ormonde Wynne does well as Dowager Lady Kerth; Miss Dorothy Duncan is a pleasing Lady Mabel Wynnegate; Miss Hilda Barita gives a careful study of Nat-u-rich; Miss Kathleen Maude invests the rôle of the Countess of Kerhill with charm and feeling.

COUNTY ELECTRIC PAVILION.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur E. Melborne.—In addition to the popular film of the Cup Tie Between Swindon and Manchester City, the pictures include For the Honour of the Family, Launcelot and Elaine, Balchazzar's Feast, Cherries, Beneath the Gas, On the Reef; also a number of amusing films.

TODMORDEN.—HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Richard Dewhirst.—King pantomime again holds sway this week, Lena Stanton and Harry Joseph's company in Sinbad the Sailor occupying the boards. Miss Lily Simms makes a dashing and handsome Sinbad, and as Princess Yazora Miss Dolly Andrews proves a dainty principal girl. Captain Selim is ably portrayed by Miss Gladys May, and Miss Kitty Russell as Irza, and Miss Bimbo Brandon as Fairy Good Fortune lend graceful support. Amongst the humorists the chief favourites are Mr. Dan Lyall as Tinbad and Mr. Arthur Carlton as Shipwreckus, who are ably seconded by Mr. W. Shepherd as Mr. Spankfirst Sinbad and Mr. J. Riche as King Krusty Mug. The comic villains find able exponents in Messrs. Rand and O'Ryan, their quips and cranks calling forth loud applause. Mr. W. Melville as the Caliph is deservedly encored in his two songs, "How d'ye do, my baby" and "I used to sigh for the silvery moon"; and the Leola Troupe of acrobatic dancers are also well received.

TONYPANDY.—ROYAL.—General-Manager, Mr. Sam Duckworth.—Miss Marie Dagmar and Mr. Percy Browne's company is here with Geoffrey Langdon's Wife, which is suitably staged. Mr. W. Coleman does well as Felix Beverley, and a clever portrayal of Jack Sterling is given by Mr. J. S. Milward. Geoffrey Langdon is powerfully presented by Mr. H. Creagh Hunt; Colonel Miles is safely entrusted to Mr. C. Grier; Miss Amy Ellan ably interprets the part of Mary; and the Hon. Mrs. Lands is done ample justice to by Miss K. Magee. Miss M. Goepel does well as Nancy.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Will Stone; General-Manager, Mr. E. Harper.—La Belle Alice's animal sailors provide a novel and acceptable turn; Cyclumina, trick cyclist, wins much favour; Nelson Hardy scores heavily; as do Purvis and Partner; and Chas. Ashdown is an eccentric comedian. A Motherless Waif and Pet of the Big Horn Ranch are the principal pictures.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter Wright.—The chief item here is a comedy drama sketch by Harry First and company; Kioto and Esa present a clever equilibristic performance; the Three Huxters win great applause; Eileen Douglas provides a capital turn; and the Daimlers, Stevens and Brett, and Bert Rayburn are all well received. The Empiroscope continues acceptable.

TORQUAY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Managing Director, Alderman W. H. Mortimer; Secretary, Mr. Arthur Pearse.—Messrs. Travis Green and Arthur Hinton's pantomime Cinderella is doing well. The title-rôle has a very capable exponent in Miss Dela Fredericks, whose vocal efforts and dainty style win her much eulogy; Miss Zelia Zillwood is a principal boy of agreeable personality, and is quickly a favourite; she is ably supported by Miss Lottie Mellor as Dandini; the comedians are all very good, Messrs. Gus Granville and Frank Shepherd working well together, and Messrs. Will Webb and Tom Squires making two clever sisters, whilst Mr. Carl Fredericks is quite in his element as the Baron. Some good specialities are introduced, the most effective perhaps being Mlle. Cordelia, whose electric transformation dancing is much admired; the Three Hilberts introduce some amusing bouncing table tricks, and Clyde and Ide are clever top-boot dancers.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. Welton Dale; Manager, Mr. Harry Ball.—The chief turn on the Hippodrome programme is Miss Hoodless, in her refined art poses, comprising reproductions of well-known Academy pictures; Taree, the Australian bushman, performs clever feats with a mouth organ; Mart and Pep prove accomplished acrobats; Henriette and Selina give a clever musical act; Mather and Mayer are a sprightly dancing duo; Aima Jones possesses a rich voice, which was heard to advantage in "The lost chord"; and the comedy turns of Ruby Rayo and Will Ambro, together with the Hipposcope, complete an excellent programme.

TYLDESLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. McNish.—The interesting films shown here this week include The Quarryman's Daughter, Never Despair, One-Legged Story, &c. Frank Boyce is a successful actor-vocalist; and Belle Brocade, burlesque actress, quickly becomes a favourite.

MINERS' HALL.—Lessees, Messrs. Lievers and Bennett; Manager, Mr. C. Matthews.—The management here continue to submit an excellent programme to their numerous patrons. Some first-class pictures of a varied nature are exhibited this week. Countess Bekoffska makes a hit with her lightning sketches; and St. Vincent Ellesmere is a fine vocalist.

WAKEFIELD.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Sherwood and Co.—Mr. Walter Melville's company, with The Girl Who Took the Wrong Turning, is here. Mr. F. Ronald Adair acts with distinction the prominent part of Willie Mason; Mr. John Brooks accomplishes good work as Bill Slater; Mr. William T. Riley is good as the villainous James Harcourt, as is also Mr. Charles Ashwell as Jack Fenton; Mr. Bert Ugate is effective as Johnny Walker; and Mr. Edwin Lever is seen to advantage as Richard Fenton. Miss Jessie Belmore plays the part of Sophie Coventry with commendable ability; Miss Nannie Mead is clever as the cool, designing villainess, Vesta Le Clere. Miss Florence Halton gives a pleasant rendering as Lucy Coventry, and Miss Nellie James gains much appreciation as Poppy Slater.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Sherwood and Co.; Manager, Mr. S. H. Laycock.—Yukio Tani gives a fine display of ju-jitsu wrestling in several contests against competitors, and is a great attraction; Mr. Will Lindeay keeps the audience in roars of laughter with his quaint patter; the Tivoli Girls are charming skipping-rope dancers; Martha Ann and Sammy, in a comical speciality act, have a good reception; Ford and Hanson provide a pleasing musical and protean act; Miss Victoria Cross, Scotch character comedienne, is popular; Mr. Theo C. Le Gars' dramatic playlet Music the Conqueror, introducing Señor Angel Blanco in an excellent violin recital, merits hearty applause. Miss Evelyn Francis, comedienne, and Messrs. Reid and Hipton, Hebrew comedians, complete a good bill.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—The Five Tritons, in a clever musical turn, are received most cordially; the Havannas display great skill as acrobats; the Arthur Gallimore Trio provide a highly amusing turn; Tom Garland demonstrates ventriloquial ability; Lieut. Chard's troupe of dogs show high training; Fox and Melville, song illustrators, merit approbation; and Percy Curry is a funny comedian.

WARRINGTON.—ROYAL COURT.—Proprietor, Mr. J. Beecham; General-Manager, Mr. A. M. Loader.—Mr. F. R. Benson's Shakespearean company is here this week in a round of standard plays. On Monday The Taming of the Shrew was staged, and Mr. Herbert as Petruchio and Miss Gladys Vanderzee as Katharina won the highest encomiums. Twelfth Night, The Tempest, Macbeth, King Lear, As You Like It, and Hamlet are also billed.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Eric Longden.—Mlle. Leoni de Lausanne supplies an interesting turn here; Enzer is a clever juggler, and, together with Miss Clarice, gives a fine exhibition of ju-jitsu wrestling; Baker and De Sales score well as patterers; and Johnny Dwyer is a capable comedian. Les Montaldos are clever equilibrists, and their cockatoos, parrots, and macaws assist well in a refined entertainment; Margit and Lena are rare eccentrics; and the sketch Wet Paint is decidedly humorous. L. B. Athol is heard to advantage in the vocal scena "Dreamland"; and the pictures are good.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, the Central Theatres and Franco-British Animated Picture Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. Wilberforce Turner; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Waters.—Some delightful films are shown here this week; Edwards and Ward are very entertaining; Percy Johnson is a smart comedian; Mabel Moss has an engaging way; and the Sisters Brenton score.

WEST BROMWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. Nightingale.—Mr. Carr Loates' company is providing two attractive plays this week, the first three days being occupied with At the World's Mercy, in which Miss Cissie Milford admirably filled the dual rôle of Alice Lloyd, the heiress, and Skittles, the stowaway. On the last three evenings the attraction is A London Outcast. Both plays are well dressed and staged.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. R. Colin; Resident-Manager, Mr. Joe Hastings.—The bill at this place of amusement is headed with a delightful tabloid musical comedy, Queen of the Butterflies, in which Miss Eva Nelson appears with much distinction. In addition to this are some excellent pictures. Miss Renie Wainforth, a speciality dancer, provides an entertaining turn; Miss Kitty Clarke is a graceful dancer and comedienne; Signor Mottramo sings well; and Formel and French are clever and amusing.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Fred Granville.—Such pleasant recollections of the previous visit of The Flag Lieutenant have existed that the success of Messrs. Lyn Harding and Sydney Cooper's company in the play this week was a foregone conclusion, and the piece, with its excellent stage-setting, brilliant humour, and sparkling success is drawing crowded houses. Mr. Ralph Roberts undertakes the character of Dickie Lascelles, and acquits himself admirably, his happy, breezy style keeping the audience in excellent humour throughout the piece. As Mrs. Cameron Miss Mabel Rees is perfection; a charming representative of Lady Hermione is found in Miss Rita Johnson; Miss Rosalind Ross does well with the part of Lady Dugdale; and pretty acting is done by Miss Una Venning as Viola Hood. A better exponent of the part of Major Thesiger than Mr. Frederick could not be imagined. Sprightly work is done by Mr. Stanford Groom and Mr. Guy Lanham as the two Middies, and a capital characterisation is that of Mr. Mark Paton as the Hon. Sir Berkeley Wynne. Also deserving of unstinted praise are Mr. Ed. Mervyn as Walter Crutchley and Mr. Lloyd Pilgrim as Colonel McLeod.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Thompson.—Mr. Ernest Stevens' genuinely funny and original pantomime Cinderella is performed twice nightly with great success. Miss Felicia Firman acts in piquant style as Cinderella, and gains a host of admirers. Charming in all she does, Miss Agnes Tandy as Prince Casimir is awarded unbounded applause for her excellent work. A gentleman is cast for the part of Dandini, and in this character Mr. Harry Ongar acquits himself with every credit, his dancing being excellent. A more humorous couple than Mr. Stracham Staples as the diminutive Baron Hercules and Mr. Aifred Clark as the massive Tiny, his wife, could not be imagined, their humour being irresistible. Speciality dances by the Lottie Stone troupe have a most gratifying reception.

WHITEHAVEN.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Falconer Jacques.—Mr. Frank Lindo's company is here, in Home, Sweet Home. Mr. Lindo appears with considerable success as Stephen Armitage, and is supported by a very able company. Mr. N. Shields is good as David Armitage; and Mr. Sydney Dench portrays the Duke of Ancaster with spirit. Mr. R. Walsh is natural as Dick; Mr. Tom Lewis makes a capable Solomon Keary; Miss Helene Thompson is well cast as Sybil Fay; and Miss Marion Wakeford is pleasing as Joan.

WIDNES.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Kiddie; Secretary, Mr. Thomas Swinton.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hinton's company is here with Her Fatal Marriage. Mr. Jerrold Heather plays Zaco Malletto with strength and vigour, and Miss Hilda Shirley achieves a triumph as Myra Malletto. The scenery and effects are elaborate.

CO-OPERATIVE HALL.—Lessees, Messrs. Hamilton and Hughes. In addition to the excellent pictures the following artists are prominent entertainers: Mr. Dardini, juggler; Mr. George Le Hurst, ventriloquial entertainer; Mr. William Bell, handbell soloist; and the Misses Bella and Minnie Terry, vocalists.

EMPIRE ANIMATED PICTURE HALL.—Proprietors, Messrs. Caldwell Bros.; Manager, Mr. G. C. Ford.—This new animated-picture hall was opened on Monday evening, and promises to be a big success. Excellent films, possessing all the pathetic, dramatic, and humorous elements, attract good audiences.

WIGAN.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Wigan Entertainments Co.—The stirring drama, Sexton Blake, Detective, is being presented here, the title-rôle being in the capable hands of Mr. Murray Yorke; Mr. P. Barry Lewers as Randolph Lovell takes the part in creditable style; Mr. W. Glaze, in the rôle of Tinker, and Mr. Victor C. Rolfe as Farmer Blackburn, also give capital portrayals; Miss Elizabeth Watkins is a powerful and pathetic Marjorie Lovell; and Miss Sinna St. Clair as Philadelphia Kate is characteristic.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Co.—The Leopolds, with their leaping, bounding, and tumbling performances, appear here in the sketches, Those Terrible Boys and The Stadium, which cause endless laughter; Mysticus bewilders with his smart quick-change tricks; Zellini is a capital comedy juggler; and an acceptable exhibition is given by Athelda, the miniature lady Hercules; Lloyd's Welsh singers are loudly applauded for their selections; J. W. Darley and company create mirth with their sketch Music; and other excelent items are supplied by Wee Monte Moore, Queenie May, and Will Walton.

WISHAW, N.B.—PAVILION.—Sole Proprietor, Mr E. H. Bostock; General-Manager, Mr. René Clayton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Fred Nimse.—Tennyson and Wallis, crosstalk comedians, are topping the bill here; Tom Hayton's six Manchester lads, in a vocal and dancing scena, Dancing 'Neath the Old Oak Tree, prove a strong attraction; Ivy Aberdare is a dainty wooden-shoe dancer; G. S. Melvin, Scotch dancer, is popular, and Harry Zetter and the Bioscope conclude.

WOLVERHAMPTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles Barnard; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lewis M. Chapman.—A hearty welcome was accorded on Monday to J. C. Lodge-Percy and James Martin's company in Moths. Mr. Andrew Money plays with telling effect as Prince Sergius Zouroff; Mr. J. E. Lodge-Percy is a convincing Lord Jura; Mr. Cecil Kerr excels as the Duke of Mull; and Mr. F. Douglas Howard is effective as Correze. Miss Henrietta Schrier is a clever Fuchsia Leach; Miss Veronica Clinton elicits sympathy as Vere Herbert; Miss Marie Ramuz is good as the Duchess de Sonnaz; and Miss Nellie Statham makes an acceptable Lady Dolly. Camille and The Second Mrs. Tanqueray are also in the répertoire.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Vivian Evans.—A rich treat is afforded habitués here this week by the engagement of Canada's premier military band, "The Kilties," and their performance on Monday places them well in the front rank of the many fine military bands that have previously visited the town. They are assisted by Mr. J. Coates Lockhart, a pleasing tenor; and the Clan-Johnstone troupe of dancers. Coram, ventriloquist, keeps the house in a continual roar of laughter; Beatrice English, the Australian soprano, has a voice of excellent quality; Curtis Leo performs feats of legerdemain at lightning speed; and Julian Rose, vocal comedian, earns applause.

ELECTRIC THEATRES.—Proprietors, The London and Provincial Electric Theatres, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Hickman.—The most interesting picture here this week is that depicting the great workshops at Crewe of the North-Western Company and various phases of railway life; The Heroine of Mafeking is a thrilling picture of the incidents of war; and A Motherless Waif appeals strongly to the audience. The other films shown are: Foolshead Timed, A Bootblack's Day in Paris, A Child with the Dancing Jack, Basket Making and A Marvellous Escape.

WORCESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Edward Evans.—A return visit of Messrs. Armitage and Leigh's company in Leah Kleschna is the attraction this week. Mr. William Clayton still portrays the part of Kleschna with vigour and intensity, and Miss Bessie Rignold's Leah is marked by a depth of feeling which makes the part very real. Mr. Charles Barrett sustains the part of Paul Sylvaine with a true appreciation of the character; the Raoul of Mr. Algernon J. Hicks is convincing; and Mr. Graham Pockett has made the part of Sebram a careful study. Mr. Edgar J. Coyne doubles the parts of General Berton and a journalist with success; and Mr. F. Bannister is well suited as Baptiste.

WORKINGTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers.—Mr. Wm. Pardoe's Dick Whittington is a capital pantomime. As Dick Miss Lottie Holland plays with verve and dash, being ably seconded by Miss Nellie Rose as Alice. The funniosities of Mr. George Hyam as Idle Jack keep the house in roars of laughter; Tom Hulme plays the Alderman well; and Mons. Pauli is a fine Cat. The Sisters Volbecque, comedy pair; the Edengale trio of dancers; and Pauletti, acrobatic cyclist, contribute good specialities.

CARNEGIE HALL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers.—May and Kennerley, boy and girl comedians, sing and dance well; T. E. Johnston is a good topical vocalist; and Tom Casey, an old favourite, whistles like a bird.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Mack.—Humano, the electrical mystery, heads the bill this week; Jack Ramsey, North Country comedian, and Albert Lawrance, vocalist, also appear. The pictures are first class.

WORTHING.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. Adolf Seebold.—The Co-operative Variety Artists' Federation maintain their reputation for refined entertainments. The chief attractions are the Four Black Diamonds, whose various selections find much favour with the large audiences; Vetter Bros. prove very acceptable in their gymnastic and equilibristic display; Sid Bandon enhances his reputation as a character comedian; Argo introduces some novelties, and gives marvellous imitations of animals and birds; Rose Elliott, described as a singer of sensible songs, shows that the adjective has not been misplaced; and Kloof and Ramsey provide ample entertainment. The programme is completed by Chandos and Constable, who present the farcical absurdity Fluffie; and Jules Klaro, the remarkable equilibrist.

YORK.—ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Dacre.—The Woman of Kronstadt is a strong play ably presented by Mr. Keith G. Kenneth's company. Mr. Kenneth gave an admirable rendering of Colonel Bonzo, his conception of the part being at once rugged and effective; Miss Betty Fairfax did exceptionally well as Marion Best, looking charming, and giving a finished performance; Mr. Bernard Copping was particularly suited to the rôle of Paul Zassoulic, playing in easy, natural style; Miss Edith Vogue was sufficiently disagreeable as the Princess Marie; and Mr. T. Taylor-Vinson was clever as Baron Muller. The more serious portions of the play were enlivened by Miss Isa Bellington and Miss Marjorie Armstrong as Vera and Olga. Nan, well played by Miss Bellington, was the curtain-raiser.

OPERA HOUSE AND EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sidney Brook.—The wonderful performance of the Geni Family has drawn large audiences, who have been loud in their praise. Ted Karno and company, in their screaming absurdity Hotel de Quick, have proved greatly amusing; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Leonard are excellent in their sketch Coming Home; and the quaint sayings of Walter King never fail to raise laughter. Mr. Tom Child's capital voice is heard to great advantage; the Hargreaves Trio are exceptionally clever; Kydd and Kydd gain applause for their dancing; and Miss Hilda de Grey sings a taking song with taste.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Bowman; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. E. Bradley.—There is no falling off in the attendance at this popular hall, where a splendid set of pictures are shown. A Daughter of the Sioux is full of exciting incidents, also The Flower Seller, whilst A Day of Robbery and The Colonel's Story provide much amusement. The songs of Mr. Ted E. Nolan go well, and Doyle and Massey, comedians, are a great success.

VICTORIA HALL.—Lessee, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Resident-Manager, Mr. Bert Rutter.—Owing to the indefatigable efforts of the resident manager, the popularity of this establishment is firmly fixed. The Waves of Fontarabic (a lovely coloured film), The Dancing Girl of Butte (a thrilling drama), and Galino (a humorous subject) are well received. Fred Cardle, an excellent comedian, is well received.

MR. WALTER W. HEDGCOCK, the musical director of the Crystal Palace, has arranged an attractive programme for the Irish concert which will take place on St. Patrick's night, March 17, at the Palace. Particulars of the programme have already appeared in these columns.

A GYMNASTIC display will be given at the Crystal Palace on Saturday, the 19th inst, when Mr. A. J. Dorey, the well-known gymnastic expert, with a number of gymnasts, will give a grand display in the centre transept at six o'clock. The events include an assault at arms, fencing, sword drill, jumping, skipping, and every other form of the gymnastic art.

THE ENTERTAINMENT MARKET.

We published on Feb. 12 a handy list detailing the dealings on the Stock Exchange with Entertainments Stocks as officially quoted. We furnish hereunder a companion list of Entertainments Concerns not quoted on the Exchange, and showing their dividends for the past ten years. For the benefit of the Actors' Fund of America, the "deadheads" who attend the Frohman theatres are to pay a tax of ten cents each, and an effort is to be made to levy a similar tax at every theatre in the country. It is estimated that the sum of $350,00 a year could be raised in this way. The plan has been tried before, however, and has not proved entirely successful.

Frederick William Nicholson, thirty years of age, with no fixed home, was charged, on Monday, at Bow-street, before Mr. Marsham, with fraudulently obtaining 7s. from Mr. Cyril Maude, of the Playhouse, by means of begging letters. Mr. Alfred Turner, Mr. Maude's general-manager, said the latter had for some time past received begging letters purporting to come from different people, but owing to the similarity in the handwriting it was thought that they were written by one person. The police were communicated with, and on Monday morning the prisoner went to the Playhouse by appointment. He said that his name was Manners, which was the name used by the writer of some of the letters. The witness questioned him, and came to the conclusion that he had never been an actor, as he had represented himself to be. He therefore gave him into custody. On Feb. 26 the prisoner called at Mr. Maude's private house, and was given 5s., and on Friday he was given 2s. at the theatre. The prisoner pleaded guilty. He admitted that he had never been an actor, but he had been engaged with stock companies as a super, and was at one time employed at Hengler's Circus. The prisoner was sentenced to two months' imprisonment.

A verdict of "Accidental death" was returned at an inquest held at Westminster, on Monday, on the body of William Krumm, aged sixty-nine, of East-street, Walworth, a property labourer, employed at the Drury Lane Theatre, who died through fracturing his skull. It was stated that the deceased, who had worked at the theatre for nearly thirty years, was standing on a shelf four feet wide and seven feet from the ground in a property room at the theatre, known as the dolls'-house. He was handing down a light table to another man when he overbalanced, fell on the table, which was on another man's head, and dropped heavily on to a concrete floor. No reason could be assigned for the accident.

Neil Burgess, the well-known American actor, who played Abigail Prue in The County Fair for over twenty years, died on the 19th ult. at his home in New York City. He was born in Boston in 1846. The County Fair was written by Mr. Burgess and Charles Barnard, and was the opening attraction at Proctor's Twenty-third-street Theatre on March 5, 1889. The play had a long run at that house and at the Union-square Theatre. In 1895 Neil Burgess leased the Star Theatre (now Wallack's), and spent a good deal of money on improvements for the stage and a new system of electric lighting for the entire house. He produced a piece there, called The Year One, which proved a failure, and as a result of this disastrous venture Burgess lost a fine apartment house near Central Park, in which he had invested his savings. In 1880 he married Mary E. Stoddart, a niece of the well-known actor, J. H. Stoddart. Mrs. Burgess, who appeared with her husband for a number of years, died in 1905.

"The performance of Justice and the deep impression it has made on all who witnessed it has," says the Glasgow News, "raised the question as to how far the stage should be used for didactic purposes. It is customary to say that plays are meant to amuse, but the word cannot be used in a restricted sense. If it is employed to embrace an art concerned with people's lives it must cover the whole range of interest we have in them. A truer definition would perhaps be that drama is designed to satisfy curiosity, the ineradicable curiosity mankind has in man. And once a writer has decided to deal sincerely with such a subject he cannot keep serious purposes out of his work.

"In point of fact, you cannot relate even the simplest story about a man or woman but something is conveyed by inference. It will exhibit some touch of cleverness or of humanity, some act of wisdom or folly. It is little short of an insult to the intelligence of the listener to point out the moral, which, if the story is well told, should be self-apparent. In a more complex narrative, however, full of diverse characters and cross-currents of motive, we have a right to ask the story-teller to keep the issues clear, even when his object is to expose the contradictions and ironies of life. It is one of the functions of his art.

"It would be hardly possible to name any great work of the imagination which has outlived the assaults of time that is not permeated by some high and exalted purpose. Take a few at random, the products of very different ages and climes:—'Nathan the Wise,' 'Don Quixote,' 'Vanity Fair,' 'Le Misanthrope,' 'The Egoist,' 'Coriolanus,' 'Every Man in His Humour.' They all have a 'purpose,' and in most of them it ranked first in importance before their authors' minds. But because it is conveyed by the legitimate methods of art we do not resent it. On the contrary, like the orchestral accompaniment to a singer, it adds to the enjoyment of the work. We follow with pleasure the light sallies of wit, the amusing turns of circumstance, the antics of droll people; but always behind there is the far-reaching background of the author's thought and intention, over which we can linger as we please."

PROVINCIAL MANAGERS.

MR. LESTER COLLINGWOOD.

Proprietor of the Alexandra Theatre, Birmingham, Mr. Lester Collingwood is a pleasant instance of personal effort and enterprise, his present position having been won by good solid work and strict attention to business. Mr. Collingwood was intended for a commercial career, and was educated at Bristol Grammar School; but, being unable to brook a rigorous domestic regime, he migrated to London. 'Twas more by accident than design that Mr. Collingwood first found his way on to the stage. Being attracted to the Occidental, in the Strand, he was tapped on the shoulder there by a theatrical-looking gentleman and asked could he play a small part at Charing Cross Theatre to fill up a disappointment. "Yes," exclaimed the youthful Collingwood, with that promptness which was to mark him ever after. He was given his part, which is forgotten in the hazy mists of the past. Arrived at the theatre at night, he was shown into the dressing-room. "Where do I put my clothes?" quoth the tyro, when a voice roared through the startled air, "D'ye think you're in a bathing machine?" The voice belonged to that fine old comedian Fred Yarnold. However, he played his part without a slip, and was standing in the Occidental next morning when he was again approached by his friend of yesterday, who had now learnt of his young protégé's innocence of "cues" and all things theatrical, and was astonished at his uncommon aptitude and success. He strongly advised him to go on the stage, and in fact procured him an engagement.

This was in 1874, in the "fit-ups," of which Mr. Collingwood has had a very choice experience. He next played a stock season at Guernsey under R. F. Smith, and then joined the original company of Roberts and Archer, going round South. At a stock season at Oldham he played walking gentleman, and afterwards jointed the Beatrice company. This was in the year 1878, and is full of delightful memories to Mr. Collingwood. They were playing then The Woman of the People and répertoire, and it was at this time that a certain famous star actress, meeting our friend in the street, exclaimed to him, "Oh, Mr. Collingwood, if you won't smoke a pipe in the street, I'll give you ten shillings more per week!"—since when Mr. Collingwood has smoked cigars. He next played a stock season at the Isle of Man under James Elphinstone, sen., the old sailor actor, who would fight a terrific sword combat with two swords in his hands and another between his teeth in case of accident. Mr. Collingwood also played stock seasons at which at intermittent periods appeared Chas. Dillon, Chas. Calvert, John Nelson, Carlotta Le Clercq, and Rose Le Clercq. Calvert once said to him after playing Tristan in Louis II., "My dear sir, you haven't the slightest idea of your part." "Very sorry, sir," said the other C., "but I only had a few hours to study the part; in fact, was up till five, burning the midnight oil." "What!" replied Calvert; "then it was very good, my boy, very good!" They were playing a different Shakespearean play every night then, and it meant work for the young actor; but he is very proud and glad of it now, for it was the making of him. He produced his first pantomime at Norwich in the season of 80-81. It was Robinson Crusoe, and the next year he produced The Forty Thieves at Sunderland. At Sunderland again, the next year after, he played Sinbad, with Maggie Duggan in the rôle—her first principal boy engagement—1882-3. In his pantomime of 83-4 he was associated with Richard W. Younge, the one-time famous Eccles in Caste, and during the interim was playing Guy Devereux in Crutch and Toothpick, Geo. R. Sims' first farcical comedy. The next year he was playing in The Forty Thieves at Bristol; and then came his travelling pantomimes—two and three yearly. He also exploited opera—Erminie, to wit, and others—till 1896. It was at this time that he produced When London Sleeps at the Royal, Darlington, on May 18. This followed his last Easter pantomime, Aladdin, at Belfast, with Mr. J. F. Warden. It was the success of this which impelled him to play Aladdin at his first pantomime at the Alexandra, Birmingham, which he repeated this Christmas. Of his successes with When London Sleeps it is unnecessary to speak; like Tennyson's brook and Charley's Aunt, it is still running.

On one occasion, during the fire scene, a sailor clambered over the gallery rails into a private box, and descended on to the stage, essaying to rescue virtue and innocence from the "devouring element," till, seeing the heroine bearing the child in safety across the telephone wire, he burst into a genuine British cheer, and, backing unconsciously into the footlights, disappeared suddenly into the big drum. In 1902 Mr. Collingwood made his station in Birmingham, which he no sooner entered than he was pronounced an acquisition to the city, and the Alexandra, which as the Lyceum had not been taken seriously, began to flourish.

Mr. Collingwood is ever to the fore in the philanthropic works of Birmingham, and is hon. treasurer to the Theatrical Charity Sports Committee. It is his wont yearly to visit the Continent, where he is well known, and the year before last he went to America on business and pleasure combined.

The winter season at Berlin; with its afternoon performances for the benefit of the local school-children, is coming to a close, to the general regret of the juveniles. At an all-round charge of sixpence, those theatres which lend themselves to the good cause are always packed from floor to ceiling, and the best classical plays—in a modified version—have been enjoyed once a fortnight, or oftener. In this regard all cities might, with advantage, imitate Berlin.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

The revival of Sir Arthur Sullivan's Ivanhoe attracted a huge audience to Covent Garden on Tuesday night. Some twenty years have passed since Ivanhoe was first produced on Jan. 31, 1891, at the Royal English Opera House, Cambridge Circus, Shaftesbury-avenue, under the management of Mr. D'Oyly Carte, and owing to the great success of Sullivan's first serious opera, which ran for months, hopes were entertained that at last national opera was firmly established. Time has shown how this hope was not fulfilled, for after Sir Arthur Sullivan's opera The Basoche was presented, and this failing to attract, the manager brought his season to a close. In the original cast Mr. Ben Davies was the hero; Miss Macintyre played the Jewess; Mr. Eugène Oudin, the Templar; Mr. Avon Saxon, Friar Tuck; Mr. Norman Salmond, King Richard; Mr. Charles Copland, Isaac of York; Mr. Ffrangcon Davies, Cedric; Miss Esther Palliser, Rowena; Miss Marie Groebl, Ulrica; Mr. C. Kenningham, De Bracy; and Mr. Richard Green, Grand Master and Prince John. To do anything like justice to Sir Walter Scott's noble romance in an operatic libretto was, of course, impossible, but by selecting the chief incidents Mr. Julian Sturgis contrived to give a fairly consistent idea of the story.

A fine English spirit underlies all Sullivan's music in this opera, and there are many fine descriptive passages for the orchestra. Ulrica's music is highly dramatic, and among other solos Rebecca's aria "Lord of our chosen race," the Templar's passionate scena "Woo thou the snowflake," and, lastly, Friar Tuck's lively song "Ho! Jolly Jenkin" are constantly heard on the concert platform and deservedly popular. The finest vocal music in the opera is the striking duet between the Templar and Rebecca, and the interior scene of Torquilstone Castle, where Rebecca's description of the storming of the castle to the wounded Ivanhoe is especially effective owing to the composer's skill in orchestral treatment. In the scene between the King and Friar Tuck the music is delightfully humorous as well as tuneful. The opera was splendidly mounted. New costumes and scenery were provided, and every endeavour was made to secure a perfect and picturesque representation. The storming of Torquilstone Castle and Ashby Tournament, with Brian and Ivanhoe tilting on horseback, were realistic and striking stage pictures.

With very few exceptions the cast was composed of British artists. Miss Perceval Allen, who appeared as Rebecca, acted with considerable power, and sang the beautiful prayer "Lord of our chosen race" admirably. Miss Edith Evans made a stately Rowena, although somewhat lacking as a vocalist; while Miss Mabel Braine, in spite of little stage experience, proved effective as the witch, Ulrica. Mr. Walter Hyde's Ivanhoe had many excellent features, and the music allotted to King Richard was finely sung by Mr. Alfred Kaufmann. The character of the Templar requires great dramatic vigour, and this Mr. Robert Maitland did not entirely possess, therefore the scena "Woo thou the snowflake" lost a little of its passionate fervour. Mr. Harry Dearth's Friar Tuck was capital, and so well did he sing "Ho! Jolly Jenkin" that the audience insisted on an encore. As Cedric Mr. Albert Archdeacon sang ably and with expression, while investing the part of the sturdy Saxon with a skilful study of character. Locksley, Isaac of York, and De Bracy were enacted by Mr. M. D'Oisly, Mr. Stewart Gardiner, and Mr. Alfred Royd, and Mr. R. Chignell doubled the parts of Grand Master and Prince John. Much credit is due to Mr. Thomas Beecham for his enterprise in giving this interesting revival, which had a most enthusiastic reception. Mr. Percy Pitt conducted, the chorus and orchestra were both excellent, and all the principal vocalists had many and very hearty recalls.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of Warden, Limited, was held in the Grand Opera House, Belfast, on Friday, 4th inst. Mr. Fred. W. Warden presided in the absence of the chairman, who is on the Continent. Mr. Warden said the net profit for the year amounted to £4,165 19s. 10d., and was about £1,300 more than in the preceding year. This satisfactory result had been largely brought about by an arrangement come to with the Hippodrome Company for pooling with them certain profits of that theatre, an arrangement which had proved beneficial to both companies. It came into effect at Feb. 1, 1909, the commencement of their financial year.

They would remember that that theatre was conducted as a variety theatre for two or three years, and that a year ago they reverted to the old order of conducting it as a first-class playhouse. The principal reason for so doing was that the directors recognised the keen competition that existed in obtaining first-class artists; that this city could not support two first-class variety theatres; and, on the other hand, that the Theatre Royal stage requirements were not suitable for the production of first-class plays.

A balance of £168 15s. 7d. was brought forward from the previous year's account, which, with the net profit he had just mentioned, made a total of £4,334 15s. 5d. The directors had written off out of this sum the year's outlay on scenery, £158 19s. 3d., and had transferred to the renewal and depreciation fund £523 4s. 5d. A balance then remained of £3,652 11s. 9d., and it would be proposed that a year's dividend should be paid on the preference share capital at 5 per cent. and on the ordinary share capital at 4 per cent., which would absorb £3,150, and carry forward to the next account £502 11s., being £330 more than last year. They had expended £223 4s. 5d. for renovation in the theatres, which they had charged against the renewal and depreciation fund, but it would be seen in the balance-sheet that the fund, with the £523 4s. 5d. transferred from profit and loss, now stood at £2,500.

The report was adopted, and Mr. Warden was re-elected a director, together with the auditors (Messrs. Craig, Gardner, and Co.).

The "Tin-cans," the curious name adopted by a body of well-known Birmingham gentlemen, thoroughly enjoyed Mr. Lester Collingwood's pantomime, Aladdin, at the Alexandra Theatre, Birmingham, on Tuesday evening, when 250 of their number attended the performance. The interior of the theatre was prettily decorated with green and white, the colours of the society, in honour of the occasion. The comedians threw themselves heartily into the spirit of the event, and the choruses of the popular songs were caught up with vigour in all parts of the house.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the appearance of Mr. Will Letters, a favourite comedian with Birmingham audiences, who travelled specially from London to give his services. He sang his great pantomime success, "I must go home to-night," and roused the house to enthusiasm. A number of presentations made during an interlude put the finishing touch to a most enjoyable function.

The chief of the "Tin-cans," Mr. Harry Garner, handed to Mr. Collingwood a handsome spirit tantalus and also a silver can as a memento of the occasion. Mr. F. Barnardo, business-manager, and Mr. W. T. Guest, assistant-manager, each received pocket-books; Mr. H. Cooke, stage-manager, was presented with a sovereign-purse; and Mr. Barnes, musical-director, was the recipient of a pocket-book. Presents, consisting of manicure sets and dressing-cases, were also handed to the artists, including the members of the chorus.

AMUSEMENTS IN ROTTERDAM.

Rotterdam, March 8.—Since my last letter Manager Van Eysden has put on two new programmes at the Grand Theatre, the first of these novelties being the production in Dutch of the de jonge wyn bloeit . . . (When the Young latest work of Björnstjerne Björnson, Als Vine is in Bloom . . .), and the second a new play of the Dutch dramtist Fabricius, entitled De Rechte Lyn (The Straight Line). The work of the great Norwegian writer is certainly a remarkable piece, with quaint and picturesque scenes, full of pathos, humour, and grace. It was capitally interpreted by the company of the Grand, the honours of the evening falling to Mrs. Van Eysden and Mr. De Jong as Mr. and Mrs. Arvik. A success no less marked has been the production of The Straight Line, the scene of which is laid in the Dutch East Indies. In this, the third of his plays, Fabricius has wished to analyse the character of a man whose aim is an unswerving adherence to rigid principles as to right and wrong. He is a self-made man, and by unflinching labour and resolute will, has succeeded in creating a position for himself which he is able to maintain, keeping "the straight line" despite all the difficulties and obstacles placed in his path. He comes out of the strife triumphant in a worldly sense, but suffers a crushing defeat in his domestic happiness. His sweetheart, whom he had left in her native place until his position was secured, comes to his new home as his wife in the second act, and disillusion ensues. He realises how unfit she is to be his helpmate and companion; but despite this and the fact that another and a worthier love is within his grasp, he is inflexible in his resolve to be true to her. She, on her part, is frivolous, ignorant, flighty, and a coquette in word and deed. In her way she is quite fond of her husband, but that does not prevent her playing him false. Realising what her fate would be if left to her own devices, he nobly decides to take up the burden anew, bearing with her, indeed, "for good and for evil." The Straight Line is an acquisition to the Dutch dramatic literature, and has met with decided success. The brunt of the action rests, of course, on the shoulders of the hero, a part cleverly interpreted by Mr. Tartaud. Mrs. De Jong as the giddy and fickle wife comes in for a genuine meed of approval.

"De Hagespelers" ("The Players of the Hague") have been seen at the Tivoli Theatre in Raffles, the Gentleman Thief, and drew crowded houses, the sensational element in the play catching the public. The manager and leading actor of "De Hagespelers" is Eduard Verkade, the Raffles of the cast. The Dutch translation of the play was by Mr. Bossard, the active business-manager of the organisation.

The Dutch Dramatic Co. of Amsterdam has favoured us with a special performance of De Schoone Slaapster (The Sleeping Beauty), by Herman Heyermans. Barring the slight defects of a too great pomposity in style and words, and some forced situations, the play is a work of much beauty of sentiment and a wealth of lofty ideas. Mrs. Van Der Horst and Miss Tilly Lus acted with singular talent and feeling.

"Chantecler" is to be given here in April by the company of the Theatre Porte St. Martin.

In the Shoreditch County Court on Tuesday, before his Honour Judge Bray, Messrs. George Davey and Co., Ltd., of 76, Finsbury-pavement, E.C., theatrical billposters, sued Mr. Ellis E. Brammall and Humphrey E. Brammall, of the Britannia Theatre, Hoxton, N.E., theatrical proprietors, to recover £32 10s., being an account for posting bills for the Christmas pantomime from Dec. 25, 1909, to Jan. 15, 1910. An affidavit had been filed by Ellis Brammall that he was a director of the Amusement Development Syndicate, Ltd., whose registered offices were at the Britannia Theatre. Any orders, if any, had been, and must have been, given on behalf of that syndicate. He also swore that he had discussed the syndicate with Mr. Geo. Davey, and asked him to invest in it, and he had said he would consider the matter if the Christmas pantomime was successful. Mr. Saunderson, barrister, appeared for the plaintiffs, and said that the defence to the action appeared to be that the defendants—father and son—had given the order for the posting on behalf of the syndicate, which he disputed.

Mr. George Davey was then called, and said he was the managing director of the plaintiff company. In November, 1909, he heard the defendants were about to open the Britannia Theatre, and wrote asking for an order for posting. He called a little later on Mr. Humphrey Brammall, who said he should be pleased for him to do the Christmas pantomime posting. A price was arranged, and he later received the billing matter—2,400 double crown posters. Continuing, Mr. Davey said that he was paid a cheque for £10 in January, and that may have been actually drawn by the Syndicate; but, if so, it must have been endorsed by the secretary of the company. Had he known of it, he should not have accepted it, as he did not know of and would never have recognised the Syndicate. Mr. Ellis Brammall went into the box, and said he knew very little about the matter beyond that he heard that Mr. Geo. Davey was going to join the Syndicate. Mr. Davey was considered a tower of strength in the matter, as he had tremendous influence, and was a very rich man. Judge Bray said he could not see that Ellis Brammall could be brought into the affair, but there would be a verdict against Humphrey Brammall for the amount claimed. Judgment was entered accordingly, with costs.

A meeting of the committee of the Touring Managers' Association, Ltd., was held at the Managers' Club, Savoy Mansions, W.C., on March 4. Present:—Mr. M. V. Leveaux (in the chair), Mr. C. Barth, Mr. Lauderdale Maitland, Mr. A. Paumier, Mr. G. Carlton Wallace, Mr. G. Brydon Phillips, Mr. F. Weathersby, Mr. W. Crcke, Mr. F. Leslie Moreton, Mr. Brandon Thomas, Mr. A. Clifton Alderson, Mr. E. Lockwood, Mr. W. Muskerry-Tilson (hon. solicitor), and Mr. Martin (secretary). The following gentlemen were elected members of the Association:—Mr. Dudley Stuart and Mr. Harry Bawn. A letter from the Actors' Association, in reference to bogus managements, was read, and the secretary was requested to say that the matter would require an Act of Parliament to deal with it, and that the committee are taking action on their own behalf.

A letter from the Theatres' Alliance, in reference to stage plays in clubs, was read, and a sub-committee was appointed to co-operate with a sub-committee of the Theatres' Alliance to go into the matter. A letter from the Cinematograph Defence League, in reference to Sunday opening, was read, and a sub-committee was appointed to co-operate with a sub-committee of the other Associations to consider the question.

A meeting of the committee of the Managers' Club was held on March 4. Present:—Mr. M. V. Leveaux (in the chair), Mr. E. Norris, Mr. C. Barth, Mr. L. Maitland, Mr. A. Paumier, Mr. G. C. Wallace, Mr. F. Weathersby, Mr. W. Muskerry-Tilson (hon. solicitor), and Mr. Martin (secretary). The following gentlemen were elected members of the club:—Mr. Edouard José, Mr. Charles C. Carlile, Mr. Francis Serle, Mr. Alfred Reynolds, Mr. F. Yearsley, Mr. Harry Bawn, and Mr. Eyre Massey.

AMERICAN AMUSEMENTS.

NEW YORK, MARCH 2.—The Witch, a drama in four acts, by H. Wiers-Jenssen, adapted for the American stage by Hermann Hagedorn, was produced on the 14th ult. at the New York Theatre. The scenes of the original version were laid in Copenhagen late in the seventeenth century, when the mania of witchcraft persecution was spreading over Northern Europe. Prof. Hermann Hagedorn of Harvard College, who made the translation and adaptation, altered the scenes and characters to fit the hysterical outburst of witchcraft of Salem, Massachusetts, in 1692. Master Absalom Hathorne, an aged minister, is married to Joan, the daughter of a witch, he having concealed the truth about her mother lest it should prevent his marriage to the girl. When the play begins another witch is being hunted by the infuriated people, and Joan hides her in the house. The witch is taken, however, and as they drag her to the gallows she shrieks out the truth about Joan's mother; while the minister sings Psalms so loudly that her words may not be heard. The minister's son returns from a long sea voyage, and Joan discovers that he is the man she has always loved. Having been told that her mother had made a compact with Satan and was able to bring a thing to pass by simply wishing, Joan gradually realises that this strange power may have descended to her. So she wishes her lover by her side in the middle of the night after her husband has retired, and when young Master Gabriel suddenly joins her in the darkened room, she is convinced that she, too, is a witch. Her aged husband has admitted his mistake in marrying her. He has "outlived the fires of youth," he says, and her next wish is that he shall die, which shortly happens, for the shock proves too much for the old man when Joan confesses her adulterous relations with Master Gabriel. Joan, it should be explained, is a Portuguese. A rumpus follows, for Goodwife Abigail Hathorne, the minister's mother, has never liked Joan, and suspects that she is more friendly with the old man's son that she ought to be. She is taken, and in the last act, amid the tolling of bells and the murmuring of an excited crowd, she is accused of killing her husband and leading his son astray by means of witchcraft. Being called upon to clear herself by touching the dead body and denying her guilt, Joan makes the attempt, but breaks down and mumbles a confession as the curtain falls. She is to be hanged on Witches' Hill. Mme Bertha Kalich made her first appearance at the New Theatre in this drama, playing with much success the exacting part of Goodwife Joan Hathorne. Mr. William McVay humorously represented the one cheerful character in the play, one Samuel Noyes, a clerk of the court, in an inebriated condition, and the other rôles were in good hands.

"WHERE THERE'S A WILL," a play in three acts adapted from the French by Maurice Campbell, is the current attraction at Weber's Theatre. In the original French its title was L'Enfant du Miracle. The American version tells how Mrs. Mary Dexter, a young widow, who has been left childless by her recently-deceased husband, must provide an heir within a given period or forfeit an inheritance. Cornelius Skidmore, who has advanced her a large sum of money, advises the executor of the estate that the lady has expectations, and undertakes to get her married to her faithful admirer, William Emery, in order that she may provide the necessary issue before the deception is discovered. Emery, however, has gone away for a year, and is supposed to be somewhere in mid-ocean. And to add to the embarrassment of the enterprising Skidmore, Mr. Potts, of Pottsville, the town that is to benefit by the will if the widow fails to fulfil its conditions, comes to see that everything is as it should be and no cheating. He keeps his eye on the widow, and Skidmore hardly succeeds in getting rid of him long enough to enable the marriage to take place, for Emery, as it happens, has not gone away after all. However, the heir is not required, as another will is found, which gives the fortune to the widow, and Pottsville has to be satisfied with a legacy of a hundred dollars. Other characters that figure in the story are McTavish, a Scotch detective, who is sent after the supposedly absent Emery, and Pauline, a self-styled "Napoleon of fashionable dressmakers." An amusing incident is the return of the entire party from a night at a restaurant, where they have made a vain effort to wear out the irrepressible Potts, and further excuse for laughter is provided by the periodical arrival of wireless telegrams from Emery, who has sent his man abroad with instructions to impersonate him and transmit messages of undying affection to Mrs. Dexter. It is hardly necessary to say that the humour of the piece is somewhat broad, and its success was assured when the newspapers used a stronger adjective in describing it. On placards all over the city it is advertised as "The fastest play in town," and the public is informed that "It's naughty, but it's nice." In New York we have "hot waves" and "cold waves," and "waves of indecency"—according to the parsons. Just now there seems to be a run on the latter.

MRS. FISKE will open her season in New York on Easter Monday at the Lyceum Theatre. During her engagement she will present Iben's Pillars of Society, Hauptmann's Hannele, and The Green Cockatoo, by Arthur Schnitzler.

AMELIA GLOVER, who was famous as a dancer in New York some twenty years ago, being known as the "Little Fawn," died in that city on the 9th ult. of heart failure at the age of thirty-eight.

THREE solid successes at Mr. Charles Frohman's theatres that will remain where they are until the end of the season are The Arcadians at the Liberty Theatre, The Dollar Princess at the Knickerbocker, and The Bachelor's Baby, with Francis Wilson, at the Criterion.

MR. BRANSBY WILLIAMS appeared at the American Music Hall last week, representing familiar characters from the works of Charles Dickens. His portrayals are so realistic and vivid that they never fail to win the appreciation they deserve. Artistic work of this character is rarely seen on the American vaudeville stage.

MR. R. A. ROBERTS revived his Dick Turpin sketch during his recent engagement at the American Music Hall, having presented Cruel Coppinger at the Plaza. His clever work in both pieces was warmly applauded, but Dick Turpin is probably the more popular of the two. Mr. Roberts has certainly no reason to find fault with his reception at either of the Morris houses. To the boys especially he was all that a desperado should be, and they expressed their approval in hearty fashion.

GEORGE HOLLAND, brother of Edmund M. and Joseph Holland, and eldest son of the late George Holland, a famous American comedian of his day, died in Philadelphia on the 17th ult. at the age of sixty-four. He appeared with Laura Keene in 1869, and afterwards fulfilled a London engagement of sixteen weeks with the elder Sothern at the Haymarket Theatre. In 1887 he settled in Philadelphia. After Sothern's death he starred in Lord Dundreary. His most successful characterisation, however, was Sir Peter Teazle. It was through the death of his father and the refusal of a certain minister to officiate at the funeral, at the request of the late Joseph Jefferson, that the Church of the Transfiguration in West Twenty-ninth-street, New York, became known as "The Little Church Around the Corner."

THE WINTER GARDENS, NEW BRIGHTON.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The decision to enlarge the Winter Gardens has given the greatest satisfaction to the New Brighton residents, as their popular place of amusement has for some time past proved too small, and night after night many were turned away disappointed owing to want of accommodation. The great success of the Winter Gardens is due not only to the excellent and refined entertainments provided, but also to the respect and high esteem in which the joint managers, Messrs. Jones and Douglass, are held. Mr. H. E. Jones is a Liverpudlian, a well-known local cricketer, and organizer of concerts and entertainments; whilst Mr. Albert Douglass is a member of one of the oldest theatrical families in the kingdom, and has been closely connected with London playhouses for over thirty years. The want of a high-class theatre in the midst of the residential portion of New Brighton was badly needed, and the Winter Gardens, to seat about 900 persons, with a small but properly-equipped stage, was opened some two and a half years ago. At first success was not forthcoming; but tenacity, hard work, and experience eventually told, and now the best-class residents are to be seen there regularly every week all the year round; in fact, to show the wonderful regularity of the patrons, it would be possible, if needed, to book every reserved seat (some 500) for any Saturday evening without anyone calling or telephoning and yet not half a dozen mistakes would be made.

MR. H. E. JONES.

Surely such a happy state of affairs is unique in the theatrical world. The extensive alterations are now in progress, and an army of men are working night and day to complete by Easter Monday. The floor of the building is being lowered several feet so as to give a better rake, whilst a balcony and four private boxes are being erected to accommodate some 500 extra persons, making the total seating capacity about 1,500.

The stage is being considerably enlarged, the proscenium opening being 29ft. by 21ft., and from wall to wall 58ft., with a depth of 35ft. Flies and grid are being put in, also an iron curtain, and the artists will be specially favoured as regards dressing-rooms and accommodation, the villa adjoining the theatres having been taken in for that purpose. The contractors are Messrs. Henry Johnson and Sons, of Liverpool. A new act-drop and scenery is to be provided by Mr. Thos. Robinson, of Liverpool. Mr. J. Brierly Preston, of Liverpool, is the architect. As Mr. Rigby-Swift, the eminent barrister, remarked when the plans were put before the Licensing Bench, "It is an ideal theatre, in an ideal position, and has been managed in an ideal way."

It is proposed to run the theatre on the same lines as hitherto, and the following engagements have been made for this year:—Grand opera by nearly 100 performers, Mr. Edward Terry and company, Mr. J. Bannister Howard's No. 1 company in The Earl and the Girl, Mr. Auguste Van Biene, The Night of the Party, A Country Mouse,

MR. ALBERT DOUGLASS.

The New Boy, Mrs. Ponderbury's Past, The Passing of the Third Floor Back, The Don, Jane, The Sportsman, &c. High-class vaudeville will form a frequent change. A magnificent programme is being arranged for Easter Monday.

THE Ben Greet Players have been appearing at the Garden Theatre, New York, in The Little Town of Bethlehem, an allegorical play, by Katrina Trask, which deals with the story of the Nativity and several important episodes of the same period, bringing out the racial peculiarities and jealousies of the Jews, Greeks, and Romans. Through it runs the love story of Faustina, a proud maiden of the Roman aristocracy, and Cariston a Greek poet. Her scornful treatment of Joseph and the Virgin is punished by leprosy, and she becomes a wandering outcast for thirty years. Then she hears of the healer of Nazareth, and being cured of the disease, is restored to her lover. Mr. Ben Greet as Cariston and Miss Keith Wakeman as Faustina were supported by a capable company, and the performance proved highly interesting. After a brief interval Mr. Greet began a series of "plays worth while," these including several of the old English comedies and the favourite plays of his Shakespearean répertoire. It is announced that plans are now being made by several wealthy men to enable Mr. Greet and his company to remain at the Garden Theatre for a season of forty weeks, and to guarantee the company against financial loss. Mr. Andrew Carnegie is said to be interested in the plan. The current attraction is Macbeth. On Monday night two hundred school teachers witnessed the performance as guests of Mr. Carnegie.

PROFIT SHARING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—May I suggest the founding among actors and actresses of a "Profit-sharing Society"? At the present time the production of plays is centred more or less in those "in the profession." It is exceedingly difficult to induce anyone outside theatrical circles to embark in an investment dealing with the stage, and the very mention of a "theatrical speculation" is enough to frighten any average business man. This being so, engagements become restricted, and unemployment results.

I propose to establish, therefore, a "Profit-sharing Society," to which experienced actors and actresses would be admitted at a nominal subscription of, say, 5s. per annum. The society would appoint certain expert officials to read inexpensive plays (comedies and farcical comedies) submitted to them, and when a play is approved certain members of the society would be selected to fill the various parts, and each actor and actress chosen given a copy of the play to read for his or her approval.

When the artists had accepted the parts allotted to them, the society would arrange with the owner or lessee of an available London theatre to produce the play on "sharing terms," and the entire weekly receipts due to the society would be divided pro rata between the members of the company according to the amounts of their respective salaries, the author not receiving any fee until each artist had received his or her salary in full. After payment of salaries the amount received by the society would be divisible as follows: One-third to the society, and two-thirds to the author.

I think such a society would be a valuable cure for "unemployment." It would be better for actors and actresses to play on this sharing principle than to remain idle, and lessees and owners of theatres would always be able to fall back upon the society and so prevent their theatres remaining empty at any time of the year. To-day there are several theatres looking for tenants, whilst a large amount of clever talent is idle. Why not amalgamate the two, and thus benefit all concerned?

Look at the question from the unknown author's standpoint. He wants to extend the market for his goods, to see what the public think of his handiwork, but owing to the difficulty of obtaining financial support among his friends he is powerless. He may have written a play which would draw all London, but as he cannot find the necessary capital he receives no encouragement, and his play is doomed to oblivion. He would willingly have his play produced on the profit-sharing system if a society existed on the lines I propose.

Let me give my own experience. I am part author of a farcical comedy, and some few years ago I submitted it to a well-known London actor. "Oh," he said, "it reads well enough, but you must test it. Find a bit of capital, and then, if it plays well, you will know there is money in it." I put up at once £100, took a theatre for a week in the South of England, and engaged a good company. What was the result? The play was an instantaneous success. Even the Daily Telegraph said, "After this enthusiasm London seems inevitable." After this test my actor friend said, "You ought not to let it drop. Why not test it further in the big provincial towns and see if its success is maintained." I did so. We played in Liverpool, Manchester, Dublin, Cambridge, Brighton, Belfast, and Blackpool, and at each place without exception it was a pronounced success, and the papers were unanimous in their approval.

Now what am I to do with it? I want to produce it in London, but I cannot finance a London production, and I do not care to bury it any longer in a dusty pigeon-hole. If there existed a society which produced plays in London on the profit-sharing system, it would give actors and actresses an extended field for their talents, and many good plays would have some chance of seeing "daylight" before a London public.—Yours faithfully, CHARLES SELGRA.

WORKING STAFF SUPPER.

The annual supper of the working staff of the Prince's Theatre, Bristol, was held on Monday night at the King David Hotel, St. Michael's-hill. Mr. J. M. Chute presided, and was supported by Mr. F. S. Green (acting-manager), Mr. George R. Chapman (musical director), Mr. George Jackson (scenic artist), Mr. Henry Turner (stage-manager), Mr. F. Irwin, Mr. F. G. Tricks, and several of the leading members of the pantomime company, including Mr. Horace Mills, Mr. George Barrett, Mr. G. H. Elliott, Mr. Fred. Conquest, Mr. C. Harvey, Mr. P. Armstrong, Mr. Ernest G. Hay, Mr. Robert Jack, and others. After supper, which was well served, the chairman, on rising, was the recipient, in the form of unrestricted enthusiasm, of unmistakable evidence of his appreciation by the members of his staff. In loyal terms he submitted "The King," which was duly honoured by the company. Mr. H. Wilson then gave the toast of "The Manager," in doing which he paid a graceful tribute to the great respect in which Mr. J. M. Chute was held by all who were connected with the Prince's Theatre. The chairman suitably acknowledged the compliment and the very cordial manner in which the toast was received, and afterwards submitted "The Staff," specially mentioning, in doing so, the services of Mr. H. Wilson, Mr. H. Momber, Mr. A. Bawn, and Miss Shapcott. The toast having in due course been responded to, the chairman proposed "The Resident Officers," and referred in appreciative and eulogistic terms to the valuable co-operation he always received, in their respective departments, from Mr. F. S. Green (acting-manager), Mr. George Chapman (musical director), Mr. George Jackson (scenic artist), and Mr. Henry Turner (stage-manager). These gentlemen each responded in brief and felicitous language. In giving "The Company," Mr. H. Turner, in a witty and clever speech, referred individually to the leading members, emphasising their personal characteristics. Mr. Horace Mills replied for the gentlemen, and Mr. George Barrett spoke on behalf of the ladies, the remarks of the responders being received with applause. The chairman gave "The Health of Mr. P. Armstrong" (electrical ballet master), which that gentleman acknowledged, and in his remarks he paid a tribute to the excellence and effectiveness of the pantomime. He had, he observed, seen most of the more important spectacles in America, but the Prince's pantomime was one of the grandest he had seen. Mr. F. S. Green followed with "The Visitors," to which Mr. Fred Irwin, replying, commented upon the good relationship that always existed between Mr. Chute and his staff. The toasts were agreeably interspersed with songs, &c., all of which were well rendered and heartily enjoyed. Mr. G. H. Elliott (the popular chocolate) gave a couple of his coon songs in his best style. Mr. George Barrett contributed "a reminiscence," and others who assisted to enhance the pleasure of the company were Mr. Wood, Mr. Savage, Mr. J. Dicker, Mr. C. Harvey, Mr. E. G. Hay, Mr. Kirby, Mr. C. Clark, Mr. C. Evans, Mr. F. Hand, and others. Mr. W. R. Nicholas was an efficient accompanist.

PRESENTATION.—At the Opera House, Wakefield, on Friday, the 4th inst., Miss Vesta Brownie, on behalf of the members of the Lucky Liza company and Messrs. David Allen and Sons, printers, presented Mr. Dickie Claire with a pair of silver-backed hair brushes and a silver cigar-case in commemoration of the thousandth performance of Mr. Claire's successful musical comedy Lucky Liza, in which he takes several leading parts. Mr. Claire afterwards entertained the company to supper.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

MISS NANCY BLACKWOOD.

Miss Nancy Blackwood began her professional career in Mr. Allan Wilkie's Shakespearean company. Being the fortunate possessor of a beautiful soprano voice, she had always intended to become a singer, and gained much experience in oratorio and opera. Miss Blackwood had an offer of a part in opera, which she accepted, and looked forward with joy to the speedy commencement of her life as a singer. Fate, however, willed otherwise—a severe attack of rheumatic fever made it impossible for her to accept the engagement, and her hopes were dashed to the ground.

After recovering from her illness, Miss Blackwood's plans underwent a change. Her singing voice being for a time weakened, she decided to take up Shakespearean work, and obtained her first engagement in Mr. Wilkie's company, where she played small parts. Her next appointment was with Mr. Ian Maclaren, in Claudian, as the soloist, and afterwards she appeared in Mr. Maclaren's Proof as the Duchess D'Aubeterre. At Christmas, 1908, Miss Blackwood played Sam Willoughby, with Mr. Louis Carpe, for a special week in Dundee, and followed it by playing the lead in a sketch, entitled That Major, for a week at Perth, achieving success in both characters. The following January Mr. Durward Lely engaged her to play Stephanie in A Royal Divorce, with which she remained until March, when she joined Mr. Edmund Tearle's company.

Miss Blackwood has given proof of her versatility by the variety of characters she assumed in Mr. Tearle's company, playing leads in sketches, and rôles as widely different as the 1st Witch in Macbeth, Prince Edward in Richard III., and Miss Cornelia Carlyle in East Lynne. Miss Blackwood's favourite parts are Madge Wildfire in Jeannie Deans and Lucius in Julius Cæsar.

MR. OSCAR POWER.

Mr. Oscar Power commenced his theatrical career at the age of sixteen, under the management of the late Mr. T. B. Appleby, in stock business, at the Theatre Royal, South Shields. At the conclusion of the season he toured with Mr. Appleby's Woman Against Woman company, returning to South Shields at the Christmas for pantomime. In all he had about twelve engagements with the late Mr. Appleby, playing in everything from the legitimate drama to pantomime. Mr. Power then toured for a year with the late Mr. Fred Cooke, playing character business in The Diver's Luck, then in its zenith. Next came an engagement with Mr. W. H. Hallatt to play in The Dangers of London. At the conclusion of that tour Mr. Power went to the Avenue Theatre, Sunderland, for stock, and took part in an elaborate production of Coriolanus with the late Mr. Osmond Tearle in the cast. At the conclusion of the season came another tour with The Dangers of London, followed by a solid tour of two years with the old pieces Driven from Home and Follies of the Day, playing Anthony Raybrook in the former and Guy Livingstone in the latter. After a considerable lapse of time Mr. Power again joined Mr. W. H. Hallatt, and here started a happy and never-to-be-forgotten engagement of four years, playing Jack Jolly in Two Little Sailor Boys and John Gregory in The Temptress.

At the conclusion of four years Mr. Power joined Mr. Mark Blow for a tour with At Cripple Creek. Next came a stock season at the Metropole Theatre, Devonport, playing Peter Crawley (It's Never too Late to Mend), Lincoln Green (Current Cash), Ebenezer Skindle (Tommy Atkins), &c. Then came a final tour, playing Jack Jolly in Two Little Sailor Boys. At the conclusion of this Mr. Power joined Messrs. Paumier and Howard for a tour of The Midnight Wedding, playing Sergeant Max, followed by a year's engagement with Mr. C. Watson Mill, playing Mike, the Irish comedy part, in A Warning to Women. At the termination of that tour, Mr. Power, after a short holiday, again joined Mr. C. Watson Mill, to portray Carl Oppenheim, the German comedy rôle, in For Love and the King.

BRITISH EMPIRE SHAKESPEARE.

The fame of the British Empire Shakespeare Society is associated with many pleasant afternoons, but few can have proved so attractive as that of Tuesday last, when the stage of the St. James's Theatre was graced by the presence of foremost actors and actresses assembled to interpret one of the poet's finest works. Romeo and Juliet was the piece chosen, and the cast included Miss Evelyn D'Alroy (the charming fiancée of the O'Flynn), Mr. Arthur Bourchier, and Mr. Lewis Waller, while Mr. George Alexander provided a most entertaining "curtain raiser."

Mr. Alexander received an affectionate greeting. "Ladies and gentlemen," he said, "I have much pleasure in welcoming the members of the British Empire Shakespeare Society, and the delegates from the various branches. There is a good deal of talk nowadays about the memory of Shakespeare, and much is being done, but I do not think any efforts now being made can dim those made by the British Empire Shakespeare Society. It is, as it were, a kind of shaking hands between the profession and the student, both behind and before the curtain, and I think that that in itself is a charming episode. Of course, we are not quite as good or as bad as we are painted to the public, and, therefore, I think, in the little interchange of courtesies which are thus brought about this society does much good to the stage, and glorifies the memory of our great predecessor actor-dramatist, William Shakespeare. (Cheers.) It is a very great honour to me to see so many of my old friends on the St. James's stage, and to know that to-day Shakespeare captures another adherent, the Juliet of this afternoon having never yet spoken on the stage a word of Shakespeare. We hope Juliet will be beginning a long career in that direction. My old friend, Arthur Bourchier, who is the Mercutio, was a former manager of this theatre, and did me a very good turn, because he and I competed for it, and I had to pay another hundred a year (laughter), but I entirely forgive him for that. Then there is my old friend, Mrs. Brooke (cheers), and my friend and comrade Lewis Waller. I am very envious of Waller to-day: I should like to have played Romeo myself. But I am determined not to be out of it, so shall begin by speaking the words of the prologue." Mr. Alexander then read the verses which introduce the play with all the grace and fluency which have always distinguished him.

A more perfect reading of Shakespeare's great love tragedy, it is safe to say, has never been given than that of Monday. Miss Evelyn D'Alroy worthily justified her selection for the rôle of Juliet, whose lines she rendered with a wealth of feeling and tenderness that made their beauties doubly effective. The balcony scene speech was delivered with melodious effect, and in the potion scene Miss D'Alroy rose to magnificent heights, and, without over-testing her physical powers, thrilled the audience irresistibly. Mr. Lewis Waller was as of yore a virile and romantic Romeo, and his elocutionary skill was apparent in every speech. Mr. Arthur Bourchier entered thoroughly into the spirit of Mercutio, whom he made a real comedian. Bursts of laughter accompanied his various utterances, all delivered with artistically varied expression, jovial, jocular, and whimsical as occasion warranted, but always effective. Mr. Bourchier's Mercutio is clearly to be numbered among his triumphs. Little less effective was the Nurse of Mrs. E. H. Brooke, a veteran actress who has contributed many brilliant impersonations to the stage. She gave the quaintest expression to the Nurse's speeches, which gained much by the fact that the actress had them almost wholly committed to memory. Mr. A. E. George delivered the lines of Friar Lawrence with duly measured emphasis, and the deep tones of Mr. J. Fisher White sounded quite musical in the dialogue of Capulet. Mr. Edward Rigby's droll methods were irresistible as Peter; Mr. Arthur Wontner was a spirited Tybalt; Mr. Athol Stewart a finished exponent of Benvolio; and Mr. Halliwell Hobbes an admirably distinct and dignified Escalus. Mr. Tom Heslewood was cleverly characteristic as the Apothecary; and Mr. Godfrey Tearle was a courtly Paris. Lady Capulet had a refined exponent in Miss Adeline Bourne; Miss Mary Webb was excellent as Lady Montague; and Miss Dora Jesslyn spoke gracefully the lines allotted to the Page to Paris. Good work was also done by Mr. J. Henry Twyford as Montague, by Mr. Leonard Calvert as Abraham, by Mr. Pelham as Balthasar, by Mr. Walter Armstrong as a Watchman, by Mr. Herbert Alexander as Sampson, and by Mr. E. Ross Shore as Gregory. Mr. Acton Bond, by whom the play was arranged and rehearsed, contented himself with reading the stage directions.

At the close of the performance Mr. Arthur Bourchier, still maintaining the Mercutio humour, came forward and said, "Ladies and gentlemen, Romeo and Juliet (laughter)—the very best Romeo and Juliet I have ever had the pleasure of seeing. On me has fallen the most onerous task—next to being killed early in the play—of proposing a hearty vote of thanks to our host of to-day. I feel sure that among all Mr. Alexander's records almost the brightest spot will be the way he has encouraged Shakespearean art by lending the British Empire Shakespeare Society this charming theatre. In years to come, when the Samuel Pepys of the period writes the history of the drama and of the latest playhouse—which possibly may, or may not, be somewhere near Houndsditch, which he will say was erected by Bernard Shaw as a national theatre in memory of Shakespeare—this historian will continue, 'These plans were frustrated because good King Redmond willed that this building should be used as a kind of Bastille, in which to imprison various actor-managers who had happened to make money out of art.' (Laughter.) The poet and the painter are allowed to make money out of art, but as soon as the actor-manager tries to make a living out of it, he is abused. The historian will continue, 'There was one man whom the good King pardoned, and that was Mr. George Alexander, because he lent his theatre to the British Empire Shakespeare Society.'" (Laughter.)

Mr. Acton Bond, in seconding, said he could not express how much the British Empire Shakespeare Society owed to the actor-managers. That day they had heard the matchless words of Romeo and Juliet, and it was a joy to them to be able to introduce to the public for the first time what he would call, without any desire to be excessive in praise, an exquisitely beautiful Juliet. He hoped it would not be many months before they would have the privilege of seeing Miss D'Alroy as Juliet in a regular production.

The American Era.

"THIS," says the Morning Leader, "is said to be the era of American dramatists. Attention, in a contemporary, is directed to the fact that last year, at the thirty-four theatres in New York, seventy-four new plays were produced; and of these fifty-six were by native and only eighteen by foreign authors. England comes under the condemnation of this critic because eight or ten of the recent productions in London—including The Private Secretary, Peter Pan, and Charley's Aunt—are old plays; while the remainder are 'weather-vanes to catch the transient breezes of popular favour'—whatever that may mean.

"ON the other hand, we are shown, in a list of American successes, how America supplies the English stage with a good proportion of its plays. These include The Chorus Lady, The Great Divide, Leah Kleshna, Ben Hur, Brewster's Millions, The Climax, The College Widow, Paid in Full, The Prince Chap, The Squaw Man, Strongheart, and The Third Degree. Some of these, however, can hardly be called successes.

LONDON AND SUBURBAN THEATRES.

KING'S THEATRE, HAMMERSMITH.
On Monday, March 7, the Farce, entitled
"BREWSTER'S MILLIONS."

On Brewster's first visit to the King's on Monday evening the crowded house followed the play with evident enjoyment, hearty laughter continuing during the whole performance. Mr. Percy Hutchison's company—the actual one appearing at Wyndham's Theatre during last summer—is of course up to the requirements of smart and energetic acting, and is answerable for much of the success attained. Undoubtedly the part of Monty Brewster fits Mr. Percy Hutchison like the proverbial glove. His success is well-merited, and the calls he receives are unquestionably deserved. Mr. Gordon Ash is a pleasant Charlie Harrison, and Archie Golding finds a very capable representative in Mr. Henry Hampson. Mr. Aubrey Mather is a stolid Joseph McLeod; Mr. Otho Hazlewood plays with skill as Frank Bragdon; Mr. Eric Searle is good as Horace Petthinghill; Mr. H. Douglas Greet makes an amusing Tommy Smith; Jack Gardner is well acted by Mr. U. F. Plinge; Captain Perry is capitally rendered by Mr. George Salver; Mr. Robert Forsyth is strictly correct as the solicitor, Mr. Grant; Mr. Drew is ably impersonated by Mr. A. Andrews; the butler, Rawles, is excellently and humorously represented by Mr. Frank Hill; and Mr. A. P. Kaye gives a finished performance of Monsieur Bargie. Miss Cicely Stuckey makes a most charming Margaret Grey, pleasing everyone by her fresh and natural acting; Mrs. Dan de Mille is gracefully played by Miss Lilias Earle, looking admirable in very pretty costumes; Miss Pauline Straus is a sufficiently independent Janice Armstrong; Barbara Drew is vivaciously played by Miss Dorothy Whitaker; and Miss May Seton's Trixie Clayton is cleverly sustained. The scenery is first-class, and the great yacht set, with its wonderful effects, caused quite a furore.

The one-act play, by Eille Norwood, entitled Chalk and Cheese is also given, in which Mr. A. P. Kaye, Miss Pauline Straus, and Miss May Seton satisfactorily assert themselves.

THE MARLBOROUGH.
On Monday, March 7, the Play, entitled
"MISS HOOK OF HOLLAND."

The bright and merry play Miss Hook of Holland is on a return visit, and a most entertaining evening's amusement it supplies. Miss Marie Studholme, a great favourite at this theatre, appears in the title rôle, and gives an excellent account of herself. She has several numbers, which she sings in a finished manner, and gains great applause. Mr. Frank H. Crimp, with his fine presence and good voice, wins distinction in the rôle of Bandmaster Van Vuyt. Miss Maud Denney is one of the bright particular stars of the production, scoring with her two numbers, "The Flying Dutchman" and "The little pink petty"; she is also a very agile and graceful dancer. In Mr. Alfred Wellesley we have a comedian of great resource, and as Mr. Hock of Holland he is simply irresistible. Mr. Fred Lyne adds materially to the gaiety of the play by his clever impersonation of Simon Slinks. He excites the risibility of his audience to the fullest extent, and his efforts meet with well-merited applause. Mr. Frederick Hobbs delineates Captain Paap in a conscientious fashion, and deserves every commendation. Mr. Charles Ross is also to be congratulated on his impersonation of Ludwig Schnapps, and Mr. Lacy E. Mills is good as Lieut. de Coop. Miss Lilian Constance does well as Gretchen, and the remaining parts are in safe hands. Mounting and staging are all that could be desired. The chorus and orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Clement Locknane, deserve the warmest commendation. Mr. Kay Draco is the manager for Mr. Geo. Dance, and, in conjunction with Mr. J. Murray Herriot, looks well after the comfort of those in front.

THE CORONET.
On Monday, March 7, the Play, entitled
"THE FLAG LIEUTENANT."

Messrs. Lyn Harding and Sidney Cooper's clever company is appearing in Major Drury and Leo Trevor's great naval play at the Coronet Theatre this week, to the intense appreciation of the audience. The naval and military atmosphere of the piece is artistically conveyed across the footlights, and the tense excitement of warfare is aptly suggested. As the hero, Richard Lascelles, Mr. Edgar Kent acts with breezy bonhomie, tinged with pathos towards the end of the play, and very alert and active is he as the daring and dashing young officer with such a wonderful power of unselfish devotion. Mr. Montague Love, who undertakes the duties of stage management, has a less showy part to play as that luckless "Major Dobbin" of the Marines Major Thesiger, who, in very truth, has his "greatness thrust upon him." Miss Florence Jackson is delightful as the witty and resourceful Mrs. Cameron, the merry widow of the piece, and Miss Dorothy Ripley is very charming and lovable as the high-souled Lady Hermione Wynne. Mr. George Mallett (the general-manager for the company) presents a very agreeable portraiture of the broad-minded Vice-Admiral the Hon. Sir Berkeley Wynne, K.C.B.; Mr. George Percy is good as Walter Crutchley, surgeon in the Royal Navy; Mr. Hugh Wakefield is vastly amusing as the irresponsible Horatio Hood, midshipman; and Mr. Olaf Hytten also contributes to the fun as Edward Dormer-Lee. Miss Winifred Vallant as Viola Hood, Miss Stella Leigh as the arch scandalmonger Mrs. Gough-Bogle, Mr. Lionel Isted as her coadjutor General Gough-Bogle, and various other minor rôles, e.g., Mr. James Holdsworth as Quartermaster Charles Penny, Mr. Victor Moore as a sergeant of Marines, Mr. Gordon Hamilton as a private of Marines, and Mr. John Bilton, A.B.S., are all efficiently rendered. Mr. Richard Collet is acting manager for the company.

CRYSTAL PALACE THEATRE.
On Monday, March 7, the Farce entitled
"WHEN KNIGHTS WERE BOLD."

It was a foregone conclusion that Mr. James Welch's company would meet with a huge success here, for the play was most carefully cast, the scenery their own, and the incidental music and costumes the same as in the original production. Mr. H. Langdon Bruce did not spare himself as Sir Guy de Vere, and the laughter was loud and long when he was on hand. His comicalities, too, seemed quite unstudied and spontaneous. Mr. Charles Lloyd as Isaac Isaacson was most natural, his representation of the Hebrew being so quietly assumed that it was truly art concealing art; neither did he err in the direction of excessive make-up. The Hon. Charles Widdicombe of Mr. H. Winton was a good conception of an empty-headed aristocrat, and in the second act he showed that he could sing and dance. Mr. Colin Johnston as the Rev. Peter Pottlebury was a very unctuous prelate with a rich and sonorous delivery, and caused much amusement. Mr. Gerald Venning as Sir Bryan Ballymote was a handsome lover, and as a knight in complete armour he made an impressive figure. Miss Isla Glynne as Sarah Isaacson, the Jewish girl, acted naturally, and quite looked the comely Hebrew maiden of any century, and Mr. Lionel Brocknor as Wittle was an ideal servant of the upper classes. Mr. H. R. Hollway as Barker was consistently comic. Miss Elspeth Oliphant as the frivolous Lady Millicent made an excelent romp, and Miss Marjorie Carton as Lady Marjorie was excellent. Miss Peggy Bremba was a delightfully hoydenish Kate Pottlebury, and Miss Ethel St. John made a good-looking serving maid of Alice Barker. Miss Adelaide Grace as the Hon. Mrs. Waldegrave acted with careful restraint and admirable facial expression. The Lady Rowena of Miss Ernita Lascelles was quite a feature of the production, her excellent enunciation and serious conception of the part being in effective contrast to the comedy manner of most of the other characters. The bright little play of Millie's Mother raised the curtain at each production and caused much amusement. The parts were sustained by Mr. H. Winton, Miss Elspeth Oliphant, Miss Adelaide Grace and Mr. E. R. Hollway.

BRIXTON THEATRE.

The enterprising management of this theatre have provided music-lovers this week with a feast of good things, Mr. J. W. Turner's opera company proving a great attraction. The opening work was the ever-popular Maritana, which drew a large and appreciative audience on Monday evening. Mr. J. W. Turner as Don César de Bazan obtained a flattering reception. He is as great a favourite as ever with Brixton playgoers. Time seems to lay a light hand on Mr. Turner, and his acting and singing makes one wonder whether he has solved the secret of perpetual youth. As the nonchalant, pleasure-loving Don he was particularly good, his rendering of "Yes, let me like a soldier fall," receiving a richly-deserved encore. Mr. Tom Griffiths made a capital Don José, his rich baritone voice being heard to good effect in "In happy moments," "So my courage now regaining," and in the duet "Of fairy wand" with Maritana. Mr. Harry Reynolds as King Charles II. of Spain sang well throughout, giving a fine rendering of "Hear me, gentle Maritana." Mr. Reynolds makes an ideal King, his splendid physique giving the character added effect. Mr. P. Newton as the Marquis de Montefiore was quaint and amusing, Miss Grace Parish as the Marchioness looked very well, and, together, they made a charming old-world couple. Miss Jessie Dennis as Lazarillo was a favourite. She has a sweet, sympathetic voice, and merited the appreciation which the audience showed of her singing of "Alas, those chimes." As Maritana Miss Sarah Williams sustained a trying part with conspicuous success. Her vivacity as the Gitana, and her composed and natural grace as the wife of Don César being recognised by the audience. She has a particularly fine voice, and gave capital interpretations of "The harp in the air" and "Scenes that are brightest," encores being showered upon her. A word of praise to the orchestra and the harpist should be added, the accompaniments being both tastefully and sympathetically rendered. On Tuesday The Bohemian Girl was given; on Wednesday, Il Trovatore; and on Thursday, Carmen.

DALSTON THEATRE.
On Monday, March 7, the Musical Pantomimical Comedy, entitled
"THE SWISS EXPRESS."

Messrs. C. and F. Renad's company is at the Dalston Theatre this week with the musical pantomimical comedy The Swiss Express, which has gained the reputation of being "the great cosmopolitan success." Considering the fact that it has been played over 2,000 times, it is surprising how the piece maintains its attractive powers. The hearty reception once more accorded by Dalston audiences proves the strong hold it has upon North London audiences after its several repetitions. Mr. Charles and Mr. Frederick Renad still sustain their reputation as comedians by their thoroughly humorous playing of the parts of James and John, the eccentric servants of Dr. Gondimar Gull, a character remarkably well presented by Mr. Wilfred Bailey, who quite realises the quaint possibilities of the quack, who, at the period of the story, is on his honeymoon. Mr. Victor T. Raymond is decidedly humorous as Dudely Green, whose continued wild rush on the track of the quack is positively exhilarating in its persistency. Another good character is Jack Gadabout, a tourist, well played by Mr. Harwood Cooper. Bob Rollingstone, a young fellow always in love, has a pleasant exponent in Mr. James Hawkes. Rhino, a typical continental landlord, is played with quaint humour by Mr. George Power. The two Alpine gendarmes—Major Bombshell (Mr. W. Rigby) and Sergeant Longleggi (Mr. Cecil Barrett)—are responsible for a great deal of merriment; and Mr. Frederick Strachan as a Custom House officer and Mr. G. Williams as a café waiter also add to the success. Mr. Charles Leoville appears as a surgeon, but his duties are not of a terrible nature, verging upon the region of the comic rather than the fearful. Miss Madeline Lang as Virginia Squeeze, the bride, represents that blushing individual to the life, while Miss Irene Murray is decidedly pleasing as Mignonette, and Miss May Lucy, Miss Florrie Corri, and Miss Irene Murray as maids at the Black Bear inn complete the female cast. The complicated scenery is well managed under the stage direction of Mr. Fred Strachan, while the musical accompaniment is admirably supplied by the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. H. E. J. Nation.

THE SHAKESPEARE.
On Monday, March 7, the Play, in Five Acts, entitled
"A ROYAL DIVORCE."

Mr. H. G. Dudley Bennett's engagement of Mr. W. W. Kelly's company this week at the Shakespeare Theatre is proving very successful. Since A Royal Divorce was originally produced at the Olympic, the last act has been entirely rewritten by Mr. George Gervaise Collingham, but, with this exception, the play is as first produced. Miss Violet Ellicott gives a powerful portrayal of Josephine, and acts throughout with great feeling. Napoleon has an excellent representative in Mr. Keith Fraser, who realistically conveys the restless personality of the Man of Destiny, both by speech and gesture. Talleyrand is neatly depicted by Mr. J. H. Roberts, who acquits himself creditably. Mr. Charles Stirling contributes a dashing rendering of the Marquis de Beaumont; and Mr. Edwin J. Collins makes an amusing Augereau. Mr. George Hudson is a comical Grimaud; Miss Winnie Tempest is well suited to the part of Marie Louise; Miss Dorothy Garth is a charming and vivacious Stéphanie; and Miss Florence Cudlipp as Blanche, Miss Julia Wren as Angélique, Miss Dorothy Hudson as the King of Rome and Miss Loyale Frere as the Gouvernante also render good service.

THE BRITANNIA.
On Monday, March 7, the Drama, entitled
"THE CHRISTIAN."

The dramatic season was successfully inaugurated on Monday, when Mr. Wentworth Croke's company presented the Lyceum Theatre version of The Christian, by Hall Caine. Much has been written of late concerning the decay of the drama, but, judging by the manner in which this well-known play was received at the Britannia, we are inclined to believe that Hoxton folk still retain much of their old love for good melodrama. There were many points of dramatic interest in the part of the Hon. John Storm, which was played by Mr. Henry Wolston in powerful style, Mr. Fred Morgan acted with vigour as the unscrupulous Lord Robert Ure, and Mr. Wilfred Noy was much applauded for his portrayal of Horatio Drake. Miss Gladys Purnell as Glory Quayle proved herself to be a fine all-round actress, her pathetic scenes being particularly good and gaining much applause. Mr. Thomas Barry was very convincing as Father Lamplugh, and the part of the hypocritical Archdeacon Wealthy was admirably sustained by Mr. Charles E. Dering, Mr. Royce Milton was excellent as Lord Storm, and Mr. Arthur E. Maskell invested Parson Quayle with the necessary forbearance. Mr. W. S. Carter as Bert was good, as were also Mr. Barnard Wilson as Rosenberg, Mr. Louis R. Fergusson as Mr. Buckley, Mr. Edgar Hart as Paul, Mr. W. Welch as Cowley, and Messrs. Edwin Ross and Mr. Frank Hayes as Badnitt and an attendant at the Frivolity Theatre respectively. The wayward and capricious Betty Belmont was well played by Miss Millicent Patrick, and as Letty Belmont, Miss Lydia Bland displayed the required abandon. Mrs. Callender was very well represented by Miss Mollie Hayden, and as Black Meg, Miss Lizette Cardozo proved her possession of a striking personality. Miss Gladys Vernon as Polly Love did well, as did also Miss Gertrude Maxwell as Lady Robert Ure, Miss Alice Leigh as Jennie, Miss Harriet Russell as Mother Kent, Miss Nellie Wyndham as Rosa Ray, and Miss Florence Harland as Liza. The play was well mounted, the grounds of Lord Storm's house with the sea stretching away to the horizon as a background, being particularly effective. Mr. Barry on this occasion acted as stage manager.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.
On Monday, March 7, the Romantic Play, by Justin Huntly McCarthy, entitled
"THE PROUD PRINCE."

The Proud Prince has been presented at Kennington Theatre this week. As King Robert of Sicily that talented and versatile actor Mr. E. Vassall Vaughan makes a tremendous hit; Miss Eileen Kerin is a sweet and girlish figure as Perpetua, enacting the part with a freshness and charm that win all hearts; Mr. Frederick Sargent is the unscrupulous and ambitious Count Hildebrand to the life; as Diogenes Mr. Frank Ward is very effective; Mr. Cowley Wright is quite ecstatic as the Archangel; and Mr. Terence O'Brien is a sturdy Thereon. Mr. Ernest Stidwell is happily placed as the priest, a character which he interprets in sympathetic fashion; while the fine stage presence of Mr. R. Ellis is shown to advantage as Sigurd. The difficult and unpleasing rôle of Lysabetta, Queen of the Courtesans, is admirably delineated by Miss Vashti Wynne, an actress of undoubted merit. Her favourites are successfully impersonated by Miss Esther Whitehouse, Miss Lilian Dacroy, and Miss Nora Jones, while Miss Ethel Miller, Miss Georgina Mill, and Miss Doris Reynolds are a bright trio of Court ladies. Mr. Charles Boult is a stately Archbishop, and Mr. Arthur Wilson and Mr. McClellan make quite picturesque Moorish slaves.

THE BROADWAY, NEW CROSS.
On Monday, March 7, the Play, entitled
"THE FATAL WEDDING."

Excellently acted throughout by Mr. Percy Williams' capable company, the above play is again greatly enjoyed. Miss Marie Wilson is a charmingly natural Little Mother, and her singing of "Way down in Colon Town" is excellent. Other clever juvenile contributions are "Yankee Doodle," by Lily Wohlmann and chorus; "To the end of the world with you," sung by little Edith Dews; a Scotch reel, danced by Gladys Kelly; "Pride of the prairie," rendered by the Sisters Wohlmann; "Lena Schmidt," by Sarah Rich; "Bunny," by Margot Domican; and "When you know you're not forgotten," by Rosie Sanders. Tom Grice, the youngest champion Lancashire clog dancer, gives a taste of his quality; and Dorothy Pain, soprano, adds to the attractiveness of the children scene. Miss Ethel Kay is a prepossessing and sympathetic Mabel Wilson; Miss Leah Marlborough a handsome and convincing Cora Wilson; and Miss Blanche Huber a richly humorous Bridget. Toto is capitally played by Mr. Harry M. Vernon, as is Peter Schwartz by Mr. Watson Hume. Mr. Frank Ashley is good as Constable O'Reilly; Mr. J. Newton makes an acceptable Rev. Dr. Lanceford; Mr. Edward Lloyd is capital as Howard Wilson; and Mr. Cyril Melton scores a distinct success as Richard Curtis.

THEATRE ROYAL, WOOLWICH.
On Monday, March, 7, the Drama, entitled
"THE GIRL WHO WENT ASTRAY."

A praiseworthy interpretation is given of the drama The Girl Who Went Astray by the members of Mr. Bulmer's company, who are not slow in taking advantage of the many opportunities which are placed in their way by the authors, Mr. William Hibbert and Mr. Fred Bulmer, whose joint efforts supply a play of sensational and attractive features. Abundant comedy relief is also provided and judiciously sustained, and meets with full approval. Madge Harvey, the girl who went astray, is ably undertaken by Miss Chrissie Dunbar, who supplies a dramatic delineation of this unsympathetic character. Possessing a good presence, she maintains a strong hold of the audience, who amply reward her for her successful endeavours. Miss Lalla Stanhope supplies a pathetic study of Violet Harvey; she handles her rôle in a quiet and natural manner, and gains applause for an efficient rendering. Miss Sybil Houghton does well as Eleanor Merton, a woman with a past, while Miss Mary Dalby makes a lively Molly Smart. The part of Captain Frank Julien is boldly depicted by Mr Louis Lingard, his lines being effectively delivered. Mr. Austin Mortimer does justice to his rôle of Rupert Murdock, whose rascally nature is skilfully indicated. Adolphus Boomer is made a most popular individual in the hands of Mr. Evan Roland, who proves himself very diverting. Mr. Reg Olroyd as James Yellowsocks also supplies a large amount of comic relief, and is the source of much merriment. Mr. R. Ashton contributes a successful portrait of Dr. George Wilson. Mr. Ernest Dare makes the most of his opportunities as Sergt. John Harvey, V.C.; the same may be said of Mr. T. Carter as General Sir Hugh Finnigan, and Mr. J. H. Lee is amusing as Gussie Seymour.

ROYAL ARTILLERY THEATRE, WOOLWICH.
On Monday, March 7, the Pantomime, entitled
"CINDERELLA."

A return to pantomime has been made here for the current week. Cinderella runs on the usual lines, but opportunity is taken for the introduction of all the latest songs, the choruses of which "Tommy" in the gallery readily and lustily joins. The pantomime, which is produced by Mr. George Elmer, is adequately mounted and dressed. In the title-rôle, Miss Freda Clare soon becomes popular, and is the recipient of many favours. She is heard to advantage in the songs "Dreamland" and "Rainbow." Miss Nellie May makes a dashing Prince Charming; she is lively and vivacious, and puts plenty of "go" into her portrayal, which meets with due approval. Her numerous songs, in which is included "There are nice girls everywhere," are well rendered and highly appreciated. In the character of the Baron, Hercules, Mr. Billy Ross is diverting, and in the medley song which he sings he is capitally suited. Mr. Harry Merson is amusing as Daisy, the Baron's wife, and for his "Sports" song he is fittingly rewarded. Miss Eva La-Tour is successful as the Fairy Godmother, and evokes much applause by her singing of "Moon." Vandini is appropriately essayed by Miss Lizzie Wright, Miss Millie Merrie and Miss Viola Wright give humorous delineations of the sisters, Margerine and Butterine respectively. The former scores in the song "Flowers," and the latter is equally successful in the "Mirror Song." Mr. Will Elton dances well, and causes much amusement as Pepper. Another contribution is supplied by Mr. Will Elton, in conjunction with Miss Lizzie Wright and Miss Lana Hyde, in the trio "Up to one of your tricks again."

THE GRAND, FULHAM.
On Monday, March 7, the Play, entitled
"THE BONDMAN."

Mr. Wentworth Croke's principal company is still at Fulham. This week they have been very successful with the Manx and Sicilian story. The cast is a very long one, to all the members of which space will not permit us to do justice. Mr. Philip Darien is very powerful as Jason and Mr. Stanley Harrison is appropriately bright as Michael Sunlocks. Mr. Rotherham is very successful in the parts of Grandfather and of Father Ferrati, and shows his ability in both humour and pathos. Miss Violet Macaree looks well as Greeba, and plays with charm and spirit; while Miss Madge Lanerton gives ample point to the worldly wisdom of Mrs. Fairbrother. The children are brightly played by Miss Beatrice Hughes and Master Walter Neville. Miss Emelie Mayhew is a sympathetic Christian Anne, and the minor characters are well represented, notably by Messrs. Chappell and Nixon, who give individuality to their rôles. The piece is well staged.

THE LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH.
On Monday, March 7, the Drama, by Joseph Arthur, entitled
"THE STILL ALARM."

Familiarity with this well-known and exciting American drama certainly does not breed contempt, for since its original production at the Princess's, something like twenty years since, it has been presented in the provinces and at the suburban houses over and over again, and judging by its enthusiastic reception and the hold it had on the Lyric audience on the night of our visit, it is still good for many more "happy returns." Largely responsible for this is undoubtedly the scene representing the Central Fire Station, New York, showing how, at the signal of the "still alarm," the brigade turns out, the horses being brought from their stable, harnessed to the engine, and driven off in five seconds. This realistic incident was very skilfully managed, and evoked loud applause, and there was much admiration for the two highly-trained horses, Pegasus and Bucephalus, the intelligent greyhound, Laddie, also becoming a great favourite. Messrs. Matthew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond's company, who are responsible for the excellent all-round production, is in many instances the same as on its last visit to the Lyric, Mr. Matthew H. Glenville repeating his former success as the gallant Jack Manley, his acting in the scene with his sweetheart, Elinor Fordham, where he learns she cannot marry him, and in the many strenuous incidents of the play being most convincing, his handling of the lighter scenes also being very natural. Elinor Fordham has a sympathetic and refined portrayal from Miss Beatrice Shirley, the actress vividly expressing Elinor's distress in the scene where she sacrifices her lover in order to save her father, her enactment throughout being a very praiseworthy one; and the hero's mother, the loquacious but kindly Mrs. Manley, was a lovable old soul as represented by Miss Mabel Veriton, who contributed an unexaggerated but very effective impersonation. The vivacious Carrie Wilbur had an attractive and alert representative in Miss Lydia Andre, the actress scoring in her song and dance "Hello," and also in her comedy scenes with her sweetheart, Willie Manley, a part humorously undertaken by Mr. Edward Hobart; and the inebriated Doc Wilbur was amusingly enacted by Mr. Henry C. Gilpin, whose portrayal was an excellent one throughout. Mr. Gerald Kennedy's depiction of the shabby villain of the first act was not without some quietly humorous touches, his impersonation of the scoundrelly John Bird being a very effective one; and the [illegible] Fordham of Mr. Lewis Gordon was a realistic and praiseworthy portrayal. The numerous other parts were all capably undertaken, and the scenery and mounting generally were first-class. Mention must also be made of the vocal selections of the Lyric Comedy Four in the Fire Station Scene—a much-appreciated contribution.

BOROUGH THEATRE, STRATFORD.
On Monday, March 7, the Play entitled
"A MESSAGE FROM MARS."

Mr. Fredk. Mouillot's company in A Message from Mars is the attraction here this week. An excellent cast is responsible for the interpretation of the piece, which is staged with much care. Mr. F. Vernon Travers plays Horace Parker in pronounced comedy vein, and his performance is one of considerable merit; as the Messenger Mr. William H. Brougham declaims his lines in fine resonant style, and is entirely convincing as the Martian visitant; Mr. Norman Clark's delineation of the Tramp is an excellent piece of character acting; and Mr. Clifford Lomer plays Arthur Dicey very appropriately. Miss Aubrey Ashton is responsible for a well-defined performance as Miss Parker; Minnie Templar is very charmingly portrayed by Miss Rose Helene; and in the long list of minor parts Miss Estelle Twitchen (Bella), Miss Mary Buckstone (Mrs. Clarence), Mr. D. Greene (a policeman), and Mr. A. C. Rolfe (Dr. Chapman) are conspicuous.

THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD.
On Monday, March 7, the Drama entitled
"THE WOMAN PAYS."

The tide of prosperity which has set in so strongly at Mrs Ellis Frederick's popular melodrama theatre is not likely to receive a set-back this week by the engagement of Mr. Frank M. Thorne's company in The Woman Pays judging by the full house on the night of our visit. The piece is exceedingly well staged, and the interesting story proves quite to the liking of those who prefer their dramatic fare served "hot and strong." Mr. Phil Harper is outspoken and vigorous as the young fisherman, Sid Armstrong; and Mr. Raymond Thomas supplies a sterling performance as the sinister Roger Marchant. Mr. Dunlop Stewart (in addition to his managerial duties) contributes an exceedingly clever sketch of Luke Morland; and Mr. Joseph Magrath extracts unlimited mirth from the part of Mickey Moloney. Mr. Beresford Innes makes the most of his opportunities as Cyrus Treadgold; and Mr. Charles Arthur is excellent as Dr. Trevor. Miss Alice Greenwood acts with sympathy and charm as Madge Greenwood; as the callous Nell Morland Miss Kate Blair plays very convincingly; Polly Stokes is brightly impersonated by Miss Lily Beverley; and the part of Tibatha is safely entrusted to Miss Florence Thorne. Remaining characters are all in quite capable hands.

A play recently produced at the Savoy Theatre, New York, and "flayed" by the critics, was called Children of Destiny, and was written by Sydney Rosenfeld, who had not been heard from for a year or two. It is in three acts, and is about a young woman named Rose Hamlin, whose intended husband breaks the engagement when he discovers that she was born out of wedlock. She goes to Monte Carlo, where she squanders her money, and is supposed to be a member of the demi-monde. When she meets Edwin Ford, however, she protests that she has always been a good woman. He has been as reckless as she has, and the two are supposed to be "drawn together," being the "children of destiny" referred to in the title. They are married, and Rose's mother also weds Rose's father, so the play has a nice moral ending after all. It was well acted, the company including Miss Dorothy Dorr, Miss Laura Nelson Hall, Mr. Frank Reicher, Mr. Orrin Johnson, Mr. Frederick Truesdell, and Mr. Harry Davenport.

Henry V. Donnelly, a well-known American actor, who managed the Murray Hill Theatre for several years, died in New York on the 15th ult. at the age of forty-eight. For a number of years he appeared with Eddie Girard in a laughable piece called Natural Gas. He established an excellent stock company at the Murray Hill Theatre, several of the members of it having since distinguished themselves at the leading playhouses. Miss Frances Starr, Miss Laura Crewe, and Miss Dorothy Donnelly, his sister, who is now appearing as Madame X. at the New Amsterdam Theatre, first appeared before the New York public under Mr. Donnelly's management. He was a versatile and finished actor, and one who always lived up to the best traditions of the stage.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

Minutes of the council meeting held on Tuesday, March 8, at 32, Regent-street. Present: Mr. Richard A. Greene, in the chair; Messrs. Cyril Cattley, F. J. Arlton, Murri Moncrieff, Langford Reed, Robson Paige, Henry Le Grand, and Edward Morgan; Misses Joan Pereira, Vita Spencer, Rose Cazalet, Chester, and Mr. D. Young, secretary.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

The following letter from the West End theatre managers was read, and the council deputed Mr. Cyril Cattley to call and see Mr. Vedrenne on their behalf.

"I am in receipt of your letter of the 2nd inst. and note contents. At our monthly meeting, held yesterday, we discussed the matter of bogus management referred to in your letter, but were informed by our solicitor that we had no legal remedy. If you would like to see me to discuss this further, will you please ring me up, and I will arrange an appointment at an early date.—Yours faithfully, J. E. Vedrenne."

A letter from the Touring Managers' Association was also read as follows:—

"In reply to your letter of the 2nd inst. I am desired by my committee to say that the matter you refer to would require an Act of Parliament to deal with. Further, my committee desired me to say that they are taking action on their own behalf.—I am, yours faithfully, M. G. Martin."

In reply to a letter from Miss Liza Coleman, the secretary was directed to say that the fact of the members of that company, having compounded with their manager, removed him from the domain of bogus management. A motion was proposed that the manager's name be posted as a "doubtful manager." The chairman, in putting the motion, pointed out that it was in direct opposition to the advice of the hon. solicitor. On being put to the council the motion was lost, the voting being seven against and four in favour.

The secretary read the following letters from Mr. Cyril Maude and Mr. Martin Harvey:—

"I have refrained from answering your letter before, as I feel it was a matter requiring careful consideration. It appears to me that the Association is not what I might term strongly representative, as I understand that the principal members of the theatrical profession are not members of your Association. May I suggest to you that before inviting the actor managers to rejoin, and, as you express it, let bygones be bygones, you should send a list of the members of the Actors' Association, which list should include the majority of the leading actors and actresses, to each actor manager, and thus prove to them that the Association is really representative of our profession. In any case, when I receive such a list, I shall be happy to reconsider my decision in the matter.—Yours faithfully, Cyril Maude."

The secretary reported that the list asked for had been sent.

"I am heartily glad to receive your letter, and hasten to assure that I shall be only too glad to rejoin the Association and to do anything in my power to forward its objects.—Believe me, yours faithfully, Martin Harvey."

The secretary read a letter from a member in reply to a charge of bogus management, and it was proposed that in accordance with Article 6 of the Articles of Association the member be suspended for three months, and if at the end of that time the council were not satisfied of his having met his obligations and liabilities, it be decided that he should be excluded from membership. An amendment that the member be suspended until he had met his obligations, and if after three months he had failed to do so he should be suspended, was lost. The secretary was further instructed that the member's name be posted in the rooms as a bogus manager.

The secretary was instructed to acknowledge with thanks the receipt of Mr. Hayden Coffin's cablegram, and to say that the council have much pleasure in allotting the number of fifty debentures as requested.

The finance committee's report was read by Mr. Morgan and adopted.

The hon. solicitor's report was presented, and with reference to the Strand Theatre case the secretary was directed to send a letter to all the signatories of Cleodan, Ltd., in the terms suggested by the hon. solicitor.

With reference to a letter of the Sunday Defence Committee, it was decided that a cheque be drawn for £2, and Mr. Robson Paige and the secretary appointed representatives of the Actors' Association, to attend the next meeting on Thursday, March 10, at twelve o'clock noon.

Elections: Frank R. Growcott, Enid Baird, Straton Rodney, and Olive Noble. Reinstatements: Martin Harvey, Amy Coleman, J. Heribert Willis, and Georgette Serville. Agnes Hewitt was nominated.

OPERA HOUSE, CREWE, BURNT DOWN.

One of the oldest playhouses in the provinces was destroyed by fire early yesterday morning, when the Opera House, Crewe, was burnt to the ground. All the scenery and the properties of Mr. Dan Thomas's pantomime company, which was fulfilling a week's engagement at the theatre, is lost.

Under the name of the Lyceum, the theatre was instituted, in 1881, by Mr. Henry Taylor, by whom it was carried on for over a quarter of a century. The building was originally a Catholic chapel, which was relinquished owing to the erection of a new church for that body. The theatre was visited and utilised by many of the then leading travelling managers from time to time. It was, however, soon found that the building was too small to meet requirements of playgoers, and a limited company was formed. Of this company Mr. Taylor became a shareholder, and was appointed manager, and he held the post for some years, afterwards becoming the lessee. In the early days there was much opposition to the establishment of a theatre by a class of people who had no sympathy either with actors or theatrical managers. Many of the then evident prejudices were removed, and the Lyceum then continued to be patronised not only by the large working-class population, but by the "upper ten" of the district.

Mr. Taylor retired from management in 1908, and the theatre was taken over by Mr. H. G. Dudley Bennett, of the Shakespeare, Clapham Junction, who completely changed the interior of the building, rechristened it the Opera House, and reopened it on August Bank Holiday of that year.

Our local correspondent telegraphs:—A fire broke out in the early hours of Friday morning at the Opera House, Crewe, which resulted in the total destruction of the theatre, together with all the properties and scenery, including the whole of the costumes and effects belonging to Mr. Dan Thomas's Pantomime Company, Dick Whittington, which has been playing here this week. At the close of Thursday night's performance, which finished at about 10.45, everything appeared to be all right, but in less than two hours afterwards the fire was discovered by the resident-manager, Mr. Ambrose Fischer, who was in his office at the time making up his accounts, and detected a smell of burning. On his going to ascertain from whence this came he found the stage well alight and immediately gave the alarm. The local fire brigade were soon on the spot, but the fire had by now obtained a fair hold on the inflammable articles which abound in the vicinity of a theatre stage, and their efforts to stop its progress were practically futile. Nothing is left except bare walls. The loss is very considerable, and much sympathy is felt for the members of Mr. Thomas's pantomime artists, who have lost everything. A benefit concert will be given to-night for these artists.

THE REHEARSAL COMPANY.

The periodical performances of the Rehearsal Company are becoming quite an institution, and Malden-lane is thronged by patrons of the enterprise on the afternoons for which productions are announced. The bijou hall known as the Rehearsal Theatre was closely crowded on Monday afternoon last, when no less ambitious a production than Shakespeare's Twelfth Night was staged almost in its entirety. The comedy is among the Poet's most enthralling works, and ample justice was done to it by the experienced artists engaged by Mr. Clive Currie, the founder and director of the company. Mr. Currie played Malvolio, and did himself infinite credit. He is an expert in the art of making-up and his appearance as the vain and pompous steward was very whimsical. It was an artistic performance free from extravagance, and allowing the vanity of the character to peep out beneath the weight of dignity which Malvolio assumes. Occasionally Mr. Currie lowered his voice so as to become almost inaudible, but, on the whole, his delivery of the lines was distinct and pointed.

Viola was played by Miss May Saker, who bore herself becomingly as the boy, spoke her lines with elocutionary grace, and portrayed the feminine terror of Viola in her duel with exquisite drollery. The beauteous Olivia was realised by Miss Mary Forbes, who to personal attractiveness adds dramatic skill of high promise. Her love scene with Viola was carried out with infinite tenderness. Among the several successes of the afternoon must be included the Sir Toby Belch of Mr. Fred Grove, who again proved his worth as a comedian, and played the part with a drollery that could scarcely be excelled. He had an effective partner in Mr. Arthur Cleave, who as Sir Andrew Aguecheek added to the merriment.

The occasion was remarkable from the fact that Feste was entrusted to a lady, Miss Rose Macdonald, who was naturally a little self-conscious, but acted vivaciously and sang really well, her rendering of "Come away, Death" being very enjoyable. A lady was also chosen for the part of Fabian, in which Miss Evelyn Grey distinguished herself favourably. Miss Grace Richardson acted with unfailing vivacity as Maria, and her share of the scenes in which the deep-laid plot against Malvolio is enacted, was invaluable. Mr. Frederick James was a handsome and fervent Orsino, and played the lover gallantly. Mr. Wilfred Fletcher's ardour as Sebastian was a little excessive, but he gave distinction to his lines and gained every point. The Antonio of Mr. Clifford Heatherley, the Sea Captain of Mr. R. W. Read, and the Priest of Mr. Montague Mazeran, contributed valuably towards an excellent performance, which it is a pity should be restricted to a single representation.

Preceding Shakespeare's comedy was a dramatic incident, in one act, by P. E. Slayton, entitled

"THE PASSING OF THE IRONSIDE."

Trevor .....MR. CLIVE CURRIE
Keziah .....MISS EVELYN VANDERZEE
Mistress Alport .....MISS URSULA KEENE
Captain Jack Enderby ....MR. FRANK LINCOLN

Gloom is the pervading element in the above playlet, in which an old Ironside, who has lain ill for two years, learns for the first time that Cromwell is dead, and that Charles II. is restored to the throne. The news has been carefully preserved from him by his daughter, but the aged Puritan hears the acclamations of the crowd outside, and witnesses the passing of the triumphal procession, and after giving vent to his sorrow at the Protector's death, his anger at the restoration of the monarch, and his determination to rally the Ironsides to the banner, himself expires, leaving his daughter to the care of her devoted lover, just returned from the wars in Flanders. Mr. Clive Currie gave further evidence of his skill in make-up as the aged warrior, and his varied expression relieved the wearisome speeches somewhat. Mr. Frank Lincoln was a handsome cavalier, with far too few opportunities; and Miss Evelyn Vanderzee a sweet and pretty Keziah.

The musical-director of the Rehearsal Company, it should be noted, is Mr. Wm. Bailey, jun., son of the lessee of the West London, who presided ably at the piano. Mr. Bailey, sen., who is among the list of patrons, was also present on Monday.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

The programme of the chamber concert given by the students of the Royal College on Thursday afternoon, March 3, opened with Spohr's Octet for Strings and Wind in E Op. 32. The Octet is written for violin, two violas, violoncello, double-bass, clarionet, and two horns, and the beautiful, peaceful character of the music was most ably rendered by Mr. Thomas Peatfield, Mr. Frank Bridge, Miss Sybil Maturin, Mr. Cedric Sharpe, Mr. Eugene Cruft, Mr. Haydn Draper, Mr. Albert Davin, and Mr. Frank Probin. An excellent account was given of the Andante and variations on a theme by Handel ("The Harmonious Blacksmith") and the quaint Finale. The passages for the wind instruments were well played, Mr. Haydn Draper particularly distinguishing himself on those portions allotted to the clarionet. Mr. Idris Lewis and Miss Ellen Bartlett were associated in a clever performance of Dohnanyi's Sonata for Piano and Violoncello in B flat, the lively scherzo variations being heartily applauded. Brahms's Quartet for Strings in B flat, executed by Miss Dorothy Devin, Mr. Antonio Piedra, Mr. Frank Bridge and Mr. Cedric Sharpe was also included in the programme. Miss Eunice Grounds sang two songs of Sir Edward Elgar, "Like to the damask rose" and "Rondel" with considerable grace, while Miss Beatrice Lewthwaite greatly pleased the audience in Macfarren's "Pack clouds away," the clarionet obbligato being skilfully played by Mr. Haydn Draper. The other vocalist was Miss Evelyn B. Jennings, who sang "Les Fées" (Saint-Saëns), with artistic expression. Miss Mary B. Graham, Miss Dorothy Grason, and Mr. Herbert Arnold Smith were the accompanists.

The Influence of the Hall.

"To a large part of the democracy of London the music hall is a national church," says the Rev. Thos. Phillips, B.A., in an interview in the British Congregationalist. "In the country district in which I was brought up you may hear from the young people snatches of hymns and possibly bits of sermons; but from the lads and lasses of London you hear echoes of the music halls. The churches may say that the music halls are of the devil; but, all the same, the people go to them, and their influence is being exercised on the young life of the nation at its most impressionable age. So I cannot see how the Church can escape the duty of sanctifying an institution which has such a tremendous influence upon the life and thought of the young people."

Mr. Neville on "Old Times."

MR. HENRY NEVILLE, who gave a capital lecture to the members of the O.P. Club at the Criterion on Sunday, says in the Daily News: "When I was a young actor it was the custom to place before the budding aspirant for histrionic honours certain test pieces, and the student was judged according to the intelligence and ability he displayed. Now, however, all this is changed. Men come into the profession without training, without fitness, without any speciality of aim, without even a general knowledge of the art, its principles, or its history, and the result is an ever-growing wave of incapacity, ignorance, and conceit sweeping everything before it, and changing the once pure taste of the playgoing public into an anarchy of ideas and a Babel of opinions."

A THEATRICAL WEDDING.

The wedding of Miss Madge Titheradge to Mr. Charles Quartermaine at Holy Trinity Church, Sloane-street, on Tuesday afternoon, excited extraordinary interest. A vast crowd filled both sides of the road and extended a hundred yards each way, and though there were fifty constables on duty, the inspector in charge had to send right and left for reinforcements. Street sellers outside the church vended copies of "The Souvenir and Programme of the Marriage between Madge Titheradge and Charles Quartermaine all on a handkerchief," and when the guests arrived the people broke through the large body of police and swarmed round the carriages.

The fine church of Holy Trinity was closely crowded. Below the beautiful stained glass window at the end rose on either side a great mass of lilies and marguerites. Amongst those present in the church were Sir Herbert Tree and his youngest daughter, Sir Squire Bancroft, Mrs. Kendal, Miss Marion Terry, Mr. Dion Calthrop, Mr. Charles Maude and Mrs. Charles Maude (Miss Nancy Price), Mr. Norman McKinnel, Mr. Mark Kerr, Mr. Lyn Harding, Mr. Haddon Chambers, Mr. Mortimer Menpes, Mr. Herbert Trench, Mr. Alfred Bishop, Mr. Rudolf Besier, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Douglas (Miss Grace Lane), Miss Lilian Braithwaite, Mrs. Charles Terry, Miss Charlotte Granville, Mr. Lyall Swete, Mr. Frank Desprez, Miss Alexandra Carlisle, Miss Kate Sargeantson, Miss Kate Bishop, Miss Orme, and Miss Oriel Lee.

Miss Madge Titheradge made her first appearance at the Garrick Theatre, December, 1902, as the Second Water Baby in The Water Babies. At the Botanic Gardens, July, 1903, she was seen as the Wood Nymph in The Faithful Shepherdess; at the Garrick, December, 1903, she played Moonbeam in The Cricket on the Hearth; at the Haymarket, May, 1904, she appeared as Lulu Carruthers in Lady Flirt; at the Garrick, Christmas, 1904, she played Liza in Little Black Sambo; at the Haymarket, May, 1905, she appeared as Caroline in The Creole, and in June, 1905, as the Countess of Drumdurris in The Cabinet Minister. She appeared at the Waldorf, 1906, with Mr. Cyril Maude, as Nancy in The Superior Miss Pellender, and Norah in The Second in Command; at the Duke of York's, 1906, and The Playhouse, 1907, she played Cicely in Toddles. She appeared at the Playhouse as Rosine in French as He is Spoke, and Minnie Vincent in Fido; at His Majesty's, September, 1908, she played Lisa in Faust, and at the Lyric, November, 1908, she appeared as the Princess Katharine in King Henry V.

Mr. Charles Quartermaine, who was born at Richmond, Surrey, on Dec. 30, 1877, is the son of Alice Ann (Egg) and Fred Quartermaine. He made his first appearance on the stage at Tunbridge Wells, in January, 1896, as Ned Annesley in Sowing the Wind. From 1896 to 1901 he played with F. R. Benson's Shakespearean company. He made his first appearance in London, at the Lyceum, Feb. 15, 1900, as the Dauphin in King Henry V. Leaving Mr. Benson, he was engaged by Mr. Beerbohm Tree for His Majesty's, and appeared there on Feb. 5, 1901, as Sebastian in Twelfth Night. During the spring of 1902 he toured with Mr. Ben Greet's company. At His Majesty's in June, 1902, he played Slender in The Merry Wives of Windsor; he appeared at the Court, 1902, as Manisty in Eleanor; and toured as Heath Desmond in Cousin Kate 1903-4. He accompanied Sir Charles Wyndham to America, 1904, making his first appearance in New York at the Lyceum, Dec. 7, 1904, as David Cairn in Mrs. Gorringe's Necklace. He toured in America with Miss Olga Nethersole in 1905-6, returned to His Majesty's in 1906, and afterwards appeared successfully in Antony and Cleopatra, The Red Lamp, A Woman of No Importance, The Mystery of Edwin Drood, The Beloved Vagabond, Hamlet, Faust, Hannele, &c. He is now playing the title-part in Don at the Kingsway Theatre.

The four bridesmaids were Miss Marie Lohr, Miss Rosalie Toller, Miss Beatrice Terry, and Miss Frances Titheradge. Miss Löhr wore a large white hat trimmed with ostrich plumes, and carried a muff made of tiny white flowers, from which hung sprays of white roses. The other bridesmaids wore white satin gowns ornamented with silver roses, "Juliet" caps, and carried sheafs of virgin lilies.

The bride wore a white satin gown, the skirt falling away a little and showing a panel of silver tissue bordered with a long trail of silver roses. The bodice was draped over a chemisette of folded tulle. A cluster of silver roses caught the folds of tulle, and a small, delicate spray of similar roses was placed on each sleeve, while the train of white satin had silver roses placed on a soft veiling of silver tulle. She carried a bouquet of white lilies and carnations tied with white satin ribbon, and a tulle veil over a wreath of orange blossoms. Her train was borne by Miss Angela du Maurier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald du Maurier, who wore a white chiffon dress and a wreath of flowers in her hair. Mr. Dawson Millward was Mr. Quartermaine's "best man."

Mr. Cyril Maude gave the bride away; in the absence of her father, who is in Australia. The Rev. Dr. Rosslyn Bruce, who was assisted in the ceremony by the Rev. H. R. Gamble, the rector of the church, read the marriage service admirably, and the ceremony was most impressive. After the service in a beautiful homily he wished the newly-married couple "Joy."

The reception was held at the Cadogan Hotel, after which the happy pair motored to Hindhead.

"CAPTAIN OF THE HOSTS."

Play, in Three Acts, by Rutherford Mayne, Produced at the Grand Opera House, Belfast, on Tuesday, March 8.

Neil Gallina .....MR. ROSS CANMER
Billy Baird .....MR. CHARLES KERR

Barbara .....MISS SEVEEN CANMER

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Mr. Rutherford Mayne, the professional name of a gentleman who only recently took to the stage itself (and who is also the author of The Drone) is the son of an Irish clergyman who died at his post, and his piece entitled The Captain of the Hosts has the religious atmosphere wherein his father lived and died. Neil Gallina, with no other ambition than to spend his life in drinking and debauchery, is brought in contact with a mission preacher's daughter named Barbara McDonald. In one of his drunken rambles Gallina had stopped at an open-air prayer meeting at which Barbara was playing a harmonium. There Gallina spoke to her. The next morning Gallina mentions the fact to Billy Baird, a medical student, and a fellow lodger, who knows Barbara. She calls at the lodgings later and meets both. On the departure of Baird, in a long talk with Gallina, she finds out the position of matters. He is a teacher who has tried to write a book and failed. Barbara tries to get him to go on writing again, and offers to get her father to talk to him about it.

The second act deals with the conversion of Gallina, a victim of consumption, who has reached the stage of addressing missionary meetings. He is also in love with Barbara, but the latter is engaged to Mr. Herbert Young, who notes that Barbara's affection is waning. Barbara, however, says that she only goes to the mission owing to her father's influence, and that she considers herself a prisoner. Young, who has his doubts as to the conversion of Gallina, tests him by saying that if he is really converted, there is more room in China amongst the heathen than in Belfast. But Gallina refuses to go. In Belfast there are "drunken wasters" such as he to "haul" out. Barbara tells Gallina that he has not the faith to keep to the mission, and he falls away. In a half-drunken state he tells Barbara that she is responsible for any good that there was in him, and says good-bye. There is another sweetheart coming for him—"Death," whom Gallina toasts: "Here's to you, captain of the men of Death; I've fought and beaten you," and expires.

To the Ulster Literary Theatre company was entrusted the production, and they did every justice to the new piece. Mr. Jackson Graham was seen to the utmost advantage as Herbert Young; and a capital character sketch of the medico Billy Baird, was furnished by Mr. Charles Kerr; much praise is due Miss Seveen Canmer for her delightful impersonation of Barbara, she spoke her lines clearly and with much effect; Mr. Ross Canmer appeared in the difficult rôle of Neil Gallina; and Miss Margaret O'Gorman was well suited as the landlady Mrs. McKee. The comedy element, which was never at any time obtrusive, was in capable hands. Mr. J. M. Harding certainly deserves to be congratulated on his humorous impersonation of Thomas the gardener; and Mr. G. A. Chartres was inimitable as Hughley Thompson; Mr. Gerald Macnamara had little to do as Flapper M'Keown, but submitted a realistic impersonation of the pugilist; and the part of his companion Jamesy M'Cloy was in the safe hands of Mr. Alan Whitley. Miss Helen Cairns as Annie, the servant, completed the capable cast. The action of the play takes place in Mrs. McKee's house, and at Mr. M'Donald's house at Knock, Belfast. The piece was favourably received by a friendly audience.

Popular Plays.

"SOME weeks ago," writes Mr. Frederick Whelen to the Daily News, "I witnessed a performance of The Bad Girl of the Family at the Aldwych Theatre, and was amazed by the wonderful enthusiasm of the audience. I have rarely seen more wholehearted enjoyment at a theatre. Indeed, it was delightful to be part of an audience so obviously happy and enjoying itself.

"Now, I cannot help thinking that it would be a good development if districts such as the neighbourhood of the Elephant and Castle, and some other more gloomy parts of our cities, could have the advantage of a theatre in their midst in which plays of another type would be presented. I believe that a 'People's Theatre' in a working-class district could be made a popular success, and could present to the whole-hearted enjoyment of audiences not only plays by Shakespeare, but also plays by modern writers such as Barrie and Bernard Shaw.

"I HAVE seen a theatre crowded with County Council school children revelling with enjoyment of a performance of The Merchant of Venice. I have seen a theatre in Manchester crowded with factory operatives and mill-hands enthusiastically enjoying Shakespearean productions."

"SPOONER'S BABY."

Revised Version of a Farcical Sketch, Privately Represented at the Criterion Theatre on Thursday Afternoon, March 10.

Major Botherley .....MR. AUBREY FITZGERALD
Rev. Dr. Barkhurst .....MR. HAROLD JOHNSON
Percy Spooner .....MR. PINNARD
Waiter .....MR. WYNNE YORK
Miss Clackett .....MISS HELEN LANGTON
Bella Spooner .....MISS ELIZABETH WEILAND

Spooner's Baby is a revised version of the farcical sketch recently produced with considerable success at the Tivoli, Manchester, and on Thursday afternoon a private representation was given at the Criterion Theatre, kindly lent for the occasion by Mr. James Welch. The authors of old-time farces frequently introduced an infant into their curtain-raisers, this expedient for causing merriment being generally found highly successful. The anonymous author of Spooner's Baby has made use of a similar device, only in this case it is not a real baby that causes the fun, but only a toy. Mr. and Mrs. Spooner, on their honeymoon, are staying at an hotel in Paris, and the lady, who is making the money fly pretty freely, has purchased a valuable piece of lace which she intends to take with her to America. But how to evade the scrutiny of the lynx-eyed officials, on the look-out for smuggled goods? She hits upon the ingenious device of ripping open a large doll and placing the lace inside the cavity. The toy, when pressed, emits a plaintive cry, closely resembling that of an infant, and when Mr. Spooner, on entering the private sitting-room he has engaged at the hotel hears the infantine cry, his suspicions are aroused and he is horrified at the sight of the supposed child in his bride's arms. He is greatly relieved on discovering that it is only a toy that his wife is carrying, and laughs uproariously at his mistake; but, all the same, he is opposed to Mrs. Spooner's plan for deceiving the Custom House officials. Miss Clackett, a very proper person, who is engaged in distributing tracts at naughty Parisian pleasure resorts, makes a call; and hearing a child's cry, as she supposes, jumps to a conclusion which reflects upon the character of the bride, while that lady is under the misapprehension that her visitor has discovered her intention to smuggle the piece of lace. Another arrival is Major Botherley, an extremely short-sighted old Army officer. He finds the room empty, and sitting on the toy, imagines that he has accidentally murdered a child. Miss Clackett returns for her parasol, and the Major's attempts to conceal his crime lead to further amusing complications, in which Miss Clackett's friend, the Rev. Dr. Barkhurst, is also involved. After the game of misunderstanding has gone on long enough, explanations are given, and the "baby" is consigned to the care of the indignant old maid.

The sketch caused plenty of merriment, and was very well played. Mr. Aubrey Fitzgerald made the most of his opportunities as the short-sighted old Major, and Mr. Harold Johnson broadly outlined the personal peculiarities of the Rev. Dr. Barkhurst. An excuse was made on behalf of Mr. Pinnard, as he had taken the part of Percy Spooner at short notice, owing to the illness of the gentleman who was to have played the rôle but, under the circumstances, he did extremely well. Miss Elizabeth Weiland was bright and smart as Bella Spooner; Miss Helen Langton was satisfactory as Miss Clackett; and Mr. Wynne York scored in the minor part of the Waiter.

The new sketch was preceded by The Spider and the Fly, "a farcical interlude," the plot turning upon the device of a young fellow who has quarrelled with his sweetheart to bring about a reconciliation. Mr. Aubrey Fitzgerald was alert as the lover; Miss Elizabeth Weiland was vivacious as Maud; and Mr. Harold Johnson was good as a French Waiter.

IN the workshops competition promoted by the Oldham N.U. Rugby F.C., the Empire Theatre's met the Colosseum in the first round and a rather rough game was witnessed. The Colosseum staff were the better team and won by three tries (nine points) to nothing, scored by David Lowe (twice) and J. Vickers (one). Gold and silver watches are provided for prizes, and are well worth winning.

"I BELIEVE I shall have the support of practically the whole dramatic profession," said a leading theatrical agent to a representative of the Westminster Gazette, "in advancing the suggestion that payment of half-salaries to actors and actresses during the trying and expensive period of rehearsals should become the 'unwritten law' of the theatre. I don't expect such a suggestion to receive the unqualified support of all the managements! I would, if necessary, have legislation on the point. A short Bill might be introduced by some private member keenly interested in the theatrical business. Mr. A. E. W. Mason, as a dramatist, would have been a most suitable man to ventilate the matter, but he is no longer in the House. Once get some action of the kind taken, and you will immediately raise the status of the acting profession, for it is with the small salaried people that the shoe pinches tightest."

CAVALIERE GRASSO and his company of Sicilian actors had an ovation on the 4th inst., when they gave an invitation matinée performance of Feudalismo to members of the theatrical profession at the Lyric Theatre. In returning thanks for the reception Cavaliere Grasso produced portraits of Shakespeare and Irving and kissed both, Signora Bragaglia following suit. Cavaliere Grasso said that he would like to kiss every member of the audience, but as he could not do that he must let his pigeon act on his behalf. He then drew from his pocket a white pigeon, kissed it, and let it fly. The pigeon circled over the stalls, amid applause and laughter, and then returned to the stage. The actors ended by scattering flowers amid the stalls. After the performance Mr. H. B. Irving visited Cavaliere Grasso in his dressing-room to congratulate and thank him, and was kissed on both cheeks by the impulsive Sicilian.

SIGNOR GRASSO and Mme. Bragaglia, and the members of the Sicilian company held a "tea party" at the Lyric Theatre on Tuesday afternoon. An entertainment was given in which Signor Musco impersonated a tipsy troubadour; a tarantella was danced by all the members of the company; Signor Grasso and Signor Viscuso had a mock combat with big knives, and Signor Grasso gave a clever sketch of Sicilian life and an amusing imitation of a bachelor's endeavours to sew a button on his coat. Mr. E. Dagnall and Signor Grasso both spoke, the latter concluding, "I love you all. Good-bye." In the evening Pietra Fra Pietre, a translation of Sudermann's Stein Unter Steinen was performed.

AT the annual fancy dress ball, held at the Hibernian Hall, West Stanley, on Monday, Mr. Edward Van Biene, whose company is at the Theatre Royal this week, and Mrs. Lindon, wife of the proprietor of the theatre, were asked to adjudge the prize-winners. This they did, and it fell to the lot of Mr. Van Biene to announce the successful competitors. The results were received with every sign of approval from rather a mixed audience, but the receipt of the following letter has rather damped Mr. Van Biene's ardour, and he thinks of giving fancy dress dances a miss in future:—"Dear Sir,—Where's your taste? You give Red Injun first prize, whilst me, hearin' you was to judge, went made up exactly like one of your own company, and took a journey last week to see him play, and paid a shilling to go in. If you think it good enough to put on the stage and make your livin' at it, you should encourage a copy of it, especially in the town that supports you.—Yours disgusted, &c., &c."

"DOUBLE DUMMY."

Play, in One Act, by Mr. B. Macdonald Hastings, Produced at the Cripplegate Institute Theatre on Tuesday, March 8.

Mr. Adrian Cotsford ..MR. SYDNEY H. STRONG
Mrs. Cotsford .....MISS EILEEN SAVAGE
Miss Thorp .....MISS VIOLET CUDDON
Lieutenant Harry Chadwick
MR. CHARLES DAVIDSON

The action of this cleverly-written little play takes place on a summer evening in the comfortably furnished hall of Mr. Cotsford's bungalow near Tenterden, in Kent. Cotsford has been blind for two or three months, and we learn from a conversation which he has with his wife's companion, Miss Thorp, that an operation was performed that afternoon, and that the specialist told him he would see again after the lapse of six hours. Finding that his wife is dining at the vicarage, and that there are letters awaiting him, Cotsford asks Miss Thorp to read them to him. Accidentally she opens one intended for his wife. The six hours being on the point of elapsing, Cotsford proceeds to make the test, and to his intense joy finds that he is able to see. His eyes light on the letter intended for his wife, and he manages to decipher phrases here and there until his sight grows stronger, and he realises that it is a passionate love-letter from a certain young lieutenant named Chadwick, urging Mrs. Cotsford to forsake her husband. His wife returns from the vicarage accompanied by Chadwick, who endeavours unsuccessfully to persuade Mrs. Cotsford to go away with him. Eventually Cotsford satisfies himself of his wife's loyalty, and Chadwick makes an ignominious exit. The performance on Tuesday was good, although the two ladies were obviously not quite the characters intended by the author.

"OUR FIRST DINNER."

A Comedietta, in One Act, by Florence Lloyd, Produced at the Royalty Theatre, Glasgow, for the First Time, on Monday, March 7.

Dick .....MR. CECIL BROOKING
Nesta .....MISS MURIEL POPE

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The characters in this amusing little playlet are a newly-married couple, who are preparing to receive their guests at their first dinner-party three months after marriage. The scene is their dressing-room, and the lady is dressing her hair at one side of the room, while her husband is at the other. The fun is caused by the contrast between the pair, the wife making her toilet swiftly and skilfully, while the husband is fussing about, making little progress. First he misses his collar, and then his tie, which the wife finds for him; then he drops his stud on the floor, and crawls all round the toilet table looking for it, when the wife, all radiant, again comes to his assistance. After ineffectual efforts to open the safe—a letter-combination one—they find that it is unlocked all the time. The incident, usual in married life, known as "a tiff" occurs. In the midst of some confusion the bell announces the arrival of the company, and the curtain falls.

Mr. Cecil Brooking gives an excellent portrayal of the fussy husband, and Miss Muriel Pope looks and acts charmingly as the easy-going wife, the "tiff" scene being well managed by both.

PROFESSOR SIR FREDERICK BRIDGE, continuing his Gresham College addresses on music at the City of London School on the 26th ult., took for his subject "The Motets of Richard Dering." These works, he said, were composed nearly 300 years ago by a very great Englishman, and yet, so far as he knew, not one of them had ever been performed since that early time—certainly not in any modern form. They had not been published, or accessible, until he brought them forward recently, and he therefore took a little credit to himself for using that splendid old foundation for the restoration and bringing to light of forty masterpieces.

THESE motets of Dering had lain undisturbed in the library of Westminster Abbey for years upon years, and they contained parts of remarkable originality and beauty. Richard Dering was a man highly thought of, and it was said he came to England after studying in Italy, and took the degree of Bachelor of Music at Oxford. As there were no bogus colleges going in those days they might be certain that he did not get his degree by paying £5 for it. Dering died in 1630. One interesting thing about Dering was that no less a person than Oliver Cromwell was very fond of his music, and he used to have some of the choir boys down at Hampton Court to sing some of Dering's compositions to him. These particular motets could not be sung now by any singer, however clever, without an infinite amount of trouble, for there were no bars marked, and how the old musicians used to read from the score was difficult to imagine.

How these books got into the library of Westminster Abbey he did not know, but he thought it was very likely that when Henrietta Maria, the wife of Charles I., and ambassadors came over from France and were entertained at supper and went into the Abbey choir to listen to the splendid anthems that were sung, the works of Dering were taken to the library by the then Dean of Westminster, Dean Williams, who was a great patron of music. The address was warmly applauded, and selections from Dering's works were sympathetically rendered by members of the Westminster Abbey choir.

THE second of three lectures on "The History and Art of Book Illustrations" will be delivered (with lantern slides) in the Crystal Palace School of Art by Mr. H. Windsor Fry on Monday next at 5.15 p.m. The subjects of the lecture will be "Great Foreign Illustrators in France, Germany, Spain, America, and Law Style Methods."

OFFERS are invited by the Bognor Urban District Council of a season band for ten weeks during the coming season. Applications must reach Mr. Henry Layton Staffurth, the Council's Clerk, not later than 12 noon on March 23.

MR. GEORGE HARWOOD, M.P., attended on Sunday a meeting of the Manchester Playgoers' Club at the Midland Hotel, and gave his views on "The Function of the Drama." Mr. Walter Butterworth was in the chair. Mr. Harwood said he wished to maintain that it was the object—he did not say the conscious object—of true drama to teach. The drama had always been didactic, as we saw in the Greek drama. Roman drama was not, and failed because, as in the tragedies of Seneca and the comedies of Plautus and Terence, it did not teach. The Church was the mother of the drama, and in the Miracle Plays and the later Morality Plays the object was to teach. But the teaching must be unconscious; not the teaching of the dramatist's creed, but that of the characters and circumstances as we saw in Shakespeare. The object which was the central idea must be a worthy one. He objected to plays which were interesting, but shallow, and to those which were deep, but dismal. The dramatic art, which was in some sense the ars artium, must fulfil the great laws of our being; and one of them was that optimism was of the very essence of all success. Life would be impossible if we were not optimists. Shakespeare was an optimist, and any dramatist who wrought in a pessimistic vein was mistaken.

A COPY of "THE ERA" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

The leading London theatrical managers have very properly objected to certain statements in a series of articles which has been appearing in M.A.P. on the White Slave Traffic, the articles in question containing serious accusations against theatrical managers as a body. Mr. T. P. O'Connor, who had no knowledge of, and no responsibility for, the article, at once insisted on an apology being made, declaring that if it were refused he would cease his connection with M.A.P., and the following apology appears in this week's issue of the paper:—

"It is, perhaps, hardly necessary to state that our strictures in last week's issue of the methods employed by certain theatrical managers to fill their houses do not apply to the best theatres any more than to the best agents. We understand that the article which appeared last week has given some pain to a large body of actors and actresses who earn their wages legitimately, and who aspire to as high a moral code as anybody in the community. It must be fully understood that this article did not refer to those theatrical managers who uphold the best traditions of the art, and whose theatres are conducted with every consideration and respect towards those employed." Mr. O'Connor has received a warm letter of thanks from the theatrical managers thanking him for his high-spirited action in the matter.

Sir Herbert Tree having been approached by a number of his fellow managers with a view to making the Annual Shakespeare Festival in London widely representative of the modern stage, it has been arranged that the festival this year shall be given on a more extended scale. A committee consisting of those who have been prominently identified with the production of Shakespeare's works has been formed, and includes the names of Messrs. F. R. Benson, Arthur Bourchier, Martin Harvey, H. B. Irving, Cyril Maude, William Poel, Fred Terry, Herbert Trench, Lewis Waller, Mrs. Kendal, Miss Ellen Terry, and Sir Herbert Tree, the chairman of the committee. Among the plays already arranged are: Hamlet, The Merchant of Venice, The Merry Wives of Windsor, Twelfth Night, Two Gentlemen of Verona, Julius Cæsar, King Lear, Coriolanus, The Taming of the Shrew, Henry V., and Richard II. During the final week of the festival a special performance will be given, in which Mr. Arthur Bourchier and Miss Violet Vanbrugh will appear in the last act of Macbeth, Sir Herbert Tree and Mr. H. B. Irving in an act of Othello, and Mr. Cyril Maude in an act of The Clandestine Marriage, Mrs. Kendal will also appear in a one-act play. The festival will open on Easter Monday, March 28 with The Merry Wives of Windsor.

Mr. George Alexander headed the poll at the London County Council election at South St. Pancras on Saturday, securing 2,719 votes—more than double the amount of his opponents. Mr. Alexander, sitting as a Municipal Reformer, did invaluable work during the three years he has served on the Council, acting as Chairman of the Parks and Open Spaces Committee, in which capacity he has opened several additions to London's recreation grounds. As was noticed during his brief address to the British Empire Shakespeare Society at the St. James's on Tuesday last, the eminent actor-manager has developed quite the Parliamentary oratorical style, and drives his arguments home with force and sincerity.

A humorous anecdote is told by Mr. Alexander with some relish. During his rounds he met a Progressive canvasser, who greeted him with "Well, I see your photograph is on all the posters in deep mourning. I suppose it is for the sins of the Municipal Reform party?" Mr. Alexander's retort was that after Saturday he would have the posters taken down and substitute a figure in wedding garments.

Mr. Walter Reynolds also had the distinction of heading the poll, being returned for Hampstead in the Moderate interest with a majority of 2,000 over his opponent. Three years of invaluable work on the late Council stands to the credit of Mr. Reynolds.

The annual general meeting of the George Edwardes' Golfing Society was held on Thursday in the offices of Mr. Hart, 20, Wellington-street, Strand, W.C. There was a good attendance of members, over which Mr. Marsh Allen presided. The secretary's report and the balance-sheet were unanimously passed. Mr. George Edwardes was re-elected captain, Mr. A. J. Evelyn hon. secretary, and Mr. A. Hart hon. treasurer. Messrs. James Blakeley and Dr. J. Williams were appointed to fill vacancies on the committee. The spring meeting was fixed for May 21, at Ashford Manor.

Mr. Martin Harvey this evening concludes the first week of his successful stay in Glasgow at the King's Theatre, where he is being nightly received with much enthusiasm. On Monday week Mr. Harvey reappears in Liverpool at the Court Theatre, where by general desire, he will present a programme of his older successes. The popular actor is subsequently to appear at the King's Theatre, Hammersmith, and at the Kennington Theatre, prior to his visit to Dublin, where Richard III. is due for production on April 13.

The King has been pleased to approve the appointment of Mr. Rufus Daniel Isaacs, K.C., to be Solicitor-General, in place of Sir Samuel Thomas Evans, K.C. One of Mr. Isaac's sisters married Mr. Alfred Sutro, the dramatist, and another sister is the wife of our esteemed Paris correspondent, Mr. A. Keyser.

"When Knights Were Bold," under its German title of In der goldenen Ritterzeit, will be produced at the New Theatre, Berlin, on Tuesday. The performance is being looked forward to with unusual interest by the local public and critics.

Sir Herbert Tree has been compelled by the extended plans for the London Shakespeare Festival, to be given this year at His Majesty's Theatre, to arrange with Mme. Marie Brema that the production of Glück's Orpheus, announced for six matinées at His Majesty's, shall be transferred to another house. Sir Herbert Tree is greatly indebted to Mme. Brema for her ready courtesy in submitting to the considerable inconvenience caused by this change of plan. It has proved absolutely essential owing to the many rehearsals necessitated by the very lengthy repertory of plays to be given during April at the London Shakespeare Festival. The six matinées of Orpheus will therefore be given at the Savoy Theatre on the same dates as originally announced, viz., Tuesdays, April 12 and 19; Thursdays, April 14 and 21; Fridays, April 15 and 22.

Mr. Charles Quartermaine, whose marriage with Miss Madge Titheradge was celebrated at Holy Trinity Church, Sloane Street, on Tuesday, made his reappearance in Mr. Rudolf Besier's brilliant comedy Don at the Kingsway Theatre at the matinée on Wednesday afternoon.

Murray King and Clark have secured from Mr. Charles Frohman the provincial and suburban rights of the popular musical comedy, The Catch of the Season, which they will tour from Easter. Mr. Murray King will himself appear in the cast, and will be supported by a strong company.

Mr. Forbes Robertson will remain in New York for the rest of the season, and will return to Maxine Elliott's theatre for a short engagement in the autumn. After that he will tour the larger cities of the East and the Middle West, playing five weeks at the Garrick Theatre in Chicago, four weeks at the new Shubert Theatre in Boston, one week in Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Louisville, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Cleveland, and Pittsburgh; and three nights in Detroit, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Providence, Hartford, New Haven, and Albany. In Canada he will appear for one week at Toronto, one week at Montreal, three nights in Ottawa, and one night in London, Hamilton, and Kingston. In spite of the small size of Maxine Elliott's theatre, Mr. Forbes Robertson has been playing to weekly receipts of more than 10,000 dollars.

The Shakespeare Memorial Theatre Committee has decided to issue invitations to the public and to assist in promoting the movement by enrolling their names as associates. The annual subscription has been fixed at 5s., and a minimum donation of £5 will make the giver a life associate and confer upon him the privilege of free access to the library, gallery, and gardens, and the right to elect representatives to serve with the governors and other ex-officio members of the Festival Committee.

Mr. Lewis Waller has decided to entrust the part of Sir Lucius O'Trigger in his production of The Rivals at the Lyric to Mr. Leonard Boyne, who has already proved himself an excellent Captain Jack Absolute. Miss Beatrice Ferrar will play Lucy.

A bronze statue of Peter Pan is to be unveiled in a leafy corner of Kensington Gardens, close to the edge of the Serpentine. Sir George Frampton, R.A., is the sculptor of the statue. Peter, in a clinging shirt, with bare arms and legs, is poised on a gnarled tree stump, playing on a pipe of reeds. Fairies and elves are peeping out in delight from the tangled roots at his feet. The figure will stand nine feet high, on a stone pedestal.

The Mayor of Chelsea presided on Tuesday night at the Town Hall, Chelsea, over a meeting in favour of the erection in London of a Shakespeare Memorial Theatre. Among those present was Miss Ellen Terry. The Hon. Mrs. Alfred Lyttelton deplored the fact that nothing had ever been done to commemorate the great dramatist in London. If she were a clergyman she would rather collect funds for a national theatre for drama, which appealed to two or three senses, than for many of the ordinary institutions and societies. The misfortunes of the drama had, to a great extent, been its popularity. It could live by itself, and for that reason had not been supported by the State as other arts had been. If only everyone who went to theatres and had laughed there, or cried there, would say "I owe something to this art, which has given me so much pleasure," they would quickly have the £500,000 that was required. Amongst the subscriptions announced at the meeting was one of £100 from Mr. E. J. Horniman.

Amongst the fashionable audience which was present at the Duke of York's Theatre on Wednesday evening and witnessed Mr. Charles Frohman's production of The Madras House, were Lady Lewis, Mrs. Bradley Martin, Prince Francis of Teck, Marchioness of Ripon, Lady Northcliffe, Countess Armin, Lady Bell, Princess Hatzfeldt, Lady Jekyll, Baron von Ernsthausen, Sir F. MacMillan, and Lady Tennant.

Mr. George Edwardes, who has returned from Biarritz in excellent health, has secured, to follow The Dollar Princess at Daly's Theatre, The Count of Luxembourg, which is still running in Vienna, and he has a promise from the composer—Herr Franz Lehar, who wrote The Merry Widow—that he will come to London for the production, whenever it may be. Mr. Edwardes has also got another fine musical piece, Geschiedene Frau (The Divorced Wife), composed by Dr. Leo Fall, of Dollar Princess fame. After The Count of Luxembourg he will produce at Daly's a new and tuneful work composed by Maria de Costa, and called Capitaine Fracasse. Its plot is founded on the story in Theophile Gautier's novel of that name. Capitaine Fracasse has been produced in Italy with great success.

Miss Gertie Millar will appear at the Adelphi Theatre in the autumn in a new musical play, in three acts, by Lionel Monckton and James Tanner. Its scenes are laid in an English country house, a shop in Paris, and in a palace in another capital. Mr. Edwardes intends to greatly improve the Adelphi and to make it the most beautiful playhouse in London.

Mr. Edwardes will find another theatre at which to present the Russian Imperial Opera and Ballet from St. Petersburg and Moscow in short operas and ballets. This engagement will be one of the greatest organisations of dancers in the world. The season will open in June.

It is good news for all lovers of Shakespeare to learn that Mr. Lyn Harding is returning to His Majesty's to support Sir Herbert Tree in the latter's revivals of The Merry Wives of Windsor and Julius Cæsar.

M. Edmond Rostand's play, Chantecler, was much enjoyed by the King, who saw it on Monday night in Paris. After the third act the King sent for M. Henri Hertz, the manager, and warmly congratulated him on the success of the piece.

"Tantalizing Tommy" has caught on at The Playhouse, and is packing Mr. Maude's delightful theatre at every performance. A company of exceptionally good artists will start a tour of this extremely funny comedy in August, under the management of Messrs. Lyn Harding and Sidney Cooper.

Mr. William Vokes, who is at present performing so successfully in The Blue Bird at the Haymarket Theatre, is once more turning his attention to instruction in stage dancing. No doubt many of our readers will remember his clever character dances at the Empire some years back. He will be assisted by Miss Alice Vokes, première danseuse for many seasons at the Kratofski Theatre, St. Petersburg, and Palais Crystal, Marseilles.

Patrons of the Crystal Palace Theatre will once more have the opportunity of welcoming that charming old lady Charley's Aunt, who will arrive on Monday next, and stay for one week. She will be accompanied by a strong company which will include Mr. Stanley Cooke as Lord Fancourt Babberley, Mr. Theo McCausland Stewart as Sir Francis Chesney, Mr. Roy Byford as Stephen Spettigue, Mr. Sidney Compton as the lugubrious Brasset, Mr. Robert Burnett as Chas. Wykeham, and Mr. Chas. King as Jack Chesney. As Donna Lucia Miss Enid Ross is sure to win admiration, Miss Bertha Wilson will be Ella Delahay, Miss Ruth Henton, Kitty Verdun, and Miss Phyllis Back, Amy Spettigue. Mr. Cecil Barth for Mr. Brandon Thomas (the well-known author of the piece) is responsible for the whole production.

Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison have arranged with Mr. Chas. Frohman for the entire provincial rights of Arsène Lupin. Mr. Hutchison will himself play the title-rôle, but owing to his engagements with Brewster's Millions this spring and next autumn, Arsène Lupin will not go on tour until next Christmas, an arrangement to which Mr. Frohman has kindly consented. The entire London production, including all the wonderful trick scenery, will be toured.

Miss Pauline Straus, who played Janich in Brewster's Millions on Monday last at a few hours' notice, made such a success that Mr. Percy Hutchison has retained her for the part for the remainder of the spring tour. Mr. Hutchison has also engaged Miss Straus to play one of the leading rôles in his autumn tour of Smith.

Miss Lilian Braithwaite has been engaged to play the part of the Princess de Chabran in Dame Nature at the Garrick Theatre, owing to Miss Nancy Price having to return to Drury Lane.

Mr. Thomas Beecham and Mr. Thomas Quinlan propose to take a tour in the English provinces, and subsequently give seasons of opera in America, Australasia, and South Africa, and Mr. Quinlan is opening a musical bureau in New York for the purpose, and is sending a representative to Australia to make arrangements. It is intended to take the company at present performing at Covent Garden to America, and to produce the most successful of the various grand and light operas included in the repertory of Mr. Beecham's three English seasons.

Mr. Jerome K. Jerome's quite possible play, Fanny and the Servant Problem, will be revived at the West Pier, Brighton, next week, where Mr. Arthur Shelton presents Mr. Horace Lingard and Miss Beatrice Moreau in the parts of Bennett, the butler, and Fanny, the actress. A strong company will include the Misses Miriam Holt and Rita Sponti as the two spinsters, Mr. Russell Davis as the young baronet, and Mr. Wilfred Compton in the part of the theatrical manager, George Newte.

During a performance on the 5th inst. at the Opera House at Czernowitz, Austria, Herr Leopold Demuth, principal baritone in the Imperial Opera, Vienna, died suddenly in the artists' room.

The Harrogate Kursal will re-open on March 24. Mr. Julian Clifford has this year arranged for twenty-six symphony concerts, to take place every Wednesday afternoon during the season. Each programme will include a symphony and a solo instrumentalist from London. The orchestra will number forty-five performers, and for such works as the Elgar symphony, the closing scene from the Götterdammerung, &c., it will be augmented to sixty performers. Mr. Julian Clifford will personally conduct each performance.

The annual conference of the Actors' Church Union will be held on Monday, May 30, at 2.30 p.m., in the Queen's Theatre, Shaftesbury-avenue, which has been kindly lent by Mr. H. B. Irving. The chair will be taken by the Lord Bishop of Southwark. The annual service will take place at St. Mary Abbot's, Kensington, on Sunday, June 5, at 4 p.m., when the preacher will be the Rev. F. L. Boyd, vicar of St. Paul's, Knightsbridge.

The New Theatre Co., New York—popularly known as the Millionaires' Theatre—has secured from Mr. Trench the American rights in Maeterlinck's exquisite fairy play, The Blue Bird, now running so successfully at the Haymarket.

A distinguished guest will be welcomed to Eastbourne on Thursday, when Mr. George Alexander and the entire St. James's Theatre company will pay a flying visit to Murray King and Clark's charming theatre. Practically all the seats were sold out immediately after the announcement was made. On Easter Tuesday afternoon the wonderful Sicilian actors will give a flying matinée for Murray King and Clark at Eastbourne.

"His Real Wife," the new play produced at the Court Theatre, Warrington at Christmas, is meeting with every success on tour. One scene especially, that of the twenty minutes' trial, is creating quite a sensation. It is remarkably well written, finely stage managed, and powerfully acted.

Messrs. Glenville and Osmond have entered upon their seventh year of management with the Still Alarm, which opened on Monday last, to a crowded house, at the Lyric, Hammersmith. The first anniversary of For Wife and Kingdom at the Alexandra Theatre, Sheffield, was celebrated on the same day, which Messrs. Glenville and Osmond consider their lucky one, for it was on that day that both of their phenomenally successful plays were produced. At Whitsuntide the enterprising partners are producing Arrah-na-Pogue for a summer tour, and are also undertaking a six weeks' stock season for Mr. Fred Warden at the Theatre Royal, Belfast, autumn tours of Still Alarm and For Wife and Kingdom following.

Mr. Alfred Hemming, after four years' globe-trotting, having visited Canada, the United States, California, Mexico, Germany, Bohemia, Austria, and Holland, is home again, and has been assisting his old friend John Tiller in the production of four pantomimes this winter. Mr. Hemming has been secured by Mrs. Mark Kinghorne to reproduce Geo. R. Sims' comedy, Mother-in-Law, and to play the part of Pownceby during her forthcoming spring tour. It may be recalled that Mr. Sims wrote the comedy specially for Mr. Hemming, who originally produced it at the little Prince of Wales Theatre, Liverpool.

Mr. Robert Courtneidge, in order to give the artists who have been playing in The Arcadians for a year without a break a rest, has decided to close the Shaftesbury Theatre from March 21 to 26, when the run will be resumed. On and after March 26 the part of Eileen Cavanagh will be played by Mr. Courtneidge's daughter, Miss Cicely Courtneidge.

The management of the Royal Artillery Theatre, Woolwich, finding the renaming of the building the "Opera House" is impracticable, will revert to the former title.

Miss Lily Elsie and Miss Dorothea Baird will be the guests of the O.P. Club at the Ladies' Annual Dinner to be held at the Hotel Cecil on April 10, and will respond to the toast of "The Ladies," proposed by the President, Mr. A. E. W. Mason. The toast of "The O.P. Club" will be proposed by Mr. H. B. Irving.

The annual Conference of the British Empire Shakespeare Society was held recently at Seaford House (kindly lent by Lord Howard de Waldon), with the President of the Society, Her Highness Princess Marie Louise of Schleswig-Holstein, in the chair, supported by Lord Howard de Waldon, Mr. Arthur Bourchier, Mr. H. B. Irving, Mr. Alan Mackinnon (Vice-Presidents), and Miss Morritt and Mr. Acton Bond (Hon. General Directors). The branches were represented by delegates from Warwick, Leamington, Weston-super-Mare, Stratford-on-Avon, Ealing, Norwood, New Cross, Ripon, Dublin, Birmingham, Sheffield, Bristol, and Cheltenham. Mr. A. D. Flower, Chairman of the Shakespeare Memorial, Stratford-on-Avon, was also present. Mr. George Alexander, another of the Society's Vice-Presidents, was unavoidably prevented from attending.

Mr. Charles Frohman has arranged with Mr. Arthur Chudleigh to produce at the Comedy Theatre at Easter the new American burglar play by Mr. Paul Armstrong, called Alias Jimmy Valentine. The four acts of the piece take place in America, one of them in Sing Sing Prison, New York. The piece is now in rehearsal for London, and Mr. Gerald du Maurier, who played the leading rôle in Raffles and Arsène Lupin, will do so in Alias Jimmy Valentine. Miss Alexandra Carlisle will be the heroine.

The centenary of the birth of the famous opera singer, Mario, Conte de Candia, falls due this year, though some accounts give the year of his birth as 1812. Mario was once an officer in the Italian Army, but was exiled owing to the political views he held. Subsequently, when he had achieved world-wide fame as an operatic tenor, he became a great patron of art, and tribute to this side of his character will be paid at an exhibition which will be given at the Ryder Gallery, Albemarle-street, W., on the 17th inst.

Among the many things to be shown which once belonged to Mario are a dagger and sword which he wore as Romeo, the ivory brush given him in 1855 by his American admirers, and the ivory and gold cigarette case which Ouida threw on to the stage of Covent Garden Theatre on the last night Mario played at the English home of opera. Other souvenirs of considerable interest which will be on view are the veil worn by Marie Louise of Austria and given by Napoleon III. to Mario; a small MSS. prayer-book of Mme. du Barry, with her signature; and the sceptre carried by the last King of Poland.

Mr. Charles Frohman, who returned to London from Paris on Wednesday, has secured the American rights of Chantecler, which he will produce in English in the United States in the autumn. Mr. Frohman has also secured the rights of The Foolish Virgin, a four-act play by Henri Bataille, now running at the Gymnase Theatre, and will produce it in London in the autumn; those of Henri Lavedan's Sire, so successful at the Comédie Française; those of The Unknown Dancer, a comedy which has been running for several months at the Athenée; and those of a new comedy shortly to be produced at the Varieties.

Signor Caruso is receiving many threatening letters from members of the notorious "Black Hand" Society, who are furious with him for having ignored their demand for $15,000, and for having placed the matter in the hands of the police. Although the letters declare that no amount of police protection will avail to save him from assassination, the singer says he is being so efficiently guarded by the police that he does not feel in the least frightened by the "Black Hand" threats, and will continue to fulfil his operatic engagements.

Mrs. Kendal writes to correct the statement that she is to appear in a one-act play. Mrs. Kendal says she has retired from the stage. She may sometimes recite or read for any good cause, but that is all.

The Prince and Princess of Wales and suite went to the Globe Theatre on Wednesday evening to see The Tenth Man.

On Tuesday last, before a full bench of magistrates, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes was granted a music and dancing licence for the Grand Theatre, Derby. This licence is in addition to the existing full dramatic and excise licences, and carries out a suggestion made by us in a recent article. The double licence will be a great boon to Mr. Edwardes, as it will give him more scope to cater for the amusement of the Derby public by enabling him to vary his entertainments to suit the popular taste.

Miss Ellaline Terriss, happily restored to vigorous health by her sojourn abroad, will return to London in about a fortnight. The popular comedienne will then engage in rehearsals of The Man from Cook's, the new sketch by Mr. Seymour Hicks, with whom she will fulfil a five weeks' engagement at the Coliseum.

Lesser Columbus's sensational play, The World, the Flesh, and the Devil, after a long tour of the provinces, makes its reappearance in London, after exactly one year's interval, on Easter Monday at the Pavilion Theatre, where it was originally produced. Mr. Will Taylor has been engaged as business-manager. The cast is a powerful one, and includes Mr. Henry Doughty, Mr. John Sargent, Mr. Will Harman, Mr. Eardley-Howard, Miss Dora Hammersley, Miss Florence Castelle, and Miss Constance Coopman. A new set of scenery and properties has been prepared.

At the conclusion of the Court Theatre season of The Merchant of Venice, Mr. Arthur Phillips is making a short tour of leading provincial cities with the complete production. The bookings include Manchester, Edinburgh, and Glasgow. Negotiations are pending for a return visit to London and the production of a new play.

Mr. Alfred B. Croll, who was so popular as assistant manager at the King's, Glasgow, received a hearty welcome from his many friends on his return to that city this week as treasurer of Sir Herbert Tree's company in Pinkie and the Fairies, which is proving a big draw on tour.

From Monday next The Best People, on tour under the direction of Mr. Frank Weathersby, will be preceded by a new curtain-raiser, The Teeth of Necessity. The piece, described as "a dialogue with interruptions," is by Mr. Arthur Eckersley, author of A Boy's Proposal. The scene is laid in a dentist's waiting-room.

The Carl Rosa Opera Company will shortly perform at Manchester, for the first time in England, Carl Goldmark's opera The Queen of Sheba. The cast will include Mr. Charles Victor, Mr. Alexander Richard, Mr. Walter Wheatley, Mr. Hebden Foster, Miss Ina Hill, Miss Annie Van Dyck, and Miss Doris Woodall. The opera will be produced under the joint direction of Messrs. Eugene Goossens and George Beale.

Mr. Alexander Henderson will produce The Islander, a new musical comedy by Major Frank Marshall and Mr. Michael Faraday, at the Apollo Theatre on or about April 21. Artists already engaged are Miss Elsie Spain, Miss Elaine Inescort, Miss Mabel Burnege, Miss Ethel Morrison, Mr. Fred Allandale, Mr. Reginald Lawrence, Mr. Lawrence Legge, Master Bobbie Andrews, and Mr. Neil Kenyon.

The rector of All Hallows, London Wall, continuing on Wednesday his course of Lenten luncheon-hour lectures on the "Morality of Social Pleasures," said he would encourage young people to take part in amateur theatricals and pageants. Drama sprang from the universal love of imitation. It had always semed strange to him that those who cried "Anathema!" on acting took part in pageants. In all ages and amongst all races rhythm and measured movement had been the outward manifestation of inward feeling. "David danced before the Lord with all his might." Whilst dancing had never been admitted among the ties of Christianity, it had always been popular with Christians. A ballet might have well-designed dances, and be very beautiful to watch. For the majority, acting and dancing were more desirable than the practice of loafing and gossiping indulged in by the critics of those innocent amusements.

Encouraged by the success of his stock season at Kennington Theatre last summer, when 60,000 people witnessed the revival of various melodramas in the course of six weeks, Mr. Robert Arthur has made arrangements with Mr. G. R. Sims and the executors of Mr. H Pettitt and Mr. Robert Buchanan, for the presentation of the more popular of their productions at Kennington during a short season, which will commence shortly after Whit-week, or in Whit-week itself. The plays which will be revived include A Woman's Revenge, Harbour Lights, The Lights of Home, The English Rose, Hands Across the Sea, The White Rose, and In the Ranks. Mr. R. Arthur has made preparations to present these various pieces in a manner worthy of the original productions. He proposes to run some of the dramas for a fortnight, as, owing to the popularity of several pieces during last year's run, he had to repeat them. Mr. Robert Arthur is leaving the practical arrangements of the season in the hands of Mr. H. B. Brandreth, the manager at Kennington, who may be relied on to ensure that the success of last year will be repeated. Mr. Brandreth's efforts, it may be mentioned, are likely to be emulated by other suburban managers this summer, as steps are being taken at several theatres to run stock seasons. Mr. Robert Arthur and Mr. Bernhardt announce a high-class concert at Kennington Theatre for the afternoon of Good Friday. Several well-known artists have been engagod to appear.

Miss Celia Gordon, this week playing Mrs. Ponderbury in Mrs. Ponderbury's Past at the New Theatre, Cardiff, has been engaged for Mrs. Sinclair in Don, thus entering upon her fifth engagement with the Hutchison management.

The new play For Old Time's Sake, by Watson Mill, will be presented for the first time at the Carlton Theatre, Birmingham, on Monday, March 21. The piece will be in the hands of a strong and talented company.

Mr. Percy Hutchison's appearance as Monty Brewster in the supreme success Brewster's Millions with his Wyndham's Theatre company at the King's Theatre, Hammersmith, this week has met with a most gratifying reception, business being exceptionally good every evening. Mr. Hutchison's performance has aroused enormous enthusiasm, and the great yacht scene has created quite a sensation, curtain after curtain being taken nightly.

Miss Florrie Groves well known in London and the provinces, both in theatre and music hall, for her remarkably clever performance as Judy when Miss Mary Neil and Mr. George Kirk toured the play of that name, is now playing Charlotte Siddons with Mr. Seymour Hicks' production of The Gay Gordons, the present tour of which terminates at Kelly's Theatre, Liverpool, next week. The spring tour starts at Blackpool Easter week, when Miss Groves will again appear as the showman's wife.

Mr. Robert Ganthony will shortly publish a new series of monologues, which he will give on tour with his sister, Miss Nellie Ganthony. One, entitled Garge, will be produced on the halls as a dramatic incident.

Mr. Norman V. Norman gave some special performances of David Garrick last week at the Devonshire Park Theatre, Eastbourne. The audiences were most enthusiastic, Mr. Norman and Miss Beatrice Wilson, who played Ada Ingot, being repeatedly called before the curtain.

Miss Marie Studholme, alias Miss Hook of Holland, is putting up for one week commencing March 14 at Mr. Robert Arthur's theatre at Kennington. Matinées at this theatre, it should be added, now take place at 2 instead of 2.30.

The Pier Theatre, Eastbourne, will in future be booked by Mr. Milton Bode, and all communications re dates should be addressed to him at the County Theatre, Reading. All other communications to G. Hayes, Pier, Eastbourne.

A copyright performance was given on Thursday at the Ladbroke Hall, Notting Hill, W., of a musical play, entitled A Skylark, the book by William Harris and the music by Frank G. Dossert.

The grand opera season at Covent Garden will begin on April 23, and will continue until July 30. On the opening night Mme. Tetrazzini will appear in one of her favourite parts. The only new opera to be produced is Luparra's Habanera, which Mlle. Demellier—a newcomer—who created the part of Pilar, the heroine, will appear. Two cycles of the Ring and two performances of Tristan and Isolde—all without cuts—have been arranged, under Dr. Richter's direction. Among other revivals will be Delibè's Lakmé, Donizetti's Linda di Chamounix, Debussy's Pelleas and Melisande, Otello, Aïda, and Pagliacci.

The tour of the second company of Miss Lancashire, Limited, has proved so successful that Miss Florence Baines, in consequence of numerous applications for dates, has decided to run it right through the summer.

The Sicilian players will produce on Wednesday at the Lyric a drama called Juan José, and on Friday a farce named Cavalier Padagna.

A trade union of Dramatic and Lyric Theatre Artists was formed in Paris a few weeks ago, and the amalgamation is now agitating for a minimum wage of £8 a month. The secretary of the new Union declares that even £8 a month could not be counted upon all the year round. Allowance being made for the off-season, it would work out at about 4s. a day throughout the year. Demands are also made for the suppression of fines, which are "both humiliating to our self-respect and a cruel drain on our slim purses."

In the event of no satisfaction being obtained, the society asserts that it will not hesitate to go on strike, adding that, should they do so, they would be backed by the Union of Lyric Artists, the Union of Chorists, and the Federation of Musician-Artists of France, which includes thirty-six branch unions all over the country; the Union of Stage Hands and Carpenters, the Union of Choreographic Artists, the Union of Small Employees of Theatres and Music Halls, and the Union of Theatre Electricians. While admitting that the granting of their claims would increase managerial expenses, the Union suggests that they should be recouped out of the authors' rights and the poor law tax on theatres. Authors and paupers, it is quaintly added, alike could afford to give up a little to ensure a minimum of £8 a month.

The decision with regard to the play for which a prize of £300 was offered by one of the governors of the Memorial Theatre, at Stratford-on-Avon, has been arrived at, the successful competitor being Mrs. Lionel Marks, of Cambridge, Mass., U.S.A., who writes under the nom de plume of Josephine Preston Peabody. Three hundred and fifteen plays were submitted, out of which the Reading Committee selected two, which were submitted to the Duke of Argyll. The successful work is entitled The Piper, and deals in an entirely new manner with the old legend of "The Pied Piper of Hamelin." The play will be produced on the evening of May 5 by Mr. Benson and his company during the forthcoming Shakespeare Festival at Stratford-on-Avon.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Mr. George Grossmith's Difficulty.

SEVERAL artists have been giving their experiences of acting under difficulties to the East African Standard. "The greatest difficulty under which I ever played," says Mr George Grossmith, jun., "was when I was touring in America with Mrs. Langtry's company several years ago. We arrived at a small town just over the Canadian border, where we decided unexpectedly to give a performance. The town did not boast of a theatre, so we had to play in the Town Hall on a small and imperfectly-constructed stage. Below the stage were a couple of small cellars, and these were monopolised by the ladies of the company for dressing-rooms. The male portion of the company had to be content with a little outhouse large enough to hold one man comfortably, so that when six of us were in it became a matter of difficulty to move; and the worst of it was that we were all in a hurry.

"Then we discovered that we had no looking-glass. To 'make-up' without the aid of a mirror is a physical impossibility, so someone went to look for one, and returned with a small bit of a broken mirror, before which we all tried to 'make-up' at the same time. Somehow or other we managed to do so, and the play went off capitally, though I felt every moment I was on the stage that some of my garments were coming off, a most uncomfortable sensation, which I have no wish to experience again."

Miss Evie Greene's Experience.

"WHEN I was quite a little girl," said Miss Evie Greene, "I played on a stage which was constructed in the simplest manner possible by placing some dozen planks on about half that number of beer barrels. I was warned by the manager to be careful, and not to advance further down the stage than about the middle of it. However, in the excitement of singing my song, I advanced further than was safe, a fact I was reminded of by seeing the stage in front of me collapse suddenly, and I beat a hasty retreat, amidst the cheers of the audience.

"Our manager, however, was quite equal to the occasion; he had the stage hastily reconstructed, several of the audience assisting in the work, and then, amid renewed cheering, I came on and finished my song. We had a chorus of eight, but the stage was not considered of a sufficiently durable character to permit of their coming on, so the chorus was chanted from behind the scenes. I was quite a little girl at the time, only about twelve."

Miss Jeffreys' Ankle.

"THE most difficult or, rather, painful circumstance in which I have played," said Miss Ellis Jeffreys, "was during my first tour in America with Mr. John Hare's company. I was at Washington and was engaged to appear a little while later in Philadelphia in the Notorious Mrs. Ebbsmith. A few days before I left Washington I had the misfortune to slip in the street and to break my ankle. Foolishly ignoring medical advice, I determined to keep my engagement, instead of resting until my ankle was quite strong. By the time I got on the stage my ankle had swollen very considerably, and then I began to suffer agonies which make me feel even now quite creepy to recall. After playing for about ten minutes I had to get a couple of sticks which I used as crutches during the whole performance, through which I managed to hobble in the most dire pain. As a result I was afterwards laid up for three months.

On Short Notice.

"THE greatest difficulty, however, which I had ever to encounter in playing a part was on an occasion when I was offered a rôle in The Mountebanks (then running at the Lyric) at 12 o'clock on Saturday morning and played it at the matinée the same day a couple of hours later. The part I allude to was that which had been played by Miss Lucile Saunders. She was taken ill suddenly on Saturday morning, and a message was sent over from the Lyric to the Criterion Theatre, where I was rehearsing for a new production at the time, to ask me if I would take Miss Saunders' part that afternoon. At first I thought the manager of the Lyric had gone mad, but the message was couched in too businesslike and sane language to admit long of this idea, and so, after I had obtained Sir Charles Wyndham's consent, I rushed off to the Lyric. It was then about half-past twelve; the matinée began at two, so that I had but a little over an hour to study a part which I had never seen before. A rehearsal was of course quite out of the question. I learnt my lines as I dressed and sang them over as I 'made up.'

"By two o'clock I had learnt enough to get me through part of the first act; during the rest of the piece I had to learn my lines in the wings whenever I was off the stage for a few minutes, and so I managed to get through the part without breaking down or having to look at the prompt book whilst I was on the stage."

A Painful Experience.

"WHEN I was touring in the North some little time ago," says Mr. Seymour Hicks, "as I got out of my cab at the stage door I somehow managed to slip and hurt my ankle. I did not think much of the incident at the moment, but when I was singing a song at the end of the piece, I suddenly felt a most agonising sensation in my ankle as if someone had placed a red-hot iron on it. I managed, however, to finish the song without breaking down, but the perspiration was running off my face with the agony I was suffering when I came off the stage. I had injured a tendon in my ankle, and though it was really not serious, I was laid up for a couple of days."

A Trick of Memory.

IN the March instalment of the late Mme. Modjeska's Memoirs, in the Century Magazine, Modjeska mentions an opportune dream. She says:—"Early in October we went to Cracow. When we arrived in town I learned that I was announced for the next evening in the part of Adrienne. This was an unwelcome surprise, because, not having played the part in Polish since the spring of 1876, I was not sure of my lines. My husband asked me if I remembered my part. 'Not at all,' I replied, quite distressed. And, indeed, when I tried to recollect the Polish words, only the English text came to my mind. I sent to the stage-manager for the manuscript, but it was too late; the theatre was closed. There was nothing left but to plan a way of getting out of the performance. But how? To change the bill would be regarded as a slighting of the occasion. It would surely place me in an unfavourable light, for no one would believe I ever could forget a part I had played so often. The only remedy left was to make a mental translation of the English words and depend upon chance. This was against my principles. I went to bed with my mind full of disastrous forebodings; the fatigue, however, soon closed my eyes, and I slept soundly. When I woke in the morning, the first thing that came to my mind were the Polish lines of my part. In my great joy, I called my husband, and began to recite it aloud to him. 'How did you do it?' he asked. 'I do not know; I must have read it in my sleep, for I dreamed I saw the manuscript on my dressing-table.' At the rehearsal I never stopped for a word; I knew my part to the smallest detail."

We shall be obliged if our readers will send us any amusing anecdotes they may hear, or accounts of any quaint incidents they may witness while acting or rehearsing.

The Fighting Chance, up to the end of the second act, is a model of construction, and in its entirety the piece is an example of popular melodrama. The authors, however, have not obeyed the rule of melodrama—and, indeed, of all drama—to contrive to keep the hero, heroine, and villain before the audience up to the end of the play. The hero of The Fighting Chance almost disappears in the third act; and the villain, who is usually allowed to live and develop his wicked schemes until about a quarter to eleven is prematurely cut off in so pitiful a plight that a reaction almost takes place in his favour in the hearts of the audience. The play, however, is full of dramatic movement, and its merits decidedly outweigh its defects. We start with the always effective motive of jealousy to urge the villain on his path of crime. Captain Philip Rivers is in love with Ethel Hardy; but she prefers his cousin, Jim Blanchard, whom Rivers at once resolves to ruin. He has already played false with Joan Fielding, the fiancée of Stephen Blanchard, the brother of the General of the regiment. The girl was placed in Rivers's care by her sweetheart when he went abroad; and he seduced her. Rivers manages to put upon Jim a false charge of cheating at cards, and the young man is forced to send in his papers just as the regiment is ordered on active service. However, he determines to enlist and trust to time to clear his character. He departs, and Rivers persuades Stephen that Jim is Joan's seducer.

In the third act we are on the Indian frontier with an English regiment in a fort, surrounded by natives whom Rivers's cruelty has raised to the point of rebellion. Rivers insists on the execution of a prominent Tongiri on very uncertain proofs of guilt; but the fellow escapes, and news comes that Joan and Ethel, who have become military nurses, have been captured by the natives, and will be tortured unless Rivers is handed over to them to be dealt with instead. Stephen, who has also been captured, and has been cruelly tortured, is sent to the fort with this ultimatum. Rivers, however, cannot face the prospect, and shoots himself, after confessing his villainies.

But Jim Blanchard, in order to gain time, dresses up as Rivers, and is brought by an escort with a flag of truce to the Tongiris in the Shundar Pass. Anxiety is strained to the utmost, till at last the British troops arrive to the rescue. There is a spirited combat, and much firing; but in the end the Tongiris are vanquished, and General Blanchard clasps his son's hand with pride.

The acting of the piece had none of those imperfections of style which are sometimes noticeable in the coarser sorts of melodramatic production. Jim Blanchard, a hero of the good old Terriss type, was depicted in glowing colours by Mr. Robert Minster. It was a pity that the authors' scheme involved Jim's almost dropping out of the action in the later section of the play, for Mr. Minster had taken a firm hold on the sympathy of the audience by his earnest, spirited, and elevated acting, and they would have been glad to have seen more of him throughout. Mr. Minster was especially good in the scene in which the false accusation of cheating is made, and Jim's decision to enlist, announced with passionate fervour by the actor, brought down the house at the end of the second act. Seldom have authors been more successful in creating an intense feeling of hatred and contempt for their villain as was the case with the character of Captain Philip Rivers. The audience expressed its detestation very decidedly, and their groans and hisses were eloquent testimony to the effectiveness of the piece. The part was played by Mr. Eric Mayne, a Lyceum actor who is a specialist in villainy. Mr. Mayne has the art of rendering a bad man hateful in the extreme without being unnatural or melodramatic, and his incisive distinctness and sharp, clear enunciation redouble the effect of his impersonations. He excelled himself as Captain Philip Rivers, and for the sake of sport and interest his suicide in the third act was regrettable. A part which begins on the note of modern comedy, or, at any rate, of domestic drama, and develops into ghastly tragedy, is not easy to sustain; and Mr. Frederick Ross showed his strength and capacity by grappling successfully with the rôle of Stephen Blanchard. In the earlier part of the play he was solid, strong, and genial; and as the tortured prisoner, made almost unrecognisable by his sufferings, Mr. Ross gave a most awesome and energetic impersonation. As the grey-haired old General, who suffers so much when he believes his son to be a coward, Mr. Arthur Royston bore himself nobly, and his rendering of the General's stern reproof of Jim in the second act was very finely done. Mr. Halliwell Hobbes as the humane and enlightened surgeon, Dr. John Vorland, played the part with rare firmness and discretion; and Mr. Hubert Willis made the most of his few, but excellent, opportunities as Larry O'Brien. A performance, which was full of tender truth and affectionate earnestness was Miss Marjorie Chard's Marjorie Vorland; and Miss Phyllis Relph gave a picturesque and powerful representation of Joan Fielding, making the erring girl deeply interesting and sympathetic. Clever comedy was contributed by Miss Blanche Stanley—who has made herself a great favourite with Lyceum audiences—as Mrs. Effie Mackintosh; and some amusing scenes were lightly and brightly rendered by Mr. Hastings Lynn and Mr. Vivian Gilbert as two lively young Lieutenants. The old Colonel of the regiment had a sturdy representative in Mr. Geo. P. Polson; and other officers were depicted in soldierly style by Mr. Cecil Kinnaird and Mr. Cecil Saunders. Mr. A. V. Bramble played carefully and well as the Maharajah of Daulatpore; and true Oriental dignity and deliberation distinguished the Ali Khan of Mr. Percy Rhodes and the Yasseen Khan of Mr. Frank George. Mr. Sidney Vautier and Mr. Edward Pollard were excellent as the Headmen; Mr. Wilton James was good as a Hospital Orderly; and Mr. Frank Stone was efficient as a Sergeant; Miss Mary Forbes being smart and graceful as Mrs. Vanstart. Miss Ruth Maitland, who was charming as Ethel Hardy, acted with deep feeling and sweet sincerity. The uniforms and dresses were first rate, and the scenery, painted by E. C. Nicholls, was capital, especially the mountain pass set of the last act, with its clever dawn effect. The Fighting Chance was received with wild enthusiasm by an excited house.

One of the most successful of Mr. Charles Frohman's presentments at the Duke of York's Theatre is certainly The Madras House, which was received by a delighted audience on Wednesday last with almost uproarious delight. According to the most up-to-date fashion in plays, it is somewhat straggling in construction, and consists chiefly of discussions; but the conversations are so humorous, the situations are so odd, and the characters so cleverly sketched, that no one could wish the piece other than it is. The Madras House is a satire on modern feminism and an essay in favour of polygamy. We are first shown the consequences of monogamy in actual life. Mr. Huxtable, an old-fashioned tradesman, partner in the great firm of Roberts and Huxtable, milliners and dressmakers, is seen in his home at Denmark Hill, with his garrulous elderly wife and six unmarried daughters. The first act is devoted to depicting the dullness of the family and the soured resignation of the girls. An enthusiastic American, Eustace Perrin State, has made an offer for the business called "The Madras House"; and Mr. Huxtable is considering whether he ought to attend a meeting for negotiations, at which he is certain to meet his brother, Constantine Madras, with whom he has for long not been on speaking terms. Constantine is a philosopher, and he has turned Mohammedan, separated from his wife Amelia, and started a harem on the Euphrates. Old Huxtable is also worried about another matter. One of the employees at the Madras House, Marion Yates, is enceinte. The matron of the establishment, Miss Chancellor, has seen a salesman, Mr. Brigstock, kissing Miss Yates, and when that lady's condition is discovered, suspicion falls on Brigstock, who, by the way, is entirely innocent.

All this prepares us for a most amusing second act, in which Philip Madras, one of the partners, holds a formal enquiry into the Marion Yates affair. The scene is very diverting, with the unbending respectability of Miss Chancellor, the hysterical violence of Mrs. Brigstock, who demands a public apology for the slur on her husband's character, and the bright originality of Miss Yates, who is unashamed and impenitent, and resolved not to disclose the name of her companion. In the end matters are smoothed over after some very droll altercation.

In the third act a meeting is held to negotiate the sale of the Madras House to State. It becomes a kind of symposium. State is an exuberant and eccentric personage, a poetical man of business, who pours forth conventional sentiment by the yard, but his scheme of a new establishment in a great provincial town, at which the ladies are all served by handsome young athletes, and the men by well-mannered and attractive girls, is, he says, a great success. After State has had his say—and, though verbose, he is always amusing—and the pretty mannequins have displayed the latest fashions, some of which have been invented by notorious foreign cocottes, Constantine Madras holds forth against the feminisation of modern society, and praises highly the Mahommedan system. He points out to Huxtable how much better for him it would be if he could get one man to take all his daughters off his hands; and says that the whole system of modern female adornment is one of sexual allurement and irritation. Eventually the talk ends, and the sale of the business is concluded. In the last act Philip Madras, whose friend Major Hippisley Thomas, a married man with a family, has asked Philip, as a favour, not to invite him to his—Philip's—house so much, as he—Thomas—feels certain that he will end by making love to Mrs. Madras, tells his wife what Thomas has said. She is at first very angry; but she admits that, when she has been bored at times she has flirted with the Major, and the act ends with a serious conversation between her and Philip, in which he says that social reform and not self-indulgence should be the object of all humane and educated people. The act ends with a better understanding between the couple.

The finish and delicacy of the acting were extraordinary. Carried right through the piece with admirable humour and energy was the excellent performance of the part of Henry Huxtable by Mr. E. W. Garden, in which that fine comedian's ripe talent was conspicuously displayed. Miss Florence Haydon, as the placid, gently-babbling Mrs. Huxtable, gave a performance which could not have been improved upon; and Miss Ada Marius, Miss Elizabeth Chesney, Miss Joy Chatwyn, Miss Victoria Addison, Miss Sybil Thorndike, and Miss Nell Carter, without opportunities of individual distinction, supplied careful and satisfactory performances of the parts of the daughters. Mr. Charles Bryant's Major Hippisley Thomas was a highly artistic impersonation, the characteristics of the type being cleverly shown, and the personage being admirably individualised; and Mr. Dennis Eadie was unimpeachably cool, correct, and clear as Philip Madras. A typical modern woman in easy circumstances, luxurious by education and habit, and without serious occupation, was cleverly embodied by Miss Fay Davis, whose musical voice and wistful, impulsive style gave a touch of delicate sympathy to the character. Made up as a handsome, bearded Oriental-Englishman, Mr. Sydney Valentine lent to his reading of the part of Constantine Madras a calm dignity and assured affability which were very effective and engaging; his fine voice and the grand ease of his style made the creation a memorable one. Miss May Whitty was very natural and naïve as the unhappy Amelia Madras; and a really delightful embodiment of the romantic American speculator was supplied by Mr. Arthur Whitby, whose melodious delivery and picturesque and graceful manner made his performance intensely enjoyable. A quite original and alert interpretation of the character of Marion Yates was contributed by Miss Mary Jerrold, whose light, yet decided touch was very acceptable; Mr. Lewis Casson, cleverly made-up, gave a graphic depiction of the unlucky Brigstock; and the excitable Mrs. Brigstock was expressively enacted by Miss Mary Barton; Miss Geraldine Olliffe being a very important and eloquent Miss Chancellor. A dainty and truly comical little character sketch of the jaunty Mr. Windlesham was given by Mr. Charles Maude; and Mr. Donald Calthrop was decidedly good as Mr. Belhaven. Miss Asta Fleming, Miss Mair Vaughan, and Miss Mary Brenda made beautiful mannequins; and Miss Millie Emden and Miss Evangeline Hilliard were efficient in servants' parts. The scenery, designed by Keith Henderson and Norman Wilkinson, and painted by W. Hann, was pretty and effective; and the piece was very nicely dressed. The Madras House is a delicious bit of quaint humour and fantastic invention, with an underlying vein of serious purpose, and Mr. Frohman deserves the gratitude of all playgoers for producing it.

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

"LA BEFFA,"

Drama, in Four Acts, by M. Benelli, French Adaptation by M. Jean Richepin, Produced at the Sarah-Bernhardt on March 2.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, THURSDAY, March 9.—The above play had, we are told, a triumphant run in Italy. The success here will, I am afraid, be less marked. This kind of work thrives well on Italian soil, but cannot be transplanted here. Looking at the title, we all—that is to say, those who did not know Italian—thought that La Beffa was the name of the heroine—something like La Tosca or Fédora. After curtain rise we found out our mistake. In Italian a "beffa" is a practical joke; but the joke perpetrated upon Gianetto is so brutal and inhuman that we can hardly believe they did these things even at the court of the Medici in Florence. The story is as follows. Gianetto has a mistress, the beautiful courtesan Ginevra. Néri is his rival, and the latter plays the following "practical joke" on Gianetto. With the help of his brother Gabriel he seizes Gianetto, ties him up in a sack, and, having immersed him three times in the Arno, pricks him all over the body with a dagger. Gianetto pretends to laugh at this "joke," but he prepares his revenge. He defies Néri to go to a certain tavern dressed like a knight-errant, with armour, shield, &c. Néri accepts the bet; but Gianetto has informed the authorities that Néri is out of his mind, and the moment he arrives at the tavern in his grotesque disguise he is seized and thrown into a madhouse. This is Gianetto's "joke," and he and his mistress are convulsed with laughter over it. With the assistance of a girl called Lisabetta Néri escapes, and his "joke" will be to stab Gianetto. But the fun goes farther than he expected, for, instead of striking his rival, he kills his own brother Gabriel. The gruesome play was very well acted by Mme. Sarah Bernhardt and an efficient cast.

"REVE DE VALSE."

Operette, in Three Acts, Music by M. Oscar Strauss, French Adaptation by Xanrof and Chancel, Produced at the Théâtre Apollo on March 3.

Franzi ..... MLLE. ALICE BONHEUR
Princesse Hélène ..... MLLE. MILET
Frédérique ..... MLLE. DHERVILLY
Mme. de Lintzbach ..... MLLE. VALETTE
Maurice ..... M. DEFREYN
Prince Lothar ..... M. ARDOT
De Moussy ..... M. CASELLA
Joachim XIII. ..... M. FABRE
Sigismond ..... M. SERVAIS

M. Strauss had his work produced both in Vienna and in London, and it would have been better if the translators had adhered to the original version; but, in their anxiety to impart to it a "Parisian" cachet, they used the pepper-box a little too freely, with the result that young ladies will not care to take their grandmothers to see the piece. Maurice, a young French lieutenant, has, at a ball at the French Embassy in Vienna, kissed the Princess Hélène, whom he mistook for another lady. As he has compromised Hélène he has been compelled to marry her. He feels very miserable, for he yearns for his beloved Paris, and he is now riveted to Hélène. Fortunately for him Prince Lothar, who is in love with Hélène, shows him the way out of the difficulty by telling him that according to Austrian law his divorce will be pronounced ex officio unless his wife has a child by him before the year has elapsed. Maurice thereupon decides not to become a father, and on his wedding night he makes his escape through the window, and, with his friend de Moussy, goes to a public garden where a celebrated ladies' orchestra is playing. His escapade has, of course, created a commotion at the palace. His father-in-law and Lothar follow him to the garden and search for him everywhere, not knowing that at that moment he is making love to Franzi, the fascinating leader of the ladies' orchestra. Hélène, the deserted wife, and her lady-in-waiting also come upon the scene, and when a valse is struck up Maurice is compelled to dance with his wife. He returns to the palace, yet with the firm intention of not giving an heir to the family. But Franzi, a good-natured girl, comes to the rescue, Maurice clasps his wife in his arms, and Joachim XIII. rubs his hands with joy, for he is now certain that he will be grandfather within the year.

"LEONE,"

Opéra-Comique, in Four Acts, by Montorgeuil, Music by Samuel Rousseau, Produced at the Opéra-Comique on March 8.

Diana ..... MLLE. RAVEAU
Milia ..... MLLE. VAUCHELET
Catarina ..... MLLE. LASSALLE
Leone ..... M. SENS
Negroni ..... M. ALLARD
Pieri ..... M. VAURA
Massimo ..... M. CAZENEUVE
Le Moine ..... M. PAYAN

It is the story of a Corsican vendetta. Negroni, a sergeant, has been ordered to seize Leone, a bandit. But Leone is saved by Milia, Negrone's daughter, who promises to become his wife. Diana, Leone's sister-in-law, is mad with rage when she hears of Milia's engagement. Her husband has been killed by Negrone, and she reckoned on Leone to avenge him. She therefore invents a story, and tells Milia that she (Diana) is Leone's mistress, whereupon Milia, out of revenge, becomes the fiancée of Pieri, Massimo's son. When Leone returns from the mountains Diana confesses having told a lie. Milia throws herself into Leone's arms, but Negrone finds them together, and he arrests Leone. Milia is dying, and her father, to oblige her, brings his prisoner to her. Milia dies. Negrone gives Leone a chance of escaping, but Leone refuses. Having lost Milia, life has no charm for him. To this sombre libretto the late M. Rousseau has written some appropriate music. There are several fine love duets, and the end of the third act is most dramatic. The work was very well interpreted, and the staging was worthy of the traditions of the Opéra-Comique.

THE winner of the first tenor scholarship at the opening of the Royal College of Music, Mr. Thos. W. Page is a candidate for admission to the Royal Hospital for Incurables, Putney Heath. Mr. Page, who is now forty-six years of age, is quite unable to follow his professional work owing to a spinal affliction. Benevolent music lovers are invited to help his candidature by communicating with the secretary of the Royal Hospital for Incurables at the city offices, 4, St. Paul's Churchyard. A donation of one guinea will entitle the donor to four votes for the May election.

THE DRAMA IN BERLIN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, THURSDAY, March 10.—Under the absurdly uncouth title Hilfe! Ein Kind ist vom Himmel gefallen! a tragi-comedy in three acts, by Wilhelm Schmidtbonn, was produced last week at the Deutsches Chamber Plays. Were the author not one of our most esteemed playwrights, the reception would have doubtless been less favourable than it was. The average theatregoer was disappointed that the writer of the clever play Der Graf von Gleichen appeared so little to advantage, and many among the audience expressed their disapproval in strong terms, suiting the action to the words. Whether Herr Schmidtbonn was poking fun at the public was a question asked by others, who laughed frequently in the wrong place, while regarding the title all were unanimous—"Help! a child has fallen from heaven," was to nobody's liking. Some of the scenes are dramatic and interesting; the author is fond of themes which defy the law, and is at his best when depicting such. The unfortunate heroine is Maria, only daughter of a wealthy merchant, who is away on a journey. The rich man's country house is broken into one night by a young burglar named Franz, but Maria's fair beauty captivates the senses of the desperado. He outrages the lonely girl and leaves the house without having accomplished his primary object. Maria's father returns home from his travels to find his child a mother. The girl had concealed her shame as long as it was possible to do so. The father's fury is terrible, but his wife—an angel of gentleness and motherly solicitude—succeeds in appeasing him to some extent, and he declares himself willing to bow to the inevitable, but that the infant must be sent away and never enter his house again. All the maternal love of Maria rises up against this edict, and she is supported by her own mother. She will not give up her child, and now the grotesque part of the story happens; Maria not only will keep her offspring, but she will give it a father, and the rightful one into the bargain. She sets off on the quest, and ultimately finds the burglar in his quarters. The man is not all bad, but is naturally wide awake to the immense advantages of an alliance with the millionaire's daughter. Maria's first idea was to buy her child a name, that, after the conclusion of the marriage ceremony, Franz should leave her for ever, but the man is ambitious to keep his fair wife—and her money at the same time—and his boldness, and a certain rough charm gain Maria's heart. She tells her father that she is tired of the cold-blooded, white-livered men in her own walk of life, and with a tender leave of her mother—whom she is sure of seeing again before long—Maria goes off with her husband and their child. The interpretation was admirable; it certainly was no fault of the cast that the piece was not a great success. Herr von Winterstein as the elderly father, Fräulein Heins as Maria, Herr Hartau, in the rôle of the burglar, and Fräulein Kurz as the sympathetic mother of Maria—one and all gave faultless renderings. Very clever, too, were the impersonations by Herren Tiedtke and Gattowt of the hero's brother thieves.

"DER SELIGE TOUPINEL," Bisset's old but still amusing farce—it is known in English under the title of The Late Lamented—was revived at the Friedrich Wilhelm Städtisches Theatre last week, and met with so cordial a reception that it will certainly hold the boards for some time to come. The cast was capital, Herr Lettinger and Fräulein Rappo making the principal running.

AT the Hebbel Theatre the Academic Stage Association gave a performance on Wednesday evening. The programme consisted of three one-act plays, each more or less in the style of a satire. The most appreciated were Der Frosch, an Ibsen parody, by Otto Erich Hartleben, and Viktor Dyk's Trauerdiner. The former is already known here; the latter has for its theme the return at an inopportune moment of one who is believed to have gone over to the great majority. All the parts were acted fairly adequately, and the piece was satisfactorily mounted.

AT the Trianon the laughable farce Théodore and Cie, by MM. Nancey and Armont, has passed its twenty-fifth consecutive performance, while at the Hebbel Cavaliers has been given the same number of times. Both are still drawing well.

"THE WAY THE MONEY GOES."

Play, in Three Acts, by Lady Bell, Performed at the New Royalty Theatre on Monday, March 7.

Mrs. Riggs ..... MISS AGNES HILL
Mrs. Holroyd ..... MISS HELEN HAYE
Mrs. Tarlton ..... MISS MAY CONGDON
Slark ..... MR. REGINALD DANE
Mrs. Burrows ..... MISS MABEL ADAIR
Mrs. Smithson ..... MISS ESTELLE STEAD
Mrs. Dale ..... MISS L. M. REVELL
Mrs. Molony ..... MISS ELY MALYON
A Policeman ..... MR. ALFRED HARDING
John Holroyd ..... MR. H. NYE CHART
Vincent ..... MR. DOUGLAS GORDON
Sally Holroyd ..... MISS EVELYN KIRKBY
Jack Holroyd ..... MR. GUY HELBROUGH
A Hawker ..... MR. D. J. WILLIAMS
Mary Ann Jones ..... MISS MAY KENDAL
Mrs. Jones ..... MISS HELEN BOUCHER
Tom Tarlton ..... MR. FRANK COCHRANE
Jim Bates ..... MR. HOLLIDAY ATTLAY
Yock Denny ..... MR. REGINALD DANE
A County Court Bailiff .. MR. HOLLIDAY ATTLAY
Newspaper Boy ..... MR. WILLIAM H. BROWN

Lady Bell's play was fully noticed by us after its production at the Shaftesbury Theatre at a Stage Society matinée on Feb. 14, so we need not again describe the plot, and there are only a few changes in the cast. For instance, the part of the plausible betting agent, Slark, is now played by Mr. Reginald Dane, who gives an admirable and diverting rendering of the rôle formerly sustained by Mr. Leonard Calvert. The gambling "hand," Tom Tarlton, is depicted very graphically by Mr. Frank Cochrane, and Mr. D. J. Williams is excellent as the plausible hawker. The sturdy, masterful John Holroyd is again represented by Mr. H. Nye Chart, who created the character, with all the force, vigour, and human heartiness necessary. Miss Helen Haye still distinguishes herself by her natural, simple, and sweetly feminine impersonation of Mrs. Holroyd; Miss May Congdon is once more effective as Mrs. Tarlton, and Mr. Douglas Gordon gives Vincent all the necessary benevolence and refinement, Miss Agnes Hill's Mrs. Riggs being as odd and amusing as ever. Lady Bell's piece was closely followed by a deeply-interested audience, who warmly applauded at the end of each act.

MR. HALL CAINE spoke at Crisp's Market Hall, Seven Sisters'-road, last week, in support of the Progressive candidature of his son, Mr. G. R. Hall Caine. Mr. Caine described his early years as a poor journalist, living on the verge of Clare Market. His windows looked on to a closed court swarming with rats and human beings. Hardly a window had a whole pane of glass in it, scarcely a staircase had a handrail. The refuse of the densely-crowded tenements was thrown out into the court for the dustman to gather up every day, and the place was always noisome and filthy. In this death-trap people died in proportions twice as high as in London as a whole, and disease and drink and dirt and immorality and crime were rampant. He felt like Rip Van Winkle when he walked over the great open avenues that now ran there. The credit of having cleared out that breeding ground of disease and crime which disgraced the heart of London belonged to the County Council.

TERRIERS' ASSOCIATION.

ANNUAL DINNER AND BALL.

The outward aspect of the Horns, Kennington, on Sunday night last was not an inviting one, but directly the portal was passed mirth and good-fellowship reigned, for one was received almost on the door-mat by the genial president, Mr. G. P. R. Burgess, and the energetic secretary, Mr. Arthur Were, and on mounting the stairs the reception-room was filled with a representative crowd of Terriers and their friends, who soon descended to the dining-room and took their seats at the tastefully-decorated tables to discuss an excellently-served meal.

The guests included Mr. G. P. R. Burgess (president), Mr. Harry Barnard (hon. treasurer), Mr. G. F. McCarthy (medical officer), and Mr. Arthur Were (secretary), and Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. E. Ball, Miss Barnard, Mr. Jack Barker, Mr and Mrs. Harry Bown, Mr. Harry Bent, Mr. Billing, Mr. G. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Burgess, Mr. and Mrs. Andie Caine, Mr. T. C. Callaghan, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert, Mr. Owen Cliffe, Miss Alice Conway, Mr. G. Cooper, Mr. C. C. Cornish, Mr Fred Durban, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Dunkley, Miss Fullalove, Mr. C. F. Gage, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gait, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Green, Mr. Beresford Hope, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hoyle, Mr and Mrs. F. Hooper and party, Miss Carrie Joy, Mr. and Mrs. J. Keep and party, Mr. and Mrs. F. Kohler, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kitchen, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Mack, Mr. and Mrs. Meisner, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Moriggia and party, Mr. and Mrs. A. Plumb, Mr. and Mrs. Pounds, Mr. C. Douglas Stuart, Mr. Jesse Sparrow, Mr. and Mrs. W. Taylor, Mrs. W. R. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Were, Mr. Ernie Westo, and Mr. Ben Woodger.

The President, with an eye perhaps to the Terriers who were straining at the leash for a smoke, was considerately brief in proposing the health of the King, but his words, though few, were well chosen. The toast of "The Terriers' Association" was entrusted to Mr. Jesse Sparrow, who made an interesting little speech tracing the progress of the Association, which is now twenty years established, and which is the only registered Friendly Society in the music hall profession, and called upon the secretary (Mr. A. Were) for a response, who made what may be termed the speech of the evening as follows:

Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen,—When I had the honour of being appointed your ornamental secretary I received the gratuitous information that there was nothing to do, and I cheerfully accepted the opportunity of some pleasant and profitable recreation; and I may now ruefully state that I have been vainly looking for that recreation ever since, and the profits have been misappropriated by the income-tax collector. What with dinners and balls, outings, benefits, and midnight wrestling bouts, my ambition to become a Parliamentary Labour candidate has become crushed in the bud, and my efforts to cultivate tomatoes on the roof have been an inglorious failure. At a recent dinner, when I inflicted a learned discourse upon the variety profession (and they stood it), I was subsequently hailed by the Press as a born comedian. Now it is very embarrassing to find one's doorstep thronged with excited agents with tempting offers of the Syndicate tours of £1,000 a week, and to have to decline them. As a matter of fact, I suffer from a morbid disposition, and my inclinations to vocal attainments are purely operatic. As I am also afflicted with a chronic cold upon my chest, any attempt on my part to star as a comedian or to pose as a Le Smile-o would be productive of the Grand Order of the Bird.

Terrier Sparrow has been good enough to couple my name with this toast. I can only say, in the words of the poet, "Mother and child are doing well." During the past year the progress of the Terriers' Association has been well maintained. Apart from their inability to support these expensive functions, Terriers generally are rallying round the Association, as the popularity of our loan account and sick pay will testify. We have elected a lot of new members, and the office cat, out of sheer professional jealousy, has had kittens in the ballot-box for the fourth time. It is a mystery to me why more members of the variety profession do not join the Association. Here is a Society that has no political axe to grind, that works only for the material benefit of the struggling artist, and, for a nominal subscription, provides free medical attention anywhere, liberal sick pay during illness, emergency loans, free legal advice, death grants, insurance against loss of properties by fire, and innumerable social advantages. Terriers in dire distress are assisted by grants or benefits, and yet with all these attractions, which are being extensively advertised, the apathy of the profession is appalling. We hope that some day artists will realise that to become a Terrier is essential for their welfare. Despite the sultry atmosphere of our palatial kennel, where the choicest Havanas, shag, and woodbines enable us to give a creditable representation of a scene from Hades, our Sunday meetings have been of a peaceful character. We have initiated new members nearly every Sunday, and invariably celebrated the occasion in bumpers of champagne—or Oxo—and this has gladdened the heart of mine host Terrier Salter, who has suffered from intense depression since the introduction of the Budget.

Owing to the gorgeousness of our golden and silver escutcheons and the scintillations of our diamonds the brilliance of our lodge is unrivalled. The pig's head banquet was a great success, and was only marred by the remarkable number of bilious attacks that followed. The river outing denoted the true brotherly love that exists amongst Terriers, and the cordiality of the voyage was only equalled by the hilarity of the journey home. All the ladies' concerts have been crowded, and I may inform you, in strict confidence, that some of our stars will produce new songs next season.

Thanks to the generosity of Terrier Griff, our collection of Yankee picture postcards is the finest in Kennington, and we have retaliated with Daily Mails. Our next depressing function is the annual general meeting on the 20th, at 6 p.m., and, as some of our star reciters will be present, may finish about 6 a.m. I wish particularly to impress this upon the ladies, because our wives may regard our arrival home with the milk with undeserved suspicion.

The past year has been notable for the fact that your versatile secretary has blossomed forth as an Organist (to use the word as expressed by a certain W.T.) of "disrespewt." Although totally unacquainted with the action of the instrument of torture, he has managed, by violent Sandow exercises on the pedals, to create some discordant Wagnerian effects, to the annoyance of Terrier Cornish, who had the misfortune to sit in the vicinity. The erratic rendering of that classic anthem "I will return, sweetheart, again," with sepulchral accompaniment, has caused tears of anguish from Terrier Murray, who has been compelled to seek the sanctuary of the bar in order to drown his emotion. Recent laborious rehearsals of a new and pathetic ballad, entitled "Why is poor dear father blind?" has been endured with growing resentment, and the prospect of its production in the kennel is looked forward to with dismal anticipation, and has already caused one unhappy barman to resign. Such is the reward of unappreciated genius. As further evidence of your staff's energy in the interests of the members, your secretary has been studying for the bar, without in any way wishing to supplant the hon. solicitor. His studies at the bar, however, were limited to the art of drawing stout and mild, and other temperance beverages, but his reckless generosity in dispensing excessive measure resulted in the immediate application of the barring clause and his ejection by the indignant proprietor.

In thanking Terrier Jesse Sparrow for his kind remarks, I can only say that whatever success has been attained by the Association during the past year has been due to the diligence of your officers and committee and the devotion of your president, and so long as their interest in their work is continued you can rest assured of the further prosperity of the Terriers' Association.

The toast of "The Officers of the Association" was proposed by Terrier George Cooper, and was suitably responded to by Terrier Harry Barnard. Terrier Julian Mack humorously proposed "The Ladies," and Mrs. F. Calvert ably responded. Terrier Andie Caine proposed "The Kindred Societies," and Mr. Fred Kitchen made a neat and appropriate response, and Mr. C. Douglas Stuart also spoke to this toast. Terrier Harry Bent appropriately gave the toast of "The Visitors," and Mr. A. H. Hoyle responded. "The Press" was eloquently toasted by Terrier Ernest Ball, and Mr. H. D. Adkins suitably responded. The toast list concluded with that of "The Chairman," proposed by Terrier Fred Hooper.

The ball that followed was a complete success, and, curiously enough, Terrier Ernest Ball acted as M.C. The Belgravia Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Frank Sweet, discoursed sweet music for the dancers. In the interval an impromptu minstrel entertainment was organised. Mr. Fred Kitchen officiated as interlocutor, and caused genuine amusement with the assistance of Terriers Andie Caine, Harry Bent, Harry Barnard, and Julian Mack. Later on the ladies showed that they were not to be outdone in this kind of entertainment, and Mrs. Fred Kitchen, Mrs. Frank Calvert, Mrs. Taylor, Miss Alice Conway, Miss Carrie Joy, and Terriers C. F. Gage and C. C. Cornish gave a screamingly funny performance. My Fancy (Mrs. Harry Bawn) kindly contributed a brilliant exhibition of fancy dancing, and the party ultimately broke up before 5 a.m., all well pleased, if tired.

HOLES IN THE STAGE.

At the Scunthorpe County Court recently, before Judge Sir Sherston Baker, Bart., William Williford Johnson, lessee of the Public Hall, Scunthorpe, was sued by George Gregson, proprietor and chief actor of the well-known Gregson Comedy Trio, playing in the sketch The Ideal Maid, for £42 9s. 10d. damages, consequent upon an accident alleged to have happened while performing at the hall. Mr. R. A. C. Symes, of Scunthorpe, appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. J. R. Watts, of Manchester, for the defendant. The case for the plaintiff was that he entered into a contract to perform for one week, commencing Dec. 27 last, for £10. During the first performance on Monday night, when walking across the stage, he stumbled with his heel in a hole in the stage, which defendant had neglected to repair, and sustained a severe injury to his foot, and he had to abandon two other contracts, and was not paid by the defendant. No warning had been given him of the hole. He had played the part of the Ideal Maid with Fred Karno and on his own for sixteen years. At the time the hole was shown to the stage-manager. He said he would get into a row with the boss as the hole should have been repaired long ago. Plaintiff went through the second performance, but then saw the doctor, and rested until the Thursday, when the defendant offered him one night's salary. The stage was covered with carpet at the time.

Cross-examined, plaintiff said neither he nor his brother examined the stage; they naturally expected the local manager to see that all was right. They contented themselves with dressing the scene. He had seen holes on various stages for tying-up horizontal bars and trapezes and the like, but never one this size—the size of a break fast-cup; and if not in use they were usually blocked up for other shows. His heel that caught was the flattened heel of a lady's shoe. He could always get engagements when fit, and was fixed up this year for forty-nine weeks—twenty-three on the Moss and Stoll tour.

The brother of the defendant said he never inspected stages. It was not his business. This hole was repaired the following morning. It was certainly dangerous. He did not know that there had been skating on it the week before.

Mr. Watts (for the defendant) said the plaintiff, with his experience and knowledge of his business, was satisfied with the stage. He made no examination and expressed no complaint. He went on with his performance in the second house with ease, and any false step in his show, independently of this hole, might have caused the injury. The plaintiff had been guilty of contributory negligence. Knowing the nature of his performance—a knockabout one—he was responsible for every member of his troupe, and it lay with him to inspect the stage and see everything safe. The same week a dancing girl danced all over the stage.

The defendant said he had a wide experience in the theatrical profession, and had seen many stages, all of which had similar-sized holes for the purpose of fixing props. The hole was not mended by his instructions.

John Connolly, manager for defendant, said the hole was the ordinary size for its specific purpose—seven-eighths of an inch—and there were fourteen or fifteen such holes on the stage.

The Judge gave a verdict for the plaintiff for £23.

The Three Brothers Huxter returned to town on Monday, after a lengthy tour of the provinces, opening on the Gibbons' circuit at the Islington Empire with their new comedy sketch, Languid Energy.

At the Exeter Police Court recently Mr. H. Coningsby Gould applied, on behalf of the manager, Mr. F. Sandy, for a licence to hold a sacred concert at the Exeter Hippodrome on Good Friday next. After some debate and discussion, the Mayor announced that the licence would be granted.

The Five Hunters are appearing with great success this week at the Empire, Camberwell, in their very amusing vocal and musical speciality, entitled, "Auntie's Visit." The rendering of "The Angel of My Dream" by one of the company is quite a treat, and makes a big hit.

The final meeting of the Johnny Alexander Benefit Committee will be held on Tuesday next at 18, Charing Cross-road, W.C. (Room 26), at two o'clock. All members in town are particularly requested to be present.

Two disappointments are recorded in Glasgow this week. Florrie Forde, fresh from her pantomime successes in Leeds, should have been at the Pavilion, but is not appearing; and Lily Morris, after her triumphant engagement at the Grand, Glasgow, was billed for the Coliseum there, but is likewise absent.

Purvis and Partner (Lily Brammer), having finished in pantomime, are again presenting their highly-successful duologue The Postman's Knock. It was greatly appreciated at the Ashton Empire last week, and is meeting with the same success at the Ton-y-pandy Hippodrome this week.

Little Jennie Alexander, who is appearing at the Palace, Oldham, in her impressions of well-known star artists, is one of the hits of the bill. She has just completed a highly-successful Stoll tour, and returns to town for four months, opening on the Gibbons circuit on Monday at the Empire, Holborn, and Empress, Brixton.

WHO'S WHO AT THE SURREY.

LAST THURSDAY'S TRIAL MATINEE.

If there is one manager in London more than another who has fully mastered the gentle art of "getting 'em into the house" that man is Mr. Roy Cochrane, the manager of the historic theatre in the Blackfriars-road. As an inducement to those inclined to waver on the subject of seeing Thursday afternoon's show, Mr. Cochrane had caused the locality to be liberally papered with double crown bills setting out the information that—

You Cannot See the Stars of the Past,
You Will Not See the Stars of To-day,
But You May See the Stars of the Future.

That appeal was irresistible, and a good house assembled.

Fond mothers and proud fathers of aspirants to fame in the variety firmament took possession of the stalls, with set grim faces, almost blanched in some cases with anxiety as to the fate awaiting their dear ones, equally nervous, equally anxious on the other side of the curtain. We are told that hope springs eternal in the human breast. Hope must be the only asset of many young ladies and gentlemen who present themselves for a public verdict at the average trial turn matinée, as in many instances there is not the slightest ability or merit to justify the appeal.

Thursday's matinée had its usual number of failures, but in justice it must be stated that it was responsible for a number—a very small number it is true—of people whom we should care to see again. There was absolutely no originality in any of the acts, each and every one having taken some well-known stage favourite as a pattern, and each had more or less badly copied gags, patter, song, and dance. Indeed, from start to finish of the programme, it was one long procession of song and dance, song and dance, song and dance.

A young man named Corn started the programme by singing about coal, and was followed by another named Davis, who might be termed a side-face clog dancer, inasmuch as he kept his gaze steadfastly fixed on the wings whilst he "flogged the floor." The Lemar's knife-throwing act gave one cold shivers to witness.

The name of each artist was announced from the stage, but in such indistinct tones that after about the fourth time it became the fashion, as with one accord, for the lusty-lunged members of pit and gallery to roar at the unfortunate speaker: "WHO?"

A Mr. Kingsley informed us that he was going to recount some funny stories. He was permitted to inflict one on us. Said he: "I met a pier master the other day, and he said: 'I'm not a Radical because they want to do away with the Peers.'" The stage-manager then mercifully blacked the storyteller out. Switching off the lights is a neat way of consigning naughty boys and girls to that oblivion from which it is to be hoped there is no return. Two Welsh "comedians," two Scotch ditto, and two misguided youths who tried to render "Our hands have met but not our hearts," also vanished in the gloom.

Little Alice, "a tiny colleen," was dressed in red and green, and sang of the Emerald Isle very nicely, and then danced a jig. She deserved the hearty applause that greeted her exit. Desmond and Diss also were very welcome. Both ladies had good voices, and were nicely dressed but the one in boy's costume should sell the outfit and dress like her partner. The next lady, prettily dressed in white, tremulously assured us that she was "Looking for Mr. Wright." The top notes in the song worried her considerably.

A very nervous embryo Neil Kenyon managed to get out part of a sentence: "I was going along the seashore near Brighton, ye ken——" Then darkness came o'er the land, and when it was ligh tagain the Carolis, a very creditable "pro tean Apache act," were in possession of the stage. Gracie O'Neil had evidently taken Gertie Gitana as her guiding star, and with some measure of success. But Gracie must learn not to wear such a "determined-to-do-or-die" expression when she is dancing.

The funniest part about the act of Gordon and Lester was the tartan facings to their evening-dress coats. They danced well, however, in mitigation of what had gone before. An old "pro.," if we mistake not, W. Whitlock, wheeled a baked-potato can on the stage, sang a good song in the breeziest of styles, and then extracted music from the back of the furnace. He was very welcome.

A gentleman garbed in a black-braided white suit told us with a thick nasal accent that "there are some things you can always do without." And the audience agreed.

One aspirant undertook to show us what kind of an individual Quilp was. The Surreyites were remarkably kind to him despite great provocation. The stage-manager, too, was long suffering, and four minutes had elapsed and nothing had happened to Quilp. But as he spoke the lines: "Litt'e Nell and her grandfather disappeared—" so also did Quilp—in the darkness.

A very good story-teller almost wrecked his chances on his entrance. He made a false start and then announced that he would go off and come on again. He did so, and then proceeded to inform his hearers that "Adam was the first man, and a fruit merchant, and always attended trial-turn matinées."

Thirty-one turns in all appeared in the space of three hours, and it is to be hoped that at least twenty of that number realise now that it is not an easy matter to be even a third-rate variety artist.

In our provincial correspondence last week it was stated that the Johnny Alexander Sketch Company were appearing at the Hippodrame, Wakefield. It should have been Johnny Holland's company.

At the Pontefract Borough Court on Monday last, Mrs. Selina Driver, proprietress of the Alexandra Theatre of Varieties, and Mr. Tom Diacoff, music hall manager, were summoned for producing Mr. R. Nightingdale's Aladdin pantomime on Feb. 18.

Mr. F. M. Farmer, who prosecuted on behalf of the County Council, stated that the proceedings were taken under Section 2 of the Theatres Act of 1843, and in asking the bench to convict, put forward the following reasons: (1) The defendant had infringed the rights of the County Council, who were the body that granted the licences of theatres; (2) the defendant had infringed the rights of the Lord Chamberlain, without whose right no stage play could be produced; and (3) the music hall was run as a theatre without the limitations that a theatre was subject to. The bench fined the defendant 10s. and costs.

At the London Bankruptcy Court on Tuesday a sitting was held, before Mr. Registrar Linklater, for the public examination of Mr. Jesse Sparrow, described as a theatrical manager, of Love-walk, Camberwell. The accounts showed a deficiency of £629. The debtor, questioned by Mr. E. S. Grey (Official Receiver), stated that for thirty-five years he had been connected with the music hall and concert business. In July, 1906, he and another promoted the Empire (Camberwell), Limited, with a nominal capital of £3,000. Witness received 735 shares, and was appointed managing-director. The company did very well for two years, but in January last a receiver was appointed. In November, 1907, witness and another promoted the Empire (Edmonton), Limited, with a capital of £5,000. He received 1,000 shares, and was again appointed managing-director; but that company was also a failure. The examination was concluded.

STAGE PLAY AT A MUSIC HALL.

Selina Driver, theatre proprietress, and Tom Diacoff, music hall manager, were recently summoned at Pontefract for using an unlicensed theatre for stage plays. The proceedings were taken under Section 2 of the Theatre Act of 1843, which states that a person was liable to a fine of £20 per day during the time that such play was produced without a licence. On Friday, Feb. 18, a stage play was produced at the Alexandra Theatre, Pontefract, and Mr. F. M. Farmer, the prosecuting counsel, contended that the house was not licensed for stage plays. Therefore, the Act was violated. The theatre was licensed as a music hall, and a licence to sell intoxicating liquor was also granted. The offence in question was a pantomime called Aladdin, with two or three music hall turns worked in. The pantomime itself occupied three-parts of the evening, and at different times thirty-two people were taking part. It was common knowledge that sketches were given in music halls, but there was no doubt, if the law was properly interpreted, it would be impossible for sketches to be produced, because it was held that a dialogue between two persons was a stage play. Section 23 of the Theatre Act mentioned pantomimes amongst stage plays. In 1892 a Committee of the House of Commons considered the question and made a recommendation that certain sketches should be allowed in a music hall. At that time a great dispute was going on between the proprietors of theatres and proprietors of music halls, it being alleged by the former that the latter were infringing their rights. The Committee recommended that certain dramatic sketches should be allowed at music halls providing that such performance should not exceed forty minutes, and that there should not be more than six performers. It was also stipulated that there should be an interval of thirty minutes between two such sketches. As long as the music hall proprietors had kept their sketches within those suggestions, no proceedings had been taken against them, and this applied to the present proprietress. He now asked the Bench to say that by this pantomime the four corners of the working arrangements had been exceeded, and by no stretch of the imagination could it be called a sketch that was allowed to be produced in a music hall. It was for their worships to say if this pantomime was a stage play, and he would like to put forward the following reasons for a conviction:—(1) The defendant had infringed the rights of the County Council, who were the body that granted the licences of theatres. (2) The defendant had infringed the rights of the Lord Chamberlain, without whose permission no stage play could be produced. (3) The music hall was run as a theatre, without the limitations that a theatre was subject to—for instance, the Lord Chamberlain made a regulation that there should be no smoking in theatres, whereas it was allowed in music halls. Furthermore, defendant's licence to sell drink applied to a music hall. If the defendant had a theatre licence application would have to be made to the excise authorities for a drink licence. Why should there be a separate law for the Alexandra Theatre at Pontefract? Mr. Farmer concluded with quoting several cases, specially mentioning that of the Coliseum Syndicate.

Inspector Horton, who visited the theatre on Feb. 18, then described the performance, and was corroborated by Police-sergeant Hartley.

Counsel for the defence asked if the Bench considered it was a stage play, according to the evidence.

The Chairman said the Bench considered it was a stage play.

Counsel asked for the summons against Diacoff to be withdrawn on the grounds that he was not the licensed holder, but merely a servant.

Mr. Farmer agreed to this, on condition that the Bench convicted Mrs. Driver.

The Bench retired to consider their verdict, and on their return the Chairman said they had decided to deal leniently with defendant, as she did not know she was infringing the law, but it was a serious offence. She would be fined 10s. and the costs.

DR. BODIE'S APPEAL.

Dr. Bodie points out in a letter that in his big lawsuit at Leeds Mr. Justice Grantham summed up very strongly in his favour, and said: "Dr. Bodie could not be stigmatised as a quack or impostor, that he had undoubtedly done a vast amount of good, and had succeeded in many cases where other doctors had failed, and that he was earning an honest living." At the trial no notice was taken of his witnesses, and many of his cures, who appeared on his behalf, were not allowed to give evidence.

He will pay over to the National Hospital, London, the sum of £1,000 if any judge, doctor, or Press representative can prove that he has not successfully cured many cases of paralysis discharged from the leading London and provincial hospitals as hopeless and incurable, or that in his operations of bloodless surgery he has ever used undue violence in breaking down adhesions and physical malformations. He will take his appeal to the House of Lords.

Mr. Martin Beck, on his arrival in London, at once visited the offices of Messrs. Beecham and Wheeler, accompanied by Mr. Mark Luischer, his Continental representative.

The Liverpool Olympia started a new experiment on Thursday, when a special matinée was held for the trial of amateur turns. The stalls were sixpence, and the gallery one penny. Cinematograph pictures were shown.

Miss May Poulton is making a hit this week at the Palace, Burnley, with her new song "It's lovely by the sea," written and composed specially for her by Mr. George Collins. Miss Poulton recently concluded a pantomime engagement as Sinbad. Next year she plays principal boy with Mr. Milton Bode.

Mme. Ella Russell, the well-known operatic soprano, sang to her first "variety" audience at the Coliseum on Monday, and met with an enthusiastic reception. Encored for her operatic selections and a French chansonnette, Mme. Russell responded with the ever-welcome "Robin Adair."

Miss Melinda May, secretary of the Music-Hall Ladies' Guild, 61, New Oxford-street, W.C., on behalf of the committee begs most gratefully to acknowledge the following: Miss Irene Rose (donation and collection), £2; fifteen artists for contribution towards a collection made by Miss Maude Mortimer in her pantomime company, £1 2s. 6d.; Mr. Alec Barish for arranging with Mr. Jack Morris and the committee of the Great Synagogue, Hope Hall, Liverpool, on Wednesday last, a collection as follows—Mrs. John Foy, 10s. 6d.; Miss Agnes Zambuhl, 8s. 6d.; Miss Ina McLaughlam, 5s.; Miss Hollyhassen, 6s.; and Miss Hilda Watson, 1s.; Mr. Carter Livesey (donation), 2s. 6d.; Miss Lilian Rosebery (donation), 2s. 6d.; also Miss Rosebery for collection at the London Pavilion, 3s. 2d.; Sisters Macarte (result of a bet with Mrs. Bartram), 1s. 5d.; Madame Li Chang Hi (donation), 2s. 6d.; Miss Katie Toole (donation), 2s. 6d. Tennis and Laune, and Ruby Rosamond, stage and street clothing (per Miss Irene Rose); Miss Lottie Albert, six more baby's new coats and two gentlemen's collars; Mrs. James Horne, baby's new clothing; Mrs. Fruin, Music-Hall Home, Camberwell, clothing. Friends of the Charity are heartily welcome to tea and reception held every Wednesday four to five o'clock. Funds, boots, and clothing urgently needed.

THROUGH THE BAY OF NAPLES.

To take a twenty-minutes' railway journey and then step on board a felucca and sail through one of the loveliest bays in the world must be admitted to be a very unique experience, but this can be done by taking train to the Crystal Palace, where Mr. Geo. O. Starr, the enterprising general-manager, has provided a well equipped vessel on which visitors can take this interesting voyage seated comfortably in a garden seat on the deck. Mons. Le Maistre, an interesting guide and courier, accompanies, and gives the history and names of each town and village passed. When the shore has been traversed the guide takes the visitor back again to show him the same by sunset, twilight, and evening. As night falls, the houses in the various towns are seen lighting up, and as night grows darker, Vesuvius stands out boldly, shooting forth its red flames of lava. Anon, the dawn of day in the bay reveals some beautiful effects. The undulating motion of the vessel is most enjoyable. Crossing the gangway one enters a gallery, wherein on either side are viewed models of the excavated Pompeii and Herculaneum, and representations of these cities, in the time when they flourished, are also given. This trip is not only interesting from an historical point of view, but the lecture given by the guide is instructive as well as enjoyable.

WITH the close of Mother Goose at the Grand, Glasgow, it seems as if the limit had been reached in the matter of "last night" enthusiasm. Such lavishness in the matter of sprays, bouquets, and baskets of flowers to each of the ladies was surely unprecedented there. True, the pantomime has been a huge success, and the popularity of Misses Lily Morris and May Moore Duprez has undoubtedly a lot to do with the fact. Miss Howell Hersee (the Fairy Queen), Miss Rhoda Gordon (principal girl), and Miss Lily Edwards (second boy) were also specially favoured, and each member of the chorus was presented with a beautiful spray.

THE comedians received gifts innumerable, several of them, though neatly disguised in coloured ribbons, being evidently samples of "the wine of the country." Messrs. Neil Kenyon, Jack O'Connor, Fred Annandale, Joe Arthur, and Chas. East were all remembered by their numerous admirers. Each of the principal ladies and gentlemen was presented with a goose's egg in an appropriately large egg-cup, and the conductor, Mr. Harry Henderson, received in addition a handsome smoker's cabinet (well stocked) and a writing case.

MISS ALMA GRIFFITHS, the well-known musical comedy artist, is to be married to a very wealthy South African gentleman. Miss Griffiths is a Cardiff lady, her father being Mr. W. Ben Griffiths, who resides at Ryder-street, Cardiff. The gentleman to whom Miss Griffiths has become engaged is Mr. Douglas Christopherson, managing-director of the South African Consolidated Goldfields. He resides at Parktown, a short distance from Johannesburg, where Miss Griffiths is at present appearing in the principal part of The Geisha, with Mr. Haydn Coffin, the engagement being in connection with the Wheeler-Edwardes combination. Miss Griffiths is expected to arrive home about the third week in April, and after a stay of two months she will return to South Africa, as the wedding is fixed to take place at Capetown in July.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

[We do not answer inquiries by post. In all letters the names and addresses of inquirers must be given as a guarantee of good faith. Initials only or pseudonyms will be used in the answers if so desired.]

GEORGE CONQUEST.—The piece was produced at the Surrey Theatre on April 12, 1884.

AGREEMENT.—The document is a very informal one, and we do not think it will give you the full control you suggest. It ought to have been stated in so many words what your rights were.

W. J. T.—Give a trial turn at a music hall locally. You might also try to get a position in a chorus of English opera. Write to an operatic manager advertising in our columns. We cannot recommend agents for taking up amateurs.

WILL CHATTERTON.—Miss Bessie Bonehill died Aug. 21, 1902. For information concerning her sister you might inquire of Alf. Abrahams, at the Windsor Castle, Wellington-street, Strand, W.C. For the song "Playmates" try Tate's, music-seller, Aldwych, W.C.

TOM BASS.—The Grand Theatre, Islington, was destroyed by fire on the morning of Dec. 28, 1887. Alfred Glenville Vance, whose real name was Alfred Peck Stevens, died suddenly on the side of the stage at the Sun Music Hall, Knightsbridge, now defunct, on the evening of Dec. 26, 1888.

I. X. L.—"From information received," we learn that Mr. Alec Hurley did sing "The strongest man on earth," by Harry Leighton, publis by Francis, Day, and Hunter, and "Round and Round," written by Harry Castling, same publishers (out of print), about the year 1890. We are in communication with the singer, and will probably be able to reply more fully next week.

C. DAVIES (West Kensington).—Edward Weston, formerly proprietor of the Royal (Weston's), died on Thursday, March 12, 1874, at the age of fifty-four. He was run over by a three-horse van while crossing the Holborn Viaduct, in the vicinity of the well-known shop of Negretti and Zambra, and expired almost immediately after admission to St. Bartholomew's Hospital. You have given the wrong Christian name.

THE annual ball held in connection with the Alexandra Theatre, Birmingham, on Thursday, March 3, was a huge success. A large, merry party assembled at the City Assembly Rooms, and the proceedings proved thoroughly enjoyable. All the members of the Aladdin pantomime company were present.

MR. EDITOR.—Sir,—Your Pontefract correspondent states in last week's Era that I was deputising at the Alexandra Theatre. I beg to state that my contract for Pontefract was signed and confirmed fourteen months ago, so I could hardly be deputising for anyone.—Yours sincerely, LELIA RUSSELL, Hippodrome, Eastbourne, March 8.

THE Merrie Elfyns concert party organised a benefit entertainment at the Ewen Hall, High Barnet, on the 3rd inst., upon the excellence of which Mr. Charles Grattan is to be highly congratulated. The programme was agreeably varied, and was considerably extended by encores. Mr. Paul Chalenor, a talented baritone, was accorded well-merited recognition; Mr. Charles Grattan, a clever comedian, caused roars of laughter; Mr. Fred Lawrence (tenor), sang in cultivated style; Mr. Barrett Clifton, with his songs at the piano, proved himself a finished entertainer; Mr. Will Rogers (humorist), was immensely popular; Miss May Marks, a soprano with a fine, rich voice, sang admirably; Miss Kathleen Butler has a sweet, well-trained voice, which gave much pleasure; Miss Ida Wagner proved herself a charming comedienne; Miss Violet Johnson, a charming mezzo-soprano, sang "Angus Macdonald" with much fire and spirt; and Miss Maud Muller, a talented contralto, sang with effect; the Merrie Elfyns' concerted items were received with unbounded applause.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR
ACTOR AND COMPOSER,
By ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (Lond.).

Copyright confusion is like the poor, always with us, and as it seems likely to remain so until at least the crack of doom, it were well for all concerned, or likely to be concerned, to take immediate steps to secure a copy of Mr. Albert A. Strong's new work, entitled "The Law of Copyright." Mr. Strong is already favourably known to the profession for his textbook on "Dramatic and Musical Law," which, like his latest production, is published at "The Era" office. "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" essays to make clear to the non-legal mind what is—or, in some cases what probably is—the law as to musical and dramatic copyright. The chapters on the Berne Convention and on the Chase Act, passed by the United States Congress last March, are full of interest.—Referee.

Mr. A. A. Strong has published a book on "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer," which should be in the hands of everyone who is obliged to know about this perplexing subject. Dramatic copyright in England is in a particularly unsatisfactory state, and it is much to be hoped that ere long some more rational method of securing protection for a play may be devised than the slovenly and sometimes costly "production for copyright purposes" which is at present required. — St. James's Gazette.

1910—THE ERA ANNUAL—1910

DAILY TELEGRAPH, Feb. 2, 1910.
Once more "The Era" Annual justifies its claim to a place which is unique in the theatrical literature of the year. It contains a record of all the new plays and important revivals produced at the London theatres and in the provinces during the twelve months ending Nov. 30 last, arranged in two lists, one according to the theatres and the other alphabetically according to titles. Then another carefully compiled section gives the casts concerned in these productions. The principal sketches put on at the London and provincial variety houses are treated in the same thoroughgoing manner, and lists of the plays produced in Paris, Berlin, and New York complete a remarkably comprehensive survey of the doings of the theatrical year. It will be clearly seen, therefore, that to the "profession," the student, and the theatrical enthusiast "The Era" Annual is indispensable. But the casual reader is also skilfully catered for in the series of articles and stories contributed by many favourites of the stage, including Sir Herbert Tree, Mr. Rutland Barrington, Mr. Dan Rolyat, Miss Louie Freear, and Miss Vesta Tilley. No conscientious theatre-goer can do without his "Era" Annual.

THE ROAD, February, 1910.
"The Era" Annual for 1910, illustrated (1s., The Era Office), always one of the best theatrical volumes of the year, this time excels itself. It gives a dramatic and musical calendar (each day recalling some event of importance in corresponding years); a number of short stories, each by some well-known actor or acting-manager; new plays and important revivals in London and suburban houses for 1909; the same in the provinces; an alphabetical list of plays, both London and provincial, for the whole year; the casts of new plays; plays produced in New York; new pieces at the Paris theatres; the same at Berlin; principal sketches at London variety houses, and casts thereof; separate lists of theatres and music halls in the United Kingdom; a theatrical, musical, and equestrian obituary; and, last and saddest, the deaths of the year illustrated, brought down to so late a date that it includes photos of Mr. E. H. Carpenter, who died on Dec. 23, and Mme. Meta Illing, who died on Dec. 26 last past. It is a veritable mine of information between two covers, and makes us wonder how so many valuable facts can be published at the low price charged for this. Our sincere congratulations to the editor and publisher thereof.

MORNING ADVERTISER, Jan. 20, 1910.
"The Era" Annual (price 1s.) is always welcome in stageland and among the theatre-goers. This year's issue maintains the reputation of the publication for amusing reading and useful information. A number of lively contributions from well-known actors and actresses fill nearly half its pages, and the rest of the book is devoted to particulars as to the new plays and revivals of the year 1909, a list of theatres in the United Kingdom, and a full obituary list of artists who, having "fretted their hour upon the stage," are heard no more. "The Era" Annual is an invaluable reference book to all concerned with the stage.

REFEREE, Jan. 30 1910.
About this time of year players and playgoers alike begin to look for the works of theatrical reference to which they are accustomed. Again we welcome that old-established useful shillingsworth, "The Era" Annual, or "Almanac" as it was wont to be called. As of yore, "The Era" Annual contains articles, anecdotes, and pictures galore, Sir Herbert Tree (with portrait) leading off with that new Shakespearean conundrum, "Where was the Old Globe Playhouse?" Among other well-known people contributing are Messrs. Fred Terry, Willie Clarkson, Rutland Barrington, J. H. Barnes, John Le Hay, Harry Nicholls, John Lawson, Charles Collette, Arthur Williams, Alfred Lester, Dan Rolyat, and Henry Neville. The lady story-tellers include Louie Freear, Vesta Tilley, and Miss Edith Cole. The lists of new plays in London and the provinces, Paris, New York, and Berlin, and the catalogue of new sketches (with casts thereof) are admirably compiled.

THE FINANCIER, Jan. 20, 1910.
"The Era" Dramatic and Musical Annual (5, Tavistock-street, Strand, 1s.), is a full and accurate record of the past year's productions and a calendar of theatrical events. It also contains a feature of wide public interest—namely, "Stories Told by Well-Known People." The story-tellers are, for the most part, the bright, particular stars of the stage, whose recollections, sketches and poetic interludes—these last by Messrs. J. H. Barnes, Charles Collette, and Tom Craven—are likely to command wide attention. The Rev. T. Horne, chaplain of the Showmen's Guild, also contributes an in memoriam tribute entitled "Faithful Unto the End." The opening contribution is by Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, and deals with the problem concerning the site of the old Globe playhouse of Shakespeare's day.

THE ERA

SATURDAY, MARCH 12, 1910.

MRS. R. D'OYLY CARTE.

The movement which has been started to present a testimonial to Mrs. D'OYLY CARTE in the shape of her portrait, painted by a distinguished artist, is certain of the sympathy and support of our readers. The business of theatrical management, like the stage itself, draws into its vortex personalities of all kinds; but seldom has it received a more interesting recruit than Mrs. CARTE. She was the daughter of a Scotch legal official, received an excellent classical and mathematical education, and had all the self-supporting instincts of the modern woman. It is curious that she did not at first realise in what direction her talent lay, thinking that she might succeed on the stage. But her training in the exact sciences had a powerful influence upon her throughout her life. It is said that it showed itself on her first meeting with Mr. D'OYLY CARTE, whom she came to consult as to going on the stage. Mr. CARTE was not naturally a methodical man, and his office in Craig's Court, at which "Miss LENOIR" called, was in a state of considerable confusion. Mrs. CARTE asked to be given half an hour to set it in order; and, in a very short space of time, had sorted, arranged, and endorsed all the papers and documents in business-like style. Pending a possible dramatic engagement, Mrs. CARTE became Mr. CARTE'S secretary and right hand, both at Craig's Court and at the offices of the Comedy Opera Co., Ltd., at the old Opera Comique Theatre, where H.M.S. Pinafore was produced.

Mrs. CARTE'S influence on the success of her future husband's business was very beneficial. At one time there was a danger that Mr. CARTE'S system would suffer from over-centralisation. He insisted on answering all his letters himself; and the result was that much correspondence was postponed until it was almost too late to be of any benefit. Mrs. CARTE came to the rescue, and soon showed herself to be one of the most remarkable business women in England. Sweet, gentle, and sympathetic in manner, petite and apparently delicate in physique, Mrs. CARTE appeared to possess one of those steel-and-indiarubber brains and constitutions which nothing can fatigue, a decision and resolution which were always at her disposal, and an extraordinary amount of self-command. Her tact is marvellous, and her diplomacy delicate and resourceful. Add to this an intense love of work for its own sake, and it is easy to understand the immense value of the alliance between two such individualities and intellects as those of herself and Mr. CARTE. In many ways her character formed the complement of her husband's, and quite early in his career she relieved him of much of the labour of conducting his various enterprises. Latterly, of course, as his health failed, the chief responsibility devolved upon her alone.

Mrs. CARTE'S career will always be associated with the great series of successes known collectively as the GILBERT and SULLIVAN operas. From the commencement, that wonderful combination of wit and music never "looked back." Each triumph added to the prestige of the beautiful Savoy Theatre, the pioneer of the electrically-lighted, commodious, and luxurious modern playhouse. Then there were the American tours, which created a vast amount of additional office-work, and the provincial companies, several of which were always running round the provinces. And when Mr. CARTE decided to utilise a space of waste ground at the back of the Savoy Theatre for the erection of a palatial hotel, the strain on him and Mrs. CARTE reached its most intense and trying point. The work demanded of her about this period, when she and Mr. CARTE practically adhered to business from morning till night, was sufficient to ruin any ordinary constitution; but Mrs. CARTE'S health held out splendidly until the terrible shock of the death of her husband in 1901. For fifteen years she had laboured incessantly in his interests; and when he was taken from her at the too-early age of fifty-seven she received a blow from which she never quite recovered. Since then, though she has attended assiduously to the vast interests of the Savoy Theatre and Savoy Hotel Companies, her health has been, at the best, precarious, though she has borne her sufferings with the stoical calm which is part of her character.

Mrs. CARTE once experimentally appeared on the stage as a robin redbreast in a pantomime at Dublin, under the management of the late Mr. MICHAEL GUNN; but there was other work for her to do. Her generosity, courtesy, and kindness to all with whom she has come in contact are only known to those who have been connected with her in business; but if they could speak, a great chorus of gratitude and appreciation would be heard. As an example of her charity, we may repeat the following letter which she sent the other day to Mr. C. I. COLTSON, the popular secretary of the Actors' Benevolent Fund: "Dear Mr. COLTSON,—I am afraid from what you write me that the distress is very great indeed this year, and I gather this also from the many letters I have myself received. I am, therefore, sending you an extra subscription of £50 to the fund." With everything that money can buy at her disposal, there is nothing that the profession can offer her except appreciation. The portrait for which subscriptions are being so readily sent to Mr. FLADGATE at 2, Craig's Court will be an expression of feeling which will be valued by Mrs. CARTE as a testimony of the respect and regard in which she is held, and of the many friends in the profession who have watched her career and admired her character.

THE GOOD OLD TIMES.

Mr. Henry Neville, in his lecture to the members of the O.P. Club on Sunday last, spoke with very great enthusiasm about the great times of Shakespeare, of the great writers of the age of our good Queen Bess. Shakespeare's charming personality and fascinating teaching dominated the glorious age. Who would have imagined that the gifted spirit and the divine afflatus which shone brightly in the dawn of Athens and slumbered through centuries of Rome's magnificence would reappear in an obscure town in England to make it the cynosure of all nations and for all time? The world of beauties Shakespeare brought into human sight revitalised the face of the earth to men. He injected, as it were, his inspired current of thought and feeling into the fallen constitution of the world. Womanhood is indebted to him above all others for his ideal portraits of excellence, purity, and piety. He presented family character in its feminine perfections. The expression of her nature was a revelation to herself, for we must not forget that while women looked on, boys acted ethereal characters which in woman's hands alone could shine with a lustre of great light. But, in spite of all that was done in Elizabeth's reign, England passed through bad times for more than 200 years after. Having passed in review the French Revolution, the Napoleonic and Crimean wars, the cotton famine, and other events, Mr. Neville asked whether it was true that their grandfathers slept on a bed of roses? Was he not justified, in view of the events to which he had alluded, in saying that there never were universal good old times? In spite of what poets and chroniclers had written, he thought they should be happy and rejoice that they had been born at this glorious end of the world. They might pity their ancestors, for they certainly did not enjoy the privileges which they possessed in 1910. The world was still in its infancy. This was the youth of the world, and it was for them to do something which had never been done before—to paint a picture such as had not yet been seen, or write a play which was not a rehash of plays which had been written before. Let them get rid of the false age which writers had loved to dwell upon, for they had lived too much in the past. He hoped he had shown that there were no universally better days than the present, and that, in spite of these social and political differences, they were never more prosperous, more enlightened, better fed, better clothed, and better taught than now. They had more liberties and more privileges, and all they had to guard against was bad laws. Progress must and would continue, in spite of the puny efforts of those who resisted it. "Therefore," observed the lecturer, "I say, with Sir Richard Alliston and Sidney Smith, 'For Olden Times let others prate, I deem it lucky I was born so late.' In fine, ladies and gentlemen, it remains with you, who live in the infancy and youth of the world, to make the good old times of the future generations."

Mr. Neville, in the course of his lecture, remarked that Rostand's "original" Chantecler was foreshadowed by Dryden's fable of "The Cock and the Fox." Dryden's hero (the cock) makes a speech, in which he says: "All Nature's ours, and I there see Man strutting on two legs and apeing me."

Mr. PHILIP RODWAY'S benefit at the Theatre Royal, Birmingham, on Monday night was an unqualified success. The members of the Jack and the Beanstalk pantomime and artists from the local variety halls rallied round the popular general-manager, and a crowded audience thoroughly enjoyed the five hours' entertainment. During the evening Mr. Rodway was presented with a handsome silver rose-bowl, the anonymity of the donor being preserved.

In acknowledging the gift and in thanking the performers, Mr. Rodway said it was no easy matter to talk about oneself. Had he taken the audience into his confidence and told them of one-half of the successful pieces of work he has carried through during his thirteen years' association with the Theatre Royal, he would, we fear, though speaking no more than the truth, have appeared somewhat boastful. As it was, he was modesty personified, and he received a warm and friendly ovation.

The artists who augmented the pantomime programme were Mr. George Formby (Empire), Miss Madge Temple (Hippodrome), Miss Ray Ford and Miss Florence Dudley (Alexandra), and Little Maudie Olmar, Birmingham's wonderful child dancer, who came direct from her highly-successful engagement at the Garrick Theatre, London, in Where Children Rule.

The General Staff Branch of the N.A.T.E. have decided to take counsel's opinion as to the right of action by their members recently employed at the Strand Theatre by Mr. Robert Hilton against Cleodan, Ltd., and the gentlemen whose names appear on the list of directors and managers of that company. If there is a chance of obtaining the payment of the wages due to their members further proceedings will be instituted against the directors individually and collectively. The committee have advanced to members, by way of loan to those in need over £26 of the amount due for wages.

"TWO MERRY MONARCHS."

New Musical Play, in Two Acts, Book by Arthur Anderson and George Levy, Lyrics by Arthur Anderson and Hartley Carrick, Music by Orlando Morgan, Produced at the Savoy Theatre, on Thursday March 10.

Rolandyl	Mr. C. H. Workman
King Paul of Esperanto	Mr. Robert Whyte, Jun.
King Utops of Utopia	Mr. Lennox Pawle
Prince Charmis	Mr. Roland Cunningham
Helvanoise	Mr. Leslie Stiles
Mandamus	Mr. Neville George
Head Flunkey	Mr. Francis Pater
Princess Cynthia	Miss Daisy Le Hay
Iris	Miss Alma Barber
Caroline	Miss Mayne Young
Dorothy	Miss Aileen Pel
Hermia	Miss Marie West
Gretchen	Miss Laurie Opperman
Jean	Miss Joan Adair
Carmenita	Miss Betty Heaps
Celeste	Miss Adeline Waterlow

A conspicuous merit of Mr. Workman's latest production at the Savoy Theatre is the exquisite refinement of the mounting and dressing of the piece. Mr. Alfred Terraine's Palace Courtyard for the first act is a miracle of sunny illumination and architectural effect, and Mr. McCleery's Palace ante-room, with its delicate blues and greys, is another fine example of the scene-painters' skill. These two charming backgrounds are in complete harmony with the colours of the costumes, so deftly designed by Mr. Percy Anderson, and doubtless the production of the musical play by Mr. Austen Hurgon has much to do with the excellence of the tout ensemble.

The story of Two Merry Monarchs is of one King Paul of Esperanto, who, nearly a thousand years since, discovered the elixir of life. His assistant in his alchemical studies was one Utops, who also partook of the drug which endows the drinker with longevity. Paul determines to put Utops out of the way, and so invents a plan which is ingenious if a little uncertain in the working out. He inoculates his daughter Cynthia so thoroughly with a certain deadly poison that anyone kissing her must die. Paul then puts forth an edict strictly forbidding osculation in his kingdom for a year. Then Utops is betrothed to Cynthia, Paul's expectation being that, when the fiancées meet and embrace, Utops will fall down dead.

But the handsome young Governor of Police, Prince Charmis, is in love with Cynthia, and she with him; and when Utops comes to Esperanto to claim his promised bride, and is going to kiss her, Charmis steps forward, and, in the name of the law, prevents the osculation. The story becomes less easy to follow as the play proceeds; indeed, it serves as a thread on which to string musical numbers, dances, and dialogue. It is, however, necessary to mention that Rolandyl, Postmaster-General and Assessor of Taxes of Esperanto, and the confidant of all King Paul's trickeries and villainies, pervades the piece like a kind of Puck, enjoying the troubles and annoyances of others, and playing his own game in a most amusing manner.

The music of Two Merry Monarchs has the very welcome merits of dash, sound, and spirit, and is, for that reason, exhilarating; but it does not contain many of those haunting melodies which are hummed and whistled "after the opera is over." It is, however, bright and pleasing, and there is plenty of emphatic and rousing appeal in the concerted pieces and choruses. The lyrics are all neatly and crisply written. One of the most successful was a song for Rolandyl in the second act, which we quote:

"If you're keen upon kissing your wife when your wed,
Well, you won't want a licence for that!
It is merely a sign that you're losing your head,
So you won't want a licence for that!
But if you should find your companion for life
Has developed a taste for connubial strife,
And you fancy a kiss from another man's wife,
Well, you must have a licence for that!
Yes, you must have a licence for that—
It's a dangerous game to be at;
Stolen kisses are best,
So by special request
We have issued a licence for that.

"If your coachman is clad in vermilion and puce,
Well, you won't have a licence for that!
It may call from the cabby sarcastic abuse,
But you won't want a licence for that!
If you think a fur tippet will add to his charms,
You can lend him your old one without any qualms,
But if you indulge in a new coat-of-arms,
Well, you must have a licence for that!
Yes, you must have a licence for that—
It's the mark of the aristocrat;
It may be what you will,
Either rampant or still,
But you must have a licence for that.

"If an actress is passé and plays the soubrette,
Well, she won't need a licence for that!
She may even have reached second childhood, and yet
There's no need of a licence for that!
But supposing a manager wants to engage
Someone graceful and slim for the part of a page,
And he chooses a child that is just under age—
Well, he must have a licence for that!
Yes, he must have a licence for that
Till the kitten grows into a cat,
If a flapper of two
Wants to make her début,
We can issue a licence for that!

"You may all keep canaries, keep cats, or keep fit,
And you won't want a licence for that!
Keep a messenger keeping a place in the pit,
And you won't want a licence for that!
A boy may keep rabbits, a sailor a log,
A woman keep youthful, a king keep incog.
But the moment you think about keeping a dog,
Well, you must have a licence for that!
Yes, you must have a licence for that—
If your income is not very fat,
It will fill up your cup
When the dog has a pup,
You will want a new licence for that!"

Mr. C. H. Workman as Rolandyl played with his usual alertness and drollery. His never-flagging vivacity and his remarkable resources in the way of business and gesture kept things going wonderfully. The character is not as consistently worked out as some of those in the Gilbert and Sullivan operas, and Mr. Workman therefore had to supply the want by his personal energy and humour. His habit of distinct enunciation was again appreciated, especially in his rendering of Rolandyl's songs, out of which he extracted the utmost point and meaning. Had encores been allowed Mr. Workman could have taken many; but he wisely refrained from accepting them. A clever character impersonation was Mr. Robert Whyte, jun.'s, King Paul of Esperanto. The undignified monarch, who is ready to stoop to any expediency in order to gain his ends, and who allows his Postmaster-General strange liberties, was distinctly drawn, and the comicality of the part was developed to the utmost. A complete contrast to the "pawky" Paul was Mr. Lennox Pawle's King Utops. The spectacle of Mr. Pawle, with his well-developed figure clad in a Greek costume and a rose garland on his head, was extremely diverting, and he played the part with full appreciation of its possibilities. Mr. Roland Cunningham, who has a fine figure and a good voice, acted Prince Charmis in broad, bold, and vigorous style, and sang the numbers allotted to him admirably; and Mr. Leslie Stiles played the Herald, Helvanoise, with all the necessary expression and animation. As the principal Lady-in-waiting, Iris, Miss Alma Barber was bewitchingly arch and active. Her performance was full of life and fun, and she danced and sang in the most winning and delightfully impulsive style, her charming personality making her a great favourite. A pretty and refined Princess Cynthia was Miss Daisy Le Hay, whose performance combined artlessness and simple dignity with exquisite grace and gentleness, her vocalisation being excellent. Warm praise must be given to Miss Mayne Young for her strong and spirited delivery of the speeches of the public agitatress Caroline. She gave a powerful and picturesque performance. Mr. Neville George was comically senile as Mandamus, the Lord Chief Justice of Utopia, and Mr. Francis Pater bore himself well as the Head Flunkey. The orchestra, under Mr. T. Silver's bâton did its work perfectly; and Two Merry Monarchs had an enthusiastic reception.

THE SUNDAY DEFENCE COMMITTEE.

A meeting of this committee was held on Thursday in the Board Room of the Variety Artists' Federation. Mr. W. H. Clemart presided. The other members of the committee present were Mr. Charles Coborn, V.A.F., Mr. Robson Paige, and Mr. Duncan Young (of the Actors' Association), Mr. C. Jesson (Musicians' Union), and Mr. G. H. Dyball and Mr. W. Johnson (of the N.A.T.E.).

The secretary reported on the number of replies to the circular issued by the committee to candidates in the recent L.C.C. election. Forty favourable replies had been received, but there was no question but that the whole of the members of the Council would support the past policy of the Council in regard to Sunday entertainments.

The secretary reported that a number of invitations had already been sent out to representative ladies and gentlemen connected with the dramatic and variety professions, the Church, and the Legislature. Among the replies received the following had consented to add their name to the list of vice-presidents:—The Bishop of Southwark, Mr. Robert Courtneidge, Mr. Frank Glenister, Mr. Hugh Astley, Mr. J. Elvin, and Mr. J. R. Macdonald, M.P., secretary of the Labour Party.

The following draft of regulations, which it is intended to submit to Town and County Councils with a view to their being adopted were approved.

REGULATIONS FOR SUNDAY ENTERTAINMENTS.

1. No place for public entertainments licensed by this Council shall be opened on a Sunday by way of trade or for personal gain.

2. Permission to give an entertainment on Sundays on licensed premises shall only be given on the following conditions:—

(a) Application must be made by a responsible officer of a society or organisation, and such application must be endorsed by the licensee. The applicant for permission shall furnish with his application a copy of the rules, regulations, or balance-sheet of the society or organisation, showing how its funds and the proceeds of such entertainment are, and will be, used, and shall supply a copy of his agreement with the licensee, showing on what terms the applicant obtains the use of the licensed premises and what is to be the maximum sum paid to the licensee for any and all purposes.

(b) The applicant shall, on behalf of his society or organisation, give an undertaking that the entertainment will be properly conducted and that he will be responsible for the employment and remuneration (if any) of any person whose services are required for the entertainment, and that no one employed on such premises by the licensee during the week shall have any pressure put upon him or her to work on Sunday in connection with such entertainment. The licensee shall give an undertaking that the refusal of any person to assist at a Sunday entertainment shall not affect the continuation of such person in his employ.

(c) The applicant shall furnish the Council with a statement of accounts, duly audited, for such entertainment, and give a full and true account of the receipts and payments within one month; and, if permission be given for a series of entertainments, a statement of accounts shall be rendered monthly to the Council, the same to be open to the inspection of the public.

(d) The licensee shall be held responsible for the observance of the Council's regulations in all respects, but shall not have any other control, in any respect, of an entertainment given on a Sunday.

(e) Permission shall not be given unless an applicant satisfy the Council that the entertainment is for a legitimate and a non-commercial purpose; or, if the agreement between the applicant and the licensee shows that the licensee is sharing the receipts, or receiving an undue amount by way of rent or other charges for the use of the premises. The Council will give preference to applicants assisting a bona fide charity or benevolent fund, but will have regard to the number of entertainments then being given on a Sunday.

The draft of a letter to be sent to all licensing authorities was also approved. The chairman and secretary were deputed to prepare a statement, to be submitted to the L.C.C., dealing with a number of facts that have come to the knowledge of the committee regarding entertainments now being given on Sundays in the metropolitan area.

The following members of the committee—Messrs. Coborn, Paige, Jesson, and the secretary—were appointed to meet representatives of the Imperial Sunday Alliance, as requested, on Tuesday next, at the offices of the Sunday Lay Movement, in Sackville-street.

It was decided to lay the objects and views of the committee before the Press of the country without delay.

The committee will meet again next Thursday, at twelve o'clock, at 18, Charing Cross-road.

Mr. EDWIN T. HEYS writes:—"In your last issue you quoted from a letter to the Daily News a statement that Strife lost money heavily in every town in the provinces. May I point out that Miss Horniman's company, under the direction of Mr. B. Iden Payne, played Strife at the Gaiety Theatre, Manchester, for three consecutive weeks to large and very profitable houses?"

Mr. E. H. SOTHERN and Miss Julia Marlowe are fulfilling a joint engagement at the Academy of Music, New York, and appearing in a series of Shakespearean plays. This is to be their last season together, as Miss Marlowe has made arrangements to appear in England and Australia. The Academy, by the way, is to be turned into a "popular price" vaudeville house at the end of the present season, and it is said that the lessees will pay the estates of Eugene Tompkins and E. G. Gilmore, the joint proprietors of the theatre, a rental of 100,000 dollars per annum for a period of ten years. Thus, the spirit of the drama will no longer haunt Fourteenth-street, for the theatre named after that busy thoroughfare has been turned into a moving picture house, and now the Academy is to be changed.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

Mr. Alfred Butt started for the Continent on Wednesday morning, and is in Berlin on business connected with the erection of a new theatre there. Mr. Butt, with Mr. Walter de Frece, is a director of the Variety Theatres Controlling Company, established with a capital of £50,000 to carry on the business of managers of music halls, theatres, circuses, skating rinks, exhibitions, fairs, &c., and to adopt an agreement (1) with Barrasford, Limited, and (2) with W. de Frece.

Mr. William Bailey, who returns to the management of the Metropolitan on Monday next, has been much gratified at a presentation from his old employees at the West London, who gave him a sterling silver cigar case of massive beauty. Mr. J. H. Shotton, the acting-manager, made a very effective speech on behalf of the staff before and behind the curtain, and Mr. Bailey, in his reply, expressed his deep appreciation of a gift prompted only by kindliness and good fellowship.

Mr. Harry Lauder, fresh from a successful American tour, has arrived in London, having crossed the Atlantic in the Mauretania. He will return to the States after the fulfilment of his engagements on this side.

After his interesting engagement at the Hippodrome, Mr. Lewis Waller joins the company at the Coliseum on Monday. He will not give Henry Hamilton's morbid but clever monologue, Fortune's Fool, but will recite excerpts from Julius Cæsar, Henry the Fifth, and will also draw upon Kipling's "Barrack-Room Ballads," and possibly Tennyson.

Once again Mr. B. Pearce Lucas is giving over the Bedford, Camden Town, to the cause of charity for a special matinée performance next Thursday afternoon, "under distinguished patronage," in aid of the St. Pancras Almshouses and the St. Pancras Female Orphanage. The Mayor, Aldermen, and Councillors of the borough have consented to attend in state.

Sir Edward Moss, speaking in his speech as chairman at the annual general meeting of Moss' Empires, Ltd., at Edinburgh, asserted that one of the causes of the reduction of variety dividends was the keen competition of skating rinks. The second list which we have prepared shows the sum of £2,000,000 invested in rinks, and amply justifies not only Sir Edward's remarks, but other similar statements of music hall managing-directors.

That clever young actress Miss Helena Millais, niece of the late Mr. Adney Payne and cousin of Mr. Walter Gibbons, is the latest recruit from the theatre to variety. Miss Millais, who made her first appearance in 1903 when she was sixteen, has done brilliant work during her stage career, and recently concluded eighteen months' starring engagement under the Lyceum management as Kate Cregeen in Pete.

Supported by a first-class company, including Edward Thane, John Dennys, and Stuart Cleveland, Miss Millais is producing a new and original "thrill," by Ward Bailey and Edward Thane, entitled The Mask Torn Off. The scene is laid in Monaco. Mr. W. J. Grimes has secured the novelty for the Empress, Brixton, and Miss Millais will open there on Monday next.

The strength of a variety programme lies in the force of contrast, and in the Hippodrome bill on Monday next this truism will be illustrated in the turns of Miss Louie Freear and Miss Ada Reeve. The former comedienne has again taken her legitimate place as one of London's laughter-makers. It is good to hear audiences at the Hippodrome laughing at her latest song, "When my old man took the pledge," and to note their immense enjoyment of Miss Freear's wonderfully funny skit on the Salome dance.

Miss Ada Reeve, who, like Miss Freear, has been on the stage since her childhood, is paying her first visit to the Hippodrome on Monday, and will sing a number of new songs as well as some old favourites. Miss Reeve, who gets a wonderful amount of expression into her lines and brings out every point, will change her songs almost every night, for she has an exceptionally large répertoire.

Mme. Rejane will open a four weeks' engagement at the London Hippodrome on April 4, in a gay little comedy called Lolotte, by Meilhac and Halévy, which she has only played once in England, and that before the King. Lolotte was originally presented in London in 1880 by Céline Chaumont, and Sir Francis Burnand adapted the trifle for Lady Bancroft, under the title A Lesson, which was presented at the Haymarket Theatre on Nov. 26, 1881. The popular comedienne played Kate Reeve, an actress, the counterpart of Lolotte.

Many conflicting statements have been made as to whether Vesta Victoria has accepted American engagements. We are in a position to state that Miss Victoria has been booked by Mr. Martin Beck on the Orpheum circuit through the Beecham and Wheeler office. This engagement was arranged some weeks back, London and provincial managers having courteously postponed the popular artist's engagements. Needless to say, the salary that has induced Miss Victoria to again cross the "pond" is a sensational one.

The Greenwich Palace of Varieties, Ltd., reopened on Monday. The managing-director is Major Gordon Hartley, and Mr. J. S. Fairlie (late of the Alhambra, Paris) is in charge. It is many years since that, at the old hall built on the same site, and known in the eighties as Crowder's, Mr. C. S. Crowder commenced a business association with Mr. George Adney Payne, from which, in the nineties, may be said to have sprung the great aggregation of London halls known as the Syndicate.

Never is blithesome Miss Daisy Dormer more welcome than at the moment her appearance is unexpected, and when on Monday evening—in response to the word "Deputy"—the little lady burst like a ray of sunshine from the wings at the Ealing Hippodrome, one long shout of applause rose up from stalls, pit, and gallery. There is no mistake about the favour of this "artist to her finger-tips," and when she calls upon the house with an irresistible "now then" for the chorus of "Has anybody seen my sailor boy, whose name is upon my arm?" there is one great answer to the appeal of one who is alike the idol of the boys and whose pretty dresses are the envy of all the girls.

The Captain Webber Relief Fund Matinée at the London Tivoli on Tuesday next promises to be a brilliant function. Mr. Richard Warner, who is organising it, will have the aid of an influential committee of theatrical and variety celebrities. Captain Webber devoted both himself and his fortune to the needs of his country during the South African War, but since then has lost his all owing to circumstances over which he had no control. Contributions to the Tivoli Matinée Donation Fund may be sent to the Hon. Treasurer, Mr. V. H. Lanyi, Lyric-chambers, 27, Shaftesbury-avenue, and applications for tickets should be made to the hon. secretary, Mr. Stanley C. May, at the same address.

The New Brighton Winter Gardens are now closed for extensive alterations, to which reference was made last week in our "Variety Gossip" columns. The re-opening is fixed for Easter Monday.

Mr. Walter Hague, late conductor of the Empire, Liverpool, has been appointed musical-director of Rivière's Grand Orchestra, Colwyn Bay.

The Pier Theatre, Eastbourne, will in future be booked by Mr. Milton Bode, and all communications re dates should be addressed to him at the County Theatre, Reading. All other communications to G. Hayes, Pier, Eastbourne.

As a result of the recent bohemian smoking concert promoted by the Sharrow Cycling Club, Sheffield, a cheque for £15 has been forwarded to the respective secretaries of the Variety Artists' Benevolent Fund and the Music Hall Benevolent Institution.

Considerable disgust is being expressed in the North at the collapse of a variety management in Kilmarnock last week. Seeing the state of affairs, the artists managed to secure Saturday's drawings, and, after division, found that for an arduous week's work each received the munificent sum of 11s. 3d.

Applications in connection with licensing of places of amusement at Great Yarmouth were recently considered by the Bench, and six-day licences were renewed in all cases, with the exception of the Britannia Pier, Wellington Pier and Gardens, at which the Justices will allow a band to play at hours between 12 and 5.30, and 8 and 10.

So far as The Gem is concerned, the Justices removed the restriction placed upon it, with the exception of that prohibiting shouting or advertising outside the building. The Aquarium will remain a six-day licence. The plans for a new pavilion in place of the building destroyed by fire on the Britannia Pier were put back for further submission.

Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son are ever increasing their circuit in Lancashire, and are identifying themselves with a new theatre in Preston, to be erected on the site of the Empress Rink. The building will resemble internally the Junction Theatre, Manchester, and when opened in the autumn will be called "The New King's Opera House."

Mr. F. Graham Macdona, lessee and manager of the Theatre Royal, Colchester, by arrangement with the Co-operative Varieties, Ltd., will open the Theatre Royal, Colchester, on Easter Monday, March 28, for a season as a variety theatre at popular prices. The house will then be run on the twice nightly plan. Mr. Macdona will re-open his dramatic season on Monday, Aug. 29.

Dr. Walford Bodie informs us that he is creating a furore in the North despite the adverse result of his appeal. He is greeted by packed houses everywhere, and has only seven weeks vacant this year—May and June. He starts in the autumn a long tour through Canada under the sole direction of Mrs. Walford Bodie and his son, Mr. Albert Edward Bodie, who is giving up the study of the law and will follow in his father's footsteps.

Messrs. C. Arthur Pearson, Ltd., will publish this week Dr. Bodie's latest literary sensation in shilling volume form under the title of "Harley, the Hypnotist," and he is also commissioned to write a series of sensational occult stories for a leading London magazine.

On Tuesday last, before a full bench of magistrates, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes was granted a music and dancing licence for the Grand Theatre, Derby. This licence is in addition to the existing full dramatic and excise licences, and carries out a suggestion made by us in a recent article. The double licence will be a great boon to Mr. Edwardes, as it will give him more scope to cater for the amusement of the Derby public by enabling him to vary his entertainments to suit the popular taste.

Mr. G. H. Elliott had his benefit at the Prince's Theatre, Bristol, on Tuesday evening last, when the house was packed from floor to ceiling, as was naturally expected, considering that he has to such a vast extent been instrumental in the colossal success of the Mother Hubbard pantomime. Though his part of Chocolate, coloured servant to the second girl, is not of vast importance in the plot of the pantomime, Mr. Elliott's personality and the magnetic charm of his song and dance specialities made him the most popular member of the company on the opening night, and he has maintained that position ever since.

Mr. Elliott has many advantages: he is just about the right height for his line of business, his figure is sufficiently slender, his make-up is attractive, his costumes fit him to perfection, he speaks distinctly in a pleasingly modulated voice, and his singing voice is really pleasant to listen to. His dancing is superb, and as for energy he would take a lot of beating, yet he is never obtrusive or aggressive. Added to all this, he is artistic to the finger-tips, and when the vein of comedy expected from a "coon" is in evidence it is very refined comedy, with nothing of the ordinary "nigger" about it. On Mr. Elliott's appearance on Tuesday evening the audience started "For he's a jolly good fellow." This was, of course, kindly meant, but it rather spoilt the scene, and was naturally somewhat embarrassing to Chocolate.

There were many extra attractions, additional turns being given by several members of the pantomime company, Mr. Elliott introduced his new song "By the light of the silvery moon." It is certainly pretty, and went well. He also sang his two London successes "I want to go to Idaho" and "If the man in the moon were a coon," both being encored. Mr. Horace Mills sang "Tra-la-la," Miss Lulu Valli "Naughty, naughty boy," Miss Daisy Lloyd Wood "Splash me," Mr. Charles Harvey an Irish song, "The mountains of Mourne," Mr. George Barrett both amused and mystified with his trick revolver shots, and Miss Betty Rutherford sang a couple of songs at the piano. From the Royal, Miss Kitty Upton, Miss Blanche Marion, the Sisters Emson, Mr. Dave Jenkins, and Mr. Frank Dunlop contributed very acceptable turns; and from the Empire Miss Carlotta Lovey and Mr. K. Scott-Barrie did likewise.

There were numerous presentations by Mr. Elliott, including a ring to Miss Leah Hanman, who so ably trained the children associated with him, floral offerings to all the lady artists, boxes of cigars and articles of jewellery to the gentlemen, and gold neckchains and pendants, containing his portrait, to the children. Everything went with delightful smoothness under the admirable stage direction of Mr. Henry Turner. At the close Mr. Elliott made a short speech, in which he said he should never forget his first benefit, and feelingly referred to the uniform kindness he had experienced from the management and the members of the company.

Owing to Miss Kate Carney's illness she has been unable to fulfil her engagements at Richmond, Hull, or Bradford.

Mr. W. H. Clemart has been elected paid chairman of the Variety Artists' Federation in succession to Mr. Fred Russell, the last to fill the position without honorarium. The new secretary—the third since the founding of the V.A.F.—is Mr. J. E. Barry.

Mr. Clemart's duties are very clearly defined. He is to act under the instructions of the Executive Committee, but will sign all cheques on the funds of the Federation. Mr. G. H. Chirgwin is the hon. treasurer, and Messrs. Joe Elvin, Paul Martinetti, and Edmund Edmunds are the hon. trustees.

Mr. J. J. Dallas, who is appearing at the London Pavilion with marked success, is to have the patronage of his brother Eccentrics there on Monday night.

The 650th meeting of the Executive Committee of the M.H.A.R.A. was held at the offices of the Association on Wednesday afternoon, when Mr. Harry Blake (vice-chairman) presided. A cheque for £113 2s. was ordered to be drawn on behalf of the V.A.B.F. This sum represents the amount received for the extra shilling on the green cards during the last four months.

Mr. Charles Stevens and his clever wife, La Belle Nello, have put all their business arrangements into the hands of Walter Bentley's agency.

Mr. Charles Coborn, after many years absence, will shortly reappear at the London Pavilion. The date is not yet definitely fixed, but we are convinced that when the arrangements are complete, it will be a source of pleasure to many.

Mr. Bransby Williams has been specially sent to open a new theatre in Winnipeg. By the kindness of Mr. Oswald Stoll in releasing him he has been enabled to prolong his stay on the other side for three weeks more than originally intended.

A "musical comedy playlet," entitled Cupid's Arms, will be produced at the Oxford this (Saturday) afternoon. It is written by Mr. A. E. Ellis, with music by Mr. H. E. Pether, and will be played by Mr. J. C. Piddock and Mr. Frank Danby.

Miss Ellaline Terriss, at present in Sicily, has considerably benefited by her rest, and returns to London shortly to rehearse for her five weeks' engagement at the Coliseum, where she is to appear with Mr. Seymour Hicks in the new sketch, The Man from Cook's.

Miss Flora Cromer's song "I never meet a pal going my way" has, at the Oxford, been nightly received with acclamation, and is a fine specimen of the song-writer's art in the best possible hands. On Monday evening the fair artist was the recipient of two lovely bouquets on the conclusion of her turn.

Mr. Charles Waterfield, one of the oldest vocal comedians travelling, joined Mr. H. Sloan's Circus at Weymouth for one week on Nov. 8 last, and has remained with them ever since. He has now been engaged for Guernsey and Jersey for three months this summer. Mr. Waterfield's latest success is entitled "'Tis not the man who has the most that gives the most away."

Queen and Le Brun, who were so successfully introduced into the Mother Goose pantomime at Drury Lane in 1902 by the lamented Dan Leno, are presenting their original absurdity The Cockney Huntsman, at the Empire, Edinburgh, next week, when they commence the Moss-Stoll tour. They were engaged for nine consecutive seasons at Drury Lane, and afterwards played for two years "down under" under the J. C. Williamson management.

Dick Knowles is coming to England again, and opens on the Stoll tour on Easter Monday. He is under special contract for his usual music hall entertainment in the evenings, and also to give at matinées his humorous lectures, which he calls "Travelaughs," presenting a different one each day. These novel entertainments have been an enormous success in the States. Mr. Knowles's English business is in the exclusive care of Mr. Harry Day.

Mr. Albert Le Fre, on the day of the first performance of the pantomime, Jack and Jill, at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, Birmingham, had to attend the consecration of a new Masonic Lodge in London, his presence being absolutely essential as first Master. Knowing that he would have little time to prepare for the stage on his way back to Birmingham, he took his make-up materials and costume with him, and during the return journey quietly left the compartment, and, with the aid of a small mirror, effected a very considerable alteration in his appearance, a false nose playing a prominent part. His fellow travellers showed no little astonishment on his reappearance.

He was the butt of a good deal of chaff, one gentleman suggesting that it would be a wise policy to conceal himself under the seat when the ticket collector came along the corridor, otherwise he might be asked to deliver up another ticket. He made a hurried journey from the station to the theatre, arriving in good time to take his cue.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leo (Miss Sable Fern) are amongst the latest victims of the light-fingered fraternity. On Saturday evening last a neighbour went to the Battersea Palace, where Miss Fern was so successfully appearing in her new entertainment entitled Boys in Camp, and informed Mr. Leo that his residence at Twickenham had lights in every room. He, afraid of alarming his wife, who had yet to do her second performance, kept the matter to himself, and instantly informed the police by telephone. But the birds had flown, and with them jewellery to the value of £60.

The popular comedian Ted E. Box has purchased a song, by Gilbert Wells and Will Terry, entitled "The lighthouse-keeper," which has been produced with tremendous success. It is understood that Wells and Terry had to write four songs on the lighthouse-keeper before they hit upon the identical article. The lightning and thunder and crockery-smashing effects were rehearsed at Mr. Box's house, much to the surprise and perplexity of the popular Wells, who began to prepare for earthquakes, and Will Terry had laughing hysterics at the perplexed Gilbert. And then another song was written, and a success was found at last.

Miss Lola Lee's new production "The Spirit of the Dance" has proved an immense success at the Camden Hippodrome this week. The turn consists of imitations of a large number of famous dances of various countries. In the "Valse Moderne" Miss Lee introduces a series of "dip-pirouettes." No other person on the English stage since the time of Kate Vaughan and Letty Lind has been able to do justice to these fascinating but extremely difficult dance movements. Miss Lee is British born and British trained, and as such challenges comparison with any foreign artist. Her work is a most refreshing change from the prancings of the so-called classical dancers.

"George the First" is the monarchical title given to the clever chimpanzee now exploited by Dandy George, the clever clown and animal-trainer. The simian George is fond of bike-riding, and in his other acts is very human.

During Mr. Alfred Moul's absence on the Continent, for a much-needed period of rest to recover health and strength after his severe illness, Mr. H. Woodford, business-manager and secretary, is in charge at the Alhambra.

Mr. Fred Bowyer has written a trio on Chantecler, with music by Ernée Woodville. The new number was rapturously received in The Earl and the Girl at the Tyne Theatre, Newcastle, on Monday last. In the way of comic verse Fred can claim to be a laureate.

Miss Wish Wynne, London's latest star comedienne, who is another find of the astute Mr. Frank Glenister, has been secured for the States, and will open with William Morris in September next. She is now starting on the Stoll Tour at the Empire, Holloway, but returns to the London Pavilion in August.

A revised version of Round the World, entitled East to West, will be presented next Monday at the Empire. The part of Captain Beresford, the hero, will be again played by the popular young tenor, Mr. Noel Fleming, who will introduce a new song, specially written for him by Mr. Cuthbert Clarke, the Empire's musical conductor.

Fred and Lillie Monckton, whose farcical duologues have been played successfully for the past six years in the principal London and provincial halls, will shortly produce an original dramatic episode, entitled A Daughter of Judas, by Mr. Fred Monckton, specially written for Miss Lillie, whose capabilities and versatility are well known.

Mr. Jack Sheridan, son of Mark Sheridan (one of the B-Hoys), opened at the Lyric, Liverpool, and was personally complimented by Mr. H. C. Arnold, sen., and re-engaged for three more dates. He has many more dates in Lancashire, Cheshire, and Ireland. Next week he plays the Empire, South Shields. His business is in the hands of that enterprising hustler Mr. Fred Wilmott.

Sandy McNab has just finished six weeks in Scotland, where he has played to record business in each town.

Lord Salvesen, in the Court of Session, Dundee, on the 4th inst., heard counsel on the procedure roll in the action by Malcolm Scott, comedian, 109, Wellington-road, South Hounslow, London, against Mrs. Elizabeth Martha Moult or Williams, 82, Victoria-road, Dundee, lessee of the Gaiety Theatre, Dundee, for £100.

The pursuer entered into a contract to appear as "The Woman Who Knows" at defender's theatre for £100 per week, commencing on Sept. 13 1909. When he presented himself at the theatre the defender declined to allow him to rehearse, but subsequently allowed him to appear on the 14th and for the rest of the week, intimating that she would pay £100 and reserve her claims against Mr Scott for damages in respect of his failure to provide her with bill matter in terms of his contract. Pursuer stated that he did forward bill matter, and that although he fulfilled his contract defender refused to pay the £100.

In another action Mrs. Williams sued Mr. Scott for £250 damages in respect of loss sustained by her through his alleged failure to supply bill matter to enable her to properly advertise his performance.

In the action at the instance of Mr. Scott his lordship granted decree for the £100 sued for, but superseded extract on Mrs. Williams finding caution or consigning that sum in Court pending the disposal of Mrs. Williams' counter-claim.

The death was announced last week of Miss Harriet Clifton, who passed away at the age of sixty-three. The deceased lady about twenty years since was very popular in sketches, in which she supported Mr. George Yates. Both actor and actress doubled parts in these productions; but that was long before the days of the "compromise," and the "common informer" was often very busy. Miss Clifton was a great favourite at the Pavilion Theatre, E., in the old stock days.

The main-line departure platform at Waterloo at 9.45 a.m. on Saturday last presented a more than usually animated appearance, and that green-skinned monster, Locomotive No. 434, with steam up, stood coughing and sighing as though the run to Southampton with the London passengers of no fewer than three outgoing steamships was more than it could pull. Besides the voyagers for the German and the Kinfauns Castle, were those bound for New York per the Atlantic transport liner Minnlewaska, and among these last was Mr. Fred Day, of the Anglo-American publishing firm of T. B. Harms and Francis, Day and Hunter, who had been staying in England for some time on a visit of business and pleasure combined.

A goodly number assembled to witness his departure, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. David Day, their daughter and grandchild, Mrs. and Miss Plucknett, Mr. C. Westell, Mr. Sidney Kent (the well-known artist), Mr. Charles Wilmott, Mr. Lester Barrett, Mr. Leonard Bellamy, Mr. Arthur Francis, Mr. John Abbott, and Mr. Edgar Bateman. Mr. and Mrs. David Day accompanied the traveller as far as Southampton.

Councillor Harold Arnold, manager of the King's Theatre, Gateshead, has been appointed general manager for the Tynemouth Palace, which opens in May with first-class varieties. He will still hold his position at the King's Theatre. For the benefit of the patrons of the Palace he will establish ladies' reading and reception rooms, a gentleman's toilet saloon, and a room where they can write letters. A speciality in the way of refreshments will be evening dinners from seven to eight, at popular prices. The skating rink will be re-decorated and handsomely illuminated. All the best variety artistes will appear during the season.

Mr. Godfrey Price, a baritone who comes from the land of the harpers—Wales—being at one time a member of the famous Mountain Ash Male Voice Choir, has hit upon the original idea of acting and illustrating a song, and for that purpose has chosen the stirring number by Airlie Dix, entitled "The Trumpeter," the capital verses being by Mr. John Barron. "The Trumpeter" is presented in four scenes: The Reveille, the Charge, Night, and the Last Rally, with an apotheosis. In America especially Mr. Price's fine voice made him a most popular singer, and with English audiences he is becoming an immense favourite.

The monthly meeting of the committee of the Music Hall Sick Fund, was held at the Crown Hotel, Charing Cross-road, on Wednesday afternoon, when there were present Messrs. Tom Carney (in the chair), Pat Carey (hon. treasurer), S. White, T. B. Brydge, A. E. Drew, Carl Hermon, and R. T. Baines (secretary). At the conclusion of the ordinary business, mention was made of the appointment of Mr. Wm. Bailey (an old member of the Society, and formerly its hon. treasurer) as manager at the Metropolitan, with which he was associated in a similar position some nineteen years ago, and the secretary stated that he had already sent a congratulatory letter to Mr. Bailey.

The buildings and marine park, known as the Kursaal, Southend, has been taken over by a company known as the Luna Park and Palace of Amusements, Southend, Ltd. It is proposed to lay out the grounds as an American Fun Park, and already some of the most successful amusement devices in the world have been arranged for. There are still a few vacant plots to let for side shows and novelties. Applications to T. Hilton, Kursaal, Southend.

Southend has many natural advantages to commend itself as an amusement and pleasure resort, one of the foremost being that it is the nearest seaside resort to the greatest city in the world. The population within a radius of fifty miles exceeds seven million people. This is considerably in excess of the population surrounding any other seaside resort in the United Kingdom.

The Kursaal buildings (with eight fully-licensed bars), capable of holding and entertaining over 10,000 people at one time, will be a great advantage and source of revenue in wet and inclement weather. The buildings and land cost originally about £350,000. The promoters do not claim that this in any way represents its true value at the present time, but they do claim that there is very considerable value in the land and buildings, and that owing to the increasing growth of Southend it is becoming more and more valuable every year.

There are thirty-seven shops, dining hall, billiard room, lounge, skating rink, tea balcony, arcade, theatre, and the usual offices. The Marine Park of twenty-five acres will contain, inter alia, figure 8 railway, aeroflight, trip to the moon, zig-zag, witching waves, steeplechase, shooting hoop-'as, and Old English Fair, &c. That the scheme has a reasonable chance of success is proved by the number of concessions that are already arranged with most of the leading showmen in the world who have had experience of other similar enterprises in populous centres.

The annual meeting of the Terriers' Association will be held on Sunday, March 20, at the Three Stags Hotel, at 6.30 p.m.

Mr. Reg. Amber, who is at the Hippodrome, Stoke-on-Trent, has scored a great success in new songs and scena. He opens in London after his al-fresco season with Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale.

The following additional donations have been received to the amount collected at the M.H.A.R.A. dinner:—Mis Lottie Alberts, £1 1s.; Chas. W. Snell, £2 2s.; P. Jackson, Pixley, and Co., £2 2s.; Arthur Rigby, £1 1s. Total amount received to date, £644 2s. 6d.

Mr. Ernest Lepard is doing what may be called an extra good turn at the Canterbury. Attracted early one morning by a policeman guiding a mite of a shoeless waif home, he learned from the kindly constable that there was a mass of poor hungry children round about the hall of which he is the manager. Something, he thought, might be done to mitigate the lot of the youngsters, and a committee of five friends and neighbours set to work.

As a result, during the last ten weeks every Wednesday and Thursday, hundreds of the poorest children in the neighbourhood have been regaled on the stage of the Canterbury with a good meal. The manager and his assistants act as stewards. At the neighbouring Dover Castle the soup is boiled, and others provide the beef, potatoes, fruit, &c. No subscriptions are solicited. "Kind hearts are more than coronets."

Mrs. C. C. Bartram desires us to make it clear that, although she has been a member from the beginning, she has only been on the committee of the Music Hall Ladies' Guild a few months, and that Mrs. Smythson has always been a committee lady, and is at the present time, the first vice-president of the Guild. It may also be added that Mrs. Smythson was one of the original founders of the M.H.L.G.

Miss Lallah Ashby is expected to return to England about the end of April for a short holiday, and to arrange a new musical scena for her re-engagement with Mr. K. Bysack in December. Miss Ashby, with her late husband, known as "the Musical Ashbys," went to India in 1904, and the pair were very big favourites in the East. Since his lamented death Miss Ashby has lost none of her popularity, as she discovered during her recent comfortable engagement under the management of Mr. K. Bysack.

Owing to the next regular meeting of the Bohemian Lodge No. 3294 falling upon Good Friday, a dispensation has been applied for to hold the meeting on Tuesday, March 22, at the Masonic Chambers, 9, Hamilton-street, Birkenhead, at 1.30 p.m. The hall is opposite the Hamilton-square Station of the Mersey Railway, which is only three minutes from Liverpool. The W.M. trusts that all visiting brethren to the Liverpool and Birkenhead districts will favour the Lodge with a visit on this occasion.

Bro. Ernest Wighton (manager of the Olympia) is one of the stalwarts of the Lodge. He was responsible for the very excellent programme at the bohemian concert held at the Birkenhead Town Hall, which resulted in a sum of over fifty guineas being handed to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. At this meeting he proposes two joining members, Bro. John Barton (Barton and Ashley) and Bro. Albert Warren (illusionist). The next meeting will be a "moving picture," for the three candidates for initiation—Messrs. James Mole, Arthur Richards, and Fred Parker—are all shining lights in the cinematograph constellation.

The installation meeting will be held on Friday, April 22, by kind permission of W.Bro. W. H. Lever, P.P.G.W., at Thornton Manor, Thornton Hough. Conveyances will be in readiness at Rock Ferry Station at 11 a.m. for the ceremony at 12 noon. Dinner at 2 p.m. Further information may be obtained from the secretary, Bro. W. Jones, 34, Cable-street, Liverpool.

Mr. Ben Woodger, secretary of the Music Hall Home, desires, on behalf of the committee, to thank Mr. Vivian Evans, Empire Palace, Wolverhampton, for £1 19s.; Mr. Sam Jones, City Varieties, Leeds, for 4s.; Mr. Herbert Raymond, Regent Theatre, Salford, for £2 11s.; Mr. Jack Woolf, Wonderland, Whitechapel, for £2; Austin Rudd, per the Performer, for 5s.; Messrs. H. and M. Rayne, Waterloo-road, for £5 (being share of the profits from the sale of their date book); also for cheque from H. and M. Rayne, per F. H. Pedgrift (The Era), £3 0s. 3d. (being share on the sale of the date book by The Era); Walter Norman King's Theatre, Gainsborough, for 6s. 6d.; Ernie Westo (son of Lieut. Travis), for 4s. 7d.; also Mrs. O'Brien (Rules', Maiden-lane), box collection of £2 2s. 9d.; Harry Bawn (per F. Alexander), Empire, Edmonton, box collection of £2 6s.

Many thanks are also due for parcels of men's old clothes received from Pat Carey, Peggy Pryde, and to Ernest Ball, Harry Blake, and Harry and Lillie Vento (Clacton-on-Sea), for parcels of books and magazines, which the inmates of the Home find very interesting; also for kind letter and voting papers from Tom Branson, Queen's Saloon, Hastings. Will collectors kindly send along their "Music Hall Home Cards"? The next committee meeting will be on the 17th inst.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

MR. CHARLES R. WHITTLE, who is appearing at the Empire, Sheffield, had the felicity a day or two since of telegraphing to Messrs. Francis and Day the pleasing intelligence that the new song he had essayed there, and which is entitled "You might do worse than marry a factory lass," was an unmistakable and enormous hit, and had been received with the utmost enthusiasm. It has been written and composed by Will Letters and C. W. Murphy, who, between them, gave the world "Has anybody here seen Kelly?" Yet another message from the same popular artist was to the effect that Charles Wilmott and Hermann E. Darewski's new song "Come round the corner with me" had likewise hit the mark in the most emphatic manner, huge audiences having roared out their admiration as only the Blades can. Messrs. Francis and Day will issue both numbers in due course.

MISS FLORRIE FORDE, that delightful queen of chorus singers, has, much to the chagrin and disappointment of her numberless Glasgow admirers, been compelled through indisposition to lay off, but will next week at the Palace, Blackpool, sing Lester Barrett and Hermann E. Darewski's "'Tis a faded picture," a number in which the author and composer of "I used to sigh for the silvery moon" have, as they ever do, "come up to the sample." Another new song which Miss Forde will delight Blackpool patrons with is C. W. Murphy's "In your old Tam o' Shanter, Bonnie Jean," a number of which great things are expected.

MISS ELLA RETFORD, who has won all hearts in Birmingham, and who concludes to-night at the Prince of Wales's an enormously successful pantomime engagement, has in study, and will produce shortly, an entirely new song, named "Hi! Hi! Mister McKie!" from the joint pens of Will Letters and C. W. Murphy. Messrs. Francis and Day have the song in the press.

MISS OUIDA MACDERMOTT, whose performance of the Prince in Cinderella at the Theatre Royal, Manchester, was marked by the dramatic power inherited from her gifted father, and who once more in pantomime made even a bigger success than she did the year prior, will on Monday, at the Palace Theatre, Shaftesbury-avenue, sing a delightful new song, by Lester Barrett and Hermann E. Darewski, entitled "To welcome my Sadie to me," and also a number which may be described as a gem of prettiness and earnestness, the name of which is "Castles of sand," for which Sidney Davis is responsible. Hermann E. Darewski has set the lyric to one of those musicianly strains which stamps him as one who ever, to slightly alter Mr. Joseph Chamberlain's dictum, "thinks melodiously."

IN addition to securing Mr. Jack Pleasants' great comic songs "I'll be a bad lad, 'Liza Ann!" by C. W. Murphy, and "I'm shy, Mary Ellen," by Charles A. Stevens and Charles Ridgwell, Messrs Francis and Day have acquired for publication the comedian's forthcoming songs, "To show who was boss of the house" and "I love to go butterfly catching." The former is by C. W. Murphy, whilst Stevens and Ridgwell are responsible for the latter.

MR. WILKIE BARD'S new song "Not a single man said 'No!'" which has been specially written him by Worton David and George Arthurs, has been secured for publication by Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter.

MR. WARWICK WILLIAMS'S new and pretty waltz "Dolorosa" is a fine specimen of the art of the musician who has given the world that fine march "Alicia" and numberless other morceaux that linger pleasingly on the memory. It is being brought out by Messrs. Francis and Day. The genial Bohemian's intermezzo, entitled "Hope," lately figured on the Tivoli programme as overture.

MR. BILLY WILLIAMS, "the man in the velvet suit," who sailed for Australia a day or two since, just prior to his departure published with Messrs. Francis and Day a song, by Fred Godfrey and Orlando Powell, entitled "In the land where there are no girls," and another yclept "He used to play on the oboe," by Fred Godfrey and Charles Hilbury.

C. W. MURPHY, on whom, it is alleged, even Orpheus would cast envious eyes were the god to re-visit these glimpses of the moon, has published with Mr. David Day's firm during the last few days songs, entitled "Little brown man from Tokio," "In my dear little Lancashire home," "She's a London lass is Lucy," and "My orchard is short of a peach like you." Will Letters is associated with the last-named ditty.

MR. BEN ALBERT has during the week been creating heartiest laughter at the London Pavilion with Alf Ellerton's "My inventive kiddy" and "What's the use of sighing?" a number which bears the unmistakable impress of Charles Osborne. Both songs are published by Messrs Francis and Day.

THE military bands of Great Britain are now playing Henry E. Pether's fascinating "Cecilia" waltz, which is a fine specimen of the art of this favourite composer, and one that is in steady demand. It is published by Messrs. Francis and Day.

IT is quite on the cards, and more than likely that next week Messrs. Francis and Day may have something to say about some new songs and pieces.

MESSRS. FRANCIS, DAY, AND HUNTER have just published a new Irish ditty, entitled "Miss O'Hara and her emerald tiara." It is written and composed by Weston, Barnes, and Maurice Scott, who feel confident it will eclipse in popularity their famous number, "I've got rings on my fingers."

MR. ARTHUR J. MILLS, happily recovered from his recent severe illness, has again, in conjunction with his partner, Mr. Bennett Scott, written a number which aptly illustrates the true meaning of the term "hand and glove," for never were words and melody better fitted one to the other. It is called "If the wife could see me now!" and Miss Maud Esmond, looking radiant in a beautiful new white and gold costume, with gold boots, has been doing the new song fullest justice at the Royal Standard, Pimlico, much to the delight of Mr. Dickie's patrons.

MISS DORA LYRIC, both at Putney and Pimlico, has nightly been assisted by her hearers in the chorus of two capital songs, which are likely to be of the utmost service to this foremost artist, and also to be largely enquired for. The titles are "Hello! Mr. Captain, are there any little girls in view?" and "I want to go back to the dear Homeland."

MR. ERNIE MAYNE'S fine comic song "Have a banana" and his comical methods and wildly ludicrous appearance have evoked shouts of laughter such as are seldom heard in a London music hall during the week now ending. Alf Ellerton is to be congratulated on the number, which is from his pen.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

THE PALACE.

A new play, in one act, by Georges Numa, was produced at the Palace Theatre on Monday evening. It is entitled:

"LE VISITEUR."

An Actress ..... MLLE. POLAIRE
The Visitor ..... M. GEORGES BAUD
A Maid ..... MLLE. DINARD

The piece has been written round Mlle. Polaire, the original of Ma Gosse, who made her début on Monday in Shaftesbury-avenue in her original character of "an actress." Masking her fear in the presence of an Apache, the divette plays the part of a Delilah of the slums and satiates her revenge by stabbing him with the knife from which he has just wiped the blood of her murdered lover. She sees the Apache at the window, and invites him to enter. He eagerly scans the apartment, and it is difficult to imagine his ferocious savagery being tamed by the wiles of woman. But the lust of the flesh overmasters the lust of gold as he joins her in "La Danse de Faubourgs"—a terpsichorean exercise in which the outward expression of animalism is certainly not restrained. As they dance his eyes are fastened upon the necklace of pearls about her throat. The temptation is too great. He reaches up to detach the jewels. As he does so she, in passing near the knife which he has incautiously left upon the table, seizes it and buries it in his back. He falls, and she, stumbling upon him, bursts into hysterical laughter and sinks exhausted upon the couch.

Mlle. Polaire's personal success was immediate, and on Monday she held completely the attention of a packed house from the moment of her entrance. She expressed very vividly the passing fear of the Parisian hooligan, who never goes about the stage without his snicker-snee glaringly displayed. The agony of apprehension which marks every movement of the defenceless girl was to be seen in every gesture. Then the reckless abandon of her dance!

Georges Baud as the Apache presents one of those relentless and repellent studies with which we are becoming quite familiar. The little piece has apparently been written to allow the clever pair to present a realistic study of the erotics of the gutter—a theme that has been more than sufficiently emphasised on the London stage already.

In the way of beautiful scenic effects and delightful dancing one turns from the realistic studies of the French school of dance-miming to the pretty, fanciful series of dances presented by La Pia, whom we see at first immolating herself in a stage flare that has no fire to colour it, and then as a naiad, sporting with the waves in a wonderful sea, which does not contain a drop of water. Much might be said about the delightful effects produced by the lantern, which provides a series of coloured front "cloths" and backgrounds, but it is only necessary to say that the wonders of the camera as an aid to scenic art have not yet been fathomed.

Mr. Jeffrey Silant contributes, early in the evening, an uncommon exhibition of skill with the stock whip as used in Australia on the cattle camps; the Palace Girls dance with a fascination and unanimity all their own; Mr. Cyril Clensy mimics Lewis Waller, George Graves, and Dick Knowles with equal facility; and other turns include Madeline Rossiter, comedienne; Frank Hartley, juggler; the Gaudsmidts, clever acrobatic clowns, with most intelligent performing poodles who can somersault; the McBans, the boomerang hat-throwers, with the whirl of the Indian club; Nelson Jackson, with a piano and some jokes; and Lady Constance Stewart-Richardson in a répertoire of classical dances, which comprise Anitra's Dance from Grieg's Peer Gynt suite.

LONDON PAVILION.

When an original comédienne of considerable versatility is discovered it is well to make a note of the fact, and Miss Wish Wynne amply demonstrates at the London Pavilion nightly that Mr. Frank Glenister is more than justified in his confidence in her ability. It was Mr. Glenister who gave a real chance to Miss Ida René—the latest principal girl at Drury Lane—for the display of her comedy gifts, and we have always wondered why she was not secured for musical comedy. This might be the ultimate goal of Miss Wynne, but there is plenty of room for talent such as hers on the variety stage, and her bookings suggest that she may remain there, at any rate, for some time. Her first song is in the philosophic vein: "When a maiden is young and romantic" the world is couleur de rose, but hard experience puts a different complexion upon things. This briefly is the lesson of the number. In her second item Miss Wynne is a modern Nan, a good-for-nothing, who makes many shrewd and observant remarks—a clever bit of character. Then we have a rare sketch of a country girl—a companion picture to Mr. Chevalier's delightful yokel. Miss Wynne is deservedly an immense favourite with Pavilion audiences.

Mr. J. J. Dallas reminds us of the claims of legitimate low comedy on the halls, with two capital songs: "In his mind" and "Nobody knows what I have suffered," the plaint of a voluble widow who is in a reminiscent mood, and babbles of girlhood and the ivy-covered cottage. Mr. Dallas scores most unmistakably, and a further extension of his budget of songs into the domain of "character" would be welcome.

Early in the bill Mr. Arthur Leslie, comedian, sings some nonsensical verses à la Wilkie Bard—of whom he reminds us—and also gives a fugitive impression of Mr. Albert Chevalier in "A Fallen Star." Mr. Arthur Sutcliffe has a rather stupid song concerning "a baby grand" and "a grand baby," but "gets home" with a second selection. Mr. Ben Albert has a droll tale of verses concerning an ingenious youth—a perfect marvel—whose inventive mind is a source of considerable trouble to his proud and anxious parents; and Mr. Larry Lewis, who returns after a short absence, and Mr. Mike Nono submit amusing comedy items. Miss Madoline Rees sings blithely of a geisha-girl, fascinating enough to draw her admirer across the sunlit sea; and Miss José Collins, whose vibrato effects rather spoil her enunciation, wins applause in "Come sing to me."

Miss Violet Loraine is piquant and attractive in her singing of "I want a boy," and her pleasant personality and comedy gifts enable her to score a conspicuous success in her second number, descriptive of the delights of a ramble in the park. Here the "bell" effects are of an amusing nature.

Laughter is in the ascendant when Carter Livesey and Miss Lilian Rosebery present once more the enormously popular skit, The Would-be Actors, one of the few that can be seen more than once. Miss Rosebery is a particularly handsome actress, and charmingly accentuates the contrast between the homely Yorkshire manager and the stage aspirant, who "looks all right."

Mr. Tom Clare plays the piano particularly well, and may always be trusted to introduce an up-to-date song with plenty of witty verses. His indignant German telephoning to his landlord concerning repairs is one of the droliest items he has given us; but this is quite away from the piano. Mr. Arthur Aldridge sings "Nirvana" with much warmth and feeling; the Brothers Dean's simultaneous dancing is neat; and Mlle. Marjutti puts much grace into her contortion feats.

La Milo returns here after nearly four years' absence, in her exhibition of classical poses, which, it will be remembered, secured the warm approval of Mr. W. T. Stead, an authority on morality and art. Milo presents the Venus of her namesake, and also appears on the pedestal as Una with the lion, Leda and the swan, Hebe, and La Cigale, all of which are partly draped figures, and beautifully realised. Cruickshank's pictorial libels of statesmen fill out the time taken between the different art creations. "Makers of History" is an appeal to patriotism that should be seen everywhere. The figures in the main are admirable likenesses of the originals.

SADLER'S WELLS.

There are three good sketches in the current week's bill at Sadler's Wells, two of them having gruesome endings. Winkels bottoms the bill and is a big laugh from start until nearly finish, when we are treated to "a touching tableau, the death of little Shrimp." Why, the author alone knows. Mr. Winkels keeps a provision shop and is a much-married man. Mr. Teddie Avery, in this part, keeps the fun going all along. The Winkels have a little boy named Shrimp, a precocious urchin, whose identity is unrecorded in the programme. Mrs. Winkels' temper is such that her husband orders her from the house just before her No. 1 husband arrives on the scene. This individual was supposed to have been dead years, but learning of his wife's marriage to Winkel, determines to blackmail either the provision dealer or her—or both. He is just proposing that £20 should change hands when his first wife turns up and denounces him, and the Winkels learn that they are properly married after all. In revenge the sailor man blows up the house, and little Shrimp is fatally injured. The prominence given to His Little Pal in the Sadler's Wells bill.

Charles Leighton, a comedian at the piano, plays "The Lost Chord" in ragtime, and is very amusing altogether. We get Gladys Clinton, Milo and George, Sisters Harcourt, the Cumberlands, Bessie Neilson, and the Maculaffs in the same programme.

WALTHAMSTOW PALACE.

"Begone dull care!" might well be adapted by Mr. Pierre Cohen as a motto to display outside this popular place of amusement, and the sentiment would be heartily endorsed by the crowds of pleasure-seekers who nightly crowd the house from stalls to gallery. The programme this week is bright enough to drive care away from the most confirmed misanthrope and send him home a happier and wiser man.

"Laughter, holding both his sides," follows the amazing doings of the Six Brothers Luck in their latest comedy-sketch H.M.S. Perhaps, written by S. P. Darell, and played with all their customary pantomimic power by the lucky brothers and the admirable company assisting them. Certainly the adventures on board the Perhaps might give the First Lord of the Admiralty cause for reflection, and send Lord Charles Beresford into fits, but the red-tapist naval expert would gladly lay his red tape aside for the time and join in the general hilarity. The imbroglio concerns the mistake of a doorkeeper at the Admiralty offices, Whitehall, who hands two letters of instructions to the wrong parties, the result being that the house-painter, whose men are engaged on smartening-up the offices, is sent in command of the ship, and the luckless commander receives "orders" as to house-painting. When the tradesman and his merry men take possession of the vessel the fun waxes fast and furious, helped as they are by an irrepressible Suffragette, whose enthusiasm cannot be damped by any number of duckings in the briny. She is pitched overboard times without number, but invariably comes up as energetic as ever. The sketch is rattled through with all the comic resource usually associated with the productions of the Six Brothers, and there is not one dull moment while the curtain is up.

Baker and Balfe are experts on the xylophone, and play many popular airs with admirable precision and an amount of energy that seems tireless. Ted Waite, described as the "spasmodic comedian," makes a hit with his two songs, "It never troubles me" and "They are all very well in their way." He is grotesquely quiet in style, and soon makes himself a favourite. Harry Nelson is an agreeable comedian. The sisters Grovini, lightning tumblers, benders, and acrobats, perform some of the most remarkable feats in their line that have ever been done by ladies. The manner in which they tumble, bend, and jump over each other is perfectly amazing, and their performance is greeted with loud applause. Dennis and Morris are clever comedians, and their step-dancing is singularly neat and clever. Yvonne Lamor, a topical comedienne with a distinct style of her own, sings with point and humour, besides looking very attractive. The vocal scena A Picnic Up the River is an agreeable turn, interpreted by Charburn's Troupe of young stars. The company of smart-looking, merry boys and girls sing many popular numbers, both soli and concerted, much amusement being caused by a very diminutive gentleman who warbles "Place me amongst the girls" with comical effect. The scena appeared to give great satisfaction to the audience. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope, as usual, comes in for a large share of applause. The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. H. Petersen, gives a selection from the Dear Little Denmark music, by Paul A. Rubens, by way of overture. In front of the house Mr. H. V. Mann, the acting-manager, fulfils his difficult and delicate duties with an amount of tact that ensures the comfort and add to the enjoyment of the Palace patrons.

One of the best and most popular turns on the bill is Dora Martiné, whose marvellous performance on the ring and the suspended rope rouses the house to enthusiasm. It is at once daring and graceful.

THE EMPRESS, BRIXTON.

This popular South London hall is continuing to do flourishing business, and the management certainly cannot complain of lack of support on the part of the public. At the top of a most enjoyable programme we have Joe Elvin and company, in his screaming absurdity Deaf. As Sniffkins, the valet to a deaf gentleman, the inimitable Joe is afforded many opportunities for displaying his humour, which, needless to say, he utilises to the full. Supported, as he is, by a most capable company, one can imagine that whilst he is in possession of the stage dull moments are conspicuous by their absence. Edna Gray and boys, who are making a welcome reappearance here, are repeating their former triumphs. The well-trained voice of Miss Gray is heard to the utmost advantage, and she must be commended upon her choice of songs. She also gets much assistance from two young lads, who contribute neat dancing. Capital cycling feats are accomplished by the Westwoods, the male member proving that in this art he has little more to learn. Whether as a comedy merchant or ordinary cyclist he never makes a mistake, and the way in which he executes the most difficult of tricks makes them appear quite easy.

The art of terpsichore has an able exponent in La Belle Alva, who dances barefooted. She gives the different styles of dancing in vogue in many countries, including Spain, Holland, Ireland, and England, and on concluding has many times to bow her acknowledgments. Tom Fancourt and Ruby have a taking little act, in which the lady sings tunefully a song, entitled "She's the pretty little girl from nowhere," and they also show themselves to be clever sand-dancers. Tray and Rich, the well-known black and white artists, have unlimited patter. Their insurance joke is so skilfully worked that the house is in a perfect roar of laughter all the time. The voices of Marshall and Parr are most pleasing, and their pot-pourri number is cleverly put together. They also introduce some patter with quite a distinctive style, in which the lady may be said fairly to shine.

Arthur Royce, attired as a taxi-driver, at the piano, causes endless amusement, and Zeta Russell, a chic little comedienne, sings and dances to the satisfaction of everyone. Harry Cotton has a couple of character songs, his first being about a bull-fighter, the verses of which he interspersed with some quaint patter, and his second being entitled "I'm only a brave old soldier," which proves to be a skit on an old pensioner. A bonnie comedienne is Miss Madge Brownie, who has a couple of "winners" in "My girl isn't a London girl" and "Monkeyland," and gives an admirable display of dancing. Harry Clifford as a character comedian is one of the successes of the evening in his "Bootblack" song. Other items which call for mention are a farcical absurdity, entitled My Friend the Count, La Petite Brambilla, and Stephen Adeson and Madge Lucas, and the pictures by Edwards' Bioscope.

THE EUSTON.

Among the many capital attractions presented at the variety palace facing the great termini in the Euston-road is to be found that popular descriptive singer, Mr. Leo Dryden, who secures a very gratifying reception in two songs, the titles of which are taken from plays that have been lately produced. As "the White Man" the singer puts in a strong plea for that character following the dictates of his heart, but a more striking impersonation is the one through whom we are warned against the "False Gods" so generally worshipped in this nether world. The golden calf, women, and wine are each in turn condemned, and the words are set to a flowing melody to which Mr. Dryden's fine voice does complete justice. He looks picturesque in a similar dress to that worn

SOME DAY WHEN DREAMS COME TRUE

The Ballad Hit of the Season, sung by Mdme. Ada Colley.

FRANCIS, DAY & HUNTER, 142, Charing Cross Rd., London, W.C.

by Sir Herbert Tree in the character of the High Priest in the play referred to, which was produced at His Majesty's Theatre in September last. Mr. Dryden, in his novelties, gets right out of the beaten track, and in a music hall turn this is a consummation devoutly to be wished.

Mr. Joe Elvin, an immense favourite at the Euston, revives his old sketch The Hansom Cabby, one of his earliest and most conspicuous successes. As the proprietor of the "flounder and dab," who has been bilked of his fare of "one and a tanner," Mr. Elvin revels in the boisterously farcical situations which come thick and fast towards the conclusion, and the Eustonians rejoice consumedly in the misfortunes of the gentlemen so strongly resembling each other, who are so rudely thrown out.

A popular item on the bill is that "apotheosis of the sculptor's art," the series of artistic living statues arranged and designed by Mr. Albert Toft, and first seen a year or two since at the London Hippodrome. From statesmen of the past, such as the late Lord Beaconsfield and William Ewart Gladstone, the cicerone, Mr. C. Lillford-Delph, who wears court dress, comes to statesmen of the present such as Lloyd George, who has a mixed reception, John Burns, and Joseph Chamberlain. A fine sitting figure of Sir Henry Irving is presented, and a counterfeit of Sir William P. Treloar, Lord Mayor of London in 1907, the friend of the cripples, evokes much applause.

Early in the evening Mr. Fred Land puts on the "antick" disposition, and evokes laughter in some perverted nursery rhymes; Mr. Rex Fox, as a ventriloquist on a slack wire may be said to occupy a difficult position, but he makes light of it, and the figure carried on his back apparently voices many amusing wheezes, which literally "go with a swing." In Mr. Andie Caine, the favourite of Filey, the audience find a legitimate comedian with a real sense of character; and the singing of the Lyric Mummers is refined and artistic. Miss Meredith Meredro sings in a style entirely her own; the Martineks repeat here the success of their clever act The Rag Doll; Miss Madoline Rees sings of the little Jap girl; and Ruffell's Bioscope is up to date with its films. Mr. Fred McAvoy is the popular manager here.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

After a most successful season of grand opera, drama, and musical comedy, a return was made to varieties at the Royal County Theatre, Kingston-on-Thames, on Monday. That the lighter form of entertainment continues to be much appreciated in the riverside town was again abundantly proved by the large audiences which filled all parts of the house at both performances, for the theatre during variety shows is conducted on the two houses a night principle, the patronage being a well-deserved reward to Mr. Peter Davey, the indefatigable managering-director, who is always considering the taste of his audiences.

The chief attractions of the bill are Harry Kardoc, the "handcuff king and the jail breaker," and the Carlsens, in their clever and amusing skit Fun in a Restaurant. Mr. Kardoc's assertion that there are not a pair of handcuffs that he cannot unlock on his wrists and that there is not a jail that can hold him seems more than justified by the marvellous feats he performs when bound hand and foot under the inspection of independent witnesses. The Carlsens do a number of clever acrobatic feats on a bouncing table, which are witnessed with evident interest, and the ludicrous efforts of a number of persons invited from amongst the audience to try their skill on the bouncing table led to no end of merriment.

Another good turn is the farcical comedietta entitled That Brute Simmons! the characters in which are sustained by Mr. Paddy Dupres, Miss Oliph Webb, and Mr. George Elliston. The little play proved immensely amusing and was exceedingly well acted by the three artists named. A particularly pleasing turn was that of Miss Dulcie Moore, a young lady who plays the piano and a zither at the same time, and on the former instrument introduces, as she plays, a clatter like that made by the clogs of a dancer. It was a clever and refined performance, and was much appreciated by all sections of the house. Other items on the programme are Walter Adams, the comedian; the Saxony Sisters, clever dancers; Harry Blake, comedian; and the eccentric Valdo Brothers.

CROUCH END HIPPODROME.

The programme that is arranged under the managership of Mr. G. R. Parry at the Hippodrome, over Crouch End way, is nightly sampled by a mirth-loving crowd of North Londoners. Early in the evening Mildred Parr, a comedienne of charm and ability, contributes a selection of songs, both grave and gay, at the piano, and meets with much success. Jay Barrie, a comedian of much quaintness, provides plenty of amusement with "I don't mind if I do" and "Oh! do it again," and also with his eccentric dancing; the popular chorus singer Will Godwin renders "Recollections" in his usual characteristic style, the contribution being well received; Eddie and Ethel are capable and clever entertainers, and while away a very pleasant quarter of an hour; and Norah Guy displays a pretty face and figure and sings nicely "I've got rings on my fingers," and "Ask her when the band is playing," both of which are greatly appreciated.

Lydia Dreams gives an up-to-date ventriloquial entertainment that is both novel and amusing; and Austin Latham executes clever cartoons of political celebrities, concluding with a capital portrait of his Majesty the King. The audience is highly amused with the fun of The Tree of Truth as presented by Brayne and Lloyd; and Cornetia, the girl cornetist, plays in a way that "brings down the house." The Brothers Durant present their comedy act An Airship Elopement, and secure great popularity.

Blake and Granby in their highly-amusing sketch The Late Lamented provide a diverting and agreeable entertainment. Henry Herne and company appear in John Douglas's original water sensation, Blackmail. The weir scene, with the real water, the attempted drowning of the heroine, and rescue effected by the hero, is a capital piece of stage realism, and the miniature drama is one of the hits of the evening. The Bioscope concludes an excellent programme.

"THE MAID OF POLARIA."

A Romantic Musical Idyll, by George Arthurs and Worton David, Composed by Jullien Wilson and R. Penso, Produced at the Shoreditch Empire on Monday, March 7.

Lennie and Hast have secured in the above an attraction of considerable worth, and the initial performance was accorded a most enthusiastic reception. The piece contains some very pretty and effective numbers, and the story is one of particular interest. The Princess of Polaria is in the habit of engaging a gondolier to paddle her along the Grand Canal, and apparently, during one of these excursions, she has been seen by a man, who falls desperately in love with her. The love-stricken individual arranges to change places with the boatman; but the genuine gondolier informs the Princess of the plot, and she, too, determines similarly to disguise herself. When the two meet, each in the make-up of a gondolier, the result is particularly amusing. The man, not knowing his companion to be the Princess, offers her a cigar, the smoking of which does not tend to increase her happiness or comfort; but when he suggests they shall both throw off their clothes and have a swim in the canal the lady thinks it quite time she disclosed her identity, and accordingly does so. Lennie and Hast each perform their respective parts with considerable taste and ability, and their rendering of the songs "I am a gondolier" and "With you, sweetheart" was very melodious. The piece should prove attractive wherever produced.

"PRIDE OF REGIMENT."

By F. D. Bone. "A Homely Incident," Presented by arrangement with Mr. Fredk. Harrison, at the Holborn Empire, on Monday, March 7.

The Father ..... Mr. George Howard
The Son ..... Mr. Neville Graham
The Mother ..... Miss Eugenie Vernie

The usual crowded house at the Holborn Empire on Monday last gave an unstinted welcome to Mr. Bone's delightful sketch, which was first seen in London on Feb. 23, 1908, as a curtain-raiser at the Haymarket Theatre. Why we have not seen more of it since that time is the big wonder concerning it. The sketch is a heart-searcher, and the sympathy of every man and woman in the vast audience went out to The Mother, a character splendidly portrayed by Miss Eugenie Vernie, when she puts up the great fight of her life for her boy against his father, a domineering, discipline-loving, ex-solidier martinet, excellently played by Mr. Geo. Howard. The Son, a part well and touchingly interpreted by Mr. Neville Graham, has been sent into the Army against his will when only seventeen. In barracks a sergeant makes a dead set at the lad, and in consequence his life is "made a hell." He gets "cells" time after time, and one night the sergeant on a slight pretext has the young soldier frog-marched from the canteen. Then the young fellow, badgered beyond endurance, strikes the "non-com.," and, after doing three months' hard labour for it, is dismissed from the service. So the Son has to face the Father in the absence of the Mother, and the old chap, proud of his thirty years' service in the Army, and his medals, and the parting handshake his Colonel had given him when he had left the regiment, deals very sternly with the poor boy, who has not been strong enough to follow in his father's footsteps. And the Son gets a bad time at the hands of the Father, whose "pride of regiment" is almost ridiculous. Then the old man turns the boy from his door, and bids him never darken it again. But the Father has reckoned without the Mother, and when the old lady returns from her shopping, and learns what has happened, she starts on the old warrior in splendid fashion. All a mother's love surges up for her boy, and she wages a big battle of words, which carries away the audience with its pent-up vehemence. The Mother wins, and she brings back the Son to shake hands with the Father. There has been nothing finer seen on the variety stage this year, and we trust a long series of bookings will follow for Pride of Regiment. It is founded possibly on an everyday episode, but the acting of the trio is so intense, so human, that when the curtain falls there are many lumps in throats and moist eyes, followed by smiles and sighs of satisfaction at the reconciliation of father and son. Then there is only one thing left to do—give the little company the ovation their acting undoubtedly deserves.

Geo. Mozart is a great favourite at the Holborn. His latest laugh is thoroughly up-to-date, and is an imitation of an electioneering speaker in a hurry. This individual never allow himself time to finish each sentence, and cheerfully gabbles away, lopping off what he intended to say, to start on a fresh phrase that has occurred to him. The result is chaos—and laughter. George also gives his imitations of famous band conductors. In this he is assisted by his indispensable cymbalist and drummer.

Another old friend whose face we were pleased to see again is Joe O'Gorman. He, too, is well liked by Holborn patrons, and arrives with a budget of new songs, dances, and patter, of even better quality than heretofore, and that is saying a great deal. Joe is as fresh as paint, smartly groomed, and looks more youthful than ever he did. By the way, a North Country paper two weeks ago reported that the O'Gorman had committed suicide. Said Joseph to our representative: "I assure you it isn't true. I think if the editor did want to publish me pictur' he might have invinted some other pretext. Anyhow, its done some good, that report—it's made my friends talk kindly about me, and its made some of 'em buy new clothes."

The efforts of Ernie Mayne, the O-K-Dians, Angela's Living Works of Art, Ray Espinosa, Szarvasi Ferenz Troupe, Joe Almasio, Jenny Johns, the Westwoods, and the D'Vorak Family make an excellent entertainment, and in the background, smiling as broadly as ever on his big family enjoying the fare provided, is the broad-shouldered figure of Manager Leslie Conroy.

"THE MERRY WIDOWER."

A Comedy Episode, Produced at the Bedford Music Hall, on Monday, March 7.

Francis Heatherfield ..... Mr. Henry Herne
Bertie ..... Mr. Richard Webb
Dennis ..... Mr. J. G. Macmahon
Amy ..... Miss M. Kildare
Bridget ..... Miss Lizzie Lennon
Daisy ..... Miss Ida Millais

Mr. Henry Herne and Miss Ida Millais are to be congratulated on their latest venture, which provides a most hilarious quarter of an hour. The scene is laid in a boarding-house at Slochton-on-Sea, where a widower, Francis Heatherfield, is courting Amy, the widow. Both of the parties have married elderly mates before, and each is left with a step-child who is older than the step-parents. Naturally Francis and Amy endeavour to keep the real ages of their step-children from each other with most amusing results, but after a series of comical situations of the most diverting nature, all is found out, reconciliations ensue, and the step-children follow the example of the foster-parents and get married. Mr. Henry Herne is in fine form as Francis, and Miss Ida Millais is extremely funny as his step-daughter Daisy. Mr. Richard Webb plays well as Bertie, and the other characters are all admirably handled, their united endeavours ensuring a most successful production.

At the Sheffield City Police Court on Wednesday Mr. Frank Poole, manager of Barrasford's Hippodrome, applied for, and was granted, a special licence for a sacred concert, to be given on Good Friday, in aid of the Widows' and Orphans' Fund of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants, the proprietors having generously placed the use of the beautiful hall at the disposal of the railway men.

"THE FOURTH KISS."

An Original Dramatic Episode, by W. Douglas Newton, Produced for the First Time at the Peckham Hippodrome, on Wednesday, March 9.

Hughes ..... Mr. Lionel Atwill
Jack Benson ..... Mr. Hugh Ardale

This episode proved to be a somewhat gruesome but powerful and cleverly-written sketch from the pen of Mr. W. Douglas Newton, a gentleman well-known to magazine readers. On the rising of the curtain we find Jack Benson, an author, at work in his flat at Victoria. Suddenly he receives a visit from his old chum Hughes, an engineer, who has been engaged for several years on some irrigation works in the Soudan. Hughes has only just returned from abroad, and is in a terribly neurotic condition. He tells Benson a strange and weird story. It seems that while in the African desert, overcome by drink and ennui, he has violated a sacred shrine, abused the priest, and kissed a heathen idol in mockery. The priest curses him, and tells him that the heathen god shall kiss him in return, and that at each kiss someone near and dear to him shall die. Hughes, in his agony, confides to Benson that he has already lost an uncle, a cousin, and a dear friend by three kisses in six months, and that the fourth kiss will seal his own doom. Suddenly the door opens in the darkened room. "There is someone there," cries Hughes in his frenzy, and shrieking, "It is the fourth kiss," he falls back dead. Mr. Lionel Atwill, whose ripe experience as leading man on the regular stage stands him in good stead, makes a most powerful impression as the luckless Hughes, and the intensity of his death scene sent a thrill through the house. Mr. Hugh Ardale was good as his matter-of-fact friend Jack Benson. The sketch was very well received by the audience, but some light comedy touches given to the part of Benson might perhaps enhance its value.

Among other items in the Peckham Hippodrome bill this week, "My Fancy soon makes herself "everybody's fancy" by her charming dances. The lady first appears in a scene representing the Polar Regions, and dances on ice skates; afterwards she dances, bedecked with roses, in a rose bower, and finally, clad in a charming bathing costume, she gives an exhibition of her exceptional terpsichorean abilities in a seaside scena. Miss Gwladys Soman is a charming and stately young lady, gifted with a fine soprano voice, and her rendering of two pleasing ballads, "As long as the world rolls on" and "'I am tired of my garden,' said the rose," is enthusiastically applauded. Mr. Edward Jose proves himself a very clever character impersonator, and renders with much skill the rôles of Melter Moss from The Ticket of Leave Man, and Rip Van Winkle and Matthias from The Bells; while Miss Lucia Collins, a daughter of Miss Lottie Collins, sings with much archness "The Breach of Promise Case."

Other turns include Mr. and Mrs. Royston Dene in My Lady's Chamber; Olive Watts, Jack Waller, Mr. E. D. Nicholls and company in a screamingly funny burlesque drama That Dreadful Detective; and Mr. Arthur Astill, a very clever whistler, whose performance brings down the house. Finally some comic films on Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope send everyone away in high good humour.

There has been an unprecedented influx of professional visitors to Messrs. B. Feldman and Co. during the past week, and the demand for new songs from this house's teeming 1910 budget may truly be termed phenomenal. Allied to the English firm's catalogue of new songs by the brightest, best, and most famous of our English song-writers are those of Messrs. Jerome H. Remick and Co., Kerry Mills, and Chas. K. Harris, three of the leading American firms, and artists, whatever their line of business, may rest assured that their wants will be readily supplied from so exhaustive an array of vocal offerings as that which Feldman and Co. are now in a position to supply.

In professional circles just now one of the principal topics of conversation is the remarkable and instantaneous success of Dempsey and Schmid's ballad "Garden of Roses," which is wining success at the Canterbury and London Pavilion this week. It nightly seems to increase in popularity, and it can unquestionably be ear-marked as one of the finest ballads of the present season. Messrs. B. Feldman and Co., the publishers, are issuing this delightful number in sheet-music form, and anticipate large sales.

Mr. George H. Elliott, the chocolate-coloured coon, on Monday last, at the Prince's, Bristol, produced Feldman's popular song "I want you to see my girl" in the pantomime. He put it on at 10 o'clock, and it was an instantaneous and spontaneous hit. Mr. Chapman, the well-known musical conductor at the Prince's, arranged the band parts of this song for Mr. Elliott at record speed, and is certainly to be congratulated on his most musicianly and effective orchestration, which was undoubtedly an important factor in the all-round success of the song.

During the current week, at the Canterbury, Haley's Garden of Girls company have been achieving success with "My sweet garden queen," by Harrington, Rogers, and Neat, and have been the recipients of many flattering recalls. This is a prominent Feldman publication, which will be greatly in evidence this year.

The success won at the London Coliseum last week by Mr. Fred Barnes with Feldman and Co.'s latest comedy chorus song, "I'd rather be by the fireside," by John A. Glover-Kind, looks like being repeated by this artist all round the Stoll tour, as the Arthur-street publishers have just received a wire to the following effect:—"Another terrific success of 'Fireside' at Empire, Sheffield, this week.—Fred Barnes."

From the Prince of Wales Theatre, Birmingham, where she is enacting the rôle of principal girl, Miss Josie Delaine writes Messrs. Feldman and Co., to the effect that their song, "Pretty little girl from nowhere," by E. W. Rogers and John Neat, is simply an enormous success with her; in fact, far and away the best song she has yet sung in this pantomime. She is also singing the same firm's tuneful and dainty number, "Just as the brook flows," in the same pantomime, with signal success. She will specially feature several of the Feldman publications at her music hall engagements in the near future.

A song which that clever and versatile artist, Miss Ella Shields, has already rendered deservedly popular is "In the Army," written and composed by William Hargreaves, and recognising the great publishing potentialities of this excellent number, Messrs. B. Feldman and Co. have acquired it for immediate inclusion in their ever-growing list of successes.

So enamoured of the Feldman songs has that clever vocalist, Miss Ethel Ra Leslie, become, that she now styles herself "the Feldman girl," truly, a very delicate compliment to the publishing house that has supplied her with so many big winners. At all her London and provincial engagements Miss Ra Leslie will feature the three songs she sung at Collins's last week, viz., "Connemara," "It's the Alpine dress you're wearing," and "Molly O'Morgan," each of which are tried and proven successes with her.

On Tuesday last Mr. George H. Elliott took his benefit at the Prince's, Bristol, and the success of the evening was undoubtedly the great $7,000 song, by Ed. Madden and Gus Edwards, entitled "By the light of the silvery moon," which was received by the enormous audience with all those tokens of approval which indicate the advent of a success far above the average. Perhaps the wire which the chocolate-coloured coon himself subsequently sent to the publishers of this song, Messrs. B. Feldman and Co., speaks as eloquently as anything can:—"Terrific success 'By the light of the silvery moon.' Big encore demanded.—Elliott."

"Have a Banana," Mr. Ernie Mayne's great song, has fairly caught London, so much so that the programmes both at the Metropolitan and the Holborn Empire, at the conclusion of his rendering of the song, were held up and an encore demanded. This song is by Alf Ellerton, who is also responsible for Mr. Mayne's latest number, "Chantecler; or, Can't cock-a-doodle."

The Star Music Co. have in press a new comedy chorus song, entitled "Love is like a balloon," by Aylmer Lee and Maurice Scott, which has all the elements of being one of the popular songs this coming season.

GREENWICH PALACE OF VARIETIES.

This old-established place of amusement, lavishly redecorated, was reopened on Monday under new management. The entertainment met with the hearty approval of a considerable house, and we trust that the venture will prove a lucrative one. The lessee and managing-director is Major Gordon-Hartley, the manager Mr. J. S. Fairlie, and Mr. Alfred Ellerton conducts the capable band.

The chief attraction is the sketch entitled The Second Mrs. Chester, a well-played and highly-amusing farcical episode, in which Mr. Sid Bedford and Miss Bessie Bedford (both well and favourably known in this district) play Percy Pimple and Mabel Dearlove respectively with success. Mr. Arthur Delamere is very good as Jack Chester, as is Mr. Fred Clifford as Major Chester, and Mr. Herbert Lawrence plays Parker excellently. Miss Rose Fern is well received in her song entitled "Smile" and a dance. Mr. Terry Vaughan contributed "Oh, what a night," introducing some smart patter and a clever dance.

Topsy and Cecil as the Black Comedy Girl and the Juggling Dandy were warmly applauded; Miss Kitty Leon proved an attractive turn with her song "Rather" and a pretty dance; Mr. George Norton, "the happy man," was well received; Miss Daisy Lannon was heartily cheered for her pedestal dance and pleasing rendering of "Carolina Baby"; Astor is a smart ventriloquist, and includes a good rendering of "Asleep in the deep" in his entertainment; Elsie Hulbert and her dancing girls provide an attractive turn; the Sisters Navette are expert dancers as well as very good banjoists; the Bros. Neiss are well received in their comedy trampoline speciality; and pictures on the Palace Bioscope complete the programme.

MUSIC HALL HOME SHILLING FUND.

3,196½ SHILLINGS.

We are again making an appeal on behalf of the Music Hall Home Era Shilling Fund, and with that appeal we have very great pleasure in associating the name of Miss Vesta Tilley, who will for the next few months act as a sort of fairy godmother to the fund. "I think," said Miss Tilley, in conversation with our interviewer the other day, "that the Music Hall Home is a very deserving charity and a very excellent thing. Something of the sort was certainly wanted for the poorer professionals. Every week of my life I give pounds away at the stage-door to numbers of the profession who call upon me for assistance. Now this year I want to create a record in the matter of collections for the fund, and I personally shall work my very hardest for it. In everything I wanted before the profession has always come forward very generously, and I hope that they will help me all they can now. I have a number of private friends who are going to work for me, too. I think, however, that most of the support should come from the professionals themselves. Outside people have their own charities to look after. I have asked my husband if he can arrange special matinées at each of his halls for the benefit of this fund, and he thinks that he will be able to do this. A great deal in that case will rest upon the artists, and if they would turn up we should be enabled to augment the funds of the Home very considerably. Wherever I am now appearing I am fixing up cards so that members of the same company for the week may put their names down for a subscription. I also hope by the sale of autograph postcards in the front of the house to collect a still further sum for the same purpose."

As was arranged last year, a solid gold medal will be presented by The Era to the collector who obtains the largest amount for the Fund up to March 31, 1910, the lists closing on that date.

MUSIC HALL CELEBRITIES.

MISS LOUIE TRACY.

"The Dapper Dandy Boy," as Miss Louie Tracy is aptly described, has had a long and varied stage career. Her first music hall engagement was at the old Lyceum, Blackburn, as a juvenile entertainer, with a little bit of everything, her first number being a military song, in vivandière dress, the second a coon song and dance, and the concluding item a male impersonation, in all the glory of a fawn coat, tall hat, and monocle. Then came a round of provincial engagements, during which Miss Tracy discarded all other character songs in favour of her male impersonations, a line of business which everyone said was undoubtedly her forte.

Miss Tracy's first pantomime engagement was with Messrs. Eglington and Little's tour of Red Riding Hood, in which she played second girl (Margery Daw) with great success, introducing her male impersonations as a speciality. Her next pantomime engagement was at the St. James's Theatre, Manchester, 1901-1902, where she scored a veritable triumph as Dandini, being re-engaged immediately for the following year's production of Robinson Crusoe, in which she also made a big success as the captain. In connection with this pantomime Miss Tracy tells an amusing story of how she was called upon at a few minutes' notice to undertake the part of Robinson Crusoe. All went well until the island scene, when she had to don the fur dress, which is worn by the majority of Crusoes. The principal boy proper being an exceptionally big woman, and Miss Tracy being of medium height and build one can well understand that the dress was literally a bundle of safety pins, by means of which hasty alterations had been made.

MISS LOUIE TRACY.

Miss Tracy was so conscious of being a walking pin-cushion that at every opportunity she asked Friday (in a stage whisper, of course), "Am I all right behind, Friday? You are quite sure I'm not unstuck?" to the evident delight of the gentleman who played Friday and the other artists at the wings.

Soon after Miss Tracy's marriage, in 1905, she retired from the stage for an indefinite period. In fact, she was undecided whether or not she would give it up for good. However, in the early part of last year Miss Tracy had a longing to return to the business. She accordingly set about procuring a complete new wardrobe, songs, &c., and opened on May 3 at the Bedford, Camden Town. Since then she has been booked, by her exclusive agent, Mr. Tom Claxton, at the principal halls and tours into 1913, together with Messrs. Hyman's South African tour, and Mr. Harry Rickards' Australian tour in 1911. Miss Tracy had to refuse a tempting offer of an American tour, and also an offer to play Dandini in the Christmas production at the Borough, Stratford.

Miss Tracy is a devotee of the health-giving game of golf, and is also an enthusiastic rinker.

"ON THE TRACK."

An Absurdity, in Three Scenes, by Miss Vashti Wynne, with Music by Mr. Dudley Powell and Mr. Oastlere Walker, produced for the First Time at the Leicester Palace Theatre on Monday, March 7.

Rose Hasty, sen.	Miss Ada Maskell
Rose Hasty, jun.	Miss Molly Ramsay
Mr. Cross	Mr. Richard Wilson
Percy Dreadnought	Miss Oliver Rogers
Major Hasty	Mr. Larry Clements
Archibald Longfellow	Mr. Harry Roxbury

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

A cordial greeting was extended to Mr. Harry Roxbury at the Leicester Palace Theatre on Monday evening, when he produced his new tabloid musical absurdity entitled On the Track. This clever sketch comedian, who is popular in both theatre and music hall in Leicester, has a capital part as Archibald Longfellow, the detective, and his various disguises include that of an office boy, railway porter, strolling player on the beach, and an old woman in charge of a bathing machine. The sketch depicts the further adventures of the famous detective Archibald Longfellow, a character Mr. Roxbury has popularised on the variety stage. Mr. Roxbury creates endless merriment throughout the whole of the sketch by the mess in which he involves himself in his attempts to trace a pair of runaway lovers. It consists of three scenes—the Matrimonial Agency, the Railway Station, and On the Beach. The book and lyrics are by Miss Vashti Wynne, Mr. Harry Roxbury's clever and charming wife, and the music, which is always bright and tuneful, is by Mr. Dudley Powell and Mr. Oastlere Walker. It is exceedingly well staged, and is dressed in a manner that calls for special eulogium. There is a good chorus, who go through their work in a dashing and spirited style.

MR. BERTIE SHELTON.

We are sorry that Mr. Bertie Shelton, whose relations with The Era have always been so pleasant, should have taken umbrage at the bit of rhymed badinage, written by Mr. J. L. Shine, that was inserted in page 25 of last week's issue. Mr. Shelton's experience, which commenced as an actor at the Theatre Royal, Norwich, in 1882, and included an engagement with Sir Herbert—then Mr.—Beerbohm Tree, from 1892 to 1900, when Mr. Shelton took Rip on tour with Mr. Storey, should make him superior to "chaff." We are sorry, however, that we have given him offence, and hope he will accept our apology in the spirit in which it is offered.

"THE NEW WORLD."

Sketch, in Three Scenes, Produced for the First Time at the Bow Palace, on Monday, March 7.

Jack Hawley	Mr. Edward Avinall
Jim Rawlins	Mr. Arthur Elwyn
José Alverez	Mr. C. E. Davidson
Joe Williams	Mr. Fowler Thatcher
Col. Bizah Clayton.....	Mr. T. G. Mountford
Jennie Williams	Miss Violet Lytton

Brightly written and full of dramatic incident, cleverly blended with comedy, The New World forms a charmingly exciting picture of Western mining camp life. The sketch opens outside the Home, Sweet Home Hotel at Bear Gulch, where José Alverez, a Mexican "greaser," is gloating over a stolen bag of gold dust. He is discovered by Jim Rawlings, who accuses Alverez of the theft, but consents to remain silent provided the "greaser" helps him in a "dirty" job he has on hand. Joe Williams has some new claims producing much gold, and it is the papers relating to these claims which must be obtained by fair means or foul. On Joe's appearance he is attacked, robbed of the papers, and the stolen bag is placed in his pocket. Jack Hawley arrives with the news that more gold has been stolen, and Rawlings promptly accuses Williams of being the thief. Protestations of innocence are made, but upon being searched the stolen bag is found on him, and by lynch law he is sentenced to death by hanging. The noose is adjusted, and Williams swings for a moment or two, when a report rings out, for Hawley dissatisfied with the evidence of guilt has, by a well directed revolver shot severed the rope.

The next scene is the interior of the hotel, and Jennie informs Hawley that her father has been robbed of his mining claims by Rawlings, but on the latter being accused and searched no papers are found. He demands satisfaction for the accusation, which Hawley gives. They are to fight a duel over chairs with revolvers, only one of which is loaded. At the signal Rawlings fires but he has drawn the blank, and the trump card is with his opponent. The advantage is not taken for Jennie intercedes for her father's enemy. The last scene is outside Joe Williams's hut, where Hawley declares his love for Jennie, which is reciprocated. Suddenly Hawley is attacked by both Alverez and Rawlings, and bound to a tree, a gun being placed with a lighted candle in such a position that its eventual discharge will send a bullet straight to the heart of the bound man. Jennie, however, arrives in time to save her lover's life; shots are exchanged, Rawlings is killed, the papers recovered, and all ends happily.

The sketch was warmly received, and would be well worth witnessing if only for the acting of Miss Violet Lytton, who gave an artistic presentation of Jennie Williams; Mr. Edward Avinall made a typical hero, and acted with fine, manly feeling; whilst Mr. Arthur Elwyn as Jim Rawlings and Mr. C. M. Davidson as Joe Alverez played the villains realistically; Mr. Fowler Thatcher was particularly good as old Joe Williams.

The variety portion of the programme is very strong and is responsible for full houses; Sim Morel, who literally ties himself into knots, is a wonderful contortionist; Nellie Farrell has two good numbers in "Brave Shamus O'Brien" and the "Top of the mornin'." She is a refreshing singer and a spirited dancer. Archie Pitt gives "Father's joined the Territorials" and "Twice one are two"; and Dorothy Dare, comedienne; the Vaudeville Trio, expert dancers; Colin Mail, light comedian; Fred Le Franc's company in The Flower Girl, and H. C. Lovell and company in The Queen of Sheba, also add to the evening's enjoyment.

Catlin's Pierrots are having good houses this week at the Lecture Hall, Hull, and the programme is quite up to the usual standard.

"THE QUEEN OF THE FAIR."

A Musical Play, in One Act, Libretto and Lyrics by R. C. Thorp, Music by Basil Horsfall, Produced at the Empire, Camberwell, on Monday, March 7.

Elsa	Miss Ethel Dunbar
Mrs. Smithers-Smyth	Miss Amy Cooper
Rosalie	Miss Queenie Harvey
Capt. Carl	Mr. Clarence Hart
Pierre	Mr. Charles Abbot
Herr Finkelhauser	Mr. Bert Walton

An opera in miniature makes its bow to the public this week at the Camberwell Empire, and proves to be a deftly contrived chef d'œuvre of surpassing excellence. The scene represents a German village with its quaint beer gardens and its gaily-dressed inhabitants. This village is noted for three attractions: first it possesses a regiment of dashing Germ... ...ars; secondly, it is the home of pretty Elsa, t... ...romaster's charming daughter; and, thirdly, it ...ains the Burgomaster himself. The last mentione... is an amorous old man, pompous and fiery, but withal delightfully humorous. It is Fair Day at the village, and the peasants have chosen Elsa to be the Queen of the Fair. The Captain of the Hussars has made a like choice, having selected Elsa to be his queen. The wicked old Burgomaster, however, says No. A certain English widow from Tooting has chanced to come this way, and Herr Finkelhauser has deigned to flash his amorous eye upon her. He proclaims Mrs. Smithers-Smyth Queen of the Fair, and this old scoundrel's word (in the absence of his wife's) is law. The poor Captain of Hussars is also "warned off the course" as a suitor for his daughter's hand. The result of the twofold decree of this village despot is the despair of the lovers, and the anger of the villagers. Suddenly, however, news is brought that Herr Finkelhauser's wife has returned, and the lion becomes the lamb. The Burgomaster withdraws his decrees, and the curtain falls with Elsa in the embrace of her lover, and acclaimed the Queen of the Fair.

The music is of a high order. The choruses catchy, and the songs bright. "O gentle maiden," a song having as a prelude a few bars of recitative, which swell out to a chorus in harmony, is of really fine character, and receives much applause. Throughout the operetta, cropping up at every opportunity, is a dreamy waltz tune, which we conclude will bear the title of "Queen of the Fair. The duet "Dainty little Damsel" is a brilliant composition. As Elsa, the Burgomaster's daughter, Miss Ethel Dunbar is very charming. Gifted with a good voice and a dainty manner, she gives grace and excellence to a part which admirably suits her. Mr. Bert Walton as Herr Finkelhauser is responsible for most of the humour, and manages his part very cleverly; he is assisted in his mirth-provoking by Mr. Charles Abbot as Pierre, the landlord of the inn. Mr. Clarence Hart's good voice and manly bearing stand him in excellent stead as Captain Carl, his singing gaining much applause. A very graceful dance is given in the middle of the sketch by Miss Rosa Male. Others who deserve praise are Miss Amy Cooper as Mrs. Smithers-Smyth and Miss Queenie Harvey as Rosalie. The piece is ably produced by Mr. F. Maxwell Stewart.

Cupid's Arms," a musical comedy playlet, by Albert E. Ellis, with music by Henry E. Pether, and scenery painted by Ernest Howard, will be produced at the Oxford this afternoon. Mr. J. C. Piddock, Mr. J. Daley, and Mr. Frank Danby will be in the cast.

Edgar Bateman had the pleasure on Friday night in last week of thoroughly enjoying his thirty-fourth consecutive pantomime at Drury Lane Theatre. He appeared to be familiar with many of the songs that were sung, and the remark from one of the principals "that the Grateful Crab was evidently having a 'Busman's Holiday" affected him not a whit.

MARCH 14 ... REGENT THEATRE, SALFORD.

RINKING GOSSIP AND NOTICES.

Oxford v. Cambridge at Earl's Court.
At the Empress Rink, Earl's Court, on Saturday, Cambridge University beat Oxford University by 1 goal to 0. The play on both sides was excellent, and the goalkeepers effected several good "saves." The only goal of the match was scored by W. H. Robinson in the first half. Teams:—Cambridge: K. Cochrane (goal), C. L. Hill (back), A. E. Dworzak (half-back), E. H. Chambers and W. H. Robinson (forwards). Oxford: W. N. Downing (goal), C. H. Burne (back), R. M. Peel (half-back), H. L. Bayfield, and C. R. Graham (forwards).

Cock-a-doodle-do!
No fewer than three Chantecler hats appeared at the Holland Park Rink on Saturday evening last, and at least four at the Empress, Earl's Court skatery. A charming brunette, gliding along at the first-mentioned place, was the wearer of a real Guitry head-dress with a huge comb, but the other two farmyard creations were more subdued, representing the hen pheasant and the guinea-fowl.

Crystal Palace Carnival.
A fancy dress carnival will be given at the Crystal Palace on Wednesday next (March 16) which bids fair to be well attended, owing to the fact that this is the last of the season. Two extra prizes will be given for a new class, which will come under the heading of the "Best British Empire National Costume." This should attract competitors who, by the way, should send in their names and class immediately to rink manager, C. P. Rink Office. The programme will commence at 6.30, judging at 8 p.m., and at 8.45 there will be a waltzing competition on skates for amateurs—ladies and gentlemen—for which two prizes will be given. A benefit will be accorded Mr. F. G. Stumcke, rink manager, on April 6.

Composition Floor not Satisfactory.
The Vandora Skating Rink Co. find that the composition floor surface adopted by them has not been satisfactory, and they have taken the "bull by the horns" promptly and decided to have a specially selected maple floor laid forthwith. Messrs. Plimpton have been entrusted with the work.

Record Salary for Little Yorks.
The Little Yorks have gained such popularity throughout the country that negotiations have for some time been pending for an engagement in South America. This contract has now been settled at a fee of £400 for eight weeks. It is fully expected that the engagement will be extended, as the London agents have stipulated in the contract for an option of a prolonged engagement. The Little Yorks are due to sail from England in the early part of May. We are sure they will have the best wishes of all local skaters. Their agent is Mr. Albert H. Male, Royal London Buildings, Wolverhampton, and it is probable that London will have an opportunity of seeing the Little Yorks before their departure for South America.

J. C. Plimpton Home Again.
Mr. J. C. Plimpton, managing-director of J. C. Plimpton and Co., Ltd., returned from an extensive trip in America during last week. He informs us that the extension made to the Richardson factory will enable them to keep pace with the increasing demand for Richardson skates, which is now being received, not only from this country, but also from the Continent.

The Smartest Entertainments.
Rink balls are the newest and smartest entertainments, and hostesses who find that ordinary dances fail to attract young men have discovered that waltzing on skates is the most popular social entertainment of to-day. Most rinks close at eleven o'clock, so that arrangements can be made with the proprietor to take the building up to three a.m. or four a.m. The programmes are generally dainty little works of art, with a miniature picture of two skaters waltzing in evening or fancy dress, or of a tiny silvern Cupid, who has folded his wings, and given up aviation in favour of roller-skating. Generally, a rink ball ends with a "Flirtation Waltz," we are informed by Answers. Then, while the band plays a "two-step," they form the "grand chain," zig-zagging on the outside edge. Suddenly, the music changes to a waltz, and each man swings off with the lady who happens to be nearest. Every time the music changes partners must be changed.

John's Book.
John Davidson, the well-known exponent of roller skating, has published through Messrs. C. Arthur Pearson, Ltd., a sixpenny handbook, which gives excellent advice to rinkers.

Ministers' Defence of Rinking.
One of the reports submitted at the meeting of Ardrossan U.F. Presbytery referred to the large amount of money spent in skating rinks. The Rev. A. Morris Moodie, Ardeer, assured those present that rinks were doing a great deal of good in certain directions, especially in keeping young men out of public-houses. He did not think the Church and temperance societies and kindred bodies faced the question of proper amusement for the people as they ought to do, and he thought they should be careful not to denounce legitimate and healthful recreations such as roller skating. The Rev. William Husband, Kilwinning, said he thought that the Church ought even to go out of its way to express its hearty approbation of any kind of influence that delivered the people from the bondage of evil habits. He considered it a mistake to single out and pillory the amusement of roller skating, and he moved that the reference to it be deleted from the report. This was agreed to.

Rinking to Business.
Colonel Hall Walker, M.P., had something to say on Saturday about the possibilities of roller skating, when opening a new rink at Garston. The Colonel said it was very difficult to know where all this craze for skating would lead to in the end. It might be only a temporary craze, which would die out as it did twenty-five years ago, but he should look forward to the time when county councillors, searching for newer methods of spending the ratepayers' money, would construct roads so beautifully that we should be able to skate to business. The system had to some extent been adopted in Germany. The roads were beautifully laid in that protected country, where they had so much money to spend. He hoped, as time went on and England prospered, we might also be in that happy position.

Mile Race for Ladies.
The "Peerless" Roller Skate Co., Ltd., of 14, Great Smith-street, Westminster, have decided to put up a handsome silver cup of the value of 15gs. for open competition among lady skaters over the age of fourteen years. The distance will be one mile, on a rink and date to be arranged.

Bussey Lowers 1½ Mile Record.
On Wednesday night, at the Brixton Rink, the Brixton S.C. decided a 1½ miles handicap. Considerable interest was added to the race when it was known that Bussey intended to make an attempt on the 1½ mile record, and this he was successful in doing, his time of 5min. 5 1-5sec. being 44 4-5sec. better than the British amateur record of 5min. 50sec. put up by E. J. Wilson in the championship of Great Britain at the Crystal Palace in 1906. The competitors and their handicaps were as follow: Bussey (scratch), Casey (20 yds.), Price (20), Harrison (30), Martin (120), Williams (130), Wood (150), Nash (150). Final: Nash, 1; Bussey, 2; Wood, 3; Price, 4. All the attention was centred on Bussey, who rapidly drew up to the leaders, passing them one by one, till he took second position. In the last lap Casey, who was third, shot in front, but in taking the last corner Bussey again took second place, and finished only a few inches behind Nash.

Bertha Doud Mack is topping the bill this week with Mr. Monoham at the Empire, Edmonton, where the act has made a big hit. The combination of dancing and novelty work gives zest and variety to the turn

Maida Vale Carnival.
There was a good attendance, in spite of the terribly inclement weather, at the Maida Vale Skatery last Wednesday night, the occasion of the first fancy dress carnival. Prizes were offered in cash of the total value of £100. Ladies had an opportunity of competing for a first prize value £50, second of £12, third £8, and fourth £4, in addition to which there were two special prizes of £4 each for costumes of exceptional merit not securing other prizes. The series of prizes offered to gentlemen was similar to that for ladies. The whole of the awards were made by ballot by the patrons of the rink, who recorded their votes on cards. This is not an ideal method of allotting prizes, but it ensures the popular voice determining the matter. The floor was exclusively reserved for skaters in fancy or evening dress. Professor Voorzanger's military band rendered numbers chiefly consisting of popular dances. An incident of a pleasing character was the presentation to Professor Voorzanger of a handsome medal as a souvenir of a notable occasion. The costumes were on conventional lines. Among the novelties was a gentleman who combined the characters of bride and bridegroom, one-half of his dress being that of an immaculate bridegroom, while the other half was an ivory satin dress with Court train. He carried in one hand a choice bouquet of flowers, in his other a silk hat, while one half of a bridal veil depended from the right side of his head and fell in graceful folds over his right shoulder. Another novelty was a reproduction of a light-house properly illuminated.

The Richardson Cup.
On Wednesday next, the 16th inst., the Amateur Championship for figure-skating will be decided at Maida Vale Rink. The Richardson Cup is being displayed at the rink, and the National Skating Association have reason to congratulate themselves upon having such a magnificent trophy placed at their disposal.

For Streatham.
Streatham is to be provided with a handsome block of buildings, comprising a skating rink, public hall, and cinematograph theatre, to be erected by Messrs. Wm. Townson and Sons, Ltd., of London and Bolton. The rink will be of an up-to-date and luxurious character, to be readily adaptable for use either as a public hall or concert room. The cinematograph theatre will have a seating capacity of 700.

Skating Rink for South Norwood.
The British Skating Rink, Ltd., proposes to erect immediately at Enmore-road, South Norwood, a handsome building, to be used as a skating rink, with a floor space of 90ft. wide by 210ft. long, capable of accommodating at least 500 skaters, and having a raised promenade surrounding the rink.

St. Patrick on Wheels.
In aid of the Municipal Milk Fund a grand masked carnival will be held at the Cliftonville Skating Rink, Belfast, on St. Patrick's Day, March 17, at which the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress of Belfast will be present.

Birmingham Carnival.
Fully two hundred persons took part in a fancy dress and advertisement carnival held at the City Rink and Winter Gardens, Birmingham, on Wednesday last, and the pretty scenes on the skating area were witnessed by a great crowd of spectators, who occupied all the available standing room. A dramatic carnival will be held at the City Rink, Birmingham, on Wednesday, April 6. It is expected that this carnival will be the function of the season in the city, over fifty valuable prizes being offered for the best representation of leading plays, actors, and actresses. Carnivals are also announced to take place on Wednesday evening, March 16, at the Smethwick Skating Rink and Lozell's Rink.

Restrictions on a Rink Licence.
The proprietors of the Garden Rink at Bridlington, whose application was adjourned a month ago by the bench of magistrates, and who had secured a temporary licence, applied at the adjourned sessions on Saturday last for a music and dancing licence for the ensuing year. The application was strongly opposed by twenty-nine owners and occupiers in the immediate vicinity. Witnesses were called from Hull, Leeds, and Bridlington to prove that the rink was a source of attraction to visitors, and on the other side visitors and lodging-house keepers affirmed the music and skating were an intolerable nuisance. After a five hours' sitting the magistrates granted the licence, but stipulated that the rink should be open only between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m., 3 and 5 p.m., and 7 and 9.45 p.m. There must also be no brass instruments in the band playing in the rink.

Bristol Preparing to be Gay.
At the Olympia Rink, Bristol, where it is claimed that the floor is the best in the district, the farmyard festival, gymkhana, and battle of confetti to be held on March 16, are being eagerly anticipated. The next carnival at the Empress Rink, Rupert-street, will be on March 17, St. Patrick's Day.

Scottish Champions to Meet.
Frank Newbury, the manager at the Empire Rink, Cowdenbeath, announces for Wednesday next a six-mile handicap between three Scottish champions.

Another Croydon Carnival.
Croydon's excellent maple rink is still being crowded nightly. It serves a wide area easily reached by train and tram. We understand another carnival will shortly be announced.

Bertha Doud Mack at Dudley.
During the recent visit of Miss Bertha Doud Mack to the Trindle-road Rink, Dudley, the rink was booked one night for a huge political conversazione. 5,000 people were accommodated in the rink, the major portion of which were either seated or standing on the skating surface. A small portion of the floor was kept clear, and, despite the cramped-up space, Miss Mack went through the whole of her performance without a single slip. On the Saturday night, in response to a challenge from the manager, Mr. R. Addenbrooke, Miss Mack succeeded in picking up three handkerchiefs with her teeth at the same time. Her engagement proved a big success at this rink.

Mysterious Raffles.
Every night this week, and on certain afternoons a Mysterious Raffles has visited the Trindle-road rink, Dudley. He or she was one of the usual patrons of the rink, and had in his or her possession a book of tickets. Anyone spotting Raffles and putting the following question—"Are you Raffles with the Book?" received a book of tickets. The question was only asked between 8.30 and 8.45 at night, and any time during the afternoons. Raffles was either skating or acting as a spectator during the above times.

Rinking in Exeter.
Since the stablishment in October last of the Victoria Palace Rink at Exeter by the Rinkeries Company (Ltd.), roller skating has become increasingly popular, and the three daily sessions never lack hosts of patrons. Under the management of Mr. W. J. Barratt, the comfort and amusement of "lovers of the little wheels" have been assiduously looked after. A hockey club has been formed, and matches have been arranged with rinkers in the surrounding towns, whilst among future attractions are a fancy dress carnival and a gymkhana, with long and valuable prize lists. Local skaters are looking forward with regret to the conclusion of the season, as, unfortunately, the construction of the Victoria Palace does not lend itself readily to the purposes of a summer rink, and suitable available spaces in or near the city are at a premium.

New Rink for Gateshead.
Last week the Olympia Skating Rink, situated at the end of Sunderland-road, Gateshead, was opened. The building is of brick, and the skating area is 3,600 square feet. Mr. E. V. Elliott is the manager.

Martine at Gosport.
Martine was the special attraction at the Olympia Rink, Gosport, this week. He commenced his display with a Highland Fling and Dutch Roll. This was followed by the Flying Aeroplane and the Bird-nest Split. The standing roll split, the air split, and the trick known as the Butterfly, all evoked their full meed of applause from the onlookers, and then Martine executed the torpedo split, in which the artist both does the split and progresses forward. The chef d'œuvre of the display, however, was the trick with which it ended, a feat which was regarded as difficult even by Martine, and which would be impossible to nine-tenths of his imitators, namely, skating with his leg around his neck and both arms stretched upwards.

Kelvingrove Carnival.
A masquerade carnival has been fixed to take place at the West End Roller Rink at Kelvingrove on March 17, when besides the prizes offered by the management for various costumes, two well-known local companies will provide awards for costumes representing the game of billiards and a certain brand of coffee.

McAllister in Leeds.
Mr. George McAlister, who till recently was the floor-manager at the American Roller Rink, Manningham-lane, Bradford, has received a similar appointment at Chapeltown Rink, Leeds.

All-the-Year-Round Leeds Skaters.
Rinking, in Leeds at any rate, appears to have now firmly established itself as an all-the-year-round recreation. No matter which rink is visited, very little clear space is to be found on the floor. The Roundhay Rink is deservedly very popular. The same might also be said of that at Chapeltown, where a crowd is always the order. On Wednesday night another exhibition of fancy skating was given by Mr. McAlister, the new floor manager, and Miss Elsie Schofield Smith, a ten-year-old Leeds girl. The Hunslet Rink is very popular among those in the district.

Limerick's Pretty Pavilion.
The popularity of the pretty pavilion at Wellesley-place, Limerick, is now recognised by all. On St. Patrick's night the carnival of the year will be in progress, and already the programme is perhaps the best since the doors were thrown open by the Countess of Limerick. Mr. Wm. Kidd, the manager, and Mr. George Ledger, the secretary, are to be congratulated on their united success.

Going Ahead in Liverpool.
The Renshaw-street rink, Liverpool, is gaining strides every week. Roller rinking, far from showing signs of decay, at the Premier distinctly points to the sport continuing long. The roller club formed there has one hundred members now.

Hall-by-the-Sea, Margate.
This rink has become more popular than ever. For next week Thursday, March 17, a special Irish night has been arranged.

C. Buxton at Newcastle.
It is gratifying to know that since Mr. C. Buxton's appointment as manager at the Newcastle Rink, considerable success has attended his efforts, and this rink is gaining in popularity every week. The special attractions which are now arranged for each Thursday evening have, to use a popular phrase, "caught on."

New Skating Rink at Saltcoats.
The new roller-skating rink adjoining the Glasgow and South-Western Railway at Saltcoats, was opened last week by Provost A. S. Millar. The Provost, in declaring the rink open, congratulated the management on the appearance of the pavilion, and thought it would be a boon to people who were unfortunate enough while on holiday to have wet weather, as they would now have a place to go to. The floor of the rink is 200ft. long and 42ft. broad, and is of maple.

Big South Wales Rink.
A well-equipped and thoroughly up-to-date rink is now in course of construction in Pontardawe, South Wales. The skating area will be about 9,000 odd feet. Richardson skates will be used.

Not "the Only One."
Last week our Widnes correspondent informed us that there was only one rink now open in that town. From a communication we have had from Mr. C. E. Martine, of the Albert Hall Rink, it would appear that we have been misinformed. The Albert Hall rink was the original rink in Widnes, and Mr. Martine was the first to introduce roller-skating into Widnes. We are happy to learn that "the Albert Hall rink is now paying hand over fist." At the Albert Hall there have been several carnivals held, and three hockey teams have their headquarters there. The Albert Hall rink, it may be added, is a fine substantial building of brick and iron.

MRS. ELLEN GINNETT.

A CIRCUS PROPRIETOR'S WIDOW'S FUNERAL AT BRIGHTON.

The funeral took place at the Brighton Parochial Cemetery on Tuesday last of Mrs. Ellen Ginnett, widow of Mr. William Ginnett, the famous circus proprietor. The mourners were: Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. Rowland, Mrs. Cook, and Mrs. Austin (daughters), Mr. Charles Ginnett (son), Mrs. George Lockhart, of Elephanta Lodge, Preston (niece), Mrs. Mitchell (sister), Mr. Albert Austin (son-in-law), Mr. Louis Ginnett (son of Mr. Fred Ginnett), Mrs. J. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Tilley, Mr. Louis Warren, and Mrs. Cashmere, for many years a performer with Ginnett's Circus.

It is interesting to recall some incidents in the life of Mrs. Ginnett, whose death occurred at 58, Warleigh-road, on Wednesday, March 2, at the age of sixty-seven years. Deceased was a native of Southampton, and was in no way connected with the circus. She was noted as the possessor of an extremely good voice, and sang in a choir there, also taking part in sacred musical works. It was in this capacity that she met her future husband, Mr. William Ginnett, and entered into a useful and active life. Mrs. Ginnett was a lady of extraordinary business capacity, and possessed a cultivated and wonderful intellect. Her husband, it will be remembered, was in partnership with his brother, Mr. George Ginnett, and she managed the affairs of the business in a remarkable manner not only during the lifetime of her husband, but up to some six or seven years ago, when she retired.

There are five daughters and one son, and it is an interesting fact that all have been married within the circus ring, so to speak. The eldest daughter, Annie, married Mr. A. Clarke, circus proprietor, and known as the champion circus rider of the world; and Amy was married to Mr. George Rowland, who was killed two years ago while travelling with Barnum and Bailey's Show in America. Mrs. Rowland is noted as a clever rider, and manages her own circus, which is at present in France. Mr. Douglas Cook, the well-known circus proprietor's son, who is touring Scotland, is the husband of the next daughter, Iona; Mr. Charles Ginnett (son of Mrs. Ellen Ginnett) is also in the circus business; Adelaide married an apprentice in Ginnett's, Mr. Albert Austin; and Nellie is Mrs. Yelding, of Yelding's Circus, South Africa. Ever since her residence in Brighton Mrs. Ginnett had attended St. Martin's Church, Lewes-road, constantly and regularly, and, as became her sympathetic and loving nature, she did much good work in a quiet, unostentatious manner. A touching proof of her deep interest in the welfare of the parish is afforded by the terms of her dying wish—that the members of her family should contribute to the small box which she had obtained for collecting contributions during Lent. Mrs. Ginnett was especially attached to Mrs. Lockhart, of Preston, who feels very keenly the death of such a kind and true friend. Numerous letters and telegrams of condolence have been received by the grief-stricken family.

Along the route of the funeral cortége the most profound tokens of public sympathy were manifested. There were numerous tributes of love and devotion from all parts of the circus world. The floral tributes were of the most chaste and appropriate character, and included wreaths, crosses, and other emblems from Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. Rowland, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Austin, Mrs. George Lockhart, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. J. Jones, Mrs. Cashmere, Mr. Charles Ginnett, Mr. Louis Ginnett, Mr. Albert Austen, Mr. Louis Warren, and Mr. and Mrs. Tilley, members of the Ginnett family and old friends of the deceased. In addition to the above, wreaths were sent by Alderman H. M. Baker (Dover), Lord George Sanger (Finchley), Mr. and Mrs. Harry Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Holloway, Mr. and Mrs. George Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Swallow, Mr. and Mrs. Swallow, jun., Mrs. Lucas and family (Birmingham), Mr. and Mrs. C. Ginnett, and Mrs. Gatley.

"Fun Fandango" at Wishaw.
A "Fun Fandango" was held at Wishaw on Wednesday, and a record crowd were in attendance. The events were of an amusing nature, and much merriment was caused by the various competitors in the Chanticleer Fight, the Feather-blowing Race, Chalking the Pig's Eye, gentlemen's one-leg race, and a slow race for ladies. The Pavilion Roller Skating Rink celebrated its first anniversary on Wednesday with a carnival. The rink, thanks to the management of Prof Verne, has been run for twelve months without a break.

Miss Cullum Visits Worthing.
The fame of Miss Dorothy Cullum, the fair Brighton expert, has spread far and wide, and it was but natural that the presence of the lady amateur champion skater at the popular rink on Worthing Pier was noticed the other day. The manager of the rink recognising Miss Cullum, asked whether she would be good enough to give an exhibition by the special request of all present, and on her kindly consenting to do so, stopped the other skaters, and Miss Cullum had the rink all to herself. Miss Cullum was accorded an enthusiastic round of applause at the conclusion of her very graceful exhibition.

The success of the exhibitions given by Mr. Peach (the Manager) at Tonypandy was such that he will give two shows a week for the next month. A half-mile ladies' race and a one-mile gentleman's race are soon to be brought off, the prizes in each case being a pair of Richardson's aluminium skates.

RICHARDSON SKATES are the BEST in the WORLD.

They have held ALL WORLD'S RECORDS for twenty-four years, and every event of importance during the past few years, either fast or fancy, has been won on RICHARDSON SKATES, including Harley Davidson's victory at Olympia Rink, London, February 26th, 1909.

STATEMENTS WHICH CANNOT BE DISPUTED:

The Richardson Ball Bearing Skate Co. positively equipped 80 per cent. of the Rinks operating in America. Sixty per cent. of the Rinks in this country operated by independent rink proprietors are equipped with Richardson Ball Bearing Skates.

Richardson Skates are the universal choice of, and used by, practically all the leading instructors, unless employed in rinks operated by other skate manufacturers. The Richardson is the most perfectly constructed Skate on the market. The front truck is under the ball of the foot, and the rear truck practically under the heel, which allows the skater to be over his work. This principle is acknowledged to be the best by the leading skaters of the world. Rear trucks extending back of heel only act as a leverage when skaters lose their balance.

The Richardson Ball Bearing Skate Factory have equipped more independent Rinks than all other manufacturers combined.

The repairs of Richardson Skates are 50 per cent. less than those of any other make, and the simplicity of construction makes it an easy matter to effect repairs.

Manufacturers: Richardson Ball Bearing Skate Co., Chicago, U.S.A.

SECOND LIST OF RINK COMPANIES.

Registered in the United Kingdom from June 1 to December 31, 1909.

On Aug. 14 last we published the first list of rink companies, which represented a total capital of about £806,000. Although the various districts in the United Kingdom and elsewhere are now fairly well served with rinks, we venture to predict that our next list will attain to equally large dimensions. The capital represented hereunder reaches the total of about £1,300,000, and this—added to the previous amount of £806,000—shows the capital to end of 1909 of considerably over £2,000,000. We take this opportunity of inviting secretaries of any of the undermentioned companies now operating to forward statements of their workings (such as dividends paid, &c.) for publication.

CINEMATOGRAPH OPERATORS' MEETING.

A meeting was held at 10.30 on Tuesday last in the Rehearsal Room of the Musicians' Union Club, 9, Great Newport-street, W.C., convened by the National Association of Cinematograph Operators. Mr. A. Malcolm, president of the Association, presided. There were between seventy and eighty operators present, and the proceedings were most interesting throughout.

In the course of his opening remarks the CHAIRMAN said: Gentlemen,—It gives me very great pleasure to see so many operators here this morning. When this meeting was first mooted it was said that operators would not be up at this time. But from what I see this has proved a fallacy. The reason this meeting was called for 10.30 was to enable all operators to attend. Conditions in the cinematograph business have changed very considerably from what they were a few years ago. Then the operator went to work in the evening, but now, with the advent of the electric theatre and continuous picture show, the operator commences work at one or two in the afternoon. Therefore, in order to give every operator an opportunity of attending the time was fixed for this early hour. That brings me to the reason for which we are here. During the past few years the cinematograph business has made wonderful strides. A few years ago the cinematograph was represented in the entertainment world by the music hall turn and the few companies touring with a complete picture show. But now in our large town we have an electric theatre at almost every street corner, while the smaller provincial towns all have their own permanent picture palace, the towns until recently only being visited by the touring show. But while the business is increasing by leaps and bounds, paying big dividends and reaping rich profits, is the lot of the operator becoming easier? Are wages increasing? The answer is emphatically "No."

As I said before, conditions in the picture business are changing, and from an operator's point of view changing for the worse. In the days gone by an operator worked from ten to fifteen minutes in the evening doing a music hall turn; now he works almost as many hours in the day. But, unfortunately, with the increase of hours there has been no increase of wages—rather the reverse; there has been a decrease, and a very big decrease at that. Years ago an operator received as much as £5 per week; now he receives 30s., 35s., or 40s. for a seven days week. There you have the situation in a nutshell—"more work, less pay."

I think everyone here will agree with me that every operator should join an organisation which is devoting its energy to the betterment of the operator's position. You ask why? The conditions of the operators' work are becoming harder and wages less, and it is only by organising that labour can combat any unfair conditions imposed by the employer, and in the cinematograph business the operator is undoubtedly the skilled labourer. Therefore, I invite every operator who has not already done so, to join the National Association of Cinematograph Operators.

This Association was established three years ago. It was formed by six men, all operators, who met at 29, Wellington-street, who personally subscribed the original funds for establishing the Association. From this small beginning the N.A.C.O. has grown. It is not my intention of going into the history of the Association now, as this will be done later on in the meeting. Another point I have to bring before you. It has come to the knowledge of the committee that an Association is being formed under the title of the National Union of Skating Rink and Cinematograph Theatre Employees. This is being organised by Mr. E. S. R. Smith, late secretary of the One-and-All Assurance Association. The committee of the N.A.C.O. wish to warn all operators against joining a mixed society of this description. In the first place, it is dead against the principles of trade unionism to organise a society of workers when there is one already in existence. We have little to do with the first part of this new association, but with the second part a great deal, viz., the cinematograph theatre employees. I take it "this includes operators." I do not see how a mixed union of skating rink and cinematograph theatre employees can benefit the operator's conditions of labour. Rates of pay are so different. Therefore, I say to all operators it is to your advantage, it is your duty to join your own Association, established by operators, managed by operators, for the benefit of the operator. Another reason why the operator should join the N.A.C.O., and not an outside association, is this: The N.A.C.O. is the original, and, as far as we know, the only recognised society dealing exclusively with the business of the operator. It is affiliated to the General Federation of Trade Unions and to the Trades Union Congress. These bodies represent the entire organised labour of the United Kingdom. That is the position of the N.A.C.O., and trade unionists in my audience will know that these bodies do not look with favour on societies that organise and attempt to divide the ranks of the already organised workers. This will be put to you in the form of a resolution later on.

One point I wish to make clear. This meeting has been arranged by the N.A.C.O. for operators, in order to impress on them the importance of combining now more than ever before, in order to combat the new order of things, which means more work and less pay for the operator.

After the resolutions have been proposed and seconded and the speakers appointed by the committee have spoken, we shall be pleased to answer any questions, and to receive amendments, if any operator wishes to move same. I will not detain you any longer, but will ask Mr. C. H. Mason, vice-president of the N.A.C.O., to propose the first resolution, which was as follows:—

> "That this meeting of operators condemns the action of Mr. E. S. Smith (Secretary of the 'One-and-All Assurance Society') in attempting to divide the ranks of the cinematograph operators by endeavouring to persuade them to join a mixed union of skating rink and cinematograph employees—one of whose objects is to legalise Sunday opening of places of amusement, and, further, that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Parliamentary Committee of the Trade Union Congress, the General Federation of Trade Unions, the Labour Party, the Metropolitan Trade Unions and Councils, and to the Press."

The resolution was seconded by Mr. T. G. Weedon, N.A.C.O., and supported by Mr. C. Hesson, L.C.C., and Mr. William Johnson.

MR. JOHNSON said it would be a calamity if the ranks of the operators were divided between two organisations, but, in any case, the N.A.C.O., being affiliated (through the N.A.T.E.) with the General Federation of Trade Unions and the Trade Union Congress, representing about one and a half millions of organised workpeople, would be the only organisation in this business recognised by the Labour movement.

The proposal to legalise Sunday work was unprecedented; no other union had even proposed such a thing. He held that the six working days of the week were sufficient for any capitalist to secure a profit on his capital, and sufficient for any workman to earn a living. In this business profits as high as 50 per cent. had been made, and there was plenty of margin to permit the employers to pay far higher wages and work their operators less hours. If some of the employers in this business were not more careful in their treatment of their employees an agitation would be set on foot which would soon bring them to a better sense of what they owed to the skill and industry of their operators. The disfavour of the public would be shown in no unmistakable way when the facts were known, and united the operators could not fail to achieve their aims, which were reasonable and just. (Cheers.)

The resolution on being put to the vote was carried unanimously.

The second resolution was proposed by Mr. H. L. MERRITT, secretary of the N.A.C.O., and was as follows:—

> "That this meeting of operators strongly urges all operators of animated picture apparatus to join the National Association of Cinematograph Operators (Branch No. 10 of the N.A.T.E.), and hereby calls upon all operators to assist in establishing a minimum rate of pay for each class of business based upon a week of six working days, with double-time rates for unavoidable Sunday work."

Mr. Merritt, in the course of his remarks, described what the Association had done in the course of its existence. It was recognised by the Home Office and the London County Council, and had been consulted by both bodies with respect to the regulations affecting the use of the cinematograph. It had not yet succeeded in one of its main objects, which was that all operators should be licensed by some authority, but pending the attainment of this object the Association had instituted a system of examination, and had issued certificates which were recognised in various parts of the country as proof that the operator was a qualified man. Much more could have been done had the operators, as a class, given the Association their support; but their membership was growing, and their prospects were most encouraging. Mr. Merritt gave details of the benefits provided—legal advice free, legal assistance in approved circumstances, grants from the benevolent fund to members in need, &c. Mr. Merritt concluded by saying he was sure the Association was worthy of their support, and he hoped all non-members would join.

MR. EDWIN CATLIN seconded the resolution in a breezy speech. He claimed to be one of the oldest operators, and he once thought he knew all there was to be known about the business, but there have been so many changes in the appliances used that he was learning something every day. He felt sure many operators would derive benefit from joining. They were all willing to help one another in the way of business or pleasure, and no one could deny that if the lot of the operator was to be improved they must unite and work together for their mutual benefit.

Mr. C. C. BARTRAM, of the V.A.F. Committee, spoke in support of the resolution, and was followed by Mr. WM. JOHNSON, who, alluding to particulars given by Mr. Merritt, of the rates of pay of the "Moving Picture Operators Union" in America, said that union was a branch of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees. The operators in America were organised on the same lines as the organised operators in this country, and no operator who left this country to work in America would be allowed by the American Union to do so unless he held a card of membership in the British Union. The operators were engaged in very responsible work; their health and knowledge were taxed to the utmost, and they would not find it difficult to get far better conditions of employment if they would support the N.A.C.O.

The resolution was put to the vote and carried unanimously.

The CHAIRMAN then moved a vote of thanks to the Musicians' Union Committee for the use of the room, and having thanked those present for their attendance the proceedings closed.

The next meeting will be on Tuesday, April 1, at eleven o'clock a.m., in the same room.

Oldest Picture Palace.

THE oldest continuous animated picture show in the whole of London is that which bears the title of the Automatic Vaudeville Daily Bioscope at 27 and 28, Bishopsgate-street Within. From noon until half-past ten in the evening eight long films are reeled off with just two minutes' interval between each. Further than an exterior notice, "Admission One Penny to One Shilling," no indication is afforded to passers by of the precise character of the entertainment. Visitors pay a penny or twopence to see a couple of pictures, the subjects of which are announced by the attendant, who collects the coppers from those wishful to remain. The sixpenny or shilling admission charge entitles the occupants of the front seats to witness the whole two hours' round.

Warning to Entertainers.

Two prosecutions, the first of the kind in Glasgow under the Cinematograph Act, 1909, were dealt with by Sheriff Mackenzie in Glasgow Sheriff Court last Saturday. The owner of a hall in Shettleston was charged with having allowed the premises to be used on Feb. 4 for a cinematograph entertainment without having given due notice to the County Council or the chief officer of police in terms of the Act, while the proprietor of the cinematograph was charged with allowing his apparatus to be used for exhibition on the occasion in question without the authorities having been notified. The Sheriff said that as the prosecutions were the first of the kind which had come before him he would impose a modified penalty of 5s. in each case, but he hoped the prosecutions would act as a warning to entertainers.

MR. JOHN TOFT, who is presently touring Ireland with his up-to-date electric Filmiphone, paid a week's visit to the new Temperance Hall, Sligo. On Sunday night the hall was packed to its utmost at early doors, and the entertainment was honoured by the patronage of the Bishop and all the priests, as well as the Mayor and Corporation and the Harbour Commissioners, who were all delighted with the excellent show given by Mr. Toft.

AT Treherbert, on the 4th inst., Poole's, Ltd., met Poole's, Unlimited, on the football field, the match resulting in a win for the Unlimited. The scores were:—Unlimited, 3 goals; Limited, 1 goal. E. C. Rogers (2) and Herman scored for Unlimited.

THE SHOWMAN WORLD

Fairs Ahead.

The fairs ahead for next week are:—Grantham, on the Great Northern; Wadebridge, on the Great Western and South-Western; Alston (Cumb.), on the North-Eastern; Malton, on the North-Eastern; Pickering, on the North-Eastern; Pontefract, on the Great Northern, North-Eastern, Lancashire and Yorkshire, and Midland; Dumfries, on the Glasgow and South-Western and Caledonian; Corwen, on the London and North-Western and Great Western; Penmorfa, on the Cambrian; Pontardawe, on the Midland; Cowbridge, on the Taff Vale; Rhayader, on the Cambrian Railways.

Cefn Fair.

This delightful Welsh town held its annual fair under the management of the famous Walsall firm, Messrs. P. Collins and Son. Their exhibits included the No. 2 Wonderland animated picture show and the No. 1 set of Gordon Bennett motor cars. The other amusements were Wright and Cordwell's juvenile roundabouts, park swings, and hoop-la circles, and throwing games by Hart, Jones, and Humphries.

Recognition of Bravery.

For his bravery in rescuing a fellow-trainer from the attacks of a lion in Frank C. Bostock's Jungle, Glasgow, Jack Martino was on Monday night presented with the Bostock gold medal. Before the presentation, Mr. Harry E. Tudor, the manager of the Jungle, said the same courage and promptitude had probably been shown more or less by every trainer in the Jungle, as they were always ready to assist their comrades in time of danger; but the presentation was made in this instance on account of the extreme youth of Martino. It was not the first occasion on which his assistance had saved trainer Falkendorf. In June last at Coney Island an attack was made on Falkendorf by one of the tigers, and Martino was successful in averting serious danger. Mr. Frank C. Bostock had wired from Brussels that he was unfortunately unable to be present that night. Miss Isla Tudor, a pretty little girl, then pinned the medal on the young trainer's breast, amidst applause. He modestly returned thanks. Twenty more South African lions have arrived at the Jungle for training.

Showmen's Letter-Box.

Letters await Messrs. J. W. Chipperfield, J. H. Chipperfield, Anderton and Rowland, and W. Haggar at The Era Office.

Wisbech Fair.

Amongst the principal shows and roundabouts at this famous Mart and Pleasure Fair were the cinematograph palaces of G. T. Tuby and Sone and Mr. Charles Thurston; the high-class electric riding machines of these enterprising showmen were also great attractions at the fair. A service for showfolk and others was held on the Mart Sunday in the magnificent pavilion of Tuby and Sons (kindly given for the occasion). The Vicar of Wisbech delivered an address to a congregation numbering one thousand. His theme was "Influence." The attendance of showpeople was large, and the outside public filled the huge show to very inch of its capacity. The singing of the hymns was truly grand and impressive, the music being by the Wisbech Prize Silver Band. Our report is that the service was of a most impressive character. The Vicar of Wisbech and the other promoters of the scheme deserve the highest thanks for their good work. A collection was taken, and it amounted to £3 1s. 4d. The remainder after the payment of purely local expenses (£1 10s. 4d.), will be a contribution to the Guild funds. Messrs. Tuby and Sons not only lent their show free, but they also generously provided the electric light for the service.

Notes from Yorkshire.

Bailey's Circus is having a brief but highly successful season on the Wakefield Market Ground. On the Leeds Market Ground Harry Hughes, with Assault-at-Arms and School of Athletes, continues his seasonal success. On the same pitch are Vanner, Turner, and Jameson, with novelty frames and games of skill. Harry Ashington (the doyen of Yorkshire showmen) is still at Adwaton, doing big business with his combination of marionettes and living pictures. With the veteran entertainer are associated Bassett, Redfern, and Daley, with their well-known amusements.

Taylor's Cinema Theatre de Luxe.

This beautiful Pavilion Palace of animated pictures is having a short season at South Acton.

Guild Subscriptions, 1910.

Per Mr. E. Simmons, secretary of the Wisbech Church Men's Service Committee, £1 10s. 4d., proceeds of a collection at the Showmen's Service, on the Mart Sunday.

The Guild Chaplain on Tour.

With Palm Sunday the itinerary of the Guild Chaplain begins. His first centre of work will be at Retford. The service will be on the fair-ground, and in Messrs. Tuby and Sons' Coliseum. In addition to the Guild work, the chaplain will deliver the address to men at the Parish Church, East Retford. The vicar is the hon. local chaplain to the Guild.

The Guild and Mitcham Fair.

The approaching election of the parish council at Mitcham will afford the Trade Protection Society of Showmen a legitimate opportunity of doing useful work for its London members, the principal tenants of the fair. In these days of organisation and combination all good work is all the better done by united and carefully planned action. The trade and business interests of modern fairs are more important than people outside the industry imagine, and it is the work of the Guild to bring these interests before the justice-loving public. The Guild has other interests to protect besides that of its members; these are the rights and liberties of the people to retain their ancient fairs, and to maintain the local holidays arising from the yearly occurrence of the fairs. The trading interests of the entertainers and caterers attending our fairs are, of course, intimately bound up with the maintenance of the people's rights and liberties, but it must never be forgotten that the Guild, in safeguarding the interests of the people, is doing, at the cost of its members, a work of national importance. The Guild is, in this respect, the champion of the public in a matter of the greatest importance. The loss of a fair involves serious peril to the right and liberties of the toilers.

The coming of the fair sets the people free for a brief and ever-welcome respite from the severe grind of labour. It is a working man's question, and, in so far as other classes, above the industrial order, are moved by a sense of justice and fair-play to their poorer brethren, so far will they assist the workers to maintain and to enjoy the liberties and pleasures of life that the fair and its holidays bring.

The Action of the Guild.

This public side of the Guild work will be largely in evidence at the forthcoming election for the parish council. The executive committee will take every care that the electors shall know the importance of the election as the patiently waited-for chance of expressing, at the ballot-box, their disapproval of the action of the would-be abolitionists of the fair. We have shown, in a separate article, the important issues at stake for the showmen, and for the people of Mitcham. The time for action has come, and it will be taken.

THE FIGHT FOR MITCHAM FAIR.

We have from time to time in the "Showman World" columns of The Era maintained that the first principle of justice demands the recognition by all the other parties concerned of the right of the people of Mitcham to have and to hold their fair.

Customary usage and legal sanction have created other rights, reasonable in most cases; but when we get down to the real question at issue, these subsidiary rights, growing out of the people's supreme right to hold the fair, and to enjoy its continuance, is the essential principle at stake. Let us state our case clearly. We begin at the root of the matter—the people's right in their annual fair.

Subsidiary Rights and Privileges.

Let us clearly set these out in detail. (1) There is the right (a beneficial one) of the Lord of the Manor to collect tolls to compensate him for the disturbance of the soil of the common land, and also as a rent due to the principal owner of the soil (being agent for the people whose common rights, as well as the Lord of the Manor, have been disturbed by the incidents of the fair).

We are too apt to forget that, properly understood, the Lord of the Manor is, in justice, no more than the chief commoner. The old feudal conception of lordship, upon which ideal the whole fabric of our Laws of Property is based, was leadership of the people, the champion and defender of the people's rights against all enemies and outside attack. It is, indeed, a sad commentary that in later times the most important duties of the Lord of the Manor have been neglected, and the very essential condition of the justice of his claim to lordship has been perverted into channels of greed and personal aggrandisement. Those things which he held in common with the people living under his protection have been in most cases turned from their true purposes, and the people's rights in most cases stolen.

(2) The trader's right to attend the fair, or, as we would put it, the showman's right to frequent the fair without let or hindrance so long as it remains a legal fair.

Arising out of this claim, a brief reference is necessary to the constitutional question, How may a fair legally held be abolished?

By the authority vested in the Home Secretary by statute, and by that authority alone. Stripped of all side issues, there is no other way of abolishing a fair but by petition under the Abolition of Fairs Act to the Home Office.

The machinery of the statute is set in motion, all the parties concerned are heard, the petitioners, the people whose fair is threatened, and the traders and all others, including the Lord of the Manor and the commoners, as apart from the general body of the people, have full right to be heard, and justice awarded them under the Statute Law.

The Real Question at Issue.

For four years past the people of Mitcham and the showmen, as lawful frequenters of the fair, have protested, and do still protest, against a scheme to abolish the fair, without regard to the Statute Law. A certain number of gentlemen, under the mistaken notion that the people would not resent its abolition, collected a fund, largely made up of a grant, or grants, from public funds.

The object of this preliminary move towards abolition was to extinguish what would have been their most formidable obstacle, from the vested interest point of view, to the carrying out of their scheme.

The fair rights, or franchise, of Mitcham Fair had passed through many hands, until it had become a property as easily saleable as any other reversionary interest in the open market.

The fair rights were purchased by the gentlemen who had undertaken to collect the money for this purpose. Having by purchase secured the power of extinguishing the beneficial right of the franchise owner to collect his tolls, it was thought that the scheme to procure the total abolition of the people's fair would succeed; but the scheme failed.

The people were roused and public indignation against the scheme was so strong that, on public grounds, the gentlemen who now owned the fair franchise discovered, when it was too late, that they could not hope to obtain their desire by the consent of the people and the authority of the Home Secretary. So ended scheme No. 1 to abolish Mitcham Fair, and thus concluded the first stage of the controversy between the people of Mitcham and the group of men who still determined, with or without the people, to abolish Mitcham Charter Fair.

The Second Scheme to Abolish the Fair.

This took the form of joint action (since admitted of doubtful legality) between the Conservators of Mitcham Common and the then owners or trustees of the fair franchise. Notices were issued refusing to let ground on the Fair Green for the ensuing fair (this was in 1906). The official notice forbidding the showpeople the use of the Fair Green for the customary fair was signed by the then chairman of the Board of Conservators in the name of the owners of the fair franchise as well as the name of the Conservators. A great deal of controversy has arisen since over the irregularity of this double authority, for manifestly at that time the Board of Conservators were not included in the trust for the purchase of the fair rights.

It is, however, a question for legal decision, and one that may be usefully decided later on. It has no relevancy to the points at issue at the present moment between the people of Mitcham and the owners (or trustees) of the fair franchise. There have been many indications during the past two years that the Board of Conservators will take no action towards the abolition of the Fair (or otherwise) until the franchise owners transfer their rights in full to the Board.

Injunctions in the first instance (in the year 1906) were obtained against three representative showmen—Messrs. Ball, Wilson, and Hill—and again the following year against forty-five other showmen, and there is no doubt that each year since, had the joint action of the Conservators and the franchise owners been persevered with, that other two hundred showmen would have fallen under the ban of the same legal disability. Wiser counsels, however, prevailed on the Board, and the stricter regard was paid by that authority to the question of its locus standi to intervene in the matter at all until it had become the actual possessors of the franchise.

Thus ended, as far as the eventful history has disclosed the material facts, the second scheme to abolish Mitcham Fair by the authority alone of the owners of the franchise.

What can the People of Mitcham Do?

They have already protested against abolition, and the Home Secretary had admitted the reasonableness of their protest by refusing to abolish the Fair. They have also upon two occasions used the highest constitutional means of impressing their views upon the would-be abolitionists by overwhelming votes against abolition in parish meeting assembled. This truly democratic method of making known their wishes by properly convened parish meetings had apparently but little effect upon the abolitionists, so the position to-day is that the people of Mitcham have used every constitutional weapon at their command, every lawful and peaceful means available, and the wonder is that men who desire to serve the public should stubbornly persist in their scheme of going contrary to the known wishes of the people.

There is in the coming election of the Parish Council of Mitcham one other means whereby the people's will may be obeyed, and that is by the direct vote of the people for candidates for office who are pledged to defend the people's fair from all attack.

"The people's fair for the people" must be the cry at the coming election. It is a curiously-involved method of representation how the people of Mitcham can vote on this question. First of all, the people have only one opportunity of casting a vote at all on the subject, and that is once every three years, when their Parish Council is elected. The people do not have direct representation on the Board of Conservators. It is a glaring anomaly, but we have to recognise the hard facts of the case. The people do not elect the four Mitcham Conservators, but the people do elect the whole of the Parish Councillors, and the Parish Council selects the four gentlemen who are to act as Conservators for the parish. Here is the people's opportunity: it is to send to represent them on the Parish Council gentlemen who will conserve the people's interests and who will represent the real mind of Mitcham.

The following appeal is issued by the Showmen's Guild, and is addressed to the electors:—

"How to Save Your Fair.

"Certain efforts have been made during the past four years to abolish your ancient charter fair. Up to now those efforts have failed. Why they failed is owing to the strong protest you, the people of Mitcham, have made against the loss of your rights and liberties, that the abolition of the fair would inevitably bring. The enemies of the fair try to confuse the real issues by asserting that it is a showmen's question, and that the showmen are merely interfering in your local affairs for selfish purposes, and for the greed of gain and profit.

"But is that the Truth?

"It is not. It is a plausible gloss on truth that partakes of the nature of the proverbial 'half truth' said 'to be worse than a downright lie.' It is true that the showmen follow their lawful calling as entertainers for profit, and with the laudable ambition of earning an honest living thereby, like all other people who work. That is no argument against the reasonableness of their claim to be heard, and to have just treatment. Showmen are as much entitled to fair play and straight dealing as any other class in the community, and the Guild exists to vindicate and uphold that claim.

"Let Us Clear the Ground of Cant.

"The showman, like every other man, has the rights of citizenship. He does not seek preferential treatment. He demands justice, and justice means the right to pursue his lawful calling, with the liberty of all workers, and free from the malign and vicious interference of mistaken faddists and would-be reformers, who regard him as a pestilential fellow, and desire to reform him by wiping him off the face of the earth. To such mistaken zealots the showman—as a man—shows fight.

"The Showman Fights Fair.

"He does not attempt to over-rule the Home Secretary's decisions properly given. He does not seek by expensive processes of law (impossible save to the rich), to obtain his own way by other means where the statute law of the land gives him no power. He refuses to enter into the debate of fine points of legal intricacy, or to waste his money on their solution. The showman is ever content with "The Tribunal of the People.

"Without the people he cannot live, and it is to the people that he goes for his verdict. Why complicate the issues by fine-spun arguments, as to when a charter is, or when it is not? The obvious truth is good enough for him. Here is a fair—the people want my show—when they do not want me it will then be time enough to close down my business.

"What the Electors can do at this Election.

"They can take care to vote for men who are known to be the friends of the people's fair. The electors have no direct vote for the Mitcham Conservators, but they have the power to vote for the councillors who do select and elect the Conservators. Here is the situation before the electors. Let it be well understood that no known enemy of the people's fair shall have the people's vote. Parish meetings, properly convened, expressing by unanimous vote the people's will on the fair question, have been scorned, and repudiated by the Mitcham Conservators. Public meetings equally enthusiastic have been also treated with contempt. Negotiations of the most persevering and moderate character have been fruitless of good result. The champions of the people's rights at all crucial moments have been outvoted on the parish council.

"It is for the Electors to Take Care That Their Will Shall Prevail.

"Why should the people be despised, denied, and flouted by the men who are sent to the council as their representatives?

"Upon the question of the fair rights of the people the time has come for distinct pledges. Let the electors of Mitcham see that they are obtained.

Monmouth May Fair.

It will be seen on reference to our showmen advertisements that the Borough of Monmouth desires that speedy application be made for ground at the forthcoming May Fair. A word to the wise is enough.

Important Announcements.

The important sale of Walter Payne's bioscope show, as set out in our advertising columns, is worth a special note of attention by our showmen readers. The concern is entrusted to Mr. Tom Norman, the showmen's auctioneer, for sale, either by private treatey before, or on Wednesday next, March 16, by public auction, at Camberley. It may now be seen in working order. See advertisement for details.

Another important announcement for showmen working the seaside pleasure resorts is the Figure 8 Park on the sea-front at Morecambe Bay.

Westminster Palace.

Mr. Douglas Payne has a good bill at "the old house in the road" this week, now rejoicing in the title of the Westminster Palace of Varieties. There is a continuous performance between 6.30 and 11.30, when, in addition to the very latest pictures, a good variety programme is submitted. There is Allsop and Beckwith, a comedy duo; Gracie O'Neill, the juvenile comedienne and speciality dancer; Sid Penna, an eccentric musical comedian in a funny and novel musical surprise act; Little Ivy Lea, the wonderful child vocalist, instrumentalist, and coon dancer; Paul Jones, a very good comedian; and Kathleen Meredith, a very good artist indeed.

At the Rectory Hall, Guernsey, Albany Ward's Imperial Electric Pictures are an immense draw. The principal films shown are the art dramas the Open Gate and Lancelot and Elaine, a beautiful coloured picture; The Carnival at Nice; The Pillagers; Longing for a Husband; An Improved Inkstand; and The Haunted Man. All cause intense excitement. The Morning Leader £100 prize picture is wonderfully interesting, and the film Dick Donovan delights the younger element.

Mr. Thomas Whiteley, well known in the district, and who some time ago opened the Central Hall in Blackfriars-road, Salford, has, in addition to other like ventures in Eccles, &c., become the sole proprietor or a large obsolete school premises in Pendleton (Salford), which he has named the New Central Hall, Pendleton.

FILM GOSSIP.

A Tale of the Backwoods.

This Selig film tells the story of two families—the Bergers and Chaneys. The Bergers, not as uncouth as their strange neighbours, had a daughter, whose name was Molly, a rather gentle and lovable little creature. Meg Chaney hated her because she had won the love of Pete Horner, a thrifty young lumberman. The story opens with the meeting of the Bergers and the Chaneys, while in the village to do some trading. Pete is there at the time and is talking to Meg when Molly comes on the scene and Meg is at once fired to bitter hatred for the rival, when she sees Peter's marked preference for her. Rushing away into the woods, she throws herself sobbing on the ground. A half-witted lad named Humpy hurries after Meg, and begs to be allowed to do something for her. A wicked thought enters Meg's mind. Why not get this poor fool to make away with Molly? Deceiving the demented wretch with the promise of bestowing her love on him should he succeed in carrying out her plans, she unfolds to him a plot by which Molly could be dragged away to an old deserted building in the forest, locked in, and the shack fired. Then all traces of the crime could be obliterated. "I'll do it," cries the half-wit. "For a smile from your lips I would kill all mankind." Then, rushing away, he waits until Molly has returned home, and calling her out and away from the house by a whistle which she thinks is a signal from her lover he soon has her in his power. A negro, fishing on the bank of the river, catches a sight of the struggling girl, and realising her danger hastens to Pete's home and apprises him of Molly's peril. In the meantime Humpy has brought Meg to the old shack, and at her command sets fire to it. Then seeing that her victim is apparently beyond all earthly hope, she chuckles with fiendish glee and hastens away. The half-wit seizes Meg in his arms, and with the strength of a maniac, drags her back to the burning shack. "You lied to me; we will die together." He bursts open the door and throws the frantic, struggling Meg inside; then seizing the unconscious form of Molly he bears her through the stifling smoke into the pure air without. Then rushing back he bars the door, and inside that burning caldron calmly awaits death to come to him and his partner in crime. Racing through the dense growth of the forest Pete hears the crackle of the flames. Through the fire he dashes, and bursting open the door is just in time to drag the half-dead Meg and the hunchback out of the jaws of death.

And What Next?

The World's Progress is a splendid Gaumont film illustrating the advance made from the Stone Age to airships. At the beginning of the world man got very tired, as he was always walking. One day he met with a horse, and soon invented a carriage. One sees successively a carriage, a coach, a cabriolet, and a cab. Then man saw fishes and invented boats. One sees a Greek and Egyptian boat, a ship, steamboat, a transatlantic liner, an ironclad, and a submarine. At the end a flying bird gave him the idea of a balloon, aeroplanes, &c., and eventually the air is filled with airships.

Daylight Cinematograph.

A novelty in the form of a daylight cinematograph machine will be seen at the Festival of Empire at the Crystal Palace. A huge screen of ground glass will be erected in the grounds. The lantern will be placed behind the screen, and the pictures thrown through a darkened tube.

An Unique Business.

Probably one of the most unique businesses in South London is the house of Walter Tyler, Ltd., established for thirty years on Waterloo Bridge approach. The original business was founded by Mr. Walter Tyler. In the early days of photography, Mr. Tyler saw the immense educational value of the lantern slide, and amassed a great stock, hiring them to users throughout the country. Tyler's stock has been added to from year to year, and kept up to date, and now close on a million lantern slides, illustrating every part of the world, and every conceivable subject, are stored at the Waterloo-road premises. Ten thousand school colleges and lecture societies use this library during the winter seasons. Another interesting and more recent development of the business is supplying cinematograph machines and requisites for the numerous picture palaces which are springing up all over England.

We are in receipt of a letter from Mr. S. Tucker, Secretary of the National Union of Cinematograph and Skating Rink Employés, protesting against Mr. H. L. Merritt's remarks published in the last issue of The Era. Many of Mr. Tucker's remarks and allegations it would be inadvisable to print, but in fairness to him we give the substance of his remarks.: "There was an attendance of thirty when Mr. E. S. R. Smith took the chair at the London Bridge Picture Palace on Feb. 27, at 7.30 p.m. The object of the meeting was to make the N.U.C. and S.R.E. known to all employés connected with cinematograph theatres and skating rinks, and draw up with their assistance rules, including a minimum wage for the different grades of employés, and the hours of labour and conditions to be observed. In this we received no assistance whatever from the officials of the National Association of Cinematograph Operators present. Mr. Malcolm said that the N.A.C.O. had been in existence for three years, during which period the wages of operators had steadily fallen. It was impossible to fix a minimum wage in his opinion owing to the variety of shows employing them, ranging from West End halls and picture palaces, paying £3 15s. per week, to travelling shows. We support Sunday opening only on the conditon that each employé receives a six days' working week, and trades union wages and conditions.

"The N.A.C.O., in its wisdom also thought it necessary to draw the L.C.C.'s attention to the fact that the 'London Bridge Picture Palace' was opened on Sundays, and questioned the bona fides of the charity to which the proceeds were to be devoted. We had received permission from the Bermondsey Bioscope Co., Ltd., for our Committee to manage the London Bridge Picture Palace on Sundays on the condition that we devoted the profits to form the nucleus of a sick and benevolent fund for the members of our Union, as a perusal of our minute book will show."

The Triumph of Stiggins.

The absurd objection to cinematograph exhibitions on Sunday is one more piece of evidence that we in England are in many cases still living in the darkness of the middle ages. We should not mind that so much, if only the authorities for our moral welfare and Sunday observance managed at the same time to be consistent in their Stigginisms. The rich may have their Sunday concerts, their musical dinners at fashionable restaurants, their motor rides into the country, their theatrical performances, and their bridge and whist tournaments, but the poor must wander aimlessly about the streets, go to church, or generally pass their time in loafing and love-making. Cinematograph performances are very interesting, often instructive, and at their worst quite harmless.

The C.D.L. and the L.C.C.

The Cinematograph Defence League are contemplating defying the London County Council, by arranging for a test case, so that the courts may decide the legality of the action of the Council in compelling picture shows and skating rinks to be closed on Sundays, save when run for charitable purposes.

Scientists Visit Oxo Factory.

A distinguished gathering of scientists, amongst whom were Sir William Crookes, Sir Edward Thorpe, and Sir William Tilden made a tour of inspection of the Oxo factory in Southwark last week. The processes connected with the manufacture of Oxo and Lemco were fully explained, and cinematograph pictures of the vast cattle ranches owned by the company were shown.

Canada in Pictures.

A private invitation kinematograph exhibition was given at the Palace Theatre last Friday afternoon by the Charles Urban Trading Company, Ltd., to witness the new series of pictures taken in the districts served by the Canadian Northern Railway system. Scenes on the Canadian Northern lines in Nova Scotia were shown, and were followed by scenes on the Canadian Northern lines in the province of Quebec, with general views of Quebec, Ottawa, and Montreal; pulp mills and water powers in the province of Quebec; the brick, iron, and coal industries in Quebec and Ontario; general farming scenes in the prairie provinces, including live stock parade at Brandon Fair; scenes in and near growing prairie towns and cities, including Saskatoon, Lloydminster, and Edmonton; the emigrants' progress, comprising the following items: Selecting Free Land Grant, Breaking Virgin Soil, First Harvest (sod shack and one binder), Second Harvest (frame house and two binders), After Five Years (motor-car and fifty horses), Modern Means of Harvesting, and Fifteen Binders Working Together at Davidson.

"As Safe as a Chapel."

A genius, who signs himself "Bystander," has written to the Daily News alleging that cinematograph theatres are "places where the light has been shut out, and, consequently, from which air has been excluded." He goes on to suggest that "the hygienic conditions in a resort when light and fresh air are rarely admitted, and when large numbers of persons are congregated for hours on end, are, needless to say, extremely favourable for the breeding and spread of disease. Bearing this in mind, local authorities will do well, before licensing such places, to stipulate that the floors shall be sprinkled at frequent intervals with water to which, say, a proper proportion of disinfectant has been added. Further, they should require the walls and floors to be sprayed nightly and the seats and wood-work wiped over with cloths wrung out in a similar solution." "Bystander" evidently knows as little about the buildings of which he speaks as he does about the L.C.C. building regulations, with which every owner of a cinema show must comply. "Bystander" need be under no apprehension should he decide to visit an electric theatre once a week that he will be suffocated, or even that he has a greater chance of catching an infectious disease than he would have in the usual stuffy chapel that is undoubtedly the proper resort for him, and to which he should confine his sole attention. Picture palaces are as safe—possibly safer—than the average religious meeting-house.

Miming Picture Plays.

Will our best dramatists ere long write for the picture film-makers and will our best actors mime the plays even as their French and American confrères are doing? Mr. Arthur Shirley, who knows what he is talking about, says they will. "The drama and the 'moving picture,'" he says, "are destined to be welded firmly in the future. At present plays with a cast of ten or twelve are in demand, because to travel twenty people or more, plus heavy 'sets' and 'crowds,' is prohibitive on account of the extra weekly cost. Multiply this extra weekly cost by forty for a forty weeks' tour and it becomes enormous. My proposition is to write a specially devised 'big effect' or 'Drury Lane' play with a cast of a dozen 'principals,' and put all the 'super' scenes, such as (1) horse-races, (2) battles, (3) wedding processions, (4) riots, (5) railway trains, &c., on to the films, thus making it possible to tour a 'spectacular drama' at low expenses after the first cost of the 'pictures' had been met.

No More Troublesome Sets.

"In a small way this has been attempted in half-hour sketches at the music-halls, and five years ago at the Coliseum Mr. Stoll allowed me to knit together what was really a five-act drama (Joseph and His Brethren) by means of pictures thrown on the screen, which carried on the action where the living actors dropped it. To take up an existing spectacular play and cut out the 'super' scenes, replacing them by 'pictures,' would not do—the 'bio drama' I have in my mind will have to be new and especially written, thought out, and constructed. Let me give an instance: Scene, the weighing-room at racecourse; three or four actors carry on the action to the point where the hero rushes off to ride an 'outsider.' Here should come a most troublesome 'set' that only a Drury Lane or a Coliseum stage could do properly, and at enormous cost; but if the race be thrown 'on the screen,' the first cost of getting it would last for years instead of the whole having to be built up and 'peopled' nightly as long as the tour lasted.

Cheap Spectacle.

"After the bioscope race was over, up would go the lights, and the hero would return to the same place he left—the winner of 'Clodshire Cup'!—and on goes the play again with its twelve actors towards the next 'big effect,' and so on! Theatres with small stages would thus get scenes that at present only three or four in all England can afford to present, owing to their cumbersomeness and prohibitive cost. Of course, whole plays are now often done on the bioscope, but they are 'dumb shows,' and not what I want to do, a drama with live, speaking, moving actors, supplemented by the expensive, or 'spectacular,' part of the entertainment being shown in the moving picture."

Ultramicroscopic Scenes.

M. VILLERS has been giving in the pages of La Nature an animated account of the wonderful results already achieved in the application of the cinematograph to the study of the life history of blood parasites. Victor Henri, aided by the skill of Pathé Frères, is now able to inspect at his ease the inmates of a hitherto invisible world. With a sufficiently extensive screen the domestic flea now appears the size of a six-storied house. According to M. Villers, the view of a tadpole's tail is that of a mass of cells, traversed by a river of blood, in which the oval blood corpuscles are tossed hither and thither like pebbles in the bed of a mountain torrent. In a drop of bird's blood the red corpuscles drift slowly along in a liquid full of minute, white specks. Next on the screen appears what looks to be a giant caterpillar. This object is really but the thousandth part of an inch in length. It is the dread trypanosome, the germ of the sleeping sickness. It swiftly passes along, and you may see it collide with the red blood corpuscles. The latter are indented by the impact, but, like rubber balls, they presently regain their normal spherical shape. The studies that are thus presented of these forms of life are of extraordinary interest, and there is not much doubt that they will, before long, be recognised as a valuable adjunct to the research and teaching power of schools of tropical medicine.

British East Africa Pictures.

A SERIES of cinematograph pictures depicting life in British East Africa have been shown in the studio of the Hepworth Company. The films had been taken under the direction of Mr. W. D. Boyce, of Chicago, who, with a party of friends, recently paid a visit to the Protectorate. Three captive balloons and a complete plant for generating gas were taken on the expedition, and many of the scenes were photographed in mid-air. The object which Mr. Boyce and those co-operating with him had in view in undertaking the trip was to give the American public a realistic presentation of life among the natives of British East Africa. An interesting picture is one showing the reception at Nairobi of Sir Percy Girouard, who was a fellow-passenger of Mr. Boyce and his party, and who is seen inspecting the native guard of honour and receiving the native chiefs.

AT the Theatre de Luxe, Strand, W.C., the following pictures are being shown:—The Witches' Cavern, A Tour Through the Italian Alps, The Diver's Wife, The Policeman's Revolver, For Love of a Showman, The Worst Boy in the School, Calinos Plays Billiards, Silver Mining in Cobalt, An Amateur Pugilist.

AT the Kensington Picture Theatre this week an excellent programme has been submitted. The list of subjects included A Mistaken Intention (Gaumont), The Pillagers (Pathé), A Good Winning (Italia), The Dauphines Country (Gaumont), The Light That Came (American Biograph), A Practical Joke (Cines), The Duke of Tolfa (Cines), and The Last Muster (Gaumont).

MR. J. BANNISTER HOWARD'S new electric picture theatre in Westgate-street, Bath, is announced to open at Easter.

MR. FRANK HAWTHORNE, the character comedian, added another clever character study to his long list by making an artistic success at the New Cross Empire this week in the part of Dyson in Lucky Jim.

MR. W. F. FRAME, whose hall mark is "Hooch aye," completes his two months' southern tour at the Hippodrome, Ipswich, next Saturday. "The man you know" starts with his vaudeville company for the Hielans on the 28th. Let us hope he will have a braw bricht time the noo.

THE members of the Logic Club of Instruction paid their annual visit on Sunday last to their offspring, the Genesius Club, the members of which look forward to the re-union with great pleasure, and were much impressed and gratified by the work done, which consisted of the second ceremony and the lecture on the Tracing Board. The following brethren took part: W. Chichele Nourse, Worshipful Master; E. J. Whittle, Senior Warden; A. S. Davy, Junior Warden; Robert Manuel, L.R., Preceptor; W. Hotten George, L.R., Treasurer; J. J. Thomas, P.G.St.B., Treasurer Charities' Association; J. F. Blaze, Senior Deacon; J. Bowen, Junior Deacon; W. E. Humphrey, Inner Guard; Harry Nicholls, P.G.St.B., Director of Ceremonies; C. F. Frood, Organist; Frank Vernon, Candidate; W. Yeo, Tyler.

AT the conclusion of the business Mr. James W. Mathews, in his capacity of Preceptor, assured the members of the Logic Club of the very great pleasure the visit had given the members of the Genesius, and in very pathetic language referred to the great loss the club had sustained during the year by the death of the late Bro. Danby. Mr. Robert Manuel, in responding on behalf of the Logic Club, said the loss was felt as much by their members as by the members of the Genesius. The Brethren and their visitors adjourned to the large hall for refreshments, where, by the efforts of Mr. Charles Pond and other gentlemen, they were kept in a state of hilarity.
